JAN ANDERSON IS ARRESTED AT AUSTIN HOTEL

By United Press

AUSTIN, April 29.—Jan Anderson of San Antonio, campaign director of the Texas Pension Union, was placed in Travis County jail today when he waived preliminary hearings and made no attempt to obtain freedom on bail.

Justice of the Peace Sam Rogers asked Anderson if he wanted a hearing and the exponent of the $30 a month pensions said he was not prepared. Anderson offered to go to jail "rather than use the old folks' money" personally. He made no attempt to seek outside assistance.

A short time before Anderson had been arrested by Texas Ranger W. E. Naylor, at a downtown hotel. He had just completed a broadcast over an Austin radio station in which he criticized the slowness of the legislature in solving the pension problem.

Two misdemeanor complaints against Anderson were filed by Rep. E. H. Thornton, Jr., of Galveston, chairman of the house committee of the whole.

One complaint charged Anderson with contempt of the house of representatives committee for failure to appear in answer to a summons. The other alleged that the state's assumed name statute had been violated.

By United Press

HYDE PARK, N. Y., April 29.—President Roosevelt may reply to Adolf Hitler's speech to the Reichstag, it was believed here today.

Although the chief executive was understood to have felt that Hitler had violated diplomatic procedure in that he had neglected to reply formally to his message asking peace guarantees, the significance of Hitler's remarks was accepted generally as a challenge to democracies to re-state their position.

Consequently observers looked for Mr. Roosevelt to take the lead by again denouncing aggression, perhaps when he delivers a major address in New York tomorrow, opening the world fair.

White house sources declined to give any clue to the president's reaction to Hitler's speech.

She said that new residential construction showed the greatest gain, 70 per cent, from March, 1938, to March, 1939.

The increase in residential construction occurred in all sections of the country and six of the nine geographical regions reported gains of more than 50 per cent.

LEGISLATURE STILL PONDER'S BIG PROBLEMS

By United Press

AUSTIN, April 29.—The Texas Legislature today paused for the final rush of its 120-day regular session, with the most important problems before it still unsolved.

The No. 1 problem—old age pension taxes—appeared to be as far from solution as when the legislature convened on Jan. 10. The plan that the house of representatives approved, a statutory gross receipts and natural resource tax was held in a senate committee.

The program that the senate said it wanted, a sales-natural resource tax constitutional amendment to submit to the people, was revised by a house committee.

The anti-sales tax bloc in the house refused to allow the setting of the constitutional amendment as a special session next week, but the resolution was expected to come up in the regular order of business by Wednesday or Thursday.

The 120-day session will end on May 9, but members may continue to work as long as they desire, at half pay, or $5 a day. Predictions on the end of the session varied from May 9 to May 20. Most members believed that a special session will be necessary this fall and such a session will be almost mandatory if a constitutional amendment on social security taxes is approved.

POLAND STANDS PAT ON NAZI DANZIG "GRAB"

By United Press

PARIS, April 29.—Poland today notified France of its determination to oppose any German "grab" of Danzig or the Polish Corridor.

Poland declared herself unmoved by Adolf Hitler's denunciation of the German-Polish friendship treaty and expressed confidence in its own strength, backed up by the moral and material guarantees of France and Britain.

Polish sources in Paris insisted that Poland still is ready to discuss the status of Danzig with Germany, but will not accept any arbitrary German seizure.

No solution will be acceptable to Warsaw, they said, which does not assure Poland's economic rights in Danzig and the free zone which Poland is prepared to defend by arms.

Poland's leaders held a military defense meeting in Warsaw today, presided over by President Ignace Moscicki and attended by Josef Beck, high officers of the army and members of the cabinet.

The meeting decided there can be no relaxation of Poland's present military defense plans. The meeting voted to continue Poland's recent policy of attempting to achieve friendly relations with all neighbors, despite Hitler's denunciation of the Polish-German friendship and non-aggression treaty.

Beck will announce the decision to parliament next week, combining proclamation of Poland's peaceful intentions with a formal "no" to Hitler's proposals concerning Danzig and the Corridor.

Old Indian Mound Is Being Explored

By United Press

AUSTIN, Tex.—Exploration of one of the largest Indian mounds in Texas is going forward through collaboration of The University of Texas and the Works Progress Administration.

A domical mound, 190 feet long, 145 feet wide and 30 feet high, local on Red River, near Texarkana, is now approximately one-fourth explored. A. T. Jackson, University field archaeologist said today.

Excavations reveal that the Indians piled up dirt and clay to facilitate drainage of the home site. As one house, built of oak or juniper or cedar posts, and thatched with reeds, grass or willows, would burn to the ground, they would pile up another level of dirt about a foot high before constructing a new home.

