DRIVERS URGED TO SAVE FUEL BY EASY WAY

By Anthony G. De Lorenzo
United Press Staff Correspondent
DETROIT.—It's not too big a job for the nation's more than 27,000,000 owners of private passenger cars to save upwards of 140,000,000 gallons of gasoline monthly for defense, according to an estimate made here.

The estimate was made by L. G. Peed, De Soto vice president who believes it is possible for every driver to save at least five gallons each month by proper operation and upkeep of his automobile.

A saving of 140,000,000 gallons of gas per month would mean that more than 1,500,000,000 additional gallons could be diverted to military needs during a 12-month period, according to Peed.

Intelligent conservation of motor car fuel, he said, could go a long way toward dispelling the threat of "gasless Sundays." "To pointed out that when the speedometer needle begins to show more than 30 miles an hour the drain on the gasoline tank is greater.

"Both fast acceleration and rapid deceleration are enemies of the fuel and rubber conservation that is so vital today," Peed said. "The driver who races away when the light turns green, who jockeys for position in the traffic stream, and who jams on his brakes at the next stop signal is wasting substantial amounts of gasoline and oil."

Checking and adjustments of engine parts at various intervals and diagonal transfer of front and rear tires every 3,000 or 4,000 miles also were advocated to insure fuel and rubber economy.

Automobile manufacturers are assuring motorists that 1942 models will not be inferior despite the necessity of replacing certain strategic materials needed in the defense program.

"We will not build an 'ersatz' car made up of inferior materials," said R. H. McCarrall, chief metallurgist for the Ford Motor Co. "The car will cost us slightly more to build and will be slightly heavier, but the owner would never know the difference as far as the performance and operation of his car are concerned."

General Motors' Charles F. Kettering also has given assurance that the industry will not turn out an "inferior car."

Retail gasoline prices averaged 13.69 cents a gallon last month, compared with 13.11 cents on May 1 and 12.66 on June 1, 1940, according to reports tabulated by the American Petroleum Institute. Gasoline taxes also were higher.

Texas, Oklahoma Keep 'Em Flying For The U. S. Navy

A total of 554 men have been accepted for training as Naval Aviation Cadets from 900 applicants examined by the Naval Aviation Cadet Selection Board, 524 Allen Building, Dallas, Texas, since the establishment of the board on March 10th, 1941.

According to Commander A. Leveretts, Senior member of the board, this average of better than 50 per cent accepted is exceptionally high, and speaks well for the physical condition of the college boys of Texas and Oklahoma, the territory assigned to the Dallas Board.

The Navy Department recently adopted the plan whereby applicants are furnished transportation at government expense from their homes to Dallas and return, when they appear for final examination. All applicants must have had at least two years in an accredited college, be between the ages of 20 and 27, be unmarried, and pass a rigid physical examination. Candidates merely apply at the nearest U. S. Navy Recruiting Station. There are twenty-five of these located in Texas and Oklahoma.

Volume of Lending State Officials In Northwest Oppose Federal Gas Taxes

LITTLE ROCK, ARK.—New high records in the volume of lending done were established in the first six months of this year by the 119 insured savings loans association in Texas, the Federal Home Loan Bank of Little Rock announced today. The statistics include the figures of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Ranger by which the local area is served.

According to the compilation just completed, the Texas home financing institutions affiliated with the Bank made 7,391 loans totaling $14,458,671 to home owners scattered throughout the state, during the first half year period. This exceeded the 1940 figures by more than $1,000,000 and was a greater amount loaned than in any other six months' period in the history of the Bank. Loans since January 1st for the construction of new homes totaled $5,243,338, while $4,379,869 was loaned to 2,166 borrowers to assist them in the purchase of dwellings already built. Other loans for repairs and improvements aggregated $887,776.

Officials of the Bank expressed gratification at the wide spread service being rendered by the insured associations in Texas. They pointed out that the 7,391 loans made since January 1st were for an average amount of $19,000 and were payable in small monthly installments, over a long period of time. Through the associations, they said it is now possible for persons of modest means to become home owners, for the institutions are specializing in loans on small dwellings, and the loan payments can be arranged in amounts about equal to rent at a low rate of interest.

Collections are excellent, according to the report, and increasing amounts are being received from savers and investors who are attracted by the insurance of $5,000 for each account in the association provided by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, an instrumentality of the Federal government. As a result, ample funds are available for additional home loans, and new construction and home financing is expected to continue at an active pace.

