POWER COMPANY READY FOR ANY EMERGENCY ARISING FROM A WAR

Electric power facilities of the Texas Electric Service Company are capable to meet any war time demand for electric energy in this section, according to J. E. Lewis, district manager of the company. The Texas Electric Service Company recently completed a survey of the power resources in West Texas and furnished copies of this report to government officials in Washington.

"This part of the State is well supplied with electric power from the system of the Texas Electric Service Company," Mr. Lewis declared. "A network of high-voltage electric power lines radiates from the big steam generating station on the Leon River between Eastland and Ranger, and these lines are also integrated with the power lines and generating stations of other electric power companies in Texas to provide a great power pool that is quickly available if the need should arise. The Leon power plant is the largest in West Texas between Fort Worth and El Paso and, together with the high-line connections, has ample capacity to supply much additional power to this area for further development of the oil industry or any other industry that would expand as a result of war activity."

Mr. Lewis pointed out that this network of high voltage power lines was built to serve the peace time needs of this area, but that the company had in mind the possible emergency needs in planning and building its integrated power system. "Such an emergency occurred in this section during the oil boom period," Mr. Lewis said, "the company was able to meet a greatly increased electric power demand. The company's power plant capacity and its power transmission system have been enlarged and extended since that time to provide greater assurance of an ample electric power supply."

Artists Are Not Always Big Sissies

By United Press
AUSTIN, Tex.—Artists aren't sissies.

A star football end, a boxing sailor and a former three-letter high school athlete have been named winners of the first University of Texas arts scholarships. George Buffington of Navasota, who spent two years as a sailor on an oil tanker and who now fights in Golden Gloves tournaments, will get one of the $43 Harriett F. Batts scholarships in the college of fine arts.

"If they hadn't opened the college of fine arts this year, I probably would have been an engineer," Buffington said.

Luther Bookout, Jr., of Santa Rosa, was an all-round athlete while in school.

Joe Schwarting, former all-state football end at Waco High School, has turned the dormitory where he stays oil portrait conscious.

"I'd rather go in for this kind of work than athletics, when I get out of college," Schwarting said. "I think you will find that lots of athletic coaches, however, do a lot of painting or drawing on the side."

Floyd Jones of Breckenridge will be the principal speaker of the evening, and L. H. Flewelling will deliver the flag address. B. C. Morgan of Breckenridge will be master of ceremonies.

Passenger Loses His Seat, Is Run Over

MOBILE, Ala.—Here's a man who was run over by the car in which he was riding.

President Williams, 50-year-old Negro landscape worker, was a passenger in an automobile going out of Mobile. The machine skidded into a ditch. As it struck, the impact caused the door to open and three Williams out into the ravine.

Meantime, the auto continued to roll careening and finally rolled over Williams' legs as he lay helpless in the ditch. He was not seriously injured.

New Oil Wells In Central Texas Are In The Limelight

ABILENE, June 8.—A new oil pool along the Jones-Haskell County line was further defined this week when an outpost sunk by J. C. Hunter of Abilene a mile south of the Pardue pool discovery tested 27 barrels in three hours, without treatment.

The Hunter well is in Jones County, with the discovery well in Haskell County. The Hunter test encountered Palo Pinto lime at 3,458-63 feet with a five per cent showing of salt water.

JACKSBORO, June 8.—Northern Jack County's most significant deep test got under way this week, projected to the Ellenburger lime at 5,500 feet. Owned by R. A. Conkling, the wildcat is located four miles southeast of Antelope and six miles south of the Clay County line, on the Mary Hoeft farm.

BRECKENRIDGE, June 8.—Stephens County's deepest wildcat well in several years was planned today, a 4,500-foot test in the northwest part of the county by Dean L. Mattison. The location is eight miles southwest of the Stribley pool and 10 miles north of the three-well Loving pool.

Home Fires Could Be Reduced Says Fire Commissioner

AUSTIN—Home fires could be reduced to a minimum if Texas housewives would refrain from the use of gasoline, especially for cleaning purposes, Marvin Hall, state fire insurance commissioner, warned today.

The commissioner reported that the explosive power of gasoline has been ascertained at 83 times that of dynamite, and that the flash point of gasoline may be as low as zero.

"Static and friction should be avoided in handling gasoline," he said, "and people whose jobs involve its use should be thoroughly conversant with its dangers. Of course, its use is a commonplace as well as a necessity, but there's no need to ignore its power."

