RICHARD LECHE INDICTED ON HOT OIL ACT

By United Press
NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 7.—Former Governor Richard W. Leche and three others, high in political circles, today were indicted on charges of conspiracy to violate the Connally hot oil act with conspiracy to defraud the U. S.

Leeche, the hefty protégé of "Kingfish" Huey Long, and the others were charged with conspiracy to defraud the government in a $148,000 commission deal in November and December of 1936.

Those indicted with him on one of three bills returned included Seymour Weiss, former treasurer of the Long organization and President Freeman W. Burford of the East Texas Refining Company at Dallas.

Weiss and Leche were accused of getting $62,000 each out of the deal.

The indictment alleged that the conspiracy included sale of the East Texas pipeline company from which Weiss obtained a $100,000 commission.

In a second indictment today Weiss was charged with income tax evasion on approximately $30,000 in 1936, allegedly including funds from the hot oil transaction.

The third indictment charges Weiss and Louis Lesage, suspended former assistant to the president of the Standard Oil Company of Louisiana in conspiracy in evading tax payments on Weiss' income.

Also named in the hot oil indictment, but not indicted, was Attorney General Martin Winfrey, Dallas, of the East Texas company.

DISMISSAL OF WPA EMPLOYEES NOW RESUMED

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—WPA and state officials today resumed the task of ordering gradual dismissal of 650,000 persons who have been on WPA rolls for 18 months consecutively or more.

Street Dance In Ranger Was A Big Success

Ranger's first free street dance Saturday night attracted one of the largest crowds seen in the city for several years, according to announcement made by those sponsoring the affair, and the public was delighted with the manner in which it was staged. The next dance will be held on Saturday night two weeks hence and will be handled in a like manner.

String bands are invited to participate in the coming dances and as many bands as will come will be given an opportunity to play several numbers for the affair.

Both old and new dances were given Saturday night with the NYA orchestra furnishing the music assisted by Lemma's loud speaking equipment.

Those sponsoring future dances in Ranger announced today that in the future no negroes or Mexicans will be permitted to take part in the main event, while it may be arranged to let them have a part after the main dance is over.

"It was a grand success," said several who witnessed the event, and the only criticism that we saw or heard was that sometimes there was too much talking and noise by spectators which made it hard for the dancers to get the time of the music. However, this did not bother a great deal and the next dance will be handled in a much smoother manner.

One square dance was held during the evening, in which two teams participated, one called by E. F. Arterburn of Ranger and the other by "Red" Beavers of Strawn. The Schottische and heel and toe polka were also danced.

This was the first attempt for Ranger to give a dance of this kind and it has been voted by the Chamber of Commerce to stage a dance twice each month or every other Saturday night. String bands are invited to get in touch with officials sponsoring the dances so they can be given a place on the future programs.

The committee thanks all who helped stage the dance.

Johnny Boyd, night policeman and M. M. Scott, sergeant of the Ranger police department, were painfully injured early Sunday morning when they answered a call at Alex's place on Strawn highway where it was reported a tourist had been robbed of several suitcases.

Boyd stopped the car on the right side of the road and both officers were looking toward the man with the suitcase when a car driven by G. F. Ratliff of Frankel coming toward Ranger struck the parked car of the officers, badly damaging the city car. MAYOR HALL WALKER WILL HEAD RANGER DELEGATION ON FORT WORTH VISIT TUESDAY

Mayor Hall Walker will head a delegation of 100 Ranger citizens that will leave tomorrow afternoon for Fort Worth where they will participate in Ranger night at Casa Manana. It is very urgent that all who anticipate making the trip see P. E. Moore, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce early Tuesday morning so as to make arrangements for their tickets and other events for the Ranger night.

It is hoped, said those sponsoring the trip Tuesday, that Ranger will turn out in large numbers for this occasion as they will be met on the outskirts of the city and escorted to the Casa Manana where they will be recognized and registered.

