KING GEORGE GREET'S NEW AMBASSADOR

LONDON, March 1.—King George VI in a gesture similar to President Roosevelt's personal welcome to British Ambassador Lord Halifax broke precedent today to greet John G. Winant, new United States Ambassador, at a wayside station, before Winant reached London.

It was the first time a British king had ever made such a diplomatic gesture as far as records disclosed.

Winant arrived at Bristol this afternoon by land plane from Lisbon. He was greeted there by Brendan Bracken, representing Prime Minister Winston Churchill, the Duke of Kent, representing the king, and Sir John Monk, vice marshal of the diplomatic corps.

Ben Cohen, who will be one of Winant's chief aides in London, arrived immediately after the ambassador in another plane.

The party then left for London.

En route to the British capital the king met and received Winant at the wayside station. They had met once previously at Buckingham Palace when Winant was director of the International Labor Office.

The reception of Winant by the king was as great a break with precedent as Mr. Roosevelt's gesture in personally welcoming Halifax when he arrived on the battleship, George V at Annapolis, Md.

Winant was an ambassador first called on the British Foreign Secretary and then presents his credentials at Buckingham Palace a week or more after his arrival.

Winant wore a black Homburg hat and a dark overcoat. He had little to say on his arrival at Bristol except that "I am glad to be here—there is no place I would rather be at this time than in England."

He was conducted on an inspection of a company of guards before leaving for London and the reception by George VI.

Ranger Youth Off To Join the RCAF

Tommy Smith of Ranger left Saturday afternoon by bus for Windsor, Ontario, Canada, to enter the Royal Canadian Air Force. Smith, who is a graduate of the Ranger Flying Service school, has passed all the necessary examinations to enter the Canadian Air Force with the exception of the last physical examination, which he is to take after his arrival in Canada.

Texas physicians who have examined Smith stated that he would be able to pass the examinations in Canada.

Cotton Growers To Meet March 21 - 22

DALLAS, Mar. 1.—More than 500 cotton growers and dealers were expected here March 21 and 22 for the Texas Cotton Association's annual convention. A. M. Grayson, arrangements chairman, announced today.

Speakers will include Francis Hickman of New Orleans, La., publisher of the Cotton Trade Journal, and Oscar Johnston, Scott, Miss., president of the National Cotton Council. Both have been leaders in a movement to increase domestic consumption to supplant the loss of foreign cotton markets.

Grating Profile Shadows Hank

Hank Greenberg was greeted by comedian Jimmy Durante—schmozzle, shadow and all—when he arrived in New York en route to Detroit Tigers' training camp in Lakeland, Fla., with his draft status still in doubt.

Money No Object When Dog Is Lost

FORT WORTH, Mar. 1.—"Honey," a small brown female Cocker Spaniel with more than 250 hours in the air, today was sought in an unusual advertisement by Robert G. Meyer of Huntsville.

He mailed a 11 by 14 inch printed poster—which must have cost at least $40 printers estimated—to the press. With the dog's picture at the top his message said:

"Lost—between Pearsall and Dilley, Texas, February 18 a small brown female Cocker Spaniel, called 'Honey'—weight about 12 pounds, age 3 years but looks like a puppy. She has 250 hours of riding in airplanes. Was my wedding gift to my wife 8 months ago.

"She has lived with no one except my wife and I since birth, so is probably as lonesome and broken-hearted as we are. If found please wire me collect. Reward for her return."

Robert G. Meyer, Airport, Huntsville, Texas.

Judges Are Named For Ranger Stock Show On Mar. 6

Dr. Ross Hodges, chairman of the livestock committee of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce, Saturday announced the judges in the annual Ranger Livestock Show, to be held Thursday, March 6th.

G. G. Gibson, extension assistant dairyman of Texas A. & M. College will be judge of dairy cattle. Other judges for the show will be Guy Powell, county agent of Coryell County; T. G. Caudle, Cisco; W. R. Laco, county agent of Stephens County, and Moss Miller.

Defense Housing Project Is Urged

WASHINGTON, Mar. 1.—Defense Housing Coordinator C. F. Palmer has recommended to President Roosevelt that he approve 22 defense housing construction projects calling for 4,516 family dwelling units.

The projects, with the number of units contemplated for each, include:

- Alexandria, La., 255; Leesville, La., 150; Shreveport, La., 139.

