French Claim They Still Hold At Boulogne

To Seek Canadian Haven From War:

Rumors persist in Washington's unofficial circles that the children of the British royal family may be sent to Canada to escape the danger of air raids on England. Princess Elizabeth, left, and Margaret Rose, daughters of King George and Queen Elizabeth, are pictured with their grandmother, Queen Mary, who might accompany them.

SERMON FOR SENIORS WILL BE ON SUNDAY

The baccalaureate sermon for the graduating classes of Ranger High School and Ranger Junior College will be delivered Sunday evening at the Recreation Building by Dr. G. Alfred Brown, pastor of the First Methodist church of Ranger.

The one Sunday service will be for both the graduates of the high school and the junior college, with separate graduation exercises being presented for the two schools on Monday and Tuesday evenings.

The program for the services Sunday evening, to which the public is invited, has been outlined as follows:

Champion Rose and Onion Grower Found

V. V. Cooper Sr., visited the Times office this morning bearing strong evidence that he is a contender for the champion onion and rose grower of Ranger. Cooper had an armful of red radiance and pink radiance roses that bore ample evidence of his ability to find that field and the size of the onions was very convincing.

Cooper stated that the onions were not planted until April and already are above the average in size.

SNAILS DO VANDAL'S WORK

SANTA CRUZ, Cal.—Peaceful Joe Biondi, prideful master of the City Hall gardens, knows what his conception of the "meanest man" is. This one dropped a bag full of live snails in the gardens, and before morning they had installed themselves in every flower bed on the lawn.

BRITAINS DEMONSTRATE THEIR DETERMINATION TO WIN PRESENT WAR

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE

United Press Cable Editor

Great Britain has just given the world a remarkable demonstration of democracy.

The people of the great democratic kingdom have voluntarily turned over their liberties to their elected government, permitting it to match the lightning, arbitrary decisions which Hitler's totalitarian state enables him to make.

It is a war-time leveling process. It gives the banker the same status as the laborer; the peevish and the fishwife are equally subject to the state.

George Bernard Shaw observed that Hitler made the fatal mistake of getting the British people frightened, and this is their answer.

The British decision is historic. It changes, temporarily, a system of individual freedom which has existed for centuries.

The word "temporarily" should be stressed. It is a suspension, not a permanent surrender. The influential Manchester Guardian put it succinctly this way:

"We must surrender our liberties to the government of our choice in order that we may resume them."

Churchill and his ministers will be able to rule virtually by decree. The unanimous tone of the press indicates that the people are back of them.

But there is still parliament. It has relinquished without a murmur its jealous prerogatives, but retains the power to turn the "dictatorship" out of office as quickly as it voted the extraordinary powers.

History illustrates the strength of such a system. In the days of the Roman republic, it was used in time of crisis, but the period of dictatorship was sharply defined and it was held strictly accountable for its acts. The people reserved their latent power. The decline of the Roman empire was accompanied by a period of unlimited dictatorships and tyranny.

The Briton today has no freedom of choice. He can be put into the army or into any line of work in which the state needs him. His business might be closed down or switched into another form of activity; his personal property, even his home, might be requisitioned by the state. His wealth is subject to the state.

No one shall be allowed to make a penny of profit from the war. Any gain above normal will be confiscated. The banks will be closely controlled. Labor willingly surrenders its hard-won rights. The drastic bill was, in fact, introduced in commons by Clement R. Attlee, leader of the labor party.

The British public was first made aware of the workings of the new system when the speaker of the house of commons announced that Capt. Archibald Ramsay, a conservative member of the house, had been thrown into prison.

No explanation was offered. Perhaps a clue was contained in the comment of the London Daily Express, which said:

"He who is not with us is against us."

Eastland Man To Attend Methodist Church Congress

R. E. McGlamery of Eastland and Rev. Langston of Cisco will go to Oklahoma City next week, where they will be delegates to the jurisdictional congress of the Methodist Church, representing Eastland County. The congress will meet on May 27 with delegates present from the south-central jurisdiction, which embraces the states of Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Missouri, New Mexico, Louisiana and Texas.

The administrative body of the Methodist church is divided into seven jurisdictional congresses, which meet and elect their own bishops and boards.

Arms Are Shipped Into Mexico Daily

EL PASO, May 25.—Reliable border sources said today that federal agents have reports that large quantities of arms and ammunition are being received daily in Mexican ports from some foreign country.

Roosevelt Plans For 50,000 Pilots During Next Year

WASHINGTON, May 24.—President Roosevelt today announced plans for training 50,000 pilots under the Civil Aeronautics Authority, beginning July 1, as the senate majority leader, Alben Barkley, predicted that the $3,200,000,000 defense program will be passed next week.

Barkley also predicted that congress would adjourn by June 8.

Tyler Bond Period Has Passed Peak

TYLER, Tex.—Tyler has gone through the peak bond-paying period—the first time in the city's history that more principal has been paid out than interest, it was announced by Auditor Jack Hatton. During April the city made its largest debt retirement payments of any month of the year.

Few Candidates for State Offices Are Expected To Announce For Office As Deadline for Filing Is Near

By GORDON K. SHEARER

United Press Staff Correspondent

AUSTIN, Tex.—Texas political races have about reached the thinning stage.

From now on few new candidates are expected to announce. Some of those who have been feeling the pulse of the public are expected to withdraw or let their candidacies fade.

Candidates will have until June 3 to file applications for ballot places and pay the $100 ballot fee but those who fail to risk the $100 within a short time will hardly be considered serious contenders.

The governor's race to date has less announced candidates than there were in the same race in 1938. There were 13 candidates that year. This year there are 10 announced candidates, exclusive of Col. Ernest O. Thompson who is waiting war developments.

The race for the State Railroad Commission this year greatly outnumbered in candidates the list of 1938 contenders. Eighteen persons have announced candidacy for this post. The ballot for the first democratic primary election in 1938 carried only seven names for railroad commissioner.

In 1938 there was lively competition for the offices of attorney general and general land commissioner while this year the incumbents, Atty. Gen. Gerald C. Mann and Land Commissioner Bascom Giles, have no announced opposition.

Comptroller George H. Shepard, Treasurer Charley Lockhart School Superintendent L. A. Woods and Agricultural Commissioner J. E. McDonald each had two opponents in the 1938 campaign. This year each has a single opponent.

