WESTERN BLOC DEMOCRATS WRAPES ISSUES

By United Press
ALT LAKE CITY, Utah.—The Democratic National convention opens in Chicago, its members may find western delegates aligned in a voting bloc comparable to the "Solid South."

Efforts have been underway to elect fall to solidify representation of the 11 western states. Only a conference of nearly party leaders was held in Salt Lake City to prepare resolutions for submission as platform planks.

The same conference voted to up a "western headquarters" for the convention. It has far, the regional organization has shied away from discussion of candidates or major issues as national defense. Its apparent purpose is to exert pressure purely western interests, particularly reclamation and mining.

However, there is considerable doubt of the ability of party leaders to hold state-elected delegates. Attendance at the convention has been limited to state and national committee members.

Convention delegations, named in primaries or state conventions, do not necessarily have the views of the party's rank and file. Party leaders, and may rebel against the "bloc" program.

An example of such friction between the party's nominal leaders and the elected convention delegates may be found in Oregon. Here, state party leaders are tied with the conservative wing of the party, while of the 10 caucus, nine have the backing of presumably the views of the membership.

Rep. Boren Calls for 'Round-the-Clock' Preparations for Defense and Draft of Industrialists Who Won't Cooperate

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Rep. Lyle H. Boren, D., Okla., said today that it is vitally important to America that the program to equip and expand the U. S. army be thrown into the highest speed possible.

"Every cannon factory, every rifle maker and every plant making equipment for the army should immediately go on a 24-hour a day basis," Boren said. "No delay should be permitted. If industrialists do not cooperate voluntarily, then we must draft them."

Boren said that in general the navy was in much better shape than the army but that additional strength was needed for that arm. To get the army program under way he suggested that the War Department double or triple its personnel and itself go on an around the clock basis rather than close each afternoon at 4 o'clock.

He made these recommendations: Makes Recommendations
Instead of the actual 280,000 regular army and recommended 400,000 men it should be 1,000,000.
Instead of calling but 9,000 of the reserve officers to active duty we should call at least half of the present list of 125,000, and open up the reserve to men whose commissions have lapsed.

Agriculture's Part In Defense Plan Can Be Arranged

COLLEGE STATION — Agriculture's part in the national defense plan will be carried out without the establishment of new federal agencies.

This was pointed out in a letter received by H. H. Williamson, director of the Texas A. and M. Extension Service, from Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

Agriculture is represented on the Council of National Defense by Secretary Wallace and Chester Davis of the Federal Reserve Board.

The Council, reestablished by the President, is composed of six cabinet officers and seven advisory commission members. Its function is to correlate efforts of industry and the government.

The letter stated that the Secretary and Mr. Davis, after thoroughly exploring the relationship of agriculture to national defense, wanted to report immediately that:

"It will not be necessary to set up new government services, or new organizations of farmers, to carry on agriculture's part in the national defense program. Farm people themselves, through county extension organizations, AAA committees, land use planning committees, and so on, and government agricultural services, both in the Department of Agriculture and in the Land Grant Colleges, are set up and staffed to do what ever needs to be done."

The Secretary commented that the present farm program could be adjusted to increase the acreage of any crop that is needed in the national defense scheme. When and if need comes, he added, the people and the organizations now operating farm programs will be called on to do the work.

ITALY CLAIMS FRENCH SHIPS FIGHT BRITISH

France to Establish a Pro-Fascist Government Headed by Marshal Petain Wednesday

LONDON, July 8.—The Royal Air Force struck back at Germany today as fresh swarms of German planes bombed Britain and the belief grew here that Germany is "turning on the heat" for a long-awaited attempt at invasion.

The British retaliated with the most extensive raids of the war over Germany.

France will establish a corporate state patterned after that of Italy and Germany, Berlin newspapers said today, as London was notified that the French Embassy would be withdrawn.

The new pro-fascist government will probably be headed by Marshal Petain and Pierre Laval, after the democracy is abandoned Wednesday.

Meanwhile newspapers in Rome reported that French naval units from North Africa had sunk four convoys British ships and that French submarines had sunk a British cruiser.

German planes raided England again today and killed several persons. Three Nazi planes were shot down. One German bomber, flying at a high altitude, cut off its motor and glided over an English town, dropping a bomb into the main business section of the town before the townspeople realized it was near.

Berlin reported that British cruisers were blockading Martinique, French West Indies, where a French cruiser with gold aboard, and a French aircraft carrier, loaded with American-made airplanes were reported.

