NAMED FRENCH ALPINE TROOPS ARE IN NORWAY

By United Press

France and Britain on Fuehrer's 51st birthday anniversary today, announced that French troops, believed to be the famous mountain fighting Alpine assaulters, had landed in Norway in battle line legions there.

The feature of the day in Berlin was presentation to Hitler of collection of hundreds of thousands of tons of metal—scrap, shrapnel and other objects gathered throughout the Reich to be turned down for munitions.

German celebrations started a night when the official German news agency D.N.B. said that British transport ships and a liner had been struck by bombs in the Norwegian coast, creating a panic among British soldiers sent to disembark.

The Germans claimed that the British had not landed enough troops in Norway to challenge the German occupation.

There was equal confidence on the allied side. In addition to discrediting the reports of the French and British experts said that the Royal Air Force and the Royal Navy, by attacks on Stavanger and other German air bases in Norway, had made it almost impossible for the German air force to operate.

As result, it was claimed, the German transports had reached the Norwegian coast "unscathed." The British said that heavy artillery, equipment and other kinds of "thousands" of troops had been sent over, without mishap, Norwegian ports across 400 miles of sea.

For military reasons the allies continued to refuse to say how many troops were in Norway but it was said that the Anglo-French forces had established contact with Norwegian troops and were ready for major operations. A Stockholm newspaper estimated that the allies had three divisions, some 55,000 men in Norway.

German Air Raid Destroys a Town North of Oslo

Oslo, April 20.—Eye witnesses reaching the frontier today said that German bombing planes in a series of raids Friday had destroyed the center of the Norwegian town of Rena, 25 miles northwest of Elverum.

The attacks indicated German preparations to push northward into Central Norway to consolidate German defenses of the whole Oslo area against possible Allied land attacks, it was believed.

Destruction of Rena began with a raid by five German planes Friday morning. All of Rena's center was burned out with the exception of a hotel and an old church built of hand-hewn logs. Neither the church nor hotel was struck.

The attacks began when German Heinkel planes dropped four high explosive bombs. Norwegian defenders on the ground fired on the planes with machine guns and reported that they believed they had struck one. Later the Germans made four more air raids on the town but each of these attacks was made by only one German plane.

In all except the first raid, when high explosive missiles were used, the Germans dropped incendiary bombs on Rena, the witnesses reported.

Rena was regarded as the next logical objective in the line of the German advance since it is the first town of any size north of Elverum.

100 Head Cattle For Dairy Day At Eastland, April 23.

The house was called to order by the president, the minutes were read and approved and a 10-minute period of recreation was observed.

Nazi Boys Told They Will Have Wars 'To Fight In'

By RICHARD C. HOTTELET

United Press Staff Correspondent
BERLIN, April 20.—Rudolph Hess, deputy Nazi party leader, told German boys in an Adolf Hitler birthday address today not to feel badly because they were too young to fight in this war because Germany would win and provide them with colonies in which to roam, explore and fight when they grow up.

"Some of the older of you may still reach the front in this war, and all of you will be given an opportunity to show you are regular fellows," he said.

"After this war Germany will have colonies. There you will have room enough and opportunity enough to exercise your youthful fire in work, adventure, battle and diligence in strange lands and farms. All you in whom the blood of the old Vikings flows must be moved by this. There, you can undertake trips of exploration on your own German territory."

The Hess speech inaugurated a red letter day in Nazi German history—the 51st anniversary of the birth of Adolf Hitler at Braunau, Upper Austria, the son of a minor customs official and a peasant woman, in the reign of the Emperor Francis Joseph and the same year that the emperor's son, Rudolph, committed suicide.

Hess, the handsome No. 3 Nazi next in line after Air Minister Hermann Goering to succeed Hitler, said:

"We hope Adolf Hitler will be with us many more decades, guide us, form us, give our lives purpose."

Special orders of the day went out to the army, navy and air force paying tribute to Hitler, but the high point of the celebration was the presentation to Hitler of a collection of hundreds of thousands of tons of metal—scrap, statues and other objects gathered throughout the Reich, to be melted down for munitions.

