Federal Old-Age And Survivor's Insurance Plan

(Editor's Note: The following is another of a series of articles prepared by W. O. King, manager of the Abilene Social Security Board field office, to be published in this paper. The information contained in the series of articles is educational and of interest to the general public. Additional information can be secured by addressing W. O. King, 205 Alexander Building, Abilene, Texas.)

DEFINITION OF AN 'INSURED' WORKER

Under the new old-age and survivors insurance program, monthly benefits are payable to "fully insured" workers. Generally speaking, a "fully insured" worker is one who has worked in covered employment for a number of quarters equal to half the time after 1936 (or after age 21 if that is later) and before he reaches 65 or dies. In any case, a worker must have 6 quarters of coverage; after he has 40 quarters of coverage, he is "fully insured," regardless of his employment thereafter.

Example: Miss Fair, who began working in a store at the age of 20 in 1937, works until she is 31, then marries and quits work. She is fully insured because she worked for at least 40 calendar quarters with wages of at least $50 per quarter.

Here is another illustration: Tom Jones, now age 63, has worked in a mill, off and on, for several years. He continues to work until his death in August 1941. To be fully insured, he must have worked in covered employment for a number of quarters equal to half the time after 1936 and before he dies. From 1937 to 1941 there is a total of 18 quarters in which he could have been employed. If his wage record shows that Tom received at least $50 in each of any 9 calendar quarters (half of 18) he is "fully insured."

Any of the benefits available under the system may be payable with respect to a fully insured worker. This includes his own monthly retirement benefit, supplementary monthly benefits for his aged wife or dependent children, and survivors' benefits for an aged widow, a younger widow with dependent children in her care, and the dependent children themselves; or if there is no widow or children entitled to benefits, aged dependent parents.

NEXT: Benefits For Survivors of "Currently Insured" Workers.

All Demonstration Areas Not Closed In Hunting Season

AUSTIN, Tex.—The false impression that all the game preserve demonstration areas set up in Texas by A. & M. College are closed to hunting still persists, but should be dispelled by the annual report of the College, which shows that of the 23,280 farmers and ranchers who are co-operating only 7,017 do not allow hunting at the present time.

That leaves the land owned by 16,163 co-operators open to sportsmen for controlled hunting and fishing. Hunting should be better on the areas in the demonstration program because landowners are pledged to improve their cover for game birds and animals and to provide proper food.

Best Dressed Girl Plans Dress Shop

AUSTIN, Texas—Here are the rules on dress, girls, as decreed by the University of Texas' best-dressed girl, Helen Draper of Pampa—good looking shoes and hose; a simple dress; a flawless complexion; hair with a sheen.

Miss Draper, member of Alpha Delta Pi, horsewoman, was named by students this week as the campus' best-dressed co-ed. Descendant of Texas ranchers, she chooses simple clothes for school, town, or formal party. She prefers real jewelry to costume, wears hats only when compelled to, and "loves" shoes.

Secretly, she has ambitions to design clothes or own a dress shop with the hope that she may influence women to choose clothes which enhance their appearance in preference to those which are merely fashionable.

Approximately 250 Eastland county youths will be in Fort Worth on Monday to take part in 4-H Day at the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show, it was announced today by extension service agents.

A. C. Pratt, assistant county agent, said that 125 boys' 4-H club members plan to attend and Margaret Blount, assistant county home agent, indicated approximately the same number of girls will attend.

Matters In Suit For Libel Taken Under Advisement

R. W. Patterson, judge of 88th district court, has advised attorneys that he will report his findings Wednesday afternoon on exceptions in a libel suit brought by Thomas L. Blanton.

The court on Monday heard arguments on exceptions of the defendants to Blanton's trial petition and told attorneys at the conclusion of the arguments that he would take the matters under advisement and then report his findings. The time for the report on the court's findings is set for 1:30 p. m. Wednesday.

Trial of the case on its merits is scheduled also to get underway Wednesday afternoon.

In the suit Blanton, former congressman, seeks to recover from Garrett and J. W. Coker, Jr., Garrett's secretary, for alleged libel in a campaign four years ago in which Blanton was defeated by Garrett.