SOME GOVERNORS HAVE IRED LEGISLATORS, BUT STEVENSON MAY NOT

By HARRY BENGE CHOZIER
AUSTIN.—It was a long time ago as youth counts its calendar when Pat N. Neff, as retiring governor of Texas, marked a passage in the Bible, and brought into existence a tradition. That would have been in 1925 when Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, under dramatic circumstances, became governor of Texas. That was the year the owls were so bad, said the Ku Klux Klan, which with some adroitness had essayed to take over the government of Texas.

It seems so short a while ago to those of us who were recording events for the information of Texans. As newspapermen we had measured Pat Neff and found him all human, all man, and fully a yard wide. Few of us were fond of him. He had an aloofness; and the O'Daniel kind of complete exclusiveness, Pat Neff was just hard sometimes to decode.

Neff had his troubles of understanding and adjustment with the legislature, too. There was an occasion when he summoned the Legislature in extraordinary session and they decided unceremoniously to delay without delay almost immediately. But there never was hatred between Governor Pat Neff and the men who were legislators while he was governor for two terms—and since then there has been a warming affection for the man Neff. Neff never baited a legislator nor employed a weapon not shared by his adversary to attack individual legislators.

The O'Daniel political career is so fresh on the calendar of events notwithstanding three main campaigns before the people, that it cannot be estimated nor evaluated. He had a surpassing quality of selfishness, nearly all close up witnesses will testify. They agree, too, that the quality of graciousness, when graciousness was essential, was strangely absent from his make-up. He was a fine looking person who so far as the people supposed to be around a governor were concerned, newspapermen, legislators, even his own employees, and citizens, common or otherwise, who had legitimate business with the executive office, resided in a cloistered ivory tower and denied himself to all and sundry. Not the man himself, but his voice emerged from that ivory tower on Sunday morning to be human and downright folksy. That

Eastland Scout Is On Extended Motor Trip West

Jerry Railey, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Railey, 601 South Hal-bryan, left Monday evening for Brownwood, where he joined a group of Boy Scout officials going to the Philtrum Rocky Mountain Scout camp near Cimarron, N. M., which is the largest Boy Scout camp in the world. They will spend six days at this camp. Leaving the camp at Cimarron, the party will visit Taos, Santa Fe and Chama, New Mexico then to Mesa Verde National Park in Colorado. From here they will go to Gallup, New Mexico, for the annual Indian ceremonies. Leaving Colorado the party will go thru the National Petrified Forest in Arizona to El Paso and Juarez, Old Mexico, then home by way of Carlsbad, N. M.

One In 50 Fails To Pass Drivers License Exams

CHICAGO.—You're one in a million if you take a driver's license examination this year!

Each year drivers' license examiners in the various states quiz that many new drivers, the National Safety Council reports. Some are nervous. Some are confident. Some are bluffers. For each the privilege of using the streets and highways as the driver of an automobile is at stake.

About 20,000 applicants fail every year, after successive tests, and are refused licenses. Although only 20,000 per year have to swallow it, denial of a license to drive an automobile would be among the bitterest pills for any one of the million.

"Among all applicants who take drivers' license examinations," says J. Stannard Baker, traffic safety consultant for the National Safety Council, "few fail to recognize that they are on the spot, with their driving privilege hanging in the balance."

"Failure in his tackle with the written and actual driving tests that make up the examination means the applicant will have to hire a chauffeur, buy a bicycle, go it on foot, or ride in a car only as an occupant."

"It may be encouraging to the applicant, however, to know that in every examination most examiners are on the spot just as much as the applicant."

Cong. Sam Russell Called To Preside Over The House

Congressman Sam Russell of the Seventeenth District of Texas was designated Speaker of the House of Representatives at a recent afternoon session. The elected speaker may delegate this authority to another of the House, and Congressman Russell was called to act as speaker.

Serving his first term in Congress, Congressman Russell is recognized as one of the ablest members of the Texas delegation. From his record he has demonstrated his ability in the procedure of the House and has, on several occasions, appeared on the floor as speaker in matters of important legislation.

Those familiar with Russell as a presiding judge in Texas district courts viewed with interest the ease and efficient manner in which he presided over the actions of Congress while acting as Speaker of the House.

ONLY A HINT HEARD TODAY OF A MEETING

Hopkins Thought To Be Accompanying Him To Meeting Place In The North Atlantic.

