GREAT WEALTH OF INDO-CHINA TEMPTS JAPAN

By RICHARD C. WILSON

United Press Staff Correspondent
MANILA.—Increasing Japanese pressure on war-orphaned French Indo-China has brought in sharp focus the valuable acquisition Japan made when armed forces occupied strategic Hainan island last year.

Sitting astraddle the China Sea lane connecting Hong Kong and Singapore, Great Britain's key defensive outposts in the Orient, Hainan offers Japan a base in easy striking distance of any port of Indo-China. Directly controlling the Gulf of Tonkin, it lies only 100 miles east of Indo-China, 600 west of Manila and 840 miles northwest of British North Borneo.

Military sources have received reports that hundreds of Japanese workmen are busy on Hainan constructing military establishments and a large airport. Intermittently, there have been reports of visits to Hainan by sections of the Japanese fleet. Japanese sent to Hainan to quell Chinese resistance have never been withdrawn, it is said.

The French government two years ago began fortifying Cam Ranh Bay, a short distance north-east of Indo-China's largest city, Saigon, less than 1,000 miles from Manila and on a direct line from Singapore to the Formosa Strait. However, this base admittedly has not progressed sufficiently to withstand invasion.

A fertile storehouse of resources equal to the Philippines, French Indo-China covers an area of 286,000 square miles and has a population of 23,000,000. Although not as highly developed as the Netherlands' East Indies, Indo-China is France's most populous colony and the mother country's third largest trade reservoir. French investments during the past 50 years have been estimated at $675,000,000.

Indo-China annually produces a large exportable surplus of rice which finds a ready market in Japan, the Philippines and Hong Kong, where rice production does not meet domestic requirements. The deltas of Cochinchina and Tonkin produce maize, cotton, rubber, sugar, tobacco and spices—all products eagerly sought by Japan. Rubber production during the past three years has been more than sufficient to supply the needs of French industry. Minerals produced include tin, zinc, coal, gold, silver, copper, lead and antimony.

Observers have pointed out that French Indo-China's economy would complement Japan's economy with only minor revisions. Industrialization has been slow developing in Indo-China, making the colony's substantial population a ready market for Japanese industry. Heretofore, Japanese manufacturers have made little progress in Indo-China because of the high French tariffs.

Aside from being a tempting colonial prize, military observers point out that possession of Indo-China, which borders south China for 1,000 miles, would afford Japan easy access to China's important backdoor, thus permitting a pincer movement against Chungking in the war against China.

Some sources foresee the possibility of a Japanese demand that France permit the movement of Japanese armed forces over the narrow-gauge railroad linking Hainan and Kunning, capital of China's Yunnan province. Now that France has acquiesced to Japan's demand that shipments of arms and supplies to China over this line be stopped, it was predicted Japan might go a step further and demand use of the railroad herself.

The Hainan-Kunning railway has 1240 miles of trackage in Indo-China and 288 miles in Yunnan province. It was constructed after the World War with French capital. As a result of the Sino-Japanese conflict, its gross earnings during the past three years have increased nearly 80 per cent.

G-Men Find Vital Clues In Names Given to Criminals By Their Friends

WASHINGTON.—"If you see Iron Foot Florence and Lots O' Mamma, tell them Belching Blanche and Bow-Legged Bessie are at Beef Steak Bob's apartment," the FBI has a set of fingerprints to match each nickname and an appellation inadvertently dropped during a crime may prove just as important in the investigation as if the criminal had left a calling card.

"It will sometimes occur that the only clue to a particular bank robbery, holdup or kidnaping is a nickname applied to one of the subjects and used unconsciously by one of his companions during that particular crime," J. Edgar Hoover, FBI director, said.

"We all recall our boyhood days when, while playing around the neighborhood, companions received nicknames which clung to them all through life," Hoover, who still is called "Speed" by his intimates, said.

He pointed out that the nicknames often were the most descriptive names that could have been assigned to the particular individuals.

"An analogy may be drawn in connection with criminals who have been recorded in the files of the FBI and in particular those criminals who have been tagged with nicknames by their fellow criminals," he added.

The FBI has difficulty in checking such nicknames as Joe, Jim, or Al, but such uncommon appellations as "Three-Fingered Liz" or "Rooster Face" most often are a dead give-away.

An example of the efficiency of this method of criminal detection is the case of "Kentucky Red." He was taken in New York City on charges of selling narcotics, but he escaped. The only clue to his identity was the nickname, "Kentucky Red."