Japan increased pressure in the Far East, expressing dissatisfaction over arrests by United States Marines of 16 Japanese policemen in the American Zone at Shanghai.

Youth Asleep On Track Is Killed By A Freight Train

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., July 8.—Virgil Donaldson, 13, was dead today and Francis Brownley, 16, was near death with both legs severed, after being run over by a freight train.

The youths were reported to be on a hobo tour across the country from Alabama. According to reports of the accident they had fallen asleep on the railway tracks and failed to awaken when the train approached.

Dies Doesn't Want Vice Presidency

AUSTIN, July 8.—Rep. Martin Dies, head of the congressional Un-American investigation, said today that he "does not want" the democratic nomination for the vice presidency.

Rep. Dies, who is here to conduct an investigation of alleged subversive activities, said that he did not know, as yet, whether or not the investigation in Austin would be open to the public.

He had already stated that his committee did not intend to investigate the Summer Texan, the student publication at the University of Texas, because of editorials that some have claimed were unpatriotic in tone.

Fifty Are Killed As Mexico Votes

MEXICO CITY, July 8.—Fifty persons were killed and several hundred wounded, including two Americans, in Sunday's election for president.

Both Generals Almazan and Camacho claimed a victory in the election, but the results may not be known for weeks.

Juarez Almazan followers claimed the "greatest fraud" in history in conducting the election there.

Boys To Govern Mythical State

By United Press
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — Boys 11 may not decide the nation's election this year but that does not mean they will not wield a powerful political bat in the future.

Before summer is over, boys states will have held political elections of their own, waging a campaign that will culminate in election of administrative and judicial officials in a mythical 49th state.

Sponsored by the American Legion, the "Boys State" idea is designed to train youths in civic responsibility and leadership, and to give them in the mechanics of self-government.

NYA Is To Train More Youths For Mechanical Fields

AUSTIN, Tex.—Texas youth people receiving training in mechanical fields on National Youth Administration shop projects and resident centers will be increased in number by about 40 per cent during the new fiscal year, J. C. Kellam, State NYA administrator, announced today.

The number of youth learning the fundamentals of metal working, radio and electrical work, aviation mechanics and airport operation, woodworking and auto mechanics in our local shops and resident centers will be boosted to the full capacity of these facilities.

"Training of the sort given NYA youth during the past few years not only prepares them to aid in our national defense by giving them on-the-job experience in the fields that form our second line of defense," Kellam said, "but it prepares them to take their places in industry in time of peace as well. Young men between the ages of 18 and 24 who are unemployed and in need of this work experience and training should write us at the State Office in Austin or go to see the NYA representative nearest them."

Recruiting Office Opens In Eastland

A permanent United States Army recruiting station has been opened in Eastland, with Patrick Hassley in charge of recruiting activities. A temporary recruiting office, to be open for 10 days, has also been opened in Breckenridge.

The Eastland Recruiting office is located in the Eastland Post Office building, where anyone wishing to join the army, or wishing to secure information about joining, may contact the recruiting officer in charge between the hours of 8 a. m. and 5 p. m. each week day.

There are vacancies in all branches of the army at this time, the recruiting officer said. Before the office in Eastland was opened it was necessary for anyone wishing to join the army to appear personally at the recruiting office in Fort Worth.

School Buildings Are Being Repaired

Needham Gets Bond In Driving Case

Paul W. (Todd) Needham, charged by grand jury action with driving intoxicated, has made bond in the sum of $750. This according to members of the county sheriff's office, completes action on all cases on which the grand jury has so far returned indictments.

Snake Took Fish Right To Fisherman

AUSTIN, Tex.—A sportsman whose voracity is above reproach, but who is publicity shy, recently related an odd experience to the Game Department. While fishing in the Colorado River he saw a water snake swimming toward a sandbar upon which the angler was standing. The snake had a 12-inch catfish in its mouth. Upon reaching the sandbar, the snake when only three feet away from the fisherman, apparently became alarmed, dropped the fish at the sportsman's feet and darted back into the water. The angler dropped the catfish into his creel.

Just Politicians!

The man slapped the paper to the table, the black-and-white news from the political party conventions uppermost.

"Just a lot of politicians!" he snorted. Why, of course! Just a lot of politicians. What, in the name of the sainted memory of old Aunt Tabitha did he expect?

