Brewer Testifies In Fort Worth Trial

FORT WORTH, Feb. 21.—Earl T. Brewer, charged with stabbing to death his son-in-law, H. G. Cox, took the stand today in his own defense.

Brewer said he believed the youth "probably ruined" his pretty 14-year-old daughter, Virginia Ruth Brewer, by staying with her out of wedlock.

Town Junks Alarm Like A Cow Bell

BATAVIA, N. Y.—The familiar cow-like tone of the municipal alarm no longer will fall upon the ears of a Batavia citizen. The city fathers decided to replace the horn to the scrap heap after being advised a $250 overhauling would be necessary to put it in good working order.

A Batavia fire chief was discharged from office over a decade ago for silencing the alarm without proper authority. In his opinion the alarm only caused curious motorists to chase fire apparatus.

Action in Africa Shifts to Eastern Front

The combat of World War II is being fought on a stage closer to western China than it is to England. While British make steady advance in Libya and a war of nerve grips the Balkans, Empire forces are closing in on some 50,000 Italian troops in East Africa. Map spots highlights of action there.

Barber Recalls He Shaved Big Foot Wallace In Youth

By United Press

AUSTIN, Tex.—The best place to get an education is on the end of a pair of clippers behind the first chair in a barber shop.

At least that's the belief of Conrad R. Sobeck, 65-year-old native of Breslau, Germany, who has been cutting hair in the same shop for 52 years and who has worked on "nearly every governor" since Francis R. Lubbock resigned to enter the Confederate Army.

"Off-hand," the only one he can remember that he didn't clip or shave at some time or other during their tenure were Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson and W. Lee O'Daniel.

"I never had any formal schooling to speak of," Sobeck said, "because I started barbering at the age of 13. But I've been able to keep up with things that are happening by talking with fellows who sit in the chair. You hear a lot and you talk a lot and you can't help learning something."

He served three years as an apprentice, learning to cut hair and to shave customers, sweeping out the shop, and helping customers with their Saturday night bath.

Those were the days when a bath was one of the main things on a barber shop's bill of fare."

Sobek said. One of the most famous characters Sobek barbered, and he remembers the best, was "Big Foot" Wallace, frontiersman and Texas Ranger who was one of the little band of Texans who made up the Mier expedition.

"He used to tell me of the scared feeling he had when he was forced to draw a bean out of a clay pot at Salado after the Mexicans captured the band. Every tenth man—those who draw black beans—was shot as punishment for an escape attempt."

Others who have left their personalities in his memories were James Stephen Hogg, John H. Reagan, and Sam Johnson, one-time member of the Texas Legislature and father of Lyndon B. Johnson, D., Tex.

"He was one of my better customers," the jovial, curly-haired barber, whose only sign of his 85 years is a pair of horned-rim spectacles, said.

"When I first knew him he was just a representative—and wasn't married, either."

"And when young Lyndon Johnson came to Austin, I clipped him for a customer."

"I've spent many pleasant minutes talking with the young congressman while cutting his hair," Sobek said.

Sobek's parents brought him to the United States when he was five years old. They lived in New York for two years, then moved to Austin.

"I don't remember my first customer," he said. "I didn't know then that I ever would wish I could."

Ham Sandwich a Lucky Order For An Abilene Man

BROWNWOOD, Tex.—Lon Parker, 43, had looked long for his three children, without success. Then he ordered a ham sandwich and his search was ended.

He was so happy he had to shout. So he ran out into the street and let go. A policeman stopped him and wanted to know what all the fuss was about.

When Parker told him, the officer said he guessed the elderly man had a celebration coming.

Here's Parker's story: He had not seen his two daughters and a son, Goldie, Opal and Edis Parker, since 1925, when they were living with their mother.

