BRITISH RENEW THEIR ATTACKS ON ITALIANS IN AFRICAN CAMPAIGN

U. S. Pilot in His Air Ferry Garb

Col. George R. Hutchinson, above, head of famed "Flying Hutchisons" family, is one of 40 U. S. pilots regularly making mass flight deliveries of bombers from Canada to England.

Great Britain stabbed at Italy's North African defenses today, the Greek armies pushed toward two important Italian war bases and British bombers reported they had inflicted spectacular damage to Nazi-held submarine bases on the continent.

The sudden renewal of British activities in Egypt led to speculation when Cairo announced the enemy had been contacted "on a broad front" and that 500 Fascist prisoners already had been captured.

London experts said the Egyptian campaign probably was "to test Italy's morale, already shaken by the reverses suffered by her armies at the hands of the Greeks. The British public has clamored for a knockout of Italy now."

An unprecedented communique at Rome said the present wholesale shakeup in the army and naval commands indicated no dissension, but was only an effort to increase effectiveness of both branches of the service.

The Greeks, meantime, took Argyrokastron, and moved forward toward Valona and Tirana, after occupying one fourth of Albania.

A further objective is Durazzo, important port up the coast from Valona.

London was bombed heavily last night as the British reported a series of heavy raids against the German "blockade bases" across the channel.

In the Caribbean a British cruiser intercepted the German freighter Idarwald, and apparently captured it after its crew attempted to scuttle the vessel.

Unconfirmed reports at Montevideo were that the British Cruiser Enterprise had spotted the German raider that damaged the auxiliary cruiser Capavon Castle and was closing in on its opponent.

President Roosevelt meanwhile cruised silently in the West Indies. He inspected the American defense bases near Martinique, then conferred aboard the ship with American officials from that controversial French island.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Three and one quarter million completed alien registration forms have been received by the Department of Justice, it was announced today.

The exact figure through close of business Friday, November 29, was 3,286,754, which is nearly 92 per cent of the estimated total number of aliens believed to have been in the country on August 27, when Alien Registration started.

Mr. Harrison also pointed out that there still seemed to be some misunderstanding regarding alien children under 14 years of age.

"I must again stress," said Mr. Harrison, "that all alien children, whether permanently or temporarily domiciled in the United States, refugees or otherwise, must be registered by their parent or legal guardian. These youngsters are not required to appear in person until they have reached their 14th birthday, when, within 30 days, they must present themselves at the post office and be registered and fingerprinted. That section of the law which requires notification within five days of any change of permanent residence address also applies to alien children under 14."

Foster Comes Into His Own!

New York University has announced the election of Stephen Collins Foster to its celebrated campus Hall of Fame. The university does not honor Foster so much as it honors itself.

Much lesser men have been chosen in past times. Foster is the first musician to be selected and the one most deserving.

He calls to mind the famous words of Andrew Fletcher of Saltoun, who flourished in the latter part of the 17th century.

"Give me the makings of the songs of a nation and I care not who makes its laws."

Many laws have been written in the United States, but it is doubtful whether the authors of any of them will ever reach the immortality that is Foster's. A whole nation sang his songs just before the Civil War. A whole nation is still singing them, even in the age of jazz and swing. His compositions have attained the one guarantee of lasting life—they have become genuine folk songs.

And the wonder is that it was Foster who wrote them. Not that he did not have musical genius. In fact, like most musical and literary geniuses, he started young, his first song being published when he was only 16. Foster was born in the north near Pittsburgh but he became the veritable poet laureate of the slave days in the south.

When he drifted down to Kentucky he seemed to breathe in the very soul of the colored folk. He had musical rhythms like theirs. He had sentiments often like theirs. He understood their deep love of the very country in which they were enslaved.

Maybe Foster had his happy days, but many of his songs are mournful. And the chances are that this sadness came from the mishaps of his own life, a life which he himself helped to spoil by his improvidence.

There were nights when he did not know where he would lay his head. There were days when he was threadbare. There were mealtimes when he went hungry. This, in spite of the fact that many of his published songs brought him in good revenue. There were nights when he sat on park benches with shabby down-and-outs.