The race for lieutenant governor was a popular one for candidates two years ago with six entrants. Pierce Brooks of Dallas led the first primary and was defeated by Coke Stevenson in the runoff. This year Brooks is running for railroad commissioner and Stevenson has two opponents for lieutenant governor.

Judgment Entered In Damage Suit In District Court

Judgment for the plaintiff has been entered in 91st district court by Judge George L. Davenport based on the verdict of the jury in the case of C. M. Henson vs. Wichita Falls & Southern Railway. The jury verdict granted the plaintiff damages in the amount of $3750.

Previous to entering the judgment Judge Davenport overruled a motion by the defendant for a judgment and Friday he overruled defendant's motion for a new trial.

The case grew out of an accident that occurred at a grade crossing in Ranger in the summer of 1938, and was tried before a jury in 91st district court.

Jurors were R. L. Jones, Eastland; J. C. Claiborne, Okra; J. T. Gardner, Nimrod; Joe Boatman, Cisco; W. H. Hays, Cisco; Roy Harbin, Eastland; J. R. Deems, Rising Star; T. C. Cosart, Nimrod; Joe T. Meador, Cisco; Roy G. Tugwell, Cisco; Marshall Thomas, Cisco and M. B. Osborne, Cisco.

Rancher and Son Killed In A Plane While On A Hunt

AMARILLO, May 25.—Julian Bins, prominent rancher of the Panhandle, and his son, Billy, were found dead today in their wrecked airplane near here.

The two were apparently killed yesterday when their plane crashed while they were on a coyote hunt. When they failed to return other fishermen took up the search today and soon found their bodies in the wrecked machine.

Technically, a candidate who has paid the $100 filing fee might have it returned by order of the democratic state executive committee if he decided not to run before the ballot is made up in June.

Practically, when he sends $100 to either the state chairman, E. R. Germany at Dallas, or the committee chairman, C. M. Butcher at Austin, he kisses it good-by. The committee in the last campaign announced there would be no returns.

Unless the rule of no return is followed, former committee secretary Vann M. Kennedy said, a person would obtain a vast amount of free advertising.

In fact, filing as a candidate for state office and paying the filing fee, buys some of the cheapest advertising that is available.

The state voting strength is more than 1,000,000. The law requires printing of 50 per cent extra ballots so for $100 a candidate is assured of having his name printed 1,500,000 times.

If the candidate follows up his announcement and filing with a campaign the cost may amount to $100,000 or more. There is a law limiting a candidate for governor to campaign expenditures of $10,000, but when a candidacy was attacked on the ground of excess spending the courts promptly ruled that the governor's qualifications are fixed by constitution. The constitution puts no limit on his spending so he can take office regardless of the campaign expense.

Limit put on most of the state races is $2,500 expenditure.

Practical impossibility of making a successful race on such an amount has resulted in devious ways to evade the act, and general acceptance of the view that more money must be spent.

Charles Langford, former production engineer for the railroad commission, before starting his race for commissioner, offered a prize for the best essay on how to make the race and keep within the statutory expense limit.

Judge Scott Given Banquet In Honor Of Long Service

A banquet honoring Judge D. K. Scott, pioneer lawyer of Cisco and dean of the Eastland County Bar, was held in Eastland Thursday evening, with a number of his former associates present.

Longtime friends and associates of Judge Scott were included on the program.

Judge Scott, honored citizen and distinguished barrister came to Eastland County when a youth and today is recognized as the dean of the Eastland County Bar and one of the county's most ethical practitioners, as well as one of the county's most distinguished citizens.

He arrived in Eastland County in 1875, two years after the county was organized, and located at Mansker Lake, then a thriving trading point. He formed a business connection with J. M. Freeman, who was in the merchandising and freighting business.

From Mansker Lake Judge Scott located in Eastland in 1880 when he accepted the job of deputy sheriff under Col. G. W. Shannon, who preceded Jim Schmick. He was elected county judge in 1888 and served four years, and at the end of his second term entered the law partnership with the late H. P. Brelsford, which partnership existed until Judge Brelsford died, even though Judge Scott moved to Cisco in 1899.

Since that time he has been a resident of Cisco.

Man Dies After Mine Accident

Bill Peretti of Mingus, who was critically injured in a mine accident Monday afternoon of this week, died in a Ranger hospital Friday afternoon at 12:30.

No funeral arrangements had been made, but it was believed that services would be conducted at Mingus.

The accident occurred when Peretti was working in an abandoned coal mine and was overcome by gas. He tried to make his way up to the surface, but just before he reached the top he fell back into the pit and the shaft cage, out of control, crushed him.

He was rushed to the West Texas Hospital in Ranger, where he was given little chance of recovery.

Leon Trotsky Has A Narrow Escape From Machine Guns

MEXICO CITY, May 24.—Leon Trotsky former Russian political leader, and his wife, escaped injury today when 20 men machine gunned their bedroom.

Trotsky blamed Russian-directed communists for the attack.

An American guard, Sheldon Harter, was kidnapped by the gang after the attempt on Trotsky's life had failed.

THE WEATHER
WEST TEXAS—Fair tonight and Saturday, with some cloudiness. Slowly rising temperature.

GERMANS SAY THEIR UNITS REACH CALAIS

French Lay Down Terrific Barrage On Sector Between Arras and Somme to Close Pincers.

French sources said tonight that the French still hold Boulogne and that the situation at Calais was "favorable" despite German claims that they have entered that channel port, which is only 22 miles from England, and from which long-range artillery could fire shells to the English Coast.

Berlin quarters said that mechanized sources were in Calais, with strong re-enforcements only eight miles to the south.

The French laid down a terrific barrage on the 25-mile corridor between Arras and the Somme River, through which the Nazis reached the channel ports, but there still was no definite indication of a major counter-attack.

The French today blasted dikes to flood the area at the eastern end of the Maginot Line, near Switzerland.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill of Great Britain meanwhile was reported to have asked Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy what Italy's intentions were today, and King George broadcast that the empire must stand together to prevent "complete destruction" as a prelude to Germany's domination of the world.

The Germans claimed to have crossed the River Scheldt in Belgium and were fighting in Ghent, as well as taking the French town of Tournai, near Lille.

The Allies fought their way into the outskirts of Amiens. The Germans claimed to have sunk six loaded British transports in the English channel and the British rounded up possible "fifth column" sympathizers, including Captain Franz von Rintelen, German chief of espionage in the United States during the World War, who has been living in England.

