SERIAL STORY

5 WOULD KILL

BY TOM HORNER

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, Arnold Benthorne... A whistle shrilled through the night.

Di Torio stopped, glanced at his watch.

Illustrations by Ed Gauder.

CHAPTER II HUDDLED against the gatepost, Patrolman Flynn had not missed the sliver of light that filtered through the rain as Arnold Benthorne peered out into the storm.

A TAXICAB slid to a stop at the curb. The door opened and a young man's head emerged.

Flynn turned. "What do you want, at this time of the night? If you're drunk, you're disorderly and I'll—"

"It's not drunk I am, officer. We're looking for a minister. We want to get married."

"That's right, officer," the taxi driver put in. "There used to be a minister lived around here someplace. These kids—"

"These idiots!" Officer Flynn retorted. "Here, let's have a look at you." His flashlight sent a beam through the darkness to show the laughing face of a youth peering out the cab door.

"You've an honest face," Officer Flynn conceded grudgingly. "And I'll wild look in your eyes explains why you'd be getting yourself married on a night like this."

"But where's the girl that'd be marrying the likes of you?" His flashlight swept the interior of the cab.

Huddled in the corner was the girl. She was small, dark of hair, dark of complexion. It was her eyes that Officer Flynn remembered best, later in the night.

"Smoky, they were, sir," he reported. "Just like little live coals with a wisp of smoke coming from them."

"Can't you wait to be married in the morning, like decent folks?" Flynn growled at her, but his tone belied his anger.

"It's his idea, not mine!" the girl answered from her corner.

Flynn turned back to the young man. "It's a surly wife you're picking, if I may say so, lad. But then my own is no angel. Now what are your names?"

"Do you have to know that, officer?" the youth asked. "After all, we've committed no crime, just asking your help in finding a minister."

"Anyone that stops in front of Arnold Benthorne's house tonight has to give his name. Captain's orders. Come on, now tell me who you are."

"If you're going to write down our names, you'd better step into the cab, sir," the youth suggested.

"Here, climb in. I'll stand out on the curb. I'll turn on the light for you."

Flynn pulled his notebook out of a raincoat pocket, leaned, wet and dripping, into the cab. In the light the girl was even prettier. She pulled her slicker closer about her, turned her face to the darkness.

"Now your name, son?" "John Douglas," came the voice behind him.

"And yours," Flynn nodded toward the girl. Her answer was softly spoken, so softly Flynn hardly heard.

"Ara Johnson," she said softly to herself, "comes the payoff."

He walked out the door, into the clamor and din of night club gaiety. An orchestra blared from across the dance floor, and a throaty-voiced contralto mourned an unfaithful lover.

"Get Pete here," Joey ordered. He turned to a noisy table.

"Le Marge, 'o Dave." A wave encompassed the others. "Getting off to a late start. Past midnight, Dave, and you're still on your feet—"

"Been here almost two hours—only six drinks, and still can dance." Dave laughed. "What'ya doing, Joey, cutting your whiskey now?"

"Takes champagne to get you going, Dave." And as Pete touched his elbow, "Pete, champagne for Dave's crowd, on me." They all cheered and whooped after him as he walked away.

"I'll be back in an hour, Pete," he added in a lower tone. "It's after midnight now." Joey pulled his wrist in front of him, made sure Pete saw his watch. "Take over." He went out into the rain.

In his car a few minutes later, he stopped under a street light, set the hands of his watch back, exactly one hour.

TO RELIEVE HEADACHE FAST! DEMAND GENUINE BAYER ASPIRIN

BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON—The Townsend old age pension organization is about to begin the most thorough and intensive campaign it has ever undertaken—one which aims directly at the election in 1940 of a President and a Congress pledged to enactment of the eldest of the currently popular back-to-wealth plans.

The campaign begins Nov. 9, when 17 Pennsylvania radio stations will begin a series of two-week Townsend broadcasts. It will not end until the 1940 presidential election is over.

Both the meetings and the broadcasts will be directed at the 1940 campaign; both will seek to strengthen and solidify Townsend strength in every quarter of the state.

In mid-December this whirlwind campaign will recess for the Christmas holidays. Immediately after the first of the year the scene will shift to New York.

Dr. Townsend and Senator Downey will conduct a similar speaking tour throughout the Empire State, while between 25 and 30 New York radio stations will be signed for twice-a-week broadcasts. These broadcasts, as in Pennsylvania, will last until the presidential election has been held.

Since the Senate will be in recess during the winter, the doctor and the senator will hold all of their public meetings on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays.

After the New York campaign is ended, the same things will be done in Ohio. Next the prosperity publicists will visit Illinois. Plans are not yet definite beyond that, but it is learned that the performance is to be repeated in state after state until the election.

The radio angle of the program, of course, cuts squarely across the recently adopted code of the National Association of Broadcasters. Under its rulings stations may not sell time for the presentation of controversial issues.

It is probable that a way out will be found. The code does permit the selling of time during political campaigns for the discussion of "public proposals subject to ballot"—which certainly covers the Townsend plan—and it is likely that it will be ruled that that clause will permit the selling of time in this instance.

The Townsend people are confident that as a result of this campaign they will be able to build up a bloc of anywhere from 6,000,000 to 12,000,000 voters who will apply to all candidates for every national office one simple test: will he vote for the Townsend plan?

This new campaign supplement was launched last summer, after the Townsend plan was voted down in the House of Representatives.

Dr. Townsend and his aides kept a careful check on the way the representatives voted. They immediately organized a number of "flying squadrons" to go into the districts the anti-Townsend Congressmen and do some intensive organizing work.

"Build-Up": Way to Ease Women's Pain

Many weak, run-down women live in a vicious circle. Their under-nourishment often leads to what is called Functional dysmenorrhea and its symptoms—headaches, nervousness, irritability, intermittent cramp-like pains—from which many women suffer. Surest way to break the vicious circle is by building strength and energy, which so many find may be done with the help of CARDUL. It stimulates appetite, aids digestion, and thus helps in the "build-up" of physical resistance. Women also report that, if taken just before and during "the time," CARDUL lessens the pain and discomfort of the period.

IT'S AN OLD American Custom

A little more than three hundred years ago a small group of men... hardy, earnest, God-fearing... finished their harvest and prepared themselves for winter. It was their first harvest in the New World and gratitude was in their hearts.

We of today would see little in their lot to occasion gratitude. Strangers in a strange land... with no luxuries and few comforts, menaced by hostile Indians and food shortage... those Pilgrim Fathers set aside a day of Thanksgiving for the year's blessings. Thus they established a custom that is now older than our Republic... our oldest native holiday.

Momentous changes have come into American life. Growth has built a country which, more than any other in the world, gives its inhabitants soundly sufficient reasons for considering themselves blessed... for returning sincere Thanksgiving.

In the vast and many-sided development that produced modern American life, advertising played its part. It has been a vital ally of industrial growth and production; it has fostered honest dealing, helped to bring many comforts and luxuries within the reach of all; it has been... and is a staunch protector of the buying public.
