BALKAN AND BRITISH FORCES ARE IMPERILED BY 72-HOUR DRIVE THROUGH JUGOSLAVIA

CHURCHILL LISTS BATTLE OF ATLANTIC AS MOST IMPORTANT NOW, WITH POSSIBLE INVASION AS A CLOSE SECOND

Germany's southeastern blitzkrieg today swept across Southern Yugoslavia and cut off the Greek arm of Macedonia at Salonika as Prime Minister Winston Churchill told the House of Commons the world was threatened by a Nazi explosion of epic proportions.

In a record-breaking 72-hour campaign the German swastika has been planted on the Aegean Sea at Salonika and Yugoslavia has been truncated, and a grave threat has been directed against the north-south defense line which British Expeditionary Forces corps hoped to hold against the Germans in Greece.

But the Balkan threat was but one of many alarms set off by Hitler.

Supplementary Cotton Program Is Given for '41

Under the 1941 Supplementary Cotton Program, recently announced by the Secretary of Agriculture, farm cotton order stamp payments will be made. These payments will be computed at the rate of 10 cents per pound of the 1941 normal yield established for the farm times the acreage of cotton voluntarily reduced. The acreage reduced will be the amount by which the 1941 planted acreage of cotton is below the smaller of the 1941 allotment or the 1940 measured cotton acreage. If a producer had no cotton planted in 1940 he is not eligible to receive the stamps, although a farm will have to be signed on the farm if there is a cotton allotment for 1941.

The cotton order stamp payment to be made to any cotton producer on the farm cannot exceed a value of $25.00 with respect to any farm $50.00 in the case of the operator of a farm operated by two or more tenants or sharecroppers. In no event, however, can a producer's cotton order stamp payments with respect to all farms, wherever located, exceed a total number of cotton order stamps representing a value of $50.00. If the acreage reduced is not sufficient to result in a computed farm payment of $50.00, no cotton order stamp payment will be made with respect to the farm. Producers eligible to receive cotton order stamp payments will be eligible to receive food and feed production payments. Both the cotton order stamp payments and the food and feed production payments are in addition to, and not in substitution for, any other payments under the programs.

Producers on your farm will not be eligible to participate in cotton order stamp payments and food and feed production payments unless a prescribed form, "Intention to Participate in the 1941 Supplementary Cotton Program" is signed by you as operator of the farm and filed in the county office as soon as possible. This form, indicating your intention to participate in the 1941 Supplementary Cotton Program, should be signed at the time commitment visit your community for the purpose of the 1941 Farm Plan Sheet sign-up.

Improper Use Of Gasoline Causes 30 Texas Deaths

AUSTIN, Tex.—The improper use of gasoline and kerosene has already resulted in 30 Texas deaths in 1941, Marvin Hall, state fire insurance commissioner warned today.

Starting or quickening fire with kerosene alone accounted for 15 of the deaths, while two housewives lost their lives in January and February cleaning clothes with gasoline.

Commissioner Hall pointed out that it is suicidal for any person to attempt to use gasoline in the home for such purposes as: starting or quickening a fire, cleaning clothes, woodwork and floors, or other purposes, since gasoline vaporizes at ordinary temperature and the inflammability of gasoline fumes and its explosive power is nineteen times greater than dynamite. The mere opening of a door between the room where gasoline is being used to clean gloves and a room in which there was a lighted hot water heater caused a destructive explosion.

A further warning was stressed by that the state fire insurance commissioner in the use of kerosene, improper use of which in quickening fires caused during the first two months of 1941 the deaths of six Texas children. Mr. Hall said that kerosene was not intended for use to start or quicken a fire and any person who attempts to use it for such purposes is endangering the lives of his family and neighbors. If there are some home owners who will not heed the warning against the danger of using kerosene to start or quicken a fire and just must do so, it is suggested that they place some small pieces of kindling in a metal container and pour a very small quantity of kerosene on the kindling and then take the kindling and place it in the stove or fire place and apply a lighted match to it, but never bring kerosene in contact with a lighted match, open flames or smoldering coals in the stove or fireplace.

