This Pudding, Too, Will Depend on the Taste

By next January, we will know. The president's plan for a huge spending program has been rejected by a Congress which believes it correctly understands that the people of the country demand a brake on spending.

Of course, this same Congress pushed farm appropriations to a new high. And the deficit for the current year will probably be tops. Nevertheless the principle has been established. Those who have felt that Congress should reassert itself, and halt the presidential philosophy of pump-priming as such, have had their way.

Business has been forging its way gradually upward throughout the year, and up to the time of the congressional checkmate, had been making steady progress toward a level that promised a year perhaps 70 per cent above 1938.

Those who have been demanding encouragement to business in the form of some sort of brakes on the spending program, some sort of rebuke to the New Deal attitude toward business recovery, have had it. The pudding for this year has been cooked.

How will it taste? That will be the proof of the pudding.

Will the budding business revival continue? Will the slowly-increasing employment rolls and the slowly declining unemployment list absorb those who have been taken off WPA? Will timid capital, encouraged at last by having gotten what it wanted in the form of a "turn of the spending tide," now rush into the breach? Will people furloughed and otherwise removed from WPA rolls make the expected effort to get jobs, and will there be any jobs for them to get?

All economists agree that at least a billion dollars in savings awaits immediate productive investment. We used to invest around eight billions a year, including refundings. Recently it has been nearer three. The money is there. Congress has gone to some lengths to create the mood and the opportunity.

Next January, Congress will be back. They will have heard, in the meantime, from their constituents back home. They will have seen at first hand the results of the new policy. They will have sampled the pudding.

And on the taste of it will rest the proof, and the recipe for the kind of a pudding which Congress will be most likely to start cooking next January. If the retrenchment pudding tastes good, the congressional cooks may feel justified in assuming that the country likes it and wants more of the same. If not, Chief Roosevelt may again be asked to provide the recipe which was rejected this year. The proof of this pudding, like that of all puddings, will be in the eating.

Television Type: Girl and Makeup

As camera sees it, this makeup makes Joan O'Donnell look more like a circus clown than the attractive girl she is. Not so, however, as television receiver sees it. Color contrast, pronounced lines are necessary to make Joan transmit prettily. Max Factor, Hollywood makeup expert, says Joan has "perfect television face."

Fall gardens need commercial fertilizer to stimulate quick growth, because of the relative slowness with which the plant food elements are made soluble in this season of comparative inactivity of the soil bacteria.

Lay off wide rows. Don't make the mistake of making the rows too close together. Have them wide enough apart so that the gentle mule or horse can be used for plowing the garden later when ever necessary.

Open the ditches. Be sure that all the ditches are open so that this winter the water will not stand and water-log the soil, preventing the growth and development of your vegetables.

Protect from heat. Protection from the burning rays of the sun will stimulate growth in the plants. For starting the slow maturing vegetables, such as tomatoes, peppers and cabbage, artificial shade may be provided by driving a few stakes into the ground, connecting those with hay wire, and spreading out or bran sacks over the top. If sacks are not available, cut small branches off of trees with the leaves on and place over the framework. The cover should be 3 to 4 feet from the ground.

Have plenty of seed. It is advisable to secure one-fourth more seed for the fall garden than for the spring garden, since germination of the seed at the fall season is poor, consequently an extra quantity of seed will be necessary to secure a good stand.

Stimulate germination. Seed with a hard seed coat, such as spinach, should be soaked in warm water overnight before planting. To encourage sprouting, seed potatoes may be treated with a pint of ethylene chlorhydrin to 4 gallons of water. This solution is enough to treat 5 bushels of potatoes. Cut the seed in the usual way, about 8 hours before planting. Even small potatoes should be cut on one side. Dip the seed in the solution and place into a barrel or tight box and cover for 8 hours, plant immediately.

Suggested vegetables for the fall garden: Irish potatoes, turnips, carrots, Danvers Half Long; beets, Detroit Dark Red; Swiss chard; pinto beans, onion sets, endive; mustard, Giant Southern Curled; cabbage, Al Head or Copenhagen Market.

The frame garden may be more in line with what you want for this time of year. This can be from 12 feet long to the length you want for your family and the small space can be irrigated when the large garden cannot. Those interested in frame gardens can get more information from the office of the county home demonstration agent either by writing or calling for the information.

Remove the weeds. If they are merely turned under, moulding and heating takes place which dries out the topsoil and prevents through cultivation.

Plow shallow. The soil should be plowed shallow to a depth of four or five inches.

