FASCIST NAVY DEFEATED BY BRITISH FLEET

By WALLACE CARROLL

United Press Staff Correspondent LONDON, March 29.—British and Greek naval and air forces, striking suddenly at the Italian fleet in the Eastern Mediterranean, were reported by the Admiralty today to have damaged severely one 35,000-ton Fascist battleship and two cruisers in what appeared to be the biggest sea engagement of the war.

The operations continued today as the Royal Air Force and the British Navy pursued the scattered Italian warships, the Admiralty said.

There were strong indications that the two cruisers described in the communique as damaged actually had been sunk and that damage inflicted on the Italians was greater than announced by the Admiralty.

"I don't think there's much left of one of their destroyers," First Lord of the Admiralty A. V. Alexander said in a speech at Brighton soon after the Admiralty announcement. He said the Littorio class battleship was severely damaged.

The British Navy, with which Greek naval forces were cooperating, put down the Italian warships—battleships, cruisers and destroyers—on Friday, the Admiralty report said, and engaged some of them before they could scatter.

One battleship of the Littorio class was damaged and two cruisers were battered still harder before the British fleet and air force settled down to the chase in earnest, it was added. The Royal Air Force already has struck at the fleeing ships again, according to the official statement, but the results of the attack are not yet known.

The Littorio battleships are the biggest in the Italian Navy. One of them had been reported torpedoed and disabled in the British aerial torpedo attack on the Tarento base last November. There are four of them in all—the Littorio, the Vittorio Veneto, the Impero and the Roma—each carrying 1,600 men and nine 15-inch guns in addition to 12 six-inch guns, and 12 3 1/2-inch guns.

The Admiralty said that the engagement was "of some importance," indicating that it was the first time the British warships in the Mediterranean had been able to come to grips with the Italian battle fleet since the war started.

It appeared that the Italians may have sought to change their tactics of keeping the fleet close to home bases and had gone out to sea in an effort to bolster the Axis position in the Mediterranean area and the Balkans.

The British fleet, which had been reported moving ships to the Atlantic for protection of supply lines in the submarine war, appeared to have maintained strong forces nevertheless in the Eastern Mediterranean. The action against the Italians was directed by Admiral Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham, commander of the British forces in the Mediterranean, which indicated that it was a fleet operation.

This fleet under Browne-Cunningham was strengthened recently by the addition of a new air-craft carrier, the Formidable, which had been escorting British convoys. (The Italian High Command today reported that Italian planes had bombed a British air-craft carrier and two cruisers, possibly sinking one cruiser.)

American and British correspondents recently had emphasized that the Mediterranean fleet had been "trailing its coat" within sight of the Italian Coast, apparently in an effort to provoke the Italian warships into battle.

The fact that the present engagement started in the Eastern Mediterranean, however, indicated that the Italians had ventured out, presumably in an effort to interfere with British or Greek convoys.

Truck Registration Will Be Delayed
AUSTIN, March 29.—Col. Homer Garrison Jr., director of public safety, announced today that enforcement of motor truck registration for 1941 will be postponed until April 15.

April 1 remains the deadline for driving a private automobile without 1941 plates. The date for truck registration was postponed in compliance with a legislative resolution that was passed because proposed new license fees have not been agreed upon by House and Senate.

Ex-Texas Rangers To Form a Unit For Home Defense

By United Press

AUSTIN, Texas, March 29.—An organization of 1,000 former Texas Rangers, other former of military and ex-service men, as a voluntary defense unit is under way, it was announced here today.

Heading the organization as its colonel will be Frank Hamer, the noted Texas Ranger who hunted down Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker. W. D. Cope, former adjutant general of Texas, will be adjutant for the Volunteers. Tom Martin of Austin, former San Antonio police chief, will be in the group, Martin said.

Martin, also an ex-service man, said the plan is to organize 1,000 men—experienced "with a pistol and an inclination." Their service will be tendered to the President for use wherever needed. The organization will consist of four battalions.

