DEBT LIMIT RAISED BY A HOUSE GROUP

WASHINGTON, D. C., Mar. 6.—The House Ways and Means Committee, by a unanimous vote, today reported favorably the bill to raise from $65,000,000,000 to $125,000,000,000 the statutory national debt limit.

The committee acted a few minutes after Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., urged immediate raising of the debt limit to facilitate financing of the war effort.

He said that the debt now is only $1,400,000,000 below the present limit, and added he did not expect the existing limit would be sufficient to cover bond issues which will be required in April.

Boosting the limit was one of two programs proposed by the Administration to cover the cost of the war effort.

The second phase of the program is to raise $7,600,000,000 by means of a new revenue program.

Science Class Is Creating a Novel 'Sinking' Fund Idea

BAKERSFIELD, Cal.—Social Science classes at Kern county Union high school, after classroom discussions on the subject, perfected a successful "sinking" fund plan for the purchase of national defense bonds.

A secretary has been elected to keep track of all airplanes and ships lost by the Allies, and the students will undertake to aid in their replacements.

The rates have been set low, so that everyone will be able to contribute by merely cutting down on his lunch money if necessary.

According to the "sinking" fund scale, students will contribute 10 cents for every battleship sunk, 10 cents for every aircraft carrier, one cent for every submarine, one cent for every destroyer, two cents for every cruiser, one cent for every transport and one cent for every 10 airplanes.

The adult rate for teachers and others who want to participate will be 10 times the student rate.

During the first month that the plan was in operation, a total of $191.05 was placed in the fund.

Trailer Unit For Defense Need Made

FLINT, Mich.—Flint, the former automobile city now turning out armaments for the nation's war effort, has turned to a new product designed to help meet industry's critical housing problem.

Outwardly, the new product is a regulation house trailer, but in reality is an expensible home that can be transformed into living quarters for four persons.

Designed by William B. Stout of Dearborn, Mich., the trailer occupies normal clearance space on the highways. With its wheels dismounted, it can be transformed into a home in 30 minutes with the aid of sliding panels and other ingenious contrivances.

Blue Food Stamps In County For Feb. Totaled $10,931.50

Blue food stamps in the amount of $10,931.50 were issued during February to stamp program participants in Eastland County, it was reported today by P. M. Miller, Acting Area Supervisor, Surplus Marketing Administration. The total of blue stamps issued since the beginning of the program is $394,079.00.

Orange stamp clients were required to buy at the local issuing Office amounted to $15,903.00, bringing the total of food purchases with food stamps this month to $26,834.50.

There were 1292 cases representing 4795 persons participating in the program last month according to the report.

The benefit of the program to farmers as well as participants was pointed out by Miller. Blue stamp purchases represent food markets the farmers would not have otherwise had since clients are required to purchase each month the amount of orange stamps they would ordinarily spend for food. Clients are then issued blue stamps enabling them to purchase additional food.

The food stamp program of the Surplus Marketing Administration is only a part of the United States Department of Agriculture's broad program to help create ready markets for the full yield of American farm products, Miller added. Others are the school-lunch program, direct distribution of commodities and Lend-Lease purchases.

Seals Are Studied To Find Effect On Supplies Of Fish

SEATTLE, Wash.—Before the watchful eyes of scientists from the United States Fish and Wildlife Service and the University of Washington, a herd of seven seals are the main actors in a bit of biological research.

The "guinea pigs" were brought to Seattle's Woodland Park zoo from the rocky coast of St. Paul island in the Pribiloff group, home of thousands of fur seals off the Alaskan coast. The purpose of the experiment—the first of its kind in history—is to determine the eating habits of seals.

The investigators would like to know the amounts and kind of fish the seals consume in an effort to find out what effect seal appetites have on Pacific Coast fisheries.

As a result, scholarly biologists from both the service and the university show up at meal times to take notes on what kind of fish the seals turn up their whiskered noses at and what delicacies they relish.

Another thing they would like to discover is just how much fish a seal can gulp down in the course of a day—something which science so far has never determined.

While this research is under way, the war in the Pacific has undone the work of another experiment.

Last year the federal biologists started a vast project. They tagged 10,000 Pribiloff seals in an attempt to study their migrations during the months they are absent from their birthplaces.