Rats Outnumber People In Palestine

PALESTINE, Texas—Rats outnumber human beings in Palestine three to one, according to County Agents B. R. Stoffelmeier, Jr., and D. R. Carpenter, who are directing an anti-rat campaign.

Palestine has a population of 15,000 persons, so the county agent calculate the number of rats at 45,000 to 50,000.

If United States biological survey estimates that the cost of feeding a rat is $2 a year are accurate, rats cost Palestine around $100,000 a year.

Under the plans of the extermination drive, citizens will put out poison at a cost much lower than that.

FRENCH BOMB BERLIN; NAZIS BOMB ENGLAND

PARIS, June 8.—French planes bombed the industrial suburbs of Berlin last night, it was said officially today.

The admiralty reported that French seaplanes had participated in the raid and that important factories in Berlin suburbs had been their targets.

(German planes bombed Paris last Tuesday, destroying property, killing more than 250 persons and wounding more than 600.)

All of the French planes which participated in the Berlin raid returned safely to their bases, the admiralty said.

"A squadron of seaplanes on the night of June 7 bombed factories on the outskirts of Berlin," the admiralty communique said. "All planes returned to their bases."

LONDON, June 8.—German planes scattered bombs over eight English counties early this morning, and machine gunned one town, in the third widespread raid in three days.

Belief hardened that the planes were preparing for a big scale bombing campaign, in addition to trying to wreck Royal Air Force fields and harass merchant shipping.

There were intermittent air raid alarms over the eight counties for three hours. An air ministry communique reported that they dropped some bombs but did little damage and caused no casualties so far as was known.

One of the bombing planes crashed onto a rectory in Suffolk County while the rector was preparing his Sunday sermon. The house was wrecked but there were no casualties to residents. Two of the German crew were killed, however, and a third was injured.

By Land and Air—Drive on Paris

Betting 1000 screaming dive bombers and 700,000 men against the flower of the French army, Adolf Hitler gambled for his greatest prize—a quick smash-through to Paris and victory in the war. And while the great battle rages, the shadow of German armed might looms threateningly over France's Arc de Triomphe.

McDonald Opens Campaign With Address Saturday

William H. McDonald opened his campaign for railroad commissioner in Eastland Saturday night with a speech that reviewed his record as a public official, fixed his stand on gas rates, outlined his views on the oil situation, and placed his specifically in favor of an increase of the Texas truck load limit.

C. W. Hoffmann acted as master of ceremonies for a program on which appeared Milburn McCarty, attorney and past president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, who introduced the speaker.

McDonald said he would do everything in his power to lower gas rates when they can be justified under the law and the facts.

"If I try to go any further than that I will be wasting my time and the people's money for the simple reason that the constitutions of Texas and of the United States still prohibit the confiscation of your property or anybody's property," he asserted. "As a lawyer, I understand that; and as one who knows the rigors of hard manual labor, I want everybody to get what he earns and to which he is fairly entitled."

"That is what we call the American way, and I am for the American way."

ITALY GETS NATION READY TO ENTER WAR

By REYNOLDS PACKARD
United Press Staff Correspondent
ROME, June 8.—Authorities today ordered all museums and art galleries closed and art treasures moved to places of safety as an added preparation for war.

An announcement said the government wanted to carry out measures "for the protection of national artistic and archeological patrimony," in case of war.

Special measures also were taken to safeguard the most important national monuments such as the bronze statue, "Lion of Judah," which was captured in the conquest of Ethiopia.

(Another Italian war preparation was withdrawal of Italian ships from the seas. Most of the Italian merchant fleet of 1,227 ships, aggregating 3,424,809 tons, was affected.)

Responsible quarters, meanwhile, regarded the appointment of Marshal Emilio De Bono, veteran army man who directed the first phases of the Ethiopian campaign, to command the southern armed forces as an indication that Italy was preparing for the possible spread of war to Africa.

Some quarters suggested that if Italy's African claims were to be pushed, there was less likelihood that the Balkans would become involved in the conflict. In this connection it was said that Italy and Germany would prefer to have the Balkans as a "peace barrier," offering protection to Germany in the east and to Italy in the north.

It was reported that Nicholas Gorkin would return soon to become Russian ambassador to Rome. He went back to Moscow suddenly six months ago without presenting his credentials to the new ambassador here, in protest to an anti-Russian campaign in the newspapers. At the same time it was understood that Augusto Rosso, Italian ambassador to Moscow, would resume his duties.

