BURGUNDER IS GIVEN A DEATH TERM BY JURY

PHOENIX, Ariz., July 18.—Robert Burgunder was found guilty of first degree murder today and sentenced to death in the Arizona lethal gas chamber for the slaying of Jack Peterson. Burgunder, the son of a Seattle, Wash., prosecuting attorney, had pleaded personally with the jury to sentence him to death. "A lifetime in prison would be useless," he said, and his plea evidently carried more weight than did that of his father, who argued for a verdict of not guilty by reason of insanity or for a sentence of life imprisonment if the jury found his son guilty. The jury had deliberated four hours and 15 minutes. Peterson and Ellis Koury were automobile salesmen who went on a desert trip with Burgunder to demonstrate a car. They did not come back, and eight days later their bodies were found in the desert on May 7.

JAPS PREPARE FOR GENERAL RUSSIAN WAR

By JOHN R. MORRIS
United Press Staff Correspondent
SHANGHAI, July 18.—A large number of officers in Japan's mainland Kwangtung Army are ready for a general war on the border between Outer Mongolia and Manchukuo. Their attitude, it seemed to this correspondent on a tour of the area where repeated skirmishes and raids have been in progress, was that they would welcome rather than deplore an excuse to launch a general offensive against the Soviet-Mongolians. Because of the widely-separated objectives of Soviet air raids in the interior of Manchukuo, it is not likely that the raids could seriously damage the Japanese forces, but might easily precipitate a general Russo-Japanese war. The best neutral opinion in the far east is that the Japanese promise would win the first successes in such a war, but eventually might sap their strength to an extent which would cost her the fruits of victories so far won in China.

Risinger, the court directed that it be sold the first Tuesday in August, and if anybody offers as much as $75, the auctioneer will bring down his hammer.

GAS COMPLETION FOR COUNTY IS IMPORTANT

A new Eastland county gas well was completed this week-end, the W. R. Ritchie et al No. 1 Weddington testing 17 million feet of gas per day under a rock pressure of 1,250 pounds per square inch. It was tested by Lone Star Gas company. The heavy flow of gas was encountered in the Lake Sand horizon near 3,750 feet. Unusual feature of the well is that it is only half a mile from the discovery gas well for that area, 13 miles northwest of Cisco in section 2054, TE&L survey. The discovery, drilled by H. H. Adams of Abilene as No. 1 McClelland, was completed in 1924—15 years ago—with a rock pressure of 1,275 pounds. The No. 1 Weddington checks structurally about 40 feet lower on the west end of the nosing high. Its pressure gauge was taken as an indication that reservoir pressure in the big gas field had not deteriorated, since there was only a 25 pounds discrepancy. Lone Star has reported some of its old wells in the same area maintaining pressures for 12 to 15 years, several of them testing now as high as 1,500 pounds rock. Owners of the No. 1 Weddington, however, plan to deepen the well to the Ellenburgs if the gas horizon can be proved. The test is only a short distance from the Lone Star No. 1 Thomas, 1-100-barrel Ordovician producer. North of the gas area, in western Stephens county, the Wittmer Oil & Gas Properties and Knight & Ewing No. 1 B. D. Loving was cleaning out after underreaming six-inch casing to 3,470 feet in preparation for testing a showing of oil and gas in the Caddo lime. Pipe will not be cemented.

FRAUD PROBE IN LOUISIANA IS BROADENED

NEW ORLEANS, July 18.—The federal government redoubled its investigations into manipulations of the Louisiana State government and of Louisiana federal office holders today, while five of the men made great by the late Huey P. Long, were up for arraignment before a United States commissioner charged with mail fraud. Administration of the 1937 sugar act was the newest channel for federal entrance into the Louisiana affairs. The investigation was announced in Washington by Attorney General Frank Murphy. A federal investigation of reports of widespread violation of the federal oil regulations was believed to be reaching a head. The federal grand jury, which yesterday indicted five of the late Kingfish's closest friends, continued its investigation of the alleged misuse of WPA materials and labor by state officials and of other phases of state affairs. The five were Seymour Weiss, who was the night manager of a local hotel when he first met Long and today owns that hotel and several others, and is rated a millionaire; Dr. James Monroe Smith, who was the head of a tiny college when he met Long and who is under 24 state indictments charging him with defrauding Louisiana State University, of which Long made him the head, of $100,000; J. Emory Adams, nephew of Smith's wife; Monte E. Hart, official of an electric company, which has received many contracts from state and parish governments, dominated by Long officeholders, and Louis O. Lesage, "contact" man of an oil company.