Asked for comment on the new organization, Hamer said only that it was "a good idea."

Meanwhile, Senate Secretary Bob Barker said today he had received a request for a copy of the Texas bill against strike violence. Similar requests have been received from Oklahoma and California, Barker said.

The election for the City of Eastland Tuesday, April 1, and that for the Eastland Independent School district for Saturday, April 5th, will be largely a matter of form since there are to be no contests in either.

The time for the filing of candidates names was up Saturday morning and none had filed. Therefore, K. B. Tanner, E. H. Jones and F. T. Crowell, agreed to become candidates for reelection.

JUGOSLAVIA IS CEMENTING A NEW SUPPORT

By LEON KAY

United Press Staff Correspondent BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Mar. 29.—Yugoslavia's new government was reported making progress in cementing Croat support for a united nation today as German families started leaving Yugoslavia for Germany.

The government was reported to have given Vladimir Matchek, Croat leader, guarantees backed by royal authority that under the new regime all previous arrangements to satisfy Croat aspirations would be maintained.

(Authorized quarters in Berlin, warning that Germany would not tolerate "insults" and would hold the new Yugoslav government responsible for any failure to live up to terms of the three power pact, indicated that Germany was watching carefully for any split between the Croats and Serbs in Yugoslavia.)

It was believed that Matchek now would accept the new situation, but would not personally retain a cabinet post. Ivan Subacic, governor of Croatia, was expected to represent Matchek in the cabinet.

Linan Gavrilovic, Agrarian party leader, was expected for the present to continue as minister to Moscow, while at the same time holding his position as minister without portfolio.

Political circles reported that Ilija Sumenkovic, Yugoslav minister to Ankara, would be recalled on the grounds that his conduct in Turkey has not been in harmony with the wishes of the Yugoslav people.

While the government here dealt with the internal political situation Germans were leaving the country in increasing numbers.

NAZIS "WON'T TOLERATE" A TERRORISTIC POLICY BY JUGOSLAVIAN GOVERNMENT

By HARRISON SALISBURY

United Press Staff Correspondent

The German attitude toward Yugoslavia was expressed sternly at Berlin, where an authorized Nazi spokesman warned that Germany would not tolerate "terroristic" developments that threatened to destroy the new Axis Yugoslav pact and where the press began reporting that riotous elements in Belgrade had insulted and endangered German diplomats. The Rome radio also joined in the press campaign reporting disorders and insults against the Germans, following tactics that have been used in the past as an excuse for military action to "restore order."

Both Berlin and Rome indicated that the Yugoslavs had been given three days to decide their position—expiring presumably on Sunday or Monday. Belgrade dispatches said German families were leaving and Budapest heard that the Germans had halted Danube river traffic through Jugoslavia.

"The Reich government does not intend to permit its policies to be decided by terroristic street mobs in Belgrade," an authorized Nazi source said. "If forces in Yugoslavia think they must oppose friendship with the Axis and reject the pact with the Axis they must bear the responsibility."

The Balkan war picture generally was believed to be coming rapidly into focus as a result of the Yugoslav military coup d'etat, with every indication that the climax might be reached within a few days. Istanbul heard that Germany had concentrated 150,000 troops in the southwest corner of Bulgaria in a position to strike at Greece or Yugoslavia.

There was a hint from London, too, that a climax might be near. Prime Minister Winston Churchill had been scheduled to deliver a special broadcast Sunday night, but it was announced that the speech had been postponed for several days, indicating that some big development in the war and possibly in the Balkan crisis might be expected.

In Belgrade there were minor demonstrations, attributed to communists opposing aid to "imperialistic" Britain, but dispatches failed to clarify the attitude of the new government toward the Axis pact, which guaranteed Yugoslav neutrality and providing for transport of German military supplies and wounded soldiers through Yugoslavia. It was stated that the cabinet was busy with domestic problems—chiefly efforts to win cooperation of the Croats—and that it would not be hurried into decisions on foreign policy. A radio Rome broadcast heard in London reported that the Belgrade foreign office had informed the German minister that Yugoslavia considered itself bound to the Axis pact but it was pointed out that all indications at Belgrade pointed toward strict neutrality that would actually nullify the original purpose of the pact.

