WAR RESTRICTS FAST SPOTTING OF HURRICANE

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.—War conditions, which have silenced the radios of American ships at sea, may seriously impair the efficiency of the federal hurricane warning service this summer. The service hitherto has depended largely upon radio reports from ships in plotting and predicting the paths of tropical disturbances. This year the service is forced to rely almost entirely upon reports from 30 land stations scattered throughout the Caribbean area.

Blue Stamp Food List Is Issued For Next Month

The list of foods available during July for purchase with blue stamps by families taking part in the Food Stamp Plan in Eastland County was announced today by Homer Brelsford, Jr., Area Supervisor. These foods are obtainable in local stores throughout the month of July.

Fresh peaches and fresh vegetables (including potatoes, all fresh vegetables, except those processed, frozen, canned, dried, or pickled, but does not include melons) have been added to the list of food which will be available nationally during July, while fresh grapefruit and fresh apples obtainable during June in all areas are not included in the July list.

With these revisions the complete list of "Blue Stamp Foods" for the period July 1 through July 31 in all Stamp Plan areas is as follows: Fresh oranges, fresh peaches, fresh vegetables (including potatoes, all fresh vegetables, except those processed, frozen, canned, dried, or pickled, but does not include melons) pork lard, all pork (except that cooked or packed in metal or glass containers), corn meal, shell eggs, dried prunes, hominy (corn) grits, dry edible beans, wheat flour and whole wheat (graham) flour, and raisins.

Long Session May Result In A New Regulatory Law

AUSTIN, Tex.—The long, long session of the 47th Texas Legislature doubtless will be used as an argument for placing legislators on year-around salary, like members of Congress. Several feelers in that direction have been put out by legislators in the past but there is little chance of popular adoption of the plan until the state has somewhat forgotten what happened when regular session-time was increased from 60 days to 120 days on the plea all the work would be done in 120 days and prevent special sessions.

A review of the votes on numerous proposals to recess or adjourn the 47th Legislature shows that many of the members voted both ways and can answer critics of the long stay in Austin by pointing out that on such and such a day "I voted to go home." But if the voters look up all the votes they probably will discover the same member voting on other occasions to stay in session.

O'Daniel Gains In Rural Precincts

Additional returns from Eastland County boxes, which accounts for all but two boxes—Tudor and Dothan—in Saturday's special senatorial election show the following results:
Dies—13.
Johnson—28.
Mann—50.
O'Daniel—124.

BOND SET FOR MEN ACCUSED OF A RACKET

Bond in the amount of $1,000 each was set by Justice of the Peace J. N. McFatter in Ranger against three men charged with being conspirators in a coin machine racket, and the three have been turned over to county authorities. It was announced by Chief of Police Lee Ames of Ranger.

According to Chief Ames the three were discovered in a car on a side street in Ranger, and were arrested on suspicion by Patrolmen Johnny Boyd and Oscar Parish. One of the trio, Chief Ames stated, made a statement to the arresting officers, in which he said that the three had planned to take coin machines from the Porky Pig stand on Highway 80.

The men gave their names as LeRoy Lovely, Emmett Gowdy and Anthony Waggoner, all of Fort Worth. Chief Ames stated that their regular procedure was to rent a car for 24 hours from a drive-yourself rental agency in Fort Worth, bend the license plates back so the numbers could not be read, drive to some nearby town and await an opportunity, when there were few customers and few employes in a cafe, enter and order something, snatch the machines and flee in the car.

Similar tactics have been employed in Strawn, Ranger, Weatherford and other towns in this part of the state, Chief Ames said his reports showed.

Boat Owners Are Rushing To Join A Reserve Unit

NEW ORLEANS, La.—The rush of owners and experienced operators of small boats to enlist in Class M-2 of the Merchant Marine Naval Reserve already has resulted in the acceptance, at Eighth Naval District Headquarters here, of 115 qualified men, and recruiting officials are examining an additional 250 applications to add others to the growing list.

"The response of our Gulf coast seamen to this branch of the service is most gratifying," Captain T. A. Thomson, Jr., Acting Commandant of the District, said. As the word spreads throughout the coastal areas that the Navy needs the distinct contribution that can be made by these men, scores of applications arrive daily at the District Headquarters.