But nothing spoiled the natural decency of his mind and heart. His melodies remained refined. His songs remained clean. So they captured the fancy of both young and old. So they gave their author, who died at 38, a sure immortality and a hold on the affections of the plain people that is hard to match.

Maybe the doctor will be glad to hear that Washington's apple crop is one-fifth less than last year.

The more we think of people who can but won't shell out for relief funds, the less we think of them.

SURVEYS LIPSTICK
IOWA CITY, Ia.—The lipstick used by an average woman in a single year would draw a quarter-inch line 600 feet, Joel Ferrell, University of Iowa engineering student, declares after a series of experiments "just to satisfy my curiosity." A 250-foot line could be painted with a year's supply of fingernail polish, his computations show.

Events As a '49er Recalled At 101

By United Press
ST. LOUIS — James Munroe Shuey, who participated with his father in the gold rush of '49, celebrated his 101st birthday with the assertion he could "live another hundred years, and I've got a little start on it now."

Shuey's greatest interest at the time, however, was the birth of a great-grandchild—his second. Altogether, there were 24 offspring present at the celebration—three surviving children, 12 grandchildren, seven great-grandchildren and the two great-great-grandchildren.

The centenarian was born in Ohio in 1839 and went west with the great California gold rush. He said he and his family got as far as Colorado before his father abandoned the "doggone fool notion to get rich."

Shuey said the only time he ever became worried on the trip was when he and his father ran out of food while prospecting the hills. The Indians gave them no trouble, he said, but they found altogether about a goshawk of gold.

A pensioner of the Missouri Pacific railroad, Shuey admitted "fudging" a little on his age as he went to work for the railroad as a section hand when he was 60. He told his employers he was born in 1859 because, he said, he was afraid they would think he was too old to drive spikes, worked for the Missouri-Pacific however, until 1930.

Shuey gave up farming at die Creek, Mo., to work for railroad after all his children—were born there.

Harmom and Kimbrough Lead NEA All-America

Gallarneau of Stanford and O'Rourke of B. C. in Backfield; Nick Drahos Repeats at Tackle

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor

Out of the tremendous struggle that was the 1940 football season emerges another All-America team for all the land to hail.

Picked with the aid and advice of coaches, scouts, officials and football writers of the nation the team is composed of men who fought to the last ditch in the line and of backs who didn't stop when their blockers were through.

Seniors all, the finesse that comes with the final year of college football failed to check their enthusiasm.

Because of their brilliance, they were marked men—prisoners of prestige. Coaches sat up nights scheming how to stop or get away from them. They were double and triple-teamed, yet they continued to storm and scale the heights until they reached the binnacle.

Grand competitors, rugged individualists who unhesitatingly wrapped themselves in the blankets of smooth team play are the young men composing NEA's All-America team of 1940.

The ends: Paul Severin of North Carolina and Jay MacDowell of Washington.

The tackles: Forrest Behm of Nebraska and Nick Drahos of Cornell.

The guards: Bob Suffridge of Tennessee and Helge Pukema of Minnesota.

The center: Leon Gajecki of Penn State.

The backs: Charley O'Rourke of Boston College, Tom Harmon of Michigan, Hugh Gallarneau of Stanford and John Kimbrough of Texas A. & M.

The six-foot, 194-pound Harmon, the most publicized player of the year, has been compared favorably with Red Harold Grange.

Jarin' John Kimbrough, the force of the Texas Aggies, hits so hard he injures teammates.

Although he stands six feet and two and weighs 222 pounds, Kimbrough beat a crack sprinter when both wore full football equipment.

Gallarneau—six feet, 190 pounds—was the fastest and cleverest back in Stanford's Cinderella combination.

O'ROURKE LITTLE MAN AMONG GIANTS; SEVERIN AND MACDOWELL GREAT ENDS

Skinny and loose-jointed Capt. Charley O'Rourke climaxed an illustrious varsity career at Boston College in its titanic match with Georgetown, when he had a hand in 18 of the 19 points scored by the Eagles.

O'Rourke, who weighs no more than 158 pounds, strikingly illustrates that a boy does not necessarily have to be of generous physical dimensions to play football well among giants.

