CLEANUP IS
MEET TODAY
Every district in the Ranger Cleanup Campaign was represented at a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce offices this morning, and were given suggestions on how to conduct the campaign by A. N. Larson and J. W. Meador, co-chairmen of the campaign.
Those who attended, and the districts they represented were Mrs. P. M. Kuykendall, High School; Mrs. Nannie Walker, Hodges Oak Park; Mrs. J. C. Carothers, Cooper; Mrs. C. E. Madocks, Young; Mrs. John W. Duckert, Catholic School area, and Mmes. J. R. Lee and Jack Blackwell.
Each district chairman was asked to go over the entire district to see where cleanup activities were most needed, and to contact those owning the property. Vacant lots and alleys will be cleaned up, where reported, by the city administration, as far as possible.
Anyone finding a particularly unsightly spot that needs cleaning has been urged to inform the Chamber of Commerce, in order that steps might be taken to see that the work is done.
It was urged that the people of the town cooperate by hauling their own trash, where possible, and to put it at the city dump, instead of along roads, as has been the practice of some in the past. The drainage ditches of several roads have been used as dumping grounds for cans, trash and even garbage, it was pointed out, by some at a meeting, and this refuse eventually, into Haganman Lake.
Much interest in the campaign was shown at the meeting this morning, and much work is expected to be done throughout this week.
Another NYA Boy Gets A Promotion
Another NYA enrollee, who was trained in the Ranger shops, has been given a promotion to a better job, making the second to be transferred in the past 10 days.

Henry Henley, who was recently transferred to Inks Dam, has been elected president of the radio club there, and has been engaged in installation and wiring of equipment, according to word received from there.
Ranger NYA Girls Win Volley Ball Game On Monday
Ranger NYA girls defeated Mineral Wells NYA girls in two out of three volley ball games played at the Community Center Monday evening. Scores in the three games were Ranger 5, Mineral Wells 5; Ranger 15, Mineral Wells 2.
Following the volley ball game a dance was staged and a reception was held at the Girl's Residence.
Church Brotherhood Conducts A Meeting
Rev. David M. Phillips, new pastor of the First Baptist Church of Ranger, arrived in Ranger Monday, in time to attend a Brotherhood banquet at the church in the evening, at which 109 were present. Rev. Phillips made an interesting talk before the meeting in which he promised to do much work for the church.
Musical features on the program were provided by a violin duo presented by Charles Osteen and Jack Pearsall, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Pearsall, and a violin trio composed of Billy Ross Hodges, Charles Osteen and Jack Pearsall, with Mrs. Pearsall accompanying. Miss Elsie Hummel was presented in xylophone solos.

Cast of Brooklyn's Real Melodrama, 'Murder, Inc.'

In Brooklyn, N. Y., one of the most fantastic, stranger-than-fiction, underworld sagas ever told is gradually, piece by piece, unfolding. When complete, it may solve at least 30 murders over a 12-year period. First "break" in the incredible story of an organized murder-for-profit syndicate, in which gunmen got as little as $10 per job, came recently when two alleged trigger-men for Murder, Inc., Anthony Maffalone, left, above, center, began to "sing" mob secrets to energetic King's County District Attorney William F. O'Dwyer, right.

Relentless Search Still Goes On For Murders of Mrs. Weston Frome and Her Daughter, Nancy, After 2 Years

EL PASO, Tex.—A steady, relentless search, conducted without any tangible clues, still goes on for the murderer or murderers of Mrs. Weston G. Frome and her daughter, Nancy, Berkeley, Calif., socialites who were killed on the desert near Van Horn, Texas, two years ago.

Although peace officers never have established a definite motive, nor have they ever picked up any trail leading near a solution, Sheriff Chris P. Fox, told the United Press on the second anniversary of one of the most brutal and baffling crimes in Southwest history, that he felt "confident that the case will break some day."

"And when it does," he said, "it probably will turn out to be something right under our noses which will lead to the solution."

"We've tracked down hundreds of leads and we've questioned scores of persons, meanwhile advancing many theories," he explained. "But when the solution does come as I fully expect it—we will all be surprised, I feel."

Fox revealed that his department had worked on five separate theories.

"Each time we built right up to a point of solution," he said. "Then, bingo. And each theory broke right down."

Fox said that the case had been rendered difficult because no clues ever had been turned up which could be termed "tangible." When the bodies of the two women were found on the desert, off a main highway six miles east of Van Horn, April 3, 1938, there started a search which has led all over the United States and into foreign countries.

"We had nothing to start off with, except the crime itself, and to date we have nothing more to work on," Fox said. "The automobile in which the two women had been traveling from Berkeley to Parris Island, S. C., to visit another daughter, had been picked clean of the women's belongings."