Another hint of stiffening British attitude toward the Axis allies came from London where Lieut. Commander R. H. Fletcher, parliamentary private secretary to the First Lord of the Admiralty, started agitation for ousting the Japanese diplomatic staff from England. Fletcher criticized in a speech the presence of the Japanese ambassador in Britain on grounds that he was able to report British secrets to Germany. He said that Britain had no reason to handle the matter with kid gloves while fighting an enemy with "bare fists and knuckle dusters."

There was only secondary action on the war fronts. The German High Command reported the sinking of five enemy merchant ships and a hit on a troop transport 350 miles northwest of Scotland, in a series of raids by the Nazi air force. Two of the five ships were reported sunk at the entrance to St. George's Channel between Ireland and England.

HUMBLE HAS RAISED PRICE OF CRUDE OIL

By United Press

HOUSTON, Texas—A price increase averaging about seven cents a barrel for most Texas and New Mexico crude oil was posted today by Humble oil and refining company, and other purchasers were expected to meet the advance shortly.

The new price schedule offered increase ranging from two to 11 cents. Finar Bluff near Corpus Christi and Tomball in Harris county were the only two fields not affected among areas in which Humble is a purchaser.

Changes listed by the company include Refugio and Miranda crudes, up seven cents per barrel; Corpus Gulf Coast, two to 10 cents; East and West Central Texas, five cents; West Texas, including the Panhandle, and New Mexico, seven cents.

Several new prices were posted upon a flat basis, including East Texas and Van, five cents; Salt Flats, eight cents; Peets, seven cents; Tago, seven cents; Conroe, six cents, and Alice and other Jim Wells county crudes, two cents.

The price increases were regarded as indicating a strengthening of Texas oil in the national picture, showing a regaining of markets lost when Illinois production was at its height.

Federal estimates forecast an increase of two per cent in demand in April over March because of domestic industrial activity. The Texas forecast was placed at 1,355,300 barrels daily, a gain of 27,100 barrels over the March demand.

Small Loan Bill Is Constitutional Gerald Mann Says

By United Press

AUSTIN, Texas, March 29.—Attorney General Gerald C. Mann today held constitutional a bill by Rep. Emmett Morse of Houston to regulate the small loan business.

Another bill on the subject by Rep. W. W. Roark of Temple was ruled unconstitutional because it would permit payment to the lender of money for expenses, regardless of whether the expenses actually are incurred or would constitute interest charges.

Both bills deal only with loans of $500 or less.

"House bill 6 (by Morse) is designed to authorize payment of expenses incurred for services rendered only if the expenses are actually incurred and the services actually rendered," Mann's opinion said.

"Doubtless there are charges which a borrower could pay a lender, incident to a loan, which would not constitute interest for use of the money."

Two years ago, Mann held unconstitutional—because it failed to restrict service charges—a bill designed to prohibit interest rates of more than 10 per cent on loans.

Storms Send Yacht of President Into A Port for Shelter

By United Press

ABOARD DESTROYER BENSON, March 29.—The threat of storm winds off Florida drove President Roosevelt's Yacht Potomac into Fort Everglades harbor early today.

The Potomac tied up after a seven-day fishing cruise of about 400 miles north of the Bahamas. Today's weather forecasts for this area were unpromising and Mr. Roosevelt ordered the Potomac into harbor to assure the comfort of the "fair weather" sailors in his party. He also wanted to make certain that he would be in port tonight for his nationwide radio address to Jackson Day dinners.

He disclosed no plans prior to the broadcast and there was no assurance that the Potomac would stay in port throughout the day.

LABOR STRIFE SUBSIDES IN MOST SECTORS

Labor strife subsided somewhat today in national defense industries as federal conciliators and the government's new super-mediation board went into operation.