A statement by the official news agency last night that two British transport ships and a cruiser had been struck by bombs off the Norwegian coast yesterday got the celebration off to an auspicious start. The agency said the bombs had "created panic" among British troops preparing to disembark and that "the greater part of the soldiers jumped into the water and attempted to swim to shore, which was several miles away."

It said the cruiser was so badly damaged it remained motionless and "emitted smoke and oil patches," although it was impossible for German fliers to tell whether the cruiser had sunk because two warships approached and opened fire with anti-aircraft guns.

Summarizing the general war situation in connection with the celebration, the official news agency said that the British had not yet landed enough troops to cause effective resistance anywhere in Norway except at Harstad, northwest of Narvik, and that the only result of the landing there had been to extend the war to other regions of Norway that otherwise would have been spared.

Oil Output In Nation Shows Drop

HOUSTON, Texas, April 20.—National crude oil production dropped 47,085 barrels daily this week from the record output reached last week and averaged 3,863,22 barrels for the period ending today.

Germans Dig In For Battle Near Trondheim Front

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, April 20.—Preparations for a battle between German and Allied-Norwegian forces in the Levanger region, south of Steinkjer and just north of Trondheim were reported today in dispatches to the newspaper Allehanda from Osterund, Central Sweden.

Allehanda reported that German troops were digging in at Levanger. Their trench system was reported to indicate that the Germans did not plan an attack but had chosen defensive tactics.

The Osterund dispatches expressed belief that the German troops at Levanger had been reinforced by German detachments from Meeraker on the Norwegian-Swedish border.

It was reported also that a considerable number of Allied reinforcements had arrived in the sector from Imsoen to confront the Germans. They also were increasing indications of the progressive mobilization of Norwegian forces, Allehanda said. The Norwegians were reported to have been cheered by news that French troops had landed on their soil.

ALLIES LAND TROOPS WITH NO LIFE LOST

By United Press

LONDON, April 20.—Great Britain and France have landed their expeditionary force in Norway without a single loss, it was asserted officially today despite German claims of warship and transport sinkings.

"This proves more than ever that the Allied fleets are completely controlling the sea routes," it was said.

It was understood that France had sent some of her famous Alpine Chasseurs to join the Allied force.

Heavy artillery as well as army equipment and "thousands" of troops have been taken safely over 400 miles of sea to Norwegian ports without mishap, it was asserted.

The total strength of the expeditionary force could not be revealed for military reasons, official quarters said, but it was added that Anglo-French troops had effected contact with Norwegian forces and were already in position for major operations. It was intimated that the Allied force might now be called formidable.

British cruisers, destroyers and submarines, supported by Royal Air Force planes, guarded transport ships and drove off attacks by German U-boats and airplanes, it was said.

Some military experts reported that British, French and Norwegian troops might soon launch an offensive intended to drive German troops from the vital Trondheim Mid-Norway belt.

Aviation experts expressed belief that British air force and naval attacks on Stavanger and other German air bases in Norway had made it extremely difficult for the German air force to operate. It was because of this, they asserted, that Allied transports reached Norway "unscathed."

Roosevelt Picked Over Washington As Great American

NEW YORK, April 20.—President Roosevelt outranked George Washington as "the greatest American, living or dead" and runs neck and neck with Abraham Lincoln for first place, early results in a city-wide poll of New Yorkers by Town Hall indicated today.

In third and fourth places were Thomas A. Edison and Benjamin Franklin, respectively, with Herbert Hoover fifth. The five were the only names receiving votes, although the ballot permitted any name to be written in.

Mark Twain was reported leading on the question, "Who is the greatest American, living or dead, in the field of arts?" Ralph Waldo Emerson was second. Others receiving votes were Whitlister, Walter Damrosch, Oliver Wendell Holmes, Walt Whitman, Will Rogers and Anne Lindbergh.

Self-reliance and humor was the most frequent answer to the question, "What do you consider the most universal characteristic?" Others included "Allowing Roosevelt to get us so deeply into debt," Equality of the sexes, "Giving half-baked opinions on matters of which they know nothing," Being in a hurry, Desire to stay young, Frankness, Gullibility and Philanthropy.

Final results of the poll will be announced next Thursday at a luncheon given by the Town Hall board of trustees on the subject, "What Makes America?"