GERMANS MARCH INTO SPAIN ON A MISSION OF 'RECONSTRUCTION'

Money Looms As A Major Worry For Legislators

By Harry Benge Crozier

AUSTIN, Texas—Money worries of the Texas Legislature become increasingly apparent when members find time to meditate in the midst of sound and fury over legislation to increase truck load limits and to pump nearly thirty million dollars in social security benefits out of a worse than empty general fund. The threat to vote a $26,800,000 appropriation with one grand gesture got a bad kicking around in the House of Representatives on Wednesday. In the Senate, where a committee already had recommended the appropriation with only one dissenting vote, the issue was avoided.

The House, under leadership of incisive young G. C. Morris, battle captain of the fifty-six who staved off the sales tax constitutional amendment two years ago, put off action on the big appropriation until March 19th.

Arduous for carrying out Governor O'Daniel's proposal has cooled perceptibly. The Senate may spar with the issue next week but it appears likely that it may fall there and even more likely that if it gets over to the House it will stew in the juices that revenue-minded representatives are cooking.

While agitation for deficit financing is waning, there is increasing interest in the long, somewhat monotonous hearings that the House Committee on Revenues and Taxation is holding each afternoon. All hands agreed that enactment of a tax bill is likely and it may result sometime before the end of the session.

Most observers inside and outside the legislature believe that an omnibus bill boosting levies on natural resources and a few other items will prevail. Guesses as to the amount of new money to be raised vary all the way from six million to twenty million dollars. None exceeds the higher figure unless the prediction comes from someone a little out of step with the legislative procession.

The sales tax idea through a constitutional amendment came back into the picture when Representative James E. Taylor proposed a resolution to submit a two percent levy exempting food and low cost clothing. It will be heard on for another resolution calling for a net income tax on corporations and individuals.

As the weekend approaches, railroad interests and others opposed to heavy truck loads were reorganizing their forces for a last ditch fight in the Senate. For the first time in six years, they had been routed in the House which passed finally 77 to 62 a bill prescribing a weight formula and maximum gross weight of 35,000 pounds. A Senate subcommittee is working on a similar bill and there is a belief that they will recommend a similar bill with a 48,000 pound limit before the main committee next Monday night.

Trucking interests, backed by cattle and sheep men, farmers, interior cotton compresses and others, were bending every effort to get action in the Senate next week, though that may be doubtful. Some of the proponents of the bill believe that they can increase the maximum above the 35,000 pound limit before the legislation goes to a conference committee. Original hopes of the railroads to hold the increase to 14,000 pounds or less had dimmed perceptibly.

Sen. Gillette Says British Aid Bill Power Unneeded

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Senator Guy Gillette of Iowa charged today that passage of the British Aid Bill will give President Roosevelt authority to play the United States hand in the "international poker game of power politics."

Gillette opened the fifth day of senate debate on the British Aid Bill. He denounced those who justify more aid to Britain on the theory Britain is fighting our war, and said that if he believed such was the case he would vote immediately for a declaration of war.

German troops marched into Spain today on a mission of peace and reconstruction, while Europe and the Far East echoed with apparent preparations for a big spring offensive.

The movement of German troops from France into Spain was said in Madrid to be on a small scale and was solely to aid in relief and reconstruction at Santander, which was struck by a recent hurricane, followed by fires.

However, the units which crossed the border included many technicians and transport columns which would be useful in making advance preparations for forces following.

The Germans appeared in buses at porton bridges along the Danube between Bulgaria and Rumania, presumably getting ready to move troops into Bulgaria. Belgrade heard reports that the Bulgarian populace was not too sympathetic to the Nazi preparations and there were rumors of riots among the Bulgarians.

It is likely that British plans to meet the Balkan, Mediterranean and African contingencies are being worked out in Cairo by Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Sir John Dill, chief of staff of the Imperial Forces.

In the Far East Japanese anger is rising against the British and American defense preparations. French military and naval commands in French Indo-China went into a conference on the military and political situation.

In Moscow Maxim Litvinov was removed by the high command of the Communist party and was replaced by V. G. Dekanozov, ambassador to Berlin, who aided in negotiating the Russo-German pact. Litvinov was reported to have been removed because he failed in his obligations to the Soviet.