Rev. Brown Will Be Speaker For Ward School Graduation

Dr. G. Alfred Brown, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Ranger, will be the principal speaker at graduation exercises of the Ranger ward schools, which will be held in the Recreation Building this evening.

The program tonight will start with a procession by Mrs. Ethel M. Moore, with the invocation pronounced by W. Wallace Layton, minister of the Church of Christ. Dr. Brown's address will follow singing of the class song, directed by Mrs. Claudia Jarvis, accompanied by Mrs. Homer Smith.

Diplomas will be presented by C. B. Pruet, president of the school board and American Legion Awards will be presented by W. T. Walton, superintendent of schools.

The benediction will be pronounced by Rev. David M. Phillips, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Ranger.

Statewide Shutdown Planned For Fields

AUSTIN, May 24.—Chairman Lon Smith of the Texas Railroad Commission and Commissioner Jerry Sadler said today that a 90-day oil order was being drafted, calling for a single state-wide shutdown day and reducing all fields 15 per cent.

Approximately two-thirds of the city police force has flunked the state drivers' license examination. These include traffic officers and detectives.

Two Are Injured As Lightning Hits

CARLSBAD, N. M.—Lightning never strikes twice in the same place—at least that is what the Harold Thornberrys hope. Lightning struck the corner of the house in which the family was living, blinded Thornberry and his wife and temporarily paralyzed their arms. Their baby, asleep in another room, was unhurt.

We Must Be Vigilant

To the story of Norway and its betrayal by quislings is added now that of the Netherlands. To what extent "Fifth Column" activities contributed to the quick downfall of Holland we do not know. We do know, however, that Dutch Nazi sympathizers hid in houses, fired at Dutch troops at night, helped the German parachute troops to seize bridges and other vital points, and may even have hampered the Dutch "defense by flooding." Details will probably come out slowly, but the main picture is clear.

Like all the other terrible events now shaking Europe, this has a meaning for the United States. We should do well to heed it.

There is no cause for hysteria. There is no cause for interference with freedom of speech or with civil rights. But there is cause for vigilance.

It would be an ill service to America to launch into indiscriminate persecution of people of recent foreign ancestry or even of aliens. There is no need for it. But vigilance violates no man's rights.

Every person who belongs to an organization, whether it be a pressure group, a labor union, or any association concerned with public affairs, has the right and duty to ask whether its leadership is completely devoted to this country and its interests, or whether that leadership is taking undue interest in the program and policies of some country abroad.

As to active attempts at sabotage, these are better left to the public authorities. The Federal Bureau of Investigation is presumed to be abreast of this situation. It is aware that persecution for opinion will not be tolerated, but only prosecution for actual overt acts.

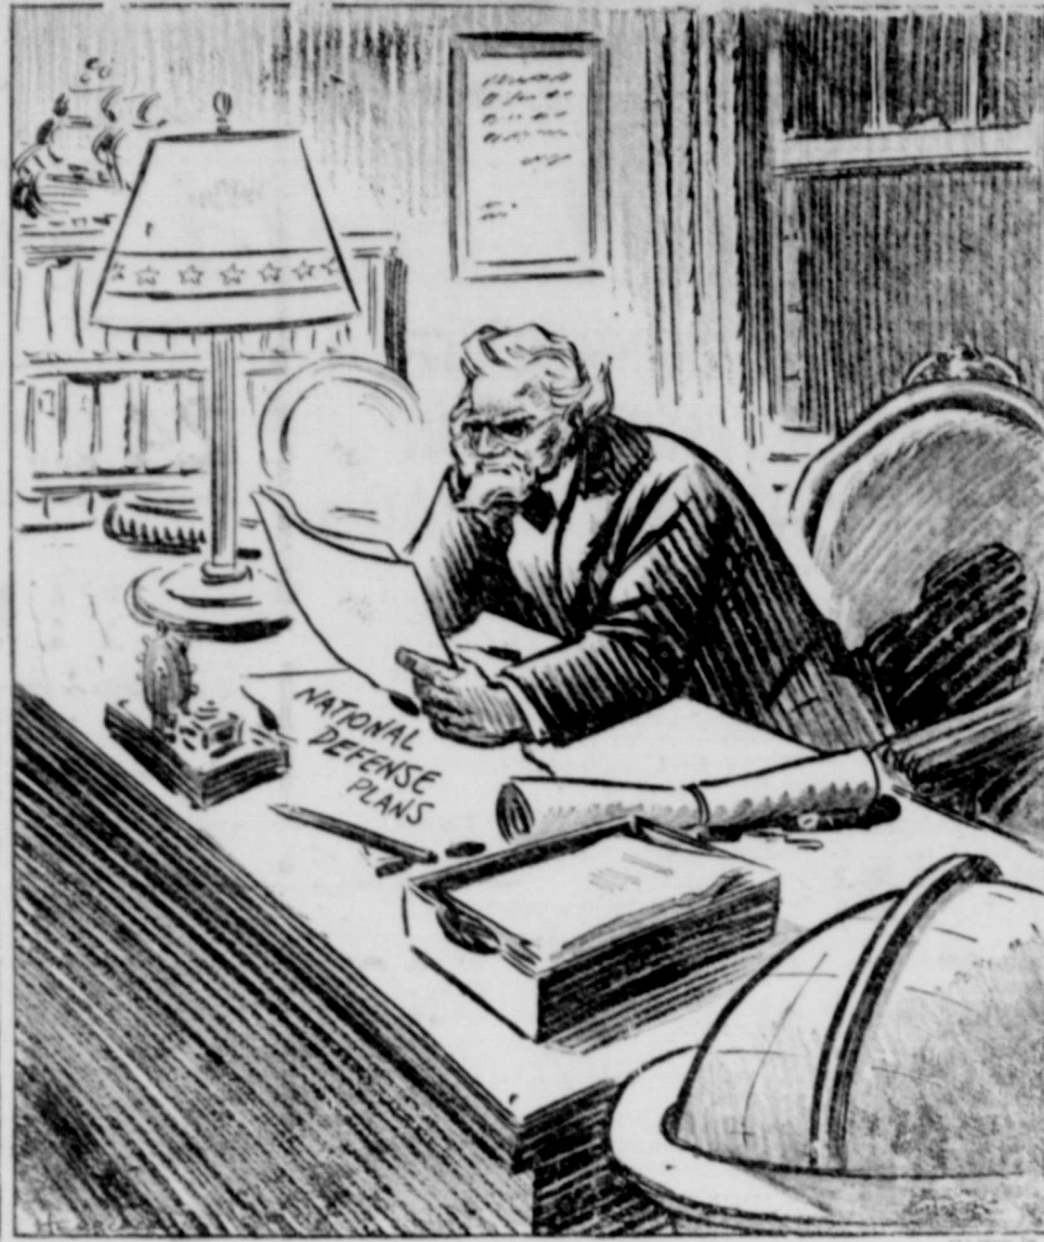

But for the rest, it is every American's duty to try to make sure that in his own spheres there shall be no one supported in places of influence who has in temporal affairs any allegiances beyond our own borders, any loyalties to which he might be more devoted than to the people of the United States and their government.

