There Are Many to Protect

Why this sudden furore about inflation, anyway? Who cares?

You care, for one.

You care if you are one of the 45,000,000 Americans who hold Social Security cards, or the wife or child of such a holder. You care if you are one of the nearly 40,-000,000 Americans who are beneficiaries of ordinary life insurance, or of the 90,000,000 industrial policies, or the 25,00 group policies.

And that begins to get along to almost everybody.

The spectacular losses in a period of inflation come to those who have money. But on the other hand, such people usually manage to wangle through it somehow. It is the little fellow, the fellow on a small and inelastic salary or wage, the fellow with the small savings account or insurance nest-egg who is swept down into the depths of unspectacular misery in a run-away inflation.

Many more people have a stake in preserving some kind of stability in the relationship between money and the prices of things than ever before. Forty-five millions of people now have Social Security accounts who did not have them a few years ago. Such of them as have made over $250 a month, for instance, for a period of 10 years will, when they reach 65 years of age, begin to receive $44 a month until they die. Such a man's widow, his unmarried children under 18, are also in line for benefits.

So every man and woman working under Social Security has a stake in preventing inflation, even though many of them are apparently not conscious of it. For if, by the time they reach age 65, that $44 a month won't buy cigarets, the whole elaborate scheme for their protection and security collapses just when the power to earn is also

That is why every effort must be made now to restrain the rising price-wage cycle. That is why the government is trying to sell Defense Bonds. In buying Defense Bonds, you lend your actual money to the government, which will pay it back after 10 years with interest. If the government does not get enough money that way, it will borrow it from banks, which simply create the credit where no money existed before, thus expanding the currency without adding Now tell me who sent you here shall I drive you to where you're going? Or can you make correspondingly to production. That is inflation.

The prospect of inflation is not something that concerns only the rich. It concerns every man, woman and child in the United States, and the children, perhaps, most

ST. PAUL, Minn. The Lake Superior iron mining region will produce the greatest tonnage of ore in history this year to fill the nation's defense needs, according to estimates by the Minnesota taxation department.

A total of 77,000,000 tons was envisioned by the department, providing Great Lakes shipping channels remain free from ice until the normal closing of the navigation season, Nov. 15.

Minnesota's huge open pits in the Mesabe range and elsewhere will yield 60,000,000 tons, it was

The Lake Superior mining re gion consists of Northern Minnesota and sections of Wisconsi and upper Michigan.

The present record production was set in 1916 when Lake Superior mines produced 66,672,000 tons of ore. In 1929, Great Lakes freighters carried 66,166,000 tons, and in 1937 the total output was 63,186,000. Last year's total was 64,310,-

SECRET VOYAGE

BY JOSEPH L. CHADWICK

COPYRIGHT, 1941,

YESTERDAY: Mary Larsen tells Jim Mallory all she wanted to know was where she could find Mr. James Mallory, owner of the Ajax Salvage Company. She knows Jim only as Spike. Jim naks Mary who seat her on board, but she refuses to answer and dives overboard heading toward abore. When Mary tires and goes under, Jim swims after her and tows her to safety. He learns she is going to Jeffery Hammond's estate. Hammond owns a steamshe is going to Jeffery Hammond's estate. Hammond owns a steamship line, and it was his ship, the Sonora, that Jim found after it sank and whose location he won't divuige. Jim tells Mary to come down to the Ajax office the next day if she wants to see Mr. Mallory. He returns to the office to find an laritation from Jeffery Hammond to gpend a week-end at the Indian Creek mansion—to talk business.

Come As You Are! Bring the Entire Family!

You don't have to "dress up" and "put on airs" in order to go to the movies, especially during these torrid summer nights when it's too hot to stay at home.

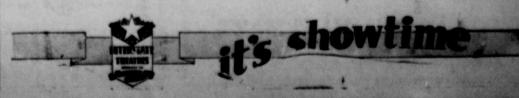

The same suggestion applies to the children in their sun suits and shorts. Bring 'em as they are! It's so hot and too much trouble to do

The modern movie theatre is a Cool, Convenient Oasis where you can find happy Relief. You go there to Relax, forget the heat and be Entertained in Comfort-and not to be on "dress parade."

Therefore, don't erase the Delightful and Refreshing experience you'll have in the Cool interior of your favorite Theatre by wearing hot, sticky clothes en route to and from it. Tonight after you've had dinner, help the mis-sus stack the dishes—round up the kids and give yourselves a hot weather treat by seeing a good Movie in an Air Conditioned Theatre

Try it at least once a week and see how much better it makes the entire family feel. You'll be surprised to find out how quickly it makes the summer pass by. Incidentally, never be-fore have there been so many Motion Pictures which are Entertaining, Instructive and

Interstate Theatres are Healthfully Air-Con ditioned and they do not have any "high falutin" rules about what a patron should wear. So, when you Go to the Movies, join the parade of Happy, Cool and Comfortable People in slacks, shorts or "what have you!"
