Voice of Peace Intrudes

British statesmen, charged with the conduct of the war, are beginning to hear distant rumblings that sound distressingly like peace pleas.

The British Labor party nominally behind the Chamberlain government's war policy, is beginning to have some qualms about the war. The party has under consideration 13 separate resolutions for withdrawal of support. The various proposals will be debated at the Labor Party's Whitsuntide conference May 13. War leaders obviously are disturbed. The hostility of the Labor party would seriously menace Britain's home front.

In the meantime, other pacifist groups, emboldened by the lengthy prelude to actual warfare, are becoming too articulate for the government to ignore. Chief among these groups is the Public Economy League, formed during the World War to promote sound economy. Its members argue that a long war might conceivably mean the defeat of Hitlerism and the prostration of an exhausted Germany, but that England, too, would be economically and morally

On top of all this, H. G. Wells, who still enjoys an appreciable British audience and who has been a constant critic of British war aims, has come to the conclusion that the government is "grossly incompetent." Wells said that a recent British government publication showed that "we are fighting for the British empire and imperialism."

"If this is the stuff we are fighting for," he said "then it is foolish to fight."

The trouble is not so much a conflict with the Chamberlain government as with the fundamental principle of war itself. While the military has been getting up steam for the big offensive, the populace of Britain has had time to wonder whether it's a smart idea to have a war at all.

The World War brought this cynicism and eventual disillusion, too-but not until it was all over. This time it is cropping up before the war has seriously begun. It looks hopeful for the peace crowd. The people don't need to go to war if they make it clear that they don't want to.

Import-Export Bank agrees to finance big Brazil railroad improvements. That's putting the steam into Pan Am-

Now they're linking Manhattan's murder ring with some Florida jewel robberies. Can it be this bunch is also responsible for the long puzzled death of Cock Robin?

There are tasks that could be more futile, but we can't think of any. Senator Ernest Lundeen heads the "Make Europe Pay War Debts Committee."

We have it on good authority that Eleanor Roosevelt's new radio program, sponsored by a soap company, will be just good, clean fun.

TEXAS farmers and ranchers received last year from oil men the huge sum of $132,478,000 for leases and royalties as their share in this partnership.

All but seven of Texas' 254 counties now share in this cash return from leases and production on more than 50,000,000 acres of Texas land.

Then too, the Texas farmers and ranchers sell to oil workers and their families more than $60,000,000 worth of farm and livestock products each year.

Thus the farmers and ranchers of our state receive nearly 200 million dollars a year as their share of oil's total expenditure of 750 million dollars annually in Texas. These 200 million dollars in turn flow into every channel of Texas trade.

The Texas farmer and rancher and the oil man are partners in the development of Texas.