Eastland Man's Mother Dies In Grayson County

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Siebert were called to Sadler, Texas, Saturday by the death of Mr. Siebert's mother, Mrs. Emma Angeline Siebert, 82 year old widow of the late J. A. Siebert. The Sieberts were pioneer residents of Sadler.

Funeral services were held Sunday at 4:00 p. m. at the Sadler Baptist Church. Burial was in the Christian Chapel Cemetery east of Sadler.

Construction Activities In State In Past Five Months Reach Total Of $125,000,000 A Survey Shows

DALLAS, Tex.—Construction activities throughout the state of Texas accumulated a five-month total of more than $125,000,000 and left the corresponding 1940 record far behind. Each of the three major classifications advanced and there are no signs of a let-up in the highly accelerated pace.

F. F. Kuey, the Texas manager of Dodge Reports, the daily construction news service, completed his monthly summary of the contracts awarded for materials and labor, yesterday, and pointed out that the May record nearly doubled the figures for that month of last year.

Residential and non-residential building combined with engineering construction to establish a Texas contract total of $127,736,000 during the January-through-May period. A year ago the comparable valuation was $74,141,000. Most recently, May had a total of $26,681,000, completely overshadowing the 1940 valuation of $14,318,000.

Non-residential building had the largest classification total, $49,555,000, in the five-month period. That was substantially more than double last year's $23,654,000. Most of the activity was in the commercial and manufacturing groups. The contracts awarded during May went to $11,275,000 from last year's corresponding $4,879,000.

Residential building in Texas was valued at $42,415,000 in the January-May period. Mr. Kuey continued. Here again, a heavy increase was noted. The corresponding total in 1940 was $28,201,000. The greatest increase was in one-family houses built for sale or rent. Contracts awarded in May for residential building materials and labor were valued at $8,850,000. A year ago the month had $5,559,000.

The federal, state and local governments and the utilities awarded construction contracts for heavy engineering work

ALUMINUM TO BE GATHERED FOR DEFENSE

AUSTIN, June 30.—Machinery was set in motion here today for the participation of The State of Texas in the nation-wide collection of scrap aluminum for national defense purposes.

In response to a telegraphic request from Mayor F. H. LaGuardia, United States Director of Civilian Defense, Governor W. Lee O'Daniel, chairman of the National Defense Committee for Texas, formulated plans for an organization in each of the 254 counties of Texas to sponsor this movement.

Each county judge of Texas will be asked to act as the leader of the undertaking in his particular area. The county judges will, in turn, invite the cooperation of the mayors of incorporated towns and cities and will organize the movement in the unincorporated towns and rural areas.

The campaign will begin on July 21, Mayor LaGuardia said, and will last for several days. "I am anxious that you take charge of the campaign in your state since it is only through the cooperation of the states and the various political subdivisions that the campaign will be completely successful," the Mayor wired Governor O'Daniel.

Mayor LaGuardia advised that detailed suggestions would be forwarded by mail, upon receipt of which the Governor could send a complete outline of the plan to the local leaders. Governor O'Daniel announced that these suggestions would be forwarded to the county judges as soon as received from Washington.

"You may be assured of a wholehearted response from this State," Governor O'Daniel wired the Mayor.

Habits Scored As Being Too Wasteful

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—That limp-looking necktie in the middle of July is not only "senseless," says John H. Sherman, economics expert at Notre Dame University, but an "economic waste."

Outmoded customs and habits hurt America both socially and economically, this educator argues. Take the American habit of buying, he said, "If you want your full money's worth consult the home economics bulletins of your state universities and the United States labor and agricultural pamphlets," he advised.

The custom of observing holidays in the middle of the week is another social and economic wrong, according to Sherman, who advocates attaching all holidays to the close of the week-end.

"Not only does industry lose approximately half a billion dollars yearly in the one-day shutdowns, but millions of people lose socially in the work interruptions," Sheehan said.

He blamed human inertia, ignorance and a general lack of courage for the future of Americans to throw off the outmoded customs.