This work went for nothing because scientists cannot roam the sea in boats looking for tagged seals while a war is being waged in the Pacific.

MOST OF JAVA BEING OVERRUN BY JAPS AS THEY MOVE SOUTHWARD

Navy Answers a Lot Of Inquires About Service Men

WASHINGTON.—The war has brought an expansion in the less publicized activities of the navy, such as:
Giving advice to the lover.
Enforcing a mother's edict that her sailor-son must drink a daily quota of milk.
Alleviating fears of wives about their husbands in the service.
Suggesting a proper gift for a naval aviator.

Here are excerpts from some of the hundreds of letters received by the navy:
"Last week my son who is in the navy sent me his picture. It has been worrying me much, as he does not look well and is so thin. How much milk does the navy allow each man? My son is used to having a lot and I hope he is able to get it now."
"I would appreciate it if you could trace my boy friend. No one seems to have heard from him since Nov. 24."

"My brother is a naval aviator and I want to get him a birthday present. I selected an overnight bag but am wondering whether a suitcase to hold uniforms would be better."
"Our son enlisted a week ago Saturday in the navy. He has been told that the first three weeks they are treated terribly (quarantine period). What do they do to the boys the first three weeks that is so bad, or is this just talk?"

"Since I wrote my first letter I have heard from my husband. I am trying to decide whether I should leave here and try to join him when his ship comes to port. I am in the same quandary. I suppose, that thousands of navy wives are."

"Perhaps you might help us to get in touch with our nephew. We have written to him regularly and sent him the home town papers, and they must have reached him or they would have been returned to us. He has always been a good boy and we do not wish to write to his commanding officer."

Eastland Services Planned For Aged Ranger Resident

Funeral services for Walter J. Phelps, 80, of Ranger, who died at his home Thursday, will be conducted from the First Baptist Church of Eastland Saturday afternoon at 1:30, with Rev. David M. Phillips, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Ranger in charge of the services. Burial will be in DeLeon, with the Morris-Stone Funeral Home of Ranger in charge of arrangements.

The decedent was born in Lloyd County, Ga., Nov. 16, 1861.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Josephine Phelps, Ranger, and one son, Louis J. Phelps, Ranger. Other survivors include Mrs. John Bryant and Mrs. Rube Wilson, both of Ranger.

Production Credit Group Is Located In New Quarters

The branch office of the Stephenville Production Credit association, recently established in Eastland, has been moved from the Eastland National Bank building and is now located in the rear ground floor offices of the Corner Drug store building facing West Main Street.

Walter Hill is in charge of the office while Mrs. Margaret Hanna is secretary and M. Autry is field man.

The Eastland office is one of five the association has.

The association makes livestock and crop loans on a co-operative basis.

4-H Clubs Plan To Finance Project On Food For Freedom

COLLEGE STATION.—Plans are underway whereby Texas 4-H Club boys and girls may finance their Food For Freedom projects, Mildred Horton and Geo. Adams, state agents of the Texas Extension Service, have announced.

In a letter to county agricultural and home demonstration agents, they pointed out that loans for 4-H Club members may now be made through the Farm Security Administration in addition to the usual sources—local banks, individuals, the Farm Credit Administration, and so on.

County agricultural agents in two Texas counties, Bricoco and Lubbock, cooperated in an experimental FSA loan program of this nature in 1941. Committee composed of the agents, FSA county farm supervisors, teachers of vocational agriculture and farmers serving as adult 4-H Club leaders passed on applications for loans, and funds were handled by a bonded trustee.

"The operation of such loan programs not only provides the necessary money for 4-H food production projects, but gives the boys and girls valuable training in financing farm operations," the state agents pointed out.

Texas 4-H Club work is no small business. In 1941, 4-H Club boys realized $617,076 from sales of beef, mutton, wool, swine, mohair, and dairy and poultry products.

4-H Club girls concentrated on home food production. Among other items, their 381,509 hens laid enough eggs to serve 127,169 persons for the year; they produced more than a million and a half pounds of fruits and vegetables; and produced 383,146 pounds of butter and cheese from their milk cows.

These projects will be greatly expanded in 1942 under the war food production program.

