NO. 239

SECURITY ACT IS NARROWED BY THE SENATE

AUSTIN, Mar. 28.—The Texas Senate today narrowed its consideration of social security financing by dropping a proposal by Sen. A. M. Aiken, Jr., of Paris, for natural resource taxes, estimated to yield $27,000,000 a year.

The senate had before it a plan by Rep. Olan Van Zandt of Tioga that was very similar to the one which was engrossed last week by the house of representatives. It called for 21 votes of having a two-thirds majority needed to pass the bill, but will be considered again in the house on Wednesday.

The Van Zandt plan is to guarantee $30 a month net income to all eligible old age pensioners as recommended by Gov. W. Lee O'Connell. The money would be raised by a two per cent tax on retail sales and utilities service and approximately 25 per cent increase in production tax on oil, natural gas and sulphur.

Commissioners To Visit NYA Project In City Of Ranger

The entire commissioners' courts from Palo Pinto and Callahan counties will visit Ranger Wednesday to inspect the shops, dormitories and work projects in the city, sponsored by the City of Ranger and the National Youth Administration, it was announced today by Mayor Hall Walker.

The Palo Pinto County Commissioners will arrive about 10 o'clock Wednesday morning and spend the better part of the day in Ranger, with the Callahan County Commissioners arriving about 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Both the commissioners' courts are interested in sending youths from their counties to participate in the training and work programs, and are making the trip to get some idea of the extent of the project and the type of boys that would be best benefited through the training they can receive.

The inspection trip will include the woodwork shop, metal shop, the two dormitories, the scout cabin, dressing rooms at the football field, the Old Ranger cemetery, where a rock wall is being built and the projects upon which the girls are working.

A Spanish-American war veteran, Ziebell, 66, worked with a construction firm 25 years without missing a day. He retired in 1930.

Attorneys made their final arguments to the jury, which was expected to begin deliberations late today.

Music Students Too Make Their Boners

PETERBORO, Ont.—Schoolboys for years have been accused of "boners" in answering examination papers, but prospective teachers make just as funny ones, Roy Fenwick, director of music for Ontario, revealed.

Among answers on singing instructions given by students at Normal schools where teachers are trained were the following. Fenwick said:

"The range of the child voice is about 30 feet."

"Children should sing as high as possible without ease."

"The children who cannot sing should be taken apart."

"When children have forgotten a tune ask them to hum it."

Ho Hum and Hi Ho for Springtime

A mighty yawn from a tiny tike. Looks as though it might be a greeting to the spring season, but when the new magazine, Win printed this picture and asked for poems inspired by it, a high percentage of contributions expressed fear the baby was growing in a world to be torn by war and bloodshed.

Two Girls Sail With Adventurers Bound Around World Aboard Junk

MANILA.—Eleven adventurers of various nationalities, including two pretty young Russian women, who would circumnavigate the globe in a remodeled Chinese junk, are preparing to resume their journey which began in Shanghai Dec. 1.

Undaunted by their experiences during the crossing of the China Sea, which included three pirate attacks, five storms, water shortage and finally a shipwreck, the adventurers have grimly announced that they will not give up.

The adventurers include Olga Alkova and Luba Schennikoff, Russians, and Fah Me-yo, a Chinese cook. Their junk is named Adventure.

Luba and Olga, aged 23 and 22 respectively, formerly were hostesses in a Shanghai night club.

The adventurers started from Shanghai Dec. 13, but were forced to return when pirates riddled their drinking-water tanks with bullets. They left Shanghai again Feb. 1, met pirates again twice, but managed to escape with only a few bullet marks on the side of the junk.

Five days later they were caught by a strong typhoon which, tore away the storm anchor. They plodded on, not knowing their position, until they sighted Pezadores island Feb. 11. From there they pointed toward Manila, but further bad weather soon cracked the Adventure's hull, and until they landed on the northwestern coast of Luzon Feb. 19 pumps had to be manned 24 hours a day.

The weatherbeaten sailors, who had been on a water ration several days, drank their fill at Cabaugao, and started to follow the coastline southward to Manila. However, water shortage obliged them to put in at Luna, where waves tossed the doughty ship against the rocks.

The adventurers hope to set sail again as soon as they can overhaul the junk. If the damage should prove too big to repair, they plan to discard it and get another boat.

British Profits In Arms Is Shown

LONDON.—Figures for armament profits have been gathered by the Amalgamated Engineering Union and the Confederation of Shipbuilding and Engineering Unions in readiness for their new bid for increased wages.