Fox said that "even a jar of olives and a jar of pickles, which the Fromes had bought in Berkeley to take to South Carolina, were gone. Only a small card bearing the name of a fruit juice stand in Berkeley was found in their automobile."

The bodies of Mrs. Frome, 45, and Nancy, 23, were found in a mesquite thicket some distance from the main, but desolate, highway.

Both women had been tortured and slain and both bodies were nearly nude. The brutality of the killer or killers shocked even hardened officers.

Dr. W. W. Waite, El Paso autopsy surgeon, reported that Nancy's right hand had been burned seven times with a cigar or cigarette, and that the slayer apparently had stomped on her abdomen, rupturing her diaphragm. She had dug her fingers into the ground as she lay writhing, and then was shot through her head and killed.

The two women had been beaten, and then shot by a .32 calibre pistol. As a coup de grace, they had been shot through the temples.

No motives ever have been advanced, for, although the automobile had been "picked clean" of the women's belongings, a $500 watch on Mrs. Frome had not been touched. Mrs. Frome was clad in a girdle, shoes and stockings. Nancy wore step-ins, short hose and shoes. Neither had been sexually attacked.

The Fromes disappeared some time after Thursday morning, March 30, when they left El Paso where they had been visiting friends for five days. Reconstructing the crime as nearly as possible, officers believe

Period For Adult WPA Instruction In Crafts Explained

Mrs. Winnie R. Grady, supervisor of the Eastland WPA Recreation project, announced today that the craft shop located at the Safe-Haven Community Center in the basement of the Eastland National Bank building will be open for adult instruction each Tuesday and Friday morning from 9 a. m. until noon.

Instructions will be given adults in leather-craft, wood-craft, metal-craft, jewelry-craft, basketry and needle-craft. There will be no charge for the instructions but the participants must furnish their own materials, explained Mrs. Grady.

Some of the material may be secured at the craft shop or obtained by order through it.

A general craft period is offered from 1 p. m. to 6 p. m. each week-day with the exception of Saturday and is open to all. Adults however, were urged to attend morning classes if possible due to the number of school boys and girls who attend afternoon classes.

Albert Maverick Escapes Accident

SAN ANTONIO, April 2.—Albert Maverick, 85-year-old father of Mayor Maury Maverick of San Antonio, narrowly missed death in an accident today when the car he was driving was struck by a train at a crossing here.

Maverick drove his car onto the tracks, but left it just before it was struck by a train. The car was only slightly damaged.

Norway Parliament In Session Today

OSLO, Norway, April 2.—The Norwegian parliament met today, presumably to discuss iron shipments to Germany and the British blockade, which has been extended to include German vessels playing along the Norwegian territorial waters, which Norway claims extend six miles at sea, instead of the usual three, because of the shallow Norwegian coastline.

SURVEY SHOWS GERMAN FOOD CRISIS NEARS

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Following on the heels of publication of the German "white book" in which Germany claimed that United States ambassadors were partly responsible for the European war, the United States government has issued a statement of results of a survey made in Germany, which indicates that a severe food shortage is in prospect in that country.

The United States survey indicates that a severe food crisis will be reached by Germany by next September, on the anniversary of beginning of the European war. Hitler's claims that there has been a 30 per cent increase in food calories is countered by survey reports that food calories have decreased 15 per cent, and that German soldiers are not sufficiently well fed to do the job that has been cut out for them.

The German minister of agriculture has started on a trip to Hungary and Yugoslavia to step up agricultural production in those countries. The minister is seeking permission for German technicians to enter those countries, in an effort to increase production to the point where more food can be exported to Germany.

Effectiveness of the British blockade, with plans announced for stopping up the loopholes through which German commerce has been slipping, and failure of Russia to supply the expected commodities is believed to be responsible for seeking other sources of supply in Hungary and Yugoslavia.

The visit of the agriculture minister puts both countries in a precarious diplomatic situation, facing German domination on one side and British ire, if they comply, on the other.

Eastland Voting Polls To Remain Open Until Tonight

Voting in the Eastland city election will continue until tonight at 7 o'clock, it was stated by officials today who reported that 23 votes had been cast up to noon.

Candidates for re-election and without opposition are C. T. Lucas and C. B. Wellman. Since the polls will remain open until tonight it was urged that everyone vote that can.

Two States Voting In Primaries Today

Wisconsin and New York halted today in presidential preference primary elections, which were being watched with considerable interest by political observers throughout the nation.

In Wisconsin President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Vice President John N. Garner were opponents for the first time in an election that will be a test for the new deal. In the Republican primary Thomas Dewey of New York is opposed by Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, who is considered the favorite in that state.