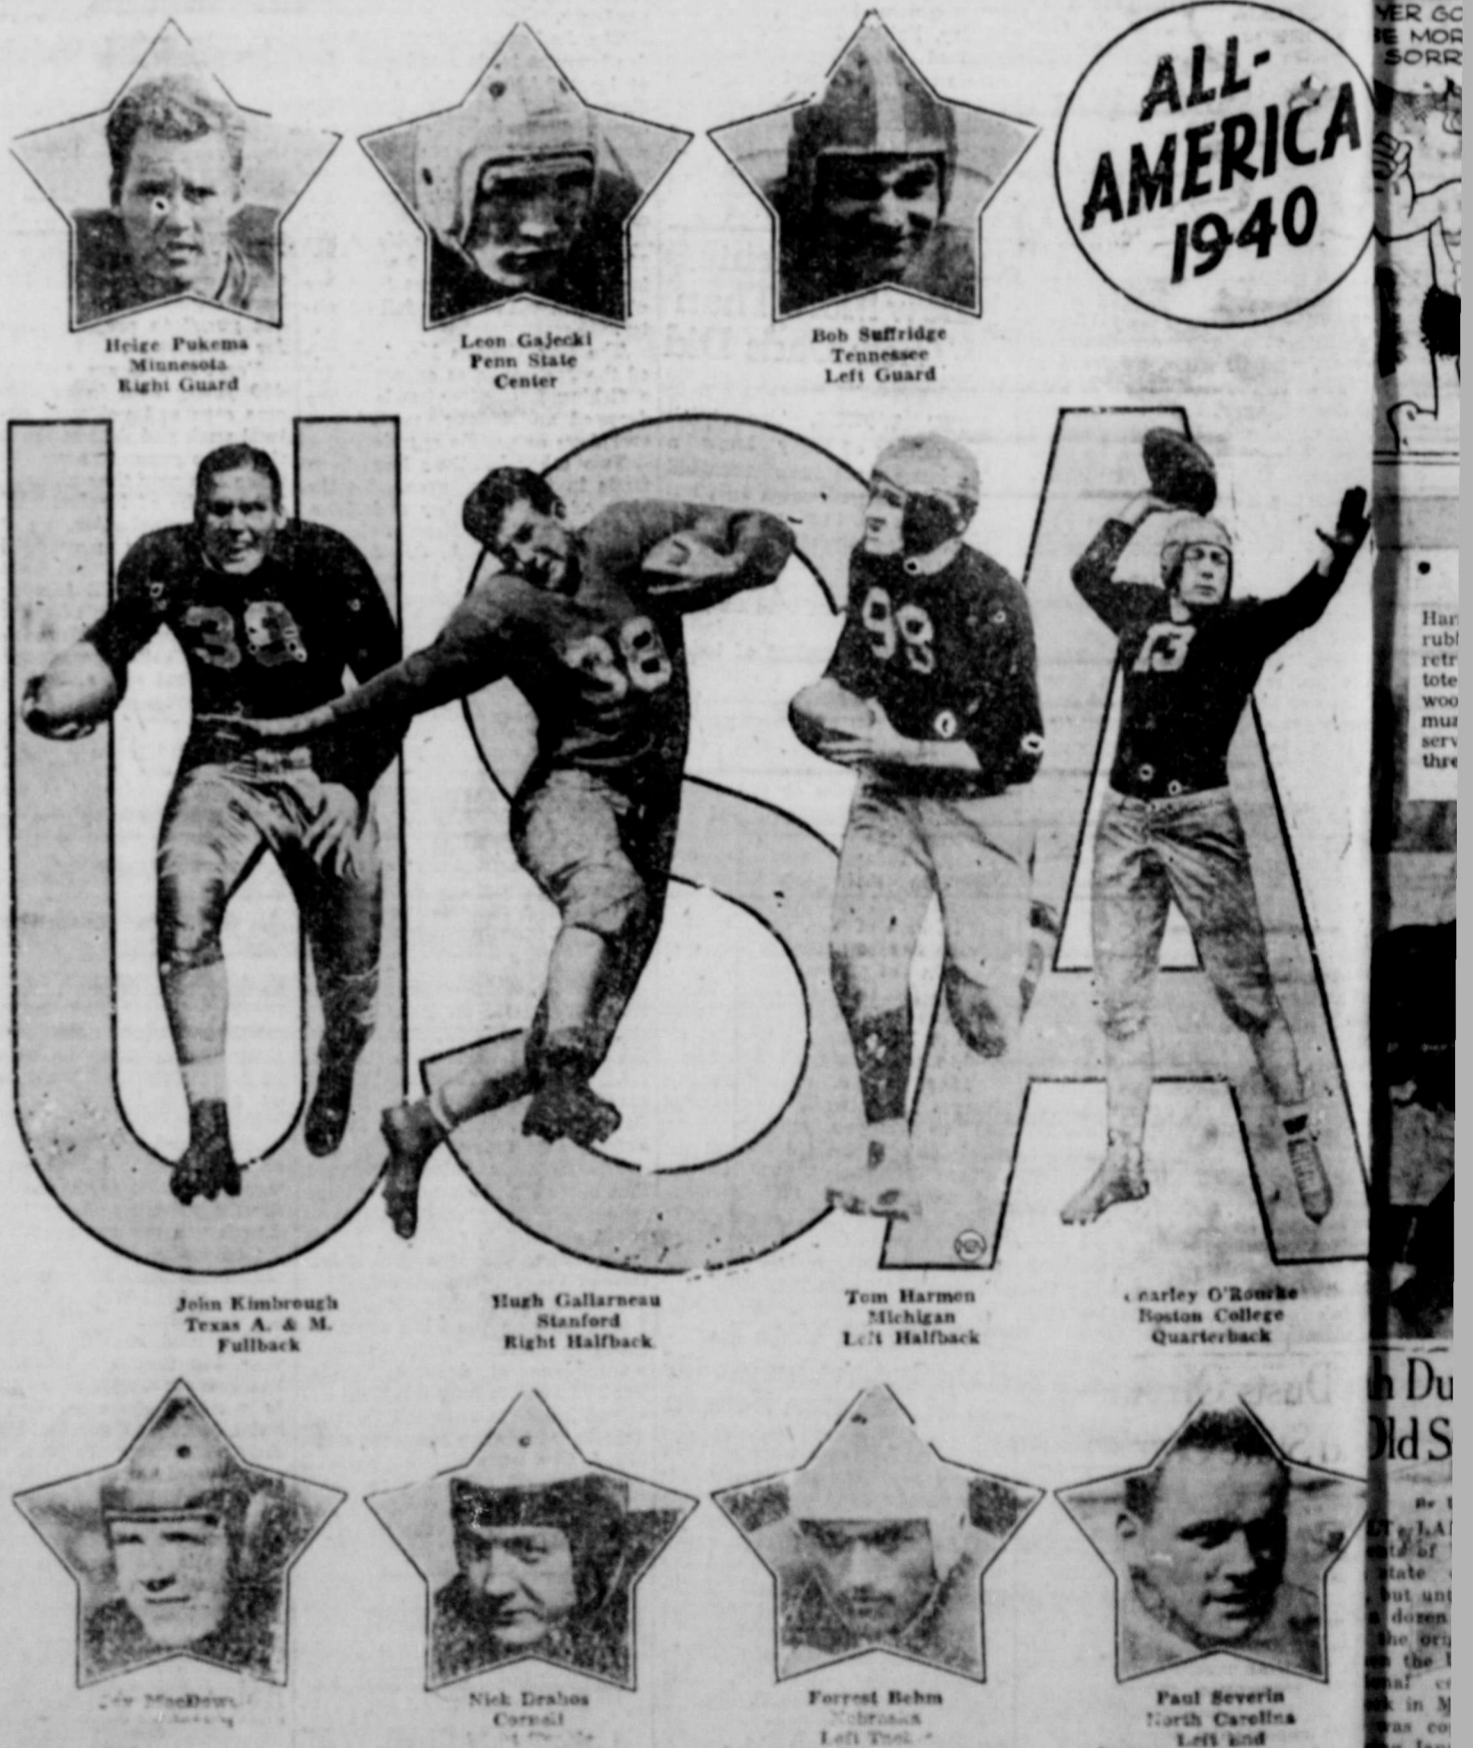

Paul Severin—six feet, 187 pounds—did in superlative fashion for North Carolina everything a splendid end is supposed to do.

Rugged, red-headed Jay MacDowell stands six feet two, comes in at 197, and used his weight and height to full advantage at end for Washington.