The FBI was asked to check its nickname file for such a character and the search developed the information that a Noah Stone, the possessor of an extensive criminal record, used that nickname.

Information obtained in the file indicated Stone was serving a sentence at the New York county penitentiary for a similar violation.

The bureau of narcotics used this lead to take Stone into custody after he had been released from the previous sentence on parole.

Here are a few samples from the file:

Seven Children Operate Store and Movie Theatre With All Proceeds Going Into Red Cross Relief Fund

Seven children who live in Cooper Addition have formed their own "company" all profits from which are to go to the Red Cross fund to aid civilian refugees from the European War.

The company, while not incorporated, is composed of Bobby Cross, Charles Cross, Worth Carlin, Anita Carlin, Vera Vivian Cooper, Dorothy Penn and Carolyn Ducker.

Starting with an original capital of six cents—they did not say how they raised that capital, though—they increased it by holding a moving picture show in the V. V. Cooper garage. An admission of three cents was charged, with no defense tax added.

This first venture into the realm of big business proved successful, and the original capital was increased slightly. Since no book-keeping system has been established, other than counting proceeds at the end of each business transaction, it was not divulged how much was raised on the movies. It was stated however, that "Charity Theatre" showed a nice percentage of profit.

Next a corner store was opened, with chewing gum and candy the chief items in stock. In fact they were the only items carried. The theory of small turnover is carried out literally. When stocks run low, or someone calls for something that is not in stock, the coffers of the firm are opened, someone is sent to the corner grocery and new purchases are made. This sometimes necessitates several trips a day to the market centers.

Super salesmanship is practiced by the entire personnel of the company. Whenever anyone comes along they all jump up and begin yelling their sales talks, and a few are those who can offer much sales resistance, even if they are not in the mood for chewing gum or candy.

The "store" is located under a tree on Desdemona Boulevard, and woe to any unwary passerby who forgets and leaves his small change at home, because he might be in for a few embarrassing moments.

Plans call for a dog and cat show, with the exact date not yet set, nor the rules completely worked out. However the Cooper garage is to be pressed into service again when the show is staged.

To date the group has increased the original capital of six cents to $1.18, which anyone will admit is a fair margin of profit for only two days of business.

With no rent, no salaries, no utility bills to pay and with no inclination to eat up the profits, as yet, the firm is doing real well, and, incidentally, so would the Red Cross fund if everyone worked as hard on the job as have these seven youngsters.

Ranger H. D. Club Meet On Tuesday

The Ranger Home Demonstration Club met Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Haden Neal, Spring Road.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. A. O. Hinman. After the business session Mrs. Lillian Eastland gave an interesting talk on potato flour, made from sweet potatoes, telling how it is made and its uses. She said it makes good ginger bread or cakes.

The club voted to make a quilt for the Red Cross.

An all day meeting will be held Tuesday, July 23, at the Cross Roads clubhouse. It is expected that mattress making will begin at Cross Roads by July 15.

CHANGE IN FRANCE IS NOT NECESSARILY TO A TOTALITARIAN STATE

By J. W. T. MASON,

United Press War Expert
The meeting of the French Parliament at Vichy to change France's constitution does not necessarily mean the creation of a Nazi-Fascist dictatorship form of government. German and Italian reports indicate that the totalitarian states want to see France join their ranks but it is too early to affirm that French democracy is dying.

The French people have changed their form of government 10 times since the French revolution 150 years ago. In that period they have had one reign of terror, one directory, one consulate, two empires, two monarchies, and three republics. After every fresh experiment they have returned to democratic principles, finding the others unsatisfactory.

The basic change which French leaders now are seeking concerns limitation of the power of parliament. Under the third republic the French parliamentary regime has been based on the British system whereby ministries must resign if they do not have a legislative majority. This method has caused administrative instability due to the volatile and emotional character of the French people, resulting in continual changes of ministries.

The new constitution, as far as its provisions are yet known, will change this principle so that it will be more like the American, with the executive department not dependent on the legislative. At the same time there are indications that the present Pétain military regime wants to limit the law-making power of the French parliament, giving the executive department authority to promulgate laws by decree.

This movement is pro-totalitarian in principle and under the present chaotic conditions in French politics it might work for the time being. But to have permanent validity a dictatorship requires a dictator of great will power who can over-awe all subordinates. France has no such person. There is no French political leader with the temperament of Hitler or Mussolini. Since the beginning of the French republic France has always feared the appearance of "the man on horseback," as leader of a military uprising against the republic. In 1889 General

Courses In Traffic Safety Offered In University Aug. 12

KNOXVILLE.—Nine specialized courses in the traffic safety field will be offered at the third annual National Institute for Traffic Safety Training to be held at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, August 12 to 24. The Institute is being taken to the south for this year, from the University of Michigan, where more than 500 people enrolled in 1938 and 1939.