Palmer also recommended approval of a project at Orange, Texas, which he did not describe.

TEACHERS MEET AT EASTLAND DRAWS CROWD

One hundred and seventy-five members of the Eastland County Teachers' association were present at a meeting and banquet Friday night at the First Methodist church in Eastland. B. B. Brummett, superintendent of the German schools and president of the association, presided.

Out of county guests included Dr. R. A. Collins, Simmons, University, Abilene; and Superintendent D. E. Howard of the Comanche schools, and Mrs. Howard.

Invocation was given by Dr. Collins and after a short business session, W. T. Walton, superintendent of the Ranger schools, introduced the speaker of the evening, Dr. Bryan Keathley, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Mineral Wells, who delivered an inspirational address stressing the thought that one gets in return for services what he puts into a thing.

Music for the occasion was furnished by the Hitson-Schaeffer String band of Cisco.

A committee was appointed to select delegates to represent Eastland county at the district convention which meets in Wichita Falls this month.

Singing Bandit of Texas Is Now Dead At Officers' Hands

HUNTSVILLE, Tex.—Texas "singing bandit" is dead.

B. H. Huddleston, whose scrapes with the law in a long criminal career netted him sentences totaling more than 200 years, met death at the hands of a law officer.

An old hand at escape, he fled the Retrieve Prison Farm near Angleton, Feb. 21, and was shot and killed two nights later by Frank Probst, traffic officer of Live Oak County, near Three Rivers. Huddleston, who escaped and returned to prison.

Huddleston, of bland, disarming appearance, at one time fancied himself somewhat of a singer. In the fall of 1937 he escaped from the Ellis County jail at Waxahachie and headed northwest. Lubbock was his operating locale for some time and it was in the South Plains area and in Eastern New Mexico that he gained the title "Singing Bandit."

Calmly executing robberies, Huddleston continually hummed tunes and would burst forth occasionally with a few lines from a song. After his capture, at Roswell, N. M., Oct. 17, 1937, Huddleston said he had stayed a week in a Lubbock hotel posing as a college student. He boasted that he was a fugitive, hauled by police as "notorious," yet he fooled "a dozen Lubbock merchants into believing I was just a young college galoot."

Huddleston died when Probst, seeing a parked car, went to it and asked if he might be of assistance. "Hell, no," was the gruff reply, and when a rifle was suddenly raised towards him the officer fired. Huddleston missed. Probst didn't.

Stolen Car Found By Ranger Police

Chief of Police Guy Pledger of Ranger reported Saturday afternoon that a car stolen in Fort Worth Thursday night, while parked on a downtown street, had been recovered, abandoned, in Ranger.

Pledger stated that the car belonged to O. C. Yarbrough, an employee of the Texas Electric Service Company of Fort Worth. Yarbrough came to Ranger and returned the car to Fort Worth.

No arrests were made in connection with the car theft, Pledger stated.

Oil Field Workers Are Going "Sissy"

LONGVIEW, Tex.—Oil field workers, police mused today, must be going "sissy."

They entered in Gregg County jail records the blank docket of the first Saturday night since the discovery of the East Texas oil field more than 10 years ago that no new prisoners were placed in jail.

Motors, Engines, Shells, Trucks Being Made for Defense By Auto Industry; More Activity Due By End of Year

DETROIT, Mich.—At least 150,000 men will be working on national defense contracts of the automobile companies by the latter part of the present year, and between 100,000 and 200,000 more men will be employed by the time its bomber parts program gets in full swing, according to a progress report issued in pictorial form today by the Automobile Manufacturers Association.

Every company in the automobile industry now is represented in production of one or more defense items, the report shows, with the load growing rapidly. Defining the defense assignments as this industry's "No. 1 Job" today, Alvan Macauley, President of the Association in a foreword stated:

"From the start the automobile companies saw this job as one that must have the right way. They voluntarily pledged to subordinate their forward tooling programs wherever by doing so they could expedite defense production. All along the line the job has been and is, a fight against time."

Special recognition is given the "energetic and devoted efforts" of the hundreds of technical men in engineering and tool departments, on construction jobs and elsewhere, whose long hours and close application have pushed the preparations for production "as never before."

"The same effort goes forward in production itself," says Mr. Macauley. "The record of accomplishment to date is one of which the people of the country generally as well as those within the industry can feel proud. It is evidence again of America's ability to produce for the well-being of all."