R. E. Sikes' Uncle Dies, Funeral To Be In Burkburnett

Funeral for Dr. H. S. Vancleave, 80, uncle of R. E. Sikes of Eastland, who died this morning at All Saints Hospital in Fort Worth, will be held at Burkburnett at 4:00 p. m. Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Sikes plan to attend the funeral.

Japan's Far Eastern offensive rolled over Batavia and most of the island of Java today, but the Dutch fought on in the mountains around Bandoeng, and the British counter attacked on the Burma Front.

The Battle of Java was raging everywhere on the island, a communique from Bandoeng said, but it acknowledged that Dutch forces had been withdrawn from the East Indies capital after demolishing important installations. The defenders of Java are threatened with exhaustion because of the steady, relentless and unopposed Japanese air attacks.

A major battle is developing in the Bandoeng Sector. Artillery fire could be heard there and that mountain stronghold had become the scene of a last-ditch battle, emulating the stand of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's men on Bataan Peninsula in the Philippines.

The Japanese also had cut from north and south across the middle of Java to Jogyakarta, near the Indian Ocean coast, and thus had split off Eastern Java, including the Soerabaja Naval Base, as well as having overrun Western Java.

On the other fronts the communiques reported:
BURMA—British and Allied troops strike at the Japanese in the Pegu Sector, on the railroad north of Rangoon.

PHILIPPINES—Fighting is slowed down, apparently as the result of disruption of Japanese offensive plans by an American air attack that sank enemy transports and cost thousands of troops in Subic Bay.

ERITREA—A new American Naval Base in Eritrea, former Italian East Africa colony, on the Red Sea, was disclosed by Oliver Lyttleton, British production minister, who said it will eventually be a "wacker" of a base. A "wacker" is British slang for "a Lulu."

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt criticized the London disclosure of the new American Naval Base in Eritrea, and remarked that the disclosure might be an invitation for the Axis to bomb it.

RUSSIA—The Red Army capture of a strong German defense point at Yuhnov, 125 miles east of Smolensk, weakens the Nazi central sector of defenses.

Only One License Issued To Date To Explosives Users

County Clerk R. V. Galloway, licensing agent for explosives in Eastland county, stated this morning that he had received a number of applications to purchase explosives since his appointment by the United States Bureau of Mines, but that he had issued only one license.

According to information given Galloway over the telephone from Fort Worth by a representative of the Bureau of Mines, the dead line for getting licenses by persons handling explosives, has been extended from March 1 to the close of business, March 16.

Big Appropriation Is Signed Today

WASHINGTON, D. C., Mar. 6.—President Roosevelt today signed the largest appropriation bill in the nation's history.

The measure carries $32,162,137,900 more funds for prosecuting the war.

This measure brought to about $85,000,000,000 the amount of funds voted for war purposes by Congress since Pearl Harbor.

Waste No Waste!

"The axis crashed in a deluge of pop bottle tops, chicken bones, rusty pen points and out-at-the-heels socks." You will never read that in a headline or history text, but figuratively speaking it can and may happen.

With most of us in this country just beginning to stir our stumps for victory, we can learn a very profitable lesson in the big importance of little things in winning a war. Best of all here is something everybody can do and it is going to take every man Jack and all his sisters, brothers, cousins and children to do the job.

Every British home now has four cans for four types of waste needed to dull the axis blade. One can is for paper and rags, another for bones, the third for metal and the fourth for garbage.

Not much of the horror of war there, or the glamor of battle, if there is any glamor left in war. It's much more exciting to wave a flag, march in a parade or spellbind the neighbors with a windy speech on what Wavell or MacArthur or Nimitz should have done. But if every American home had four such cans and filled them as quickly as possible we should make a much better showing in that regard than Britain and here is what Britain showed:

The salvage of waste paper alone saved 25,000 tons of shipping space which could be used for more vital materials. The London Passenger Transport Board reduced the thickness of tickets by only .004 of an inch, thereby saving 480 tons of paper annually, and that paper is needed for cartridge wads.

Most important, enough scrap metal—old skillets, sardine tins, razor blades, toothpaste tubes—rolled from those cans, junk heaps and city dumps to build 10 destroyers, 10,000 tanks and 10,000 anti-aircraft guns.

That is only part of the British salvage system, but obviously it is more than worth while. It could possibly spell the difference between defeat and victory, therefore it becomes a necessity.