Sponsored by eleven national safety organizations, the Institute is designed to supplement the effective training work of motor vehicle administrators, police and others. Its objective is to translate proven accident prevention methods and techniques into effective action through trained career personnel in the several fields of traffic safety work.

Two-week courses will be offered in traffic engineering, traffic law enforcement, safety education in elementary and secondary schools and advanced methods of adult driver training. One-week courses will deal with vehicle fleet safety, safety organization and public education and traffic accident reports and records.

Offered for the first time this year, and designed to provide a broad background for people just entering traffic safety and for specialists who want to better establish the relationship of their job to the broad program, is a one-week course in traffic safety fundamentals.

Sponsors of the Institute are: American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators, American Association of State Highway Officials, American Automobile Association, American Public Works Association, Automotive Safety Foundation, Highway Education Board, Institute of Traffic Engineers, International Association of Chiefs of Police, National Safety Council, Northwestern University Traffic Institute, Yale University Bureau.

Boulogne made the attempt but had to flee from Paris and two years later committed suicide. Marshal Pétain, 84, is too old for the role. General Weygand has not the ability. There is no other known French general capable of such an attempt. None of the French politicians has sufficient following or popularity to make himself a dictator. So, a triumvirate is now scheduled to take over the government of France under the new constitution. Triumvirates, however, never last, more especially in France where lengthy cooperation among leaders is unknown.

The present clique in control of the French government is sympathetic toward some aspects of the Nazi and Fascist forms of government which will be reflected in the new constitution. But any basic imitation of German and Italian administrative methods that may be forced on France at Vichy can last only for the duration of the war.

After peace has come and France becomes stabilized again, the French people will settle their own governmental destiny themselves. If necessary it will be done by revolution, France's recurrent way in the past hundred and fifty years of returning to democracy.

SABOTAGE IS CALLED BUNK BY NAVY MEN

AUSTIN, July 10.—Representative Martin Dies, investigating un-American activities here, said today that an investigator yesterday reported frustration of a plot to sabotage a battleship under construction in a Pennsylvania ship yard.

Philadelphia naval officials termed the Dies report as "bunk." Dies today quizzed Hermann Koetter, alien president of the Kyffhauser Society, composed of German World War veterans. Koetter insisted that the society was for pleasure only, and had no other motive.

It's Just Natural To Suspect Him

ENNIS, Tex.—A man here—whose name is German—had received wary glances from his business associates whom he thought suspected him of fifth column and subversive activities.

"I guess it's natural for them to suspect me," he said.

"You see my family came over here in 1831 and went right to work fifth columning the Indians. They didn't like the way the Indians ran their country, so they wanted to change it."

"Then, some of the family moved down into Mexico, sat around while and decided they didn't like the government, killed a bunch of Mexicans and helped take Texas away from them."

"Even that wasn't enough. My people were still discontented. They didn't like the government so they joined up with the Confederates to try to change it. . . . yes, I guess it's natural for me to be suspected."

Ways Parted For 45 Years, Now they Wed

BATON ROUGE, La.—They hadn't seen each other for 45 years and never had a courtship, yet Mrs. Neva Weir McKee of Long Beach, Cal., and Milton Reed of Baton Rouge are married happily now.

The newlyweds went to Natchez, Miss., to spend their honeymoon after their recent wedding here. She was a widow. He was a widower with five children.

Forty-five years ago both were living in Natchez. Reed's half brother was paying court to Miss Weir, and young Milton Reed frequently went along with his relative to see her. Then their ways parted.

Reed and Mrs. McKee hear no more of each other until last March, when he located Mrs. McKee in Long Beach. In his first letter to her, Reed proposed marriage. In her first answer, Mrs. McKee accepted. Her nephew, Russel Weir, and his wife brought Mrs. McKee to Baton Rouge by motor for the ceremonies.

DENTON.—Two Eastland girls, Misses Loma Faye Hearn and June Hyer, were ranked scholastically with the highest eight per cent of the student body at Texas State College for Women when Dean E. V. White recently announced the honor roll for the second semester of the 1939-40 session.

An A minus average qualified both girls for honors. A senior at the college, Miss Hearn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Hearn, was studying home economics education. Miss Hyer, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Hyer, was a junior studying history.