MEXICAN GOVERNMENT PROBES DEATH CASE

Adolfo G. Dominguez, Mexican consul from Dallas, was in Eastland Tuesday to investigate the death Saturday night of D. Dominguez, Mexican railroad employe. Jess Richardson, who has been freed on a $1,000 bond and is charged on a technical charge of murder, was attempting to arrest the Mexican for alleged drunkenness at a dance held at a Mexican home, when Dominguez was shot. The Mexican consul said that Dominguez was a Mexican citizen and that it became the duty of his government to investigate the death. Witnesses at an examining trial held in the court of Justice of Peace-E. E. Wood stated that Richardson, acting as a deputy constable, and the Mexican scuffled and during a struggle Richardson's gun went off. Dominguez was taken to an Eastland hospital, and according to witnesses at the examining trial, was suffering from a wound about two inches in length in his head and from shock. He was taken to the hospital and died at 4:30 Sunday morning without having made a statement. The 91st district court grand jury will meet July 24. Dominguez and the consul, although there is a similarity in names, were not related. Rites for Dominguez were held at Cisco.

REAL ESTATE MAN KIDNAPED AT FT. WORTH

FORT WORTH, July 18.—Frank P. Tracy, prominent local real estate man, today told how a stranger kidnaped him, robbed him and left him tied on a country road. Tracy said the man, who appeared to be about 60 years old, entered his downtown office late yesterday and asked to be taken to view some rural property. After they started out in Tracy's automobile the stranger drew a gun. The man ordered Tracy to stop on a country road, marched him away from the road, and took the $1.25 Tracy had in his pockets. He then forced Tracy to write two checks for $20 each, bound his feet and hands with wire and rope, and drove off in Tracy's automobile. One of the checks was cashed by a local store a few minutes later. Tracy freed himself in about 30 minutes.

Deadly Double Is Falls And Vehicles

CHICAGO.—Safety's deadly daily double for 1938 was falls and motor vehicle accidents. Together they killed 63 per cent of the 94,000 persons who died in accidents last year. These two types of accidents, claiming 59,100 dead, more than equaled the combined toll of life taken by drownings, burns, railroad mishaps, firearms, poison gases, other poisons and the miscellany of other types which contributed to last year's toll of killed-by-accident. That's the record as reported by the 1939 edition of Accident Facts, the National Safety Council's statistical yearbook just off the press.

More Are Killed While Not At Work

CHICAGO.—The question is, "Are more men and women killed in accidents while they are at work or while they are not at work?" The National Safety Council's answer in the 1939 edition of its statistical yearbook, Accident Facts, just off the press, is that more are killed while they are not at work. Last year 94,000 persons died in accidents. Deaths of employed men and women contributed 87,500 to the total. Of these, only 16,500 were due to work accidents. The remainder, 21,000, resulted from accidents that occurred away from work. Of the not at work fatalities suffered by employed persons 13,000 resulted from motor vehicle accidents, 8,000 from non-motor vehicle accidents.

Drivers Must Still Obtain Licenses

AUSTIN, July 18.—Attorney General Gerald C. Mann ruled today that failure of the last legislature to pass a new drivers license law did not relieve drivers of the need to have a license. He said it is still a violation of the law for a person to operate a motor vehicle in this state without an operators or chauffeurs license.

First-Hand Information

The 1940 relief bill calling for another big appropriation—$1,717,000,000 for all types of relief—is now before Congress and there's hardly a member who hasn't broadcast his solution of the relief problem, either on the floor or off.

Some have a really intelligent understanding of the question and others are just talking to fill the Congressional Record which they'll send the folks back home as evidence of their statesmanship.

But a report to Congress by the American Association of Social Workers raises the question whether it isn't about time that a committee of congressmen take case workers during the summer recess and get some first-hand information.

The document contains some alarming and unpleasant revelations about administration of relief in this country. Just listen to a few excerpts from it:

An Indianapolis couple and their nine children live in a house so infested with rats that the husband must stay awake nights to guard his family.