A cryptic statement in the British House of Commons indicate today that Prime Minister Winston Churchill may be flying to the United States to confer with President Roosevelt upon American-British collaboration.

It was believed possible the Churchill may already have reached this side of the Atlantic though there was no official statement on his whereabouts or his plans.

President Roosevelt is now cruising off the northeast coast aboard the presidential yacht Potomac, and when he left Washington no reports were allowed to accompany him, and the White House requested that the president be allowed to have complete freedom and secrecy on his week's cruise.

The possibility that Churchill may be on his way to the United States was raised by a statement in the House of Commons by Maj. Clement Attlee, labor party spokesman, member of the British cabinet and the prime minister's deputy in the House of Commons.

Attlee said that Churchill did not find it convenient to be present for the full debate before the house upon the war conduct. Only a matter of high importance would cause Churchill to be absent on such an occasion. The exact time of the debate was not revealed—no announcement made in advance—but it was scheduled that the debate was held such debate would start today and continue through Wednesday since parliament's main deliberation usually are held early in the week.

The announcement of Attlee was followed by a hint in the London Daily Mail, attributed to official sources, "of very high percentage," that probably Churchill or Lord Beaverbrook was flying to the United States to confer with President Roosevelt.

There is also the possibility that Churchill might be accompanied by Harry Hopkins, President Roosevelt's lend-lease administrator, just back from a flying visit to Moscow, where he discussed war needs with Josef Stalin.

As these rumors were heard over England reports were received that Berlin had reported that units were cutting new pockets of encirclement in the long Russian front, but Moscow indicated that the German threat to the main Leningrad-Moscow railroad from Kholm was faltering.

The German high command reported the capture of Tapa, Estonian rail center, which appears to serve the main communication between the strong Russian force defending Tallinn, Estonian capital, and Leningrad.

Shadows Against the Future

One of the questions which ought to be carefully studied, and which, so far as we know, has never been carefully studied, is the effect of wars on the next generation.

For instance, to what extent are Europe's troubles today due to the fact that the best, healthiest, potentially most able of the generation now mature were killed off in 1914-1918? How many wise statesmen, how many poets and artists, how many economic and social pioneers, what sheer weight of human brains were dumped into the graves that blossomed from Picardy to Kiev in those years? And what has that loss meant to today's world?

Because all these things are so intangible, no body can measure them because they pertain to the spirit no one will ever know, perhaps, their accurate weight. How many children of the generation which grew up directly after the World War bear today the marks of the insufficient nourishment, the tense, hopeless times in which they lived? Never forget that that is the generation, in large part, which made up the Nazi movement.

All these factors no man has measured, because, perhaps, they cannot be measured. Yet one knows they exist. The social loss is undoubtedly greater than a similar loss throughout a cross-section of the whole population, because soldiers are selected for physical and mental fitness.

Now it is all happening over again. Though almost as many civilians as soldiers are being killed in this war, the destructive effect on the coming generation will not be less than that of the World War if it goes on as long. Already in France relief workers and physicians are reporting that babies born are markedly undersize, weighing only two and three pounds at birth. Why? Because their mothers are undernourished. People recently come from France report that they dare not look into the faces of children.

If that be true in France, what must be true in Poland? In Belgium? In Greece? In Yugoslavia?

What will the next generation be in Germany and Italy, decimated by a series of bloody and useless campaigns, "educated" in a mental straitjacket, fed from babyhood on a diet of blood-lust and a-morality?

Isn't it about time to stop all this once and for all? First, by conclusively beating those who have espoused all of it as a normal, desirable way of life, and forced it on the rest of the world? Second, by taking our part in organizing the world so that it shall not happen again?

C. I. O. Oils Up New Lobbying Machine Which Wins Victory in First Encounter With Congressmen

BY PETER EDSON

NEA Service Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—Chalk up for C. I. O. and its affiliated Labor's Non-Partisan League the neatest job of lobbying that Washington has seen in a long time.

The result of the lobby was the defeat in the House, 220-149, of the Connally-May amendments to the Selective Service bill, which in brief would have authorized the President to take over national defense plants where production is threatened by labor disputes, and authorizing the Army or Navy to keep defense plants open during labor disputes. Those amendments, tacked onto the bill without hearings, had been considered fairly sure of passage, as they were the first of the so-called defense-labor bills to reach the floor. But so effectively was the CIO-LNL lobby organized that at least 100 congressmen were persuaded to vote against the amendments, giving the labor forces one of the biggest victories in months.

