Menace of Fire In Christmas Trees Is Pointed Out

AUSTIN, Texas.—Faced with the danger of a mounting death toll brought on by the widespread use of highly inflammable Christmas decorations, Marvin Hall, state fire insurance commissioner, today urged Texans to request local firemen to make a pre-holiday check of fire hazards in the home.

"Where at all possible, firemen will welcome the opportunity to eliminate the hazards," Hall declared. "Firemen have a special responsibility to guard against fire hazards at Christmas, and the owners of homes and business establishments should call upon them to make inspections when in doubt as to the safety of their holiday decorations."

A Christmas tree kept in a bucket of water will retain much of its normal dampness and thus cut down the danger of a hot blaze. However, the commissioner warned against placing trees in such a way as to block exits, and admonished against their use near stoves and steam radiators.

They should be decorated only with asbestos, glass and metal. The tree alone will make a dangerous fire, without the added fuel of paper, cotton snow and pyroxylin decorations.

The wide use of electric extension cords, Christmas tree lights and lights in windows bring new hazards to every home. The use of tinsel on lighted trees creates a danger of short circuit. Some of the lead should be cut off circuits when fuses begin to blow, but fuses should not be bridged under any circumstances.

Exits and aisles must be kept unobstructed, and every effort should be made to dispose of packing materials as quickly as possible.

BELGIANS GROW STOLID TOWARD RULE BY NAZIS

By LUCA RIZZARDI
United Press Staff Correspondent
BRUSSELS.—Like Germany, daylight saving time has been prolonged in Belgium so that the clock is now two hours ahead of the sun. This is hardly felt in winter, but the approaching winter has thrown both advantages and disadvantages into sharp relief.

The advantages are outnumbered by the disadvantages, actually, and exist mainly in the fact that the blackout is "postponed" until about 6:30 o'clock, leaving business people and workers enough time to get home during daylight. Shops and stores can also keep open that much longer.

The greatest drawback to the new time system is the fact that people get up, dress and go to work in complete darkness. As Dec. 21 draws closer it is becoming increasingly probable that even school children will have to go to their first morning classes before dawn.

The situation is made more difficult by the huge number of bicycles on Brussels streets. Everyone cycles. Old people and young, workers, clerks and students, old women, short-skirted girls and housewives on their shopping rounds diligently pedal through the city. Cycling is not a fad or a reawakened sport, but actual necessity. First, autos are banned for private use, and even if special permission has been granted, gasoline is strictly rationed and expensive. Second, a bicycle is a great time-saver. In the morning, at noon and around 6 o'clock cars are so crowded that people often have to let several pass by before there is one with a bit of room. Buses have disappeared. They are now employed for military purposes.

Belgium's capital is doing its best to resume the old way of life. Cinemas are open from 2 to 10 P.M. but the films—with the exception of some German productions—are old. Theaters, the opera and the music halls have reopened with their old repertoires. Except for the matinee performances, they are rarely full. The increased cost of living has reduced the audiences, and most elderly people are reluctant to venture out after dusk now that the raid sirens have begun to sound before 11 o'clock.

In general, there seems to be a slight all-pervading air of bewilderment in Belgium as if the people could still not quite reconcile themselves to this new way of life. The ordinary Belgian, usually garrulous, has become silent. There is an unusual stillness about cafes, public places and on street cars. No one chats. And now with the advent of cold weather, card-players who used to while away the time in the public parks also have vanished. Any conversation nowadays, with 90 per cent certainty, will center on rationing in general and food in particular.

Because of the difference in language there is virtually no contact between the German soldiers and the population, at least in the towns. Sports, mostly football, are about the only connecting link. Soldiers and young Belgians can be seen occasionally amicably kicking a ball around a park meadow.

Amateur psychologists take great interest in noticing the character difference between Germans and Belgians. The Belgians are individualists and are always ready to protest. Some years ago it took a long time to accustom them to the idea of crossing the street between the buttons (which represent the American white lines). The average Belgian showed a pronounced preference to crossing everywhere but between them. He seemingly does not understand the words "you must," even if such an order is made for his welfare.

Thus two different worlds exist side by side in Belgium—soldiers and civilians. This difference is only emphasized by the fact that there are no incidents at all.

Holsteins Produce Large Milk Supply

COLLEGE STATION, Texas.—Forty-three registered Holsteins owned by Texas A. & M. College, produced enough milk during the past test-year to provide 166 families of four with four quarts of milk daily for the entire year, according to a report of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America. The average production per cow was 410.3 pounds butterfat from 12,173 pounds milk.