Relief allotments vary from $38.16 a month in New York to $2.81 in Mississippi.

Sixty-five different agencies administer relief in one unnamed county.

In 254 Texas counties the only assistance available is federal surplus commodities.

Food grants in one state are approximately one-fifth of a minimum standard food budget prescribed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The association contends that these findings emphasize the need of a new system of administering relief by federal grants to states.

Without entering that highly debatable question, it is hoped that the report awakens Congress to the realization that some change is necessary—and soon—to provide more efficient and more equitable relief administration.

Universal Mills Of Fort Worth To Play On Saturday

Fire Chief G. A. Murphy, who is sponsoring softball games in Ranger, announced today that an outstanding game has been scheduled for Saturday night, with possibly some side attractions before and during the game.

Universal Mills played three games in Ranger last year, losing the first to a Ranger all-star club by a close score, and then taking both games of a double header on a return engagement. The team was secured through the efforts of A. J. Ratliff, local Universal dealer.

Wednesday night Tee-Pee will play the fast DeLeon team and Friday night Robinson's grocery will play the Beer and Ice team from Mingus, sponsored by Bill's Ice and Pete's Beer.

Monday night Tee-Pee went on a scoring spree in the late innings to win from Mingus by a score of 12 to 4 after the game had been closely-contested throughout the earlier innings.

More Game Laws to County Courts Are Go Into Effect In Affiliating With State This Season Freight Rate Fight

AUSTIN, Tex.—The regular session of the 46th Legislature set what Game Department officials believe to be an all-time record in the passage of game and fish laws.

In all, 94 new laws relating to wildlife were enacted out of a total of 134 wildlife bills introduced, 113 originating in the House and 21 in the Senate.

At the start of the session 545 applications of county game and fish laws were on the statute books. The new crop of laws, officials said, adds considerably to the number, although in several cases the new regulations merely extend the life of old laws about to expire.

Only seven of the 94 new laws are general laws, applicable to the State as a whole, the Department announced. The rest apply only to individual counties or groups of counties.

Fishing received more attention than hunting. An analysis shows the Legislature passed 30 new laws dealing with regulation of fishing or sale of fish. Fourteen new laws dealing with deer and turkey hunting were passed, 10 relating to fox, nine to quail, and five each to squirrels and fur-bearing animals. Various other local laws were enacted.

Most important among the general laws passed was that declaring the Collared Peccary or Javelina a game animal. Killing of the animals was declared illegal except during an open season, from Nov. 16 to Jan. 1, and the bag limit was declared to be two per season. Sale of javelinas or their hides were declared unlawful, except that javelinas or their hides imported from other states or countries might be sold. Many of the animals are imported annually from Mexico.

Other general laws included that placing the Starling on the unprotected list; forbidding fishing from bridges or causeways maintained by the State Highway Department; allowing the Game, Fish and Oyster to condemn lands for use in construction of freshwater fish hatcheries or passageways leading from one body of tidal water to another; providing for the issuance of non-resident trapper's licenses at a cost of $200 each; and placing the brown pelican on the protected list.

Another general law had the effect of giving the Game Department permission to accept federal funds to be used in an extensive game management, survey and research program.

Part of the federal money already had been received for this purpose and the program had been inaugurated with executive approval of James V. Allred before his term as governor expired.

ABILENE, Tex.—Commissioners' Courts in all parts of West Texas are affiliating with the Freight Rate Equality Federation sponsored by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, in its campaign to secure equalization of freight rates between the Southwestern zone and the highly favored zones of the north and east.

Response by West Texas counties to the call for FREF affiliation has been fine and almost 100 per cent affiliation of the counties in this region is expected within a few weeks, West Texas Chamber of Commerce officials said.

Report of the activity of the WTCC and the FREF in the recent freight rate hearing conducted by the Texas Railroad Commission in Austin has been submitted to the Commissioners' Courts as well as to the WTCC's 200 directors.

The two organizations, which for months have led in the growing movement against discriminatory freight rates, presented 46 charts and exhibits and 31 witnesses who testified as to the unreasonableness of differential and class rates in the state.

An order from the Commission revising differential rates and prescribing the "official" rate scale of the Ohio-Indiana territory for Texas was asked by the WTCC and the FREF. Studies made by the WTCC claim Texas rates are from 60 to 85 per cent higher than the Ohio-Indiana rates.