The real story of how the labor lobby worked is just now coming out. Congressman Howard Smith of Alexandria, Va., chairman of the House committee which investigated the National Labor Relations Board last year, referred to the lobby as a "goon squad" but it was anything but that.

The lobby was made up of the best-looking, the smartest, and the highest type of labor representatives that the C. I. O. unions could find. They were recruited from all over the country. They were carefully schooled, not only in what they were to say, but what they were not to say. The importance of being courteous to the congressmen was stressed, and also the fact that there must be no threats, not even of withdrawal of labor support at the next election.

GENERAL credit for organization of the labor lobby goes to four men—John T. Jones, C. I. O. legislative representative and director of Labor's Non-Partisan League; Lee Pressman, C. I. O. general counsel; Len DeCaux, editor of C. I. O. News; and a newcomer, Russ Nixon, an assistant to Jones. For the last five years Nixon has been at—of all places—Harvard University, getting himself a Ph.D. degree, doing a little teaching in labor relations, acting as secretary of the Massachusetts branch of the NLP. He has been in Washington only a few months, but if the organization of this type of labor lobby is in any sense his work, the affable young man will be heard of further.

The strictly amateur character of the lobby was one of its strongest assets. There wasn't a lawyer in the bunch, and it didn't operate as lobbies usually do, with form letters and city slickers. Some of the lobbyists were talked out of their positions on the first call on their congressman, but they came back to headquarters, got new answers,

Yarn Spinners Lose Bunyanite

MIDLAND, Mich.—One by one the old-time story tellers who conquered both man and beast with their mighty feats of strength are dropping away from the cracker barrel, never to return.

Latest of the story telling clan to die is Jack Fathey, long known as Midland's master of the Paul Bunyan logging yarns.

Year after year Fathey would draw a crowd to some Midland stove and there—with a face so straight it cracked—enliven the winter night with his stories of the days when men were mighty.

Fathey used to tell of the night when he was top-loading for Bunyan and piled his sleigh so full of logs the moon was caught against the pile. The world, Fathey said—was wondrously dark on one side and marvelously light on the other. Finally Fathey said he permitted the moon to continue its journey by taking off 20 logs.

One of Fathey's favorites was the saw-billed pike that cut logs for the Bunyan camp all one winter. He was partial also to the mosquitoes who combined in lots of 20 to carry boats on portages. And he never forgot the acrobatic coons that joined together to form the fascimile of a tree.

Midland residents say they miss the yard-long Fathey stories. And they say that next winter the old stove and the cracker barrel won't seem quite the same.

Defense Will Hit At Camera Hobby

By United Press

FORT WORTH.—Shortages of photographic equipment because of the defense program may force many amateur cameramen from their dark rooms.

Already, the war effort has cut deeply into supplies of acetic acid and other chemicals necessary to develop film. German lenses now virtually are unobtainable because of the British blockade.

American-made lenses, say equal those of the Germans, also are increasingly more difficult to buy. Uncle Sam needs them for "eyes" on bomb sights, telescopes and gun sights.

There still is enough equipment Fort Worth dealers say, to keep the market supplied for a few months. After that, well, they just can't predict.

"The legend goes that in the dim past a lazy chieftain sat in his hut, half asleep and half awake," Everts said.

"Then he noticed the rope smoldered evenly and was struck by the idea that if he tied knots in the rope at equal distances, he could reckon the passage of time by the length of rope burned."

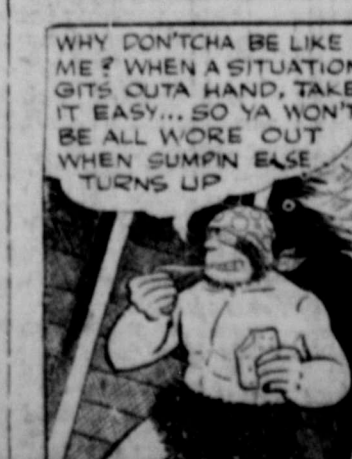

Although the story is merely a legend, Everts gave it some credence because knotted ropes were used as an early form of telling time.

"So the next time you're late for a meeting, blame it on a woman and a lazy man. If it hadn't been for them, there might not be any clocks today," Everts concluded.