Brotherhood Week To Start Saturday

AUSTIN, Texas—Again this year, Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel has called upon Texans to join in the nation-wide observance of Brotherhood Week, Feb. 22-28.

In an official proclamation he points out that "there is present in the world today a serious threat to our homes, our religions and our Democracy."

Protestants, Catholics and Jews must stand together, he adds, "to meet the present-day challenge to our fundamental American ideals."

Brotherhood Week, being observed in 2,000 communities throughout the United States, is part of a year-round national movement for better understanding among people of all faiths.

Behind this movement stands the National Conference of Christians and Jews, an organization supported and fostered by 25,000 Protestant, Catholic and Jewish laymen and clergymen in every state in the union. The National Conference was founded three years ago by Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War; Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, one of America's eminent clergymen; and Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes.

"National Unity is the theme, and 'One nation, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all,' this year's slogan.

Father, Four Sons Are Eagle Scouts

ST. GEORGE, Utah.—Like father, like son. That old proverb is being almost overworked by the George T. Thompson family of St. George.

In 1925, the elder of Thompson's four sons—George, now 31—was awarded an Eagle Scout badge by the St. George troop.

The father soon became interested in scouting—and was made an Eagle Scout a few years later. Then Heber Thompson won the coveted badge. Then Horace. And now the youngest son, Reed, has been made an Eagle Scout—the fifth in the family.

The student employment office reports the odd jobs included work for 891 typists, 328 entertainers and 214 waiters.

Curles Must Go

Carl Venstrom of Seattle, Wash., is streamlined by Annapolis barber so he can take a streamlined three-month course at the U. S. Naval Academy. He is one of 750 naval reserve midshipmen who hope to qualify for ensigns' commissions.

Ears of Blind To Aid In Defense

NEW YORK.—Even the blind son will have their niche in the national defense program.

Alec Templeton, blind English pianist and composer with an uncanny sense of hearing, is now working with defense authorities on a plan whereby blind people like himself can do their bit by becoming spotters to detect the approach of enemy aircraft.

The plan, which originated with Dr. John H. Hall, chairman of national defense for Massachusetts, will take advantage of the fact that many blind men and women, to compensate for their sightlessness, develop their hearing to a phenomenal degree. At present Templeton is compiling a series of hearing tests for spotters.

"The first essential," he said, "for a spotter is perfect pitch. He should be able to detect unusual sounds quickly, sounds heard underneath the routine noises that an ordinary person understands."

After pitch, nuances of tone are important, Templeton said.

"For instance, a good spotter should be able not only to detect the approach of aircraft, but be able to tell the speed, number and type of plane. One plane approaching has a single drone of sound, two planes have a warble of vibration, different pitch and rhythm. Different speeds and different makes of aircraft likewise have distinctive sounds."

Templeton said that the trained and gifted blind men and women who passed such tests would be used to man the instruments now employed by the army to detect enemy aircraft.

Your Federal Income Tax

Depreciation Allowances. The amount to be recovered by depreciation is the cost of the property, if acquired by purchase after February 28, 1913.

If acquired by purchase prior to March 1, 1913, the basis is the cost of the property, less depreciation sustained prior to March 1, 1913, or the fair market value on March 1, 1913, whichever is greater.

The proper allowance for depreciation is that amount which should be set aside for the taxable year in accordance with a reasonably consistent plan (not necessarily a uniform rate) whereby the aggregate amount so set aside, plus the salvage value, at the end of the useful life of the property equal the cost or other basis of the property.

The depreciation rate of a building is not based upon the number of years it will stand before being condemned and razed but on the number of years it will remain habitable or serviceable, for the purpose for which constructed.

If the taxpayer builds a new building, the period over which depreciation may be claimed begins at the time the building is completed and capable of being used. Buildings under construction are not subject to a depreciation allowance.

If it is clearly shown that, because of economic or other conditions, property must be abandoned at a date prior to the end of its normal useful life, so that depreciation deductions alone are insufficient to return the cost or other basis, a reasonable deduction for obsolescence may be allowed in addition to depreciation. No deduction for obsolescence is permitted because, in the opinion of the taxpayer, the property may become obsolete at some future date.

