Deep Test To Be Spudded In On Thursday

HITLER SAYS INVASION IS STILL COMING

Adolf Hitler declared in a speech today that repeated German air attacks will smash British people and he advised the British to "keep your shirts on" because the Nazis are coming.

Hitler inferred that the invasion is still planned, but added that Germany is prepared for four more years of war and can repay twice over any damage from British bombs.

Hitler's boasts came just before new British raids over Germany and after a two-hour air raid alarm at Berlin.

British planes late today bombed German positions on the French coast, opposite Dover, and British big guns opened fire across the English Channel at German concentrations.

The British reported that they shot down 41 of 200 invading Nazi planes today and lost only five of their own. The Germans reported that the British losses stood at 28 while only six of their own planes had been lost.

Berlin sources retorted to the United States that transfer of 50 destroyers to Great Britain with the declaration that it will hasten invasion of the British Isles with a much advertised "secret weapon."

In Rumania serious disorders occurred at Barsoy, Transylvania, when demonstrators cried "we want Russia" and Germans concentrated troops near the Rumanian border. The territory has been ceded to Hungary under German and Italian instructions.

Bill Wood Drafted For Softball Game In Detroit, Mich.

Hillie Blake Wood, son of Will Wood of Abilene and grandson of Justice of the Peace Earnest Wood of Eastland, while in Eastland visiting relatives, received a telephone call to report to the softball team with which he plays as a pitcher, for a trip to Detroit, Mich. He left immediately for Abilene.

Wednesday's Abilene Reporter-News carried the following item regarding Wood and the trip he is making to Detroit:

Bill Wood, curve ball pitcher ace of the West Texas Utilities, was the only player drafted by the state champion McNutt Oilers of El Paso.

A titlist is permitted to draft three men. Because their roster was already crowded and they chose to not send any of the old guard home, El Paso picked only Wood. He will be used in the outfield as well as on the mound at the world tournament in Detroit. The meet begins Thursday and will continue for about 10 days.

The border entry defeated Kraft Cheese of Denison, Nathan's of San Angelo, West Texas Utilities, Magnolia of Amarillo and American Liberty (Dallas) to cop the state bunting. Roy Weeks, ace shunker, did all the pitching, shutting out the opposition three times in a row.

Two Squirrels Live Through Caesarean Operation In Woods

While out hunting Monday D. K. Pulley of Ranger performed a Caesarean operation on a mother squirrel and delivered four baby squirrels, two of which are still alive. The operation was performed in the woods, with a pocket knife, and the four squirrels were wrapped in a pocket handkerchief for the trip back to Ranger.

Tuesday evening the young squirrels were left at the Pulley home on Pine Street, while the family went to the rodeo. On their return two had become so weak from hunger that they died, but the remaining two are still apparently in good health, and are expected to live.

Death Rays Over Berlin

Tracer bullets fan out amid exploding anti-aircraft shells to make a pattern of death across Berlin's skies as defenders of Germany's capital try to repulse night-raiding British planes. According to reported German statement that secret varnish on British bombers made them invisible in searchlight's glare, anti-aircraft gunners were firing blindly. Photo passed by German censor and radioed to New York.

LABOR DAY RODEO IN RANGER ENDS TUESDAY WITH A NIGHT SHOW

Ranger's third annual Labor Day Rodeo, the largest and most successful, came to a close Tuesday night with another big crowd on hand to witness the events.

Throughout Monday and Tuesday events went off as scheduled, except for the air show, which storms at Corpus Christi, where private pilots were in convention, prevented the airplanes from leaving to take part in the show. Several pilots showed up Tuesday afternoon to express their regrets at not being able to be present, and said that had it not been for the bad weather which grounded planes for two days, more than 50 planes would have been on hand for the show.

The roping horse race, staged at the airport Tuesday afternoon, drew a big crowd and created lots of interest. Winners in the race, in which western style saddles were used, were Weldon Kaker of Bridgeport, Phelton Herrington of Ranger, and Shorty Hudson of Knox City. Prizes in this event were $40, $24 and $15.

Mrs. Curtis Barron of Cameron won first prize in the sponsor's contest and took first prize of a $100 saddle. Her time was 68 seconds for the three flag races. Second prize of a pair of boots went to Mrs. I. W. Young of Gordon with a time of 72 seconds; third prize of a riding bridle went to Mrs. Punk Snyder of Melvin with a time of 76.4 seconds; fourth prize of a pair of horse goggles went to Miss Eula Gene Hinson of Copperas Cove with a time of 81.2 seconds, and fifth prize of a set of breast harness for a saddle horse went to Miss Margaret Wynne of Eastland with a time of 84.1 seconds.