"There has never been a freight rate hearing on such a broad base," D. A. Bandeen, WTCC manager and FREF secretary said. "We feel that we presented an overwhelming, convincing case before the Commission and are hopeful that a favorable order will be given by that body."

WTCC officials were gratified with approval by the governor of $30,000 appropriation by the Legislature to the attorney general's department for prosecuting the case for freight rate equality. The organization had advocated the appropriation, pointing out that some other Southwestern states have made similar appropriations and that some states in the favored regions had appropriated funds to fight freight rate equality.

Good progress is being made in the rate equality campaign and the work will be carried on until Texas producers, consumers, manufacturers and shippers are given equal opportunity with those of the north and east, WTCC officials declared.

Veto of many Game Department items by Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel, however, left the fate of the entire cooperative program in doubt.

Girl Can't Escape Hazards Of Traffic

AMARILLO, Texas.—Miss Catherine Barnes, 18, complains that one just can't escape the traffic problems these days.

She barely escaped death when an automobile hurtled off a highway above Myer's Park, near Canyon, and struck her as she walked with her sister in an arroyo. She suffered a broken ankle and severe bruises.

Judge To Play Part Of Sam Houston

DALHART, Texas.—District Judge Reese Tatum, whose hobby for years has been studying the life of Sam Houston, is going to get the chance to play the part of his favorite hero at the fourth annual XIT reunion.

The XIT reunion is going to be heavily for Texas history during the two-day program here, Aug. 7 and 8, and Judge Tatum will be kept busy.

Dressed in clothing like that worn by the avenger of the Alamo, he will ride in the parades and depict, by pantomime, various episodes in Houston's colorful career.

Getting ready for the ranch reunion's historical features also is keeping the flag makers busy.

There must be, of course, the six flags which have flown over Texas—those of France, Spain, Mexico, the Texas Republic, the United States and the Confederacy. Then there must be the flag of the Texas navy and, since Sam Houston was governor of Tennessee before he moved to Texas and became president of the new republic and governor of the state, flags of Tennessee.

Alabama Coach To Teach at School of Coaches Aug. 20

COLLEGE STATION, Texas.—H. D. Drew, end coach of the very efficient football team at the University of Alabama, has been selected to top the list of outstanding state mentors who will teach the first annual free coaching school at Texas A. & M. College August 20 to 26.

Sharing the headline positions with him will be Bob Berry, who directed the East Texas State Teachers to the Lone Star conference football championship last fall; Homer Norton, head coach

Prisoner on "Rock" Doesn't Approve of Famous Alcatraz

FORT WORTH, Texas.—Herbert Alvin Stanley has joined the big parade of personalities who disapprove of "The Rock" in San Francisco harbor.

Stanley, who is known as "No 406" in the federal government's prison on Alcatraz, has written U. S. District Attorney Clyde O. Eastus that he is "praying" that his 25-year sentence be shortened.

Stanley once was sentenced to life imprisonment in the Texas penitentiary for a torch murder at Fort Worth. One day he broke out, and celebrated his freedom by robbing a bank at Friona. He was captured and tried for this escapade at Amarillo, from where he was sent to Alcatraz.

His chances of getting off "The Rock" are pretty slim, however. Eastus replied to his "prayer" that Stanley still had a life sentence hanging over him in Texas if the federal government shortened its sentence.

Two Denver, Colo., women twins decided to disregard their 95th birthday, and you have to give them credit. Most women start that stuff on the other side of 40.

at Texas A. & M., and W. B. Chapman, Lubbock high school mentor.

Jack Gray, who coached the University of Texas Longhorns through a Southwest Conference pennant winning season, and H. R. (Hub) McQuillan of Texas A. & M., will have charge of the sessions devoted to basketball.

J. W. (Dough) Rollins and Marty Karow of A. & M. will discuss track and baseball, respectively. Others on the staff will be Lal Dimmitt, Texas A. & M. trainer, and W. L. Penberthy, also of A. & M., who will discuss general physical education and intramural sports.

Schools Funds Need Large Families Is School Man's Belief

EL PASO, Texas.—With state school appropriations on a per capita basis, what El Paso needs is an autocat to encourage large families, Superintendent of Schools A. H. Hughey believes.