Dr. Lee Clark Is Buried On Friday

The well-known Texas educator, who during his lifetime held many positions of high responsibility in education circles of the state, had been in ill health for a number of years. His illness became serious Sunday and he died Wednesday morning.

REAL STORY

DRAFTED FOR LOVE

LUTH AYERS

COPYRIGHT, 1941, NEA SERVICE, INC.

DAY: April discovers the quarrel. The storm has been a "parent" from so April is alone with her problem. But it is leaving soon. This comes—It is from Ann.

...ENT FINDS OUT

CHAPTER XII

Letter was a brief scrawl, written in a shaky hand.

...r Ones—I will be home in a few days. It's no use staying any longer. The audition Vivano was a miserable failure. It seems as if all I want is to have you close to me. I can forget these last weeks of my foolish hopes and dreams of success. Perhaps it is necessary to teach me a lesson. For the rest of my life I will ask nothing more than to be happy in the real blessings of my family and my beloved Kent.

It was signed "Ann" and it looked suspiciously as if a tear had blotted it.

"It's Ann," April found herself saying to Octavia. "Our Ann is coming home."

Octavia burst into such a halloo of song that if Vivano had heard her, he might have thought he had the find of a century.

At last, April Burnett knew there was only one thing to do. Ann was returning, to be, as she had written it, "happy in the real blessings of my family and my beloved Kent."

Ann's beloved Kent.

APRIL must reach Kent at once, confess to him what she had done and beg his promise never to tell Ann.

"Don't bother with supper for me," she told Octavia. "I'm going to Octavia's cream and chocolate vanished. "Not tonight, Miss. You clean out of your room."

"What for you goin' to sail in a storm like this?"

"I was reaching for her own hat and the tiny calot she wore like a monk's cap on the other shining hair. "If you love me," she said, "it's to the little breath of April to blow."

"Blizzard!"

"Blizzard, blizzard, blizzard!"

ened, and finally glowered suspiciously. "Wait 'til your mother hear about this. And your father, why he's like to clean get rid of me after the 20 years Ah's spent raising you and Miss Ann."

April was to remember this afterwards, even to the questioning look in Octavia's hurt eyes and the last words, "Lawd help us—Lawd help us all."

The sentence started ringing in April's head. If Ann hadn't written, if the letter hadn't arrived at this deadly psychological time with its pathetic appeal, April knew she would have remained stubbornly silent. Frankly, as she told herself, she would have lacked the courage to have confessed to Kent. Ann's letter changed everything.

This time when April started out there was no pretense of being Ann. From the calot and the jaunty coat with its lingering scent of the corsages that had been pinned on it, right down to the suede shoes with the high heels, she was all April. Yes, April Burnett on her way for the reckoning with Kent Carter.

THE trip up the hill in the roadster would always remain something out of a nightmare.

At a garage along the way, April stood ankle deep in snow while a mechanic put on chains. "Bad night for driving, isn't it?" he asked with a bumptious cheerfulness.

"What—oh, yes, very bad."

"Should I charge this to your father, Miss Burnett?"

"To my father? Yes, please."

"Better take it easy on the road up to the Carter place." The mechanic grinned knowingly.

Vaguely, she wondered how he should know she was going to the Carter home. Small towns were funny. They knew everything.

Ann would never honk a horn. She thought it rude, bad-mannered. But April honked long, until the home on the hill opened and a wrinkled face appeared briefly. Then the door opened again and Kent came out, a stooped old Negro beside him to help him to the car with his bags.

"Kent," April found herself saying, "I'll take you to the train. There's something I must tell you."

"There wasn't any call for you to chauffeur me," Kent answered in an expressionless voice. "I've been trying to get you all day by telephone, but I guess you know the storm's put the lines out of order."

"Quite a storm we started yesterday, wasn't it?" she forced a bitter laugh. "Yes, quite a storm." The snow was drifting on the hill, fuzzy clouds of it edging along the road.