PANZER DIVISIONS IN RUSSIAN TERRITORY A NAZI STATEMENTS SAYS

Desert Deliverer

Capt. Kenneth A. Quirk of South African Air Force stands beside plane in which he made daring rescue of a brother officer down in enemy Libyan desert. Quick landed, burned damaged aircraft and escaped with other officer in face of heavy axis fire. He got Distinguished Service Order.

Germany today reported that Hitler's panzer divisions had broken through the main defense lines of the Soviet Union to capture the strategic communications center of Minsk, and tighten the ring of steel around the Russian armies on the Central front, but Moscow said the Red Army was still fighting stubbornly.

The series of German statements on the fighting said: "The Nazis have entered Russia proper and have occupied Minsk, after unprecedented battle of tanks, dive bombers, artillery and infantry and have 'assumed' a new 'encirclement area' developing the area of Minsk and Smolensk, 180 miles east of Minsk and only 250 miles from Moscow. The Russians said merely that stubborn fighting was in progress.

German forces operating on the south wing have taken the fortress of Lwow and have broken up Russian forces in the Rawruska area in their offensive toward the Ukraine. Moscow said that fighting continued in the Lwow area and military advisers there indicated that the German drive was lagging.

German troops were reported to be pursuing the Russians on the fast moving front in the Baltic States. The Russian communication made no statement regarding the Baltic front.

Reference to the far northern sector, on the Finnish-Russian border, was omitted by the German communique, but the Russian communique said that every enemy attempt to advance on the Karelian Isthmus toward Leningrad or from Finland toward Murmansk had been hurled back with big losses. The Russians said also that the German force attempting to attack Vjppuri from the sea had been wiped out.

The Moscow press continued to remain optimistic. German gains, if confirmed, appeared of almost importance on the Central front, in the Minsk area. There, for the first time, Nazi panzer divisions slashed into Russia proper, which is supposedly defended by the "Stalin Line." Red army defenses on this Stalin Line are reportedly modern depth positions for a war of movement.

JOHNSON IS HOLDING TO SMALL LEAD

Congressman Lyndon B. Johnson clung to a 4,117 lead over Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel in the race for United States Senator today, but election of administration-supported Johnson still remained somewhat uncertain.

The latest count, including ballots from all of the state's 254 counties, 124 complete, gave Johnson 167,699 votes, O'Daniel 163,582. Attorney General Gerald C. Mann 135,582, and Congressman Martin Dies 77,694.

The Texas Election Bureau count late today will probably make known for certain the outcome of Texas' hottest special election in years.

House Votes Today To Adjourn July 3

AUSTIN, June 30.—The Texas House of Representatives today voted to adjourn the Texas Legislature sine die, on July 3.

It is expected that the State Senate will concur in the house movement on Tuesday.

The vote today, if followed up by Senate approval, will put to an end the longest legislative session in the history of the state.

Election Protest Threatened Today

FORT WORTH, June 30.—Walter Shedd, local O'Daniel supporter, said today he may protest the vote in the special election for United States Senator, on the grounds that the ballot failed to distinguish clearly between the candidates, and penalized the old folks of Texas.

Petroleum Workers Are Safest When They Are At Work

CHICAGO—Oil company employees in 1940 sustained only a little more than half as many fatal injuries while on duty as they did when not working, a review of fatalities by the American Petroleum Institute's Department of Accident Prevention reveals.

The 1940 fatal-injury record of the petroleum industry was the lowest since data has been reported, H. N. Blakeslee, director of the department, reported, and was 49 per cent below the fatality rate in 1930.

Companies employing 327,112 workers reported 101 fatalities last year, or a rate of 30.9 per 100,000 workers. Off-duty fatalities of oil-company workers, reported for more than two-thirds of these employees, were almost twice as high as the industrial fatalities. The rate per 100,000 employees for those reporting both industrial and off-duty fatalities was 28.3 while on duty, compared with 48.3 while off duty.

Fires and explosions accounted for 36 per cent of the 1940 industrial deaths; motor-vehicle operation 17 per cent; asphyxiation 5 per cent; electrical contacts 4 per cent; and miscellaneous causes such as falls, falling objects, and drowning 35 per cent. The review shows abstracts from the complete reports of about 75 of the 1940 fatalities. Copies may be obtained from the Institute.

