

FICTIONAL STORY

$15 A WEEK BY LOUISE HOLMES

COPYRIGHT, 1940, NEA SERVICE, INC.

FRIDAY: Arrested for... Steve... Clara... Ann... Paul...

His eyes lighted with pleasure as she stepped from the elevator and, although she knew she should pass him with a cool nod, she stopped when he extended his hand.

"I thought surely you would send flowers to the jail," he laughed.

"Didn't you get them?" she sparkled. "I ordered a wreath of lilies and a spade."

"Are you inferring that I'm a dead one?"

"Sounded a little that way, didn't it?" She started for the door. "I must dash."

"Why dash?" What's the hurry?"

"It's my turn to get dinner." Ann went to the door. "Nice to have seen you, Goodby." Hurrying along the sidewalk, she found Steve beside her.

"How about dinner?" he asked. "No, thank you."

"Why not?"

"Oh, just because."

"Well, well—old Steve must have lost his power of attraction. But persuasion—I'm still good at that."

"Not good enough." She crossed State street, heading for the El. He kept step, jostled by the hastening home seekers.

"I want a chance to apologize," he said.

"For what?"

"For Saturday night."

"Listen—I went to that party, it's my own fault if I didn't like it." They stopped at Wabash for the lights to change and she looked into his handsome, reckless face.

"There's one thing that I'm curious about," she said slowly. "What were you doing in that crowd? You were almost as out of place as I."

"Oh, I don't know. I go hither and yon in search of adventure. I'm always looking for it. If nothing turns up by 6:45 in the evening I go out and break something loose. Clancy is my father's representative in Omaha and a darn good business man. Jake is one of our best customers. I just drifted into the party for something better to do."

"Trains roared above them, surface cars clanged their bells, horns tooted, pedestrians scurried. Ann called, "Goodby," and ran up the El stairs. Waiting for the train, Paul Hayden joined her on the platform. He tipped his hat, not smiling.

"Hello, Paul," she smiled. "Isn't it a lovely evening?"

"Very," he said shortly. "Aren't you early? I thought you didn't leave the store until 5:30?"

"I had an errand." He did not add that he had gone to meet Ann, only to find Steve there before him. Having listened to Clara's graphic description of the Saturday night party, and having seen numerous newspaper pictures of Steve Claybourne, he'd had no difficulty in recognizing him.

The train rushed into the station and they went together into a crowded car. Finding straps, they hung on. Paul said nothing. When the train jerked, he steadied Ann with a hand on her elbow. She felt a restraint about him and glanced several times at his sober face.

"Everything all right?" she asked at last.

"Fine."

"We had a nice time the other evening, didn't we?" She tried valiantly to break through to him. "Do you mean Saturday night?"

"Oh, that—News certainly gets around, doesn't it?"

"It must have been quite a brawl."

"It certainly was."

"I see there was a hanger in the person of Mr. Steve Claybourne."

She darted another glance at him. "Steve wasn't so bad," she said.

"That's what I thought. There's more than one way of pulling yourself to a higher level."

"Are you deliberately trying to be nasty, Paul?"

SHE felt hurt and bewildered. She couldn't know of the impression left by Clara's remarks. And she couldn't know that Paul was bitterly disappointed and confused as to the reason for his disappointment.

He did not answer and they hurried toward Paul's station. The train neared Paul's station, Ann raised her eyes. She had no idea of the effectiveness of her upward glance. Her lashes were remarkable, long and curling and gold tipped. Paul, who had been gazing somberly at her averted face, started when she looked up.

"Friends?" she asked.

"Yes," he nodded gravely.

"Then—must we have misunderstandings?" She was so in earnest that he smiled for the first time.

"I wasn't sure you wanted to be friends," he said.

"Oh, yes," she breathed. The train was slowing. Paul said, "Let's walk in the park tonight and smell the spring."

"All right," she laughed. Ann leaned down to catch one more glimpse of him as he strode across the platform. She was only half aware that her blood sang deliciously.

(To Be Continued)