The average cow in the herd produced nearly 2 1/2 times as much butterfat as the country's average dairy cow, using U. S. Department of Agriculture statistics as the basis of comparison. Thirty-one members of this Holstein herd were milked three times daily, the remainder twice.

The highest producer in the herd was the five-year-old Paulantha Lady Maid that produced 18,974 pounds milk with 598.4 pounds butterfat in 335 days on three milkings daily.

The production records obtained by having these cows on test will be useful in planning a breeding program for the further improvement of the herd.

Testing was supervised by The Holstein-Friesian Association of America, Brattleboro, Vt.

600,000 Use The Food Stamps In Southern Region

DALLAS, Texas.—Surplus foods valued at $1,290,000 were purchased by 600,000 participants in the Surplus Marketing Administration's food stamp program in the Southern Region of the United States per month, it was announced today by James S. Allen, SMA Regional Director for that area.

The Southern Region covers states of Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

Blue stamps used to make the surplus purchases in the area during the month represented slightly more than 25 per cent of the total stamps issued in the nation.

Pork products continued to take more than one third of the total blue stamp expenditures in the region, resulting in the purchase of 1,856,000 pounds of pork valued at 290,000 and 1,901,000 pounds of lard worth $158,000. More than 18 per cent of the blue stamps issued were used for purchase of 7,272,000 pounds of white flour valued at $242,000. About 2.5 per cent of the stamps went for purchases of $44,000 of rice valued at $33,000; close to 5.5 per cent were spent for 2,941,000 pounds of corn meal valued at $71,000 and 1.1 per cent went for 284,000 pounds of grits valued at $14,000.

Over 11.5 per cent of the stamps or $149,000 were used for purchases of vegetables, including 4.5 per cent for dried beans, and .01 to 4.4 per cent for fresh vegetables.

Butter purchases accounted for 7.1 per cent of the stamps, covering 289,000 pounds valued at $91,000 and eggs 9.7 per cent of the stamps going for 481,000 dozen valued at $125,000.

Fresh fruits were not as much in demand as in other sections of the country since participants in the Southern Region spent only 8.8 per cent of their blue stamps or $113,000 for their purchase.

For the country as a whole, approximately 2,200,000 persons received over $5,000,000 in blue stamps for purchase of surplus commodities in October. For the country as a whole, 14 per cent of the blue stamps went for butter, 14 per cent for eggs, 12 per cent for vegetables, 17 per cent for cereals, 13 per cent for fruits, and 30 per cent for pork products.

BRITISH CAPTURE THE ITALIAN SIDI BARRANI BASE IN NORTH EGYPT

San Francisco Is A Refugee Port Of United States

By United Press
SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 8.—With Lisbon virtually the only European port on the Atlantic through which war refugees can flee to the Americas, San Francisco has become the great port of entry for those who are obliged to make the long trek across half of Europe and all Asia to reach the Asiatic ports of the Pacific.

For months now every trans-Pacific steamer, and especially those of the Japanese lines, has brought its quota of from 1 to 400 refugees. As a rule about 90 per cent of these are Jewish and the others are Germans, Austrians, Poles, Czechs and occasional Belgians and French.

Only those who can comply with the American immigration laws and quotas, are permitted to disembark at San Francisco. The others are en route to various Central and South American ports where they still have entry. The ships, after leaving their American quota here, sail on.

While the great majority have been families of agriculturists, business men, manufacturers and trades and professional people, seeking to start life anew in the New World, there also has been a number of notables.

Darius Mihaud, outstanding French composer and concert pianist, obliged to flee his country, quickly integrated himself into American life. He received almost immediately upon landing the directorship of the conservatory of music at Mills College for girls.

Mme. Sigrid Undset, famous Norwegian novelist, another famous refugee is busy on the lecture platform.

On a recent Japanese boat was Joachim Posten, whose new book, "Rats in the Larder," telling how Denmark and Norway were conquered was published recently. Although a native German Aryan, he was blacklisted by the Nazis for his writings. He escaped on a Danish fishing boat.

Unable to land in the United States, Posten continued on to Costa Rica where he will resume his writing.

Herbert Liebman, for years a well known Berlin correspondent, was another refugee on the same boat. He had left Berlin with his private fortune—the $4 which is all a Jew is allowed to take out of Germany—sewed in a side pocket.

Each time a ship arrives in San Francisco now from an Asiatic port it brings the full quota of war refugees, all with more or less the same story, all happy to have it all behind them, and all hopeful of a New World before them.