25 Million Acres Planted In Crops In State In 1940

COLLEGE STATION—A total of 25,844,000 acres of crops were harvested in Texas in 1940. According to E. A. Miller, Extension agronomist, this exceeded the 1939 acreage by about three per cent, but was about nine per cent below the 1929-1938 ten-year average. Acre yields of all major crops last year, however, exceeded the ten-year average, and in most instances those of 1939.

Winters in the four-state matches were Mrs. H. T. Schooley, Mrs. Gene Yonker, Ranger; Mrs. Brunkenhoffer, Cisco; Mrs. Van Bibber, Ranger; Mrs. Woods, Breckenridge; Mrs. Webster, Breckenridge; Mrs. Bates, Breckenridge; Mrs. Robertson, Philpoco, and Mrs. Dorotha Williams, Ranger.

Cotton harvested in 1940 is estimated at 3,285,000 bales on 8,325,000 acres, with an average of 185 pounds an acre. The acre average in 1939 was 160 pounds on 8,520,000 acres and the ten-year average, 149 pounds. The ten-year harvest average, however, is 3,876,000 bales and the average acreage, 12,584,000. Production exceeded that of 1939 in every district excepting district eight, Miller says, notwithstanding that unfavorable weather shortened production in the northwestern area of the state toward the end of the season.

There were 581 organized cotton groups with 58,144 members and 1,697,737 acres, which received free federal Smith-Doxey cotton cleaning service, and represented 20 per cent of the total harvested acreage in the state.

The estimated 90,324,000 bushels of corn produced in 1940 is about 23 per cent more than was harvested in 1939, and 20 per cent more than the 1929-1938 average of 75,556,000 bushels. The average yield of 19.5 bushels an acre is substantially in excess of the ten-year average and is attributed to one of the best crops ever grown in the blackland area. Floods in some regions and drought in others prevented the acre average yield from reaching a higher figure.

Wheat production, on a slightly larger acreage than in 1939, but well below the ten-year average, is estimated at 25,355,000 for the ten-year average. Oats, rice, sorghums, especially sweet sorghums for forage, and peanuts showed an increase over the pre-war years with field crops were leading year.

During the year, 12,673 demonstrations with field crops were conducted by adults on 363,895 acres, and 4,961 by club boys on 13,293 acres. Miller says that the grand total of increased value of Extension work in agronomy in 1940, excepting pastures, was $8,104,946.15. These figures include premiums on cotton in one-variety communities and the value of 879,176 acres of legumes plowed under for soil improvement.

El Paso Prison Is Leading Others In Food Production

LA TUNA, Texas—La Tuna's government-operated farm, 18 miles north of El Paso, a unit of the federal correctional institution, led all other federal prisons in the production of food during 1940, prison reports reveal.

Warden T. B. White, directing officer of the institution, credited the sunny southwest climate and the "well-trained employees" of the farm.

La Tuna produced almost all of the rooty and leafy vegetables "the government thinks are necessary for the proper diet of inmates and was the only federal farm to produce a great variety, the reports showed.

The average per capita production of vegetables per day, exclusive of potatoes, was 1.06 pounds.

Chief products raised include alfalfa for the farm's dairy, corn for its hogs, carrots, beets, beans, spinach, and turnips.

The farm employs prison labor only and uses modern farm equipment and tools.

Warden White points out to visitors that at one time the now fertile productive farm was desert wasteland of mesquite, cactus and greasewood.

Man Drives Car a Mile Down Canal

EL PASO, Tex.—Ricardo Cordova, 42-year-old El Pasoan, drove his automobile down a canal.

It all happened when he was driving to work before daylight. The lights of approaching cars blinded him, and he lost control of his machine.

It swerved across a highway, crashed through a guard rail and steel fence and slid into an irrigation canal bordering the highway.