April turned to Kent. Did she imagine it or had he changed. He was back in uniform and the broad-shouldered coat had a certain swagger. The visor of the officer's cap shadowed his face and made the dark glasses less noticeable.

That wasn't all. April saw the turn of his chin; was aware that his mouth was set in an uncompromising line.

"I'm a little early so we'd have plenty of time to make the train," she began haltingly.

"Maybe we have plenty of time for this, too," he said.

Before April could move, Kent's arms encircled hers, arms without gentleness. Slowly, his lips brushed across her cheek and then came down to crush her mouth.

She tried to push away, but the hammering of her heart made her limp. This wasn't the kiss he had given her yesterday on the hilltop. This was something different, a searing, shattering kiss.

WHEN it was over, April pressed one hand to her lips. Kent had no right to do this unless—unless he knew. He'd said he hated cheap love-making. By the dashboard light, she saw he was shaken, too, and sat remote, aloof in his corner of the seat.

"Better start," he advised in the same expressionless tone.

Automatically, she set off. The snow was a blessing; the treacherous roads an escape. Intent on the driving, she could push every other thought and question from her, except the memory of that shattering kiss.

The windshield wiper labored as it cleared an arc in the glass and the tire chains rattled with a steely, discordant clatter.

Neither April nor Kent spoke until the car had reached the foot of the hill.

Then Kent broke the deadlock. "What was it you wanted to tell me?"

Deep within her, April sensed what was coming, so on impulse she stopped the car. The white night came down like a curtain as she turned to Kent. What she read in his tense face made her realize there wasn't any need for her to speak at all. Kent Carter knew!

"You're April," he said. "That's why I kissed you as I did, to let you know I knew. Why did you go it, April? Was it to annoy another scamp to your left. Did you think your charm would be fatal?"

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

Needn't Be Ill Benefit From a Upon Doctor

Texas—The practice is frequently referred to as "healing art." While this is one of the duties of the physician is and always is vitally important, it is by no means necessary for one to be a doctor in order to benefit from the services of which he is capable. To limit one's interest in the care of the physician to the care of the patient is to disregard entirely the capabilities in connection with the attainment and maintenance of the highest possible individual health," states Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"The present emergency is emphasizing the need of physical fitness. About preparedness, with the stresses and strains associated with high speed production of war materials and the yet unknown factor of personal cooperation in the defense program which may be required of every one sooner or later, no longer makes half-way individual health measures exclusively a personal concern. While neglecting to achieve maximum personal health has always been an unwise policy, this attitude, in light of the present emergency, represents also a lack of patriotism.

"It may be stated that today's armed forces have improved their preventive health measures so that the man now making the physical requirements and joining the service will belong to a highly protected segment of the nation's population from the standpoint of both disease prevention and health promotion. Nevertheless, the majority of Americans, however closely related their work now may be or may become to national defense, are not favored by this unusual protection. Thus, individual initiative will have to be relied upon instead. It is at this point that a full appreciation of the services that can be rendered by the family doctor can be applied to individual and national advancement. As a discoverer of latent physical defects, he has at his command information and modern methods of detection.

"To give the family physician an opportunity to look one over physically for the purpose of detecting any insidious trouble is merely to play safe. If no defects are found, one still will have the advantage of knowing that basic physical fitness exists. If perchance something comes to light, having taken time by the forelock, the opportunity of stopping serious difficulty exists. Then, too, this contact with the family doctor affords an opportunity to discuss with him the living habits which make up one's daily life. It is not too much to say that many adults, to attain the greatest vigor of which they are capable, will need some amendments to their habits. These the physician will be in a position to indicate.

Considered from these angles, individual health becomes part and parcel of the national preparedness program. Patriotism, as well as plain common sense, thus indicates the necessity of using the family physician not only to make one well, if ill, but to help develop a maximum amount of individual health and vigor.