Winners in bronc riding at the Tuesday night show were Johnny Down of Abilene, first; Frank Griffin of Coleman, second, and C. D. Ferguson of Tyler, third. No other riders qualified.

Best time in calf roping made at the two-day show was 14 seconds by L. N. Sikes of Texas at the final contest. He won first-day money. Wesley Franklin of Ranger was second with 15.1 seconds, Clay Campbell of Corsicana third with 15.2 and Pat Smith of San Saba fourth with 15.4.

Best average time in calf roping was Campbell's 31.3 seconds; Sikes 33 seconds, and 34.4 seconds by Orval Thomas of Belton. Sig Faircloth of Ranger won fourth in the average with 38.2.

Dies to Speak at Patriotism Rally

GOOSE CREEK, Tex.—Rep. Martin Dies of Texas will be the principal speaker here Sept. 7 at a patriotism rally expected to attract 25,000 persons.

A morning parade will be held through the business district as part of the day's program. The entire 49th regiment of field artillery of Fort Crockett at Galveston will participate and has asked officials to reserve a mile of space for it in the parade. There are 2,200 men in the regiment.

THE WEATHER
WEST TEXAS—Increasing cloudiness with thunderstorms to night and Thursday. Little change in temperature.

Crimes Are Few In Ranger Over Labor Day Police Report

Chief of Police Guy Pledger of Ranger reported today that only two minor thefts had been reported over the Labor Day weekend, when an estimated 10,000 people were in the town for the Labor Day Celebration and Rodeo, and that no other crimes were reported to the police.

A blanket and motorometer were reported stolen from one automobile during the rodeo, and a man was arrested shortly afterwards by police with the stolen property in his possession. The blanket and motorometer were returned to their owner and the man was lodged in city jail for further investigation of the case.

License plates were reported stolen from one automobile and they had not been recovered by police Wednesday.

Chief Pledger thanked Capt. Herschel Angus of Company 1, National Guard, and the guardsmen who aided police in handling the crowds and assisting in regulating traffic. He stated that he believed it was largely due to the uniformed guardsmen and police duty that kept thefts at a minimum.

FINDS 50 BODIES

BOSTON.—Felix Beaudreau, 87, waterfront junkman, has discovered 50 bodies while searching for floating odds and ends since 1920.

English Actress Sails Marital Sea

AUSTIN, Sept. 4.—The State Welfare Commission discussed today a possible increase in old age pensions after the last of funds payments on previous loans are paid this month.

Pension payments have been reduced for several months, in order that payments might be made on loans made by Dallas banks at the start of the pension paying period.

Man Confesses He Killed Woman Found Along A Roadside

MEXIA, Sept. 4.—Arlyn Reese, 45, rural newspaper carrier and farmer, admitted today that he shot to death his common law wife, Lizzie, 32, as she prepared to give birth to his second child. The woman's body was found by a roadside near Corsicana, wrapped in an old quilt.