Although the employers were unsympathetic when a wage demand was made in December, meetings are being arranged between the employers and the 30 or more unions connected with the armament industry to discuss a new pay increase on the basis of rising profits and dividends of the big arms firms.

Some of the figures to be cited at the meeting are:

In 1935 net profits of the Birmingham Small Arms Company were $5,205, on an issued ordinary capital of $14,075,800. Last year the net profit was $2,156,739.

Fairey Aviation in 1934 showed a loss of $22,350 and last year a profit of $1,305,625.

In 1934 the Fairfield Shipbuilding and Engineering Company lost $224,895 on an issued ordinary capital of $1,250,000. Last year the profit on the same capital was $857,850.

Hawley Sidley Aircraft net profit went up from $1,500,965 in 1936 to $4,105,075 in 1938.

Handley Page profits rose from $222,990 in 1934 to $1,066,946 last year.

Vickers in 1934 had a net profit of $3,066,305 on an issued ordinary capital of $20,525,805. Last year the net profit was $7,055,280 on capital of $30,788,710.

The engineers want to share the profits.

BRITISH PLAN FOR PEACE IS NOW EXPANDED

LONDON, Mar. 28.—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain indicated today that Great Britain's plan for a four-power "stop Hitler" plan includes concrete measures against any future aggression in Europe.

Although the prime minister did not say that a military alliance was proposed, he declared that Britain's proposals to France, Poland and Soviet Russia went beyond plans for mere consultation in the event of aggression.

Answering questions in the house of commons, Chamberlain refused to give details of the consultations still in progress with European powers as a result of Nazi expansion in Central Europe and the threat of further dislocation of frontiers by the armies of Adolf Hitler.

It had been understood that the British plan called for a declaration by the four powers that they would consult on action to be taken in the event of future aggression. Poland, however, refused to join such a declaration unless Britain, France and Russia gave her strong military guarantees of support in event of an attack by Germany.

Owning Taxable Property Is Not Vote Requirement

AUSTIN, March 28.—The attorney general's office ruled today that it is not necessary to own taxable property to vote on the proposed constitutional amendment levying taxes for the payment of the social security program.

The opinion had been requested by the house of representatives.

The resolution raised the question as to whether the provisions of the constitution requiring voters to own taxable property before being allowed to vote in elections for issuing bonds or spending money would apply to the proposed constitutional amendment which levies a sales and natural resources tax for social security.

The American Federation of Labor has been demanding consideration of the proposed amendments, while the Congress of Industrial Organizations has been urging further delay. The committee unanimously approved the nomination of Elmer Andrews as administrator of the wage-hours act. The senate probably will act on the nomination tomorrow.

Andrews has been serving under a recess appointment.

Roar of The Crowds Echoed In The Past For Two On WPA

BUFFALO, N. Y.—Where windeth the path of a champion? Only glorified memories of yesterday are the treasures of Earl (Doggie) Stevens of Williamsville, once world champion 24-hour bike rider, and Arthur F. Rogers of Amherst, a former champion flagpole sitter.

These men, elderly now, were found working on the same local WPA project.

Stevens won his title Feb. 24, 1898, in San Francisco, by riding 460 miles in 24 hours without once getting off his bicycle. He still claims the championship because that type of race was outlawed after the San Francisco run.

In 1933, Rogers sat on a pole in suburban Williamsville for 57 days and two hours, beating the recognized world's record of 49 days and one hour, which was established by "Shipwreck" Kelly.

SURRENDER OF MADRID MARKS CIVIL WAR END

MADRID, Spain, Mar. 28.—The Spanish republicans today surrendered the city of Madrid unconditionally, and victorious nationalist troops under Generalissimo Francisco Franco occupied the city, with Italian soldiers leading the way.

Generalissimo Franco was in personal command of the 200,000 troops which occupied the fallen city.

The white flag of surrender and the red and gold banner of the nationalists flew from the tallest buildings and appeared in windows everywhere.

Francisco broadcast over the Madrid radio a promise of full pardon for all republican soldiers not guilty of crimes.

The civil war, which cost approximately 1,000,000 dead, and destruction which will take generations to repair, was over after two years, eight months and 11 days. The republican resistance was collapsing everywhere simultaneously with the surrender of the capital.