Ranger will receive much publicity on a trip of this kind, said one member of the Chamber of Commerce, because we hope to get it over to Fort Worth that we are still one of the liveliest towns in West Texas, that we are going to have one of the best rodeos and reunions ever held in these parts and that we want Fort Worth to come and be our guests for the affair to be held in September. So let everyone who can possibly do so get in touch with Moore and make arrangements to attend and also those who have a car will make arrangements to take someone that may not have a way to go.

The program as outlined so far will be the parade into Fort Worth, registering and introduction of Mayor Walker who will introduce Miss Dorothy Henry, popular young Ranger Miss, who is a member of the Casa Manana review who will have a part on the program furnished by Ranger.

Let's all make plans to go to Fort Worth on Tuesday and advertise Ranger and tell the people of West Texas about the big rodeo, reunion and free street dance to be held in Ranger on Labor Day.

'Curfew Must Not Ring Tonight'

Somehow it comes as a shock to learn that an old, old lady out in San Diego who has just died was the author of "Curfew Must Not Ring Tonight."

A whole generation has come to regard that phrase as a sort of joke to be flipped off all by itself, without realizing that it was the title and punch line of one of the most famous poems ever written.

"Wild her eyes and pale her features" as Bessie realized that "at the ringing of the curfew, Basil Underwood must die." A whole generation thrilled at the rhythmic description of how Bessie climbed the rickety ladder to the belfry, and then, as the hour approached, "Shay she let it ring? No, never! flash her eyes with sudden light, as she springs and grasps it firmly—Curfew shall not ring tonight!"

They remember the picture of Bessie, hanging firmly to the clapper of the bell as it swung "there 'twixt heaven and earth suspended." And they sighed with relief when assured that curfew not having rung, Cromwell arrived and pardoned Bessie's Basil Underwood.

"In his brave, strong arms he clasped her, kissed the face upturned and white, whispered, 'Darling, you have saved me,—curfew will not ring tonight!'"

Of course it is all incredibly hammy today, so definitely of a past era that it seems incredible that Rose Hartwick Thorpe, who wrote it as a schoolgirl, should have lived until July, 1939, a venerable lady of 89.

Yet, long as she lived, her poem, written 75 years ago, has outlived her and lives on. It has become one of those classics, like "The Face Upon the Floor," which keep recurring in anthologies and collections with peculiar power and persistence, because in them is a simplicity and an innocence that is also in every man and woman. It gets covered with a glaze of sophistication of various thicknesses in various people, but it is there.

Just as people laugh today at the simple moralities of the McGuffey Readers because they are crudely expressed, so they laugh at the melodramas and melodramatic poetry of yesterday. But the melodrama still exists, and the McGuffey moral principles persist in popping up right into our faces no matter how we try to laugh them off.

We do not so much change the old and simple truths as to dress them in new garb and present as great new truths things that grandfather knew all the time.

One thing men will never be able to figure out is why they can listen to summer symphonies in their shirt sleeves, yet have to dress formal for the same music in the winter.

Hitler's new airplane has a conference room in it. Here, undoubtedly, Der Fuehrer will often get Europe up in the air.

Public Views Toys and Playroom Of British Princesses' In Infancy

By United Press
LONDON.—Princess Margaret Rose used the same plain bassinet cot, with a white-painted iron frame, that held Princess Elizabeth in her infancy.
This cot, their babyhood playthings and the bathroom they used, with its large old-fashioned porcelain bath and wash-basin, are among the things surrounding their early childhood which can now be seen by the public at their old home at 145 Piccadilly.

An exhibition of royal and historic treasures, in the house where the king and queen and the little princesses lived before Edward VIII abdicated has been placed on view, where the public can see it until Sept. 29. Proceeds from the admission will go to the Heritage Craft Schools, at Chislely, Sussex.