"Our school census might show a larger number of children of school age for whom we could obtain more state school money," he said.

Studies made by the school system under Hughey's direction have indicated a yearly five per cent decrease in the number of children of school age in El Paso since 1931.

"Apparently the decrease each year is due to fewer children being born," Hughey said. He added, however, that the birth rate in the entire nation also was going down.

There is a bright side to the decline, however.

"The city's population seems to show an increase according to water meters, light meters, city directories, and telephone installations," Hughey said. "By the school census, it seems to show a decrease, or to be about stationary, allowing for the decreasing birthrate and transfers from other districts and states. Perhaps the increase in water meters and such things indicates a rise in the level of the living of the population here rather than at an increase in the number."

A Philadelphia pastor has been named head of the same church for 45 years. After that long stretch as a visitor at Ladies Aid meetings, he ought to have a pretty fair knowledge about everybody in the community.

At Worcester, Mass., meeting members of a turkey growers' association dined on roast beef. Maybe they didn't want to hit the bird that's feeding them.

After a Cleveland construction job was bombed, police were told to watch all steamshovels. They probably found half the city doing the same thing.

MUCH COOLER this SUMMER

—Thanks to Our Cheap Electric Service

● "Much Cooler This Summer" is the weather forecast if you use your cheap electric service to add to summer comfort. Whether to run fans, a cooling system or an air conditioning unit, your electric service does its part to increase your comfort in hot weather. In the kitchen, too, your electric cooker and your electric refrigerator make hot weather more comfortable by making it easy to have hot meals or cold salads and desserts.

And the cost of this service is surprisingly small. One penny runs the average portable electric fan for four hours; less than two pennies an hour is all it costs to run a residential cooling system, and self-contained air conditioning units cost only slightly more. Two pennies an hour is the average cost of cooking in a modern automatic electric cooker. A few pennies pay for electricity to run your refrigerator a whole day. That is why we say that, "Electricity is Cheap."

SERIAL STORY GHOST DETOUR

BY OREN ARNOLD

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, the mining agent is concerned. Dick who brings the truck to him—the agent is trying to scare the girls into selling their shares back to him.

CHAPTER XI

DICK'S not the kind who would steal! Roselee was declaring, once the girls were in bed that night. "Why would he take the money from the old shaft and hide it in the dungeon without telling us?"

"I don't like to think of him as under suspicion," murmured Christine.

They had watched Dick go back into the dungeon, and had seen the faint, reflected glow of a flashlight from far back in the cells. Then, still crouching in the shadows, they had seen Dick come out empty-handed and go back down the street, and they knew he had concealed the money inside. The two girls had returned to bed before 10 o'clock.

"I'm terribly upset, Christy, honest I am."

"Roselee, do you suppose this man—Packman, wasn't it?—will try anything else? His mining company, I mean?"

"I don't know. But Dick will be on the lookout now, surely. He will take care of everything. He—he would have, I mean. What I mean—"

Roselee was confused. Confused in her speech and—worse—in her own heart. Christine sensed it and shared it, and so reached out to squeeze her friend's arm.

"Tell me something, Roselee," she spoke tenderly. "Do you love Dick Bancroft?"

Roselee didn't answer. There was a long moment of silence and then distinct little sounds as of tears.

"You don't have to tell me, darling," Christine whispered then. "I know you do love him. I know how you feel now, too. I can't think he was planning to conceal the money from you. Why don't you go and ask him?"

"Not!"

"At any rate there was some good news in it—the man said Goldcrest ore was valuable again. He even said there was a new outcropping worth a hundred dollars a ton, Roselee!"

"I d-don't . . . care!"

CHRISTINE was holding her friend's hand now as she lay there on her pillow for a long time, thinking. The hour wasn't late, and she thought back over all the events since school was out. She thought, too, of Roselee and Dick Bancroft—and of Franklin Laraway.

Franklin was gone tonight. Franklin had fallen for her, Christine knew, from the moment he had met her. A girl can sense such things, intuitively. It had been amusing then. Franklin was more boyish. Slender and rather shy, and unable to conceal his shyness with his forced geniality and banter. He was extremely loyal to his friend Dick.