Food Stamps Are Aid To Business A Survey Shows

DALLAS, Dec. 11.—Expenditures for food in Eastland were increased $9,094 during the month of October through the Government's food stamp program, it was revealed today by James S. Allen, Regional Director of the Surplus Marketing Administration for the thirteen Southern states.

This sum represented the amount of blue stamps issued by the Eastland stamp program office during the month. In addition, $10,250 of orange stamps were purchased from the Government during the period, bringing the total amount available for food purchase, due to the stamp program to $19,444 for October.

Participating in the Eastland stamp program during the month were 1,388 cases, representing with their families 4,739 persons. Those participating represented only 49 per cent of the 2,832 persons in the area eligible to receive stamps during October.

During the first two months of operation of the plan, this year $13,252 in blue stamps have been issued in Eastland, augmenting regular food expenditure for the area by that amount.

Amount of blue stamps issued per person during October averaged $1.92.

British troops have captured Sidi Barrani, many prisoners, including three Italian generals, were captured with the Italian base.

This fort, 75 miles inside Egypt from Libya, has been the base for the Italian attack upon Egypt for the last three months and was normally garrisoned with 30,000 men.

Earlier the British had announced that Sidi Barrani's communications were cut and that 6,000 prisoners had been taken in the swift desert blitzkrieg. Loss of Sidi Barrani wipes out the advantage the Axis had in its drive toward the British lifeline at the Suez Canal.

In Albania the Greeks reported their troops were threatening two more Italian-held towns and that the important base at Tepelini was undergoing a Greek barrage.

In London British officials said that the coastal command air force will be strengthened to combat the Axis attempt to starve England into submission with submarines and air attacks upon shipping. Officials predicted that a remedy will be found quickly.

Dispatches from Russia were hardly comforting to the Axis. Moscow said that defense preparations were being rushed against the "enemies that surrounded us" which would include German-held Rumania.

Apparently Russia opposes the German plan to attack Turkey and Greece by way of the Balkans.

W.P.A. Workers Must Accept Jobs

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 11.—Jobs in private industry or in projects financed by other public agencies must be accepted by WPA workers whether the jobs are permanent or temporary.

Howard O. Hunter, acting work projects commissioner, told the state WPA offices here today.

Project administrators have been asked to post notices of the ruling.

Although it has been the general practice of the WPA to require workers to accept jobs, the order was emphasized with greater force in the notice by Hunter. "Assignment and continued employment of workers on projects financed with WPA funds is secondary to the responsibility of facilitating obtaining of such persons of private or public jobs," Hunter said.

"Expansion of private and public employment is providing increased employment opportunities and it is essential to the interests of WPA workers and the nation that every effort be made consistent with established federal policy, for WPA workers to obtain private or public jobs for which they qualify," Hunter declared.

"Workers will be released from both defense and non-defense WPA projects when appropriate private or public employment is available," Hunter added.

Workers on WPA are asked to look for jobs in their community and to file application with state employment service in their locality and any other local employment agency.

Welfare Groups Given New Army Task

Men who go into the new army will never know one feature that was a commonplace to the men of 1917-18. That is the welfare centers conducted by the Y. M. C. A., Salvation Army, K of C, Jewish Welfare Board, and similar organizations.

As the new cantonments rise, each has a recreation center, but it will be army-built and army-controlled. The writing paper, the exhortations to write home, the piano in the corner, the dog-eared magazines and books, the lounging chairs and checker sets will be administered by the army itself, through a Morale Division in Washington. Social workers and National Youth Administration employees will take the place of the "Y-Workers" and Salvation Army Lassies of the World War.

Religious organizations are being urged to do their part no less actively than before, but in another way. They are being urged to minister to the recreational and spiritual needs of the soldiers outside the military reservations, in the hours when the men are on pass and not under direct military control. The army considers the problem of the young man on leave in a large and strange city with no place to go and nothing constructed to do as one more worthy the attention of the private welfare organizations than that of recreation during off-hours in the camps themselves.

There has been considerable confusion among welfare groups willing and anxious to offer their services, yet uncertain as to just what they may properly do. Only the general lines have been laid down: that "legitimate and appropriate services by civilian welfare agencies are to be solicited, with the only stipulation that there be no more installations on military reservations." Permanent installations on military reservations. Permanent installations, like the Y's elaborate one on Governor's Island in New York, will not be disturbed. But as a general policy new ones will not be set up.

The field for such work is a large one. It is hard for military authorities to control the activities of men on pass, harder still to control the places of entertainment which cater to the soldier trade but which are outside a direct military jurisdiction.

A large field for beneficial welfare work among soldiers is still open to private organizations. But the sooner that field is defined, the better, for important facilities are probably being held up simply because welfare groups do not yet know exactly how they may be of the greatest service.