Members of a petit jury who had been notified to report Wednesday for service in the case have been advised not to report. It was indicated, however, that the jurors might be called back later in the week.

Both the congressman and secretary are in Eastland for the trial of the case.

El Paso Takes Stand Against City Bills Unless Authorized

By United Press
EL PASO, Tex.—Hereafter, city employees who make unauthorized purchases will have to foot the bill—the city won't.

Mayor J. E. Anderson made the ruling after traffic captain Mike Snider presented a bill for $165 covering installation of pedestrian lights at a downtown intersection. "We didn't order any walk lights, and we don't want any walk lights," Anderson said. "Before we pay anything like that, it has to be approved by the city council."

The bill was sent back to Captain Snider, who had installed the lights on a trial basis. He thinks the lights are an aid to accident prevention but doesn't know whether to send them back or bear the cost of putting them in himself.

BERNE, Switzerland, Mar. 5.—Switzerland today called out 50,000 men to the colors, as German troops were reported being massed on the Swiss-German frontier.

War Motto Is Now Used By Ladies Of Paris Embroidered On Handbags

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE
United Press Cable Editor

Here is a fashion note from Paris. Women are carrying handbags with the embroidered motto, "Il faut en finir."

The motto is a translation of a sentence spoken by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain early in the war. He said of aggression:

"It's got to stop once and for all."

Another motto used on handbags is, "We will fight to the end and there will be no halting this time."

As the war goes into its seventh month, that is the increasing attitude of Europe, both in the Allied countries and Germany. Summer Welles heard it in Berlin and he is about to hear it in London and Paris.

Welles has been told and will be told that a compromise peace is out of the question. Germany demands the right to keep the European conquests she has made, to recover her colonies, to expand in world trade, and to end British mastery of the seas.

The Allies intend to restore Poland, Czechoslovakia and perhaps Austria (and also Finland) and to prevent German domination of Middle and Eastern Europe. Both sides stoutly proclaim their faith in victory.

As spring nears, talk of a "lightning" war increases. Today's dispatch from Paris even mentions a tentative date, March 15.

Russia Admits She Bombed a Town

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Mar. 5.—The Swedish government issued a statement today, stating that the Russian government had admitted that Soviet fliers had made a mistake and had bombed the village of Fajala, Sweden, last month.

The bombing caused considerable feeling against Russia throughout Sweden, because the village was an unfortified church town and was of no military value.

FINNS STILL HOLD VIIPURI IN SPITE OF ODDS

Finland's forces still cling on at Viipuri, in one of the most surprising defenses of the war, despite the odds thrown in by the Russo-Finnish war by the Finns. How they managed to hold the city against the Russian forces from taking it was still a mystery, and the Finns were still looking for a complete fall of the city, although any hour.

British sources claimed, however, that a Russian attack across the ice of the Gulf of Viipuri from the west had been broken up, though closer to the gates of the city and on the other three sides huge masses of soldiers still were thrown into the attack.

An important victory for Finland was also reported from the sector north of Lake Ladoga where 18,000 were reported killed and several thousand wounded in the past week of fighting.

Finnish losses in the war have been estimated by war correspondents as 18,000 killed, 7,800 wounded and 600 missing or captured by Russians. At the same time Russian losses were estimated at 250,000 killed, wounded and captured.

Death traps have been installed throughout the ruined city of Viipuri, anticipating its fall into the hands of Russian attackers. Bridges and roads have been mined heavily and buildings have been mined with guns which would shoot those who enter them and set off the triggers of especially prepared gun traps.

The London Times, one of England's most conservative newspapers, today published an editorial calling upon Britain to prevent the collapse of Finland, stating that the welfare of the democracies of Europe depend on Finland.

No Arrests Made In Ranger After Four Burglaries

No arrests had been made today in connection with the four burglaries and one attempted burglary in Ranger Saturday night or early Sunday morning, it was stated today by officers who were still investigating the crimes.

It was stated this morning that one safe at the Ranger Post Office, from which the knob had been knocked, had been opened but that the other was still closed and all efforts to open it had failed so far.