The report summarizes the following items:

1. Airplane engines from the automobile industry have been going into service since July, 1940; are coming out now at the rate of 350 a month; will in a short time be many times that number.

2. New airplane engine plants are in the final stages of construction and equipment will be producing this summer. Two more are to be in operation by the end of the year.

3. Ammunition components of many types, such as shells, shell casings, fuses, bomb and torpedo parts are being produced in several automobile plants; will shortly be coming out in a steady stream of large volume. Converted automobile equipment is being used on shell production now.

4. Plants will shortly be ready for machine gun production, and several companies are working on parts and accessories for big guns, such as breech housings, recoil cylinders, ammunition hoists, etc.

5. Thanks to construction workers who carried forward even under heavy snow, and other comparable preparatory effort, tank production will begin well ahead of schedule, if current rate of progress can be maintained. A start on actual parts production work has been made.

6. Six companies are actively at work producing or preparing to produce airplane body, wing and tail parts. First shipments of sub-assembly units have already been made. Ultimately from 100,000 to 200,000 men will be required for this work alone, especially in the projected output of parts for bombers to be assembled at new Army plants in the Midwest.

7. Continuous deliveries, at a rising rate, are being made on power plants for navy vessels, ranging from the superspeed motor for "mosquito boats" to submarine diesels.

Methodist Laymen Meet In Eastland Tuesday March 11

Methodist Laymen of the Cisco District will meet in Eastland on Tuesday, March 11 to hear E. Dow Bancroft, associate secretary for Men's Work for the Methodist Church, discuss a program of Lay Activities for the men of the church. Mr. Bancroft, a distinguished speaker and Christian leader, will be in the Central Texas Conference of the Methodist church for a ten day period, March 9 to 19, and during this time will hold similar meetings in each of the ten districts of the conference.

The meeting in Eastland will be held at the Methodist church and will have two sessions. The afternoon session will meet at 4 o'clock and during this period there will be discussions of such pertinent subjects as: Personal Evangelism, Stewardship, Fellowship Meetings and World Service Finance. The evening meeting at 7 o'clock will be a great fellowship banquet at the church with Mr. Bancroft as the speaker. It is expected that Hal Cherry, the Conference Day Leader, will attend one or both sessions.

At least 200 laymen from the Cisco District are expected to attend. There are 23 churches in the district under the leadership of Dist. Superintendent Rev. Roy A. Langston of Cisco. The Cisco District embraces all of Stephens and Eastland Counties and parts of Coleman, Calahan, Comanche and Erath counties, with a church membership of more than 8,000 members.

B. E. McGlamery of Eastland is District Lay Leader and Judge Jesse R. Smith of Breckenridge and W. M. Wright of Dublin are associates.

Center of State Is Matter of Concern

AUSTIN, Mar. 1.—Texas people showed wide interest today in Brownwood's efforts to determine the true location of the center of Texas.

Numerous calls came to the State Land Office. Many of those were prompted by an error yesterday in describing the center as being in Brown County instead of McCulloch County.

A newsmen in consulting the land office map which showed McCulloch County and a part of Brown County observed only the designation on the part of it representing Brown County.

"I had no idea so many people were interested," said Allison Walker who had made the map and had given the correct information about it.

Two-Cent Debt Paid In Three Decades

DENVER, Mar. 1.—Postmaster James O. Stevic received a letter yesterday from "an American citizen by birth" in South Milford, Ind. It said that in September, 1912, the author had purchased a two-cent stamp from a Denver druggist, and promised to pay next day because the druggist couldn't change a $20 bill.

"Although that debt has been on my conscience all these years," the letter explained, "I have never found time to repay it and trust that the enclosed nickel will pay the debt with interest."

Stevic telephoned Harvey Radetsky, who had bought the stamp in 1936 from the brother of Frank J. Lord, who owned it in 1912. Radetsky accepted the nickel.

88th Court To Convene Monday

Judge B. W. Patterson will convene the 88th district court Monday at 9:00 a. m. thereby opening the March term of that tribunal.

Monday will be devoted to the usual routine matters coming up at the opening of court terms. Tuesday assignment of cases for trial will be made.

A grand jury, summoned to appear Monday, will be convened by Judge Patterson.