Farmers To Increase Mattress Production

FORT WORTH, Tex.— Texas cotton farmers will quadruple their output of mattresses made from surplus cotton next year, R. T. Price, of the State Agricultural Adjustment Administration, predicted here. More than 100,000 mattresses were made by farmers last year from surplus cotton in a plan that attracted nationwide attention. This year, Price told 150 agricultural leaders at a district session of the AAA, more than 400,000 mattresses will be manufactured in farmers' home workshops.

ALL QUIET on the Western front...

The moon casts oval shadows from reels of cable in the warehouse yard. New telephone instruments mark time upon long storeroom shelves. Thousands of parts... relays, crossarms, insulators... wait in Western Electric warehouses for their call to service in America's telephone system.
Tonight... all quiet on the Western front!
But for how long?
Who can say when disaster will strike... a fire, a flood, a storm... to cripple some section of the telephone plant?
Perhaps within the hour heavy trucks will back up to loading platforms. Bearing tools and materials they will roll away to meet repair crews at the trouble scene.
Disaster strikes... the Bell System moves to meet it.
Western Electric supplies high quality, standardized telephone equipment... usable in any part of the nation. Its warehouses in strategic locations insure prompt delivery when materials are needed in a hurry.
That is one reason Americans in any emergency turn to the telephone, knowing they will receive fast, dependable service.

EVEN the most generous Christmas spirit can find room in a limited-food budget. For very little money, you can make jams, jellies, candies and cake, as Christmas gifts which will please your friends and relatives and prove that you care enough to take time and trouble to produce a holiday delicacy for them. Your Christmas gifts from Santa Claus' kitchen need not be elaborate or expensive.

In homes where there are teenage children, those children should be allowed to take an active part in the making of food gifts. Such communal activity in the old-fashioned Christmas spirit will give deeper meaning to those vital words "home" and "family" and "Merry Christmas."

The food gifts suggested in this week's articles use ingredients for the most part which you'll find on the average family's budgeted pantry shelf. Flavor, texture and appropriateness are their major qualities and therefore they are perfect messengers of your season's greetings. The two recipes given below are typical.

PEACH CONSERVE

One pound dried, skinned peaches, 1 quart cold water, 1 cup seeded raisins, 1 pound sugar, juice of 1 lemon, juice of 1 orange, 1 whole nutmeg, 1 cup chopped walnut kernels.

Add cold water to peaches, cover and let stand overnight. Add raisins, fruit juices, orange cut in thin slices (remove seeds) and

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Grapefruit juice, corn bread, crisp bacon, syrup, coffee, milk.

LUNCH: Creamed dried beef on toast, cole slaw, stewed fruit, oatmeal cookies, tea, milk.

DINNER: Spaghetti a la sauce, parsley potatoes (boiled), mixed greens salad, green apple pie, cheese, coffee, milk.

ORANGE MARMALADE

Three cups thinly sliced, unpeeled oranges, 3 cups thinly sliced, unpeeled lemons, 18 cups water, sugar.

Combine fruit and water and let stand 24 hours. Boil 10 minutes, and again let stand for 24 hours. Divide the mixture and cook only 2 cups of it at a time. Add 2 cups sugar for each 2 cups of fruit. Boil vigorously until syrup. Give the jelly test of thick, reluctant drops which sheet together from a spoon. The time may vary from 12 to 18 minutes. When a wide kettle is used and evaporation is rapid the shorter cooking time will suffice. Cook a few minutes and stir to prevent fruit from floating. Pour into hot, sterilized jelly glasses. Seal immediately with paraffin.

Quarter-Final Games To Be Broadcast

Four Texas networks, with a combined total of 28 stations, will broadcast the quarter-final games of the Texas Interscholastic League this week-end. Each broadcast will originate at the field, ten minutes before game time, and play-by-play descriptions will be given by outstanding sports announcers.

The first game of the quarter-finals will be played Friday, Dec. 13, when Temple plays Longview in the Temple High Stadium, at Temple. The game starts at 2:00 p. m., and will be broadcast

Beware Coughs Following Flu

After the flu is over and gone, the cough that follows may develop into chronic bronchitis if neglected. Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must take the way it quickly alleviates the cough or you are to have your money back.

SERIAL STORY DUDE COLLEGE

BY OREN ARNOLD

YESTERDAY: Wes catches Ronnie, discovers she, too, has been trailing Lona, since it is too late to find the Mexican girl, they return home. Wes is elated, but Ronnie craves for him, until a faculty member mentions a gossip column rumor of her engagement to Girardeau.