In New York State, Roosevelt is expected to carry most of the 94 Democratic delegates, with approximately 84 expected to be pledged to Dewey and 10 to Frank Gannett, newspaper publisher and republican presidential nomination candidate.

Couple Killed In Accident Monday Near Cross Plains

Although funeral arrangements were incomplete, services for Mr. and Mrs. Tom Holmes of Cross Plains, who were killed in an automobile accident near that town Monday afternoon, will be held in Fort Worth, their former home. The accident in which they were killed occurred at 3:30 when their automobile left the highway and struck a tree two miles west of Cross Plains.

Holmes, an oil well driller, died a few minutes after the mishap while en route to a Cisco hospital in an ambulance. His wife died at 10:20 Monday night in a Cisco hospital. Hospital attendance said both her legs were broken, as was a hip, and that she had chest and head injuries. Holmes' death was attributed to a head fracture which left the skull open.

The tragedy occurred when the Holmes' automobile hit two dips on highway 206, apparently at a fast rate of speed. The machine went out of control and crashed into a live oak tree beside the right of way, uprooting it. The car was a 1936 model Ford.

The dips carry away high water from two small ravines during rains.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete pending word from Holmes' brother, E. A., in Bismark, N. D. It is known that rites will be held in Fort Worth, where two sisters of Mrs. Holmes reside. They are Mrs. J. M. Wyse and Mrs. Cecil Coombs. A Fort Worth undertaker went for the bodies today.

Mr. and Mrs. Holmes had lived in Cross Plains for several months.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Secretary of State Cordell Hull today said that the moral embargo of exports on airplanes and airplane parts to Russia, despite the fact that the Russo-Finnish war had ended.

BRITAIN HAS SIGNED PACTS WITH POWERS

Great Britain began a diplomatic offensive on four fronts today, with announcement of trade agreements with Denmark, Holland, Greece and Spain, whereby each of the neutral nations would be allowed to trade in British commodities, if they made an agreement not to re-sell them to the Germans.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, in the house of commons, told today, after an Easter recess, that England was prepared to draw the blockade against German goods even tighter. Chamberlain stated that there were still several holes in the naval blockade, but that these would be plugged immediately with British naval vessels and seaplanes.

Aerial activities were reported in several sections. Two German bombers were engaged by three British war planes, with one British pilot being reported killed. Germany claimed that three allied planes had been brought down by Nazi airmen and that one German plane had failed to return, from activities over the weekend.

Meantime British airmen again bombed the island of Sylt, when 25 bombs were dropped. German reports were that no damage was done. German claims that five British planes were downed were denied in London.

A British steamer, which put in at Halifax today, reported that it had engaged a German submarine off the coast of Trinidad, and it was believed the undersea craft was sunk.

From the British admiralty it was reported that only four ships, one British and three neutrals, totaling 13,961 tons, had been sunk during the past week, one of the smallest losses to shipping for any week during the war. One German freighter was scuttled by its crew.

Dates Are Assigned For Rising Star's Free Fall Exposition

RISING STAR, April 2.—At a meeting of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce, Sept. 12, 13 and 14 were set as the dates for the Free Fall Fair—about one week earlier than usual.

The earlier date was set in order to get certain entertainment attractions that could be had only on the dates given. It was also believed by the Chamber of Commerce officials that exhibits would be in better shape at that time.

It is hoped that the new Fair building, now in prospect, will be ready for the occasion.

Lewis Says Strike Is Not Necessary

NEW YORK, April 2.—John L. Lewis, president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, said today that there is "no necessary" for a strike of the transportation union controlling zone of New York City's five boroughs and threatening to tie up facilities that 5,000,000 persons use daily.

Balancing the Budget Cuts

Benjamin Franklin said, "A penny saved is a penny earned," the idea being that any little cost you could trim down, no matter how trifling was cash in the old sock.

What the colonial sage forgot to mention was that you've got to be careful about the big items, too, if you want the thrift to stick. It's thrifty to save a nickel on street car fare, but what good is it if you decide to take a taxicab instead?

That's what Congress is up against now. Practically all of the economies made in the 1940 budget by a perspiring House appear doomed to destruction in the Senate. Professional cynics, who yawned a few weeks ago when everybody in Washington was making fervent pledges to Cut Down to the Bone, are now muttering, "I told you so." It's all due to a simple mathematical formula that sometimes seems so complicated: If you add as much as you subtract, you wind up with the same total you had in the first place.

Nearly half of the $460,000,000 excess appropriations requested in the budget had been trimmed by the House before the Agriculture Appropriations bill reached the Senate. After completing action on amendments, the bill stood ready for passage with its full total of $923,000,000—an increase of nearly $209,000,000 over the bill as it was trimmed in the House and $202,000,000 above budget estimates.