In addition to the Ranger Post Office the burglars entered the Ranger Machine Company building and took tools which they used in breaking into the post office, Anderson-Fruet, Inc., where $108 in cash was taken from a safe and into the Sinclair wholesale agency building. Tools taken from the machine shop were found in the post office and other tools taken from the post office were found in the Anderson-Fruet building, indicating that at least three of the burglaries were connected.

TWO ITALIAN COAL VESSELS SEIZED TODAY

LONDON, Mar. 5.—Great Britain moved toward a showdown with Italy today over shipment of coal through Italy to the German Reich.

Two Italian vessels, which left Rotterdam yesterday, loaded with coal from Holland, destined to eventually reach Germany, were seized today by British naval vessels and were taken to a contraband control station.

British authorities admitted that seizure of the two Italian ships, an act which brought vigorous protests from Italy, presented a delicate diplomatic situation in which the future of the British-Italian friendship pact might be involved.

The London Daily Telegraph today commented on the fact that British authorities had considered the possibility that Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy might feel called upon to make a military demonstration against seizure of the coal cargoes.

Britain had previously warned Italy that such shipments would be seized as contraband, and 10 Italian ships were believed to have been ordered out of Rotterdam in an attempt to run the British blockade and to bring the matter to a showdown.

Minister of Economic Blockade Ronald Cross made announcement of the seizure in the house of commons. Previously British high authorities had announced massing of British troops in the Kenya colony near Italian African possessions.

FSA Supervisors Receive Plans In 1940 Operations

Mr. Ita R. Parrish and George I. Lane, home and farm supervisors of the Farm Security Administration program in Eastland county, announced today that they have submitted over 150 farm and home plans to the regional office at Dallas recently.

They explained that they have only submitted plans of persons who have been in the program previously. They are continuing to receive and submit the farm and home plans, covering the coming year.

The plans of the clients in the program are being made with the assistance of the county supervisors. They point out that the FSA is a supervised-lending program.

After the plans are approved in the regional office checks covering the client's need the coming year are mailed to the county office.

Persons in the program this year are being urged to maintain complete farm family record books. The books are being distributed.

Old Newspapers Are Life-Savers

The reporter tears the last sheet of paper out of his typewriter just before his newspaper goes to press and says, "That's that." The circulation man tosses the last bundle on a truck and murmurs, "That's the end of that." You finish reading your home edition, pile it with the rest of the papers on the basement stairs and sigh, "Finished with that one."

But are you? What did you wrap your lunch in today? What did you spread over the floor when you painted the ceiling last night? How did you carry that pair of shoes to the cobbler? What are you using to stuff up that hole in the window until you get around to repairing it?

What would you use for the thousand little things you never think about if it weren't for last week's newspapers?

The average life of your newspaper may be far more fascinating than you imagine. It may take a circuitous route before it gets into the hands of the old-paper dealer. It may participate in the drama of the beginning and the end of life itself.

For example, when someone in the poorer sections of the city calls the Chicago Maternity Center and asks for a doctor to make a delivery, the caller is instructed, among other things, to collect some newspapers. When a physician and his nurse arrive, they spread the papers over the furniture in the expectant mother's room because they are usually the cleanest coverings available.

Surgical instruments are often laid on newspapers just after they have been sterilized. Food is spread out on newspapers just after they have been sterilized. Food is spread out on newspapers at picnics and pantry shelves are sometimes lined with printed sheets. If a rainstorm comes up suddenly, you're as likely as not to whip out the paper you're carrying and save your bonnet from a fatal dousing.

Papers are published to be read, of course. But editors don't mind if you feel like using old copies to paper the kitchen. They don't care what you do with them after you've read them. As a matter of fact, you'd feel pretty lost if you couldn't find a newspaper to wrap up the jar of pickled peaches you're about to send over to grandma.

American clipper planes will not stop off at Bermuda and British censors, who were beginning to enjoy their work, will have to go back to reading the newspapers.

The optimism of spring is definitely in the air. American League managers are already talking of how the Yanks are not going to win the pennant this year.

With the election of Jones, it's a Long cry from the old days in Louisiana.