"OUT OUR WAY" - - - - - By Williams

ALLEY OOP - - - - - By Hamlin

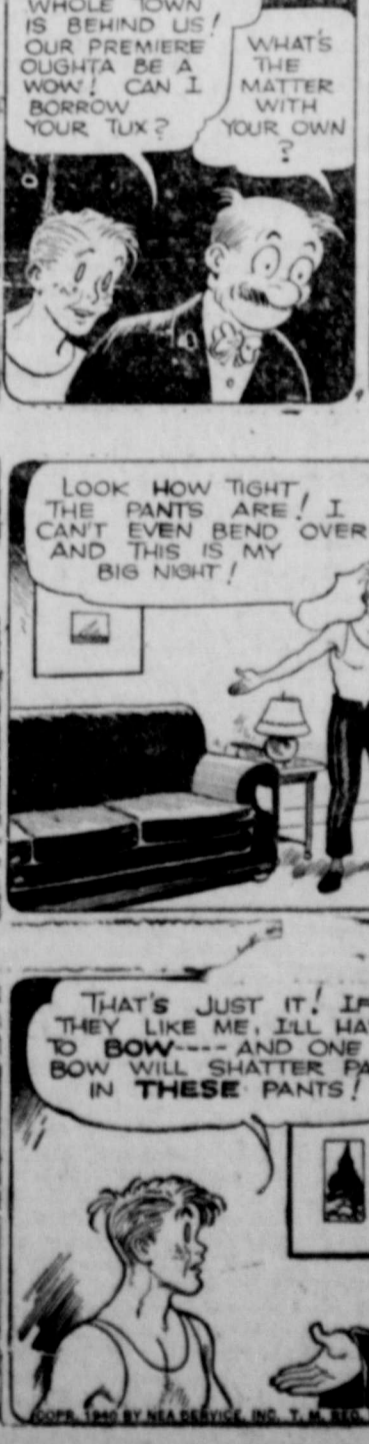

Weatherford Annual Peach Blossom Tour May Be Delayed

WEATHERFORD, Texas—Delayed somewhat by the severe winter, this city's annual "Peach Blossom Pilgrimage" will be held late this month or early in April. Dr. T. L. Bloom, chairman in charge of selecting the route for nature-lovers to travel when the peaches bloom, has submitted to the Weatherford Chamber of Commerce a map showing 22 miles of almost continual peach orchards. The route will be marked for motorists and special preparations made to condition the rural roads over which the pilgrimage will travel. The time for the festival will depend, of course, upon the time when the trees begin blooming. Extremely cold weather this winter has caused orchardists to predict that the blooms will be later than usual.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

Sunday School, 9:45 a. m. Morning worship, 11 a. m. Wednesday, testimonial service p. m. Public cordially invited. "Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, March 10. The Golden Text is "O man greatly beloved, fear not peace be unto thee, be strong, yea, be strong" (Daniel 10:19). Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that heareth my word, and believeth on him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation; but is passed from death unto life" (John 5:24). The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Man is deathless, spiritual. He is above sin or frailty. He does not cross the barriers of time into the vast forever of life, but he coexists with God and the universe" (page 266).

FRECKLES and HIS FRIENDS

The Garden of Gethsemane: Triumph Through Surrender

Text: Matthew 26:36-46

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D., Editor of Advance
GETHESEMENE, which, with its association in the passion of our Lord, has become a symbol for crucial sufferings, was a garden. The remembrance of this enforces in our minds the strange way in which joy and beauty are in life almost inextricably interwoven with pain and sorrow. Here in the garden Jesus had gone to pray, as He approached His impending fate. With Him He had taken James, Peter and John, the strong and impulsive disciples who were most capable of trust, and He had told them to sit in the garden while He went further on to pray. He told them of His great sorrow and of His impending death, and asked them to remain and watch with Him. It was the human Christ, craving human sympathy and human companionship in the hour of His great trial. But there was that in His soul which no one could share, and so He went forward a little, alone with God, pouring out His soul in the agonized petition that the cup of suffering and final sacrifice might pass from Him. BUT even as He prayed, He realized that His destiny and the purpose of His earthly mission might be in the hands of a higher power, and He said, "Not as I will, but as Thou wilt." These, evidently with the yearning for this human companionship, He came again to the disciples. Finding them sleeping, He said to Peter, "What could ye not watch with me one hour?" He admonished the disciples that they must watch and pray, assuring them that the spirit is willing but that the flesh is weak. Then He went off by Himself a second time and prayed the same prayer—that the cup might pass, but with the assurance that the will of the Father must be done. Again He returned and found the disciples sleeping. Those whose eyes have been heavy with sleep, even in the midst of duty, will understand what befell the disciples and will sympathize with them. The flesh is indeed weak even when the spirit is willing. In His deep loneliness the Master went and prayed the third time. But now, courage and confidence had returned to Him. As He returned to the disciples, there was nothing but gentle reproach in His words. "Arise, let us be going; behold, he is at hand that betrayeth me." CANNOT hard-pressed souls take great comfort from this story of the Master in Gethsemane? Often we reproach ourselves that the flesh is so weak. We feel our weakness, and are conscious of our cowardice in the presence of some great testing time in life; and we wonder that we have not the strength of will and the courage that ought to enable us easily to triumph over every danger, and to meet willingly every sacrifice. But the Master Himself, even with all the purity and beauty and strength of His earthly life, was so under the burden of anguish that it was only through the three-repeated prayer that He was able to find the courage to go forth with confidence to meet His fate. His friends and companions failed Him, and in our testing time, and in our prayer of loneliness there is One who is never far away, who never slumbers or sleeps. In our Gethsemane the Master of that ancient scene shares with us our burden and imparts His strength.

BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

BY BRUCE CATTON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON—The real nature of the split in the Labor Board has so far eluded even the Smith committee, although it was the Smith committee which made the split public. The disharmony between Board Member William M. Leiserson, on one side, and Members J. Warren Madden and Edwin S. Smith, on the other, goes far deeper than the publicized row over "slipshod procedure" and the proper staffing of the board. It reaches down to fundamentals, and—although the fact is not generally realized—on the basic point at issue, Smith and Madden are actually much closer to the Smith committee's position than is Dr. Leiserson. BASIC complaint against the board throughout the Smith hearings has been the charge that it is judge, jury and prosecutor all in one. Congressman Smith has hammered at this point repeatedly, drawing out much testimony intended to show that a board with those three jobs to fill is apt to go haywire here and there. Defense tactics, as shaped by Madden and Smith and Board Counsel Fahy, have been to show that the situation really isn't as bad as it looks; that the different functions of the board are kept in air-tight compartments, so that the job of prosecution is thoroughly insulated from the job of fact-finding. There is where Leiserson's view sharply differs with his colleagues. By his philosophy, the only way to answer the judge-jury-prosecutor charge is to say: "Why, of course we're those three things in one—that's the only way in which a board like this can be the only way in which a law like the Wagner act can meet the problem it was created to meet." LEISERSON draws his philosophy from the Wisconsin school of a generation ago—the school of the elder La Follette and the famous Dr. John R. Commons. That philosophy, in brief, runs like this: Complex modern life creates problems which existing machinery cannot handle; problems partly legal, partly administrative, partly judicial. Courts can't handle them, because they're only partly legal problems; ordinary administrative agencies can't handle them, because they're only partly administrative problems. The problems can't be solved at all unless there is a new agency combining all of these functions in one. THIS is what is back of Leiserson's oft-repeated complaints about "too much of the legalistic viewpoint" on the board. Because that viewpoint is prevalent, he feels, the board has hamstrung itself in its fight for life and is making its fight on its enemies' own ground. The odd part about it all is that Leiserson is common, regarded as the board's one "moderate," even as its lone right-winger. Actually, he is much farther from the Smith committee's viewpoint than are its two favorite targets, Smith and Madden.