Dutchmen are officially cautioned not to show any sign of curiosity about the occupation forces. In these days finding a Nazi in the front yard is no longer a surprise, but is just taken for granted.

There are these among us who remember the war in Norway. To these just coming in, the plot is the same, only the locale being changed.

Secretary Edison compares this defense business to a poker game. That flush, then, will not be in a high hand, but on Uncle Sam's face as he is told his army and navy are a bit under par.

Late Work

BRUCE-CATTON IN WASHINGTON

By Bruce Catton
SEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The long-standing row between the I. O.'s National Maritime Union and the Bureau of Marine Inspection and Navigation is beginning to break into the open.

Bruce Catton

The biggest Maritime Union complaint is the charge the bureau has been anti-union and has used its powers under the navigation laws to discipline militant union men while letting steamship owners off with a slap on the wrist.

Early this month the union distributed about Washington a pamphlet, summing up its charges, demanding a revision of policies by the bureau, and calling for dismissal of the bureau's director, Commander R. S. Field. This will touch off some fireworks.

The bureau is a part of the Department of Commerce, and hence is responsible to Harry Hopkins. It is an open secret that top department people aren't wholly satisfied with the bureau's record, and that certain changes are in the cards.

There will be an immediate backfire, however, if anything of the kind comes on the heels of the union's pamphlet. For the rumors of an impending shake-up in the bureau sound to some congressmen like advance announcements of a "successor" to the C. I. O.'s and some ardent anti-New Dealers are already collecting ammunition.

Don't overlook the fact that the Dies committee has been gathering a good deal of testimony about alleged Communist influence in the National Maritime Union.

Memorial Services Is Planned Here

Memorial Day services will be held in Ranger Sunday afternoon at two o'clock at Evergreen Cemetery, with local and visiting citizens and members of the American Legion and Legion Auxiliary participating.

R. H. Hansford, chairman of the Memorial Day Services, has announced the following program for the afternoon.

Opening Prayer, Rev. H. B. Johnson, pastor of the First Christian Church of Ranger.

Decorations of crosses by American Legion Auxiliary; Queen City Trio by band.

Memorial Day Address, Rev. Father S. E. Byrnes, St. Rita's Catholic Church.

General Logan's Address, Capt. K. K. White of the Spanish American War Veterans.

Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, Judge Sam Russell, Stephenville Legion Post.

Address by Ladies Auxiliary, Mrs. Leon McPherson, district committeewoman.

Closing Prayer, Rev. A. G. Pool, pastor Church of Nazarene.

Star Spangled Banner, Ranger High School Band.

Firing Squad by Company I, Texas National Guard, commanded by Capt. Hershel Angus.

Missouri's Hills Yielding Culture Of 500 Years Ago

FESTUS, Mo.—Remains of a civilization more than 500 years old have been uncovered in the limestone hills near here, according to Robert McCormick Adams, director of a crew of excavators which has been working in this area since January.

Adams said the most important finds to date are several pottery items, chipped stone instruments, bone ornaments and the remains of three thatched-roof houses. Two spots are being excavated, work alternating between a ledge under a jutting cliff and a village site in open ground.

"The ledge evidently was an often-used stopping place for nomadic hunting parties for thousands of years," Adams said. "We have found traces of a pre-pottery people under 10-ton boulders. How long the boulders have lain there we can only guess."

Adams said the village site centers around a man-made mound, now almost destroyed by cultivation of crops. The three houses found so far, he said, are different. The first was about 25 feet square with a fireplace in the middle. The roof was supported by wood posts four inches square, set in a ditch. A storage bin, containing parched corn, was found near the fireplace, indicating an agricultural people.

A henchman describes Hitler as the greatest of all great men. And like the rest, the fuhrer will probably wind up as a bust.

Loans for Homes in Texas Make New High Record

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—Loans made for the construction of new homes in Texas reached a new high record in April, the Federal Home Loan Bank of Little Rock reported today. The 129 insured savings and loan associations in the State made 454 loans totaling $1,293,530 to Texans last month to assist them in the construction of new dwellings. This was an increase of $99,968 over the volume of lending done in April a year ago, which up-to-date had been the record month. Loans for new home construction made by the associations in April showed a sharp gain of $229,138 over the previous month and brought the total for the four months period since the first of the year to $3,796,954. Other loans granted last month aggregated $1,219,678 and included 308 loans totaling $598,540 made to assist home seekers in the purchase of houses built in other years.

The increased lending activities were general throughout Texas, the Bank reported, its figures including the loans made by the First Federal Savings and Loan Association in Ranger, by which the local area is served. Officials stressed the wide spread service the associations are rendering to home owners of modest means, and pointed out that since January 1st loans totaling $8,711,395 had been made to 4,406 Texans, which were for an average amount of $1,980, and are payable in small monthly installments about equal the club and their families and guests assembled in the Blue room of the Golson hotel for a "plantation supper" which marked the closing of the club year.

As the guests assembled on the mezzanine floor of the hotel an atmosphere of the Old South was reflected in the costumes of the ladies and old southern music was played by Miss Gwendolyn Turrell at the piano and Miss Muri Deane Murrell, violinist.

Antique vases filled with spring flowers were used to decorate the rooms and the supper tables and old fashioned cake stands were placed at intervals along the tables.

Following the supper which was served buffet style the guests joined in singing songs of the Old South while the tables were removed to make room for a square dance team which entertained with a number of the old dances. The team was composed of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Urban, Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt Agnew, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Chapman, Mrs. Katherine Maylor and Tess Mellarg.