The car rolled over but landed right-side up and immediately was swept downstream in the canal, with Cordova still at the wheel.

He said he was afraid to get out for fear of being drowned. The car was stopped when it snagged on a bridge spanning the canal.

It took wreckers a full day to get the car out of the canal, one mile from the spot where it entered.

Army Officers Get Less Mail Than Is Sent To Privates

BROWNWOOD, Texas—If you don't like to get letters, just be an army officer.

Main Sergeant Bland T. Harper of the 142nd Infantry said that a survey shows officers get far less personal mail than the lowest private in the regiment. The enlisted men pull an average of better than a letter a day, while only a few officers get three or more letters a week.

But with bills and business letters, it's a different story.

There, Sergeant Harper said, officers are "far out in front, and pulling away."

For non-commissioned officers the situation is about the same as for their superiors, Sergeant Harper says he hasn't gotten a letter himself in three weeks.

National Borders and Prison Walls

There are certain things which we in free America can never understand about the totalitarian countries of Europe. One of them is their tendency to make of their national borders a prison wall.

We in the United States find it hard to imagine a condition in which we would not allow anyone to leave the country who wanted to go. Our difficulty is in getting rid of those who keep insisting that it is a terrible country, but who have to be pried out of it with a shoe-horn if it is suggested that they go anywhere else. For those who are dissatisfied, and who think they can better themselves somewhere else, the American way is to say, "O.K! On your way, and good riddance!"

It is not so in Europe today. Russia was the first to draw a tight line around her borders. Why on earth border patrols should have been stationed with leveled rifles to take pot-shots at all who tried so desperately to get away from their own homeland, we do not know, but it happened. All the totalitarian countries set up similar rules. We were accustomed to find situations in which it was hard to get INTO a country, but to find it hard to get OUT of one—that is a product of the last 20 years.

Picture the scene recently enacted at Marseilles. A French ship is ready to sail for Martinique. Aboard are 348 Spaniards, refugees from the savage civil war that recently shook Spain. They are on their way to Mexico and a new life, with valid exit visas and tickets for which they have paid the last cent they could scrape together.

Suddenly police swarm aboard. There has been a new order by the Vichy minister of interior—no Spaniards of military age to be allowed to leave France. In tears, many of them, the refugees file back down the gang-plank—the mirage of freedom has been snatched away.

Why? Are such men likely ever to be loyal to Vichy? You might think that Hitler would be glad to be rid of man would do such a thing except under compulsion. But them—and such an act is clearly Hitler's act; no Frenchmen, they must stay where they are not wanted, and where they do not want to be.

Why? Why? Why? A free mind accustomed to reason might well topple in trying to grasp the answer. We in America can not understand it, and pray God we never shall.

The outcome of the income depends on the outgo for the upkeep.

Cheer up! Your neighbor will bring back your snow shovel one of these days—and borrow your lawn mower.

FLIES CAUSE MANY DEATHS EACH YEAR THROUGHOUT STATE

AUSTIN, Texas—Thousands of children and adults die every year from diseases carried by the fly. Typhoid fever, tuberculosis, summer complaint, cholera, intestinal diseases, and frequently death follow closely in the trail of the common house fly.

"Control of the fly menace comes at the top of the list of necessary public health measures which should be applied by every city and individual in the State," urges Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"Most effective measure for control is to prevent breeding," he said. "Flies breed in filth and about eight days are required to complete a life cycle. During her lifetime of several months one housefly lays from 600 to 1,000 eggs. Thus it can easily be seen that in a season, which usually begins in the spring of the year, the descendants from one fly number countless thousands.

"To eliminate flies, breeding places must be destroyed. Manure piles, garbage, and other organic filth furnish the requirements of warmth, moisture, and food necessary for the propagation of the fly. The flies should be kept from contact with food or drink or utensils in which food and drink are prepared and served. Likewise, they should be kept from access to privy vaults where they pick up the infections which they later spread to humans by contact with food and drink and by unwashed hands and utensils. See that your windows, doors, and porches are screened so that the stray fly from some careless neighbor will not molest your family. Also, see that your grocer keeps his meat, vegetables, and fruits free from flies.