Conversations resulting in an Italian-Russian diplomatic understanding were said to have included the possibility of Italy obtaining oil from Russia.

This reported improvement in Italo-Soviet relations was interpreted in some quarters as a logical development attendant upon the imminent entry of Italy into the war on Germany's side. These quarters contended that it would be difficult for Italy and Germany to wage war side by side if relations between Italy and Germany's Soviet friend were strained.

Italy at the same time, it was suggested, might attack France directly across the Alps on France's southeastern frontier.

These quarters based their belief on the theory that ferocious and costly as they were, the present German attacks on the Weingand line might be only a feint, preliminary to the real attack.

The present speculative situation was a strange one, though characteristic. It was that Allied sources were trying to explain away a series of unusually hopeful developments by convincing themselves that the hopes were illusory.

Reluctantly, informants admitted that the situation was "satisfactory," but quickly qualified the admission by pointing out that it had been satisfactory only up to the moment of discussion.

Britain Hesitant To Believe That Nazis Are Halted

LONDON, June 8.—British military experts, still hesitant to believe that the failure of Germany's blitzkrieg legions to break the Weingand line in France means anything but that the real attack has not begun, suggested today that Adolf Hitler might be aiming at a completely new attack, with Italy's aid, through Switzerland.

According to these experts, Germany might attack Switzerland from the Black Forest area, crossing the Swiss Rhine frontier between Basle and Lake Constance, and then swing westward into France.

GERMAN OFFENSIVE IN FRANCE MAKES SOME HEADWAY NEAR SOMME

"American Circles" Accused By Nazis Of Exploitation

By United Press
BERLIN, June 8.—The newspaper Roehren Zeitung said editorially today that "certain American Circles were exploiting the fifth column score in order to bring their plans to hegemony over Central and South America closer to reality."

Referring to an editorial in the New York Times about Nazi-influence fifth columns in Uruguay, the newspaper said:

"We could leave these cases to the pathologists were it not obvious that there is method behind them. Was it not in New York a few months ago that some people knew with certainty that Germany had the intention of annexing Patagonia?"

"Then Germany was going to make a nest in the West Indies. Ah! And now she is stretching her hands to Uruguay in order that from these she can take Argentina, Brazil and then—take care, you scribes of Washington."

"Peoples of the Americas: If you do not want German parachute troops to fall from the Andes one fine day, German tanks to charge through the virgin forests of the Gran Chaco and U-Boats to pop up in the Amazon, then clean out your economic life... give us a few air bases, marine bases and a couple of mop-up planes..."

According to the survey, the Germans failed to force the French defenses with mechanized units and were forced to reorganize their attacks, throwing in massed infantry supported by powerful artillery barrage and tanks.

The German infantry is "attacking in waves in an effort to submerge" the allied forces, it was added, but Weingand was described as satisfied with the operations so far.

The French defense system now is composed of "strong points" at a considerable depth, the survey said. In this connection, it resembles the battle plan of the French 4th army on July 15, 1918, when German units infiltrated but were rapidly cut off and destroyed.

The French and British armies, taking a heavy toll of enemy men and mechanized equipment, were described by a military spokesman as fighting strongly in a situation that is serious "but not dark."

There were three main fronts along the fighting line which now stretches from the hills north of Soissons and thence to the Maginot line.

1. A German tank column, speeding through the open farmland of Normandy at the English Channel end of the line, fought its way from the Breole river southward to Forges Les Eaux, but German infantry failed to break through the opening and the mechanized units were isolated and under attack.

2. French advance forces fell back from the Somme front between Ham and the Channel, so that the front now reaches from the Breole river valley on the west to the vicinity of Carpien, between the Oise and Aisne rivers, north of Soissons. (This front was not definitely delineated but it appeared that the Germans fighting across the Somme at Amiens and Peronne had straightened out the bulge previously caused by a curve in the river and this had taken or swept past Amiens, Corbie and Peronne.)

3. Germans striking toward Soissons were attacking on a line between Carpien and Coucy. This line is along the heights about seven to ten miles north of the Aisne river on which Soissons lies.

The most spectacular German advance, however, was to Forges Les Eaux.

Big Airport for Two Cities Planned

FORT WORTH, Tex.—A great commercial and military airport to serve Fort Worth and Dallas will be recommended to the Texas Aeronautics Committee in its meeting June 10 at San Antonio.