Guests attending the supper were:

Messrs. and Meses, O. L. Phillips, Carl Hill, C. E. May, Leslie Haganman, Stanley McAnelly, A. L. Murrell, R. A. Tunnell, D. Joseph, E. E. Crawford, Hall Walker, A. J. Rathoff, S. P. ...ste rock for a turn about the plaza as was his daily habit. He held his head high and proudly, and then, before Horace had taken five steps, the zoo goosips began to snigger and guffaw. The turtle's rigidity did not encompass such tom-folksy, but just to be safe, he looked down at his feet to see if his shoes matched or if his gloves were two of a kind. Then he looked behind him. There, no larger than a two-bit piece, followed four youngsters. Try as he would he couldn't shake them loose.

Horace's mind fell into hopeless confusion. There were no other turtles in the pen. Had someone planted a joke on him? or maybe he wasn't quite normal... but maybe.

Harry Jackson, who is in charge of the reptile exhibit, pored the rest of the story together. Last fall, he recalled, there had been a female tortoise in his collection. But then the exhibit closed and Jackson took his group of reptiles west.

Meantime snow and rain, hail and sleet covered the reptile pit. Jackson came back this spring minus female turtle.

Women's Council Holds Monthly Luncheon
The Women's Council of the First Christian church met Thursday at 12:00 at the home of Mrs. Marvin Wilson for the monthly luncheon.

Following the luncheon, the president, Mrs. J. C. Carothers, presided over a short business meeting. The devotional was given by Mrs. H. B. Johnson.

Mrs. Glenn Simons gave a book report on one chapter of the book, "Women and the Way." Those present: Meses, N. L. Peery, L. B. Herring, J. H. Wallace, J. C. Carothers, B. S. Dudley, Frank Weeks, Harry Warner, Carl Clemmer, J. H. Stacks, Glen Simon, Jack Blackwell, H. E. Johnson. Mrs. Trotter, a visitor from

Horace, The Turtle Is Now A Mother of 4 Little Turtles

FORT WORTH, Texas—Horace, the turtle, was a dashing rake, a debonaire man-about-town, as it were, whose masculine virility was never doubted. But, alas and snick, today the zoo's gay young blade of yesterday hid a crimson face beneath his neatly groomed and green shell. Horace became a mother. How it happened one can but guess. But a few days ago Horace strutted out from behind his favorite rock

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By ROYCE HOUSE

Recently your columnist dropped a penny in the slot of one of these machines that not only weigh you but tell your fortune. A little card dropped out, which read, "You have a good sense of humor, coupled with a deep and serious nature." A few days later, another card informed me, "Your sunny attitude toward life is a constant inspiration to your friends" and yesterday when I weighed a third card declared, "You are a tireless worker and deep thinker." I had always suspected these things but am glad to have them confirmed from an unbiased source.

The Fort Davis Dispatch is responsible for a gem of song which has the same tune as a well-known ditty. See if you can guess the tune: "Oh, it's dusty out here in West Texas, In the land where the strong breezes blow And the ranches go by in hand-fuls; When they come from you never know, You can go to the cellar or attic— Or even get under the bed— But you still will get dust in your gizzard, In your ears and on top of your head."

Chorus: "Oh, it's dusty out here in West Texas, We wonder how long it will blow. We surely must like this country— We have to eat it, you know. There's gray sand and black dirt in handfuls. In the ring around in the sky. So, here's a toast to West Texas And a slogan—Here's mud in your eye!"

So anxious was this observer a while back to return to Texas from California that, as soon as the boundary was crossed—at El Paso, of course—he stopped. It's one of the most interesting cities in the State and doubly attractive after an absence of many weeks from Texas.

As L. A. Wilke (former Fort Worth newspaperman who directs the tourist campaign for the Gateway City) was in New Mexico fishing, this traveler was taken in charge by Lloyd P. Bloodworth, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, in whose office hangs the picture of William Howard Taft and Porfirio Diaz, for it was in that very room that the two Presidents met. Bloodworth proudly pointed out the chair which the ponderous Taft broke down.

A night drive to the top of lofty Mount Franklin commands a fine view; and Juarez, a city of 40,000, just across the Rio Grande is picturesque, with its curio shops and cafes with native songs and dances.

H. S. Hunter, editor of the El Paso Times, (the biggest paper that prints "I Give You Texas"), extended a cordial greeting, as did E. M. Pooley, editor of the Herald-Post. It was a privilege to shake hands with Captain John Hughes, famous old-time Texas Ranger whose picture (showing his flowing beard and his steady gaze) hangs on the wall of the Stephen F. Austin Hotel in Austin. Then there was a visit with William Moran, lion-maned, genial Irish editor of the Labor Advocate, who ought to write his reminiscences of Governor Sayers, with whom Moran was associated in state service during Sayers' final years.

Who started this old joke contest, anyhow?

There's the saying, "You can get the boy out of the country, but you can't get the country out of the boy" and the one about the backwoods lad who was run down so shoes could be put on him for the first time at the age of 18 and they didn't feel natural till he sprinkled gravel in them.

The reverse of that one is the story about the little boy from the city who discovered a pile of condensed milk cans and ran to tell his mother, "I've found a cow's nest."

A man said to another, "Loan me $5." The other was hard of hearing and he asked, "What did you say?" The first man shouted, "Loan me $10" to which his friend replied, "I heard you the first time."

Mr. Anonymous, who has written so many fine things, is the author of this:

"All this talk about an editor not being appreciated is nonsense. We read of an account where an editor in a nearby county was presented a handsome bouquet by a number of fellow citizens. On the same occasion, a quartet from a local church sang a few songs and the minister made a brief talk. After the minister's talk, six husky citizens carried the popular editor from the house and placed him in a model 1940 plumed sedan, and the whole town stood at attention."

"Later the appreciative crowd returned to their homes, serene in the thought of having provided one bright day in the life of their local news purveyor—even if they

NEW YORK—You can't out-smart a sock on the chin, and a sock on the chin alters opinions and changes the complexion of things faster than anything I know of.

Only a few days ago old-timers were classing Lou Ambers with great lightweight leaders of the past . . . declared the erstwhile Hurkimer Hurricane belonged in the first five.

The same fellows said Lew Jenkins, a skinny, bushy-haired kid with a dying look on a deathly serious face, was just a lucky stiff to be getting the short end in a title match.

Now Sweetwater has someone besides Roy Crane, the artist, and Wash Tubbs and Easy and Sammy Haugh, the footballers, of whom to boast, for Jenkins, the former cavalryman, hails from that west Texas town and is the new champion.

JENKINS' stunning victory over Ambers made him second only to Joe Louis as a beak-busting attraction.