On the Toledo front the nationalists had entered Aranjuez, capturing 5,000 prisoners. The nationalists also made a quick advance on the Cordova front capturing towns after town. The republican demoralization appeared complete.

Madrid was captured without the firing of a shot. The population, half-starved and weary of bombardment by air bombs and artillery, over a period of many months, rejoiced that peace had come. Nationalist trucks, piled high with bread, moved into the city to feed the population.

The surrender of the city was formally completed when Col. Pena Madrida, republican governor of the capital, turned the city over to Col. Prios Capatel of the 18th brigade of the All-Spanish first division.

Most Americans of German Descent Are Loyal

The indignation of Americans at seeing certain persons trying to import prejudices and hatreds from abroad, and seeking to fasten the goose-step on the United States, is natural, but it should be restrained.

Those people of German descent who have been so thoughtless and so irresponsible as to foster these movements are a very small minority of the German-descended population of the United States. They are loud, and demonstrative, but they are not representative of the Germanic people who have made so splendid a contribution to the upbuilding of the United States.

No one should be more resentful of this loud minority than the honest and admirable people who have never hesitated, for several generations, to throw their weight decisively on the side of freedom and democracy. The antics of the uniformed, goose-stepping hate-mongers casts an undesired reflection on them.

Hitler's impudent presumption is that, simply because their ancestors came from Germany whose institutions many of them hated, Americans of German origin owe some sort of allegiance to the man or the party which now rules Germany.

The great bulk of German immigrants to America came to escape the tyrannies of their own day, and they are not stupid enough to feel the slightest allegiance to an even more narrow tyranny of today. They turn to Carl Schurz, not to Josef Goebbels.

Usually, the vast bulk of such people are silent, and without rebuttal bear the slur that is cast on their loyalty by the Kuhns and the Schwinnas. But in Los Angeles, a thousand of them decided to give no longer the silence that implies consent. They voted to protest the activities of the Nazi Bund, and to declare their own loyalty to democracy.

The United States has always had reason to be proud of its citizens of German descent. During the World War, almost to a man they passed the acid test of loyalty.

Today they are not less loyal, but more, for the tyranny abroad which has the impudence to demand their allegiance is a more bitter one than ever a kaiser dared impose on a proud people.

Do not be deceived by the antics of a rabid few. The vast bulk of American citizens of German descent will be found loyal today as in the past to freedom, and to the land which is now, and in most cases has been for generations, their own.

Recovering from an illness, a Detroit patient found his death certificate had been signed in a mix-up. But what caused the relapse was discovery that relatives had already collected his insurance.

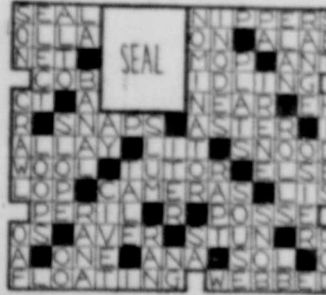

They say New York high school students lack ability to pronounce properly. Spers their work, eh?

It Looks Good on Paper

Seniors To Present Play Friday Night

The senior class of Ranger high school will present, at the Recreation building, on Friday night, March 31, Fred Caldwell's latest and funniest farce, a play entitled, "Aunt Susie Sweets the Works." This play is being given by special arrangement with Samuel French, the international play-publisher.

This is a most extraordinary play, combining as it does all of the qualities of a thrilling mystery play and containing along with it a veritable tornado of laughs. The lines in "Aunt Susie Sweets the Works" are so clever that it is sure to be a hit.

Mr. Caldwell has achieved a fine reputation as a writer of farce both in the professional and amateur theatre. His plays are wholesome and timely. The part of Aunt Susie, an eccentric old maid, will be played very capably by Dorothy Lee Brimberry. The other characters are: Joy Herbert, her young niece—Bessie Robinson; Scarlet Dean, Joy's colored maid—Dorothy Boyd; Laura Dawson, another maid—Hazel Fendren; Madame Zola, who knows all—Maurice Chastain; a lawyer—Fern Allen Meroony; Omar Graves, a successful business man—Dill Cox; La Salle Johnson, his colored servant—Bob Murphy; Johnny Rogers, Joy's future husband—Bueford Jordan; Slick Conway, a crook—Travis Bryan.

Exporters Rebuild Baseball Machine For Coming Year

BEAUMONT, Texas — The champion Beaumont Exporters of the Texas League calmly busied themselves today with the annual problem of rebuilding the baseball club.