In digging down 8 or 9 feet, the field crew has uncovered seven floor levels, each with its own pattern of post holes—about one foot deep and each hole six inches in diameter—outlining the shape of the houses built on that level.

Buying Scheme Is Worked by A Crook At Cleveland, O.

By United Press

CLEVELAND, O.—What detectives describe as "Cleveland's slickest swindler" has come and gone, leaving in his wake a trail of big—and bad—checks.

Here is how he worked: First he opened an office in a downtown building and had the name "E. A. Howe, Tax Attorney" printed on the door.

Then he went to the office of Edwin A. Howe, a reputable attorney in the same building, explained the "similarity" of names to the secretary and asked that she forward any mail that might arrive by mistake at that office.

Police said that the swindler next opened a $400 account in a bank, had checks printed with his name on them, and made various purchases at a number of stores. These checks were good, and this, with the confusion resulting from the similarity of names, established his credit.

Next the swindler deposited a bad check for $2,500 in his account signed by a non-existent "E. O. Perini."

Then he began a shopping spree. He bought at $22.70 wrist watch, $181.80 worth of clothing, a motion picture projector, for $400 and a $485 sound-recording device. Loading $1,800 worth of loot into a rented automobile, he fled, car and all.

EASTLAND COUNTY OIL DEVELOPMENTS ACTIVE

Michigan-Ranger Oil Company No. 2 Brashers, Ellenburger lime project southeast of Eastland and southwest of Ranger, was abandoned Saturday after a second try to stimulate proved useless.

One thousand gallons of acid were used to treat the well recently in the Ellenburger from 3,675 feet to 3,776 feet. This week 120 quarts of nitroglycerin were shot in the same formation. Total depth of the well was 3,783 feet. It was 140 feet in the Ellenburger formation.

Meanwhile, Hoffmann & Page were having cellar dug for a Ranger sand test three miles to the northeast of the Brashers No. 2. Located on the C. E. Hathcock farm, nine miles southeast of Eastland and south of Ranger, the No. 1—will be 1,200 feet from the north line, 2,450 feet from the east line of the W. M. Rink survey, Eastland County. No. 2 Brashers, too, is in the county. The No. 2 Hathcock will probably be taken to 3,200 feet, operators advised.

Another new operation for Eastland County, John L. Reeves No. 1 Joseph Weaver, three miles east of Eastland, was drilling at 200 feet. It is 958 feet from the north and 1,241 feet from the east line of block 55, McLennan County School Lands, leagues 3 and 4. Reports were that the well would be taken to 1,700 feet.

In the territory northwest of Cisco, also Eastland County, Lone Star Gas Company was drilling ahead at 3,882 feet after a showing of gas at 3,865 in its No. 1 Phillips-Groves, section 484, S.P. R.R. survey.

In the southeast corner of Stephens County, Shertzer Brothers completed No. 6-S. Stuart, T&P survey, for 28 barrels, presumably on the pump. Depth at which the well was completed had not been ascertained here.

In Comanche County E. T. DeArman No. 1 Moorman, section 37, D&D survey, was being watched after acidification Friday with 2,000 gallons from 2,611 to 2,640 feet. The well, late Friday cleaning itself, is being tested. Gas was estimated at 50,000 cubic feet. It was acidified with 1,500 pounds pressure which dropped to 600 pounds.

Leonard Simon et al were moving in materials on the Alice Beck farm, southwest quarter of section 1, block 6, T&P survey, Stephens County, for a test to seek production from the straw sand at around 1,800 feet. It is three miles north of Caddo in Stephens County.

The important Wallace and Vickers No. 1 C. E. Lund, located in a 640-acre tract, comprising the P. J. Bailey survey, abstract 51, was waiting on pipe in Hamilton County. Bottom hole was reported at 3,378 feet in the Marble Falls lime topped at 3,230 feet.

Ira Brown's No. 1 Cook, in the Poston survey, Eastland County, near Desdemona, was drilling at 2,000 feet.

Two wells which have been inactive for lengthy periods had resumed. One was W. J. Doherty No. 3 Greer, Hardy survey, Eastland County, which was drilling at 2,800 feet after rigging up with cable tools.

Other was Wayne Chandler No. 1 Chandler, J. W. Moore survey, Erath County, which was lowering pipe at 4,200 feet.

Drilling reports included the following in Eastland County: W. R. Ritchey No. 1 R. B. Weddington, section 2054, TE&L survey, 300 feet; Harry Trentman et al

No. 1 A. A. Taylor, section 21, ETRR survey, 1,600 feet; G. M. Groce No. 1 Caudle, Mitchell survey, 900 feet.