ED RYDER

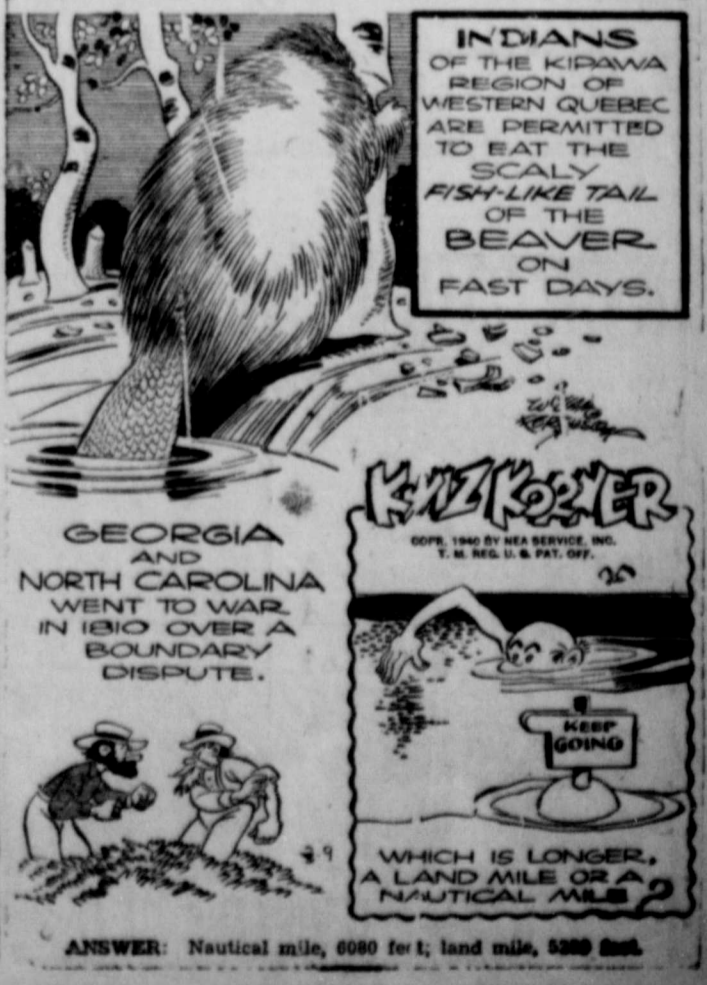

El Paso Hatchery May Be Rebuilt

EL PASO, Tex.—Rehabilitation of the fish hatchery at Washington Park through a WPA loan was envisaged after a meeting here of city officials with representatives of the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission. Under the proposed plan, the city and county would supply the sponsor's share of a $30,000 WPA project, with the commission taking over operation of the hatchery when it is completed, later reimbursing the city and county for money expended. The city's decision to seek the WPA grant following a conference with Commission Chairman A. H. Woods, Executive Secretary William J. Tucker, Marion Toole, aquatic biologist, and W. D. Stubblefield, state game warden. Fish from the hatchery would be used to stock the lake in the 40 acre Ascarate Park now under construction here and in other fresh water bodies in this area. mated that employers and wage earners will thus save about $825,000,000 in the next 3 years. Beginning with 1940, any wages over $3,000 which a worker receives will not be counted toward benefits. A man who works for several employers may perhaps pay taxes on wages up to $3,000 from each employer; but at the end of the year, he may file a claim with the Treasury Department and receive a refund of the taxes he paid for that year on wages over $3,000. The "Old-Age Reserve Account" which was set up under the original Social Security Act, is replaced by an "Old-Age and Survivors Insurance Trust Fund," effective January 1, 1940. All of the old-age insurance tax money collected by the Treasury is now permanently appropriated to this trust fund. Old-age and survivors insurance benefits will be paid out of this fund which is to be managed by a Board of Trustees consisting of the Secretary of the Treasury, the Secretary of Labor, and the Chairman of the Social Security Board. (Editor's Note: The following another of a series of articles prepared by W. O. King, manager of the Ahlens Social Security Board field office, to be published in this paper. The information contained in the series of articles is educational and of interest to the general public. Additional information can be secured by addressing W. O. King, 205 Alexander Building, Ahlens, Texas.) FINANCING PROVISIONS Several changes were made in financing provisions of the general insurance system when Congress amended the Social Security Act last summer. The tax, which was to increase in 1940, has been "frozen" at its present level of 1 per cent on employees until 1943. It is esti-

Federal Old-Age And Survivor's Insurance Plan

at low... wheth... crown... pleasing... Y... Ranger...

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

Serial Story

$15 A WEEK BY LOUISE HOLMES

CHAPTER XVI
ANN briefly described the unsuccessful evening to Mrs. Pringle...

ANN began, "Oh, I don't think I should have said that. I'm sure you know of Florabelle? Beautiful apartment, stunning clothes, frequent parties, a glamorous appearance."

ANN pondered over the queer apartment of girls who lived on the third floor of Mrs. Follet's dining house, not realizing that they represented a cross section of varying personalities...

ANN left the shop at 5 o'clock to find Steve Claybourne cooling his heels in the gloomy foyer.

ANN pondered over the queer apartment of girls who lived on the third floor of Mrs. Follet's dining house, not realizing that they represented a cross section of varying personalities...

ANN pondered over the queer apartment of girls who lived on the third floor of Mrs. Follet's dining house, not realizing that they represented a cross section of varying personalities...

ANN pondered over the queer apartment of girls who lived on the third floor of Mrs. Follet's dining house, not realizing that they represented a cross section of varying personalities...

ANN pondered over the queer apartment of girls who lived on the third floor of Mrs. Follet's dining house, not realizing that they represented a cross section of varying personalities...

ANN pondered over the queer apartment of girls who lived on the third floor of Mrs. Follet's dining house, not realizing that they represented a cross section of varying personalities...

ANN pondered over the queer apartment of girls who lived on the third floor of Mrs. Follet's dining house, not realizing that they represented a cross section of varying personalities...

ANN pondered over the queer apartment of girls who lived on the third floor of Mrs. Follet's dining house, not realizing that they represented a cross section of varying personalities...

ANN pondered over the queer apartment of girls who lived on the third floor of Mrs. Follet's dining house, not realizing that they represented a cross section of varying personalities...

ANN pondered over the queer apartment of girls who lived on the third floor of Mrs. Follet's dining house, not realizing that they represented a cross section of varying personalities...

ANN pondered over the queer apartment of girls who lived on the third floor of Mrs. Follet's dining house, not realizing that they represented a cross section of varying personalities...

ANN pondered over the queer apartment of girls who lived on the third floor of Mrs. Follet's dining house, not realizing that they represented a cross section of varying personalities...

ANN pondered over the queer apartment of girls who lived on the third floor of Mrs. Follet's dining house, not realizing that they represented a cross section of varying personalities...

ANN pondered over the queer apartment of girls who lived on the third floor of Mrs. Follet's dining house, not realizing that they represented a cross section of varying personalities...

ANN pondered over the queer apartment of girls who lived on the third floor of Mrs. Follet's dining house, not realizing that they represented a cross section of varying personalities...

His eyes lighted with pleasure as she stepped from the elevator and, although she knew she should pass him with a cool nod, she stopped when he extended his hand.

"I thought surely you would send flowers to the jail," he laughed. "Didn't you get them?" she sparkled. "I ordered a wreath of lilies and a spade."

"Are you inferring that I'm a dead one?" "Sounded a little that way, didn't it?" She started for the door. "I must dash."

"Why dash? What's the hurry?" "It's my turn to get dinner."

"Not good enough." She crossed State street, heading for the El. He kept step, jostled by the hastening home seekers.

"Oh, I don't know. I go hither and yon in search of adventure. I'm always looking for it. If nothing turns up by 6:45 in the evening I go out and break something loose. Clancy is my father's representative in Omaha and a darn good business man. Jake is one of our best customers. I just drifted into the party for something better to do."

"I wasn't sure you wanted to be friends," she said. "Oh, yes," she breathed. "Let's walk in the park to-night and smell the spring."