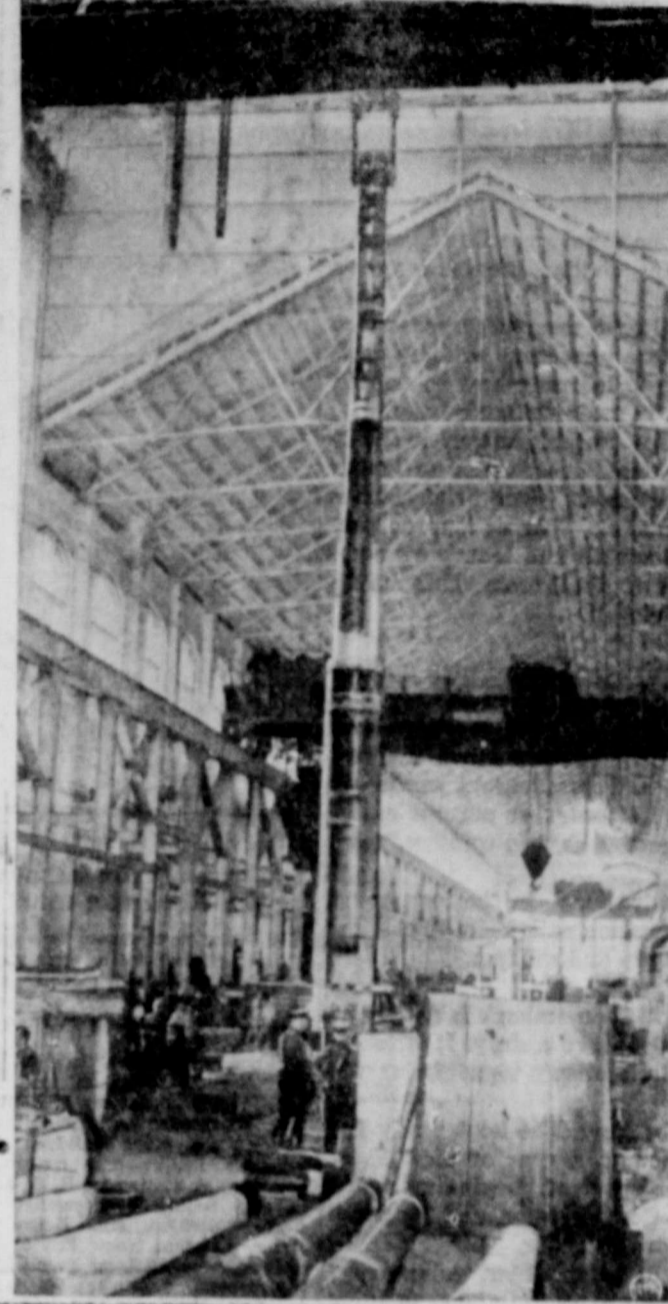

MRS. MARY LATHAM DIES

Mrs. Mary Latham, 82, resident of Cisco, died in that city Monday where funeral services were conducted from the Church of Christ. Burial was in the Carbon cemetery Tuesday afternoon at 3:30. The deceased, who was preceded in death by her husband, is survived by two sons and two daughters. One daughter, Mrs. J. Smith, and one son, Bob Latham, reside in Cisco.

STUMBLE INJURY SERIOUS

LYNN, Mass.—Jeremiah O'Byrne, 35, was injured critically when he stumbled and fell into a dog's earthenware dish. Twenty-five stitches were required to close the scalp wounds he suffered in the accident.

Uncle Sam's Big Shot

PEOPLE MAY BE PRESENT AT SPUDDING

Location Is Five Miles Northwest of Ranger, In Stephens County.

The Mitchell-Pierce Oil Corporation of Weatherford will spud in a deep test five miles northwest of Ranger, in Stephens County, Thursday afternoon, promptly at 2 p. m., it was reported by representatives of the company today. The public has been invited to be present to see the well started.

The well is to be located on a 50-acre tract of land, formerly owned by S. J. Whitson. O. T. Clark of Prescott, Ark., and Kilgore, is general contractor and has charge of all work on the well.

Harry Mitchell of Weatherford, a member of the firm which is to drill the deep test, has stated that "the company selected the Ranger Field for its investment for two reasons; first, Ranger is located in an oil country which is nationally known for its high quality oil and its long lasting wells, and second, the Ranger Field should produce a deep sand when tested, as other fields have done. Personally we believe it will."

"You will see in action," Mitchell promised, "a modern Rotary drilling machine with a drilling capacity capable of drilling to a great depth, should it prove necessary. Last, but not least, you will meet some of the most conservative business men at this location, men who are interested in the development of this lease, which contains 1,500 acres."

The Mitchell-Pierce Oil Corporation has issued cordial invitations to everyone to be present Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock to see the well spudded in, and arrangements have been made for a large crowd of interested spectators.

A short program is to be presented prior to the spudding in of the well, with Nolan Queen of Weatherford, who owns property in Ranger, as master of ceremonies, and Judge Welch of Breckenridge, present to make a short address.

The well can be reached from Ranger by taking the Caddo highway to the Goforth filling station at Bullock, turning left at the filling station and going to the next road to the right, at the church, and continuing on that road until the derrick is seen at the right of the road. Markers are to be placed at each road intersection showing the way to the well, it was stated today.

MARKET FACILITIES FOR WOOL, MOHAIR IN THIS AREA PLANNED

Sheep and goat raisers from this part of the country met at the Gholson Hotel in Ranger Tuesday afternoon and formed a branch of the Midwest Wool and Mohair Marketing Association for the purpose of getting better prices for their fall and spring clips.

Branch headquarters will be opened next Tuesday in Ranger, it was decided at the meeting. J. F. Donley, prominent goat raiser of this part of the country, was named as chairman of a committee to arrange the local marketing plan, with Mayor Hall Walker and John Thurman as the other members of the committee.

Sheep and goat raisers from Eastland, Palo Pinto, Stephens and Erath counties were present at the meeting at which L. F. Aston, manager of the Fort Worth branch of the association, the only one in Texas, was the principal speaker.

Donley opened the meeting by telling of his experience in getting an average of six cents a pound more for his unhair by selling through the association than he had received from the so-called "scalpers" and told of the need of such an organization in Ranger, where the wool and mohair would be graded locally before being shipped. He introduced Aston, who spoke on the organization and its methods of operation.