J. J. Hurley of Fort Worth, chairman of the committee, said that the bi-city airport is part of a long range development program for Texas that calls for 171 new airfields during the next 10 years. The program also includes expansion of Texas airports, including Meacham Field here and Love Field at Dallas.

Shall All Serve?

Now that all have agreed on a vastly-increased armament program, shall all serve equally to bring it into being? Shall the workman who is asked to work longer hours be balanced by the employer asked to accept shorter profits?

Shall the young man who is asked to give his life be balanced by the older man who is asked to give his money?

Shall the arms burden, in short, designed to protect all, be carried by all in proportion to ability?

That would seem, in principle, to be the democratic way.

And if it is decided that a far greater number of citizens must become skilled in military matters, how shall those citizens be chosen? Shall they be volunteers, shall they be economic classes (as in the CCC proposals), shall they be college youth, or shall they be a vast and automatic cross-section of the whole people?

The questions are all going to come to the fore with increasing insistence as the arms program swings from discussion to reality. And not least important of the proposals raised is that now brought straight to the front by the Army and Navy Journal, which in its current number says flatly, "The time has come for the American people to adopt as a fixed policy the principle of universal military training."

The Journal describes our efforts up to now as follows: "We have been putting a toe into the water, and how that the rushing river threatens to swamp our banks, we are shivering and preparing to stick one leg into it. Apparently, we are never willing to learn the lesson of efficient and sufficient defense except at a sickening cost in blood and treasure."

So the service paper recommends stripping and plunging into the preparedness program whole-hog.

This proposal is revolutionary, and contrary to every tradition and precedent of American history. We have always avoided like the plague any suggestion of a large standing army, and any suggestion of compulsory service in peace time, though both in the Civil War and the World War we turned to compulsory service. In the World War it was immediately adopted as the only equitable and effective plan.

More will be heard of this proposal. If any such plan is ever placed in effect it must come as the conscious will and decision of the American people.

Noise travels one foot faster per second for every degree rise of temperature. Thus, in the heat of battle, the firing of a shell can be heard almost in time to duck.

Discovered in South Dakota is a county without a post-office. Can it be our fast-seeing politicians are getting short-sighted?

Naval Recruiter Appeals To People To Aid In Defense

The following appeal to the public in aiding naval enlistment has been issued by J. J. Mockbee, in charge of the United States Navy Recruiting Sub-station at Abilene:

"The Government has launched a preparedness program which will require the assistance of every staunch citizen, we have carried and are now carrying far too little insurance. America will prepare, our future must and will be assured. There must never be any doubt about this.

"Therefore I appeal to editors, business men, public officials and all loyal citizens to assist the Navy Recruiting Service in enlisting as many as possible of the 25,000 men needed to bring our Navy up to a new peace time record.

"The ranks of the navy from top to bottom are shot through with staunch, sturdy, alert, capable and loyal Texans. The Commander-in-Chief of the United States Fleet is a native Texan. So as Officer-in-Charge of Naval Recruiting for West Texas my intentions are to secure as many men as possible during the next four months. Opportunities are better than ever for ambitious young men between the ages of 18 and 31 to earn, learn, travel and serve in Our Country's Navy, literally the cradle of Americanism and American liberty."

Pensioner Cautious, He Loses Everything

DENVER.—A Fremont county old-age pension client, who refused a $1,000 offer for a $60 piece of property because he feared the money would deprive him of the Colorado benefits, is without both the money and the payments, whereas he could have had both.

Earl M. Koons, director of the state welfare board, revealed that the unidentified client could have evaded a state regulation prohibiting ownership of property valued at more than $500 by selling it for the $1,000. Thus his payments would have continued. His refusal resulted in his dismissal from state rolls and meantime the $1,000 offer was dropped.

This time it is the Belgians who are issuing a white paper on the invasion, beating the Nazis to it for once.

SERIAL STORY AN EYE FOR A GAL BY HARRY HARRISON KROLL

CHAPTER VI
Friday: Rossy asks and explains to go home for a while. He stops at the ball game and recalls the game in which he threw a bean ball, but left the injured McAfee in the grandstand while the famous Sock Tolliver, later, took home, Steve Hogg tells the story.

CHAPTER VI
going give you the right of all that day's mess, Steve Hogg said solemnly. "As I live, as I hope to see dead if this ain't the I'll tell you. To begin with, this here Tolliver what's the name of the school you're going to, is the same feller that your pappy."