Eyes Straight Ahead

The people of the United States have their eyes fixed on one objective—the defeat of Nazi Germany, which has repeatedly proved that in victory it would be a desperate menace to everything we hold dear.

People will shout at us on either side now. On one hand will come the cry, "Turn your eyes to the left—give your energies to aiding the Soviet Union, that great citadel of democracy!"

To this America will answer, "Bosh!" and keep its eyes straight ahead.

On the other hand will arise the cry, "Turn your eyes to the right!—let up now on those things which help to defeat Hitler; after all he now fights the Great Red Menace!"

To this America will answer, "Bosh!" and keep its eyes straight ahead.

Straight ahead lies the first order of business. It is to supply to Britain the sinews of war, the aid, the support of every kind that will bring victory over the man and the system which plunged the world once more into the fiery furnace of war.

Nothing else matters right now. The President promises such aid to the fighting Russians as can be given without hindering pledges already made to Britain, not because he thinks any more of the Stalin dictatorship today than he thought three weeks ago, but simply because that helps the straight-ahead cause, the defeat of Hitler. Any such aid as is given will not be on a basis of helping Russia, but of helping to beat Hitler.

Communists in the United States are not one whit better than they were three weeks ago, not one whit more trustworthy, not one whit more devoted to democracy or to American institutions than they ever were. Their policies now, as always, will be determined by what they are told is best for the Stalinist regime in Russia.

Russia itself fights today, not to destroy Nazism because that system is repugnant to it. After all, Russia had no violent objection to Nazism three weeks ago, Russia fights simply to save its skin.

It happens that that fight is serviceable in what we want also—the downfall of Nazism. So that fight will be supported, for that reason, and to that extent.

It is along that line that the United States should continue to march forward, eyes straight ahead.

The fellow who loafs all the time misses all the fun of looking forward to vacation.

Relax! The only Friday the 13th of 1941 has passed and if you're reading this you got by.

Murder In Soho Is Eclipsing Blitz

LONDON—It took an old-fashioned murder to take the attention from the blitzkrieg in London's Soho.

When the news spread that Harry Distleman—"Scarface Hubby"—had been stabbed to death outside a night club in London's Bohemian quarter, all Soho, agog with excitement, flocked to the scene of the crime. People stood outside the premises in Wardour Street and watched police arrive in a van to search the place. Everyone knew that Harry was the victim of an internal war between gangs that has run through Soho despite the blitz. The first thing the police brought out was a broken billiard cue, carefully held in a cotton handkerchief. Then they emerged with a foot-rule. Distleman had been slain by a knife thrust in the back at 5 A. M. This is what happened: In the early hours, he was play-

NEW U. S. ARMY SEEN AS BALL TEAM THAT HASN'T YET PLAYED A GAME

Nationwide Maneuvers Will Coordinate Big Units

"Gruelling" is the countersign of current army maneuvers—and the foot-slogging doughboys who will have many a long march, many a night alarm. They're part of the 2d Army, pictured near Manchester, Tenn. In the new war games, motorized and mechanized forces will be massed on unprecedented scale. Ready for "The Battle of Tennessee" are the motorized artillery units pictured, right parked at Tullahoma.

BY THOMAS M. JOHNSON
NEA Service Military Writer

WASHINGTON.—The newly expanded U. S. Army is like a new baseball team that has had batting and fielding practice but has not played a game. They don't know how to work together in the pinches.

So they are being put through the stiffest course of training sprouts in our military history. That is the real meaning of the nationwide field maneuvers, now in their opening stages, which will continue through summer and autumn. By the time they get through with that little job of work, the 550,000 regulars, National Guardsmen, reserves and trainees are expected to be welded into the closest approach to a formidable, unified fighting force the country has ever had in peacetime.

Still an agglomeration of individualistic smaller units, they are now being assembled into larger ones. First, into Corps, which presently will be grouped within four Field Armies for the biggest war games this country or probably, any other, ever played.

For seven months, in ten states, mainly southern, there will be a series of fourteen exercises in which will contend not only the classic arms—in-antry, cavalry, artillery—but the newer ones—aircraft, tanks and parachute troops, along the lines developed by Germans and British.