Aston stated that the cost of distribution had increased 30 per cent in the past 15 years, through no fault of the growers, and that the association would eliminate many of the marketing costs, which he said had amounted to eight and a half cents in the past 15 years. He said the association had been in operation for 10 years and had marketed 60,000,000 pounds of wool last year, most of it going to consumers in Boston.

He said that while there was no guarantee that any stable price could be promised, that the association would enable the growers to get the highest possible prices for their clips. He said that the local man would advance 65 per cent of the parity price on the wool or mohair until it had been graded and sold.

He discussed, briefly, the methods of grading mohair and told why some hair would bring better prices than other and why some hair which the grower thought would be given one rating would be placed in another bracket by the grader, who knows the needs of the manufacturers.

Eastland Police Recover Stolen Car; Auto Tires

W. J. Peters, Eastland Chief of Police, reports the recovery of a number of automobile tires in Eastland that were stolen in Breckenridge on August 20 when the Ford Agency there was burglarized.

Chief Peters states that two persons are being held in the Stephens county jail at Breckenridge in connection with the burglary there. No arrests were made in Eastland.

Chief Peters also stated that a Ford coupe stolen in Lubbock on August 22, has been located in Eastland by his department and that the owner of the car was in Eastland Wednesday to get the car. No arrests have been made in this case, Chief Peters said.

Pastor's Son Dies In An Auto Wreck

TEXARKANA, Sept. 4.—Harley Miller, 22, son of an Austin pastor, was killed and three other young men were injured today in an automobile accident near here.

The four were returning from the Methodist Conference in Indiana when the fatal accident occurred.

Eastland Sewing Room Is Closed Up Permanently

The Eastland sewing room project closed permanently Tuesday. The Eastland project was being sponsored by the City of Eastland and upon a ruling by the Federal government that sponsors for the various sewing room projects over the country must put up $3.50 per person with which to pay or help pay for textiles used in the sewing rooms, Eastland county towns, including Eastland, took the position that they could not afford to keep the sewing rooms open. Eastland county then offered to pay fifty per cent of the $3.50 charge, leaving the sponsor city to pay the balance. Eastland declined to pay this balance.

Cisco, Gorman, Ranger, Rising Star and Deddemona met the county's proposition and the projects in those towns are still in operation.

Financiers Charged With Draft Support

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Rep. Dewey Short, republican of Missouri, charged today in the House of Representatives that international financiers are supporting the military conscription bill, which has been passed by the senate.

Rep. Short charged that "they want the army to protect their investments."

Share the Burden With the Guard

Soon now members of the national guard and reserve corps are going to begin leaving civilian life for a year's tour of duty on active service. In the past, national guard and reserve corps service did not mean those things. These peacetime soldiers gave up their regular vacation time to learning how to defend their country. Their absences in training were brief. But now being called up for training means real disruption in personal and working lives. It is no longer enough that American soldiers can be given brief courses in fundamentals and called ready. War as Europe presents it to our eyes today means skill and teamwork comparable to that of a well-oiled football team. This makes time. These young men are giving it.

All honor to them! These national guardsmen and reserves are the men who saw the need when the rest did not see it. They are the ones who gave evenings, and week-ends, and vacations to their country when the rest were indifferent. They have had unpleasant service to perform in cases of domestic disorder or natural catastrophe. They have been sneered at as "tin soldiers," and sniffed at by the complacent.

They stuck to their organizations in the lean years when nobody cared. Now the nation calls them first. Now they look better than the sneerers and sniffers.

The duty on which they will soon embark is not theirs alone. Those who do not go also have a duty. It is to cooperate and help in every possible way to minimize the sacrifices they make.

So far as possible their jobs should be kept ready for their return, so that in addition to a year of their lives, they need not also face the prospect of "beginning over" when their training is over. Consideration and help for their families and obligations are in order.

These young men are about to shoulder, voluntarily, their obligation as citizens to bear arms in defense of their country.

This does not shift the obligations of others to their shoulders. It creates additional obligations for those who do not march.

Back to School

MODERN MENUS

BY MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX NEA Service Staff Writer

THE ringing of school bells calls youngsters back to their study hours. It should call mothers, and fathers, too, to a study of nutrition for their growing children at the same time.

"Food for Children" is about the best 5 cents worth of food for thought any parent can buy. The 22-page booklet on feeding both young and older children for vigorous health and normal growth was written by R. S. Carpenter, Associate Specialist in Child Nutrition, and Helen N. Hann, Assistant Home Economist, of the Bureau of Home Economics, in co-operation with the Washington Child Research Center. Write to Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., enclosing 5 cents. Ask for U. S. Department of Agriculture Farmers' Bulletin No. 1674.

Every day: Milk, at least a pint; preferably a quart; butter, at every meal; cereal, bread or potato at every meal; vegetables, other than potatoes, at least two daily. One raw or quickly cooked, leafy kind often. Fruit, once or twice a day. Citrus or other raw fruit or tomatoes daily. Egg or meat, the older child may have both. Sweets in small amounts at end of meal.