AUTO HELD "DEADLY WEAPON" By United Press

OAKLAND, Cal.—By classifying, for legal purposes, the automobile as a "deadly weapon," Police Judge Fox made the punishment fit the crime. In a drunken driving case in which six persons were injured, Judge Fox found he could only impose a maximum sentence of six months in jail. He therefore changed the crime to "assault with a deadly weapon" which makes a 10-year prison sentence possible.

Doctors Frown On Frostbite Remedy

By United Press
DETROIT.—Medical authority today has reversed the age-old tradition that frostbitten ears, cheeks, and fingers should be rubbed with snow.

Condemning the fact that rubbing with snow or even ice frequently is used as a first-aid measure in cases of frostbite, the current issue of Michigan Public Health corroborated the findings of top-flight medical authority by recommending the use of body heat to renew circulation.

"Use of the warm hand or other sources of body heat has long been recognized by physicians as the proper treatment," the journal stated editorially. "Yet, it said, 'the old popular notion of rubbing with snow or even with ice persists.'"

The journal quoted Dr. A. D. Aldrich, a member of the state council of health, as saying, "severe stroking of a frostbitten part may rub off a portion of the

News of Ranger Scout Troop

By David Lee Jameson
The Scout breakfast held Tuesday morning at the Paramount Hotel we feel will bring about the organization of a Cub Scout Troop and possibly another Scout troop.

We need more boys in the Scouts here, and there are boys of the right age who need to be in the Scouts. All boys interested in becoming a Boy Scout please be at the regular meeting on Friday night at 7:15.

At the last Court of Honor we had four boys to come up for the rank of First Class Scouts. They are James Croom, Richard Cox, Travis Bynum and David Lee Jameson. We also had boys coming up for Second Class and also for Merit Badges.

We are very glad to report the membership of four or five new boys that have passed the tenderfoot requirements. However we need about 30 more boys before a new troop can be organized. This drive for new Scouts has been opened all over the county. In fact there are more boys of age twelve-up in this town than any other and yet in Eastland and Cisco they have two troops while we have only one. Also there are more than twice as many Scouts in those towns. Boys let's join the Scouts now and help yourself and our town.

To Be Flown in the Derrick First Time Feb. 22

The dedication ceremonies in connection with the flag raising, which will be very short, have been scheduled for 2:30 Saturday afternoon.

High School band parade down the street from the band hall to the derrick, and to play The Star Spangled Banner, while the flag was being raised for the first time.

The flag which has been purchased through contributions to the fund raised by the Legion Post, is of sturdy construction, eight by 12 feet in size and, when erected on the flagpole on top of the derrick may be seen for miles in every direction.

Members of the Legion Post erected the flagpole recently, having the pole offset to enable the flag to be raised and lowered without becoming entangled in the derrick or the neon lights on the derrick legs.

BIGGEST ROOM IN THE WORLD WILL BE PART OF AN AIRPLANE FACTORY IN DALLAS

Artist's drawing of completed North American plane factory at Dallas.

BY ED HOFFMAN
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

DALLAS, Texas—The biggest room in the world . . . without a single window . . . made livable by the world's biggest air-conditioning system . . . illuminated by one of the world's most powerful lighting systems . . . yes, it's quite an airplane factory North American Aviation, Inc. is rushing to completion, just outside Dallas. Company officials hope army planes will be rolling out of the plant by mid-March.

Big is the word for its cost—$7,000,000.

Big is the word for government contracts already awarded—$50,000,000 worth.

BUILT IN LINE WITH EUROPE'S LESSONS

Backed by the government in building the new plant, North American bought 140 acres adjoining Hensley Field, an army air base four miles west of Dallas. Ground was broken last September 28. Company officials expect to be making planes by March.

The plant is being built with an eye to all the lessons learned from Europe's experience with bombs from the air. For the most part it will be one story high. It will have no windows. The roofs will consist of steel deck with 2 1/2 inches of asphalt-dip, canvas fiber insulation, in turn covered by tar and gravel. If a bomb strikes such a roof, there is no crash or ruined masonry. The bomb would hit a floor made of five-inch reinforced concrete slabs, laid over a three-inch sand cushion. Builders believe a bomb would not greatly interfere with production.