No Labor Shortage In Corpus Christi

S. J. (Sid) Lowery of the Eastland Texas State Employment office is in receipt of a letter from the Texas State Employment office in Corpus Christi, which states that because of the U. S. Naval Air Base project there hundreds of workers have migrated into the city in hopes of obtaining work which is not obtainable because positions have been filled.

The Corpus Christi employment office advises that when there is need of additional men there strategic offices will be notified.

HITLER TRIES TO PREVENT A BALKAN THREAT

Adolf Hitler struggled today to end war threats in the Balkan and to free the full strength of the axis powers for a final assault upon Great Britain.

The greatest German aerial attacks were launched today against Britain, and the Nazis lost 11 planes, while claiming that seven British bombers were destroyed while bombing German objectives at Amiens. Britain claimed that there was no damage, nor no casualties from the German raid.

Air battles closely followed the clashes between the British and Italian fleets in the Mediterranean. The British said they lost no ships, although the Italian claimed the sinking of a British cruiser, a destroyer and possibly a battleship. The Italians admitted they lost a destroyer and a submarine and that another warship was hit by a shell and there were 29 Italian sailors killed and 65 wounded.

Adolf Hitler and Foreign Minister Ciano of Italy today conferred with Hungarian officials, presumably to formulate plans for returning former Hungarian territory that was given to Rumania. Turkey was rumored to be preparing for a Russian threat in the near east, but denied that the Soviet had demanded control of the Dardanelles.

Eastland Woman's Mother Is Buried

Funeral services for Mrs. E. S. Merrick, 73, mother of Mrs. John H. Harrison of Eastland, were conducted this morning from the First Baptist church of DeLeon. Burial was in the DeLeon cemetery.

Mrs. Merrick, an old time resident of DeLeon, died very suddenly Monday morning. She had eaten a hearty breakfast and had walked out in the back yard to feed some table scraps to the chickens. Her failure to return in a reasonable time caused members of her family to go look for her. They found her prostrate on the ground, dead. Every evidence was that she had died instantly.

Survivors consists of two daughters, Mrs. Harrison of Eastland, and Mrs. J. R. Dishman of Illinois, and a son, Fred Merrick of DeLeon.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison were in DeLeon today for the funeral and burial.

Look Before You Leap—or Join

In times of storm and stress like these, organizations spring up like mushrooms.

People have an urge to join things. The wish to be united with others in some movement is very strong. It gives a feeling of being "safe with the crowd."

But now, more than ever before, people do well to consider carefully what organizations they join.

A man comes to you and asks you to join the Amalgamated America Association. "What's the idea?" you ask. "We're for Americanism!" says the plausible gent. "The dues are $2, and here's your button."

Whoa up, there, Elmer! Americanism, you say? We're all for that. But precisely what are you driving at, anyway?

It is just as well to look carefully into any organization which seeks membership and support. Attorney General Robert H. Jackson has offered some advice on things like this. It is so sensible, so elemental, that we think it's worth repeating:

"Refrain from joining any organization," Jackson suggests, "until you know:

"First, who your associates in the organization are, and who their backers are.

"Third, what becomes of your dues or contributions."

That seems pretty elemental doesn't it? And yet many people do not even try to find out such simple things before they sign on the dotted line and begin paying dues.

Many have joined organizations just to be obliging, or just to have that warm feeling of being united with many others, only to find later that the promoters were either simply stealing the money or using it for purposes of which the joiner had no idea at all.

Americanism? Certainly. But just what phase of Americanism is being fostered, and by what means? Patriotism? Certainly. But through what kind of a program?

To look before you leap—or to investigate before you join—that is the course of common sense. And as citizens of the United States of America we already belong to the greatest organization in the world of free men working together to build a free and happy life for all.

A California defendant has been cleared of slandering a woman's hat. Precedent having been established there likely will be one less ground for divorce.

It was bound to happen sooner or later. We mean the reference to the Japanese beetle as the oriental fifth column.

Co-education has been banned in Madrid schools, but this is not regarded as serious. Absence of football bands precludes the demand for dimple-knee drum majors.

'What Makes You Think I Need to Be Warned?'

declared unfit for military duty. Though in recent years the percentage of applicants unfit for service may have dropped slightly, the number is still too high.

"Therefore, it would appear both from the standpoint of the individual's welfare and the nation's, that an increased or more intelligent appreciation of the value of good health and maximum vitality well could be displayed not only on the part of men of military age, but by the nation as a whole. Both good sense and patriotism demand it.