Our $6,000,000,000 Itch

The itchy foot, one of the most pronounced of American characteristics, is going to hand business a $6,000,000,000 boost this summer.

That's an estimate of what the people of the United States will spend on travel and things connected with it in 1940. That is a tremendous business, the third largest, in fact, in the country.

This year for the first time in many years, practically all of it will be spent in the western hemisphere, and most of it in the United States and its possessions. Europe is largely closed this year to the traveler, and the quarter of a billion dollars which used to be spent there on a single summer's travel will tinkle in western cash registers this season.

The New York and San Francisco fairs will continue to draw their millions. The national parks and favorite domestic summer resorts will again be strong magnets.

But more than ever before, this year will be Pan American year for the wayfarer. Cruises through South American waters, and by air to the southlands are already being booked full.

Many thousands will become acquainted with American territories and possessions for the first time—Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands. Thousands will seize the opportunity to drive across the borders to call on our nextdoor neighbors, Canada and Mexico. The Rotarians and Lions conventions form an advance guard of a huge tourist invasion of Cuba, and Central and South America are certain to see streams of tourists such as have never flowed southward before.

It is an unparalleled opportunity, with Europe closed, for the Americas to get acquainted with each other. And it is also a fine chance to solve in some little measure the problem of inter-American trade.

The southern countries and Canada, all want to buy more American goods. They are handicapped because we buy so little of theirs, and hence send them so few American dollars with which they can buy our exports. But travel is one thing which the other American countries have for sale which we can buy more liberally.

It Takes Five Jobs For Boy In School To Pay His Way

FORT WORTH, Tex.—It takes five jobs to enable Charlton McKinney to get a college education, but instead of complaining, he's looking around for a sixth. The day opens for "Chili" (that is his campus name at Texas Christian University, where he is a junior) at 6:30 a. m. when he starts an hour and one-half stretch at a boarding house. From 8 o'clock until noon, he attends classes. He is a major in the School of Business. From noon until 1 o'clock he puts in a rush hour at the soda fountain at a drug store bordering the campus. At 1 p. m. he takes up a four-hour shift at maintenance work on the campus. Through with this job at 5:00 o'clock, Chili has an unoccupied half hour on his hands. This is where he thinks he might squeeze in some additional task, just in case he might be tempted to waste his time. At 5:30 p. m. he goes back to the drug store and is on duty there until 11 p. m. "And so to bed," as old Sam Peppys was wont to put it.

Police Benefit Show Tickets Go On Sale Monday

Chief of Police Guy Pledger stated today that ticket sales for the police benefit show, to be held at midnight, Thursday, May 9, would be started Monday.

An effort is to be made to have every store and business house in Ranger purchase the tickets, with 100 per cent firms being listed in the paper from day to day. There is no obligation on the part of anyone to purchase tickets, it was pointed out, but the cooperation of the citizenship was urged, in order that new uniforms for the police officers might be purchased.

All the funds from the show, with nothing taken out by the Arcadia Theatre for expenses, will be turned over to the police for their uniform fund.

The show is to be presented by "3 Cheers for the Irish," a comedy starring Priscilla Lane and Thomas Mitchell.

Pollution Not Cause For Fish Deaths

AUSTIN, Tex.—Lake owners, seeing fish die this time of year, blame pollution for it. But, in most cases, it is caused by too much oxygen being taken from the water by microscopic plants and animals, according to a recent announcement by chief aquatic biologist of the Texas Game Department.

Fish die in the morning more than in the evening, which shows that lack of oxygen in the water is killing the fishy fellows.

Two ways to assist in remedying this situation are: supply the lake with fresh water. Or run a motor boat over the lake with the propeller set partly out of the water, causing the water to pick up dissolved oxygen.

To color coconut, first color water then pour over coconut and place on waxed paper to dry.

CHAPTER XXI THEY dropped into an obscure little tavern on a side street. "Okay," said Duffy. "Unload. I'm dyin' of curiosity."

The Express boxing writer grinned. "Duffy, to begin with, you've got to stow us away on your ship tonight, or some time before you sail in the morning."

"Go ahead, Kenny. Nothing surprises me any more. In fact, I know what happens from then on. You start a mutiny, seize the ship and run off to hunt purple polar bears."