California telephone operators now answer such questions as what show is playing, will it rain tomorrow and have you got a sister.

Too busy knitting clothes for the 150 children now living in her chateau near Paris to stop even for photographers, screen star Madeleine Carroll is pictured in New York where she recently arrived from France. She will start knitting clubs in America to make clothes for French children.

The public has been extended a cordial invitation to attend any, or all of these services, with both white and colored citizens being welcome to attend.

Progress of Dairy Group Is Observed

A. C. Pratt, assistant county agent, noted today the continued progress of the Eastland County Dairy Jersey Club which was started in 1936.

When started in 1936 the club had nine members who owned nine heifers. Now, there are 40 members of the club who own 100 heifers, all registered.

Newest members of the club are from Morton Valley. Membership in the county club is of youths from each 4-H unit in the county who own registered Jerseys. At Morton Valley in November three heifers were purchased for $125 each. The heifers owned by the Morton Valley youths won first and second in the dairy cattle, two years and over, division at the Cisco Livestock Show last week. The one that won first was also judged grand champion.

In pointing out the work of the members of the county dairy club, Pratt cited an instance where a youth refused an offer of $50 for a calf from a heifer for which less than $100 had been paid.

SERIAL STORY

$15 A WEEK

BY LOUISE HOLMES

COPYRIGHT, 1940, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY, Clara wants to get married, wishes she could find a man like Paul Hayden. She is in a quandary. Ann tells her of her own experience. Paul calls and says he is coming. Mrs. Pringle says Ann not to marry a man who will pull her down to his level. Ann is determined to find her own way to happiness.

CHAPTER XII PAUL called for Ann at 7. He looked extremely well dressed in a stock man at the 10-cent store. There was a definite air about him. His manner of greeting Ann and acknowledging her production to Neddy and Teddy was poised and self-confident. The girls immediately turned on their charms. Clara was arch and coy. The avalanche of attention left Paul untroubled.

Leaving the apartment, they met Florabelle. Dressed entirely in black, she gave the impression of a sophisticated sophisticate. Ann presented Paul to her and her disconcerting eyes changed miraculously. As they went together down the stairs, she made a few throaty comments. At the curb she stepped into a cab. Ann vaguely recalled that a man sat in the cab. They had a blue plate special at the Toddle Shop and went on to the theater. The picture was clever and humorous. Afterward, they sat for an hour in a booth at the drug store. It took that long to really get acquainted.

PAUL began the conversation by saying, "Tell me about you, Ann. You're different. How do you happen to be living in a rooming house with Clara and What's-her-Name and the two jitterbugs?" "Where shall I begin?" Ann asked, enchanted with the pleasantness of sitting in a booth with Paul Hayden. "Begin just anywhere—work forward and back."

"Well—I lived with my mother and father until a year ago when they were killed in a fire—"

"He made a little sound of sympathy in his throat."

"There was no money and I had to work. I've always been able to work. I made a dress for mother when I was 10. It was funny." She smiled to laugh. "I put in my name at an agency and got a job with Mrs. Pringle. I've been terribly lonely—"

She looked down, describing little circles on the table with a straw. In a little rush she continued, "I guess the loneliness made me desperate—I guess that's why I answered a newspaper personal and went to the public library with a gardenia—"

She stopped, her eyes begging him to understand. Suddenly they were both laughing. "Wasn't it crazy?" She sobered. "You weren't very nice to me."

"I should have known that you weren't the regular run—"

"And you had to be cautious—"

"That's about what it amounts to. Honestly, Ann, in spite of your convictions to the contrary I'm not conceeded. Heaven knows I'm nothing to look at and Heaven also knows that I have nothing to offer a girl."

"You said it the other night. They want to get married."

"That's it—and they don't care what they marry. What's the big idea? Have you been able to figure it out?"

"Not exactly. I tried to sound Clara out last night. It's something like this. The girls we know, the 10-cent store and bargain basement and elevator girls, the cashiers and waitresses, all those within the limits of a certain income, seem to live by a set rule."

"Yes," he said, watching her interestedly.