The fight mob appreciates a hitter, especially in the lighter divisions. This is because the trade sees so few of them.

Jenkins, for example, is the first lightweight king in 10 years to win by a knockout. The crown has changed hands by a knockout only five times since Battling Nelson and Gans fought their memorable 42-round battle in Goldfield in 1906.

Jenkins, who scored only 132 had to wait until he was dead to do so.

This-and-that—John Hendrix, born and raised on a ranch and one of the best story-tellers in West Texas, is executive secretary of the U. S. Highway 80 Association, headquarters in Sweetwater . . . Charles Green has resigned as editor of Luther Watson's Nolan County News to become Stamford Chamber of Commerce manager—and another friend, Wilburn Page is executive secretary of the Permian Basin Association, headquarters in Midland . . . C. Applegate, well-known newspaperman, formerly of Center, is now Vega editor . . . Houston Labor Messenger recently issued a highly creditable, edition marking the paper's twelfth year, Houston Labor and Trades Council's thirty-eighth year, A. F. of I's fifty-ninth year . . . Congratulations to Bernard pounds in lopping Ambers, want to lackle Henry Armstrong, the welterweight ruler, next.

If it is my opinion Jenkins will knock out Armstrong, a light welter, just as he did Ambers, Armstrong, like Ambers, is ready for the cleaners.

Promoter Mike Jacobs, who has Jenkins tied up for three years, predicts he'll flatten Armstrong. Jenkins' story is that of the typical hungry fighter. He began boxing while serving with the Eighth Cavalry regiment of the United States Army in Texas.

Jenkins, who is 23, didn't fight professionally until January, 1938. He appeared to be the run-of-the-mine type . . . traveled around the country fighting preliminaries.

It was as a preliminary fighter that he came to New York just a year ago with his pretty little wife, Katie, to see the World's Fair and Empire State building. Fighting was only a means of getting expenses then. The chief of police of Sweetwater had offered Jenkins the job of driving the police wrecking car, and "the kid's intention to accept it."

After all, he hadn't gotten anywhere in my great hurry, and was being marked up around the face.

Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins arrived in an old broken-down automobile. Jenkins' first purse at the Queensbury Arena was $28. The other night as challenger of Ambers he dragged down around $7300. He'll draw bigger gates in the future, and will be on the long end of the awag.

Hanks, Frank Grimes, Wendell Bedichek and associates on the newly-occupied building of the Abilene Reporter-News, one of the finest plants in the State . . . And my friend, J. L. Spencer, publisher of the Mart Herald, is a new postmaster.

DOLLARS that reach to next week

People who make a study of such things say there are three ways to make money STRETCH.

- First. Budget. Plan your expenses and keep a record of what's spent.
- Second. Watch the pennies. It's the little savings that mount up.
- Third. Buy carefully. That's where advertising comes in. Printed news in this paper, from store and manufacturer, keeps you advised of the best buys of the day.

ROMANCE AHEAD

BY TOM HORNER

COPYRIGHT, 1940, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY: Monnie tells Larry about the accident, how she was hurrying to Bentley's, almost crashed into the other car on Dead Man's Curve...

CHAPTER VIII

MONNIE was silent, wanting to believe Larry, but unable to comprehend how he could be so sure that Hugh had not been drinking...

"If it weren't for this drinking angle, I'd think Hugh deliberately drove off the cliff to avoid running into you..."

"But—you don't blame me for what I did," Monnie ventured, "and for not telling the whole truth at the inquest."

His arms were around her, pulling her close to him. She did not resist.

"I couldn't blame you for anything you've done, Monnie," Larry reassured her. "You didn't kill Hugh. Either he killed himself, or—but you had no part in it, I know that."

His lips brushed her soft, black hair. She looked up at him. "I wanted you to say that, Larry. You have to believe me."

He hurried on.

He did not stop at the bunkhouse, but went on to the corral. The black whinnied as he approached. The horse was his favorite now. Larry sat in the shadow of the saddle house, smoked half a dozen cigarettes as he studied the story Monnie had told him.

The black whinnied again. The horses were restless, probably because he was in the corral, Larry decided. The moon, rising late, shed a pale, cold light over the Hayhook. With characteristic abruptness, Larry decided to take a look at Dead Man's Curve.

The black settled into a long canter as Larry left the ranch headquarters. An hour later, he sat on top of the promontory overlooking the scene of Hugh's fatal accident.

To the right a white ribbon of concrete stretched eastward toward Bentley's house. Mike's house, he knew, was about five miles away. Nearer, in the same direction, an airline beacon swung round and round, flashing a pencil of light against the sky.

Directly below the road dropped sharply downward from the rim of the canyon to the valley below. The curve, almost a right angle, was hidden from sight, but the road south, toward the Hayhook turn, was clearly visible at the foot of the hill.

Larry dismounted, led the black, sliding and snorting, down the steep hillside to the highway. He tied the horse to the fence a few hundred yards from the curve, walked down the pavement.

He stopped at a newly painted stretch of railing at the road's edge, to peer down into the canyon where Monnie had watched the burning wreckage of Hugh's car. He could feel Hugh's nearness.

AN hour later, Larry returned to his horse. He had found nothing of particular value, but he had a clear picture of the scene of the accident. He would have to wait for daylight to examine the floor of the canyon. He mounted and turned back toward the ranchhouse.

The black was walking slowly, picking his way along a cow trail. Larry noticed the black bulk of resting cattle, looming in front of him, turned aside to avoid disturbing them. Suddenly he became conscious of a steady hum, overhead.

He stopped, listened intently for several minutes. The plane was coming closer. He scanned the sky for its lights. None were visible. With sudden decision, Larry wheeled the black, kicked him into a run toward Bentley's airport.

Larry dropped into a draw that led down to Bentley's line fence. Shadows were deeper here, and the going rougher but there was less chance that someone in the plane might see him. Or someone on the ground, waiting for that ship to land. He slowed the black to a fast walk, let the horse find his own way.

He climbed out of the draw when he came to Bentley's fence. Lights blazed around the edges of Bentley's landing field, a mile away. Floodlights made the runways bright as day. The plane's motor cut off, as the pilot dexterously maneuvered the ship in for a landing.

As the plane touched the ground, Larry caught sight of a car speeding across the field. It was beside the ship as the plane stopped. The lights went out.