DRIVER FINED 1 CENT

FRESNO, Cal.—It was a case of a light fine when John G. Turner, 22, Fresno, appeared in court on a charge of driving a car having a tail-light without illumination. Justice of the Peace Earle J. Church imposed a fine of 1 cent.

BULGARS WANT TO GET OUTLET FROM GREECE SO THEY SIGN AXIS PACT

By J. W. T. MASON
(United Press War Expert)

Bulgaria's adherence today to the triple alliance is most probably due to the influence of King Boris and to the desire of the Bulgarian government to recover from Greece an outlet on the Adriatic with the added possibility of obtaining from Yugoslavia territory lost in the World War. Russia must be seriously concerned by the extension of German power in the Black Sea, bordering Bulgaria, which carries Hitler a long step nearer to the Dardanelles.

When Bogdan Filoff, Bulgarian premier, signed the pact today at Vienna, he said his country intends to keep all friendships and agreements with neighbors and to develop Bulgaria's traditional amity with Russia. It would seem, however, that Bulgaria is substituting Germany for Russia as her new protector and counts on the axis winning the war to gain territorial rewards.

Review of events which culminated in today's action indicates that an inner struggle has been proceeding for some time among Bulgarian leaders regarding relations with Germany. On October 28, when King Boris opened the Bulgarian parliament he stressed friendship for the axis and expressed "gratitude toward the great leaders of Germany and Italy for their initiative and friendly cooperation in connection with the Debrudja annexation."

Exactly two months later, however, the foreign affairs committee of the Bulgarian parliament, after a stormy session, overwhelmingly rejected a proposal to align Bulgaria with Germany and Italy. King Boris immediately conferred with Foreign Minister Popoff, who declared Bulgaria must protect her rights.

On January 12, Premier Filoff, in a public speech, declared Bulgarians must make sacrifices only for Bulgaria and must remain revisionists by peaceful means, hoping Bulgaria's other claims will be settled. By that meant Bulgaria must work for revision of boundaries with Greece and with Yugoslavia.

Popoff has been credited with being pro-British and Premier Filoff with favoring neither belligerent. But, it would seem that desires for territorial expansion together with German arguments about victory turned the scales at Sofia and permitted the Bulgarian leaders to make their country a German satellite.

It is not certain that Bulgaria's new subservience to Germany means the fuhrer intends to start a quick offensive against Greece from Bulgarian territory. There is still the possibility Hitler will hold that move in reserve, while trying to sustain Italian morale through other means.

Increasing numbers of German soldiers are appearing in Bulgaria and the fuhrer may count on them to keep Italy going rather than by an attack against Greece. The Nazis still expect to defeat Great Britain and thus automatically defeat Greece.

The fuhrer's gain by bringing Bulgaria within the German orbit does not have to possess an immediate military value to gratify him. He is looking forward to post-war conditions.

Bulgaria's membership in the triple alliance strengthens Germany's southwestern power over Russia. It also brings Asia Minor nearer to German bases. Too, it provides advantages for German trade expansion.

These gains, however, are contingent on Germany winning the war. Differences exist in Bulgaria concerning this outcome of the conflict but the pro-German group has the upper hand for the time being.

The presence in Vienna today of General Oshima, Japan's ambassador to Germany, is natural, since Japan is a member of the triple alliance. But, it raises a vital problem. If Germany does not strike at Greece through Bulgaria and if the British then declare war on Bulgaria, will the terms of the triple alliance require Japan to go to war against Great Britain?

If Japan were to fall into that trap, the fuhrer will have got the greatest of all advantages out of Bulgaria. But it would seem unlikely that the Tokyo realists will risk Japan's future at the call of a small Balkan nation, whose capital most Japanese cannot name offhand.

R.A.F. Bombers In Long Range Raid

LONDON, Mar. 1.—British long range bombing planes hurled bombs on Germany's great naval base at Wilhelmshaven for an hour and a half during the night and left fierce fires spreading in the bombed areas, the air ministry asserted today.

Dock yards, shipping and submarine berths were bombed by the Royal Air Force planes in their 44th attack on the base.

Despite the handicap of bad weather, the Royal Air Force also bombed other targets in north-western Germany and the invasion port of Boulogne, which they attacked for the 77th time.

Italian Base In Somaliland Taken

CAIRO, Mar. 1.—British forces which have penetrated Italian Somaliland up to its capital, Mogadisho, have captured more than 9,000 prisoners, the Middle East command said today.