The result will be that, instead of clipping off most of the $460,000,000 excess for defense appropriations, Congress may either have to borrow more money or figure out new ways of raising it. And because new taxes leave a bad taste in the mouth during an election campaign, it may be necessary to get the additional funds by increasing the national debt, which is getting dangerously close to the 45 billion dollar statutory limit.

Whatever was done to the farm bill may have been necessary or desirable. There may be better places to economize, and, perhaps, before Congress places its final seal of approval on the budget, those places will have been found.

The point is that Congress must reconcile itself to one of three things: a higher national debt, more taxes or economy in government. It would be nice to know in advance which it's going to be.

If Congress can't trim expenses, it might be better if there wasn't quite so much economy noise early in the season.

Alabama counties will not furnish motorboats to their sheriffs to chase criminals fleeing by water. One bathing suit each will be the limit.

A New York Holstein cow has been assured of an old-age pension in the will of her owner. No more worrying where the next ton of alfalfa was coming from.

277 Buildings Are Constructed In WPA District

FORT WORTH, Tex.—WPA workers have erected, reconstructed and built additions to 277 public buildings in the Fort Worth district, according to a report issued today by District Manager Karl E. Wallace.

Wallace's report, covering building, public utilities, and outdoor recreational facilities, was the second in a series of four statements detailing total physical accomplishments in this section during four and one-half years of WPA activities.

WPA workers have constructed 197 new buildings, reconstructed 66 buildings, and made additions to 14 existing structures. There have been built 23 schools, 37 schools have been reconstructed, and additions have been made to three school buildings. One library has been improved. WPA workers have built three auditoriums and improved two. There have been built 19 gymnasiums, two gymnasiums have been improved, and additions have been added to one. Other recreational buildings, including community houses, park structures, and similar public improvements, have been built in 30 localities; six such buildings have been improved and eight additions have been made.

Public offices and administrative buildings have been constructed in six cities. WPA workers have built two hospitals and two firehouses. Public garages have been built in two localities and two garages have been improved. WPA workers have erected one storage building and two such buildings have been reconstructed.

All other types of buildings constructed by WPA workers in this section number 110, improvements have been made on 14 miscellaneous structures, and additions built on two buildings. In clearing sites for new buildings and in removing unsightly and hazardous outmoded structures WPA workers have demolished 50 buildings.

Efforts of WPA workers in this area have created stadium facilities sufficient to accommodate a total of 9,700 spectators in 11 new stadiums, and additions built on two existing stadiums. Building of a fair grounds plant added also to recreational facilities. Five new parks have been created and 43 have been improved. Most of the 65 playgrounds built and 26 improved, are located on school campuses.

Athletic fields have been built in 50 towns and improved in 30 others. WPA workers have built eight swimming pools and improved three. They have built one golf course and improved nine. Other recreational facilities created by WPA workers include two horse-shoe courts built; 189 tennis courts built, three improved; three wading pools built; three handshells built and two improved.

Improvement of public health conditions and extension of public utility services were covered in a third section of the report issued by Wallace. In this area four utility plants were constructed or improved. This included the building of an incinerator plant, improvement of a sewage treatment plant, the building of one water treatment plant and the reconstruction of another.

WPA Workers Laid 84 Miles of New Water Mains, Aqueducts and Distribution Lines in This Area and Improved 15 Miles of Such Facilities.

There were installed 924 consumer connections. Two water wells were dug. In five cities storage tanks or reservoirs were built. Storage dams were improved in five localities.

Storm and sanitary sewers measuring 29 miles were laid in new localities and seven miles of existing sewers were improved. Sewerage service connections were made to 1,513 homes. Manholes and catch basins were installed in 362 localities.

A major activity in the fight against typhoid, dysentery, hookworm, and other filth-borne diseases was the construction of 6,641 sanitary privies and the repair of 143 sanitary units. Malaria control also was forwarded by the drainage of 4,340 acres of land and the improvement of eight miles of drainage ditch and pipe.

126 Charters Given For Firms In State

AUSTIN, Tex.—A total of 126 charters was granted during February to new corporations to operate in Texas, as compared with 143 in January and 101 in February a year ago, records of the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research show.

The new concerns, however, represented more money, as total capitalization stood at $3,019,000, compared to $2,055,000 in January and $1,000,000 in February, 1939. The majority of the new companies were in the merchandising field—50, but 26 new manufacturing enterprises were chartered, and 14 oil companies.

Fifteen foreign corporations received permission to operate in Texas.