"Hello, Paul," she smiled. "Isn't it a lovely evening?" "Very," he said shortly. "Aren't you early? I thought you didn't leave the store until 5:30."

"I had an errand." He did not add that he had gone to meet Ann, only to find Steve there before him. Having listened to Clara's graphic description of the Saturday night party, and having seen numerous newspaper pictures of Steve Claybourne, he'd had no difficulty in recognizing him.

The train rushed into the station and they went together into a crowded car. Finding seats, they hung on. Paul said nothing. When the train jerked, he steadied Ann with a hand on her elbow. She felt a restraint about him and glanced several times at his sober face.

"Everything all right?" she asked at last. "Fine."

"We had a nice time the other evening, didn't we?" She tried valiantly to break through to him. "Do you mean Saturday night?" "Oh, that—News certainly gets around, doesn't it?"

"I certainly was." "I see there was a hangover in the person of Mr. Steve Claybourne."

She darted another glance at him. "Steve wasn't so bad," she said. "That's what I thought. There's more than one way of pulling yourself to a higher level."

"Are you deliberately trying to be nasty, Paul?" SHE felt hurt and bewildered. She couldn't know of the impression left by Clara's remarks. And she couldn't know that Paul was bitterly disappointed and confused as to the reason for his disappointment.

He did not answer and they hurried onward in silence. As the train neared Paul's station, Ann raised her eyes. She had no idea of the effectiveness of her upward glance. Her lashes were remarkably long and curling and gold tipped. Paul, who had been gazing somberly at her averted face, started when she looked up.

"Friends?" she asked. "Yes," he nodded gravely. "Then—must we have misunderstandings?" She was so in earnest that he smiled for the first time.

"I wasn't sure you wanted to be friends," she said. "Oh, yes," she breathed. "Let's walk in the park to-night and smell the spring."

"OUT OUR WAY" - - - - - By Williams

ALLEY OOP - - - - - By Hamlin

Weatherford Annual Peach Blossom Tour May Be Delayed

WEATHERFORD, Texas—Delayed somewhat by the severe winter, this city's annual "Peach Blossom Pilgrimage" will be held late this month or early in April. Dr. T. L. Bloom, chairman in charge of selecting the route for nature-lovers to travel when the peaches bloom, has submitted to the Weatherford Chamber of Commerce a map showing 22 miles of almost continual peach orchards.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

Sunday School, 9:45 a. m. Morning worship, 11 a. m. Wednesday, testimonial service p. m. Public cordially invited.

El Paso Hatchery May Be Rebuilt

EL PASO, Tex.—Rehabilitation of the fish hatchery at Washington Park through a WPA loan was envisaged after a meeting here of city officials with representatives of the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission. Under the proposed plan, the city and county would supply the sponsor's share of a $30,000 WPA project, with the commission taking over operation of the hatchery when it is completed, later reimbursing the city and county for money expended.

FRECKLES and HIS FRIENDS - - - - -

The Garden of Gethsemane: Triumph Through Surrender

Text: Matthew 26:36-46

GETHESEMANE, which, with its association in the passion of our Lord, has become a symbol for crucial sufferings, was a garden. The remembrance of this enforces in our minds the strange way in which joy and beauty are in life almost inextricably interwoven with pain and sorrow.

Here in the garden Jesus had gone to pray, as He approached His impending fate. With Him He had taken James, Peter and John, the strong and impulsive disciples who were most capable of trust, and He had told them to sit in the garden while He went further on to pray. He told them of His great sorrow and of His impending death, and asked them to remain and watch with Him.

BUT even as He prayed, He realized that His destiny and the purpose of His earthly mission might be in the hands of a higher power, and He said, "Not as I will, but as Thou wilt." Then, evidently with the yearning for this human companionship, He came again to the disciples. Finding them sleeping, He said to Peter, "What could ye not watch with me one hour?"

He admonished the disciples that they must watch and pray far away, who never slumbers or sleeps. In our Gethsemane the Master of that ancient scene shares with us our burden and imparts His strength.

BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON—The real nature of the split in the Labor Board has so far eluded even the Smith committee, although it was the Smith committee which made the split public.

The disharmony between Board Member William M. Leiserson, on one side, and Members J. Warren Madden and Edwin S. Smith, on the other, goes far deeper than the publicized row over "slitpud procedure" and the proper staffing of the board.

It reaches down to fundamentals, and—although the fact is not generally realized—on the basic point at issue, Smith and Madden are actually much closer to the Smith committee's position than is Dr. Leiserson.

BASIC complaint against the board throughout the Smith hearings has been the charge that it is judge, jury and prosecutor all in one. Congressman Smith has hammered at this point repeatedly, drawing out much testimony intended to show that a board with those three jobs to fill is apt to go haywire here and there.

Defense tactics, as shaped by Madden and Smith and Board Counsel Fahy, have been to show that the situation really isn't as bad as it looks; that the different functions of the board are kept in air-tight compartments, so that the job of prosecution is thoroughly insulated from the job of fact-finding.