These were the principal developments:

1. Federal conciliator Arthur Reilly announced settlement was near in the strike of CIO steel workers at the huge Cambria works of Bethlehem Steel Corp., at Johnstown, Pa.

2. United Automobile Workers (CIO) members at the Allis Chalmers Manufacturing Co., plant at Milwaukee held a mass meeting to consider a request from national defense directors and navy secretary Frank Knox that they return to work on $45,000,000 worth of government orders.

3. Farm equipment workers' organizing committee (CIO) leaders at Chicago informed William H. Davis, vice chairman of the super-mediation board, they would attend a conference at Washington Monday on resuming work at four strike-bound International Harvester Co. plants in the mid-west. Company officials earlier had informed Davis the plants would be reopened Monday.

The super-mediation board requested resumption of operations at the Vanadium Corporation of America steel plant at Bridgeville, Pa., and the Condenser Corp. plant at Plainfield, N. J.

Thus the major disputes were held in abeyance pending further consideration. Violence which resulted in some of the disputes and was threatened in others was ended while settlement formulas were applied.

Twenty-five disputes still were in progress, involving an estimated 45,000 employees and more than $100,000,000 worth of orders for armaments and materials. There was a growing demand in Congress for drastic legislation to curtail strikes.

Employees at the Bethlehem Steel Corp. shipyard at Hoboken, N. J., authorized the industrial union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America (CIO) to call a strike if necessary.

CIO President Philip Murray, a member of the super-mediation board replied to charges by Rep. Martin Dies, Dem., Texas, that Murray was unwilling or unable to expel alleged communist party members from CIO leadership. Murray said 26 of the 27 members would be Dies CIO Steel Workers Union Officials were not members of the union and that the 27th was not a communist. He charged Dies' activities were subversive, intended to create hatred for organized labor.

Traffic Jam on the Mercy Highway

The American people has always had a big heart. It has always been alert to spring to the relief of distress. That is true today as in the past, and millions in money and goods have poured across the seas to a dozen lands where misery rules. But traffic is beginning to jam on that broad highway of mercy. Some 300 relief organizations are today registered with the State Department to furnish money, clothing, or other supplies to peoples abroad. They are beginning to get in each other's way, competing for funds among generous Americans already somewhat bedeviled by demands, competing for space in ships already overcrowded.

Secretary Hull, than whom there is no greater humanitarian in the country, has had to ask for traffic regulation on the mercy highway. In response to his request, the President has appointed a committee to look over the situation and see what can be done in the way of "priorities" in relief work.

So far as we have seen, there has been no move to prohibit solicitation by any reputable supporter of any cause. After all, it's a free country, and people have a right to give away their money to anyone they choose. But they have a right, also, to be able to find out what are the prospects of their aid effectively reaching the people for whom it is intended.

Secretary Hull was careful to point out that "all of these efforts are inspired by the finest human instincts," but after all, more is needed these days than a mere kindly impulse. The Red Cross, for example, is the key American agency for relief work abroad, and Hull properly suggests that the work of all others be considered in its relation to that of the Red Cross. There is the matter of seeing that they do not conflict with local welfare services, and that they do not attempt to furnish material not asked or needed, material that is already being supplied, or that cannot be shipped after it is collected.

There is also the unpleasant fact that during the World War many solicitations were organized that turned out to be plain fakes.

Not, then, in any sense of "censoring" causes which make claims on American generosity, but in a sense of coordinating efforts so that the most good can be accomplished with the least lost motion, the proposed survey may well supplement heart with head.

"What Else Can a Small Nation Do?"

Mayor Makes a Statement Upon City Activities

Hall Walker, mayor of Ranger, who is a candidate for re-election, has issued the following statement concerning the activities of the city government and the accomplishments of the City Commission:

I am asking for the office for the third time which I did not anticipate, however as the old saying goes, we still have some unfinished business that we have never been able to complete.