The roof will be thoroughly camouflaged. A complete 18-hole golf course with artificial trees and shrubs will be painted on it. SAME SYSTEM HEATS AND AIR CONDITIONS

The factory will have six units: the main building, largest room in the world, 960 by 870 feet, covering a floor space of 835,200 square feet; hangar building, 45,000 square feet; drop hammer building, 15,000 square feet; foundry, 25,000 square feet; paint mixing building, 12,000 square feet; office building, 8400 square feet.

This gives an idea of the size of the building:

The national capitol at Washington is famed not only for its beauty but for its immensity. It covers 153,112 square feet. But the North American factory is just about five and a half times as large as the capitol building.

The main building will be divided into four units. Final assembly of planes will be made in an area 150 feet wide by 960 feet long—that's about equal to three football fields—with 150-foot span steel trusses.

The manufacturing section of this main room will be 576 by 960 feet—10 football fields, 250 tennis courts. Here will be conducted all fabrication operations, such as preparation of material, fabrication of sheet metal, wing and center section assembly, engine installation, machining, welding and painting.

In the painting section there will be 15 individual spray booth units protected by fireproof walls and doors and a fire extinguisher system. The warehouse section of the main room will be 144 by 960 feet. Here will be the shipping department, wood shop, processing department, and maintenance department.

The engineering department in the big room will occupy a mezzanine area 300 by 150 feet—merely a single football field—with offices for departmental heads and the engineering staff. Of the million square feet of space in the entire plant about 200,000 square feet will be completely air conditioned. The remaining area will take the leakage from the air-conditioned parts and thus will be semi-air conditioned. Power for this will be supplied by four 650-ton centrifugal type compressors, each with a capacity of 120,000 cubic feet of air per minute. In the winter this same system will heat the plant.

HOPE FOR 300-400 PLANES PER MONTH

Electric power will be obtained from Dallas, but there will be an emergency service in the factory itself, consisting of three 1000-watt Diesel generating units.

As there are no windows in the plant, lighting will be all-important. Fluorescent lighting of the latest type will supply 26-foot candles of light on all points of planes under construction and, where precision work is necessary, will supply 40-foot candles of light.

The plant will be the first new airplane plant at a new location constructed as part of the national defense program. If plane deliveries begin in March, it will also be the first new plant to get into production. By the end of 1941 officials expect the plant to be turning out between 300 and 400 airplanes a month.

While the plant is being pushed to completion, the company is running a school in Dallas to train men to take places in the factory. There will be 12,000 employees at first, with a yearly payroll running into millions of dollars.

Universe Is Built In a Cigar Box

By United Press

PHILADELPHIA.—Aaron Liss, who believes in the adage "good things come in small packages," has built a scale model of the universe, small enough to fit into a cigar box.

The model, made up of marbles, tiny pearls, copper wire and a steel washer, was made on the scale of 1 to 2,851,200,000,000. The 45,000,000 miles between the sun and earth is brought down to a mere two inches.

Liss, who in the daytime is employed in a dress factory and at night is an amateur astronomer, created the pocket-sized universe in which the sun is represented by a marble, surrounded by crystals of various sizes, each in scale, representing the planets. Each planet has its moons, tiny pearls held in place by fine copper wires, and steel washers are used for Saturn's rings.

Liss began work on the "miniature" field when he read a newspaper article of a man who had written the Lord's Prayer on the back of a postage stamp. Although he had only reached the fourth grade in a school in his native Russian Ukraine, he believed he could do better.

His first attempt was writing the complete history of King Solomon on a postcard. He squeezed 10 chapters from the Book of Kings, 15,000 Hebrew characters, on the card.

CHEYENNE, Wyo.—Mrs. Ruby Mallin, despite the fact that she has three teen-aged sons and is 49, believes that education is the proper thing for her. She received her Cheyenne high school diploma just after her 13-year-old son, Jack, had been graduated. Another son, Ashley, graduated in 1938, while the third, Billy, is in the ninth grade.
