LOCATION FOR NEW TEST IS STAKED NEAR CARBON

The development trend in this oil district continued this week although activities did not rival those of past weeks.

Three miles southwest of Carbon, Eastland county, W. T. Lott staked location for a 3,100-foot test on the Iben land. Location of No. 1 Iben is 2,908 feet from the west line and 2,050 feet from the south line of section 13, block 3, H&C survey.

The No. 1 Iben is three miles west of the W. J. Dubbs No. 1 Greer, which recently found 60 barrels per day pump production in that area.

A reminder of the old oil days in this section was furnished when Pitzer and West of Breckenridge announced that the firm would drill No. 2-A Gonzales, just east of the Christian Church in Breckenridge. The townsite well is near a well which recently had produced for 17 years. Production in the other well finally ceased because of cave-ins.

One of Eastland County's newest projects, J. D. Cawley et al No. 1 Elso Iben, northwest of Okra, was drilling at 200 feet in the Stoker survey.

Northwest of Flatwood, Eastland county, G. M. Groce was shut down at 100 feet on No. 1 Yancey, section 13, block 2, H&C survey.

Two miles northeast of Pioneer, also in Eastland county, completion was awaited on Harry Trentman No. 1 A. A. Tyler, section 21, ETRR survey, which had been given acid between 2,453-2,501 feet.

Hoffmann and Page No. 1 C. E. Hathcock, W. M. Rinks survey, nine miles southeast of Eastland and south of Ranger, was drilling at 2,315 feet in shale.

Stephens County
Witmer, Knight and Ewing No. 1 Loving, section 56, B&L survey, deep try in Stephens county, was drilling at 350 feet.

Leonard Simon et al on the Beck farm, Stephens county, section 1, block 6, T&P survey, three miles north of Cadde, at 1,600 feet was drilling.

Lene Star Gas Company No. 1 O'Connor, section 51, block 7, T&P survey, also was drilling at 1,600 feet. It also is located in Stephens county.

In Comanche county in a shallow project Whiteside No. 3 Anderson, Lampasas County School Lands, five miles southwest of Sipe Springs, was drilling at 500 feet.

Without show the Wayne Chandler No. 1 Chandler, J. W. Moore survey, Krath county, was drilling at 4,550 feet.

Reincarnation of a Queen of the Seas

A great name returns to the trans-Atlantic passenger service as the new Cunard-White Star liner Mauretania, pictured above at Liverpool, England, goes into commission. The 34,500-ton, 772-foot ship is 4000 tons heavier and 12 feet longer than the famous Mauretania I which, for 22 years, reigned as the fastest ocean liner afloat.

NO HOPE LEFT FOR LIVES OF CREW OF SUB

LIVERPOOL, Eng., June 3.—A green buoy with the word "Wreck" bobbed up and down on the Irish Sea tonight above the steel tomb of 98 men who died in the submarine Thetis in the worst undersea disaster in history.

While a circle of warships and rescue boats rode at anchor around the spot, bitter protests spread over the handling of rescue attempts and demands were made for a sweeping inquiry.

The four survivors of the 102 men on the Thetis when it left for a test run early Thursday were under doctors' care. They refused to discuss the cause of the tragedy but all gave accounts of suffering in the sunken Thetis where men sprawled helplessly gasping for air that steadily was becoming foul.

Those who escaped from the Thetis, the newest and most modern submarine of the British Navy were:

Capt. H. P. K. Oram, commander of the fifth submarine flotilla; Lt. F. G. Wood, W. G. Arnold, a stoker and F. F. Shaw, a civilian technician of Cammell-Laird, the builders of the undersea craft.

The trapped man, 61 of whom were sailors and 31 civilians, died slow deaths from chlorine gas and the exhaustion of their air supply.

The admiral announced that salvage work would continue, but it was doubted that the craft could be raised from the bottom of the sea until at least Monday.