I have always believed that a person serving public office should not seek office too long, due to the fact in three or four years he has had a chance to do things which he has in mind which should be done for the best interest of the City and after several years in office, the job becomes just a bit monotonous and the interest dies down to a certain extent.

I have always said that I wanted to quit when I felt like I could not give the time to the office "but it deserves and if I felt like I had used all of my energy, I then believe it is time to turn it over to new blood and permit them to put forth their best efforts which, generally speaking, keeps the town going and passes the office around to various citizens who are interested and each put forth their best efforts for a few years. I really believe that more is accomplished through this route.

I believe we should get some new houses built in Ranger. I started out with this in mind to try to get the vacant lots title cleared up whereby they would be available for new construction. Our new street program, which has been approved by the W. P. A. will make available paving, curb and gutter and sidewalks at a most reasonable figure to the property owner, and before the year is over our Old Cemetery will be improved so the citizens of Ranger will be proud of it, rather than have it undesirable looking like it has been in the past.

I believe we should extend the water lines out the Caddo highway and the Strawn highway and put in more sewers for the citizens of Ranger. I know there are a lot of eye-sores in the town that should be removed. There are many old houses that should be torn down and be rebuilt or completely demolished and sold for salvage. Our business section of the town looks 100%, however our residence section needs a lot of improvements. We should not forget about the valuable territory southeast of Ranger, the De-Emma Section. A road should be built into this area. It would be most valuable to Ranger. I believe we should improve our parks. I believe we should continue to support W. P. A. projects that give employment to our citizens even though they are expensive for the town to support. I believe them to be worth the money and the City should maintain them if financially possible. I believe we should continue to support our N. Y. A. program, which is now practically self-sustaining. Our N. Y. A. school is giving wonderful opportunities to boys and girls in this county and surrounding counties. In addition to this, the N. Y. A. is spending more than $60,000.00 per year here in salaries plus whatever material they might purchase.

Since I have been on the City Commission, I am well pleased with the support which the town has given the Commission. Without this support we could not have accomplished very much and if we have accomplished anything it is due to the fact we have received the support of the citizens of Ranger.

Recently, we refinanced our City bonds and the bond holders were very generous, reducing our interest rate where we could receive approximately one-half of the taxes collected and give them one-half. In the past, we have had to give them $1.75 out of the $2.50 collected. We now have the values of the City reduced whereby it is possible for the property owners to get a small revenue from their investment after taxes and insurance have been paid, therefore we believe this will encourage people to build houses which we intend to stress in the very near future.

The City Commission received compliments from bond holders and the Federal Court and the

Poultry Shipped Is Equal To 62 Cars

AUSTIN, Texas—It took 62 freight cars to haul Texas-grown chickens and turkeys to market in other states last month, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reported today. This movement compared with only 45 cars in February, 1940. The February, 1941, shipments were made up of 2 cars of live chickens, 1 of live turkeys, 55 cars of dressed chickens, 6 of dressed turkeys. Egg shipments more than doubled—from 41 to 105 carloads.

SERIAL STORY

DOLLARS TO DOUGHNUTS

BY EDITH ELLINGTON

COPYRIGHT, 1941, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY, Bee discovers the girl who has fainted in a hat...

ANTHONY'S BIG IDEA

CHAPTER XVIII

I DIDN'T know she bought her boy-friend polo ponies...

Anthony's eyes avoided hers. His lips tightened, and he answered hurriedly...

But Beatrice wasn't satisfied. Where could you possibly have heard it?

"None of course," she lifted her coffee cup...

"Eighty-three. We still have an hour," he leaned across the table...

"Well, you remember those things you said about helping customers choose the proper clothes?

"You're just trying to ring me in on this idea of yours. You're trying to give me some credit for it, beforehand, if it's good."

"No, I'm not. I'm trying to get some help from you. Because we'll both have to work on this."