Apply fertilizer. In most barn lots during August or September you will find a thick layer of trampled manure that has dried out. This material is largely a mass of vegetation fiber, thus has lost the acid that burns plants. After plowing the garden, spread a coating 1 to 3 inches thick of this "summer manure" from the barn lot. Then rebreak or disk and harrow until it is well mixed into the soil. This spongy material will greatly increase the water holding capacity of the soil and prevent packing. For a one-half acre garden, especially where the soil is inclined to be cloddy, 10 to 12 loads of barnyard manure is not too much. If manure is not available those who live in wooded areas may secure leaf mould, add it at the same rate and secure good results. In sandy soils a 4-12-6 commercial fertilizer may be applied at the rate of 3 to 4 pounds to reach 100 feet of 100.

THIN BLUE LINE FORMS AUG. 27 IN PITTSBURGH

PITTSBURGH.—The thinned ranks of the "Boys in Blue" will rally once again to swap tales of Gettysburg, Chickamauga, Appomattox and the days of 1861 at the annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic here Aug. 27.

Fewer than 400 Union veterans of the Civil War are expected to answer the call, but joint sessions of five affiliated patriotic organizations will swell the ranks of the visitors to an expected 10,000.

Of the regiments which marched for the Union nearly three-quarters of a century ago, only 3,616 were living on June 1, according to veterans pension bureau figures with the number being decreased by death at the rate of 100 to 150 a month.

Led by Commander-in-Chief Robert M. Rownd, 94, of Brooklyn, N. Y., the little band of survivors will assemble round the stacked arms, knapsack and canteen, symbol of the G. A. R., to participate in memorial services for their dead companions.

Joining in the ceremonies will be delegates of the Women's Relief Corps, Sons of Union Veterans, Auxiliary of the Sons of Union Veterans, Ladies of the G. A. R., and Daughters of Union Veterans.

When the old veterans parade in review, they will join forces with the mobilized Pennsylvania National Guard, units of the U. S. Naval Reserve, a detachment of the crack 12th infantry of the U. S. Army, the U. S. Marine band, delegates of their affiliated organizations and all veterans groups.

Convention headquarters reported that plans to provide transportation for the G. A. R. men had met with vigorous opposition from members, who declared, "We will

Marital Woes Beset Actress

Mrs. Evelyn Burd DeHaven, musical comedy actress, seeks a restraining order to prevent husband, Carter DeHaven, noted actor, from molesting her. Couple recently ended 10 years of marriage in separation.

Typical spirit of the old soldiers was revealed in a letter to headquarters from R. H. Shifflett, Long Beach, Cal., veteran, who told of saving the dollars from his pension that he might travel to Pittsburgh for "my last encampment."

Pupils to Stage Pageant Pittsburgh school children, numbering more than 10,000, will present a pageant honoring the city's guests.

Among the affairs which the veterans will discuss in their business sessions is the "teapot temper" over the ownership of a relic cannon, reportedly recovered from the wreckage of the Confederate Merrimac, first iron-clad warship.

The cannon, bearing the markings of a No. IX Dahlgren and said to have been identified as one of the six cannon recovered from the ship, was found in unused lot near Pittsburgh's armory. School officials, who control the armory, refused which desired to mount it memorial.

Outdoes Famed 'One-Eye' May Get Police

HOUSTON, Tex.—It does look like they are going to be able to keep 25-year-old Paul Chwastek, who "crashed" recent police school and graduated with honors, from being a gunman.

Seventy-six rookies were registered at the training school conducted by the Houston police department. One registrant failed to appear, and Chwastek's presence was not discovered until a course was half over and he was high up on the list of students.

The directors decided that he ought to be able to continue the course, and his name was placed on the eligibility list for when Chwastek lost his job at an oil-chinery factory in April, and decided to become a patrolman, he had studied law at night for a year and a half.

"I'm ambitious," he explained after he had graduated from police school with a grade of "A." "Nobody told me to take the police training course. I didn't get up politicians or city or police officials. I kind of figured my own would like to see his dad a policeman when he grows up."

from the ship, was found in unused lot near Pittsburgh's armory. School officials, who control the armory, refused which desired to mount it memorial.

Pittsburgh's Mayor Cornelius Scully entered the argument with a demand that "something be done" about the gun, but still rests in the field where it was discovered. The veterans were expected to demand reclamation of the relic.

MORE LIGHT for your money

Light is one of the smallest items in the cost of living, and is one cost that has greatly decreased.

There are two reasons why you get so much more light for your money. First, electric rates have gone steadily downward. You now get much more electricity for your money. Second, electric lamp bulbs are cheaper. Yet they turn out 4 times more light with the same amount of electricity.

Since Light is so inexpensive, use plenty of light in your home to make seeing easier and to eliminate unnecessary eye fatigue caused by poor light.

A company representative will be glad to discuss with you any lighting problem and aid you to get the fullest value from your lighting.

