'Balkanization' Trend Reversed by the States

What a pleasure it is to be able to write something in praise of state legislatures!

They deserve the highest praise for having this year reversed a highly dangerous trend, and definitely turned back a tide which might well have engulfed the United States and drowned one of the world's last great free trade areas.

The Council of State Governments was host in April to a Chicago conference on Interstate Trade Barriers to point to the danger in this legislative trend. The campaign has apparently borne fruit. For the council is now able to report that at least five states have removed from their statute books such discriminations and barriers, and that a score of states have each refused to enact from one to six such proposals.

Outstanding was repeal by Indiana of port-of-entry provisions of its liquor law. Missouri also got rid of such an act. Oklahoma repealed its 1937 port-of-entry act when it found that Texas, considering the Oklahoma act unfriendly, was about to enact one in retaliation. Of course that is the way it works. There is no end to these discriminations, once started. Both states are wise—and free—in putting aside the barriers.

New Mexico repealed several such laws, including a five-day license fee imposed on out-of-state salesmen. Florida kicked out a high inspection fee on imported eggs.

Connecticut rejected a bill which would—think of it—have limited the size of gasoline tanks on trucks passing through the state, in an effort to make truckers buy gasoline in Connecticut. California, Connecticut, Florida, Oregon, and New Jersey turned down proposed discriminations against wines and beers from outside the state.

California actually refused to retaliate against several states which still discriminate against California wines. It turned down a bill which would have forbidden public institutions to buy any coal mined outside the state.

So it went, through a score of states and legislative sessions. The good work of the Council of State Governments in calling attention to this peril, and in enlisting the co-operation of state governments in the move to end it, cannot be exaggerated.

But the greatest tribute should go to those hundreds of state legislators who placed the national welfare ahead of the little pressure groups within their states which demand the barriers. Those legislators ought to be given full credit for true patriotism in halting a movement which can only hamper and restrict national trade, industry, and farming at a time when everything shows the need for encouraging and expanding them.

Rust-Free Wheat is Developed in State For Coastal Area

By United Press

COLLEGE STATION, Tex.—Dr. F. C. Mangelsdorf, assistant director of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Texas A. & M. College, has announced that a strain of wheat has been developed which will grow in the Gulf Coast area and be free from the rust disease which has ruined crops in years gone by.

The new wheat has been developed at the Angleton sub-station. It was obtained by crossing a Texas wheat that had been isolated as leaf rust resistant with a South Dakota variety, named Hope, which was obtained by crossing Mediterranean and Russian wheat.

The Hope wheat was resistant to almost all forms of rust, and by crossing it with the Texas wheat, Doctor Mangelsdorf obtained a new variety that was resistant to all rusts. Not only does the new variety resist rust, but it has produced yields surpassing those of all standard commercial varieties in the Gulf Coast area.

In an experiment near Victoria, the new wheat produced more than 25.5 bushels to the acre, while its parent types, Hope and Mediterranean, produced not at all. Hope being killed by a freeze and Mediterranean being a total loss from stem rust.

SERIAL STORY GHOST DETOUR BY OREN ARNOLD COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, the girls are worried about Dick's strange movements in the old jail, hiding the case. They are worried too as the romantic complications develop. Franklin has a purse for Christine, she discovers it, he says it is from Dick. Christine wants to see, resisting Franklin really bought it for her.

CHAPTER XII
FRANKLIN LARRAWAY just sat there gazing at Christine Palmer as she walked away from his car. "God!" he muttered to himself. "I sure can miff everybody!"

He hadn't meant for her to see the purse. She hadn't discovered the silver ring because it was in a smaller package. He picked that up and put it in his pocket and stuck the purse back in its wrapper. He doubted if he could handle Dick diplomatically enough to make him give Christine the purse. He had bought the purse to give Christine himself. But then—well, she had practically admitted being in love with Dick, earlier. And he was Dick's best friend, trusted friend. A man doesn't let his friend down. If Christine loved Dick, and he himself loved Dick as a friend—well, then—aw to the devil with it all. Franklin swallowed, and all at once remembered what he had learned about Carl Quait, the robber-murderer. Impulsively he called to Christine again.