"They go to school as long as the law demands. They get a job, any job. They marry and keep on at the job. They have no ambition to better themselves, they ask for no pity. That's the thing that astounds me, they are perfectly satisfied."

"It must be fine to be satisfied," he mused. "It would save such a lot of wear and tear on the old nervous system."

"In a way I admire them," she went on thoughtfully. "Us, I suppose I should say. We are a thin layer just under the middle class. We are hard working, we are not dependent on any kind of charity. We make our little way and carry our own loads. It's something, isn't it?"

He nodded. "But not enough."

"With a college education—"

"Ann, college graduates are filling gas tanks—it's as common to have a diploma as it is to have your tonsils out. I may just as well discount my larnin'!" He laughed on a note of bitterness.

"I don't feel that way," she argued. "I think everything we know is just so much to the good. My education was sketchy enough, goodness knows. I finally got through high school by fits and starts. But I learned other things. My father was a great student of human psychology, that's how he made what he laughingly called his living."

"A professor?"

"Perish the thought. He was a gambler and a gambler must know how to outsmart the other fellow. He taught me French and a little music. I know how to dance and skate and ride and ski. I also play an elegant game of poker." She laughed at her accomplishments.

"You're a strange girl." Not once did he take his eyes from her vividly lovely face. When she said nothing, he continued. "Can we be friends, Ann?"

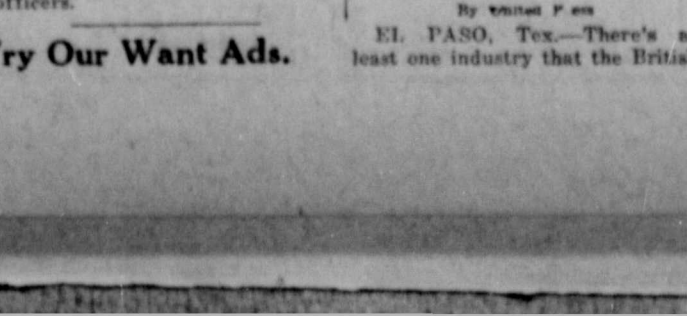

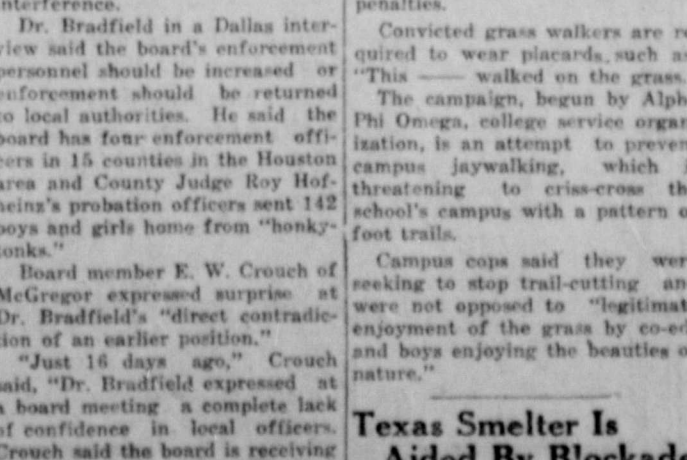

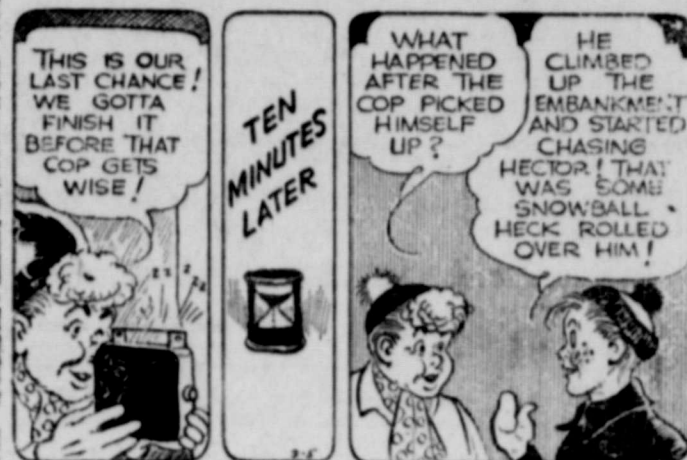

"I think so. I need friends."