Hints On Fall Gardens Given

The following hints on fall gardens, are given by Ruth Ramey, county home agent:

As a factor for health and a factor in reducing the grocery bill, the fall garden presents a strong appeal. The successful production of fall vegetables usually depends upon how well the soil has been prepared and if the moisture supply is adequate. If the soil moisture is adequate, the fall garden should be a continuation of the summer garden. However, in the late summer the moisture is usually limited, and the garden spot must be prepared as to hold all moisture possible.

Remove the weeds. If they are merely turned under, moulding and heating takes place which dries out the topsoil and prevents through cultivation.

Plow shallow. The soil should be plowed shallow to a depth of four or five inches.

Apply fertilizer. In most barn lots during August or September you will find a thick layer of trampled manure that has dried out. Tarrant Youth Watched By Law On Burglary Try

PORT WORTH, TEXAS.—Discrimination certainly was not the guide for the 10-year-old boy who broke open and entered a store within sight of the Tarrant County Criminal Courts building.

At least a dozen persons in the criminal courts building watched him as he forced open a rear door, entered the store, and carried out two armloads of articles. Among the spectators was Ike

SERIAL STORY Murder on the Boardwalk BY ELINORE COWAN STONE

Yesterday When Christine arrived in Surf City to visit her cousin Emma, she found her cousin's room disconnected. The telephone operator said, mysteriously, "if her sister's any trouble, you're to call 2078."

Illustration by E. H. Gunder Christine looked up at the neat little man who had admired her sketch. "I need an artist to do portraits at my Boardwalk concession," he said. "Would you consider taking the position?"

CHAPTER II I WAS to tell you to get a room at the Crestview, and— abruptly the agitated voice at the other end of the line broke off. Then the girl spoke again, it was with the studied impersonality of the regimented operator: "I am sorry. Your party does not answer."

Now, after the extravagance of a night at the most "respectable" hotel in Surf City, she would barely have enough for a return ticket to New York—and no prospects to speak of after she got back. "Oh, well," Christine told herself, "Cousin Emma must have made some arrangement for me. I'll hear from her tomorrow."

heavy gloves and a pair of homemade tongs. He looks particularly for rock ledges or crevices, for it is there that the snakes come out to lie in the sun.

Spotting a basking snake, or sometimes an entire family, he moves cautiously ahead. With the tongs he seizes a rattler just back of the head, snips out the poisonous fangs while it throbs madly about and maneuvers it into the sack.

"The snakes won't bite through the sack because they are all tangled up and confused," Kersten explained.

He often keeps them on his farm for a bounty. He has collected as much as $700 a year in this manner.

In captivity the snakes refuse to eat, sometimes existing for four or five months without food.

Kersten kept no record of how many snakes he has captured, but estimates the number to be in the thousands.

McGREGOR, Ia.—Seven years of hunting snakes during which he has caught as many as 100 a day, have taught Larry Kersten of McGregor that most popular beliefs about rattlesnakes are fallacies.

One such notion blasted by Kersten is that a rattler's age can be told by the number of buttons on the rattle.

The truth is, according to the reptile hunter, that rattlers grow a button every time they shed their skins and that is two or three times a year. Moreover, the buttons sometimes are lost.

Kersten just laughs at the belief that a rattler won't strike unless coiled.

"The fact is," he said, "the snake assumes the shape of a letter S, then straightens out when it strikes."

Kersten began hunting snakes after an itinerant catcher who makes a profession of taking rattlesnakes alive for zoos, gave him a few pointers.

Truck Drivers Do Not Think Much Of Other Drivers

CHICAGO—The truck driver, Mr. and Mrs. Private Driver, don't think much of your ability to pilot an automobile safely!

For years you've called this same truck driver a road hog or worse and screamed that there ought to be a law to keep trucks off the road.

But times have changed. And the National Safety Council today announced results of studies that show the commercial vehicle driver has greatly improved his safety record in recent years, while that of private car driver has become worse.

Since 1927 the number of trucks involved in fatal accidents has decreased 29 per cent. The number of buses involved in fatal accidents has dropped 41 per cent during the same period.

But the number of passenger cars involved in fatal accidents since 1927 has increased 21 per cent!

Is it any wonder, then, that the truck and bus driver feel they are entitled to toss back a few opinions of their own at the private driver?

"There are a number of reasons why the average commercial vehicle driver is a safe driver," says James G. Hayden, commercial fleet engineer for the National Safety Council. Foremost among the reasons listed by Mr. Hayden are that the commercial driver makes his living behind the wheel. He's at it an average of eight hours a day and the very volume of his experience pounds home the need for safety in his driving habits.