"Whether in peace or in war, a country is only as strong as its people. But it is equally true that real and happy living to the greatest possible extent can only be enjoyed by those who, by a rational observance of nature's basic laws, are giving their bodies a square deal.

"In this connection, the logic of surrounding the young with preventives available through science is obvious. Immunization against diphtheria, smallpox vaccination, proper food in proper amounts, sufficient sleep and rest, and the removal of remediable physical defects, merely represent sound judgment and an essential parental duty," Dr. Cox pointed out.

"But to stop at this point is to fall short of the individual's and the nation's need. All adults profitably could take stock of their habits, eliminate those which they know are detrimental, obtain medical advice on others concerning which they have reasonable doubts and strive in a sensible, rational manner to develop and keep maximum health and vitality.

"In short, the physical examination to discover possible physical defects, and a non-fanatical adherence to fundamental requirements in food, rest, exercise, and other essentials are points that should not be overlooked by an adult who has at heart not only his own personal happiness and health, but the interest of the beneficent nation in which he lives.

Physical Fitness For Preparedness Is Being Urged

AUSTIN, Tex.—"America has with good reason become preparedness-conscious. World events have emphasized the necessity of developing the nation's fighting power to appoint where it can meet any exigencies which the future may present. While in the present preparedness program the greater emphasis is being placed upon the production of mechanized equipment, the armed forces continue to be aware of the need of physical fitness in their personnel," declares Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"In 917 more than one-third of the drafted men examined were

CENTRAL CITY, Colo.—The feverish cry of "bonanza" has faded into surrounding hills, but Central City—built on "the richest square mile on earth"—awaits a new "rush."

There are no promising stakes to be claimed and the deserted, unpainted houses stand as evidence that there are no fortunes to be made.

But an undercurrent of excitement runs through dusty, twisting streets, for early next month the 1940 "stampede" will begin. The invaders will come here on a three-weeks pleasure mission, highlighted by the now-famous annual play festival presented in the Teller House.

During the meeting chairman of the visiting and sick committees made reports of calls made and it was also announced that members will meet at the home of Mrs. Burks next Tuesday to complete the quilt being made for the Red Cross. Overseas Mail Is Now Sent West

By United Press

SAN FRANCISCO—With Italy in the war, Can Francisco automatically becomes the biggest embarkation point for foreign bound mail in the United States, according to Second Assistant Postmaster General Ambrose O'Connell. O'Connell recently made a trip of investigation here for a check-up on facilities available and such increases as might become necessary in trans-Pacific aviation lines. Mail for Central Europe from the Atlantic seaboard can reach Portugal, but that country is strictly an air mail port.

O'Connell explained that with Italy in the war, all of Europe is involved to such an extent as to entail too much risk to make mail boat landings at any other port on the Atlantic coast.

"In this emergency," O'Connell declared, "all air mail traffic, which is already gaining every day, will depart exclusively from San Francisco."

As an indication of the growth of air mail traffic over the Atlantic lane, O'Connell said that the postoffice department guarantees payment to the ocean airways up to 800 pounds.

But during the past few months the volume has grown to such an extent that it has averaged 2,000 pounds per trip.

On a recent eastbound trip to Lisbon, the Pan American clipper was able to carry only two passengers.

"With Italy's entrance into the war," O'Connell stated, "more than half the letters leaving the United States via air will have to leave from San Francisco to Hong Kong, whence they will be flown across Russia to the western

Donations Are Made To Red Cross Fund

Since the last report was made the Ranger Red Cross fund total has been increased by two donations, totaling $5, it was reported today.

Previously reported was a total of $291.10 collected by various committees and through special events. Additional donations of $5 by Mrs. W. J. Gardenhire and $1 by W. E. Crafton have brought the total to $297.10.

Quota for Ranger was set at $50. With the new contributions the fund is still $152.90 short of this quota.

Marble Boards Are Not "Pay off" Type

PORT ARTHUR, Tex.—Marble boards are at large here again, but being the "non-payoff" type they are not "gambling" devices and are therefore legal, according to the police.

"As long as they have a state license and are used only as amusement devices," Police Chief Baker said, "we have no jurisdiction over their use."

O'Connell declared that post-office receipts, which he insisted can be taken as a good barometer of business conditions, are flattering.

"In 1933," he said, "we had a net deficit of $153,000,000 for the year. Now we have a net profit of $14,000,000 for the first five months of 1946."