Virtually all of the rooms used by the family before it moved to Buckingham Palace are on view. Other members of the royal family lent objects of interest, and the whole exhibition has been insured for 1,000,000 pounds.
The center of interest for most visitors is the suite on the second floor occupied by the princesses. There they can see the old playroom and Princess Margaret's tiny bedroom. Both rooms overlook Piccadilly, and double windows deaden the noise of traffic outside. Stout iron bars were placed across the windows for safety. From Princess Elizabeth's bedroom a bay window overlooks the garden at the back. The walls of the suite were decorated with plain gray-green wallpaper and the woodwork was cream colored.

The center of Princess Elizabeth's room has been filled with the favorite toys of the two children.
Pat, a sturdy little boy doll wearing a yellow jersey and breeches, is said to have been the favorite of the royal dolls. Another, rivaling Pat in the princesses' esteem, was a doll dressed in a Welsh costume, which was carefully inspected by David Lloyd George before it was given to the children, so that the details are perfect.

There is the furniture which the princesses used when they gave their dolls tea parties, a wooden doll cradle made for them by members of the crew of the yacht Victoria and Albert, and an old Victorian watch which Elizabeth played with until it was broken.
The princesses' cot stands in the center of the toys.

A Vermont woman cast her first vote at 99. Wonder if it will be that long before our present-day youngsters start exercising their privilege.

LAST RAIL GAP IN SOUTHWEST TO BE CLOSED

JUAREZ, Mexico.—A direct freight route between Mexico's West Coast and Kansas City, Mo., plotted 38 years ago by a railroad builder who saw his dreams shattered by Pancho Villa, is being completed by the Mexican government.

One of the last major railroad construction projects on the North American continent, the enterprise, sponsored by the Mexican department of communications, will complete the Kansas City, Mexico & Orient Railroad, that was planned in 1901 by the late Arthur E. Stilwell, the Kansas City empire builder and financier.
Laying of rails for 192 miles across the mountains in the states of Chihuahua and Sinaloa will close the gap and will give the K. C. M. & O. a direct Pacific Ocean Outlet at Topolobampo, Sinaloa, 1,200 miles south of San Francisco. Connecting with the Mexico Northwestern Railway at Minaca, 85 miles west of Chihuahua City, the new route will furnish direct freight connections with Midwest United States through El Paso, Tex., and Presidio, Texas.

The gap will be closed between Cancheh, in the state of Chihuahua and San Pedro, in the state of Sinaloa. Actual construction work on the project is expected to start within a few months. Surveying is being done by S. M. Koefoed, engineer for the Danish firm the Danesa Christiania and Nielsen Construction Company of Copenhagen, and Cayetano Lugo of the department of communications.

Completion of the project will fulfill a plan proposed one day by Stilwell as he sat in his office in Kansas City in 1901. Placing a ruler on a map, he drew a straight line from Kansas City to Topolobampo, and said:

"I'll build that railroad."
From President Porfirio Diaz of Mexico he obtained not only permission to build the road, but also a Mexican government concession of $5,000 a mile for construction purposes. A Mexican capitalist put up $500,000. Stilwell started work. Pancho Villa was one of his sub-contractors. The road was built west from Minaca in the state of Chihuahua to Sanchez, 74 miles. Work simultaneously was done by another line pushed from Topolobampo 78 miles to San Pedro.

But the Villa revolution broke out, and Villa, who had been gored because he never got into Stilwell's private revenge against his employer and threw the country into receivership. Work stopped. Villa also wrecked a mile of which Stilwell was president.

Shortly afterward, Stilwell was in New York when an elevator accident injured him permanently and as an invalid he was forced to withdraw from looking to completion of his dream. The stretch of line from Wichita, Kan., to Santa Fe Railroad was purchased the line in 1928 for 2,000,000. The Mexican government project continued to be as best it could.

Mexico City officials estimated that completion of Stilwell's dream will cost approximately 20,000,000 pesos ($4,000,000).

SERIAL STORY

WAR AND A WOMAN

BY BETTY WALLACE

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, Linda arrives home and her father still alive, who never writes that her wedding has been postponed. Jimmy has been ordered to sea.