Franklin had shown more and more refinement and loquacity and intelligence as the days had passed. Christine had felt herself drawn to the larger, more commanding Richard Bancroft at first, just as Roselee had been. For one thing they had "discovered" Dick under dramatic circumstances, like a movie romance. There in twilight at the bank vault—goodness! And he was undeniably handsome. "But Franklin is every bit as good looking," Christy reminded herself now.

She wondered what had come over her. Somehow she had undergone a kind of spiritual change just lying there thinking. She wasn't sleepy. She wanted to think—to think about Franklin.

"And I made Franklin believe I was crazy about Dick!" Christine recalled, horrified now at the thought. "There, pointing the signboard he tried to be nice—tried to let me know—"

Now it was Christine's turn to cry, and she sobbed harder than Roselee had done, until both girls finally turned over their pillows and went to sleep in companionable misery.

MRS. HOGAN had a good breakfast for the three young people. At the table Roselee and Christine watched Dick expectantly, but he did not mention the previous night's affairs. The girls were keenly disappointed, especially Roselee. Dick had hidden the $12,000. Dick had secrets which he thought they didn't know, and he wasn't sharing them. Roselee's lovely face was dark with anxiety.

A few tourist automobiles were coming in by 9 and the young people had to serve as guides. It was Christine, though, who kept alert and as if she saw Franklin Laraway's ratty old car coming across the Joshua tree desert before she heard its noise. She joined her little knot of tourist guests with one of Roselee's and hastened to meet Franklin.

The young man's eyes brightened with obvious pleasure when she came to his car.

"Hello!" he said. "You look fresh as a dewdrop! Your new cowboy outfit is very becoming. She laughed a bit, happily. "Bring me anything, hon?"

She asked it casually, teasingly, as a child might have, and just as casually picked up the parcel at his side. If she had given it a thought at all she would have assumed that the parcel contained something for use at Goldcrest. It was a natural assumption. They had had to buy a lot of odds and ends—tools, instruments, cooking utensils, items of clothing, provisions and such—on trips in to town. And in a thoughtful instant Christine had shaken the loose wrapper off this parcel too.

A celtic purse, beautifully beaded, dropped out.

"Oh!" she cried, staring.

Franklin blushed, rather painfully. "Yeah," he finally managed, swallowing. "Yeah, I did. I well you beat me to it, Christy. I—well I mean I forgot it was laying there in Dick's seat. I intended to get it to Dick first."

"To—Dick?"

"Yeah, that's it! Dick! He, uh, he told me to bring it, for you, Christine. He—well I guess he wanted to be nice and all, and I was going in to town, see? Maybe we had just not tell him you've already seen it, see?"

Christine looked at Franklin, looked into his frank gray eyes. He was trying to be casual, trying to smile and laugh a bit. But Franklin wasn't a good actor and he wasn't getting away with it. Christine felt a sudden hurt within her. She knew Franklin was lying—she knew Dick hadn't ordered that purse! She wasn't sure exactly what really had happened, but her heart told her that things were all mixed up some way. She felt her throat tighten and she was afraid she was going to cry again as she had cried last night. So she turned hastily away.

"Oh sure," she forced herself to say. "Don't tell him. It's sweet of him to think of me, wasn't it? You—you better hurry up and come to work!"

She hurried off. Tears had actually come, and not for the world would she have had him see them.

BY BRUCE CATTON

WASHINGTON—Some of the most intensive politicking of the session occurred during the fight in the House of Representatives over the proposal to repeal all neutrality legislation and let the country get along on the 1914 basis.

The effort lost by a big majority, but it threw a life-sized scare into the leadership of both parties while it lasted—and it briefly focused the limelight on a talented young congressman, Robert G. Allen of Pennsylvania.

Allen was the man who introduced the resolution which would have repealed all neutrality legislation. A member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, which presented the Bloom bill to the House, he was accused on the floor of springing a huge surprise—which happens to be untrue.

His proposal had been discussed frequently before the committee. At one stage even Acting Chairman Sol Bloom himself was inclined to support it. In the end he shied away from it; whereupon Allen called together a group of sympathizers and laid plans for an independent fight on the matter.

In the group were such men as Congressman James Wadsworth and Bruce Barton of New York and James A. Shanley of Connecticut.