THERE ARE STILL HORSES

For the first time, an American armored division's full 11,000 men will operate its full 2000 vehicles in the "Battle of Tennessee" beginning June 13. Also it will act as spearhead for the "Rolling Fourth," our sole completely motorized infantry division, as German Panzer divisions acted in France and the Balkans. Modernized cavalry divisions will carry horses in vans.

There will be no old-fashioned "sham battles" with cocktail parties betweenwhiles. One officer has even urged the use of some "live" cartridges to keep the boys from getting slipshod in "action." Our new soldiers may shed no blood, but they will shed sweat and mayhap, tears. "Gruelling" is the countersign; long marches, night alarms; they've got to take it, as the Nazis took it to become the world's toughest soldiers.

Beginning with smaller tactical exercises using regiments as the basic units, the operations will build up to a climax, involving all four of the areas into which the country is divided. The first was opened in California; then came the "Battle of Texas"; now comes Tennessee. The Division composing Corps fight one another; then Joint Corps, which in turn fight other Corps; finally, September, comes the big smash of the Service Army (of the Midwest) against the Third Army (of the South) in Louisiana; then in November the First Army, of the Northeast, meets the Fourth Corps in the Carolinas. This will include an armored Corps of two divisions, largest concentration ever held, of tanks and scout cars.

It will be "first time" that American troops have learned these tricks, now old stuff in Europe. Our maneuvers have been relatively modest affairs, "stove-pipe cannon wars." But this year, although the Army has three times as many soldiers as last, it has basic weapons like rifles and machine guns for them all. Also it has some anti-tank, anti-aircraft and other types of artillery that were virtually absent last summer.

But it has not enough for all needs. It will September before the Air Corps training program and shipments to Britain can spare many aircraft for the maneuvers, and heavy trucks will be short too. Yet the Army plans eventually to reorganize and air power. Only for a few weeks in autumn will there be full practice in cooperation between bombers and armored divisions or fighters protecting the bombers, while anti-aircraft and anti-tank guns attack both.

800,000 TO GO

So the maneuvers as a whole will be less than fully realistic and advanced. And only about a third of the force now mobilized will have benefited of them. While 550,000 men begin to be a teamwork Army, there will be 800,000 more still going through basic training, still Army of independent smaller units.

By autumn the maneuvers will reveal at the shape of a potential fighting force whose fantrymen know what a tank can do, whose tankers know what a plane can do, and so on, down the line.

To increase their knowledge, and to bring it of the whole Army of 1,418,000 men up to the task that still remains, a task that cannot be finished this autumn, nor this winter or, probably, much before next summer.

SERIAL STORY

ANOTHER MAN'S WIFE

BY DONNA ASHWORTH

CHAPTER II

PEOPLE fluttered and buzzed in Ruth Eustace's luxurious penthouse. There was a bedlam of laughter, high-pitched voices, corks popping, ice clinking, the blare of the radio.

Lita came into the living room, looking at the people milling about. Jerry moved toward her swiftly, catching her hand in his, half dragging her out to the shadows of the starlit terrace.

"Here, darling, kiss me quick. Tell me you aren't mad at me. You know I love you so. I'm sorry I was angry."

Jerry loved her, she guessed. He was always telling her so, and now his lips burned against hers. Or was it just part of the picture, the ardent husband, always making over her? And now, as it had been so often of late, his kisses left her cold.

They were always quarreling and making up. She drew away from him. Was she quite insane? She was Jerry's wife. She loved Jerry. But she didn't really, not any more. That was dead. She just went on because she didn't know what else to do, because there were no grounds for her to get a divorce, nothing tangible, except that she was tired of everything, tired of their whole scheme of living, tired of kisses like this, and the pretense of love.

"What's the matter?" Jerry's voice was sharp and angry again, and she realized that she had drawn stiffly away from him. "Still mad, aren't you? You don't like my kisses?"

"I do, Jerry, but—" She stammered for words. She didn't want him to kiss her. She didn't want anybody to, except— She caught her breath with a start—Ken Richards.

"I'm not up to it tonight, somehow. I'm tired, anyway. You don't really want to kiss me. It's just habit, to make people think that we're as-madly-in-love as we pretend. I'm not mad, just tired."