A communique also said that the British had occupied Bardera, most important Juba River port and an important Italian military base in Southwestern Somaliland.

great leaders of Germany and Italy for their initiative and friendly cooperation in connection with the Debrudja annexation."

The War as a Conspiracy

If it be true, and there is certainly a great deal of truth in it, that the nations of the world stumbled blindly into war in 1914, that is surely not the case this time.

The World War need never have happened. Certainly it need not have happened when it did. One word of restraint from Berlin to the stupid and rash militarists in charge of the Vienna war office would have halted the whole ghastly business. There is some reason to believe that Berlin wanted to speak that word, but dared not. And then, one after another, the nations followed one another into the war like sheep following their leader into the slaughter pen.

In short, there always was a possibility in the Kaiser's Germany that that great country might have gone on to greater scientific, economic, and even social triumphs, and thus found its true "place in the sun" without war. True, it did not work out that way, but the possibility existed.

In the Third Reich, which took charge of Germany in 1933, there never was any such possibility. Seven million unemployed brought Hitler to power, and the Nazi party never did have any plan for them except to build an immense military machine.

Had the billions spent by the Nazis on that military machine been spent in legitimate trade expansion, in social improvement, in the peaceful development of Germany into an expanded place in the world, today might have been far different. Perhaps, Germany being what it was, this was impossible. At any rate, it was never tried. The Third Reich started out with no other premise than the building of a huge military out with no other philosophy but that of a "master race."

It is now clear (unfortunately it was not so clear to most people eight years ago) that war was the logical and only possible outcome of all this. The agreement with Russia to partition Poland, which gave Germany the green light for the attack on that country, was conspiratorial in a sense beyond the alliances that preceded the World War. Those, at least, were comparatively open. Mussolini's entrance into this war was no less conspiratorial and opportunistic, for no one could claim that Italy had any more provocation with France on June 11, 1940, when she declared war, than she had in September, 1939, when the war began.

The world of 1914 always devised a cause for its wars; often a phony cause, true, but a cause. It remained for 1940 to usher in a series of conspiratorial wars launched without even a suggestion of cause or provocation.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

"Christ Jesus" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, March 2.

The Golden Text is: "Unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given..." Of the increase of his government and peace there shall be no end, upon the throne of David, and upon his kingdom, to order it, and to establish it with judgment and with justice from henceforth even for ever" (Isaiah 9: 6, 7).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "I and my Father are one" (John 10: 30).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Christ, as the true spiritual idea, is the ideal of God now and forever, here and everywhere" (page 361).

March 10, 11, 12 To Be Important To Women of Area

The Ranger Times has made a constant effort through the years to bring to our city the best available public service features. March 10, 11 and 12 will witness an outstanding event along these lines. At considerable expense we are bringing to the men and women of Ranger the Happy Kitchen Cooking School on these dates. The foremost lecture of modern cookery, Mrs. Cora Wilson will conduct the sessions, which will feature actual demonstrations from the completely equipped stage of the school.

We can think of no better manner in which to bring to the women of our community a public service. Long after the cooking school is passed we will reap the benefits offered by Mrs. Wilson. There will be new and appetizing dishes going on your tables from the recipes offered from this testing kitchen. There will be dozens of helpful hints on shopping and marketing our foods. There will be new tricks to save steps and time in the preparation of your meals. And yet, we have only scratched the surface of the entertaining features to be presented.

One very interesting feature of the Happy Kitchen Cooking School will be the "Question Box"... a box for your use, in asking the questions on the subject or phases of home management you most desire to know about. During the session each day, these questions will be answered. There will be a wealth of entertainment as well as instructions on how to make your home a more enjoyable place to live.

167-Mile Delivery Is Nothing To Cleaner

By United Press
BELLVILLE, Tex.—J. J. Pavelka is a cleaner with a conscience. Mrs. J. L. Dittert, wife of the county judge of Austin County, brought Pavelka a dress to be cleaned and asked that it be returned to her before she left on a trip to Port Arthur.

Pavelka got the dress back in time, but a few hours after Mrs. Dittert departed, he discovered that the belt hadn't been delivered along with the dress.

So Pavelka got in his delivery truck and drove to Port Arthur, a distance of 176 miles, to deliver the belt.