"THE departments upstairs—the College Shops and Young Sophisticate and the Little Shop and even the Salon have a stylist, don't they? That sort of service comes much too high for a basement department. But suppose, Bee—here's the big idea, so listen—suppose in Budget Fashions we had ready-assembled costumes?

"I don't mean simply displaying a hat, some gloves and a hand-bag together, near a dress, the way things are displayed in show windows. I mean that we could have a regular accessory section. Each item would be keyed to a dress, or to several dresses, in stock."

"Instead of a salesgirl advising the customer, as you tried to do, all sales would be co-ordinated. In other words, automatically, as a matter of policy, a salesgirl would show hat, bag, extra belts, collars—whatever it happened to be—every time she showed a dress. There could be some line about, 'Of course you're not obliged to buy these, but it does give you an idea of how much you can do with this one dress.'"

"I think it would make sales easier to close, and certainly the customer who isn't good on seeing the possibilities of a dress would find shopping easier."

He was talking rapidly and enthusiastically, his whole face animated.

"From the merchandising angle, we'd turn over double or triple the accessory goods we do now. Of course, we'd have to see that items from different manufacturers were all keyed in color and style to harmonize or complement each other. We'd have to co-ordinate our buying in some way to have every item fit in with every other as far as style, quality and finish go."

"And the prices, too. You can't sell a $5 hat to match a $4 dress. But all that's pure mechanics. The idea of ensembled sales, ensembled showing, ensembled fitting and an ensembled technique throughout Budget Fashions is the thing. Bee, I'm sure, if they'd let us experiment in a small way, we could prove the idea's valuable!"

"Anthony, it sounds wonderful!" She remembered all the fretful customers whom she hadn't been able to convince simply by telling them about the collars and belts that would live up to a basically good dress.

"It's so practical, too, because it's simple. You show a woman a dress. You get the hat, the belt, the collar and show her that. That's demonstration. She can see the effect for herself. Why, it's marvelous! I'm sure sales will simply soar."

"And you know what else, Anthony? All those 'busy' little numbers, with cheap clips, too many buttons, extra ruffles that give me the creeps, will go right-

try, by his gentleness and tolerance of persons. He convinced people of sin.

There is something good, something true, in every person, no matter how bad he is or how erroneous he may be in his views, opinions or convictions. If our minds and hearts are attuned to God's will, we should ever strive by kindness to develop the little good or the little true that is in a man. This can never be done by assuming an intolerant attitude or forcing the issue; people naturally resent this method. They may be coerced, but their inner selves will never be converted. An unreasoning zealot or bigot will never force erring people to what is either wholly good or fully true.

John Foster says: "The bigot sees religion, not as a sphere, but a line; and it is the line in which he is moving. He is like an African buffalo, that sees straight forward but nothing on the right or the left. He would not perceive a legion of angels or devils at the distance of ten yards, on the one side or other."

Even political intolerance has never been decried by our great tolerance of persons. He convinced people of sin. There is something good, something true, in every person, no matter how bad he is or how erroneous he may be in his views, opinions or convictions. out the window. When a girl sees that a dress like that can't be varied—when she's got it right up against another dress that's perfectly assembled with accessories—she'll drop it like a hot cake. We won't have to educate the customers. They'll educate themselves, just by using their eyes."

"You've got it in for Dane," he laughed. "Those dressed up dresses are the pride of her life. She thinks she's giving the customers extra value with every extra paste clip."

Beatrice had no time for Dane now. "Who do you speak of about this magnificent idea? Oh, Anthony, I can just see it! The special ads—'Good Taste Guaranteed at Huntington's. No matter how little you spend, you can look a million in Huntington's co-ordinated clothes.'"

"You should be writing ads," said Anthony. "There's more money in that."

"WHOM do you speak of about this? The merchandise manager, or is this a matter for Bruce Sheldrake himself?"

"Sheldrake? He doesn't interest himself in stuff like this! Sheldrake manages the big money, after the sales are made. He appears at luncheons, too, of course."