Suicide, Ruined Man, Is Worth $500,000

LONDON.—When Oliver Dalton, owner of Brighton's Palace Pier, turned on the gas and died in the kitchen of his luxurious home last October, he thought he was a ruined man, but his will, which has just been probated, leaves a fortune of $580,500.

One of Brighton's three wealthiest men, Dalton accumulated his wealth from pennies that went into slot machines. He was the first to introduce bathing machines at Brighton.

Quick-Freezing To Stop Overproduction Losses To Growers

AUSTIN, Tex.—A key to elimination of wasteful overproduction of Texas-grown foods will be found in quick-freezing, a University of Texas engineer believes.

Luis H. Bartlett, assistant for the Bureau of Engineering Research engaged in quick-freeze research, said juice from the surplus citrus crop of last season could have been placed in quick-freeze and kept for an indefinite period. In preserving the taste and flavor of the original juices the new low-temperature processes have an advantage over canning where flavor and color have to be added, he said.

Quick-freeze offers food to the market at its freshest, he added.

Sweetwater Will Have Golf Tourney Beginning Apr. 18

SWEETWATER, Tex.—Preparations are under way for West Texas' first golf tournament of the 1940 season, the fourth annual invitation of the Sweetwater Golf Association, to be played over the 18-holes grass greens course at Lake Sweetwater April 18 through the 21. Lonnie Wendland of San Antonio is the defending champion and he has indicated he will be here to defend the title.

More than $300 in prizes will be awarded the winners and runners-up of each flight, winners of consolation flights, medalist, winner of the long driving contest and winners of team play.

Qualifying scores are to be recorded by 6 p. m. opening day, to be followed by the long driving contest, a barbecue and the Calcutta pool.

President Paul Connell announces appointment of the following committee chairmen: Entertainment, O. O. Harris; Ladies Entertainment, Mrs. Bill Sheridan; Registration, Henry M. Rogers; Prizes, Rigdon Edwards; Rules, Guy Wilson; Pairings, R. R. Lacy; Calcutta Pool, L. M. Watson; Publicity, George D. Barber.

The Lake Sweetwater course was increased to 18 holes in July of last year and many golf sharpshooters have declared it to be one of the sportiest lay-outs in this section of the state. Grass tees and tee shelters have been added and an additional footbridge has been put across an arm of the lake on one of the six water hazards.

Last year 182 qualifiers turned in cards for the third annual and this number is expected to be exceeded on April 18 this year.

Wild Guineas Fare Well In South Texas

AUSTIN, Tex.—The wild Cuban guineas planted in South Texas last winter by the state Game Department apparently are doing well in their new habitat, according to reports received by the Department's executive secretary. The birds are expected to start nesting soon.

Wild guineas are considered excellent sport in Cuba. The Game Department is attempting to propagate them to provide another game bird for Texas sportsmen. A total of 200 birds were planted in South Texas. Should they do well, 1,000 more will be imported, the executive secretary said. While the birds apparently are adapting themselves and few are being lost to predators, it will not be known whether the experiment is a success until one or two nesting season activities have been studied by the Department's biologists.

SERIAL STORY

K. O. CAVALIER BY JERRY BRONDFIELD

YESTERDAY: Val urges Hansen to let her handle the showboat victims. To turn back will bring investigation by port authorities...

CHAPTER V

CAPTAIN HANSEN'S jaw sagged a full inch. "Val," he said softly, "how in thunder is that box-fighter going to train on board the Belle?"

Duffy Kelso looked sick. Eddie Cavalier looked at her with eyes that said he longed to get his hands around her throat.

"Miss Douglas." It was Pop Grimes, pleading with her. "Honored lady, this is as funny as a crutch. Your admiral there, is right. Even if you don't put around and take us back to Frisco how can Eddie get in shape here?"

Pop Grimes licked his lips. "Right," he whispered. "But..." "But nothing," she flashed. "It so happens that Mike Kelly, who you probably remember as a pretty fair heavyweight a few years back, is a seaman aboard this ship. Fortunately for us he has a couple sets of gloves and a light bag which he and some of the boys use in their spare time. Mike'll be as good a sparring partner as you'd want. And Cavalier can do the road work he wants to around the deck."

"Go ahead," Cavalier said grimly. "This is the most fantastic thing I've come across since Jules Verne."

"We can pitch a ring on the after deck."

Pop Grimes clasped a hand to his chest and groaned again. "But his timing—his timing. It'll be ruined. This tub probably pitches like a bucking bronco. It'll throw him so far off balance he'll fall flat on his face."

"Wrong again. This vessel is the smoothest floating freighter on the Pacific. And a guy who punches as sharp as Cavalier doesn't have to worry about losing his timing in a few days."

Eddie Cavalier presented her with a mock bow. "Such flattery must come from the heart," he murmured. "To think you know have a good word to say about me."