"Without sentiment?"

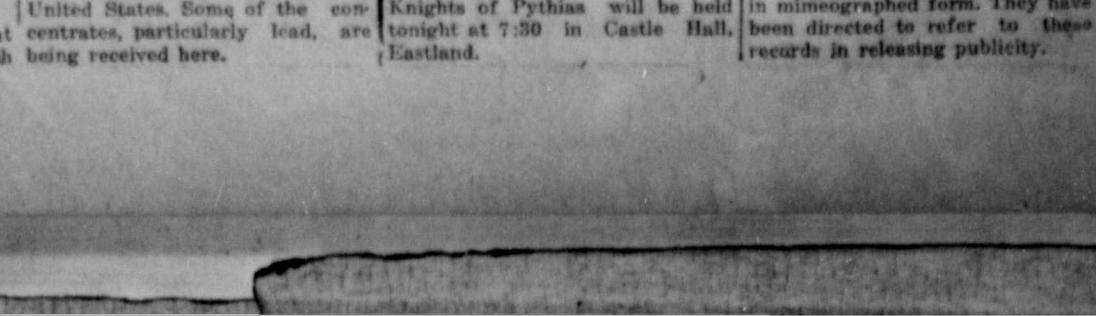

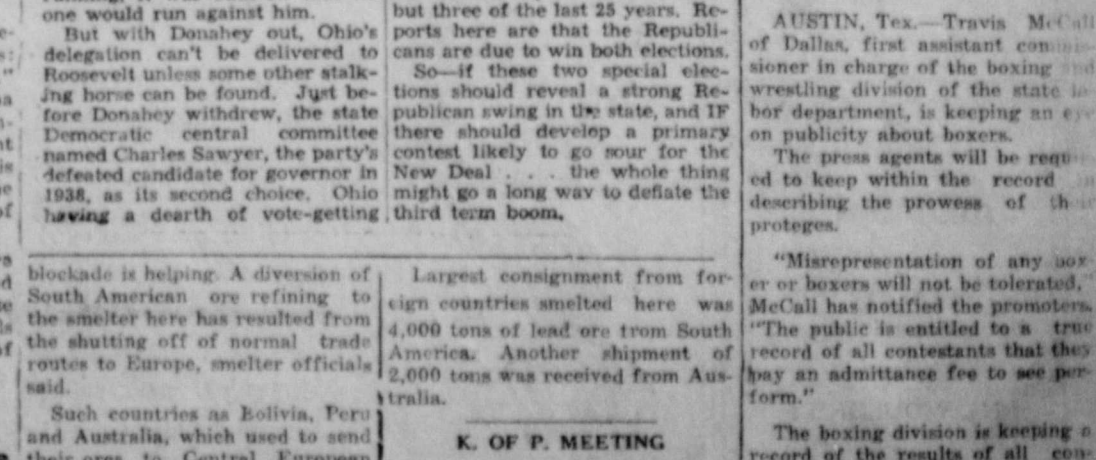

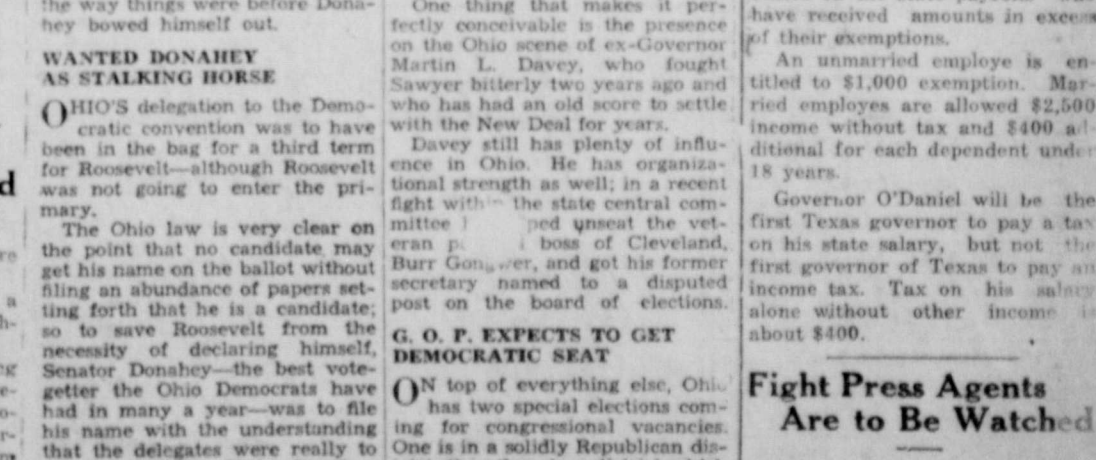

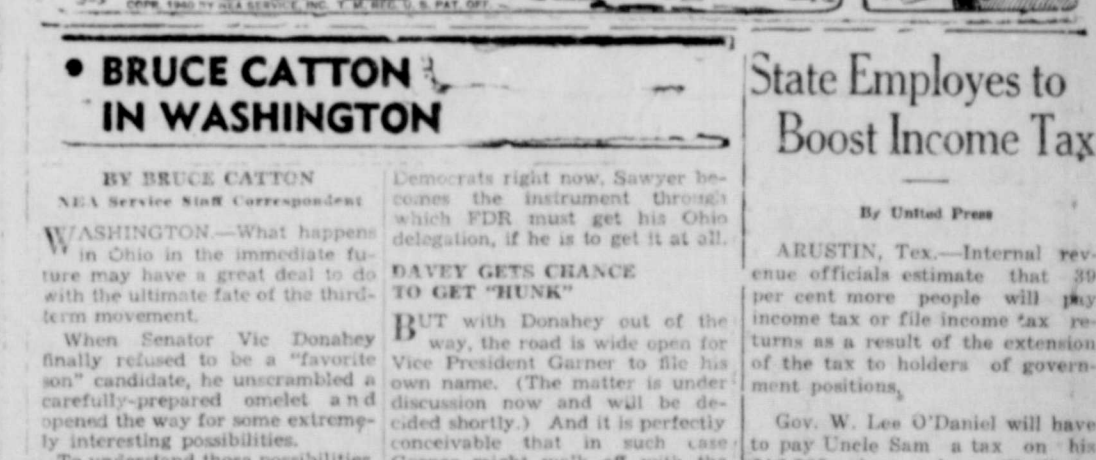

"I'm no more anxious to lose my head, and at the same time my perspective, than you are," she told him.

"I'll be honest with you," he said. "Marriage is not my goal. It may work into my scheme sometime, but not now. I'm smart enough to know that people can fall in love and, for that reason, I've shied clear of girls. I've got to get somewhere in this old world and I've got to be free—" select a cow. You wouldn't be far wrong—cows are very docile creatures. But when grazing along the highway or in unfenced fields, they are a real hazard to motorists. The Oil Belt Safety Council warns: Drive slowly when approaching them. You never can tell when one will decide that the grass is greener on the other side of the road.