The idea had taken hold of her. "You must assemble some samples, first, Anthony. Telling about a thing is never as convincing as showing it, concretely." She glared at him. "And don't tell me the merchandise is rayon, not cement! For instance, tomorrow morning you should get hold of a navy blue crepe with a high neck. I noticed today, it's $3.89. Almost any accessories at all from the main floor would go with that. A chunky gold necklace, maybe a navy blue calf bag—I've seen one with a little gilt clasp that's only a dollar—"

"Gosh, Bee, you really sound as if you like the idea. Will you help me? It's right up your alley. You have such perfect taste. I might make a mess of what I picked and the whole thing would flop. You know, I'm no fashion expert."

"It's the idea of selling more things, more quickly, with more service to the customer that I dreamed up. But actual details of what particular dresses—I'll spread his hands, helplessly."

Beatrice said dryly, "You have all the equipment for a first class executive, Anthony. Let the other fellow do the work. But—" Her eyes shone. "I'd love to. Now you run along to school, and I'll make a tour of show windows on Fifth avenue. The late President Coolidge stated concerning this subject: "But among some of the varying racial, religious and social groups of our people there have been manifestations of an intolerance of opinion, a narrowness of outlook, a fixity of judgment against which we may be warned. To a great extent this country owes its beginning to the determination of our hardy ancestors to maintain complete freedom in religion."

If we want to win an argument or convince people of our views, we must first of all, endeavor in all sincerity to look at the question from the other man's viewpoint, not pounce on him with a deciding, damaging, irritating statement: "You are all wrong." We will never open anybody's mind by that procedure.

We shall draw more people to our faith and persuade them of the truth of our religion by kindness and consideration and our daily example of delicately inspired fine acts than by presenting undeniable theological arguments. If our lives do not attract and inspire people, dogmatic proof will have little effect on them.

Phantom Rider of San Miguel Is Expected To Be Back By Old Timers

By RICKNELL EUBANKS United Press Staff Correspondent SAN MIGUEL, New Mexico.—You don't hear much about the Phantom Rider of Mesas Prietas these days, but ask any old-time resident of this Mexican settlement and he'll tell you she will be back soon.

Among the Spanish-speaking inhabitants of this centuries-old village, where legends have been handed down for many generations by word-of-mouth, the story is going the rounds that the Phantom may soon make another appearance atop the 50-foot scarps of black lava.

It is always just before war, pestilence, or some other great calamity that the Phantom, in the form of a woman richly dressed in

THE PAY OFF

By HARRY GRAYSON NEA Service Sports Editor

CALIFORNIA'S thoroughbred breeding industry has made rapid strides since pari-mutuels were legalized there. It is now the fastest growing in the world.

Stallions of immense importance have joined the galaxy of producers now assembled in the far west.

Beau Pere, peer of Australian stallions, recently arrived to serve as chief stud for Louis B. Mayer at Deep Cliffs.

Seabiscuit, leading money winner of all time and a paladin among horses, and Kayak II, the Argentine in temporary semi-retirement, hold court at Willets.

The advent of Australian and Argentine blood is something Kentucky cannot duplicate at the moment.

Scores of beautifully bred foreign mares, most of them English war refugees, have been imported.

KNOWN producers—a few from Kentucky and Virginia—have been quietly switched to California.

Alfred the Great, son of Teddy and a fine French stake horse, was brought to the coast by Raoul Walsh, who also has Grand Manitou, scion of a powerful French family, at his rancho in Mendocino county.

Frozeport, from the Aga Khan's world famous ballwicket, is located at Walter Wells' Rancho Oro Primero, near San Fernando.

Frozeport won in England... had phenomenal speed. Mrs. Vanderbilt Phelps has Cynic, a powerfully bred Britisher, at Carmel. Cynic, by Captain Cuttle, bagged the Epsom Derby, Sierra Nevada, a Gainsborough British stake horse, is on duty at the Neil McCarthy place, near Los Angeles.