"Oh, here you are!" A voice echoed through the darkness. "You've got to dance with me, Jerry." Ruth was beside them. "You promised you'd show me that new step."

"Beginning now," Jerry turned to her quickly. "I like to dance with you, Ruth. You're one of the few who can do what I tell them to."

Ruth was crazy about Jerry. That was the reason that this arrogant, wealthy group had taken Lita and Jerry into their midst, the reason Ruth was so nice to Lita. She wanted Jerry and Jerry wouldn't go without his wife.

Lita wondered when Jerry would realize that it was he alone Ruth wanted, and that he could leave his wife behind any time and Ruth would be glad.

"Here she is, Ken. We promised we'd find her." Ruth was back at the door again. "Your Romeo is on your trail, Lita."

KEN RICHARDS was beside her. Jerry had gone with Ruth. It didn't matter. Ken stood so that she could feel his arm against hers, and her heart was pounding.

"Let's go over where we can look out," he said, as he guided her toward the balustrade where they could see the lighted city.

Illustrated by E. J. Schaeffer

Jerry seemed very far away. Ken's kisses against her lips were sweet. "You're crazy," she said. She wanted to escape, but there was no escape. Ken's arms drew her back.

Behind them there was laughter and music. Before them a million lights twinkled. Below them the city roared. But they were away from all of it, alone in the exhilarating October night, the two of them, as if for them the world did not exist.

"I'm mad about you." His strong arms gathered her close. "I don't want to be, but I am. You're everything I've been taught to say away from. You're everything I'm not. But I love you. I'm going to marry you."

She listened in stunned silence. She couldn't think. This was something out of a book, something unreal. He made her dizzy and drunk with a new feeling that she had never experienced before. His compliments had been like wine; she loved hearing them. Jerry seemed very far away. Ken's kisses against her lips were sweet.

"You're crazy." She tried to struggle away, fighting against his strength. Instinctively, she knew that this ought not to be. She wanted to escape but there was no escape. His arms drew her back.

"Darling, listen, it's love. Don't you understand? We were meant for each other." "No! No!" Her voice was saying meaningless words and she was raising closer to him, her lips raised to his, answering kisses with kisses.

"I'm crazy, mad, and so are you. I'm married to Jerry. I love him. He loves me. We are the ones who belong to each other. You don't mean anything. I'm not going to marry you. You're drunk and so am I. Too much champagne. I..." She laughed a little hysterically.

"I've always been able to carry mine before. But you hypnotize me. I don't know what I'm doing. I can't seem to think. But you don't count, really. You oughtn't to kiss me like this. If Jerry should find us, he'd kill you. He's frightfully jealous."

"You, darling, don't fight against love." His arms held her close, his eyes looked down into hers. "We belong to each other, and it doesn't matter about Jerry. He can have Ruth, a dozen other girls, but for us there can't be anybody else, and I'll take you away from all this. You don't belong here in this mad, wild life."

"Where do I belong?" she asked. Perhaps she would find the answer now, the answer to everything, the reason why life had become so dull, so tiresome, the reason why her dreams had seemed so far away, somehow out of reach, and she couldn't find them anymore.

"In a little southern town that I know about, in a little white house, with big shade trees and flowers about the foundation, with servants to wait on you, where life goes on quietly and easily and there aren't any night clubs. You live in the sunshine and chat with your neighbors. You won't be dancing to mad music until you're tired, smiling and gay just from the lips out. You'll be smiling, just because you want to, and the smiles will be for your friends, not for dozens of people who don't mean anything."

SHE listened to his voice. That was the dream she had dreamed so long, a little house of her own, quiet and peace, a garden in the cool of the evening, friends and neighbors and children, and dogs; a home in a little town where she wasn't Lita Damon wearing a mask, but herself. It was a picture of a life that Jerry couldn't think about because he had never wanted it in his life. He loved the lights, the rush of the city, everything that she wanted to escape. But these things that Ken Richards talked about were the things she had longed to possess since she was a child in an orphanage watching children playing in a house across the street.

"No, you're crazy. This is my life," she protested, wondering why she did, because she knew she didn't mean it. Jerry didn't count now, nor the things he had offered.

"I'm not crazy." He kissed her fiercely, hungrily. "And I'm going to marry you, husband or no husband."