There is where Leiserson's view sharply differs with his colleagues. By his philosophy, the only way to answer the judge-jury-prosecutor charge is to say: "Why, of course we're those three things in a board like this and we're the only way in which a law like the Wagner act can meet the problem it was created to meet."

Leiserson draws his philosophy from the Wisconsin school of the elder La Follette and the famous Dr. John R. Commons. That philosophy, in brief, runs like this: Complex modern life creates problems which existing machinery cannot handle; problems partly legal, partly administrative, partly judicial. Courts can't handle them, because they're only partly legal problems; ordinary administrative agencies can't handle them, because they're only partly administrative problems; the problems can't be solved at all unless there is a new agency combining all of these functions in one.

THIS is what is back of Leiserson's oft-repeated complaints about "too much of the legalistic viewpoint" on the board. Because that viewpoint is prevalent, he feels, the board has hamstrung itself in its fight for life and is making its fight on its enemies' own ground. The odd part about it all is that Leiserson is common, regarded as the board's one "moderate," even as its lone right-winger. Actually, he is much farther from the Smith committee's viewpoint than are its two favorite targets, Smith and Madden.

RED RYDER - - - - - By Hamlin

Federal Old-Age And Survivor's Insurance Plan

(Editor's Note: The following is a series of articles prepared by W. O. King, manager of the Ahlens Social Security Board field office, to be published in this paper. The information contained in the series of articles is educational and of interest to the general public. Additional information can be secured by addressing W. O. King, 205 Alexander Building, Abilene, Texas.)

CHANGES IN THE FINANCING PROVISIONS

Several changes were made in financing provisions of the Social Security Act when Congress amended the Social Security Act last summer. The tax, which was to increase in 1946, has been "frozen" at its present level of 1 per cent on employees until 1945. It is esti-estimated that employers and wage earners will thus save about $825,000,000 in the next 3 years. Beginning with 1940, any wages over $3,000 which a worker receives will not be counted toward benefits. A man who works for several employers may perhaps pay taxes on wages up to $3,000 from each employer; but at the end of the year, he may file a claim with the Treasury Department and receive a refund of the taxes he paid for that year on wages over $3,000.

Federal Old-Age And Survivor's Insurance Plan

(Editor's Note: The following is a series of articles prepared by W. O. King, manager of the Ahlens Social Security Board field office, to be published in this paper. The information contained in the series of articles is educational and of interest to the general public. Additional information can be secured by addressing W. O. King, 205 Alexander Building, Abilene, Texas.)

CHANGES IN THE FINANCING PROVISIONS

Several changes were made in financing provisions of the Social Security Act when Congress amended the Social Security Act last summer. The tax, which was to increase in 1946, has been "frozen" at its present level of 1 per cent on employees until 1945. It is esti-

THIS CURIOUS WORLD - - - - - By William Ferguson

ANSWER: Nautical mile, 6080 feet; land mile, 5280 feet.

Society Notes

W. S. C. S. to Meet at Church Monday

The Woman's Society of Christian Service will meet Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the church for a continued study of the Songs of Zion.

The program will be under the direction of Mrs. C. E. May and each member is requested to bring her Bible to the meeting.

Eastern Star to Meet Monday

The Ranger chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star invites the members to be present Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Masonic hall for the regular meeting.

Accuracy— A REPUTATION BUILT ON ACCURACY

We are proud of our reputation—ground of the faith doctors and their patients have in our ability as pharmacists. This faith has been built up by our accuracy and by our use of only the finest quality drugs. When we fill a prescription you and your doctor may rest assured that it will be right.

OIL CITY PHARMACY

PHONE 24

Announcing the Installation of DEACO COLON-THERAPY EQUIPMENT

Also X-ray! For a more successful treatment of colon conditions, such as constipation, chronic appendicitis, and other toxic conditions of the system. We correct the misplacement of the colon.

Yours for
Chiropractic Service,
DR. E. R. GREEN

209 Main Street - Ranger

Owl Brand
SEED POTATOES
BULK GARDEN SEED
ONION AND CABBAGE
PLANTS
FIELD SEED
FERTILIZER
PURINA STARTINA
BLACKLOCK
FEED STORE

Special Offer

FOR TWO WEEKS ONLY!

Service for eight at the Price of service for six in Active Patterns

COMMUNITY PLATE Forever PATTERN

PRESENTING THE BEAUTIFUL NEW

SALE INCLUDES THESE 1 ACTIVE PATTERNS

- A. GROSVEGOR
- B. BENOZVOUS
- C. CORONATION
- D. LADY HAMILTON
- E. BERKELEY SQUARE

52 Piece Service for 8
$49.50 value at the Ridiculous Price of $38.25

$100 or $200
A WEEK WILL DO

RANGER JEWELRY CO.
MAIN STREET PHONE 212 RANGER

"Girl Friday" Gay Comedy Romance

The trio above are principals in the gayest romance of the current screen season, Columbia's gay new Howard Hawks production, "His Girl Friday," now at the Arcadia Theatre. Cary Grant and Rosalind Russell are starred, with Ralph Bellamy.