"Now you see how it was? Of course, Sock Tolliver done it that way so's to make it seem an accident. Now and then somebody does git his brains busted out in a ball game. So, to liver things up from the start, he pretended to be wild. They always said of him he was a great pitcher when he could find the plate. But when he was off, he was wild as a fool."

"I'm calling the feller that told you that a liar!"
HOGG shook his head sadly. "They sure got you roped in, Dr. Tolliver, and that silken wench of his sure have you tied to a tree. They give you a soft bed and soft soap to lather your gills with, and now you gone back on your kin-folks. Gone back on all you ever had, all the name of McAfee ever stood for. You air ruin, that's all."

"I'm civilized. Or trying to get that way."
"Yah—civilized. From the way you talked to Hanner Shrider you shore are civilized!" He got up and made ready to go. At the door he turned. Rossy just sat there looking at him in amazement.

"You say this is the end of the line and I'll need a buckboard to get to Nugget City?"
"YEAH, WHEEZY, AND ANYWAY, WE JAILED HER OUTLAW BROTHER, 'THREEFINGER,' AND SAVED 'THE BS CATTLE DRIVE'!"

"YEAH, AN' I'LL SURE BE A RELIEF TO HAVE NO WOMEN TO RECKON WITH."

"BUT MILES AWAY, THE SHRILL WHISTLE OF A NARROW-GAUGE TRAIN OF AN APPROACHING STOP."

"AND INSIDE THE TRAIN..."

Cross Chapters Double Efforts to Raise Quotas
LOUIS, Mo.—Supported by every phase of public opinion, the Red Cross chapters redoubled their efforts this week to raise the $20,000 Red Cross war relief fund. Meanwhile, a 9,000-ton ship was scheduled to leave for France with a $500,000 cargo of American relief supplies.

5,000,000 homeless, destitute war-sufferers. The war fund goal was increased to $20,000,000 to help meet a refugee problem of "unprecedented and unforeseen proportions."

A Ship In Pieces Is Sent By Rail To Conserve Time

By United Press
LACONIA, N. H.—With a 67-year-old record and early summer business at stake, shipwrights are working against time to assemble a steamship jig-saw puzzle—the Lake Champlain side-wheeler Chateaugay.

The Chateaugay was hauled into sections on Lake Champlain's shore and transported 200 miles overland to Lake Winnepesaukee as a replacement of the famed Mount Washington, a wooden excursion steamer that burned last December after 67 years service.

Her skipper, 70-year-old Cap'n Leander Lavallee, conceived the "crazy scheme" of buying the Chateaugay and bringing the ship across the Green and White Mountains from Lake Champlain where she had sailed 52 years.

Lavallee wanted an excursion boat by July 1 so he could start the summer service on schedule. He never had missed a trip since the Mount Washington sailed out into the broad New Hampshire lake in 1872.

After the fire that burned his vessel to the waterline, Cap'n Lavallee planned a new, streamlined ship to sail under his colors. But contractors were unable to promise that a new vessel would be ready in time for the July sailing.

So Lavallee scouted the nation's larger inland waterways and finally purchased the Chateaugay for $20,000.

Although it was mid-winter when the deal was completed, Cap'n Lavallee assembled a crew of steel workers and ordered them to begin moving his new vessel.

The Chateaugay was at anchor in ice-locked Lake Champlain when purchased, so workmen were forced to dynamite a channel to the shore.

It was April before the old hulk was hauled up a runway to a shore berth where the real work began. Cap'n Lavallee and his assistants worked feverishly, dismantling the superstructure and loading all movable parts on railroad flat cars to be brought to Laconia.

Then workmen with acetylene torches ripped into the 205-foot metal hull, cutting it into 10-foot sections. In all, 250 tons of wood and metal parts were shipped by rail through the wooded mountains of Vermont and New Hampshire.

Once at their destination—Lake Pausus, a bay of Winnepesaukee—the parts were strewn across the ground while more workers began welding them together.

ALLEY OOP By Hamlin

The Golden Text is: "Ah Lord God! behold, thou has made the heaven and the earth by thy great power and stretched out arm, and there is nothing too hard for thee" (Jeremiah 32:17).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "That which hath been is now; and that which is to be hath already been; and God requireth that which is past" (Ecclesiastes 3:15).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "When we realize that Life is Spirit, never in nor of matter, this understanding will expand into self-completeness, finding all in God, good, and needing no other consciousness" (page 264).