Bradley reached out and took Duffy's glass away from him. "You gotta quit drinking that stuff, Duffy," he said gravely. "Now listen to me."

"Our papers shipped in to charter a plane and get us up here in time to sail back with that outfit. That Douglas dame has scooped everyone. She's given her syndicate some newsbats that'll be used to shame us men for years to come."

"You got a right to talk about beatings," Duffy mumbled. "You ain't heard nothing." "I can guess, from that story she did when you were seasick."

"It's a lie!" Duffy roared, but Bradley ignored him. "Anyway," he continued, "Monroe and I have to get on board that ship and make the trip back with you. We've just got to get in on a couple of those stories. Holy mackerel, Duffy, do you realize this is the first time any fighter ever trained for such an important scrap aboard a ship?"

"You're tellin' me," Kelso moaned. "Yes," Monroe cut in. "And we'll dare try to buy passage back. Douglas has too much of an in with this Captain Hansen. She'd put the skids under us."

"That's why we need your help, Duffy," Bradley said eagerly. "We've got to be well out to sea before they discover us. It'll be too late to do anything about it then."

Duffy closed his eyes and a beatific smile stole over his face. "Boys," he said, "this is wonderful. This gives me new life. This is... eeahh, but that dame will throw a fit!"

Bradley grinned. "Attaboy, Duffy. I knew you wouldn't let us down."

Duffy frowned. "It ain't gonna be easy. It might take a little dough."

"Whatever you need, Duffy, we've got." "DUFFY KELSO was bubbling over so that he could hardly talk when he returned to the ship and collared Pop Grimes. He explained everything.

"But we can't even tell Eddie," he warned. "I ain't so sure he'll be on our side."

And so it was that when the Northern Belle nosed back into Chatham Sound and into the straits the next morning Ken Bradley and Bob Monroe were among those present. It had taken ticklish work and two $50 bills to convince a couple of good-natured seamen that it was a gag.

Val was in the chartroom with Captain Hansen when Barney MacGregor entered. Barney sat down heavily. "We've got two stowaways," he announced flatly. "We got what?" Hansen belatedly asked.

"Stowaways," Barney repeated wearily as though it might have been something he had been expecting all along. "And what do you think they are—reporters?"

"Names are Bradley and Monroe. Know 'em?" "Where are they?" she asked. "I know 'em all right."

"Down talking to your young box-fighter. Well, what do we do with 'em?" "VAL didn't wait to hear Hansen's answer. She flew down the companionway to the lower deck. They were seated on a hatch cover with Cavalier. "Gentlemen of the press," she cooed. "So you pulled a swiftee, hey?"

"Don't talk to these Eddie," she said. "They aren't nice people."

"I find 'em rather charming," Eddie grinned. "The boys are old friends of mine."

"Let's get down to cases, Val," Monroe said quietly. "You know why we're here."

Val sat down and clasped her knees. "Sure, but wouldn't it be tough if we denied you the use of the radio room?" she murmured.

Bradley stiffened. "Don't worry, boys," Eddie broke in swiftly. "She won't."

"And why wouldn't I, Mister Cavalier? I'm still running this show."

"Because I won't let you," he said quietly. His gray eyes looked square into hers, and it was her gaze that faltered.

She smiled. "That was a swell piece of work. I'd like to know how you mugs swung it?" "Then it's okay?" Bob asked eagerly.

"Of course," she said quietly. "Captain Hansen can make some sort of financial arrangement with your respective offices. And we won't rob you, either," she promised. "See you later."

"Say," Bradley said curiously. "Have you got something on that dame? She could have spiked everything if she wanted to."

BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

BY BRUCE CATTON

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—It is becoming more and more possible that the third-term movement may stub its toe in California in a big way.

The Democratic party approaches its May 7 primary there troubled by a four-way split. Chances for a Roosevelt victory in the primary are no better than even.

Because the carrying of California is of vast importance to the whole draft-Roosevelt movement, and because the party's split there is in many ways symptomatic of basic national disagreements, the California picture is worth a little study.

