French Tank Mangled by Dive Bomber

The German soldier need have no fear of this French tank, its treads askew, a gaping hole in its side. Nazi-censored caption states it came out second best in battle with one of Hitler's vaunted dive bombers. French claim to have reversed situation on Somme front, destroying hundreds of Nazi tanks with cannon-firing planes.

Trade Doors Closing

Italy has pushed still tighter the door that is closing on international trade. By cancelling all permits for importations, and all permits for acquiring foreign currency to pay for imports, she places herself on the barter basis, which means the death of free international trade.

When Norway was invaded, the United States normal foreign trade took another drop. April figures showed a total somewhat above the year before, but far more than the amount of the increase was due to war exports. Normal trade had fallen badly.

The occupation of Belgium and the Netherlands of course took another heavy hack at normal American foreign trade, and now Italy, even before entering the war, withdraws from commercial intercourse with the world.

It is true that foreign orders for war material are increasing, and if the war should be prolonged, they will continue to increase, perhaps even to a point where they might create the semblance of a boom. But the important thing to remember is that normal trade is being destroyed. As long as Norway, Belgium, Holland, Poland, and Czechoslovakia remain under the German thumb, they will never resume their place in the international trade picture.

This means that, should the Germans win, foreign trade of the future will wear a different face than it wore in 1929 B. B. (Before Blitzkrieg). There will be less interchange of goods, and what there is, insofar as the totalitarians can control it, will be on a barter basis between two countries, instead of on the free basis wherein each country bought with money what it wanted from anybody.

What can be done? First, the most careful effort to cultivate our trade with such nations as remain free. Our trade with South America is increasing, and should be further increased by study of every possibility of profitable import from those countries so they can receive dollars with which to buy our exports. Every possible shock-absorber must be devised to cushion the blow when the war trade collapses, as it must when the war ends, soon or late.

And finally, preparations must be made to meet the competition of the bilateral or barter trade system if, after the war, it threatens to undermine our normal intercourse with friendly neighbors. The day when these trade matters could be relied on to adjust themselves is passed.

The X-ray can now be used to determine accurately the size and weight of the heart. Before, we had to judge by the amount of contribution.

The ukelele is revealed as having originated in Portugal. At last a stain removed from the fair name of Hawaii.

'Summer Complaint' And Diarrhea Are Now Widespread

AUSTIN, Tex.—Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, today warned city and county health officers over the state to take immediate control measures against the spread of diarrhea and enteritis (summer complaint). Widespread outbreaks of the disease have already been noted in several parts of Texas, and unless immediate checks against the disease are inaugurated, there is a likelihood that the 1939 morbidity and mortality total may rise above that for 1937, when a total of 2,338 deaths were reported in Texas.

Blind Woman Travels Far

BUTTE, Mont.—Mrs. Helen Hopkins, Tacoma, Wash., totally blind, stopped here en route to her home after a 3,000-mile train trip with her 6-year-old seeing-eye dog, Mitzie, as her only companion. One woman passenger on Mrs. Hopkins' train said the dog was the "best behaved and most gracious passenger aboard."

He Kisses Wife, Sprains Her Jaw Tennis Player Bites His Own T

HARTFORD, Conn.—Have you heard the one about the tennis player who bit his own throat? Or the husband who sprained his wife's jaw when he kissed her? Or the man who gave himself a "hot foot?" A life insurance company says the incidents are so true it paid claims for these unusual accidents.

CHAPTER VIII
Jesse Leverage blinked at Rosy McFee. The ancient man rose and switched on the light. There was a TVA power line in Hell'n-Damnation now, fighting the world. He groped in the old secretary's desk and forth came a packet of yellowed papers.

He mumbled, "Seems like I made copies of all the papers, on account your pappy was a friend of mine, and I kind of had some funny notions about that deal myself." He sat down at the table again with shaky hands unrolled the pack. He looked through some of them while Rosy looked through the rest.

"That's the conveyance," Leverage said, and spreading it on the table, he read it. "Um-mmm, I said then it was a good law, and say again his still in good law. This original was the handwrite of your paw, Rosy. I'd take my oath on that. It gave to your cousin Steve the land and timber on Wild Cat Ridge. Um-mmm. That was endorsing of a law, and say again his still in good law when your folks was having trouble with the Tollivers over that land line. Something about hogs getting over into the Tolliver crops. They was fixing to shoot it out or law it out. Let me see. Just let me see." He scratched his head. Finally he shook his head. He got up again and searched for something else.