Fishing at 450 feet in Stephens County was the Lone Star Gas Company No. 1 O'Connor, section 51, block 7, T&P survey.

Ranger Times To Publish Edition On Early History

The Ranger Times is beginning work of compiling data and information about Ranger and Eastland county that is to be used in a big historical edition, to be published about June 1, on the 20th anniversary of the founding of Ranger as an incorporated city.

Mr. Ed T. Cox, Sr., of Eastland, who has made a study of the history of Eastland county and the towns in the county for the past 10 years, has agreed to help in compiling the historical data to be used. Mr. Cox will give the edition some of the information collected about the early days of Ranger and Eastland county, in research work he has done preparatory to publishing a history of the county.

Many of the tales about the early days in the county have been confirmed, and many have been proven false by Mr. Cox, who has checked thoroughly, records of Eastland county in verifying the county's early history.

The Times is making an effort to make this edition the most accurate, from a historical standpoint ever published in the county, and the assistance of Mr. Cox will enable publication of an edition that will be well worth preserving.

SERIAL STORY BORDER ADVENTURE

BY OREN ARNOLD

Yesterday, Hope and Sheridan are at odds over Betty. Then they discover that she is missing from her bunk, that there is no sign of her in Juarez!

CHAPTER XXI BETTY MARY was almost crazed with fear when Luis Barro discovered her as a detective in his home.

She soon perceived, however, that she was in no physical danger at the moment, but she knew she had failed at the biggest job she had undertaken. Her failure not only had endangered her life, but had prevented her from tipping off the officers she had been so determined to serve, now that she finally had precious information for them.

She offered no protest as Barro's two men escorted her to the ranch kitchen. In charge there was a huge cook, naked to his belt, sweating from his labors which included boiling six helpers.

"This one is to work here or in the laundry," one of the guards told the cook, in Spanish. "Don't let her out of the house. Mexican women were at work there. The two men escorted the American girl through the door, spoke a few words to a middle-aged woman and departed. Betty Mary looked around her, wide-eyed; she could feel her chin trembling now, she who never had nerves.

"You are not used to work," the woman declared. "Why has he sent you here? Are you not a spy?" Betty Mary looked pleadingly at her. "No, I am not an alien. I am an American! He—this is a mistake! I am not an American citizen! It is his duty to let me go! He will let me go! He will let me go!"

"What?" "You have men somewhere. Husband. Father. Lovers. They will come, naturally. There will be more trouble. Luis is crazy. That—come and pretend to work anyway. It will do you no good to resist. And don't try to run away. You see the guards—there, and there."

SHE turned then, as if not much interested, and presently Betty Mary walked over near the tub where the woman worked. "You can help rinse them, it is not hard," the woman said, almost kindly. "It is hard because you are lady. But it is not hard work, as those women know work." That was undoubtedly true. Even in her concern for herself Betty Mary felt a quick sympathy for the others there. Poor women; little more than slaves, for a master they perhaps didn't even know much less understand.

She was accomplishing nothing just standing there looking frantically around, so she began working with the clothes, slowly as the older woman had suggested. At least, it gave her hands something to do. And, inevitably, it calmed her presently, to a point where she could think much more logically.

She had made a perfect mess of things! She, who had been so confident after a lucky break or two at first, had certainly put her foot into matters this time, she told herself, with considerable truth. It was just like an American girl, to think every man and every man's affairs must revolve around her, to her personal liking. She had thought she had Luis Barro eating out of her hand.

Betty Mary gave herself a genuine if silent word lashing, squeezing clothes extra hard in the vehemence she felt. After a while, though, she halted such thoughts abruptly. "I am being asinine," she told herself then. "It does no good to wail and cry. My cue now is to think a way out of the mess I'm in."

COVERTLY, she noted every detail of the building, the tubs, the water supply which was a hand-operated well, the ironing boards and flat irons before mesquite wood fire, the damp, scorching smell in the air, the thick adobe walls. There were two doors and eight windows, none barred. But outside she knew were the guards and they doubtless had their orders. It would be amusing to them to capture so pretty a senorita if she should just try to slip away. She would have to outwit them somehow.

But how? "All right Miss Jordan, how?" she snapped at herself in her thoughts again. "You've been so—so nonchalant about everything, even bawling out two courageous officers who have risked their lives trying to combat Luis Barro. You laughed at them and officially reprimanded them. Now what?"

"The Mexican woman interrupted her thoughts. "The water will ruin your hands after a while," she said. "Do you want to take clothes out and hang to dry?" The lines are there, on the hillside."

"Why—yes, thank you," Betty Mary smiled at her. The woman

both attached an amendment specifically preventing the Fair Trade law from knocking out the State's anti-trust laws, which many lawyers believe the Fair Trade is in direct conflict.