"Organized health measures to destroy the breeding places, con-

Farm Leader Says Chain Store Taxes Are "Intolerable"

AUSTIN—Chain store taxes constitute an interference with the free flow of commerce, and such taxes are "intolerable," according to a wire received here today from Chester H. Gray, director of the National Highway Users' Conference and former legislative representative of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

The telegram, received and made public by Bailey B. Ragsdale, president of the Texas Dirt Farmers' Congress, was considered in Austin as being of special significance at this time because of the pending proposals in the Texas legislature to repeal the punitive chain store tax in this state.

"Regarding your inquiry about my opinion as to whether or not unreasonable restrictions and punitive taxes on chain stores are in fact trade barriers, let me quote from address delivered by me before the 68th annual meeting of the Kansas State Board of Agriculture in Topeka on January 12, 1939:

"Legislation both national and state has been proposed in recent years with some enactments seeking to interfere with business generally and with transportation across state lines particularly by imposing intolerable restrictions and taxes upon chain stores. No one in addressing himself to highway transportation problems needs to become an advocate of chain stores. Their development in the merchandising structure of the nation, their patronage of large millions of our population, and the efficiency of their management speak well enough for them without special advocacy being offered.

"The point of considering chain store legislation in connection with the subject matter having to do with trade barriers is that such legislation constitutes one more interference with the free flow of commerce across state lines."

DOLLARS TO DOUGHNUTS

BY EDITH ELLINGTON

YESTERDAY, Bee realized that work has changed her appearance, that Toby and Vera really do not recognize her. But she knows that the happiness she has found in Budget Fashion's most end today, she plans to help each of her friends. A man comes to supervisor remodeling the department. Anthony tells her that the merchandise manager has stolen their Big Idea, is using it as his own.

BEE DEMANDS A SHOWDOWN

CHAPTER XXVII

"WHAT do you mean, Anthony? I don't understand."

"I didn't understand at first, either!" he said bitterly. "But it's very simple. He laughed me out of his office. You and I worked and dreamed and got the samples together and—after he kicked me out, he stole my idea!"

"But he can't get away with that!"

"Can't he?" Anthony asked hollowly. "You see the men measuring for carpet, don't you? I'm still section manager. Nothing else."

"Miss Dane's been telling me what a wonderful merchandising idea it is, and how he explained it all to her at a special meeting last night. New accessories counters have been ordered. Plans are laid out—but nobody said a word to me. I suppose I ought to be thankful he hasn't fired me!"

The savage anger she had experienced once before in this department came back to Beatrice.

"Are you going to stand there and let him do it? If you are, Anthony, I'm not! I worked on those ensembles, too! That's half my idea! That dirty, double-crossing—"

She hadn't known she knew such words, and Anthony hadn't known either, for he stared at her. The shock in his brown face stopped her.

"I'm sorry, I—I have a bad temper. But, Anthony, you can't let him get away with this!" She stamped her foot. "Do something! Go right up to his office now and let him get the credit for something you worked hard to create!"

The elevator operator turned around and stared. Beatrice said no attention.

ON the sixth floor, Anthony drew Beatrice into the corner near the fire exit. His face was very sober. He put his hands on her shoulders, looked squarely into her eyes.

"I don't want you to do this just for me, Bee," he said. "I'm all for it, and I'm mad clear through, and I can get another job anyway. But—it'll make trouble for you. Are you sure you want to?"

"Of course, I'm sure!" She patted his lean cheek. "Don't worry about me. I can take care of myself. You'd better start worrying about that merchandise manager. I'm going to kill him!"

"Bee, listen." His arms tightened. "I'll go in by myself. That way, he can't blame you."