You hear a lot of people talk very loosely about politics and politicians. "The politicians want to do this and so." It is just about on a par with the swivel-brained nit-wits who pass rumors from mouth to ear that "they" are planning this and plotting that. And when you pin down this loose-tongued double-talker, you find that he has only the haziest idea of who "they" are.

Now there isn't a thing wrong with the term "politicians." What is a politician? Simply a person who is devoted to, or engaged in, politics. We usually use the word as applying to one who is active in purely party politics for what he can get out of it. Only when a political figure rises above the partisan do we grant him the verbal accolade of "statesman."

Yet no man can be a statesman without having first been a politician, nor does he ever become 100 per cent statesman. In government by popular representation, any man in public life must necessarily be in large part a politician. Lincoln was a politician. So were Jefferson, and Hamilton, and Jackson. So were Cleveland, and Theodore Roosevelt, and Wilson. It is true that men like these lifted themselves above the narrowest considerations of partisan politics to become statesmen. But in occupying political position they remained always in part politicians as well.

Does anyone think there can be organized government without politicians? Does anyone fool himself that in the vast bureaucracies built up by Hitler and Stalin and Mussolini there are no politicians? Yet you hear people thoughtlessly say, "If we could only get rid of the politicians!"

No people will ever get rid of its politicians. There is no reason why it should. What is needed is better politicians.

Slightly ungrammatical, maybe, but every time Adolf opens his mouth he puts his feats in it.

A Cleveland thug robs his victim, then gives him a ducking in Lake Erie. As though his spirits weren't dampened enough.

Statistics show nearly a million and a half people in England suffer from insomnia. The other 44,000,000 are frank enough to admit it's Hitleritis.

The day's thought: Der further de fuehrer der better.

Despite everything that goes on for home defense the squeeze play is still being worked for that much-needed run.

Speed Essential For WPA Part In Defense Plan

SAN ANTONIO—Speed is the essence of WPA's participation in the national defense program, State Administrator H. P. Drought told Texas district managers today in reviewing plans for the Federal work agency's activities during the current fiscal year which started July 1.

Calling attention to the $25,000,000 fund which Congress has made available to aid in the operation of important defense projects, certified by the Secretaries of War or Navy, Drought declared:

"We can not wait to see what defense projects may come in later. Those important projects which come in first will be placed in operation first."

Employment rolls of the Work Projects Administration will be reviewed to check the qualifications of all workers with aptitudes for defense tasks and a register of the names of these workers will be maintained ready for instant use, Drought said. He expressed the hope that a substantial number of WPA workers will be placed in private defense industries throughout the nation during the next twelve months.

Reiterating the statement that defense projects will be given priority over other WPA activities, Drought said that work important to the national defense is not limited to the construction and engineering fields.

"WPA will engage in defense training; procedures are now being worked for the training of selected WPA workers in existing vocational schools for defense jobs. Others will be assigned for training in industrial plants where it is hoped that jobs will be available after the training period is completed. This activity will be sponsored by the National Defense Council."

"Under the professional and service program of WPA, research and statistical workers can be made immediately available for defense industries and research projects now operating can be shifted to fill defense needs. Thousands of operators of power sewing machines can be put to work manufacturing needed defense materials, if necessary; WPA service rooms will not produce any articles in competition with private industry, however."

Under terms of the current appropriation act governing WPA, employment may not be given members of the Communist party or members of Nazi bands. Affidavits are required from all administrative and project employees to the effect that they do not belong to such organizations or to any group which advocates the overthrow of the government of the United States, Drought stated. All persons failing to execute such affidavits are removed from the payrolls.

Other additions to the WPA program under the new appropriations act which were reviewed by Drought were listed as follows:

The limitation on WPA expenditures on buildings was lifted from $52,000 to $100,000. Defense projects are exempted from this limitation.

Restitution to the government must be made by sponsoring agencies and by the private agency

THE PAY OFF

WHY do Washington and Washington men rule the waves? Harvard didn't get going until Tom Bolles was drafted from the Huskies.

All save two or three major rowing schools are coached by Purple and Gold products. Most of the nation's shells, oars and equipment are made by George Pocock in his shop in the Washington shell house.

The shells are made of Washington cedar and are reinforced with Washington spruce. Washington crews work out all year 'round... with the exception of December.

The crew house is on the edge of the campus, the shores of which are washed by two great lakes—Washington and Union.

THE story of Hiram B. Conibear, creator of the famous stroke bearing his name, is as romantic as the story of Washington's progress in rowing.