The Austin American's exposure of the financial backers of the Fair Trade Act was made from a stenographic report of a speech made by Dr. W. J. Danforth, secretary-treasurer of the Texas Pharmaceutical Association, in which Dr. Danforth admitted that not one cent of Texas money had been needed to finance passage of the Fair Trade Act in Texas. Dr. Danforth named 15 drug manufacturers which he said were "included" in the list of contributors to funds used to promote passage of the law.

Exposure by The Austin American last week of a direct financial connection between at least 15 foreign corporations, who would be able to dictate Texas prices if the law is passed, and the price-fixing lobby supporting the Fair Trade Act seriously denied the sense of the support for the law in the Senate. Nevertheless, a poll early this week shows that 19 senators still intend to vote for the law, having given their solemn word during elections to Texas druggists that they would vote for the measure. Many of these senators in the "for" list are considering voting for amendments to soften the presently harsh price-fixing intent of the law.

The Senate's biggest worry is this. Members know that unless the law is passed their druggists will be mighty upset and angry. Members are beginning to realize, however, that the wrath of the druggists may be but a breeze compared to the hurricane of disapproval the consuming public will blow up if they vote the law on the books of Texas.

So severe is this law that the House and the Senate committee which passed the bill favorably was actually being kind. It was a strange imprisonment, she realized. She might have been subjected to all manner of indignities, even physical punishment and pain. Luis Barro obviously was impressed with his own sense of power, however illegal. Apparently kidnaping an American citizen was nothing to disturb him.

"Do I just—are there clothespins?" "Seguro si. On the lines." She took two heavy baskets, mainly of sheets and other linens at first. The lines extended 100 feet or more, and after 30 minutes of working she saw that they were about full.

When she had started back inside a third time, she paused briefly to survey the landscape. Juarez and El Paso were reasonably distinct in the haze of distance. Juarez, five miles away, seemed almost isolated so barren was the land around it.

Mount Franklin beyond El Paso, with its white letter M put near the top by the Texas School of Mines, was visible to her. The school, she knew, was the school's pride, whitewashed twice a year when one was close to it but just barely legible now. Still, if one had field glasses, it would be visible for many more miles in the thin western air.

She was thinking about this when she returned for more rinsed clothes. She noticed too that the other women, the regular servants, eyed her with constant interest. She was so unlike them. She tried to smile in comradeship but felt that it wasn't very well done. They were too far apart in backgrounds, and anyway she was too distraught about her own situation now. She, Betty Mary Jordan, trying to play at being a detective just because she had been in the Washington office of a government police force! Well, her act had been all too genuine, the characters all too real. She was in a spot now, and no fooling!

She thoroughly wished she could yell for help from Hope Kildare and Sheridan Starr. Especially big, handsome Sherry! Goodness, he would go through anything for her, she just knew! She had felt a growing admiration for the big officer, who was somehow quieter and deeper than his friend Hope.

She sighed. Outside, with another basket of wet clothes, she paused once more to look longingly eastward, at the white mountain letter M.

"My goodness—say!" she breathed the exclamation, half aloud. Suddenly an idea, a perfectly brilliant idea if it would only work, had come to her.

Paul Works a Hard Field

Text: Acts 18:1, 4-11; I Corinthians 2:1-5

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D. Editor of Advance

THE method of Paul's preaching was to attend the synagogue wherever he went, presenting to those of his own religion and race what he conceived to be the fulfillment of the religious teaching of the Old Testament prophets in the coming of Jesus, the Messiah, and in the Gospel concerning His life, death and resurrection. Apparently Greeks or Gentiles were in the synagogue as well, and were interested in Paul and in his teachings.

It throws considerable light upon the progressive nature of Jewish culture and religion that to such an extent a place of open meeting and discussion.

It seems to have been in some respect a sort of forum of religion, and this fact should not be lost sight of in recognizing that many of the Jews showed the hostile attitude toward Paul and his teaching that has been common on the part of religious people in every age and country toward those who have seemed to be setting up new teaching.

In religious circles particularly, where opinions are decided and convictions strong, the attitude of hostility to anyone who seems to be an innovator or to be departing from commonly accepted conceptions of truth is so widely prevalent as to be almost normal.

THE thing that is really worthy of comment is that, in spite of all this, both synagogues and churches—regardless of all their narrowness—have after all been the chief places of promulgating religious truth.

Paul found the opposition of some of the Jews so strong that he turned to the Gentiles and made the chief center of his propagandism the house of Titus

One of the leading dress designers admits her style creations are inspired by where she goes on vacations. In the interests of morals alone, lady, please don't go to darkest Africa!

