Fishing Safety Rules Are Devised For Angler's Aid

AUSTIN, Tex.—With tens of thousands of fishermen on lakes and streams in Texas, the executive secretary of the State Game Department today outlined a few simple rules for the protection of the angler from accidents, and at the same time outlined practices in the handling and treatment of fish and minnows that should be followed if Texas waters are to be as productive of these species as every angler expects them to be.

For your own safety and for the producing of better fishing, check these rules and see if you're living up to them:

At a glance one can usually tell whether or not he has caught a fish that must be returned to the water. Catch the fish in the lower lip with your thumb and fore finger, remove the hook and release him easily in the water. If it is necessary to catch the fish with your hands, wet your hand first to prevent the disturbance of the protective slime that covers the fish. Be sure you have a legal fish before it goes on the string. This oversight might make a fishing trip an unhappy one. Check your tackle box for a ruler before you leave home or mark off the lengths on your boat or tackle box. Remember bass must be eleven inches long and crappie seven inches. Don't waste fish. Take only those that can be used, and use those that you take.

Seining bait may prove to be more expensive than buying it from a bait dealer, if care is not taken. Be sure that you do not seine minnows over three inches long, small bass, crappie and perch are not minnows. All species other than minnows must be released to the water immediately. Minnows that are too small for bait should be likewise returned to the water. They may be large enough for bait next time you go fishing. They are also valuable small fish or leave them in the tank to die.

Never use a boat that is unsafe and always have life preservers for every member of the crew. Boats with rotten boards should never be used. In case your boat does turn over, never get excited. Most wooden boats will support three or four people even if turned over or filled with water. Wait for help and never try to swim a great distance to shore. Many a good swimmer has lost his life trying this stunt. If it is necessary to swim, never try to swim with your clothes on. Remove your shoes first and then other clothes. It is better to lose your clothes than your life. Never wade unknown waters with hip boots, because if you go into water over your head with hip boots on, it is nearly impossible to remove them. Holes or rock jump-offs will cause one to lose balance and here is where the trouble comes.

Every fisherman should have some first-aid equipment in his fishing outfit. Scratches and bites should be treated immediately to prevent infection. Never try to get a complete sun tan on a single fishing trip. The pain from sun burns is a poor trade for a sun tan. Every fisherman should have a kit to treat poison snake bites.

Practice safety first and maybe you will not have to use first-aid its value to the town.

Along with the railroad went school district, municipal and other taxes and a payroll highly important to a town of this size, even though it might not have been considered much of a factor to a larger city. Throughout Perrin's time this payroll had meant much to local business firms, professional men and others.

People of Perrin Mourn Over Loss Of a Railroad

PERRIN, Tex.—The people of this once thriving West Texas community are in mourning.

The occasion for their mourning is not the demise of some leading citizen or other beloved person, but the loss some months ago of their railroad. Now that it is gone many in Perrin are frank to admit its loss can be largely attributed to their own lack of appreciation of Texas "ghost cities," a fate against which local citizens are striving valiantly. What has happened to Perrin was not contemplated when the Texas Railroad Commission authorized discontinuance of service by the G. T. & W. railroad. However, when officials of the line presented irrefutable proof that the business actually taken in by the railroad failed by a wide margin to pay its operating expenses there was nothing left to do.

Perrin need not have been in its present dilemma. Time was when the railroad operated two freight and two passenger trains between Mineral Wells and Perrin. There were a local railroad agent, two section foremen and ten section laborers whose wages boosted Perrin's payroll by $12,000 annually.

But with the fine paved highways came the buses and the trucks and some Perrin citizens began to refer to the G. T. & W. as "two streaks of rust." Others more thoughtful called the attention of their neighbors to the fact that more than a dozen families earned their livelihood by working for the railroad and that the taxes it paid were a factor in local business. The latter, who felt pride that Perrin had a railroad connection with the outside world, urged their friends to ship more of their goods by rail.

But the lure of the new type of public transport was too great, with the result that, as the business of the highway carriers increased, that of the railroad dwindled, finally being reduced to the point where the line's continued operation was impossible. The last train operated from Perrin last December 25, after which crews began the work of dismantling the "two streaks of rust." The railroad agent and section laborers, who had spent their paychecks twice monthly with Perrin business houses, soon went into competition with other citizens for odd jobs in and around town.

The taxes paid by the railroad were not large, but of the amount $382 went toward the schools. This was an important item, in meeting the expense of education in Independent District No. 2 comprising Jack, Palo Pinto and Parker Counties.

"The loss to Perrin of its railroad means more than the loss of taxes," asserted John Sharp, local superintendent of schools. "When the railroad stopped, business stopped. Our experience should be a lesson to more fortunate communities that still have time to save their railroads."

Lacking a railroad to serve their community Perrin merchants have thus far managed to stay in business through the operation of an improvised truck service, a set-up which has proved rather bothersome, local shippers and receivers of freight freely assert. Highway transport fills the gap on the lighter goods, but when the heavier shipments are to move it can't take the place of the old G. T. & W., nor is the service so dependable, local citizens say.

Now that there isn't any railroad service Perrin citizens must pay 45 cents to go to Mineral Wells, whereas formerly they made the trip for 27 cents.

"I tried to get my business friends to patronize the railroad more freely, but they wouldn't listen to me and now the inevitable has happened," J. S. Boydston, for 14 years a section foreman on the G. T. & W. declared. "Something in the way of a miracle will now have to happen to keep our little community from becoming a 'ghost town.'" er to be sure that it is in good condition and safe for use. Frequent county home demonstration agents train local home demonstrators in club leaders to conduct "pressure cooker clinics" back in their own communities. In some cases it may be necessary to return the cooker to the factory in the event there are major adjustments to be made.