Towering six feet four and scaling 200 pounds, and with aggressiveness to match his bulk, Forrest Behm at tackle was a bulwark in a powerful Nebraska line.

Nick Drahos, the second repeater on the NEA team—the other is Kimbrough—once more was consistently the outstanding man in the well-drilled Cornell line. Most of the long runs made by Big Red backs were made through holes opened by this six-foot three-inch, 212-pound tackle.

CENTER DRAFTED BY PROS COMPLETES TEAM ANY COACH WOULD LIKE TO HAVE

Helge Pukema Minnesota Right Guard
Leon Gajecki Penn State Center
Bob Suffridge Tennessee Left Guard
John Kimbrough Texas A. & M. Fullback
Hugh Gallarneau Stanford Right Halfback
Charley O'Rourke Boston College Quarterback
Nick Drahos Cornell Left Tackle

It's tough to leave his running mate, Ed Molinski, off the first team, but the ballots make six-foot, 190-pound Bob Suffridge of Tennessee one of the All-America guards.

The other guard is Helge Pukema, of whom not enough has been said. The five-foot 11, 201-pound Finn was all over the place in Minnesota's savage battles with Ohio State, Northwestern and Michigan.

Leon Gajecki—six feet one, 200 pounds—is the center. At the close of Penn State's season a year ago, an error in the program for the Pittsburgh game which had Gajecki listed as a senior, caused the Pittsburgh professional Steelers to select him in the annual draft. The All-America team that satisfied everyone was never named.

It's hard to tell where an All-America leaves off and a choice begins, but just try to find a coach who wouldn't like to have the 1941 season with NEA's 1940 All-America team.

Ex-Bulldog Wants To Play In Ranger In Football Game

The following letter, suggesting a football game with former Bulldogs playing, possibly for charity, has been received from John Bray, center on the district champion Bulldogs of 1932. It was written to A. N. Larson.

"I am planning on visiting in Ranger during Christmas holidays and would like to know if they ever play any more ex-football games there. I remember the exes of Ranger playing the exes of Breckenridge a few years ago and I sure would like to play in one of those kind of games. I am sure there are lots of people there who would like to see one of those games and thought maybe you might talk to Eck Curtis about it.

"There are plenty of ex-Bulldogs who would enjoy playing, including myself. The game could be played any day before or after Christmas or on Christmas Day. Would like to hear from you letting me know what you think about such a game and if arrangements can be made. I will get in touch with several of the exes myself.

"The old '32' bunch planned to return to Ranger and play such a game, but we never got together. I am playing basketball with the Dr. Pepper team in Dallas this winter and am in good condition. Will be looking forward to hearing from you and hoping such a game can be arranged."

Anyone wishing to sponsor such a game or wishing to help promote it can contact A. N. Larson concerning the game.

Tournaments Hold Interest of Many At Corral Center

Tournaments of various sorts are holding the interest of a large group of people at the Corral, City and WPA-sponsored recreation center.

In a play-off at the Corral last week, Jerry Gray defeated Marvin Williams for the City playground pocket checker championship. These two boys won the titles for the playgrounds at Young and Hodges Oak Park Schools respectively. Jerry will retain the championship until he has been challenged and defeated by someone from either of the playgrounds.

Among the ladder tournaments being conducted at the Corral are pocket checker and table tennis tournaments. There are forty-four boys entered in the pocket checker tournament and at present the three highest ranked are Cole, Billy Sexton and Fono Brawner. Marie Green has top place in the girls section.

Table tennis for boys from seven to fourteen numbers Billy Sexton as the top player with Junior Richardson and Jackie Parrish following. The division from fourteen up lists Lonno McGee, Curley Evans and Marcel Lux as the three best players.

Rancher Combines Business With A Course In Flying

By United Press
MINERAL WELLS, Texas—J. N. Marshall, student pilot and a goat rancher, has found a way to combine his pleasure with his business.

Recently Marshall lost his herd of goats in the rugged mountains of Palo Pinto county. He rode horseback "all over the ranch."

"But I just couldn't find those darn goats anywhere, so I decided I'd just go after them in a plane," he said.

He went to the airport, found his instructor, and the two took off for a search of the ranch. The goats were located from the air and later driven to other pastures by mounted herdsmen.