How can the busy mother provide the proper foods for her younger children, her older children and also for the adult members of the family and find time to get her other work done? By planning her "family meals so that every member of whatever age will get what is needed according to his age. It is not necessary to have separate menus for children of various ages.

TOMORROW'S MENU (For Entire Family)

BREAKFAST: Orange juice or sliced orange, cooked whole grain cereal with top milk, buttered toast, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Spaghetti with tomato sauce, celery hearts, wholewheat bread and butter, pineapple custard, tea, milk.

DINNER: Lamb roast, baked potato, buttered peas and carrots, chopped lettuce and parsley sandwich, sliced peaches, coffee, milk.

Of the "One Menu for All" series, the two-year old gets only small servings, the six-year-old gets moderate servings, and for the 10-year-old there should be very generous servings.

DINNER MENUS FOR ALL THE FAMILY: (1) Meat and vegetable stew, buttered new peas, toasted rolls, milk, pear, raw ripe, steamed, or baked.

(2) Liver and rice loaf, carrots in parsley butter, apple salad, bread and butter, milk, quick blueberry pudding.

(3) Rib roast of beef, mashed potatoes, Swiss chard or other greens, bread and butter, milk, baked apple.

(4) Broiled lamb chop, baked Hubbard squash, finely cut cabbage and mayonnaise, bread and butter, milk, baked prune whip.

(5) Baked halibut, summer squash, sliced ripe tomatoes, bread and butter, milk, tapioca cream.

(6) Omelet, creamed mixed vegetables, lettuce sandwich, milk, fruit cup and gingerbread.

Take Your Pick But S.M.U. Due To Be Tougher

DALLAS, Tex.—Will the Southwest Conference produce another intercollegiate gridiron champion this season? That's the question fans (and coaches) are going to sleep with nowadays as summer heat belies the nearness of what many expect to be the most exciting football campaign in conference annals.

You can take your pick from the Texas Aggies, Southern Methodist's Mustangs, Baylor's Bears, Texas' Longhorns, and Texas Christian's Horned Frogs and no matter which way you cast your vote, you needn't feel individual. The major portion of pre-season dope leans toward the John Kimbrough-sparked Texas Aggies.

No threats or boasts are being issued from S. M. U.'s Hilltop Stadium as Coach Matty Bell and other Mustang mentors prepare for a season that bids to be the best since the Rose Bowl days of 1935, when Bell, in his first year under the Pony colors, came up with a national champion guided by those immortals, Bobby Wilson and Harry Shuford. But sideline masterminds from policemen to carpenters will tell you without hesitating that if things click and the squad isn't best by injuries, pigskin followers this fall from Los Angeles to Pittsburgh to Alabama and back to Texas will be converted to the Mustang cause.

Although there is a serious problem confronting Coach Bell with the loss of his two 1939 starting tackles, Willie Corlik and Jack Sanders, three lettermen are hanging around ready to offer a quick solution: Lynn Sarnett, 200 lbs.; Fred Harris, 215 lbs., and Joe Pasqua, 210 lbs.

Taking letters and past performances into consideration, the eleven men who will take the field against U. C. L. A. in the opener at Los Angeles the night of Sept. 27 could read like this: Ends—Gus Tunnell, 190 lbs., from Van, Texas, who is rough defensively, a good blocker and delights in driving into opposing plays; Roland "Stormy" Goss, 185 lbs., a Dallas product who was considered by many as the best sophomore end in Mustang history in 1939 and should be one of the conference outstanders this fall.

Tackles—Fred Harris, Garland, who is being counted on heavily in his senior year; Pasqua or Sarnett. Guards—Hoyle Simes, 200 lbs., from Conroe who was an unusually good sophomore prospect last fall and a fine defensive player; Ed Bianchi, 190-lbs., from Dallas who has been a reliable performer for two years, good defensive man.

In the backfield, the Mustangs present a rare collection of diversified talent. The four men slated for starting assignments are Ray Malloff, 180 lbs., Sayre, Okla.; Bobby Brown, 180 lbs., San Angelo; Preston Johnston, 187 lbs., Newcastle, and Will Mullenweg, 181 lbs., Houston. Coach Bell will also have five other letter backs with which to vary his attack, according to offensive and defensive ability; Johnnie Clement, San Angelo; Foster Elder, Arlington; Gerald Geise, San Antonio; Clinton McClain, Waco; and Horace Young, Sweetwater. Malloff and Johnston are scoring threats. Malloff, a superb runner and passer, was injured in the 1939 Notre Dame game but came back in late season to pace the Mustangs to a whirling finish. "Presto" Johnston heads the class of deluxe conference punters, is a powerful ball carrier in his own right. Brown still carries the label as a mastermind field general given him as a San Angelo signal-barker. Mullenweg ranks with Aggie Jim Thomason as the top conference blocker and will steamroller a smooth path for Pony Finneze this fall.