"Hey! Hey, Christy! Wait! . . . Come here a minute!"

She stopped and looked back. She bit her pretty lips to keep them from trembling, she who had been about to cry.

"Come here, please. Look—I got news to tell you Christy! His voice had dropped to a confidential murmur. "News about that money in the vault. In the old mine shaft, I mean."

It wasn't in the mine shaft any more, Christine told herself. But no matter now—what did Franklin have? She came close to his car.

"Get in and sit a minute, Christine. Listen—that money was put here by a pay roll bandit named Quait. He was sent to prison, but escaped and murdered a man. He's at liberty now!"

"Franklin!"

"No fooling! I went to the sheriff's office and—"

HE SAID ALL ABOUT IT. Told her with almost a happy, boyish enthusiasm. Of course Christine found his excitement contagious. She welcomed it, too, because it enabled her to control the other emotions that had stirred her, and so hold back her tears. Franklin had not noticed her crying, though. "Whatever will we do?" she demanded now. "He hasn't shown up yet, but we know he's a dan-

Queer Problems In State Government Arise Quite Often

By United Press
AUSTIN, Tex.—Queer problems arise in operation of state government. The wide range is shown by inquiries that come to the attorney general's office. The attorney general is the legal adviser for all state officials and when they ask his advice he must give it.

The latest bulletin of the rulings made in answer to such inquiries reveals that Taylor county's auditor had been confronted with a real residence puzzle.

Answering his inquiry about it, Attorney General Gerald C. Mann answered that "a married man living in Baltimore, Md., working for the government at Washington, D. C., under the particular facts set forth cannot claim residence in Texas and vote in this state."

Whether a machine is a "gaming device" is a frequent puzzle for county officials.

R. T. Burns, county attorney of Walker county, asked for help on one. It was a machine in which the player placed a nickel. When the machine was played, free plays were given if certain holes were struck. If the player was not lucky, he had to contribute another nickel. Mann found it depended on chance and was illegal.

Other questions he has decided recently are that the Department of Public Safety has authority to buy a boat; that a merchant selling dry goods on one side of the street and furniture and some dry goods on the other side of the street for lack of room in one structure is operating a two-store chain; that a Confederate pensioner who leaves the state longer than six months must cease to be paid a pension until he returns; that a type of voting machine complies with the election law; that many fees are valid or excessive.

By United Press
YAKIMA, Wash.—Rancher Ralph Sundquist, rancher, was walking through one of his orchards when he heard a rattle near him.

Sundquist looked to the ground and saw a rattlesnake coiled to strike. Without a stick, stone or any other weapon, Sundquist moved away until the snake uncoiled and slithered to a small brush clump.

Then he gathered up handfuls of dust and threw them at the snake's head until it was blinded.

While it writhed on the ground Sundquist watched his chance and trampled it to death.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning! Get it in the Morning! Get it in the Evening!

The liver should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sick and the world looks pink.

A more liberal movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pints of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25 cents. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

FRECKLES and HIS FRIENDS

El Paso Seeking Mid-Winter Golf Tourney for City

By United Press
EL PASO, Tex.—Appointment of a committee to aid in obtaining a $3,000 guarantee for a mid-winter national golf tournament has been made by the El Paso Chamber of Commerce.

That much money must be deposited in a bank before the Professional Golfers' Association will assign a date for the tournament.

Fred Corcoran, secretary of the tournament, manager of the P. G. A., has offered local sponsors to open to both professionals and amateurs, tentative December or February dates.

Officials of the Sun Carnival Association have objected to the December date on the grounds that it will conflict with the annual Southwest Sun Carnival and Sun Bowl football game.

The proposed tournament would be held during the mid-winter swing which the money golfers make annually from California to Florida.