Judge Jesse came back with a memo book, worn and dog-eared. He leafed through it. He made a sound as he discovered a date. "That's right. Them Tollivers was see the law in that case June 10th of that there same year. I told 'em, I recollect, if they could prove that damages, they could collect. I didn't want no trouble. No more feudin'. I set 'em to be patient, but your paw was my friend, and I knowed how he would do the right thing about it.

Lucky Baldwin's name is kept fresh in memory by the phenomenal Santa Anita race track, situated on that amazing character's old Rancho Santa Anita. But you seldom hear of James Ben Ali Haggin, whose life was as remarkable as that of Baldwin and who did even more to make California at one time the leader over Kentucky as a center of thoroughbred breeding.

His silks first appeared in the east in 1885 on the 2-year-olds, Tyrant and Hidalgo. Tyrant won the Withers and the Belmont Stakes, Californians cleaning up. The following spring Haggin took the Kentucky Derby with Ben Ali, which the season before had captured the Hopedale. In 1886, Haggin turned up with the filly, Firenze, rated by most critics second only to Miss Woodford among racing mares of this country for all time. Salvator appeared for Haggin in 1888. He captured the Suburban held records.

TEA is a perfect summer refreshment. Some like it hot, some like it cold. But everyone wants it fresh and fragrant. A tea-bar, with both hot and iced tea, small sandwiches and cakes makes a novel party after the tennis game. Men like hot tea served in mugs, with fresh mint and sliced lemon and sugar placed first in the bottom of the mug. Plain hot tea with lemon makes another popular after-the-swing or game beverage.

FRUITED ICE TEA
Three cups freshly boiling water, 3 teaspoons tea, 1/4 cup lemon juice, 1/2 cup orange juice, 1 teaspoon lime juice, sugar, 1 pint dry ginger ale, 6 mint sprigs, 6 slices orange.

Engineering Meet To Stress Safety

AUSTIN, Tex.—To put a stop to mounting highway fatalities, University of Texas engineers have planned the State's first conference on traffic engineering here, June 15-20. Sponsored by the University's College of Engineering with the cooperation of the State Highway Department, the five-day party will launch a planned attack against existing traffic hazards.

Part-Time Work Is Aid To Studies

AUSTIN, Tex.—Part-time work boosts rather than hampers the student's grades if University of Texas NYA scholastic averages are a fair gauge. Reporting that the grade average of 900 student employees this year was distinctly above the all-University average, V. I. Moore, dean of men at the University, listed the following accomplishments for his working charges: 164 NYA students were listed on honor rolls, while 30 were elected to Phi Beta Kappa or other honorary societies.

Bubbles Are Used In Refineries To Neutralize Acid

By United Press
FORT WORTH, Tex.—The petroleum industry has found a use for bubbles. Bubbles actually are manufactured under a new process to prevent formation of a destructive sulphuric acid mist in refineries, abolishing the need for expensive electrical equipment to improve visibility in the refineries and to reduce corrosion. "Et" Is Correct If You're In Kentucky
AUSTIN, Tex.—If you "vacation" in the Kentucky mountains, don't frown on the "natives" who say "I of my dinner," Miss Katherine Wheatley, University of Texas linguist, warns. "Et" is as correct as "ate"—if you live in England or in certain sections of the South, the diction authority said. "Speech is standard according to good usage rather than according to the dictionary pronunciation," she explained. "Good diction varies with time and place." In America we are not justified in being dogmatic, she declared, citing American scholar George Krapp, who defines speech as

Wading Fishermen Destroy Fish Eggs

AUSTIN, Tex.—Millions of fish eggs have been destroyed this year by anglers wading around the banks of streams and lakes fishing for crappie, cats, bream, and bass. Uncle Jake's Sports News of Dallas calls attention to this fact in no uncertain words, saying:

"The eggs are being torn from their moorings by waders and large lumps of spawn can be found on the surface after the fishermen pass on. It's about the same as crushing a foot down on a nest of quail eggs."

Members of the Dallas Anglers and Hunters Association are planning to ask the city of Dallas to pass regulations for the lakes that controls to prohibit wading by fishermen until June 1 each season.

Netters, especially minnow netters, also do a great deal of harm to spawn.

Jack Palmer, a student at A. & M. College arrived Monday evening for a few weeks visit with his mother, Mrs. W. C. Palmer, before returning to College for summer work.

Glen and Dewey Lovell of Dallas are spending the week with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Lovell.

Miss Edna Mae Rogers of Los Angeles, Calif., has returned to her home after spending a week here visiting her mother, Mrs. Sallie Rogers.