Justus, whose house was adjacent to the synagogue.

The inference would be that, though Titus Justus was a devout man who worshiped God, he was a Gentile who had accepted the Jewish teaching concerning the one God. But Crispus, the ruler of the synagogue, was among those who accepted Paul's preaching, and with many other Corinthians, he was baptized.

Paul seems to have been in the midst of a great deal of ferment in spite of the encouragement he received, because by night there came a vision to him, giving him strength and urging him that he should not be afraid.

THE result was that Paul spent one of the longest periods of his whole missionary journeys in the city of Corinth, staying at that time for a whole year and six months, presumably following his occupation as a tentmaker while teaching the word of God. It is interesting, in the light of Paul's experiences in Corinth and his long stay there, to read Paul's letters to the Corinthians—the longest two of his Epistles.

The portion of the Epistle attached to this lesson brings vividly before us Paul's recollection of his time spent in Corinth and the spirit in which he had carried on his ministry there. The church at Corinth had eminent and fluent speakers, like Apollos, and in contrast with these, Paul, who was evidently not so fluent, felt his weakness.

It is strange to find a man who seems so bold and courageous in matters of faith admitting that he was with the Corinthians "in weakness, and in fear, and in much trembling." It throws an interesting light upon what great faith and strong convictions can do to overcome natural weakness and hesitation.

Two Hurdles Still Remain For Fair Trade Price Law

AUSTIN—Only two hurdles stand between the Texas statutes and a new kind of law governing retail business, the so-called Fair Trade Act which gives manufacturers power by law to fix retail prices on their products.

Both of these hurdles, final passage by the Senate, and signature by Governor W. Lee O'Daniel, are due to be reached this week.

A Senate which is sorely beset on the matter of price-fixing will face the question Wednesday of Thursday.

Seeing plainly in such a law artificially raised prices for the future, housewives, labor organizations, many merchant organizations, and practically all newspapers of the state have condemned the law and asked their senators to vote against it since the House shoved it across the capitol some five weeks ago.

both attached an amendment specifically preventing the Fair Trade law from knocking out the State's anti-trust laws, which many lawyers believe the Fair Trade is in direct conflict.

The Austin American's exposure of the financial backers of the Fair Trade Act was made from a stenographic report of a speech made by Dr. W. J. Danforth, secretary-treasurer of the Texas Pharmaceutical Association, in which Dr. Danforth admitted that not one cent of Texas money had been needed to finance passage of the Fair Trade Act in Texas. Dr. Danforth named 15 drug manufacturers which he said were "included" in the list of contributors to funds used to promote passage of the law.

Members are beginning to realize, however, that the wrath of the druggists may be but a breeze compared to the hurricane of disapproval the consuming public will blow up if they vote the law on the books of Texas.

So severe is this law that the House and the Senate committee which passed the bill favorably

Tension And Lack Of Confidence Is Blamed For Slump

AUSTIN, Texas—International tension, lack of confidence in domestic business, and depressed conditions in certain local industries held employment and payrolls in Texas during March to a level with the pattern of the past several months, University of Texas business research officials said today.

"The outlook for coming months is not as good as it was at the beginning of the year, but improvement can still be expected if confidence can be restored in the domestic business outlook and if the international tension can be lessened," they stated.

Reports to the Bureau of Business Research from representative groups of industrial and trade establishments showed employment during March was virtually the same as in February, and in March of last year. Weekly payrolls dropped a fraction of one per cent from February, and 2.4 per cent below March, 1938.

Manufacturing industries employed 124,888 workers, 1 per cent below the preceding month and one-tenth of one per cent below March last year. Total weekly manufacturing payrolls were $2,398,260, down six-tenths of one per cent from February and 3 per cent from March last year.

Traffic Fatalities In Texas Include Many Pedestrians

AUSTIN—Of the 353 persons killed in motor vehicle accidents in Texas during the first three months of this year, 95 were pedestrians, Harry S. Phillips, Traffic and Safety Engineer of the State Highway Department, said today, pointing out that the pedestrian has an equal responsibility with the driver in avoiding accidents.

"Seventy-four of the total 95 pedestrians were more than 25 years of age, while only 13 were under 18, showing a contradiction to the general belief that children in walking and playing on the streets are responsible for a large number of accidents," Mr. Phillips said.

The traffic and safety engineer cautioned pedestrians to exercise as much care on the highways as on city streets since almost 50 per cent of the fatal accidents involving pedestrians occurred on the highways and country roads. The practice of walking on the left-hand side of the street or road, facing traffic, is a good one to follow, he pointed out, because the pedestrian can then see approaching cars in time to adjust himself to their actions and does not run the constant risk of being struck from behind.