Putter Around the Country Club

By A. Poor Putter

The showers that fell last week kept every thing nice and green out at the country club, and yet did not interfere with play as the weather over the week-end was perfect. One feature of the play is that the ladies are taking more interest in the game than ever. Both Saturday and Sunday the ladies were strongly represented.

Saturday we had 44 registered for play, and strange as it may seem there were very few from out of town. The visitors registered were J. W. McKINNEY, Guthrie, Okla., ALBERT BLANCHARD, Eastland, NINA WHITEFIELD, Eastland, who played with SAM GAMBLE, RED LINGLE, Brownwood and BOB SIKES, of Fort Worth. SIKES it will be remembered was twice winner of our Invitation tournament. He has just returned from Amarillo, where he played in the Texas P.G.A. and amateur open. BOB won his match to help the "Simon Pures" beat the pros. He captured the fast T.C.U. Golf team this past year and is right on his games. He was the guest Saturday of EARL CONNER, JR.

We are glad to see MRS. MICKKEY SLOAN back playing golf, after a siege of illness. She was registered Saturday.

Sunday the course looked like a tournament day—81 were on hand and again visitors were few. The local players were right on hand, taking advantage of the nice day. However, we did have some out of town players registered: GARLAND POE and DR. POE of Eastland; R. H. BAKER, Dallas, guest of EUGENE BAKER; D. C. HUMMOCK, Caddo, and the Gorman foursome, BILLY HAMRICK, EARL PITTMAN, WADE SMITH and SPECK CLARK. It would be a strange Sunday without these boys. ERNEST GLAZNER, Breckenridge was registered, ALBERT BLANCHARD, Eastland, and again RED LINGLE of Brownwood.

RED is a former member, who played some few years ago. We understand he has only taken up the game again recently. He played in the Brownwood tournament last week and won the third flight. His score Sunday was not available, but we understand his game is good.

And BOBBY SIKES was again with us Sunday. BOBBY is playing a good game, as testified by the score he shot. Playing with JIMMY PHILLIPS, city champion, ELMER NORRIS, JR., and H. H. VAUGHN, he turned in 36-33 for a pretty 69. Three under par. NORRIS had 78 and JIMMY PHILLIPS 73, only one over par. VAUGHN'S score was not turned in. We have been trying to get members to turn in their scores in order that we can publish them for the interest of all concerned. Today only a few have co-operated. It is hoped more will leave the cards in the office. Others whose score were available Sunday were ELMER NORRIS, SR., 88; HAPPY HARRISON, 91; RICE HERRINGTON, 85; RAY SNYDER 85.

Again we remind the ladies that the Ladies Oil Belt Golf association's "open" will be held at Cisco, August 6-7-8 and 9th, and urge them all to begin to sharpen up their game and plan to attend. Ranger should send a good quota of its membership of Ladies. And don't forget the meeting of the Country Club members Tuesday night at 8 p. m. at the club house. Important business to come up.

So says PRESIDENT LARSON. All members, both certificate and associate members are supposed to be present. Come on, boys, it's your club. Come and have your say.

Chesterfield Ads Hail U. S. Services

"Chesterfield Navy Week" and "Chesterfield Army Week" are announced for the weeks beginning July 7th and July 21st in twin advertisements of the new Chesterfield Cigarette campaign released nationally by Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company.

During these weeks the Army, and Navy can call for their favorite musical numbers on Fred Waring's "Chesterfield Pleasure Time" program, broadcast every evening from Monday through Friday over National Broadcasting Company stations. Each number played will be dedicated to an individual camp.

Chesterfield Cigarettes have for many years been among the sales leaders in both Services and take pride in this long association. Chesterfield's Glenn Miller "Moonlight Serenade" programs, broadcast over Columbia Broadcasting System on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings, also dedicate one number nightly to the boys in camp.

The new advertisements are unusual in their direct appeal to news-stand and radio news-journalists. Other advertisements of the new Chesterfield campaign spotlight many personalities, including "Miss American of 1940-41," Dorothy McGuire of the stage hit "Claudia," and Merle Oberon, and Robert Allen of the movies. The national defense program is also included in this comprehensive Chesterfield series, in an advertisement dedicated to "men of steel."