The admiral's formal abandonment of hope was announced after consultation with those in charge of rescue work at the scene.

Military Rifle To Hold 11 Bullets

BOSTON.—Capable of firing 60 shots a minute, a semi-automatic rifle invented by a Boston lawyer is considered by some gunsmiths to be superior to the latest regulation Garand army rifle.

The gun, invented by Capt. Melvin M. Johnson, Jr., has been tested by the army at Quantico, Va., where some experts praised it highly. However, a congressional ordinance committee reported against the army's accepting the gun because of minor defects.

Johnson since then has tried to interest several foreign countries in the rifle, which weighs 9 1/2 pounds and holds 10 cartridges, plus one in the firing chamber, as compared with the eight-cartridge magazine of the Garand rifle.

In Johnson's rifle, the power generated by the "kick" unlocks the bolt, ejects the empty shell and inserts another bullet. These actions require only one-tenth of a second.

Because it is easily produced and all parts are interchangeable, Frederick C. Neas, technical expert of the National Rifle Association, considered the rifle better than the Garand.

In event of war, he said, mass production would be easier, it would require less attention from the individual soldier and would stand service much better because of its ruggedness.

Everyone is invited to attend.

Camera Squad To Hunt Down Beggars

PHILADELPHIA.—State liquor agents are using candid cameras to snap photographs of tippy panhandlers who annoy Philadelphia pedestrians.

"We have learned that panhandlers have banded together and report in the morning to places where they get a drink on the house," a liquor board spokesman explained. "In speakness, a bowl of soup is thrown in."

"The go out into the street, each being assigned to certain districts. After they make their first 'touch' they go back to their benefactors and buy their first drinks. As this thing progresses during the day they get pretty drunk, and the person solicited is insulted if he refuses their pleas."

"We intend to photograph them in all the various phases of the day's work, and then we'll have an airtight case."

BOND POSTED AFTER SHOOT IN STEPHENS

BRECKENRIDGE, June 3.—Following a shooting on East Walker street Thursday afternoon in which Bobby Wood received a wound in the chest, G. D. Bunch of El Paso has been charged with assault with intent to murder.

His bond was set at $2,500 which he made and was released. Friends of Wood reported today he was on the way to recovery at the Westside hospital.

The bullet was said to have entered high on the left side of the chest, glanced along a rib, come under the left arm and passed through that member.

Bunch is assistant superintendent of the Texas Elf Carbon Black company of El Paso and well known by many in Breckenridge. Wood is the son of Dr. and Mrs. G. C. Wood of Breckenridge, well known young man.

Wood was said to have described the incident as the two meeting on the street at the side of the Headlee tire company and Bunch demanding to know if he were Bobby Wood. Bunch, Wood said, pulled a gun. Bobby at first attempting to prevent him from shooting him and then fled across the street. It was thought he was shot in the brief scuffle.

Following the shooting Bunch surrendered to Chief Ollie Jackson and Highway Patrolman Angus, after Bunch had gone to the Thompson Hardware company and asked the sheriff be telephoned to come and get him.

Sheriff Freeland said Bunch made a statement to him concerning the shooting which he did not reveal. Freeland then went to El Paso and took a statement from a daughter of Bunch.

First reports that the accident included gas explosion burns were erroneous. Instead, in some manner his leg was struck by a heavy pipe. It will be several months before his recovery will be complete.

"There is no reason to doubt Mr. Hughes' full recovery, but he must have a complete rest for the time being," Potter said.

Russian Agreement Appears Remote A Paris Source Says

PARIS, June 3.—Official sources predicted tonight that negotiations for the British-French-Russian "anti aggression" agreement may collapse unless Moscow withdraws her demand for combined military protection of her "little neighbors" along the Baltic Sea.

Russia's reply to the French-British alliance proposal was delivered to the Foreign office today and, after a quick study, government leaders admitted that negotiations with Russia had reached a point where there was little likelihood of an agreement.