CHAPTER X
THERE was more to Marcia's letter, but Linda's eyes stopped reading at the line which said, "Jimmy was ordered to sea Wednesday." For she knew, as surely as if Jimmy himself were standing here, telling her, that this unexpected transfer was something he had somehow engineered himself.

you Baker's Tiberius Caesar. That always takes your mind off our times. "It happens to be our times exactly! Dictators, Julius Caesar was the first dictator, and why can't they remember what happened to him and to the empire he built up?"

SHE was half way to the door. "Linda," he called. "Don't bother about the book." His wide old eyes probed into hers. "I may be sick, but I'm not blind yet. Something's the matter with you. You've lost your bloom. You're not happy."

fine and straightforward and trusting. Surely, no girl had ever betrayed a friend so basely as she was betraying Marcia! She must write Jimmy right away. "DON'T COME." But she didn't know exactly where in Washington he was. Her hands fell uselessly to her.

SAFE behind her own locked door, Linda smooched out Jimmy's wire again. It had been sent from Washington, D. C. It said, FLYING TO QUEENSVILLE TOMORROW MUST SEE YOU. WILL BE LEAVING TUESDAY TO REPORT FOR DUTY ABOARD RANGER LOVE.

Bull Nettle May Be Aid to Beauty for Nation's Women

DENTON, Tex.—The provoking bull nettle of the pastures and fields which has caused many a fine man to "lose his religion" and many a dainty girl to forget her gracefulness and poise, is likely to be the determining factor in nation-wide courtships and marriages if the "honeymoon" complexion still continues to be cupid's gift to women.

A new starch from bull nettle has been discovered in the chemical laboratories of the North Texas State Teachers College recently which is, according to Gilbert C. Wilson, chemurgic instructor, far superior to the sago palm and rice starch that are widely used as a base in the manufacture of talcum and face powders. This starch, which comes from the potato-like root of the bull nettle, is advantageous because of its fine cellulose starch content which keeps it from caking on the skin, Wilson explained.

The long strong fibers of the bull nettle root and stem, Wilson said, has already been made into a good plastic by his students, and its possibilities for rope-making will be tested soon.

Other experiments in the chemurgic laboratories have brought about the discovery of a new type of plastic from the bark of the common willow tree. This plastic may be of commercial use in the manufacture of furniture, Wilson said, since it takes a brilliant pol-

WASHINGTON.—The most interesting thing that has happened to Harry Bridges, lately, is the opinion of people at the the capital who keep tabs on the fiery west coast labor leader, is not the deportation proceedings now being prosecuted against him, but the action of an arbitrator in slapping down his longshoremen's union for refusing to pass a Los Angeles harbor picket line.

The glories of the old XIT ranch were the main topics of conversations today as veterans of its range assembled in the streets of Dalhart.

Detectives along Davis' honeymoon. After couple wed.

By United Press
NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Dixie Schultz, attorney for the Dutch Davis mob, and Hope Darv, his sweetheart of years standing, were on a honeymoon today—under the eyes of two detectives.

The underworld is known to desire Davis' demise. He apparently is engaged in revealing every secret he knows, and it was his testimony which convicted Tammany Leader James Hines of protecting the Schultz racket.

Detectives also suspect that Miss Darv might be slain, too. She persuaded Davis to "come clean" with the law.

They were married yesterday.

MEN OF FEATHERS FLOCK TOGETHER WITH THOUSANDS OF PRIZE BIRDS AT SEVENTH WORLD POULTRY CONGRESS IN CLEVELAND

BY J. H. SMITH
SEA Service Staff Correspondent
CLEVELAND — International seafarers are leaving over the back fences and chatting about their chickens here. Poultrymen, at least, have forgotten racial differences to exchange business suggestions and ideas.

The "ambassadors" who brought the boys together wear feathers instead of frock coats. They're prize poultry—chickens, geese, ducks, turkeys, pigeons—participants in the World Poultry Congress, being held in the United States for the first time.

This show comes off only once every three years. So, when it comes, it's big. The 1934 congress is the seventh in history; it cost a million dollars, covers 20 acres on the shores of Lake Erie.