"Make the most of it," she retorted. "It might be the last one."

DUFFY KELSO shook his head mournfully. "Eddie, it looks like this dame is going through with it. Maybe we oughta wire Sam Golden and tell him to cancel."

Then turning once again to Val, "Look, lady. Sam Golden is one promoter we want to do right by. He had to work on Mike Jacobs plenty hard to get this fight in Frisco. We owe Sam a lot. He gave us our start three years ago. What'll we tell him?"

"That's exactly why you can't cancel, Duffy. You see, I know what ground I'm treading on. You can't let Golden down now. And you also know darn well that if you don't get a crack at the champ now he'll stall you off for another year."

Duffy Kelso spread his hands eloquently. "This dame, Pop... she knows all the angles."

"Right again, Kelso. And then it was Val Douglas who was pleading."

"Duffy, it'll be terrific. Can't you see it? All you've got to do is wire Sam Golden that everything is okay. That this was a surprise move on your part... Didn't want to tell anyone, not even him. You can explain that you wanted to get Eddie away from the usual burly-burly of the training grind... That Eddie needed the rest as much as the private training quarters."

"Duffy, it's great publicity. Terrific. Duffy, I'll pack that ball park so that an undernourished snat won't be able to get in. It's the natural of the century. Kelso, and if you can't see it you're not as bright as I think you are."

Pop Grimes was bug-eyed. Eddie Cavalier stared at her, wondering. Steve Hansen was awed. And over Duffy Kelso's face stole a far-away look of understanding.

"I wish it wasn't you," she said. "I wish it wasn't you because I think maybe you got something."

"Sure I got something, Duffy," she purred. "For awhile, though, I thought you were going to be a little hard to handle, what with such swell physical support you have behind you," she concluded, eyeing Cavalier deliberately.

She turned to Hansen. "They're your playmates for the time being, Stevie—have fun."

VAL leaned against a lifeboat, letting a soft spring wind blow through her hair when she heard footsteps on the deck. She turned around quickly. It was Eddie Cavalier.

"Oh... it's you."

"Yeah... me. Aren't you afraid I'll throw you overboard?" He looked up at the dark, overcast sky. "Good night for something like that and no one's around."

"You're positively gorgeous. It's a wonder they never tagged you Killer Cavalier."

"Of course you know there wouldn't be a juror in the world that would convict me."

She laughed mockingly. "Of course not." And then changing the subject. "How goes it with friends Kelso and Grimes? Are they settled for the night? They're such sweet people."

"Last I saw of them," he replied, "not without a trace of humor, they were trying to figure out how a human being goes about sleeping in those iron double-deck bunks."

"You're practically on a luxury liner. What would you do if we had hammocks?"

"For the first time that night he smiled, and she figured it must have hurt him terribly for the effort."

"You weren't serious about making us work?" he asked. "Quite," she said icily. "That was the purpose of the thing in the first place, you know."

"And if we refuse..."

"You simply don't eat," she said blandly.

"I never was one to shirk a little labor," he said quietly, "but don't you think you ought to make a little concession in my case. I've still got a lot at stake, you know."

"I'll have to think about that," she said. "We'll see if Captain Hansen can spare you entirely, or at least part of the time."

BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON BY BRUCE CATTON

WASHINGTON.—Unhappy as the plight of the sharecropper, there doesn't seem to be any way to keep his friends from fighting among themselves over who is going to help him.

Fight centers between the Southern Tenant Farmers' Union, on the one hand, and the C. I. O., United Cannery, Agricultural, Packing and Allied Workers of America on the other.

More accurately, it is between the rival left-wing groups which back these two organizations.

Socialists have lined up behind the Tenant Farmers' Union, Communist-backed the UCA PAWA — although the latter also has many supporters affiliated with neither.

Row came out in the open recently in connection with observance of National Sharecroppers Week.

THIS annual appeal to northern liberals for funds has for three years been the chief means by which the Tenant Farmers' Union filled its war chest.

IT probably is safe to assume that Senator Wagner's recent statement that a change to a five-man labor board, plus certain minor amendments, would be okay with him, represents President Roosevelt's view and will be accepted at this session by the administration.

NEW YORK.—For the twelfth consecutive month fluid milk sales continue to show gains over a year ago.

Daily average sales of fluid milk during February increased 2.48 per cent over the same period a year ago, according to reports from leading distributors in 136 markets to the Milk Industry Foundation.

Milk company payrolls in February showed an increase of 1.87 per cent and employment a decrease of .80 of 1 per cent compared with February 1939.

cultivation. "Land in Texas and Oklahoma is in the main smooth to gently rolling, which combined with low rainfall has made large-scale operation with machinery the ideal set-up for cotton production in this region," he said.