And although the Democratic leadership in the House worked to beat the resolution, it is learned that the State Department was by no means averse to it; in fact, that repeal of everything would be fine stuff, but doubted that the time was ripe to spring it. As a matter of fact, at least a part of the Democratic high command in the House was at one stage of the game prepared to let the resolution go through.

The fight marked an interesting stage in the development of Allen as a congressman.

He is now in his second term—a handsome, youthful, stocky chap from Greensburg, Pa., who started his career here as an ultra left-winger of the Maury Maverick group and who has since been shifting over toward the middle of the road. Correctly or otherwise, his colleagues credit this shift partly to the influence of Congressman Hatton Summers of Texas.

Summers last winter organized a unique series of informal evening caucuses, debates, gab-fests by whatever you want to call them. A group of 15 or 20 congressmen would meet by invitation in his office. All kinds of things would be discussed. Two prominent congressmen might be invited in to debate some pending bill; parliamentary procedure might be hashed over; group talks on current issues might take place.

In any case, Allen was one of this group. Whether that had anything to do with it or not, the fact is that he is a different man than he was last session.

Certain of the New Dealers believed the change, but it has increased his influence in Congress; and the impression he made in the neutrality fight has heightened his colleagues' opinion of him—not so much because they were enamored of the proposition he presented, as because they liked the sober, earnest and able way he presented it. Allen, in short, emerges from the whole business as a "comer."

Another congressman who got increased prestige out of the fight was this Shanley of Connecticut. He revealed himself as an exceptionally forceful and able debater and as a rather remarkable authority on constitutional law. He comes from New Haven, but he is not—as his familiarity with constitutional law made some of the boys suspect—Yale professor, just likes the subject and spends all his spare time boning up on it.

Emotional Guard Is Down During Meals Pen Guard Believes

By United Press
DALLHART, Texas—A man's "emotional guards" are most completely down when he is eating, in the opinion of E. F. McCarty, a former Texan who has been a guard at the New Mexico state penitentiary for several years.

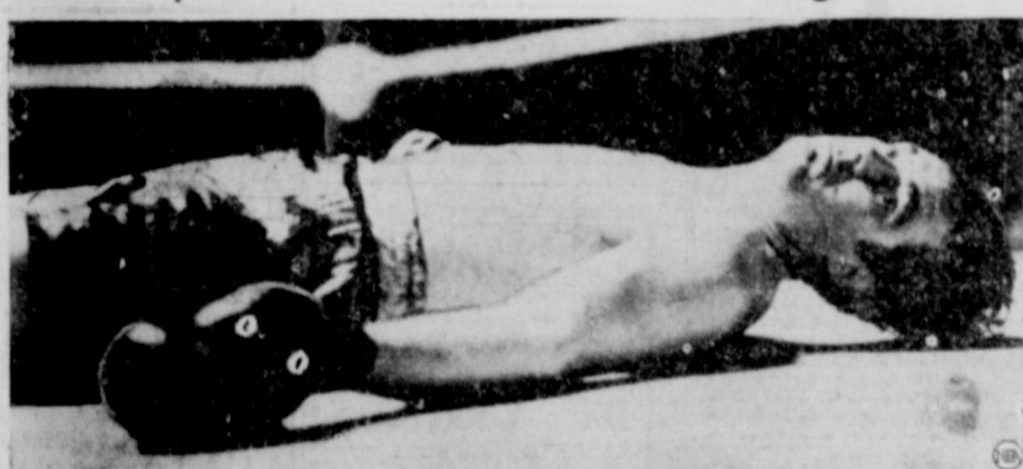

"The counterpane of the most poker-faced criminal is apt to betray his thoughts and intentions when he is taking his food," McCarty said.

"All my experience teaches me that character can be more fully and accurately read at that time than at any other."

In fact, McCarty added, emotions have a lot to do with prison life—for the guards as well as the convicts.

Convict Caught

Jack Russell, fugitive Oklahoma convict, who escaped from a guard last Wednesday, was captured today in Arkansas, after a three-state man hunt in Oklahoma, Kansas and Arkansas. Russell is quoted as boasting that he would escape in order to kill his wife. He surrendered without a struggle when surrounded.

Sure Sign of Rain Reported By Keeper Of Stadium Grounds

Rain is due in Ranger within three days, according to Frank Reese, groundskeeper at Bulldog Stadium, who is really anxious for a good rain on the football field.