Larry waited. The roar of the airplane motor broke in on the stillness again. The field lights flashed on again. The ship raced across the field, took off easily. Larry followed it, as it circled around, passed almost directly overhead, and disappeared into the southwest. Bentley's landing field was dark again. There was no sign of life there.

LARRY had no doubts, now, as to who was the head of the narcotics ring. There was only one answer—Bentley.

Few people, outside of the authorities, even knew that narcotics were being smuggled in here. No one would suspect Bentley and even if they did, proving such a charge was another matter.

The trail to the ranch led down through the canyon where Larry had fixed the fence. Barnes had been right. Already the plains farmers had cut a road through to the railroad, and all the padlocks in the state couldn't keep them out. Barnes had finally given in and left the gate unlocked.

Larry heard a car coming behind him now. Probably someone taking a shortcut to the highway. The car was coming nearer. The fool was driving fast, he might run the horse down. Larry turned off, hurried up a draw, hid in the shadow of the canyon wall.

The car came down the canyon. Its lights were dim. It passed within 50 yards of Larry, disappeared. Larry whistled. The car was Monnie Miles' convertible coupe. (To Be Continued)

Casa Manana To Have Fourth Season

FORT WORTH, Tex.—Casa Manana, the outdoor nightclub made famous by New York promoter Billy Rose, is getting ready for its fourth season. Casa Manana—the house of tomorrow—has signed a management contract with the Music Corporation of America. The night spot, which is located near the center of Fort Worth and which holds 4,000 persons, will open June 28.

In former years, the featured attraction at Casa Manana was a gigantic revue on a revolving stage curtained by a sheet of water. This time emphasis is to be placed on "big name" bands, although "there'll be plenty of pretty girls, of course," one director said.

Kay Kyser will open the show and will make a national broadcast from this city. Four vaudeville acts and a line of 80 girls will complete the show. Under the M. C. A. contract, the agency will spend $19,750 per week on the Casa show. Casa Manana board will get three-fourths of all net proceeds over that.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief. Many ailments, relieve aching backaches quickly, once they discover the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause aching backaches, rheumatism, pain, loss of sleep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passage with stinging and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the kidneys of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Highway Department Offers Jobs To All Young Engineers

AUSTIN, Tex.—Following the practice established several years ago, the State Highway Department is employing 41 Civil Engineering students who will receive their degrees in June from the 5 major colleges in Texas conferring Civil Engineering Degrees. These boys will work in the engineering division in the field.

The State Highway Engineer said, "We are offering jobs to all the Civil Engineering graduates who want work. The Highway Department is primarily an engineering organization and it is our policy to use graduate engineers wherever we can. These boys have acquired the theoretical knowledge and will accumulate practical experience as they work."

"No attempt to pick certain graduates was made. We believe," he said, "that all the graduates are deserving of an opportunity and we are glad there is a place in the Highway Department for them."

The fact that 70 per cent of all Civil Engineering graduates have expressed a desire to work for the Department indicates they believe it a good place to work."

Snake Finds Public Address System Is An Ideal Residence

FORT WORTH, Tex.—Achilles, a sisking chicken snake, certainly gumbled up the works.

Achilles crawled into the public address system at Forest Park zoo and nothing could entice him to come out.

Harry Jackson, head of the reptile exhibit, was not worried at first, although Achilles didn't do the system any good. Then several days passed and still the snake would not come out. His keeper tried to lure him out with all sorts of fancy delicacies, but to no avail.

After two weeks had passed, the snake still held forth in the p. a. system.

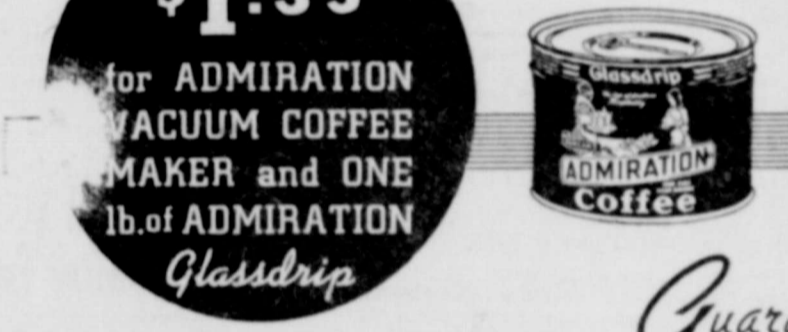

community. Mrs. Kate Bowles visited Mrs. Earl Redwine Sunday.

The quilting club at Salem is well attended and lots of quilts are being made.

Mrs. Owen Lee received word her brother, Crocket Sparks, had been operated on at Big Spring. We hope he gets along nicely.

THE PAY OFF
BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK.—Brooklyn's phenomenal early spurt isn't worrying William Boyd McKechnie and the Reds. As a matter of fact, it will be quite all right with Bill McKechnie if he hustling Dodgers stay right where they are for a month or more. Deacon McKechnie is as good a business man as he is a field marshal, and the Flatbush flock is the biggest attraction in baseball at a time when the National League needs a bucks office draw in New York. The Giants no longer are of much account.

"There weakened infield has been the cause of a lot of their pitching ilters."
"The pitchers have lacked confidence in a patched-up defense."
In defense of the St. Louis pitchers it should be said that seldom is one given the opportunity to show what he can do over the route. Ray Blades has them in and out of the box like hockey and football substitutes.
Clyde Shoun was in 53 games in 1939. Bob Bowman in 51, Curtis Davis in 49, Mort Cooper in 45, and Bill McGee in 43.
Southpaw Shoun, Blades' favorite victim, was in 10 of the Cardinals' first 15 games this season.
Shoun would prefer to start, but is resigned to his fate.
"Every club has to have a strong-armed relief pitcher, and I just happen to be that fellow with the Cardinals," smiles the tall, black-haired Tennesseean.
Blades got the idea opening day a year ago that I'd make a good relief pitcher, and he's used me in that role ever since."

Lone Star Man Is Designer of Plan To Time Engines

Harry Henry of the Lone Star Gasoline Company, has an article in the current issue of Gas Age, in which he described the method he devised for timing gas engines. The following method of timing gas engines has been in use by the compressor department of the Lone Star Gas Company for about a year at several of the system's compressor stations.
"Timing: In order to check the timing of a twin, four-cycle gas engine, such as the Cooper Type 75, the neon timing light, such as used on automobile engines, can be used with excellent results. A white mark two inches long by three-sixteenths inches wide is painted on the hub of the fly wheel opposite another such mark on the engine frame, with the engine is exactly on dead center. While the engine is in operation

World Gardens To Take On Shape

PASADENA, Cal.—A project for a permanent "World and Gardens" exposition, to be operated somewhat along the same lines as the centuries-old Leipzig Fair in Germany has been launched here. The idea originally was suggested by President Roosevelt at the time he visited the San Diego Exposition in 1935.