"A program of drastically limiting cotton acreage in this region destroys its advantages in cotton production."

Exports to Russia NOT ABNORMAL DECENT reports that Germany has been getting a lot of war-useful materials from the United States via Soviet Russia don't seem to be borne out by the Commerce Department's figures.

CONRAD Brady of Mineral Wells, who has held every office in the State Junior Chamber of Commerce except president, was one of the chief speakers, discussing the work of a Jaycee unit.

Several committees were appointed.

WESTERNERS are still losing only six. Gabby Hartnett, also 40, spent just one year with Worcester of the Eastern League in 1921 and then hopped to the Cubs, for whom he has been catching for 18 years.

JOHNNY COONEY broke in as a pitcher with the old Boston Braves when he was 20 years old, back in 1920. After shutting back and forth between the mound, outfield and first base he went to the garden for good in 1924 and now is rated one of the greatest defensive pitchers in the game.

CLINT BROWN is still winning for the White Sox at 37. The Giants' Carl Hubbell at the same age, is the most respected outpunch in the National League.

EARL AVERILL, Detroit gardener, is 37. So is the Tigers' Charley Gehringer. Charley Huffing of the Yankees is 36 but still the all-around hurler in the American League. Washington's Sam West is 36. So is Pepper Martin of the Cards.

Baseball isn't entirely a young man's game.

All U. S. to See Rare Annular Eclipse of Sun

Ring blackout of the sun on April 7, 1940 will be best seen by the U. S. in narrow belt indicated by shaded area on map. Shaded discs show how solar phenomenon will appear at height of eclipse in various sections of the country, with moon moving from right to left across face of sun.

Total Eclipse of Sun Will Be Visible Throughout This Part of the State

By Dr. OTTO STRUBE, Director McDonald Observatory, Fort Davis, Texas

The annular eclipse of the sun on April 7, 1940, will be visible throughout the whole United States, but the path of the annular phase, where the sun will be visible as a ring, passes only through the southernmost states: Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Florida and Georgia.

the eclipse will not be annular but the magnitude of the eclipse will be 0.92, differing by only one-hundredth of the diameter of the sun from the most favorable condition. An expedition from the McDonald Observatory will be sent into the Big Bend National Park in the Chisos Mountains of southwestern Texas, where the central line of the annular eclipse cuts from Mexico into the United States.

Cotton Farmers Suffer from Loss Of Cotton Markets

AUSTIN, Tex.—Farmers of the Southwest—Texas and Oklahoma have had to suffer the loss in the national cotton production curtailment program, a University of Texas cotton expert has pointed out.

While other sections of the Cotton Belt have counteracted reduced cotton acreage with intensive cultivation, the Southwest—balked by climate—has seen its share of the national cotton harvest dwindle from 41.8 per cent in 1924-25 to only 28.4 per cent in 1939.

Substitution of balace for acreage reduction would have protected Texas and Oklahoma from this fate, he believes, citing that other sections of the Cotton Belt have balanced their acreage slice by intensive cultivation.

Translated into acreage and balace-per-acre comparisons, the curtailment program stacks up thus: Southwest—1934-38 acreage cut 38.8 per cent under 1924-25, yield per acre, down 1 per cent to 140.2 pounds per acre.

Southeast—acreage cut 82.7 per cent, yield boosted 29.3 per cent, to 231.3 pounds.

Old Garbage Heap Surprise To Driller

TAMPA, Fla.—When drillers sounded for water near Tampa they brought in a geyser of gas, water, mud and rocks that shot 100 feet into the air.

The phenomenon prompted drillers to call a newspaper. The newspaper in turn called a University of Tampa geologist, who supplied the following explanation: "The drill tapped a prehistoric 'garbage heap' where rotting vegetation had been accumulating under a limestone shelf for 10,000 years."

Texas Wins Second Place For A Safety Record During 1939

AUSTIN, Tex.—Winner of second place in the 1939 National Traffic Safety Contest among states, Texas will be awarded its prize at the Safety Banquet of the Texas Safety Conference in Austin, April 16th.

Governor O'Daniel will be invited to receive the award on behalf of the state, it was announced here today by C. J. Rutland, president of the Texas Safety Association. The presentation will be made by Sidney Williams, director of the National Safety Council.

In announcing the results of the nationwide safety competition, the National Safety Council praised the co-ordinated traffic control program under the direction of the state departments of public safety, highway and education and the Texas Safety Association.

Grand prize winner of the national contest was the smallest state in the union, Rhode Island. The Safety Award Banquet of the Texas Safety Conference will feature awards to Texas' safest cities which will include Beaumont, winner of second place among cities of its population in the national contest.