AN INTERRUPTED PARTY
CHAPTER XXII

WESLEY YORK, deeply hurt, told himself all at once that he was tired of endless worrying.

Ronica had seemed so fine, so utterly fair with him and charmingly wistful, that he just couldn't envision her being in love with a man like Andre Girardeau. Andre plainly was a playboy of a type all too common. Wes could hardly feel that Ronnie had been taken in by him.

"I shall demand the truth myself," Wesley suddenly avowed after supper this evening. Wherefore, in characteristic action, he drove immediately out of town in his old sedan. His car, incidentally, was in much better shape than it had been on his original trip in this direction; its rattles were gone, its motor tuned carefully, and its body really attractive under new paint. He hoped Ronnie would notice it.

Another car was parked at the Rocking R ranch home when he got there, so Wes knew instantly that he wouldn't be able to ask Ronnie his point-blank question. His idea had been to demand of her if she really did love Andre Girardeau, and to beg of her to—well, he hadn't planned quite that far, but he did hope to interfere with her "engagement" as announced by the New York columnist. He wished he might tell Ronnie of Andre's meetings with Lona Montoya, but that wouldn't seem diplomatic. He'd have to think of something else.

The Rocking R living room—a large hall beautifully done in log beams and Indian rugs and western furniture—was gay with music and laughter. Shyness halted Wes for a moment at the threshold, but both Mr. Bailey and Ronnie saw him. A moment later he was in the midst of seven Pueblo U. co-eds, lovely girls all, who were bantering him as the only eligible male present to dance with them. Six guests had driven out to visit Ronnie, with no dates tonight because of school ruling.

The talk was too rapid for Wes. Temporarily he slipped back into his old defensive "Quite so," and "Yes, indeed," and such poor conversational phrases until Teeny Travers, a cute bit from Detroit, grabbed him and literally forced him into jitterbugging. Good sport at heart, Wes tried it. Moreover, he showed some talent—if jitterbug steps can be called such—and presently was actually enjoying himself. No normal man can long remain unhappy amid seven vivacious girls. Finally Ronnie Bailey herself interrupted Teeny and others who had pre-empted Wes.

"Goodness, you girls are terrible!" she declared, brightly. "Dr. York came to see me—not you!"

THAT merely intensified the rivalry. And built up Wesley's spirits even more. The strange, delightful stimulant of feminine attention and approval was overwhelming to him and before 9:30 he found himself doing and saying things he would never have dreamed himself capable of. Just for plain old fun they created new dance steps. They chimed in with radio music and chorused the songs, stopping to improvise new words when they cared to. They cracked jokes and laughed merrily. They even revived the old game of "handies" whereby you do cute imitations with fingers and hands, and Wes himself proved the champion of all.

In short, an outsider looking in would surely have taken Dr. Woodrow Wesley York, Ph.D., not for a dignified instructor in archaeology but as some lively member of the junior or senior class, a young colleger very popular with the co-eds.

Harmless and impromptu as it was, this hour represented the highest good time Wesley York had ever known. At about 10 Mr. Bailey himself came through, smiled benignly and talked a bit before climbing to his upstairs room and going dutifully to bed. Youth, said Mr. Bailey, is for pleasure, but an older fellow touched with indignation must have his rest.

HILARITY inside the Rocking R ranch mansion fitted the plans of another individual perfectly.

This individual, a woman dressed in man's clothes, drove out toward the ranch with a man about 10 o'clock. Car lights were turned off and their car parked on the open plain, headed back toward town, less than half a mile from the building.

"There is the residence," the man said, "and there the hangars. No moonlight to bother us, but just enough glow from the stars. You have your pistol?"

"Certainly," answered she.

"All right. Remember now—first at the northeast corner behind the shuaro cactus plant. Feel for the

Cities Are Urged To Aid In Relief

DALLAS, Tex.—Letters to 600 member cities of the Texas League of Municipalities urging cooperation in a movement to obtain state participation in local relief work have been mailed by Dallas City Manager James W. Aston.

The letters are accompanied by a comprehensive report compiled by the Texas Social Welfare Association estimating that there are 80,000 families in Texas "actually on the verge of starvation." Termining the relief problem "one of Texas' biggest," Aston's letter said that "cities and counties cannot finance adequate relief programs themselves. The state must share this responsibility for the welfare of its citizens." "It has been a pressing problem for ten years. To meet it many cities and counties have year after year, but never have they been able to give adequate assistance to their needy." "It is our responsibility to do all we can to see that this legislation is enacted as quickly as possible after the legislature convenes in January."