SERIAL STORY

LOVE ON THE LINE

BY PAUL FRIGGENS

COPYRIGHT, 1940, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY: A second busy day and Carrie is left to spend the first night in her present home, alone. She awakens early, in suffocating heat. Rushing to the window, she sees flames along the horizon. She is alone, with a prairie fire sweeping toward her.

CHAPTER IX THE picture of Carrie Lane standing there in the moonlight by her saddy, the memory of Carrie Lane close in his arms, left Mark Duell shaken, blotted out all other thoughts for him on the long, lonesome ride back to town from Rock Creek.

He had told her he loved her, he recalled now, trying to piece together every fragment of the moment, and she had whispered she loved him; Carrie Lane, whom he'd seen first in the land office only a few days ago, loved him!

Over and over, Mark glowed with that thought as he rode through the night to Sioux Springs; over and over, Mark relived every unbelievable moment of it throughout the next day. When he went to sleep, 24 hours after he had said goodby to her, it was with Carrie's whisper lulling like sweet music in his ears.

He was dreaming of her when he awoke. But in the dream the moonlight had changed to stifling darkness; the cool breeze had become scorching. The parched prairie was on fire. With Carrie, terror-stricken, he dreamed he was fighting through the night to the shallow well Ed Taylor had dug, as flames lighted the new soddy, smoke choking them every step of the way.

Like lightning, Mark bounded out of bed, rushed to the window. There WAS smoke in the air. In the first dim light of dawn, the sky glowed fiery red toward the north—and Rock Creek!

"My God!" moaned Mark, "Carrie—Carrie!" He dressed, ran from the house toward Newt Gale's livery stable for a horse and, turning the corner, found the town suddenly alive. The dusty main street of Sioux Springs was a wild melee of running, shouting men.

Mark joined them, drew up panting in front of the livery where a crowd gathered and a foam-flecked horse and a tanned, bareheaded youth. Mark recognized the lad instantly, the Sage boy from upper Rock Creek.

Mark pushed through the crowd, gained the boy's side. "How bad is it?" he asked, breathless.

"Pretty bad," said the boy. "It had been burning quite a spell when the Blakes discovered it and rode over to wake us up. Pa sent me right in for help. There's nobody much over on that side to fight fire."

"Has it reached the creek?" Mark shouted another question.

"No, but it's heading straight that way—fast. It'll reach it without nobody stopping it."

Mark knew what that meant, paled suddenly at the thought. The crowd knew it, too. Once over Rock Creek there might be no stopping a prairie fire. The town itself was in danger.

There was a shuffling of feet, a weighted, explosive silence. These men wanted someone to take the lead, Mark felt, and he seized the opportunity.

"All right, young Sage," he said, turning to the men for tacit approval, "we'll turn out the town and go back with you."

By noon, Mark noted the fire was burning more slowly, lagging in the still, lifeless air of midday, and the fire fighters seemed to be making headway. A wagon had come out from Sioux Springs with food and coffee; grimy fighters were lined up now to fill tin coffee cups at the tailboard and to plunge big blackened hands into a huge box of sandwiches.

At 4 o'clock the fire had eaten to within a mile of the creek, but it was slowing down. At two or three points it had been checked altogether. With a sigh of relief, Mark realized the blaze would die out at the creek, with no danger to Carrie or the Taylors. Perhaps they had seen the townsmen and had not even felt it if the fire were licked by night he would ride over to the claim to see them before returning to town.

Then the unexpected happened. Thunder crashed directly overhead and Mark, looking up startled, saw lightning.

There was no warning. Lightning flashed, Mark felt the first cool rush of air, carrying with it a few drops of rain and fine hail, and the wind came. Sweeping down out of the east so that Mark had to brace himself against it, with the roar of a hailstorm behind it, the gale caught the fire, hurled it across the valley, scattering sparks, embers, whole tufts of blazing grass.

Nothing could stop the fire now, Mark knew; the flames were across Rock Creek. And Carrie might not have left her claim at all.

But Mark was heartened by two facts: the fire had not reached the creek and it was still above Taylor's. Ed and his wife would surely pick up Carrie and take her into town before the danger became serious or escape was cut off. If the fire reached a point below Carrie's there would be no escape except north and west into practically unsettled country. He raced to join the other, at a fringe of flame.

LIKE the other homesteaders, Mark swung off his horse, lost no time attacking the long front of the prairie fire. The two Blake boys were assigned to hold the horses while the men advanced.