FOUR TICKETS IN FIELD

FOUR tickets are in the field in the Democratic presidential primary. They are:

1—A slate headed by Gov. Olson, pledged to President Roosevelt. There is actually a chance that this, the only out-and-out Roosevelt ticket in the field, may not even get on the ballot; several members of the original slate have "dropped off" since the delegation was formed, there is a question whether it remains a legal delegation, and a court test is expected.

2—A slate pledged to Lieut. Gov. Ellis E. Patterson, carrying with it a good part of the state's "liberal" backing, and likely to plunk for Senator Burton K. Wheeler if it gets to the convention. Failing that, it could go for Roosevelt.

3—A ham-and-eggs party slate headed by Willis Allen, boss of the "30 every Thursday" group.

4—A slate pledged to Vice President John N. Garner.

HANDFUL OF VOTES MAY DECIDE

IN a four-way scrap like that, anything can happen. Californians here, who are in close touch with the situation, say that any of the four groups might win and predict that a difference of 75,000 votes may decide the outcome—a microscopic difference in a state as big as California.

In addition, the bitterness raised by such a scrap could easily carry over into the fall election, with disastrous effects.

PATTERSON GROUP COURTS C. I. O.

ONE significant angle is that Oliver Thornton, publisher of the United Progressive News in Los Angeles and head strategist of the chief left-wing group in California, has just made a flying trip to Washington, presumably to see John L. Lewis and to try to get C. I. O. support for the Patterson ticket.

Such a move would make sense in several ways. The Patterson group's favorite candidate is Wheeler, who is also Lewis' favorite. Labor's Non-Partisan League in California has worked closely with Thornton in the past. Solidification of C. I. O.-Non-Partisan League strength behind Patterson would be a logical next step in Lewis' recently announced program of political action.

Incidentally, warning signs of early detectable cancer include: any lump in the breast or other part of the body, any unusual discharge or bleeding, chronic indigestion, any persistent sore on the skin or mucous membrane of the mouth. Delay in the presence of these manifestations may result in a cancer death, painless and comparatively trivial as such symptoms at first may be. The fact that a large percentage of such signs are not of pre-cancerous or cancerous origin is no excuse for delay in seeking proper medical advice. Indeed, to put off the visit to the doctor in such cases may be writing one's own death warrant. "Irradiation, by means of X-ray or radium, and surgery are the methods employed in treating cancer. Frequently, surgery and irradiation are successfully combined under the direction of a competent physician. These facts should be kept in mind, if a cancerer quick attempts to sell his spurious wares."

Public Is Warned Of Fakers With A Short Cut Cure

AUSTIN, Tex.—"The science of medicine always has been embarrassed by fakers who claim to have short-cut cures and special ability or information not possessed generally by the medical profession concerning certain diseases. Although these exploiters are prohibited by law from advertising their false claims, they still attract in devious ways those trusting individuals who are impressed by high-sounding language and a disarming manner. Among this group will be found the cancer quack, states Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"This kind of quackery is likely to take any one, or a combination, of many forms. For instance, the quack may suggest the use of a special serum or vaccine that will promptly remove cancer. He may attempt to sell medicines, pastes, salves, or a machine that emits colored lights. Special diet lists have been palmed off as a cancer cure also.

"It cannot be too vigorously stated that quacks and their super-claims, through false hopes and delayed diagnosis, cause unnecessary deaths but never effect cures. Many endorsements of their alleged treating ability have been based on the fact that the sore or other condition which they have diagnosed as cancer, was not such in fact.

"No one, therefore, should permit himself to be victimized by the cancer quack. If a suspicion, justifiable or otherwise, exists in the mind of any person that he may have cancer, the only course to pursue is promptly to seek the advice of a reputable physician.

Britain Broadcasts In Many Languages

LONDON.—The tower of Babel apparently would have provided no difficulties for the British Broadcasting company with its present huge staff of foreign linguists.

It is only two years—January, 1938—since the B.B.C. made its first broadcast in a foreign language apart from school lessons. That was in Arabic. Now the broadcasts are in 18 languages. There are more than 100 foreign linguists on the staff.

Two different services make use of these language experts. The foreign news broadcasting and the "monitoring" service, as the B.B.C. have christened their listening-in service to foreign programs. The "monitoring" service calls for at least two dozen different foreign languages.