"I figured she might need it," he said.

SERIAL STORY

DRAFTED FOR LOVE

BY RUTH AYERS

COPYRIGHT, 1941, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY, April avoids meeting Kent, and Ann is happy in her plans for the wedding. She plans to go to the Burnett cabin, remain there. As she leaves, Winkie Appleman and the constable are waiting at the door for her.

KENT STEPS IN CHAPTER XIX

"THAT'S her," Winkie said. "Sorry," the constable cut in, "have to serve a warrant on you." With that, he pressed a folded document into April's hands.

April had presence of mind enough to shut the front door behind her. She had on her fur jacket in readiness for Hal's arrival but even in it, she began to shake with cold and fright.

"What's wrong?" she managed to stammer.

"I'm a-suing you for personal injuries," Winkie drew out the phrase pleasantly. "Yes," he went on, "guess you ain't forgotten the night you knocked me down when you was taking Mister Kent Carter to the Pattonville railroad station."

April leaned against the door. She'd never told anyone that she had taken Kent to the train that night. She'd never mentioned the run-in with Winkie. Now with this document in her hand, she felt as if her doom had been handed to her, signed, sealed and delivered.

If Ann knew, she would start being suspicious all over again about her, April, and Kent. When Dad found out, he would be shocked. It was going to hurt him in his professional standing—going to hurt everyone.

"You can't do this, Winkie Appleman," she whispered. "You know I settled with you."

"Settled!" Winkie snorted. "Think you can injure a man, maybe permanently, and settle it on the spot for a few dollars?"

The constable's eyes shifted around, came back to her. "That's not all," he said. "Got to charge you with failure to report an accident. Pretty strong laws about that in this state."

Winkie said, "I was hurt so bad that night, I didn't know what I was doing. I wanted to call an officer but you wouldn't let me."

April turned around, saw that the front door was shut securely. Inside, the living room lamps were lighted but out here on the porch there was only the dim bulb overhead. No one in the family had seen her yet but she didn't dare chance it further.

She motioned Winkie and the constable down the steps. At any minute Hal would be here and know how to help her.

She stopped in front of the constable's car, her spirits lifting in a quick spurt of defiance.

"You can't prove anything, Winkie Appleman," she said. "This is no better than a hold-up and you can't prove a thing!"

"Oh, can't I?" Winkie sneered and twisted the shapeless brim of his hat. "I guess maybe the check would speak for itself."

THE check! What had been a blur of pain and horror to her that night in the Pattonville railroad station, started to clarify. She had opened her purse and handed a few bills and some change at Winkie. He'd whined for more. She had remembered her check book and how with a numb, shaky hand had written a check.

"Make it $10," Winkie had said, "and I won't say nothing."

April saw it all. Winkie, unscrupulous no-account that he might be, was legally within his rights.

"Very well," she said finally, "what am I supposed to do?"

She heard the constable speak of posting bond, of appearing for a preliminary hearing. "What you waiting for?" the constable asked. "Why don't you come along with me now and get booked at the station without any fuss?"

An upstairs window in the Burnett house opened. Through it into the crystal air, came a strain of song from Ann. At this minute, Ann was dressing for her date with Kent. Ann's wedding day would be soon.

"Yes, I'll go with you just as soon as a friend of mine arrives," she said. "I'll go without any fuss. There's only one thing I ask. Does anyone have to know of this? Does my father? You see," and she spoke very humbly, "we're going to have a wedding in our house and the fuss, the notoriety would spoil everything."

Again, through the window, she heard Ann's lovely voice, lifting in silver notes of happiness. April closed her eyes briefly.

Winkie was speaking from the corner of his mouth. "Trying to keep it on the sly a little longer." April shuddered and then opened her eyes quickly. A clear, masculine voice was saying—"Keep what on the sly?"

Only one voice was like that. Not Dad, not Hal—Kent Carter!

"I asked—keep what on the sly?" Kent was repeating and in some way had come to stand by April, one hand steadying her.

THE constable was ruffled. "Served a warrant on Miss Ethel Burnett here," he said. "Failing to report an accident—damage suit."

Kent took the papers from April's hand. "We'll see about it," he said. "I happened to have been a witness to this so-called accident."

Winkie was whining. "You're the fella that punched me in the face. Yep, knocked an old man down when he'd already been run over. I know you Kent Carter. Miss Ann's fella."