The British and French cabinets will study the Russian reply on Monday and Tuesday and the only hope expressed for further negotiations was the fact that Russia did not offer counter proposals, but decided to lay aside the British-French offer as the basis for discussions.

TEN OF TRAIN'S TWENTY-FIVE PASSENGERS RECEIVE AID AFTER CARS LEAVE TRACK NEAR RANGER

The fireman and engineer of a west-bound Texas & Pacific passenger train were killed and eleven passengers were injured Saturday morning at Moss Curve, three and one-half miles west of Ranger as the engine and four cars left the track.

Immediate cause of the accident was not determined. Malin Mann, 65, of Fort Worth, was the engineer and Ernest Preston, 45, also of Fort Worth, was the fireman.

Following is a list of passengers injured, although none was thought seriously hurt:

Charles Deaver, Ft. Worth, left arm injury.
Mrs. C. F. Wharton, Eastland, head injury.
Mrs. G. R. Payne, Lancaster, arm bruises.
Margaret Watson, Galveston, head injury.
Mrs. Naomi Berwick, Winters, hip injury, which was to be x-rayed.

Richard Crooks, Ft. Worth, express messenger, one finger cut.
Four persons whose names were not obtained were given treatment at the wreck site.

The wreckage cleared the tracks and soon after the accident train crews began to righten the tracks so other traffic on the road could continue.

None of the passenger injuries were described as serious. Treatment was given at the West Texas Hospital in Ranger.

W. L. Beach, roadmaster for the T. & P. in this division, of Ranger, said that cause of the accident could not be determined until the engine was righted and examined.

The train which was wrecked was known as the No. 3 and its run was from Fort Worth to Sweetwater. There were 25 passengers on the train.

J. H. Jaco, mail clerk in charge of the mail and baggage car, described the accident as the worst he has ever experienced.

Guarding the mail and baggage with his gun after the accident, Jaco, of Fort Worth, said, "All I can say is that it was the worst ride I have ever experienced. And I have been in three or four."

The engine and cars were thrown to the north side of the track. The engine after leaving the track so landed that the mail and baggage car and one passenger car were on top of it.

A flock of curious soon gathered after the accident to survey the damage. Streams of cars poured into the country lanes leading to the accident site. Amateur cameramen and newspapermen were soon at the scene.

A Dallas newspaper agency immediately after hearing of the accident dispatched a photographer to the scene by airplane.

The impact of the cars against the ground threw passengers to the right of the cars.

A brother of the engineer killed Saturday was also killed in an accident 26 years ago, it was recalled. Joe Mann, Malin Mann's brother, was killed one and one-half miles from the Saturday train accident.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Republican members of the house ways and means committee opened a fight today to broaden the committee tax hearings to include evidence on excise taxes as well as corporation levies.

Rep. Allen Troadway, republican, Massachusetts, said the exclusion of arguments on excise taxes from the hearing "is unfair to business, to partnerships and to individuals."

Rep. Thomas Jenkins, republican, Ohio, said he would move Monday to make the hearings a general review of the entire federal tax structure.

Five Years—or Ten

"Those processes," said Francis J. Curtis, "which are five years old are looked upon with suspicion, and those 10 years old can almost be assumed to be out of date."

This is a chemist speaking. Curtis, a representative of one of the most prominent American chemical companies, was speaking to a meeting of purchasing agents. He referred specifically to his own industry, chemicals, when he added that "development in the past 20 years has been so phenomenal that we can hardly believe it ourselves, and spend most of our time wondering what is going to happen next."

Experienced men in fields like this seldom predict specifically, not so much for fear that they will be wrong, but for fear that performance may quickly surpass or overshadow their most enthusiastic predictions.

Automobile bodies have already been made, experimentally, of plastics. It is easily conceivable that soon articles like a whole bedstead or perhaps the frame of a carved chair might be pressed out in almost a single operation from plastic materials. Textile fabrics in sheets like cellophane, a new inorganic insulating varnish made from clay, revolutionary ideas in heating enclosed spaces—ideas like these whirl about in the brain of the chemists, and come closer to reality with each whirl.