Of those walking along traffic lines who were killed 94 per cent were on the wrong side, that is, walking with traffic, 38 per cent were crossing not at intersections, with only 12 per cent crossing properly.

Inattention, confusion, and physical impairments on the part of the pedestrians were named as the primary causes of 64 per cent of the accidents, and 34 per cent were due to fault of the drivers.

"Both drivers and pedestrians should double their precaution at dusk and after dark since 48 per cent of the accidents in question occurred during the hours of 5 to 9 p. m.," Mr. Phillips stated.

Of the pedestrians killed 80 per cent were male, and 79 per cent were white, 38 were occupied as laborers and clerks, while only 2 were professional men. Only 5 were students and 9 were classed as infants or under 5 years of age.

"While there has been a 19 per cent reduction in the number of fatalities during the first three months of this year as compared to the same period last year, pedestrian fatalities have decreased only 2 per cent," Mr. Phillips pointed out. "At night, pedestrians wearing dark clothes are hard to distinguish since the dark color merges with color of pavement, and the hazard after dark is much greater. If you walk in traffic, don't expect the drivers of cars and trucks to do all the watching—look out for your own safety."

Liar's Prize Is Won on Two-Bullet Yarn About Pioneer Days

By United Press
HAMMOND, Ind.—Allen Barnett, 79, of Hammond, won a liar's contest sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars here.

He said that as a youth in the west, he ran out of food. He took a mule loader and began to hunt for game. He had only some charge of powder, but two bullets.

He spied a turkey on the branch of a tree and a deer beneath the tree. Putting both bullets into the musket, he killed the turkey with the first shot and turned the gun in time to kill the deer with the second bullet.

The bullet passed through the turkey and killed a fish hawk carrying a large fish. Barnett began running to get to the spot where the hawk fell. He had to run through a large pond and his boots became filled with frogs. He kept on running and when a rabbit dashed in front of him, he killed it with one kick. His momentum upset him and he fell on a covey of quail, killing 10 of them. Then he picked up the fish the hawk had been carrying.

Will No Responsible European Propose Peace?

Europe poises trembling on the brink of the abyss. Every thinking leader in every country knows that a long-drawn-out general war, sweeping from Asia and North Africa across all Europe to Gibraltar and Land's End, would be a death blow to civilization as we have known it.

Yet not one responsible European leader will get up on his hind legs and attempt to organize peace instead of war. By peace, we mean organized peace, not a mere stalemate and truce between wars while feverishly preparing for the next.

The continual state of crisis, the crushing burden of arms, the suspicion, the hatred that mark the present state of not-war, is only less destructive than war itself. This is not peace.

Let us suppose that war comes. After brilliant initial victories, the struggle will bog back into another long, slogging endurance contest of blood-letting, with victory going to that country or alliance of countries which is last to give way to internal revolution and chaos.

Then will come the peace conference. And how else can such a conference end than the last one ended? Into the next "peace" will be distilled the hatreds, the fears, the jealousies, the desperation of the next war. It can not be otherwise.

Is there no way to speak to the peoples themselves? They do not want war. They never want war. They know all too well that they are the ones, not the leaders, who must die on the barbed wire.

Is there not one responsible statesman in Europe willing to "make a fool of himself" by demanding that a peace conference be held now, instead of amid the ruins of Europe five years later?

It would be hard for his appeal to reach people in those countries where press and radio are so rigidly censored, but it could to some extent be done. The rash dictator will hesitate if even a part of his people can be told what looms ahead. The people of every country are in a mood to sacrifice much for peace. Some have already sacrificed much. Whatever consideration is given in Europe to President Roosevelt's peace proposal will be given because some of the plain people have heard it.

The peoples of the world—all of them—want peace! Are there not in the world other leaders beside our own President who will make even a gesture to try to give it to them?

In obtaining a divorce, Joan Crawford testified that Franchot wouldn't speak to her for two and three weeks at a time. Funny, that's how some couples stay married.

Russia indicates a softening of penalties for spies. The Soviet must at last have something of which it's proud.

New Road Base Of Cement and Soil Is Tested In Missouri

LEACHVILLE, Ark.—Cement experts and highway engineers from all over the country are visiting a three-mile experimental road construction project between here and the Missouri line. For the first time, soil and cement are being mixed and laid as a base for bituminous-black-top-surfaced roadway.

A six-inch base of soil and cement is made for the roadway, using only enough cement to bind the soil into a crumbly surface much like old sidewalk. The base is allowed to "cure" about the same period as ordinary concrete. During this period it is covered with hay to prevent sinking. After the base is hardened, the bituminous roadway is laid in the usual manner.

BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

BRUCE CATTON, Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—What is believed to be the first effort to use the power of the federal government to defend an editor against intimidation will come to trial in Mobile, Ala., on May 1.

The government is upheld in this case, a historic precedent of freedom of the press will be established.

The action is being brought under Section 51 of Title 18 of the United States Code. This is a little-used statute passed after the Civil War as a weapon against the Ku Klux Klan. It provides severe penalties for those who threaten or intimidate any citizen in the free exercise or enjoyment of any right or privilege secured to him by the Constitution or laws of the United States.

Central figure in the case is Henry P. Ewald, formerly editor of the Mobile Register and Mobile Press. For some time he had been exposing gambling, lotteries and so on, and had been crusading to induce city, county and state officials to put a stop to such activities.

Sometime in February, according to the indictment, an attempt was made to silence him. The indictment says that he was enticed into a house of assignation and there photographed under compromising circumstances. Later, it is charged, the photograph was used to force him to give up his job and leave the city.

All of which, says the indictment, infringed on his right of freedom of the press "in freely and lawfully expressing himself through the medium of the press by means of writing and printing, or writing and causing to be printed."

Named in the indictment are Bart B. Chamberlain, Jr., assistant state solicitor for Mobile county; Sam B. Powe, named as a professional gambler; George E. McKenzie, Miriam McKenzie, Peter V. Crolich and John Powe.

The action was brought by U. S. District Attorney Francis H. Ince, who heard of the incident, investigated and decided to seek an indictment under the old antislavery law. Details leading to the indictment were gathered by operatives of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

This statute under which Ince acted is intensely interesting to the Civil Liberties Unit of the U. S. Department of Justice. To a layman, the statute seems broad enough to make almost any sort of action possible. In practice, however, it may be severely limited. For the right to freedom of the press is not a right guaranteed to the individual directly; what the Constitution says is that "Congress shall make no law . . . abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press . . ."

It may be that the court will hold that a conspiracy by individuals to deprive an editor of this right is not a violation of this statute. In this case, however, a local law enforcement official—the assistant state solicitor for Mobile county—is named as a party to the conspiracy. For this reason it may be argued that the machinery of the state was used to deprive Ewald of his rights, and that consequently the statute in question does apply.

Incidentally, if there was such a conspiracy, it failed of its object as far as the anti-gambling crusade was concerned. Ewald did give up his job, but Publisher Ralph Chandler carried the campaign along anyway. (Copyright, 1939, NEA Service, Inc.)

Roads Are Arteries
 Of Business Says
 Highway Engineer

AUSTIN.—The roads of this State serve primarily as arteries of business, Julian Montgomery,
 State Highway Engineer, at Austin, said today. According to figures released by Montgomery 60 per cent of all driving by residents of the State is for business purposes. The remaining 40 per cent is divided between 18 per cent for recreation and 22 per cent for social purposes.

 A larger proportion of the travel of rural residents is for business, such travel comprising 63 per cent of their total compared with 58 per cent for urban residents.
 City people do more driving for recreation, 22 per cent of their travel being for this purpose and only 12 per cent for country people.
 These figures are based on 100, 000 questionnaires secured from drivers in all parts of the State and representing all occupations and income levels, Montgomery explained. The questionnaires were collected by the Highway Planning Survey with the assistance of the public schools of the State.
 The Highway Planning Survey is conducted by the State Highway Department in co-operation with the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads.
 Montgomery stated, G. G. Edwards is director of the Survey, and F. Thayer Stoddard is local Bureau of Public Roads representative.

Officers and Delegates Return from Sixth District Convention

The twenty-fourth annual convention of the Sixth District Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, which was held in San Angelo, April 26, 27 and 28, adjourned Friday afternoon with one of the most successful sessions written in the history of the district. Mrs. M. H. Hagaman, district president, and her corps of officers; Mrs. James Horton, program chairman; Mrs. Joseph M. Perkins, state president, and the San Angelo program and hostess chairman, together with over four hundred delegates and visitors, the largest attendance in the fourteen years of Sixth District's life, were credited with the favorable outcome of the convention, the theme of which was "Education for Successful Living."

After the opening in the roof garden of the St. Angelus Hotel, Wednesday afternoon at three, a memorial service closed the afternoon session.

Preceding the evening meeting a Mexican Tea was given by the First Concho Inter-county Federation, honoring district and state officers and chairmen, delegates and visitors.

President's evening was observed Wednesday evening with Mrs. C. D. Bruce, Santa Anna, First Vice-President, presiding. Mrs. Perkins, in her greetings, paid tribute to Mrs. Clara Driscoll, donor of the $92,000 club house gift to Texas Federation of Women's Clubs. At this meeting Mrs. Hagaman gave her principal address.