It was a stifling, scorching job. Mark ran along the edge of the burning grass beating and pounding and choking whenever a sudden breeze whipped the smoke and the fine ash up into his face.

But there was little wind. That was something to be thankful for. They might be able to beat out the fire before it reached Rock Creek.

By noon, Mark noted the fire was burning more slowly, lagging in the still, lifeless air of midday, and the fire fighters seemed to be making headway. A wagon had come out from Sioux Springs with food and coffee; grimy fighters were lined up now to fill tin coffee cups at the tailboard and to plunge big blackened hands into a huge box of sandwiches.

At 4 o'clock the fire had eaten to within a mile of the creek, but it was slowing down. At two or three points it had been checked altogether. With a sigh of relief, Mark realized the blaze would die out at the creek, with no danger to Carrie or the Taylors. Perhaps they had seen the townsmen and had not even felt it if the fire were licked by night he would ride over to the claim to see them before returning to town.

Then the unexpected happened. Thunder crashed directly overhead and Mark, looking up startled, saw lightning.

There was no warning. Lightning flashed, Mark felt the first cool rush of air, carrying with it a few drops of rain and fine hail, and the wind came. Sweeping down out of the east so that Mark had to brace himself against it, with the roar of a hailstorm behind it, the gale caught the fire, hurled it across the valley, scattering sparks, embers, whole tufts of blazing grass.

Nothing could stop the fire now, Mark knew; the flames were across Rock Creek. And Carrie might not have left her claim at all.

But Mark was heartened by two facts: the fire had not reached the creek and it was still above Taylor's. Ed and his wife would surely pick up Carrie and take her into town before the danger became serious or escape was cut off. If the fire reached a point below Carrie's there would be no escape except north and west into practically unsettled country. He raced to join the other, at a fringe of flame.

Like lightning, Mark bounded out of bed, rushed to the window. There WAS smoke in the air. In the first dim light of dawn, the sky glowed fiery red toward the north—and Rock Creek!

"My God!" moaned Mark, "Carrie—Carrie!" He dressed, ran from the house toward Newt Gale's livery stable for a horse and, turning the corner, found the town suddenly alive. The dusty main street of Sioux Springs was a wild melee of running, shouting men.

Mark joined them, drew up panting in front of the livery where a crowd gathered and a foam-flecked horse and a tanned, bareheaded youth. Mark recognized the lad instantly, the Sage boy from upper Rock Creek.

Mark pushed through the crowd, gained the boy's side. "How bad is it?" he asked, breathless.

"Pretty bad," said the boy. "It had been burning quite a spell

Ranger Coach And Guard To Work On Furman's Squad

GREENVILLE, S. C.—A call to arms, but football instead of war, has been sent out to approximately 42 Furman gridiron warriors to report for pre-season practice, by Head Coach A. P. (Dizzy) McLeod.

Only seven lettermen will be back in harness this season and the main hopes of the Purple Hurricane will be carried mainly upon the shoulders of an extremely promising bunch of sophomores, heralded as the best group to hit the Furman campus in at least a decade.

The Purple will plunge into the initial practice early Monday morning in order to avoid as much heat as possible. And beginning with the initial practice, the Paladins will climb into uniforms twice a day, once early in the morning and again late in the evening.

Man Claims More Friends In Jail Than On Outside

EL PASO, Tex.—Ralph Howard has more friends in jail than out—and he has no police record.

He's the El Paso city jailer and is known as "Mr. Ralph" to all city jail inmates. Howard has a knack of capturing the friendship of the prisoners, and upon being released many of them write him.

Since March of this year Howard said he has received over two dozen letters from "Exes".

One letter came from a man who had escaped. The fugitive penned the following: "Hello, Old Pal: Just a few lines. Trusting you are fine and dandy. Sure hated to leave your modern hotel, but the food and those easy, soft beds just didn't agree with my physical condition. Best wishes, Jimmie."

him plenty hard for the starting call.

Don'ts for Dove Hunters

AUSTIN, Texas—With dove hunting opening September 15, pertinent don'ts which, if followed, will save sportsmen considerable trouble with state and federal game wardens have been formulated by the Texas Game Department's executive secretary. They include:

Don't shoot doves before sunrise nor after official sunset.

Don't shoot from a car or from, or along a public road.

Don't shoot doves with any gun except a shotgun not larger than ten gauge.

Don't forget to plug your gun to three-shell capacity.

Don't forget your hunting license if you leave the county of your residence.

Don't kill more than 12 doves per day and do not have more than 12 in your possession, white wings and mourning doves.

Don't forget to clean your gun well before taking that first hunting trip of the season.