The puny changes which political man is imposing on the world are nothing beside the revolutionary changes which scientific man is about to impose. Think of the changes latent in ideas like these, none of which seem far-fetched when viewed alongside actual accomplishment of the near past. Imagine a country turned back to forest because broad farm acres have been made unnecessary by chemurgic "farming." From this inexhaustible supply of annual crops, plastic materials are devised which take the place of metallic articles now laboriously mined, smelted, and fashioned.

Nations once dependent on supplies of iron or coal beyond their borders become suddenly independent of them because the iron and coal themselves are no longer necessary to anyone.

Labor dislocations beyond anything dreamed of today would necessarily follow such developments. And the strain of adjusting man's institutions to a manner of physical life changing so fast that not even the scientists themselves can keep abreast of it would become tremendous.

The thing that lags behind in this furious forward race is our own minds. All the imagination, the foresight, the wisdom, that man can muster will be needed in adjusting man and his institutions and ideas to the facts of the new world.

Graduation Has Brought Gloom To The Masonic Home

FORT WORTH, June 3.—Campus walks and dormitory halls at Masonic Home and School were bathed in gloom Tuesday, the traditional aftermath of commencement festivities at the school.

The atmosphere was gloomy because most of the 31 graduates who received diplomas Monday in commencement exercises, Tuesday had departed not only the halls where they had studied but also left behind them the place that had been home to them for as long as 10 or 12 years.

Tom Fletcher, superintendent, sounded a cheerful note in the announcement that 60 per cent of the group leaving already had secured employment before graduating. The others will go to the homes of parents, relatives or guardians with instructions to keep in touch with the school here until they find jobs or make satisfactory arrangements for continuing their schooling in college or business school.

FBI men were told to get the "kiss of death" woman in the Pennsylvania poison murder ring. At one and the same time, that could have been the most pleasant and most painful assignment these boys have had.

Paul Solves Church Problems

Text: I Corinthians 1:1-3, 10, 11; 4:14-21; I Thessalonians 5:12-15

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D., Editor of Advance

We are accustomed to think of the early church as a church of pure and untainted religion, and we are apt to think that if we could only get back to the days of primitive Christianity, all the defects and abuses in the church of today would disappear. The fact is that the more carefully we look into the records of the New Testament, the more conscious we are of the fact that even in the church of the generation immediately succeeding the Master, things were by no means ideal. We have seen how, even in the days of the Master Himself and in His very presence, discussion arose among the disciples and disputes as to who among them should be the greater and concerning other matters, which in their very nature belied the teaching and example of the Christ whom they had left all to follow.

The troubles that arose in the early church were somewhat of the same kind and from the same causes. Self-seeking and jealous striving create discord and difficulty wherever they appear—in home life, in public life, and even in the religious life of the church. But in addition to these things, there were also sordid aspects of these early Christian communities. They existed in the midst of a corrupt and licentious environment, and perhaps it was not unnatural that some of these untrained and ill-disciplined disciples should yield to temptation and man's yielding to temptation has almost always produced philosophies of slackness in an effort to justify the lapse from high ideals.

It should be remembered that the church, if it is divine in its origin, is human in its membership and its composition. We should not judge the church by its own frailty, but rather by its purpose that brought it into being, God's will concerning it, and the character and attitude of those who were called to witness the Christ who should be preached and that the Christian life should be lived.

The Gospel is a great deal more than just ministers or preachers. It is this it is very necessary to remember today, if we would have a wholesome, high-minded ministry and if we would have likewise a membership in our churches that is earnestly devoted to the Gospel and to witnessing it in life as well as in word.

Now that M. Grover Whalen's little exposition is open, we suppose the gagsters will be quipping that the U. S. is two fair words.