The Texas Safety Conference will be held at the state capitol building and will be free to the public. Ten national authorities on traffic safety will head the list of speakers.

Measels Still Is Pevlant In State With 8,000 Cases

AUSTIN, Tex.—"During 1939 over eight thousand cases of measles were reported to the State Department of Health. This large number is not unusual, since the disease characteristically assumes a cyclic nature with alternate periods of high and low incidence. 1937 represented a year of expected large number of cases, with a total of 14,768, while 1938 dropped to 5,710 cases. Lowest incidence of the past half decade was in 1935 with 4,073 cases of measles reported," states Dr. George W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"Of considerable importance, however, is the fact that parents of small children frequently are entirely indifferent to this disease. Assuming a more or less fatalistic attitude, many of them believe that the sooner the disease is contracted by their young children the quicker the trouble will be over. This viewpoint undoubtedly is the result of a false sense of security regarding measles.

"That many cases of measles are mild in comparison with those of the other communicable diseases is true. It is a fact, also, that many victims recover without grave consequences. Nevertheless, there is another side of the story that deserves consideration.

"In children under five years of age measles is a serious disease. The illness is more severe, the complications more numerous, and death occurs much more frequently than in those who are attacked at an older age. Though only a fraction of the total measles cases occur in the age group under five years, the greatest majority of deaths result from these comparatively few cases. Moreover, undernourished children and those already suffering from other diseases, regardless of age, are more affected than are normal children.

"It should be apparent, therefore, that every care should be taken to protect young children from exposure until they have passed that period of life in which the disease takes its greatest toll. "If efforts to protect fail, it follows naturally that nursing care and medical advice should be applied promptly, especially whenever a child under five years of age contracts the disease.

"It is important that a sufficient period of isolation, particularly among school children, should be had to prevent needless transmission of the disease. An isolation period of two weeks is usually sufficient."

PAMPHLET RAIDS OVER GERMANY STRIKE BLOW AT NAZI MORALE

By MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent LONDON.—Here in wartime Britain—where great pride is taken in the successful flights over Germany by the Royal Air Force—there are those in parliamentary and literary circles who are complaining because the planes do not drop bombs instead of leaflets.

"This has no effect upon the Chamberlain government. The powers that be are well satisfied. If there is to be any bombing of cities, they are not going to start it.

They are pleased when Hitler roars at one of his hand-picked audiences that he does not mind the British dropping their "idiotic pamphlets" around.

GESTAPO FORBIDS READING LEAFLETS
Britain knows he does mind, or else he would not yell about it. She also knows he minds, because his Gestapo hangs over the head of every German the threat of death or imprisonment for reading British leaflets, passing them along to a neighbor or discussing them.

By making these flights, the young R. A. F. sky warriors become familiar with air routes that lead to German cities. They obtain locations of the most dangerous German anti-aircraft guns and searchlights.

Aside from this, the government has other causes of satisfaction. WALL OF IGNORANCE SURROUNDS GERMANY
Germany is surrounded by a Chinese wall. The German people read in their papers only what the government would have them read. They hear on the radio only what the Nazis want them to hear.

Imprisonment or death is the penalty for having verboten papers or magazines from the outside world in one's possession; or for listening to foreign broadcasts.

In the view of the British government, the saucy young flyers of the R. A. F. have made three breaches in the Nazi wall of ignorance with their flights over Germany:
1. When a German finds in his front yard a British leaflet, even though he dare not read it, he knows that Nazi leaders have lied to him in minimizing the ability of the British air force. If he lives in Berlin, he knows enemy aircraft have flown 600 miles over German territory to act as postmen for those leaflets.
2. When there is no report of these British aircraft being brought down, he begins to doubt Goering's boast that Germany's defense against enemy bombers is impregnable.
3. The German knows that if the Nazis begin bombing British or French cities, the enemy can make terrible reprisals. He can easily figure that the same aircraft which dropped harmless leaf-

Two Run 11 Miles While Barefooted

By United Press
PALESTINE, Tex.—The distance from Palestine to Elkhart by highway is between 11 and 12 miles. But to Jack Meredith and Oswald Paxton of Elkhart it is one hour and 45 minutes—under certain conditions.

Failing to catch a ride home, they started trotting from Palestine to Elkhart along the highway. They were barefooted. How long they kept up the original pace, they wouldn't say, but they revealed their elapsed time was 15 minutes short of two hours.

"It should be apparent, therefore, that every care should be taken to protect young children from exposure until they have passed that period of life in which the disease takes its greatest toll.

"If efforts to protect fail, it follows naturally that nursing care and medical advice should be applied promptly, especially whenever a child under five years of age contracts the disease.