An instructor says the modern dances, such as the rumba and La Conga, are healthy. So is putting the shot.

Tom Connally Takes Care of All Corners As One of Senate's Most Colorful Figures

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—They call Tom Connally of Marlin, Tex., the last of the long-haired senators. All the others let the barbers cut around their ears and run the clippers up their necks, or are so balding they don't even make it interesting for a tonsorial artist who really loves his work.

Tom doesn't reveal his age in the Congressional Directory, but he was a soldier in the Spanish-American War and from other sources comes the word that he will soon be 65. And if you, gentle male reader of 50 or over, could grow hair like the senior senator from Texas, you'd make the barbers disconcerted. Get even a distant look at big Tom on the Capitol grounds under his broad-brimmed, black three-gallon hat and you know that there, by golly, goes a statesman, even if he wears a frock coat.

Maybe, like Samson, his strength is in that hair. At any rate, he has the strength of a lion's paw and his courage too, and when he starts pawing the ground, a stampede can start anytime and it's just as well to get for the top rails of the coral fence.

The Senate of the United States can be the dullest of deliberative assemblies when some of the demagogues start droning, but when the senator from Texas takes the floor it can be livelier than a barn dance. Likewise, a Senate committee can bore you to insensibility, but when the gentleman from Texas starts asking questions of a witness who doesn't want to be too specific or doesn't know exactly what he's talking about, you wake up quick.

Talkin' Texas, droppin' it all over the carpet and flattenin' his o' all over the table, he is again the prosecution's attorney from Falls county with a barbed-wire fall at the tip of his tongue. He can make a bureaucrat squirm through his testimony like a coyote in the sagbrush, its tail between its legs, headin' for the hills.

Old Tom—you call him "old" affectionately, for he is a lovable cuss with a magnificent sense of sarcasm—has been in unusually fine form this last week or so backing his amendment to the selective service law to permit the President to take over strike-bound plants, and ripping into the Aluminum Company of America as its officials came before the Truman committee investigating national defense lapsing at everything which savored of bunk or didn't make sense to his Texas mind.

"The senator from Ohio is a statesman," Connally cracked at Taft in debate. "He does not think this bill is any good but he is for it." A moment later, Taft tried to make the point that Connally's amendment would not prevent men from striking against the United States government, that a strike simply meant the men ceased to work.

"Oh, they can quit if they want to," agreed Connally, "and they can go plumb to Ohio."

When Senator Maloney offered an amendment, Connally accepted it but when Maloney came back with another, Connally ducked it with a gagline. "I have accepted one amendment from the senator from Connecticut," he said, "and the quota today is only one amendment per senator."

Connally is, as mentioned, fearless. And in threatening to take over the Aluminum Company of America, "if it did not behave," he was merely breathing more of the fire that has marked his 24 years in Washington. That long service, however, has never made him less a Texan than he ever was. He is king of the big Texas delegation in Congress, of course. Sam Rayburn may be speaker of the House, but Tom is the senator. Even if Governor "Biscuits" O'Daniel should be elected to the Senate, he will have a tough time getting "ad of Tom."

By United Press
AYLESBURY, Eng.—"We had a tough time, but we got through all right." That was the brief description offered by a British soldier after a 1,200 mile hike from a German prison camp in East Prussia to Athens and freedom, as contained in a message to his wife.

Sapper Evelyn Sidney White, of the Royal Engineers, and another British soldier walked through Poland, Hungary, Yugoslavia and Greece.

His wife, who lives at Abbey road, Aylesbury, had not heard from him for five months when she received a telegram from Athens saying: "Am O. K. Are you still well?"

A. R. White, his father, of Monarch road, Northampton, said that Sidney was always called the "whippet" because he was so small and wiry. He was always healthy and strong. He would never ride if he could ride, and "I can imagine him setting out on that journey in good heart. I wouldn't be surprised if the other soldier is one of his pals, an Aylesbury postman."

Sapper White, who is 31, was so fond of hiking that he became a postman.

To the society divorcee who told the judge she couldn't live on $1000 a week, "we'd like to say that few of us can."

If Europe is short of rubber, why not use some of those old treaties? They bounce.