Six foreign nations provide the main side-show attraction—an exhibit of 700 rare birds in the Hall of Live Poultry, a regular Bronx Zoo of poultrydom.

DUTCH DUCKS
FRENCH FEATHERS
HOLLAND brings the ducks; bantam Quakers, smallest of the species, valued at $100 a specimen. The Dutch also present a Golden Lacred Crested rooster with blue shanks and a full, high crown of feathers.

The Salmon Favorelle chicken of France wears a natural muff around its neck and sports a beard—of feathers. Great Britain and Canada have sent "delegates."

The majestic Cuhalaya, national breed of Cuba, whose feature is a coat of many shiny colors, is on display.

Mussolini's Italy provides a surprise in a large array of pigeons. Particularly the white Romagnoli which looks just like that dove you see flitting about in the peace posters. One of the show's beauties, the Romagnoli sets off its attractiveness with cute, feathered feet.

Italy's 137 birds are supervised by Dr. Alessandro Ghigi, noted scientist and president of the University of Bologna. Ghigi has developed many kinds of fowl, including the Ghigi Bantam chicken—a cocky little mite with a gray speckled body and tufted head. Banty is attending the congress, too.

Strange as it may seem, a great number of these odd and fancy breeds are not raised, like race horses, purely for show. Such outstanding examples as congress visitors see won't get the ax, but

"With most of these men it's a business," says Dr. Willard C. Thompson of Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N. J., who has charge of the international live bird exhibit. "The strange Salmon Favorelle, for instance, is used to supply high quality table meat for the Paris market."

MINUS HER GIZZARD
America has a few fowl freaks—like Lady Lime Crest, chicken, without a gizzard, who was flown from New Jersey to Cleveland in an airplane. This hen is living without grit after her gizzard was experimentally removed.

Primarily, however, the rules of 5000 American birds at the congress are as entries in contests. Harry Atkins of Davenport, Ia., president of the American Poultry Association, has charge of the competitive program. First prizes are bronze medals—but they are more cherished than cash by the fortunate farmers.

Poultry experts have come from abroad to give free advice to Mr. John Farmer of the U. S. Dr. Ghigi is one. Dr. Karl Vetter of Berlin, agricultural official in the Nazi government and head of the World's Poultry Science Association, is another. Madame Grovies of France, noted woman poultry raiser, is still another.

Acc United States representative is Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, who is president of the congress this year.

The congress is a stunt of the World's Poultry Science Association, with headquarters in Holland. This organization has 600,000 members throughout the world.

Government officials of the host nation must issue an invitation to the association. When this has been accepted, cities in that country bid for the convention. The first congress was held at The Hague, Netherlands, 18 years ago.

THE congress closes its 11-day 22,000 EGGS 500,000 GUESTS; stand on Aug. 7. Before that date, almost a half million visitors will have passed through the turnstiles. They will have had a look at some 15,000 fowl, viewed educational exhibits.

Representatives of the poultry game will have seen displays of modern equipment and supplies for their business. They will have attended short course meetings in Cleveland's auditorium where hatchery men, processor and purveyor get together to swap suggestions.

Farm youngsters from all sections of the United States will have participated in a youth program, designed to instruct youngsters in poultry raising, poultry judging, and proper use of poultry products.

And about 22,000 eggs will have been laid. But the "hen fruit" won't get far from the exposition grounds. The common, breakfast variety will be used in a transparent kitchen, where home economic stars will show customers how poultry and its by-products can be used in many different ways.

The rest—those eggs from rare breeds—will be destroyed. The owners don't want "back yard poultrymen" trying to see what they can hatch out of them.

Head of Holland's Golden Lacred Crested appears proud of his fancy crest.

Italian good will ambassador: Romagnoli pigeon makes friends with American, Rita Kolron.

Solemn Dutch duck. This Quaker is one of smallest and rarest of duck family. Color of body is pure white. Bird is valued at least $100.