Where glass jars are used, it is a good policy to inspect them for cracks and chips before the canning season. New supplies of lids and rubber rings are means of spring against canning failures, the specialist points out. Successful use of glass depends upon the quality of the rubber rings or composition tops and upon the rims being free from nicks and chips. The tops should fit and the caps be tight.

If cans are to be used, it is better to secure new ones each year rather than re-plate the old ones. Miss Neely says sanitary or enamel-lined cans preserve the color of such highly colored foods as berries, prunes, and beets and prevent corrosion in pumpkin and squash. Enamel-lined cans will help to prevent discoloration in products such as corn, peas, hominy, chicken and fish products, but these should not be used for acid products or fat meats.

Women Should Be Ready For Season Of Canning Now

COLLEGE STATION—Rural housewives who contemplate beginning work on their farm and home food budgets within the next few weeks had better get ready right away if they haven't already. Adequate preparations in advance will greatly improve the quality of the canned products, reduce the actual time of the canning operation, and help insure against spoilage, according to Grace I. Neely, specialist in food preservation for the A. and M. College Extension Service.

"OUT OUR WAY" - - - - - By Williams

WHY MOTHERS GET GRAY

Canning Hints To Housewife Given

COLLEGE STATION, Tex.—If homemakers are to have high-quality canned products and reduce spoilage to a minimum there are several problems they need to recognize. These problems are brought on principally by several successive dry years in some portions of the state, according to Grace I. Neely, specialist in food preservation for the Extension Service of Texas A. & M. College. For instance, vegetables produced in a dry season have less moisture content. "This means," Miss Neely points out, "that they will soak up liquid during the canning process. Therefore, looser packs or use of less food and more liquid in the can, should be the general rule with vegetables during a dry year." Foods canned in this way, especially corn and root vegetables, will keep better. The specialist also recommends adding a few minutes to the precooking time of vegetables such as corn, root vegetables, and field peas in excessively dry seasons. Another suggestion to home canners is that they can all vegetables during the early stages of production; that is, when the vegetables or fruits are in prime conditions for eating and canning. Time tables for pressure cookers appearing in the Extension Service publication, B-85, "Canning Fruits and Vegetables," which Miss Neely prepared, are those tested and recommended by fore, looser packs or use of less over the nation. These are available free upon request from county home demonstration agents or from the Extension Service headquarters.

Police Are Damaged Battling Amazons

MOBILE, Ala.—A Mobile officer lost his trousers halting a fight and another lost his $19 spectacle officers Cecil McAuley and Henry Frenelich were sent to the Negro section to break up a fight between two women. In the augmented scuffle Frenelich had his trousers torn off and McAuley's glasses were smashed. The women were fined $25 and costs in recorder's court.

More Candidates Seeking One Post Than Ever Before

AUSTIN, Texas—More candidates seek the office of State Railroad Commissioner than any other statewide elective office to be filled in this year's political races. The office is perhaps the most important in the state. The three commissioners have greater direct power than the governor. The winner of the race for the post to be filled this year will have not only a part in regulating railroad rates, service and equipment. He will share in gas utility regulation. He will help regulate production of oil and natural gas and the distribution of butane gas. He will also have a part in regulating the operation of common carrier oil and gas pipe lines. The office also is attractive to candidates because the railroad commission is an independent unit of the state government, responsible directly to the voters. Organized in 1891 under authority of a constitutional amendment, the railroad commission at first was strictly a railway regulating body. Other duties were placed on railroad commissioners from time to time by statute. Today railway regulation is a minor part of a commissioner's duties. Oil regulation is the principal activity. Motor truck and motor bus operations is supervised by a division of the commission and has become equally important with rail regulation. Utility regulation is shared with larger municipalities. Addition of new duties for the railroad commissioners has been accompanied by additional pay provisions. The pay for each of the three commissioners is now $7,000 a year. No additional pay goes to the chairman. The chairman is elected biennially by vote of the commission members. Usually it is rotated. A railroad commission has a six-year term of office, so arranged that normally one commissioner is elected each two years. This tenure may have something to do with making the office a popular one for candidates as the other offices, except court places, require a new political race every two years. In practice however, commissioners have not been keen to fill out a full six-year term. Two of the present commissioners now are running for governor, although one of them could stay on the commission four years longer without a race, and the other has two more years to serve. Six-year terms are provided also for judges of the state supreme court and the court of criminal appeals. Salaries for these places on the bench are $8,000 a year. Highest pay for a state elective office is $12,000 a year, provided for the governor. With his pay goes also residence in the governor's mansion, an allowance for mansion utilities, and pay for a staff of servants. The attorney general receives a salary of $10,000 a year with no perquisites. The state treasurer, the state comptroller and the state land commissioner each receive $6,000 a year. The state school superintendent is paid $5,000 and the state agricultural commissioner $4,200.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS ACIDS

Help 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes Flush Out Poisonous Waste

If you have an excess of acids in your blood, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may be overworked. These tiny filters and tubes are working day and night to help Nature rid your system of excess acids and poisonous waste. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pain, leg pain, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smearing and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. ### Looking Toward High Office?

Most doubts that President Roosevelt would seek a third term evaporated when he reportedly asked Senator James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, above, to be his running mate. They are said to have discussed Senator Byrnes' candidacy for the vice presidential nomination during a recent cruise on the Potomac river. Byrnes denied he had discussed the matter with the President.

'Situation's Well in Hand'—Plus

It's well known that the Marine Corps is no place for the effete. And when Recruiting Sergeant William F. Black, above, lands, "the situation is well in hand"—plus. These size 12-F's he's displaying in his Philadelphia office, are the largest allowed in the corps.