April felt Kent's fist double under her hand. "Please," she whispered and her face was close to his.

This was the first time she had seen him since he had returned, his sight restored. This was the first time she had been near him. She felt a headiness, a surge of joy sweeping her. For one absurd minute it seemed as if the hateful warrant, the shameful encounter with Winkie Appleman had been predestined for only one purpose—to bring her back to Kent.

Then she remembered Ann. Ann was in the Burnett house, safe, unsuspecting.

April pushed Kent aside. "Wait a minute," she began breathlessly. "I've got something to tell you all. I'll take the blame for this. It was my fault. I can see it through alone."

For the first time, she faced Kent squarely. She saw the benevolent face, the eyes, clear now without the shadow of the dark glasses. "You, Kent," and she managed to make her voice hard and brittle, "you stay out of it."

She hadn't heard the door open or any sound on the steps. But something made her turn. Ann was standing there, pale, fragile as a moonbeam. She looked first at April and then at Kent. "Whatever is the matter?" she asked.

ALLEY OOP

TOLERANCE and RELIGION

BY REV. S. E. BYRNES Pastor St. Rita's Church Pastor St. Francis Church

If everybody who belongs to a church is convinced of his faith as a priceless gift, he cannot but be sorry for those who do not profess his religion.

Why should Catholics be harshly critical of the Jews because they do not accept the divinity of Christ, or because they ignore Jesus as the promised Messiah? Most Jews who lived at the time of our Savior, and even listened with their own ears to His wonderful words and saw with their own eyes His marvelous, miraculous deeds, remained unconvinced. We may accuse them, as our Lord did, of their obstinacy of mind and hardness of heart; but that is no reason why we should act ugly toward their descendants today for not believing as we do.

Why should Catholics continually be at loggerheads with Protestants simply because four hundred years ago a Catholic priest, Martin Luther, gave up his allegiance to Rome, left his priesthood, married a nun and started to change the original Christian religion? Catholics know this was a sad mistake, but intelligent Catholics will find no reason why they should, after four centuries, blame the Protestants of today for it.

If we smart Americans, who are so keen, sensible and practical in material matters, would only use our God-given brains in religious questions, if we would only not be so childishly swayed by blind prejudice, what a great, happy country this would be.

It is now a little more than a decade of years ago since some well-meaning Protestants, influenced by a few scheming, conscienceless racketeers, got the idea that Catholics could not be true citizens of this country because they owe a prior allegiance to a foreign power, the Pope, and that therefore they, among others, should be driven off these shores. These deluded followers of a vicious leadership went to work, and their false, misguided zeal had this nation steamed up to a fever heat, pitting religion against religion, and community against community, and family against family, spending valuable time, and millions of dollars in their "holy" cause. If they had taken one hour of their misspent time and a dime for carfare or used their car to go and ask an explanation from any priest, they would have discovered the simple truth that Catholics owe only a spiritual allegiance to the Pope, which has nothing to do with their political or civil allegiance to their country, except to strengthen it and make it more dependable.

If we shall only be considerate and find out things, reasons for ourselves soberly and without prejudice, we shall so easily come to the conclusion that, although we may not agree in religious matters, we can nevertheless respect each other's honest beliefs and convictions. If we are genuinely convinced of our religion and live our faith according to God's wish, we shall much more quickly win people to our way of thinking than by arguing and acting as if others were willfully wrong and arrayed against the truth.

After all, in the realm of religion there is so much that we must accept with simple faith; truths which, though sublimely reasonable, transcend reason; mystical meanings which have to be explained and explained; mysteries before which philosophy must bow. Seekers are little enlighten-

Approximately 75 were present for the beginners class in folk dancing at the Corral Friday night, with a crowd of 500 present to watch the dancers.

NYA boys and girls had been especially invited for the occasion.

The beginners were taught the "Rochester Schottische" and "Ten Pretty Girls." At the conclusion of the class the public joined in an old fashioned square dance during the latter part of the evening.

Dancers from Eastland were special guests for the evening.

Ministers To Meet On Monday A. M.

The Ranger Ministerial Alliance will meet Monday morning at 10:30 at the First Methodist Church, it was announced Saturday by Rev. H. B. Johnson, president of the alliance.

All ministers in Ranger have been urged to attend the meeting.