Manager Al Vincent was himself one of the five players around whom he must form another team to replace Pitchers Schoolboy Bower and Dizzy Trout; Infielders Dingle Crocker, Barney McCosky and John Tate; Outfielders Leslie Fleming and Frank Secory and Catcher Dixie Parsons.

Besides Vincent, the other returning members of the 1933 champions are Cloyd Stith, right-handed pitcher, John Tighe, first string catcher, Outfielder Pat Mullin and Marvin Garner, who was relief hurler, pinch-hitter and outfielder last season. Garner is trying for an outfield position. Tighe probably will resume his role as No. 1 batsman. He hit .279 last year and is expected to have assistance this season from Tex Carr, who batted .266 with Henderson in the East Texas League last year, and William Costley, Beaumont boy who hit .267 in the Cotton States League.

Bridgeport Claims Youngest Bank Head

BRIDGEPORT, Tex.—This little community lays claim to having one of the youngest bank presidents in the State, if not in the Southwest.

D. A. Campbell recently assumed the presidency of the First National Bank here at the age of 35. Campbell took over the directorship of the institution after having been cashier since 1928. He entered the employ of the bank as bookkeeper in 1923 at the age of 19, after spending a year at Texas A. & M. College.

Family Goes To A Church In A Car Towed By Tractor

PENN YAN, N. Y.—A balky automobile did not prevent Arthur Sisson, Guyanoga Valley farmer, from attending church on Sunday. When his automobile refused to start because of cold weather, Sisson hitched the tractor to his car, loaded his wife, four children and a hired man aboard and hustled three miles to church.

Timely Recipes

Spring is here and with it the "fever" named for the season. There must have been a wicked grandmother present at the christening who called the child Spring Fever, but a kind godmother quickly came to the rescue with information as to the way to treat the disease. Her prescription was to administer doses of sulphur and molasses, herb tea and saffron bark. These remedies were handed down from mother to daughter for generations and children were dosed as regularly as spring followed winter.

Family Goes To A Church In A Car Towed By Tractor

PENN YAN, N. Y.—A balky automobile did not prevent Arthur Sisson, Guyanoga Valley farmer, from attending church on Sunday. When his automobile refused to start because of cold weather, Sisson hitched the tractor to his car, loaded his wife, four children and a hired man aboard and hustled three miles to church.

streetlight, shining through the window. The rain on the roof beat an unceasing tattoo in her ears. If only she could stop thinking. If she could only tell Alan.

But Alan was gone, out into the darkness of the river. He might never come back. Perhaps, by now, the launch was floating upside down, miles down stream. Alan in the cold water—Alan—the thought terrified her. She shut her eyes and tried to drive it from her mind.

Alan must come back to her—must! So that she could tell him that she had been wrong, so terribly wrong. So that she could spend the rest of her life proving to him that she loved him—only him. How could she have imagined that anyone could ever take his place in her heart?

Eric. Poor Eric. There was little left for him. The dam he tried so hard to build was a broken, crushed mass of wreckage. Wreckage, too, were any hopes of romance he might have had. She would never marry Eric. She would never get a divorce.

Not if Alan left her alone every night, not if she did not see him for days. Just to know that he loved her, just to plan his meals, just to press her face against his rough coat—just to awake at night and hear him slamming garage doors—she would be content.

Farrell was right. It was her job to answer the telephone, to be interested in every patient, to find Alan, send him hurrying away from her, to be a doctor's wife. Perhaps Alan would let her do more.

What if Alan didn't want her? What if her threat of divorce, made so rashly, had killed his love. Fear clutched her. Alan couldn't. Alan wouldn't. No. Not Alan. He would love her always. "Forever and a day" he had said so often. And he had promised, as he stood beside her, tall and handsome—"Until death do us part."

He was different now, this Alan of hers. How different from the boy she had met—and loved at sight—so long ago. His laugh was still as clear and ringing, but not so boisterous. His eyes, once sparkling with merriment and mischief, were softer, calmer. He was serious more of the time now—but at intervals his reserve broke, especially when he teased her. And how delighted he could be when his teasing infuriated her—then they laughed, and kissed and all the world was all right again.

But Emily liked to have Alan around. It reminded her always of that first night at the commencement dance. She had met Alan only a few minutes before, danced with him but twice when he claimed her from another partner, guided her out of the ballroom out on the terrace.

"This sounds crazy," he had said, as they stood, looking out over the lights of the city. "But you have to believe it—I love you, Emily."