The felling of 10 giant Washington cedars in 1899, and their being tied together as the school's first boat, was the signal event leading to the Seattle institutions' high rank, but Hiram Conibear did not step into the picture until 1907.

Oddly enough, Conibear, who was destined to revolutionize sweep rowing, never pulled an oar.

Conibear, who had been with the Chicago White Sox, went to Washington as trainer of all athletic teams when Gilmore Dobie took charge of football.

Washington could not afford a crew coach, so Conibear sat down with pencil and paper and figured well. A textbook on physics and a shelf of books on different rowing systems contributed.

CONIBEAR knew nothing about rowing, but common sense told him the longer the oar was in the water, the more motion there would be. The trick was not to lose too much time in recovery after the stroke and not to kill off the men.

Conibear tried out his theories for months on a back-breaking 20-oared crew... struck upon the right plan to make arms, legs and back work together best.

Washington-coached crews have worked with the cadence and easy certainty of a ballet ever since.

Washington has something on the water, no doubt, but it took a long pull and a strong pull and a pull all together to establish its supremacy.

College Jills Want Love, Not "Jack"

DENTON, Tex.—North Texas State Teachers College Jills want love, not "jack," according to a campus poll which asked fifty popular coeds to choose between love, money, security, and social position.

Most interviewees looked dewy-eyed, and a few acquired a metallic gleam, but not one of the 50 had any doubt but that she wants a husband. To the question, "If you had two proposals of marriage, one from a man whom you loved but who had no money, a small salary, and an insecure future, and one from a man you liked very much who was wealthy—which would you choose?" 34 coeds answered "love," 16 decided on the money.

One collegian in deciding that momentous question got a far-away look, sighed, and said enthusiastically, "I'll take the one with the black hair and the blue eyes."

There is one point that all but three agreed upon—they would rather marry a man who could offer them the assurance of a comfortable home and an average income than a man who could give them an enviable social position.

Only 10 potential career women listed a successful career as most important, and only one of the 50 stuck adamantly to her conviction that a career, money, social position, and no children was her aim in life.

Children are more important in marriage than a lot of money, according to 43 co-eds, and they agreed in the majority that two or three children make up an ideal family.

In answer to a question as to whether, since they are evidently preparing themselves for a career, they plan to work a few years after marriage, 38 said "no" but only five of these stood their ground and said that they wouldn't even if it were necessary in order to get married. Only 20 of the 50

Fire Insurance Is A Complicated Business Now

AUSTIN, Tex.—Attendance at a State Fire Insurance Commission rates and rules hearing gives a surprising insight into what a complicated business fire insurance has grown to be.

New risks appear to be discovered continually. For some of them no form of insurance is provided; others are doubtfully included in what is known as "extended coverage". This is provided in a sort of Mother Hubbard clause for which an extra rate is charged.

At the last hearing before the state commission, losses from sabotage received considerable attention. No specific losses so far were reported but an alert group like the insurance men is not going to be caught napping about it.

The state is a vandalism extension that may be attached to the usual fire insurance policy. Some of the agents at the hearing doubted that vandalism and sabotage are just the same. Some thought sabotage would likely become too great a hazard to be included in the "extended coverage" rate. A number suggested a special clause on sabotage.

The last hearing of the commission developed, also, that there now exists no state-approved insurance for damage to a building or in an adjoining building. There are many policies in force that give protection against an internal explosion. In fact most industrial establishments carry such insurance.

The risk of damage from an outside explosion was called up by an agent who said lack of this insurance was developed when there was an engine explosion in a railroad round house at San Antonio. Boiler plates, from the engine were hurled great distances with resulting damage to roofs and other property in the neighborhood.

Another surprising development at the hearing was that few people who carry windstorm insurance on their homes protect themselves also from windstorm damage to the contents of their houses.

Insurance agents seeking to develop this line of protection proposed to the commissioners that a rate of insurance against windstorm damage to contents of dwellings be reduced to one half the rate charged for insurance on the building itself.

Others protested that the risk to the contents is greater than to the house itself, so the rate should not be lower. For instance, it was cited, a window pane that can be replaced for 75 cents might be broken by a windstorm and as torrential rains usually accompany heavy windstorms enough water might come into the house through the broken window to do hundreds of dollars damage to expensive

Because Koesinger told him his youthfulness would excuse him even if he were caught, Harms broke into four drug stores.

Today Harms is in Gatesville reformatory.

Koesinger faced three burglary charges.