Don't shoot when you cannot see; there might be another hunter behind those trees.

Don't leave gates open and always get permission to hunt on private land; the trespass law is rather severe.

Don't forget that the quail season does not open until Dec. 1.

Book No. 100,000 Given To Library

BEAUMONT, Tex.—The book "Profitable Poultry Keeping," has a special distinction at the Tyrrell Public Library here.

It was book number 100,000 accessioned at Beaumont's 14-year-old library.

Miss Pearl Burr, head librarian, said that the library today has 79,251 volumes. The other 30,000 have been discarded because constant use has worn them out or because they have become obsolete.

Parents Can Learn By Personal Graphs

WACO, Texas—Dean E. N. Jones believes that possibly even the students' parents could learn something of their offspring by reading personal graphs used in the Baylor University registration process.

Before registration begins, all freshmen and transfer students are required to take several examinations designed to test personality, ability, achievements, and study skills.

The examinations are graded hurriedly, and graphed on a record card passed on to the particular student's faculty advisor.

The graph pictures to the advisor all the "inside information" he needs in understanding the student's abilities and personality and thus in helping him map out his college work, Dean Jones stated.

The tests will begin Friday, Sept. 13, and registration is conducted Monday and Tuesday, Sept. 16 and 17. First classes meet Wednesday, Sept. 18.

TAX ON EXCESS DEFENSE PROFITS PROPOSED IN HOUSE LESS DRASTIC THAN GREAT BRITAIN'S

While Bruce Cotton vocations, members of NEA Service's Washington bureau pinch-hit for him.

BY MURTON BRONNER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Maybe Congress isn't as bold as the British Parliament. Maybe American businessmen, not confronted by actual war, are not as amenable as British industrialists.

At any rate, Congress and business are at loggerheads over an excess profits tax on defense materials which is far less drastic than that in effect in Britain.

The levy originally proposed in the House was anywhere from 25 to 40 per cent on profits in excess of those earned in an earlier basic period. It was proposed that this earnings credit should be computed by taking three of the four years 1936-39 inclusive.

But now the Ways and Means Committee suggests companies should compute their earnings by taking all figures for the years 1936-39 inclusive and divide by four. Deficit years would be treated as if the firm broke even.

BRITAIN'S TAX 100 PER CENT
In Great Britain last June the Chancellor of the Exchequer presented a bill levying a tax of 100 per cent on all profits greater than those earned in so-called standard years—mainly the three years before the war.

Provision was made for specific cases where this tax would have worked genuine hardship. Where companies could show very small profits in earnings they were granted the right to from 6 to 8 per cent profit on invested capital before the excess profits levy was imposed.

The House Ways and Means Committee is considering a similar plan, allowing a 4 to 6 per cent profit on investment before levying the war profits tax.

Virtually no firms in Britain refused to accept war work. Grim necessity and patriotism ruled. But if they had refused, it is probable the Churchill government would have found ways of compelling them to conform.

DRAFT DEBATE DRAWS CROWD
SENATE conscription debate continues a sell-out performance. The air-cooled capitol hangs out its S. R. O. sign every morning half an hour after the Senate convenes; guards restrain tourists at street floor level, take them up to the gallery 10 or 20 at a time, as seats become available.

BUSIEST MAN in Washington is Representative Joe Martin, Willie's campaign manager. From 8 until noon he sees callers at the office of the Republican National Committee; from midday until the House adjourns, he devotes himself to his job as minority floor leader. After that appointments crowd his schedule right up to 11 o'clock, Joe's bedtime.

Miss Vivian Ladell who has been the guest of Miss Mary Jane Dreinhofer, has returned to her home in Abilene.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Arterburn and family have returned from a vacation spent in Oklahoma, Arkansas, Tennessee, Georgia and Kentucky. They were accompanied on the trip by Mr. Arterburn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Arterburn of McAlester, Okla., and while on the trip all attended family reunions in Georgia and Kentucky.

Mrs. Wilma Middleton of Houston and Mr. and Mrs. Lois Aishman were the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Weaver Aishman.

The cotton bagging program of the Surplus Marketing Administration of the U. S. Department of Agriculture will be continued for at least another year, F. E. Lichte, cotton gin specialist of the Texas A. & M. Extension Service, has been advised.

The program is designed to encourage use of American grown cotton for cotton wrapping or bagging. A normal crop of cotton in the United States would require the use of about 135,000 bales if all were wrapped in cotton.

A maximum of a million wrappings will be used for the current year's crop and the six manufacturers who have received contracts will get payments of 25 cents per wrapping to offset losses from small volume.

The cotton bagging was first tried in 1938, when less than 17,500 bales were so covered. In 1939, the number of bales of Texas cotton covered with cotton patterns rose to 233,976.