"I wouldn't miss it for the world!" But she was touched at Anthony's concern for her.

He said, "All right, if that's the way you want it." His smile flashed. "I might as well tell you the truth. I was intending to come up here and wipe the floor up with him, just for luck, even if I couldn't prove anything. But I didn't want you mixed up in it in any way."

There was a stenographer outside the merchandise manager's office. "I don't know if Mr. Fletcher can see you now," she said doubtfully. "What is it about?"

Beatrice walked right past her and opened the door. In the imposing office, a small paunchy man sat at a large desk. He looked up in surprise. When he saw Anthony, his face hardened.

"WHAT do you want?" he rapped.

"I want an explanation of that co-ordinated clothes idea that was so rotten when I walked in here with it," Anthony answered grimly. "I want to know how it got so good, after I left, that you're going to try it out. I want to know why you didn't play square with me. And I want to know if you think I'm going to let you get away with that!"

"Why, you—"

"Save your breath!" advised Beatrice coldly. "I happened to work out some of the details of that plan with Mr. Bradley. Those samples he brought up were things I'd selected. We have the sales slips for everything but the dresses."

Mr. Fletcher got up. He walked out from behind the big desk. His eyes were steely. "An employe of this store walked in here with an idea," he said. "He worked on it. The store likes the idea and is using it. What of it?" His voice was a bark. "What do you expect now? Flowers?"

"But you took the credit for it!" Beatrice cried. "You didn't even see that he got a raise—that his good work was acknowledged—you can't stand there and tell me this is the way such things are usually handled."

"Get out of my office!" Mr. Fletcher turned back to his desk. "Maybe you'd like to see the general superintendent about this terrible injustice," he flung over his shoulder.

"That is exactly what we'll do," Beatrice reached for the telephone. "What's more, we'll see him right here in this office."

Oil Industry Has Completed Million Wells In Nation

TULSA, Okla.—Unheralded and unsung, the last stand of drill pipe came out of a hole in the ground somewhere in the United States toward the end of 1940 to mark another milestone in the 80-year history of the American petroleum industry. The 1,000,000th U. S. well drilled in the search for oil had been completed.

Whereabouts of this event or whether it was a good producing oil well, a gas well, or a dry hole, no one knows. It might have been a commonplace completion of another well in the development of a spectacular wildcat well that found a brand new oil field more than two miles below the earth's surface. Or it might have been just another "duster," a $25,000 or $150,000 failure, a hole in the ground that found nothing but dust.

By the end of 1940 American oil men had drilled 1,008,420 holes in the ground looking for

Mrs. West Elected President of Oil Belt Golf Group

Mrs. Glenn West of Ranger was elected president of the Ladies Oil Belt Golf Association at the meeting held in Ranger Tuesday. A luncheon was held at noon and golf matches were played throughout the day.

Mrs. Charles Sander of Cisco was elected vice president; Mrs. Reggie Henderson of Cisco was elected secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. L. E. Cates of Philpott was elected reporter.

It was decided that an invitation tournament would be held on Aug. 6, 7, and 8 at Cisco. An invitation was extended to the Brownwood Country Club to join the association.

Oil. Three-fourths of these, 757,101, penetrated oil sands, and more than half of the successful oil wells, or about 390,000, still are producing. Gas alone, but no oil, was found by 52,844 wells. And 221,359 were dry holes, representing an investment which probably exceeded $5,500,000,000.

This unavoidable loss always has been a part of the petroleum industry. Even though the continuing introduction of new scientific methods of oil exploration tremendously has increased the ability of petroleum geologists to find oil, only the drill accurately can foretell its presence or absence. Inevitably, dry holes have accompanied successful wells. But the dry holes, discouraging as they are to the oil man who drills them, are not a complete economic loss to the industry. Every well that is drilled, good producer or dry hole, adds to the knowledge of geological formations, and helps the petroleum explorer to fill in more details in his underground map of the United States.