She had thought he was kidding her, handing out the usual line, and told him as much. "It sounds like that, I know," he had answered, and his eyes and face took on that intently serious look she had learned to love, "but some day you'll know it's true."

Content in her memories, Emily burrowed deeper into her pillow and, at last, slept.

"The boy with the crushed foot," Alan ordered, straightening up, as two men lifted an unconscious patient from the table.

"Let Grady or me take over," Farrell urged. "You've been working steadily for over two hours. Ease up a bit. There's a lot more work to be done."

"I'm all right," Alan answered. A man came in with a fresh acetylene lamp and reflector. From a corner Eric asked: "How soon are they going to get that power plant back in operation?"

"Any time now," the man replied. "Baker says it won't be more than ten minutes more. Got enough floodlights in here, boss?"

"Yes. Tell them to hurry." Alan stared down at the suffering lad on the table, caught a glimpse of the white, dirt-streaked face.

"He's so young," said Father Johnson, softly.

"Just a kid," Weber added. Farrell nodded. "Well, we'll have to amputate." Scalpel. Clamps. The swift deft movements of Alan's sure hand. Sutures. Dressings. It was almost over.

It was then that Eric took his eyes from the table, glanced up, and saw it. That acetylene lamp, its reflector white hot, its flame burning brightly, teetering on the shelf above Alan's head. Insecurely placed, the wind had jarred it, inching it forward until now it was almost ready to fall. Intent upon the operation, no one had noticed it. One more gust of wind would bring it down.

In the half second before the wind shook the shack again Eric could see Alan's gown in flames, see his hands burned, his face seared. Alan was intent upon his work. If he shouted, Eric knew, Alan would look up, just in time to catch the reflector and flame full in his face.

The lamp started down. Eric jumped.

Head of English and Speech Department of Ranger Junior College Attends Intercollegiate Dramatic Festival

Mr. Hal Hunter, Head of the English and Speech Department of the Ranger Junior College, left Friday morning at ten o'clock to attend the Dramatic Festival sponsored by the Intercollegiate Dramatic Association at Baylor University, Waco, March 23, 24, and 25.

The Dramatic Festival is a laboratory where the Directors of Amateur Dramatics and of Educational Dramatics may find answers to their problems. It also offers an opportunity to study acting and play directing as well as to see the practical demonstrations and to hear the explanations of effective methods of creating action, movement, characterization, teamwork, tempo, tempo, projections, voice and diction and of choosing plays.

There will be three days of the dramatic activity, six complete performances. After each performance, Mr. T. Earl Pardoe, internationally famous critic and director, will give a critical analysis of each play. Mr. Pardoe, Ph. D., who is second vice president, National Speech Association, and Chairman, Department of Speech, Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah was chosen as critic for the Texas Intercollegiate Festival because of his training as an actor, his experience and knowledge of the theatre, his scholarship, and his renown as a national and international leader in speech.

Mr. I. Winship, Archibald McLeod, and Florence Horton will also address the audience on subjects concerning dramatics.

Football Team to Be Organized
The boys of R. J. C. will meet Monday to organize a football team to play all comers. There is much interest shown by the boys for this sport and it is our opinion that these boys will be hard to beat. We need some sport as present to advertise our college and this is our chance to show the city that we have something besides street, young co-eds in R. J. C.

Collegians Entertained
Russian Marionettes
The boys and girls of R. J. C. were admitted on their activity night Wednesday to see a very entertaining performance of the world-famous Russian Marionettes.

This was the last in a series of lycum numbers to be presented to the students. We are looking forward to another series next year.

Pickens Weaver Has Been Elected Assistant Editor of The Ranger Jr. College Publication

In chapel last Wednesday the students elected Pickens Weaver as assistant editor of the Ranger Junior College publication by acclamation. We think that Pickens will make a good editor, so more power to you, Mr. Weaver.

Dramatic Club News
The dramatic club met at Mrs. Hunter's at 7:00 Tuesday, March 21. Plans for a 3-act play were made. Tommie Smith talked on the life of Clara Booth. Will Bragg told about "Clara Booth's Invasion on Broadway" and Pete Brasher gave the concluding episodes of Clara Booth's life. Mrs. Hunter told us about Clara Booth as a glamour girl. The play, "Set to Music" which was directed by Noel Coward was discussed by Orval Harrell. Our next meeting will be a social at Mrs. Hunter's new home at the Lone Star Camp on Tuesday.