TOP ROW dwells at Newhall. Dress Parade, son of Man of War, is at Walter Hoffman's Rancho Casitas. Hollywood Kingpin as a juvenile, is at Cupertino for D. J. Davis, who owns the late Phar Lap. Gay World, a muddy track Texan, serves for H. C. Hill, who bred Sweepida in his back yard in Stockton. Roman Soldier, by Cohort, is a solid stake horse standing in California.

Such blood as that of Phalaris, Son in Law, Gainsborough, Teddy, Massines, Congreve and Rustom Pasha ought surely to accomplish wonders.

California assignments may soon again be shipped in trainloads as the Golden State threatens to regain from Kentucky the position it once held as the principal center of thoroughbred breeding.

SUNDAY dinner should always be based on at least one particularly special dish. Chicken is a customary Sunday treat. Baked ham is popular. For the very low budget, the macaroni and peanut butter casserole given here provides nutrition, novelty, flavor and protein at minimum cost.

Broilers and fryers are spring items. If your budget permits them, treat the family.

SCALLOPED MACARONI AND PEANUT BUTTER

(Serves 4 to 6) One cup elbow macaroni, 1 small onion, 1 stalk celery, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 cup milk, 3 tablespoons peanut butter, 1/4 cup dry bread crumbs, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper.

Cook macaroni in boiling salted water. When tender drain and put in a buttered baking dish. Chop onion and celery and saute slightly in butter. Add milk, peanut butter and seasonings, heat and pour over macaroni. Sprinkle with bread crumbs and bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for 30 minutes.

BAKED HAM WITH PEANUT BUTTER

(Serves 4 to 6) Soak ham several hours, drain and simmer in fresh water about

FRIED CHICKEN, MARYLAND

Cut a frying chicken in pieces for serving. Dip each piece in beaten egg which has been mixed with 2 tablespoons of cold water. Roll in flour, corn meal or fine bread crumbs seasoned with salt and pepper. Brown the chicken in hot fat in a heavy frying pan. Use enough fat to cover the bottom of the pan. Cover the pan and cook slowly until the chicken is tender. Make cream gravy in the pan when the chicken has been removed.

TOLERANCE and RELIGION

BY REV. S. E. BYRNES Pastor St. Rita's Church Pastor St. Francis Church

In the 1930s, many a free-born American citizen felt uneasy at night when he saw in the distance over the hillside a red glare against the dark sky, heard eerie shouts in the stillness of the night and watched hooded men flash by in automobiles. It was not the pathetically childish Kluksman themselves, but the open affront to American principles, that filled the Christian American heart with foreboding.

A truly American citizen should not be, and cannot be, guilty of intolerance. Martin J. Scott says: "Intolerance is a bad-sounding word. We dislike intolerant people. We resent intolerant measures. Intolerance and ignorance go hand in hand. The more enlightened a man, the less intolerant he is apt to be. For the more we know of men and things, the more we realize that there are two or more sides to most matters. Intolerance, as understood ordinarily, is narrowness or stubbornness. It does harm, for it stirs up in the average fair man a spirit of revolt and resentment. For the sort of intolerance that sees narrowly and takes but its own view, we can have nothing but contempt and condemnation.

A man must be both stupid and uncharitable who believes there is no virtue or truth but on his own side.

In November a few years ago a Catholic periodical published an article entitled, "Tolerance in a Triangle." The writer maintained that religious tolerance is a weakly thing, that one cannot tolerate error and assure its victim that error is as valuable as truth.

The author overlooked the fact that one can tolerate without having to condone error. No one gave us greater proof of this than Our Lord Himself, who was accused of associating with and parading with sinners—which was a proved fact. But nowhere in the Gospels do we find in reference to the possible implication, that the Master condoned sin. On the contrary, by His gentleness and tolerance of persons, He convinced people of sin.

There is something good, something true, in every person, no matter how bad he is or how erroneous he may be in his views, opinions or convictions. If our minds and hearts are attuned to God's will, we should ever strive by kindness to develop the little good or the little true that is in a man.