On Thursday morning, convention delegates and visitors were entertained with a coffee in the Virginia room of the St. Angelus by Stirling City club women, with Miss Ethel Foster, past president of the district as chairman.

Thursday was given over largely to the reports of clubs and several departments. Outstanding speakers of the day were W. A. Allred, Dallas, speaking on "Need for Accident Prevention Work in Homes and in Schools," and Dr. W. H. Elkins, president of San Angelo Junior College, whose address "Education as a Preparation for Living" was well received.

The climax of the day's schedule was the Fine Arts program that evening in the municipal auditorium. Artists from Sweetwater and San Angelo played piano solos.

S. P. MOON

Poems from their books were read by Ruth McCaulley Throne, poet of San Angelo, and Lexie Dean Robertson, poet laureate of Texas. An address, "Europe, Impressions from a Recent Visit" was given by Dr. G. Alfred Brown. A pretty gesture of the evening was the giving of a silver bowl by officers of Sixth District to Mrs. Hagaman, who in turn, presented it to Mrs. Perkins for the club house at Austin.

On Friday a morning coffee was given at the home of Mrs. Frank Friend, honoring Junior club delegates and Mrs. T. J. White.

Upon reports from the junior department, and dispensing with final business, the convention closed with a luncheon at the St. Angeles.

Thoughts gleaned from many of the leading club women of Sixth District were of one opinion: the future outlook of the district is most promising.

Those attending the convention from Ranger were: Mrs. M. H. Hagaman, Mrs. Carl Hill, district secretary, Mrs. J. W. Ducker, chairman of press and publicity; Mrs. C. D. Woods, delegate from the 1920 club, Mrs. J. L. Turner, and Mrs. Vernon Deffebach, chairman of efficiency in Government and delegate from the New Era Club.

Electric Eye Counts Cars On Highway and Makes Records

AUSTIN, Tex.—An electric eye for counting traffic on the roads has been developed by the Highway Department, according to a statement issued by Julian Montgomery, State Highway Engineer. While this is not the first device for counting traffic to be developed, it has many advantages over earlier models.

The machine is operated by batteries and can be set up at any point on the road within a few minutes. A passing car breaks a beam of light and causes a dial to register the count. A camera built into the machine automatically takes a picture of the dial every hour. The photographic film supplies a permanent record of the number of cars that passed during each hour the machine was in operation. The machine runs continuously without attention for a week.

The traffic counter was developed by the Highway Planning Survey for making counts of traffic on highways and county roads. This method is reported to be much cheaper than having a man count the vehicles, as was formerly done. The Survey has two of its own machines in use and twenty machines built by a private concern before the new device was perfected.

The Planning Survey is conducted by the Highway Department in cooperation with the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads. Director of the Survey is G. G. Edwards, and F. Thayer Stoddard is local Bureau of Public Roads representative.

Highway Departments of other states have shown great interest in the machine developed in Texas, it was stated.

Oil Proration In Texas Increasing Ultimate Taxation

DALLAS, Tex.—Control of Texas oil production by proration has greatly increased the ultimate amount of tax revenue accruing

New Archbishop of New York City

ALLEY OOP

BECAUSE OF HIS GREAT PROMESS AS A SLAYER OF DINOSAURS, ALLEY OOP REFUSES TO SUCCUMB TO TERROR AT SIGHT OF A TWENTIETH CENTURY JUGGERNAUT

to the State and its local subdivisions, according to an analysis of oil taxation recently completed by the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association.

Prior to the adoption of State oil proration laws, the analysis shows, oil fields were rapidly developed and permitted to produce all the oil possible with the result that taxable values were soon lost to counties in which flush oil fields were discovered.

Six years after peak oil production of ten former flush fields, the annual rate of output had declined 88 per cent. As a direct result, taxable values of counties embracing these fields were reduced nearly 156 million dollars, causing sharp reductions in county and State tax revenue.

By comparison, production statistics of seven newer oil fields, under strict proration, show a production decline six years after peak output of only 31 per cent, while county values in which these fields are located have actually increased over 107 million dollars.

In counties embracing newer oil fields under proration, taxable values will be maintained at or above the levels established by maximum development over a long period of years. As a result, ultimate tax revenue from the newer oil fields of the State will far exceed tax returns formerly obtained from oil fields on which there were no production restrictions.

Thus, conservation of oil in Texas is shown by this analysis to be a boon to State and local taxing agencies. The oil producer, however, is shown by the analysis to not only pay far more in ultimate taxes over the life of his producing properties, but also finds his unit operating costs greatly increased because of production restrictions which limit the flow of oil to a fractional part of the actual capacity of many Texas oil wells.