OUT OUR WAY

BY WILLIAMS

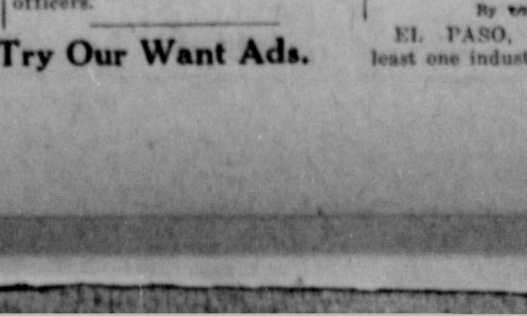

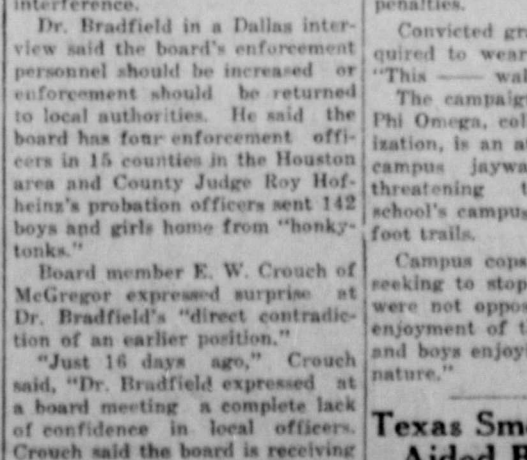

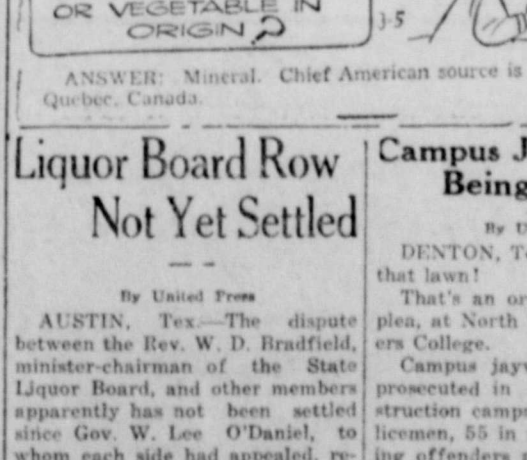

BOYS AND GIRLS—The Oil Belt Safety Council says many boys and girls are killed or badly hurt because they ride bicycles at night without a light on the front and red reflector buttons on the rear. Remember this little verse—When you ride a bike a night, It isn't safe without a light!

BY WILLIAMS

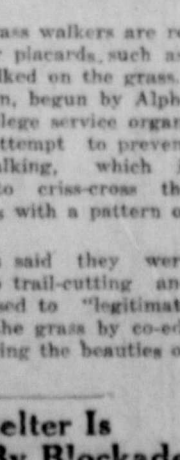

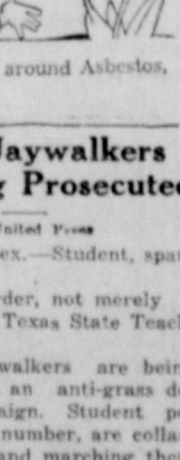

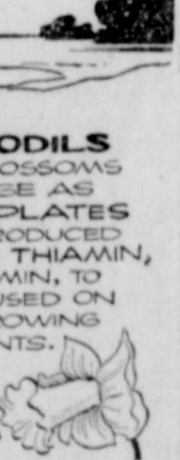

MOTHERS—Don't let children use knives, ice picks or can openers. The Oil Belt Safety Council reminds you that they are dangerous playthings, even under your watchful eye. An accident can happen in a split second.

State Employees to Boost Income Tax

ARUSTIN, Tex.—Internal revenue officials estimate that 39 per cent more people will pay income tax or file income tax returns as a result of the extension of the tax to holders of government positions.

Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel will have to pay Uncle Sam a tax on his $12,000 salary and so will all the others on the state payrolls who have received amounts in excess of their exemptions.

AN UNMARRIED EMPLOYEE is entitled to $1,000 exemption. Married employees are allowed $2,500 income without tax and $400 additional for each dependent under 18 years.

GOVERNOR O'DANIEL will be the first Texas governor to pay a tax on his state salary, but not the first governor of Texas to pay an income tax. Tax on his salary alone without other income is about $400.

Safety Hints of Oil Belt Safety Council Officers

Parents—You've heard the expression—'You can't teach an old dog new tricks.' Perhaps not. But even if you can't—or won't—change your own habits, why not take the trouble to teach youngsters the safe way of doing things. And there's no better way to teach them than by example.

When a mother crosses a street against the red light, leading her small son or daughter by the hand, the child naturally adopts the same disrespectful for traffic goals. When a mother puts pins in her mouth while fitting a dress on her little girl, the child will do the same thing when making a doll for her doll.

Blockade is helping. A diversion of South American ore refining to the smelter here has resulted from the shutting off of normal trade routes to Europe, smelter officials said.

Largest consignment from foreign countries smelted here was 4,000 tons of lead ore from South America. Another shipment of 2,000 tons was received from Australia.