The President outlined his project to Frank Dragan, who organized the successful San Diego Exposition, and who has undertaken to carry out the President's plan. Federal aid has been made available.
Construction of the exposition will be tantamount to the erection and permanent maintenance on an ideal site of an entire model village in which the nations participating can display suitable products of their land, not in glass cases as usual, but in actual use.

"Pasadena's native beauty," Dragan declared, "is ideal as a setting for the world's most magnificent dwelling area. Pasadena's beauty and cultural norms will be the criterion of every phase of the project."
"Practical principles will be pursued to publicize and provide enhancement of values to Pasadena in return for pioneering the project."
"There will be no gate, fence or admission charge to the Homes and Gardens Exposition. Its development and maintenance will be by community co-operation."
Dragan believes the exposition can be made self-supporting.
At the time President Roosevelt suggested the project, he had the approval of Congress of a $2,100,000 appropriation to establish a permanent exposition in Southern California as a part of the administration's Good Neighbor policy toward Latin America. The exposition would permit Latin American countries to maintain permanent exhibits here.
A similar appropriation of $2,000,000 has also been granted by Congress for the maintenance of the "House of Pacific Relations" at San Diego as a part of the "Good Neighbor" policy.

De Luxe Road To Have Penny Toll

PITTSBURGH.—Pennsylvania's $65,000,000 "dream" highway really will be something motorists dream about but seldom see, according to W. C. Cline, a tunnel engineer who is helping build the 140-mile road, which will run between Pittsburgh and Harrisburg.

But it will cost money for motorists to use it—one cent a mile, to be exact. Trucks will pay four cents a mile for use of the all-weather highway.
However, this is no ordinary highway. For example, there will be no steep hills, sharp curves or a speed limit. It will be 75 feet wide—enough for four 12-foot traffic lanes, each separated by a 10-foot wide strip of earth.
There will be no cross roads. Over or underpasses will carry intersecting traffic. Vehicles entering the new highway first will be admitted to a "warm-up" stretch paralleling the road before they are routed onto the through traffic lanes.
The maximum altitude of the new road will be 1,300 feet, compared with almost 4,000 feet on the Lincoln Highway. Curves are being so constructed that they will hardly be noticeable. The Pennsylvania Turnpike will maintain its own police force on the highway.
The tolls have to be charged to clear up a PWA loan to the state. They are expected to pay off the loan in about 15 years. After that, the express highway will be turned over to the state.

DRIVERS HEED WARNING
NEWTON, Mass.—A postman always ring twice, but a careless driver who has received one ticket most likely will not be a repeater. A survey conducted by police shows that out of 1,500 "courtesy" traffic tickets issued as warnings only five motorists incurred prosecution by getting two tickets.
ped with rotating magnetoes, the lag between the trips on the magnetoes and the firing in the cylinders is not as great as on the oscillating magnetoes.
"Finding dead center: A method of finding dead center is to clamp a dial indicator to the oil trough in such a manner that it will touch the engine frame before the flywheel passes dead center; by rocking the flywheel back and forth the exact dead center can be obtained by dividing these two distances on the flywheel. When the exact dead center is found the two white marks are painted."
The article in the journal, which includes several illustrations to show how the timing arrangement works, also includes a paragraph on compression and one on mixture, and the timing methods described are said to correct valve timing and give better indicator cards.

Projects Will Be Open To Public On Saturday Until 4

Mayor Hall Walker called attention today that the Professional and Service projects of Ranger would be open throughout the day Saturday, closing at 4 p. m., and that visitors might call at them any time before that hour.
The projects have been open throughout the week in keeping with the national Professional and Service week, which was designated as "This Work Pays Your Community" week, and was observed throughout the nation.
Projects will be open Saturday, and which the public is invited to visit, include the sewing room, the housekeeping aid project and the recreational department. The nursery school will be closed all day Saturday, but it has been open throughout the week.

Murder Mysteries Are Too Tame For U. Of T. Students

AUSTIN, Texas.—University of Texas law students find murder mystery stories too tame. They not only plot crimes, but enact them. They have been known to rob sorority houses, hold up pedestrians on the campus, and once there was a student "murder."
But it is all staged in the interest of their legal education. The crimes are committed to gain practice in actual gathering of evidence and presentation of it in most courts where the student "criminals" are tried.
The crimes are made as realistic as possible.
In classroom a student will use an epithet toward another and precipitate a fight. There will be a shot and a victim will fall dead or fatally wounded. Other students not participating in the planned crime will be assigned as prosecutors or defense attorneys for trials of the offenders.
To get the best results, only crime participants know when the crime is to take place or what the offense will be. One such affair was staged so realistically that a first year law student rushed in terror from the class room. He was overtaken some distance away

He "Tied Up Trout" To Catch Whitefish

GREAT FALLS, Mont.—W. A. Hill says the prize alibi during his years as deputy game warden is this one:
Coming upon a fisherman casting in a stream where trout angling was forbidden but whitefish were legal catch, Hill noticed a number of live trout in the water tied with a string through their gills.
"Whose trout are these?" belted the warden.
"They belong to the state of Montana," the angler replied.
"Why are they tied?" Hill demanded.
"Those danged trout were taking my bait so fast I couldn't catch any whitefish, so I just tied 'em up until I got through fishing," the intrepid fisherman explained.

Toe Wiggling Will Step Up Efficiency

BOSTON.—Wiggle your toes, girls, if you want to increase your efficiency.
Dr. Thomas T. Boyd, speaking at a convention of the Massachusetts Academy of Podiatry, said that if housewives and salesgirls would take off their shoes and wiggle their toes, their efficiency would rise by about 50 per cent.
There is no special way to do it, he said; just wiggle. "It does for the toes what a deep breath of invigorating air does for the lungs."

Blackboard Maps Keep Up to Changes

LORAIN, O.—Lorain public school authorities believe they have found the answer to the puzzling program of what to do about classroom maps of Europe when national boundaries change or disappear almost weekly.
Sets of "white blackboard" maps have been installed. Boundaries are colored in washable crayon and then the maps covered with a glassy transparent material to prevent smudging.