Joe Tow In Race For Commissioner Of Precinct No. 1

This issue of the paper announces the candidacy of Joe Tow of Morton Valley for the office of Commissioner of Precinct No. 1. Tow is not a stranger to this entire community by any means as he has lived here for the past 22 years. For fifteen years he has been engaged in the grocery business and has been successful in his general enterprises. On the basis of business efficiency, general knowledge of the needs of the community, he asks the voters of this precinct to recognize the following statement as to his qualifications to fill the office that he seeks:

To the voting citizens of commissioner's precinct No. 1, Eastland County, Texas. Through the columns of this paper, I am making my announcement as candidate for the office of County Commissioner of Precinct No. 1, subject to the action of the Democratic Primaries to be held in the Precinct July 27, 1940, and I shall in the near future personally visit each of you and mutually discuss with you the important matters concerning the office. I am not a stranger in the Precinct, as I have lived here 22 years, during which time I have owned my home and other property and have been a tax payer, of know and understand what it means to pay taxes. At present I am engaged in the grocery business at Morton Valley, and have been so engaged for about 15 years.

I regard the office as one of great importance to the County, in fact the Commissioner's Court is the financial institution of the County, and a person holding such office should be fully in touch with its citizens all the while and should be qualified and capable of performing the services and duties of the office beneficially to those who have entrusted him with their affairs.

I believe in building and maintaining good roads, as they are the only means of reaching the markets, schools, and churches, and the people of the precinct are entitled to what they think they should have in keeping with their ability to pay and maintain, and if elected I shall co-operate with State and Federal Agencies in up-building and maintaining all of the roads and highways in the County, and more especially in this precinct.

I am opposed to any additional taxes, however, am fully in favor of carrying out and continuing the present road program and arrangement as far as the finances of the County will permit.

I hope to become personally acquainted with each of you in the near future, and shall appreciate your support.

JOE TOW.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

"Doctrines of Atonement" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, April 21.

The Golden Text is: "The Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many" (Matthew 20:28).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the commandments which were given me, that I should not sin." (I John 2:3, 4).

Behind the 28 millionth Ford car, which came off the line April 8, 1940, are other famous Ford "millionth cars": the 25 millionth, produced Jan. 18, 1937; the 20 millionth, April 14, 1931; and the 15 millionth Model T, May 6, 1927. THIRTEEN MILLION CARS IN THIRTEEN YEARS!

Under one management, the Ford Motor Company has built and sold 28,000,000 Ford cars. No other maker even approaches this total. No other has so many cars on the road today. How has it been done? Not by building a "cheap" car. People do not go on buying a "cheap" product for thirty-seven years. Not by squeezing workers to achieve a low price. The Ford Motor Company took the lead years ago in paying higher wages, shortening hours and improving working conditions. Not by monopolistic methods. Henry Ford has always encouraged competition. He has made his company's inventions and technical advances available without charge to any one who wanted to adopt them. Free competition in the industry has presented a constant challenge to find ways of offering better and better value to the public. The Ford Motor Company holds the lead in total number of cars built and sold because it has met this challenge with more than ordinary vision and skill—backed by a set of business principles which the American people respect and approve. Mayor Praises the Work of National Guard of Ranger

The following article, written by Mayor Hall Walker of Ranger, was inspired by the good work that is being done by Capt. Angus of the Ranger National Guard unit, and the entire company, which is to have a state inspection on Tuesday.

"The City of Ranger has been very fortunate in having Company I, 142nd Infantry, better known as the National Guard Unit of the State of Texas, located in Ranger.

"Many of our citizens are not aware of their duties and just what it is worth to Ranger. I think it is a fine organization, worth something to Ranger in a financial way and as a training camp for the youth, which is probably worth more than the financial interest.

"The National Guard has approximately eighty members plus their officers and maintain a payroll of approximately $8,000.00 per year, or about $2,000.00 every ninety days. We may not be sung by Mrs. D. T. Wier. The pastor will preach the sermon, using the subject, "Those Who Endure."

The Junior and Senior Epworth Leagues will meet at 7:00 o'clock, and the Evening Service is at 7:45. At the latter service, the pastor will again bring the sermon, dealing with "Some Things to Think About."