Reese bases his prediction on an old superstition, which he admits he does not believe with unflinching faith, but which he was willing to try anyway, because the field needed his rain.

Monday afternoon Reese felt something on his foot, and, looking down, saw a small snake, which he killed. The snake was turned stomach up, which is supposed to be a sure sign of rain within three days. And, to make sure the football field gets the benefit of the rain, Reese placed the snake on the field.

Grass on the field is looking much better than it did a week or ten days ago, since 48 truck loads of barnyard manure have been spread over the grass and harrowed continually to spread it properly. Since application of the fertilizer the grass has put out numerous long runners and has a much greener appearance. Three sprinklers are kept running on the grass at all times.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people locate in their kidneys. They are often caused by liquid kidney pills. They are relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief waste filters. They filter out the waste from the blood. These wastes are carried out of the body in the urine. If the kidneys are not working properly, the waste will build up in the blood. This waste will cause a host of ailments, such as backache, headache, dizziness, and many others.

Do not wait until your back is so stiff that you cannot get up in the morning. Do not wait until your back is so sore that you cannot sleep. Do not wait until your back is so painful that you cannot work. Do not wait until your back is so bad that you cannot live.

Get relief now. Buy a bottle of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. It will give you the relief you need. It will give you the strength you need. It will give you the happiness you need.

be controlled and even could be exterminated by intelligent measures, according to records of the State Department of Health. Unfortunately it has been the practice to wait to apply control measures until the disease is widespread.

The dog is the chief source of rabies infection in man, but all warm blooded animals are susceptible. Contrary to a widespread belief, rabies is not a warm weather disease. It occurs just as frequently in the cold months. The most logical procedure in the control of rabies would be to vaccinate all dogs. Where this is impossible the stray dog is immediately impounded, for the stray dog is chiefly responsible for the spread of rabies.

Public health authorities are handicapped in their fight against the spread of rabies because rabies in humans occur only frequently. However, it must be remembered that rabies is 100 per cent fatal once the disease has developed. Treatment is only preventive and must be taken in time.

Do not kill the dog that is behaving strangely or immediately after it has bitten some one. The animal should be captured and kept under observation for ten days to determine whether it has rabies or not. The confinement should be amply secure, for a dog in the frenzy of furious rabies requires a much stronger collar and chain or enclosure than a non-rabid dog.

When the rabies virus is put into the body by a biting dog the virus travels slowly from the wound along the nerves until it reaches the brain and spinal cord. Thus if the bite is on the face the virus does not have far to travel to reach the brain. Consequently bites on the face are the most dangerous and immunization must be started at once.

It is possible to control rabies, but, owing to the large territory included in Texas, it will take extra efforts on the part of public health workers and the cooperation of the people of each town and county to carry on an educational program for this control.

Chewing Tobacco Was A Big Item Of Texas Army of 1836

By United Press
AUSTIN, Texas—If Napoleon's army traveled on its stomach, then perhaps Gen. Sam Houston's army of 1836-36 "fit" its best with a quid of tobacco in the military jaw.

Such might be the inference from the list of provisions purchased by the Consultation, Texas' provisional government. The list, included, along with cannon powder, 3,000 pounds of Kentucky chewing tobacco.

That appropriation—one of Texas' first—called for, among other "military" supplies, 129 gallons of French brandy, 125 gallons of port wine, and five barrels of whiskey.

The items were found in the fragile, yellow pages of the ordinances and decrees of the General Council, printed by a Houston firm in 1838 and now resting in the University of Texas law library.

Among the weapons listed were 23 cannons, ranging from 12 to 32 pounders; 1,000 kegs of cannon powder; 1,000 butcher knives, and 1,000 tomahawks.

Food consisted principally of bread, meat and beans. The "ordinance and decree to

There's a Good Reason You're Constipated!
When there's something wrong with you, the first rule is: get at the cause. If you are constipated, don't endure it first and cure it afterward. Find out what's giving you the trouble.
Chances are it's simple if you eat the super-refined foods most people do: meat, white bread, potatoes. It's likely you don't get enough "bulk" and "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestine and helps a bowel movement.
This is your trouble, you should eat a natural "bulk" producing food—such as one as the cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran. All-Bran is the essence of prevention that's worth a pound of emergency relief. Eat it every day, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars." All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.