Ranger Women Attend Tea in Ahlens

Mrs. M. H. Hagaman and Mrs. O. L. Phillips were in Ahlens Saturday afternoon to attend the Golden Jubilee Tea given by the Ahlens Woman's Forum in the home of Mrs. J. F. Boren.

The affair was in celebration of the birthday of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. Hagaman, who is president of the Sixth District of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs was one of the honored guests.

Dorcas Class Meets With Mrs. Mitchell

The Dorcas Class of the First Baptist Church met Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the home of Mrs. W. W. Mitchell on the Breckenridge Highway for the monthly business meeting and social.

Various games were enjoyed during the evening at the close of the games refreshments of white cake topped with whipped cream and green gum drops were served to the following: Mrs. T. O. Rawls, F. E. Langston, Lee Mitchell, J. C. Mitchell, L. M. Sarrett, Flake Turner, J. M. Jones, W. P. Powell, T. C. Long, Maude Fowler, W. F. Barton, Pearl Parrish, Gussie Tankersley, H. McKelvain, Frank Arrendale, Mabel Williams, E. R. Judy, Irene Gray and Miss Ethel Adams.

Child Study Club No. 2 To Meet Thursday

The Child Study Club No. 2 will meet Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the home of Mrs. Fins King, Blundell Street. Mrs. A. N. Carver will assist the hostess.

Mrs. Leslie Hagaman will review "Miss Susie Slagle," by Augusta Tucker.

In a short business meeting preceding the review, officers for the coming year will be elected and all members are urged to be present promptly at 2:30.

Hodges P.-T. A. to Meet Tuesday

The Hodges Oak Park Parents and Teachers Association will meet Tuesday afternoon at 3:45 in the school auditorium.

Mrs. A. K. Niver will be leader for the afternoon and Mrs. Ross Statton will be the principal speaker.

Golf Club Opening Spring Activities

The Ladies Golf Club of the Ranger Country Club is a business meeting the past week laid plans for the coming spring season.

Tuesday of each week will be ladies day and all ladies interested in golf are urged to be present for play. Mrs. Glenn West, president of the club, announces that a Scotch tournament will be held sometime in the first days of April and that players can qualify for the ladies ladder on the first Tuesday in April.

Preceding the play on Tuesday, March 12, a picnic lunch will be spread at 1 o'clock.

Chatter Box

The list of candidates for governor seems to indicate that the Railroad Commission and the Highway department of Texas are the incubators for gubernatorial aspirants. . . . Every time we see one of these March winds whip off a gentleman's hat and send it rolling down the street we suppress our mirth by remembering the occasions when we have rounded particularly drafty corners and had to fight our skirts as desperately as a drowning man fights, and we're wishing all the time we had six hands instead of two.

And what a foolish feeling it is to be so suddenly attacked by the elements. . . . There's a man about town who has a habit of parking his automobile and forgetting where it is and consequently finds himself feeling very foolish while he paces the pavement in search of the lost vehicle. And we know how he feels after having done the same thing recently. We had a feeling that the public was smiling over the situation when as a matter of fact no one knew it. . . . Who ever selected the spring costume jewelry for the Ranger Jewelry Company knew what fastidious ladies prefer in that line, and we wish we had twin boys to deck out in those little boy suits at the Globe. . . . Our idea of the man that makes news too fast is the one that is gone again before the paper can come off the press carrying the news that he has just returned. . . . Nothing can make us want to forget the past and take the starch out of our vanity like thumbing through an old picture album and gazing upon the likeness of us as we were in the "good old days." The outfit we remember as being a "knockout" then, makes chill bumps creep up and down our spine when it confronts us in an old picture. . . .

Society Personals

Mrs. and Mrs. R. B. Stroud of Pampa, formerly of Ranger, have returned here to make their home. Mr. Stroud is associated with the E. L. Martin Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Finto and Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Champion are in Fort Worth to attend the Stock Show.

Mrs. Kathryn Naylor and Mrs. Ruby Roberts are spending the week-end in Fort Worth.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Smith and son of Palestine are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Kindle.

Mr. and Mrs. Colonel Brasher and Mrs. F. P. Brasher spent Saturday in Dallas.

Miss Loretta Harell, Mrs. Evis Landers, Mrs. A. H. Allison and George Allison spent Saturday in Fort Worth.

Miss Genie Lowe Bartrug, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bartrug, and a student at John Tarleton College was in Arlington, Thursday to attend the Percy Granger concert at N.T.A.C.

Mrs. F. G. Yonker is spending the week-end in Fort Worth.

Miss Marilyn Murray is confined to her home because of illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Harris are spending the week-end in Mineral Wells.

Mrs. Odell Cole who has been ill for several weeks is reported to be improved.

Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Jackson have returned from a two weeks stay in New Orleans, where Dr. Jackson was taking some special work.

Mrs. T. J. Powell who is a patient in the City-County Hospital, is reported to be in a satisfactory condition.

Mrs. R. J. Taylor is in Odessa for a visit with her daughter, Mrs. John North.

Hugh Fellows and Garnet Gracey, both of the Speech Department of McMurry College, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hal Hunter, Friday evening.

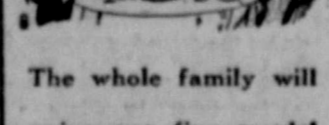

Mrs. M. H. Hagaman, Mrs. C. E. May and Miss Beulah Harrison were in San Saba, Thursday, to attend the Texas Day Luncheon of the San Saba Study Club.

Dr. and Mrs. E. R. Green had as their guests, Friday, Dr. and Mrs. A. C. Drake of Dallas. Dr. Drake is a brother of Mrs. Green.

Mrs. Helen Julius of Dallas is a guest in the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. N. McFatter, who is ill.

Russell Miller, Ralph Baybey and Chick Brown are in Des Moines, Iowa, on business.

You'll have to wait until Congress is finished arguing before you will know whether it's permissible to tell the census man to mind his own business.

The whole family will enjoy our fine meals!

Mrs. HIGDON'S CAFE

SHE LEARNED ALL ABOUT MEN IN "THE WOMEN" ... And Men, Oh Men... HOW SHE USES EVERY TRICK SHE LEARNED...

but watch her meet her match in the reckless lover of "The Awful Truth" . . . as they appear together for the first time!

CARY GRANT ROSALIND RUSSELL
in HOWARD HAWKS' His Girl Friday
with RALPH BELLAMY
SUNDAY and MONDAY
ARCADIA

You'll get dizzily delirious at this mad, merry whirl of husbands . . . past . . . present and future!

Methodist Revival Will Begin Today

The annual pre-Easter revival at the First Methodist church in Ranger begins today, and will continue through Easter. Rev. E. R. Gordon, pastor of the First Methodist church of Comanche, will do the preaching, and Don Minnick, the regular choir director, will have charge of the music.

The pastor, Rev. G. Alfred Brown, will preach the opening sermon of the revival, this morning, with the visiting evangelist taking over at the evening service at 7:30.

There will be preaching services twice daily during the next two weeks. The morning service during the week will be at 10:00 a. m., and the evening at 7:30. There will also be group services. The ladies of the church will meet at 2:30, the juniors and intermediates at 4:00, and the young people at 6:45.

Rev. Gordon is not known to many people in Ranger, but is greatly loved and appreciated wherever he has served. Everyone is invited to come out at the very beginning of the revival, not only to get acquainted with the evangelist, but to participate in, and profit from, the revival services.

Cooking School To Offer Women Latest Methods

A very interesting feature of the Happy Kitchen Cooking school is the "Question Box" . . . to come more fully, there is a box, you may place question or subject or phases of home management you most desire to about. During the session day, these questions will be answered. There will be a wealth of instructions on how to make home a more enjoyable place. And too, a number of recipes will be given, which are an instant success and will new pep into old menus. Most anxious for all the women attend each day. Admission free and we are certain the time spent at the Kitchen Cooking School to be most enjoyable.

With the events in Europe making history almost with each passing day, is there any wonder that the modern woman is ever seeking new and improved methods by which to run her home? Life is lived at a very high tempo today, therefore, the question of keeping healthy is a vital factor in every family.

Little as one may think the health of a family or a nation begins in the kitchen of the home. This may seem strange, but true nevertheless and to help the women of this community keep their families physically fit day in and day out, we are presenting Mrs. Gertrude Burbank, who for many years has studied the importance of diet, the relation of foods to one another . . . and who has spent a great deal of time working out budgets that will enable all homemakers to plan, cook and serve foods that will keep the family healthy.

Mrs. Burbank will tell you that there is no guess work in preparing a well-balanced meal. It takes study and careful thinking. So, during the Happy Kitchen Cooking school, each woman will be enlightened on new methods of how to plan meals, short cuts to economy and various phases of home problems.

SEE BROWN'S Transfer and Storage — For — MOVING

CONTRACT OPERATORS T. & P. TRANSPORT Phone 635

Try Our Want Ads

Auto Licenses Can Be Bought Locally

C. E. May is selling the 1940 automobile license plates at his office on Main Street.

He has already sold one box of the plates and Friday afternoon secured the second box from the tax assessor-collector's office in Eastland.

The regular price of licensing a car is charged by May, no additional fee being charged for this service.

Dr. James F. Garmany
Telephone 261
GOLSON HOTEL — ROOM 215
or TEXAS DRUG CO — TELEPHONE 264

Practice limited to Internal Medicine, Obstetrics and diseases of women and children.

BETTER MEATS at Lower Prices!

You Can Trust Our Butchers To Select The Finest Cuts!

Tell our butchers what you want and how you intend to prepare it . . . you'll not have to caution them about the waste and quality!

For they make it a point to sell only the finest cuts, no matter what the price!

A. H. POWELL GROCERY & MARKET
WE DELIVER PHONE 103