Americans must join the junk drive. All communities by now should have organizations and resources to handle this job. Boy Scouts, schools, Sunday School classes and clubs are collecting refuse, but they can't collect it if you do not save it for them. "Remember Pearl Harbor" and "Mash 'em MacArthur" may bring you up with your fists clinched tighter than "Waste No Waste," but the latter packs a potential wallop.

Funny how a woman of 30 can have a twin brother of 42.

The handwriting on the wall indicates that the house is rented.

Representatives of "The New Order"

Medical College Removal Is Not Being Considered

AUSTIN.—Removal of the state medical college from Galveston was not considered seriously by the legislative committee that investigated the college affairs. One member suggested it, another said removal would be over his dead body, and the others thought so little of it that the committee report ignored it.

University of Texas president Homer Rainey did not advocate it. When queried about it he said he thought the medical school should be at Austin with the rest of the university to take advantage of the university laboratories and other facilities. He recognized that Austin lacked clinical material for so large a medical school.

Were the removal of the college considered desirable, it would not be practical at this time. Galveston was selected as site for the medical school by popular vote. To change it would require a constitutional amendment.

Committee Member Arthur Cato of Weatherford who suggested removal, Governor Stevenson and President Rainey all agreed that it would require such an amendment.

A constitutional amendment can be adopted only by a majority popular vote. It cannot be submitted to vote except at a regular session of the legislature. No regular session can be held until January, 1943. In that session any 11 senators can block submission, for two-thirds of the senate's 31 members must vote for a submission. If nobody opposed submission, a popular election scarcely could be held before mid-summer or fall.

Comic Artists Turned Cowhand

Jim Williams, left, and Fred Harman, who draw "Out Our Way" and "Red Ryder" for This Paper, get together on Williams' Arizona ranch. Both men are famous for their portrayals of western life, Williams for his ranch cartoons and Harman for the hard riding hero who gives his name to the strip. Harman visited Williams after a trip to Hollywood, where Red Ryder has gone into the movies and is being starred on a radio network program.

Then an even more difficult obstacle would be met. War priorities has cut off the supply of building materials. The state is having difficulty getting authority to make body-needed extensions of state hospitals. No hope is held out that priorities would be granted for the buildings required in abandoning one plant to set up a new medical school.

How soon building could start would depend on how long the war lasted.

Dr. Tower looked as if he were not really listening. He inclined his head again.

KINGS ROW

BY HENRY BELLAMANN

THE GORDONS ARE STERN

CHAPTER XV
ANNA'S diagnosis of Parris' state of mind was correct. Her observation was a neat compound of native peasant shrewdness and affectionate intuition. Parris was over-sensitive and miserable for precisely the reasons she had named.

Today, for the first time since—since that dreadful day, he walked bodily down through the evergreen grove toward the pond.

"Renée, my darling, I love you. I didn't know then how much. I know now."

At the sound of the words which startled him back into the present, all sense of her presence was gone.

Time had begun to pass. It wouldn't ever stop now. It would go every day, faster and faster. A stirring, unhappy, frightening thought.

ABERDEEN COLLEGE ended its college year with the usual dull and repetitious ceremonies held during what always seemed the hottest week of the year. Parris avoided most of the events.

A week later Madame von Ein left for St. Louis for hospital observation, and Parris yielded to Drake's insistence on a camping trip. His grandmother returned to Kings Row before him, looking less well than when she left.

He went to Anna. "You've got to tell me! What did the doctors say?"

"Nothing new. I must tell you, Madame is not well. Just go on as if everything were as usual, Parris. Don't let her think you are worried about her."

It was in town that afternoon that Parris learned from Colonel Skeffington of Mrs. Tower's death. "Very strange," the Colonel said. "Nobody knew she was ill at all, not at all. If you notice anything curious over there, son—"

PARRIS found Dr. Tower reading. He appeared as calm and unperturbed as always.

"I just heard a few minutes ago about Mrs. Tower. I'm very sorry." Dr. Tower looked as if he were not really listening. He inclined his head again.

Parris stammered a little, and continued: "I was away, you know. My grandmother was away, too, in St. Louis, or you would have heard from us."

An awkward silence fell between the two. Parris fumbled with some papers.

"Madame von Ein came to see me just before she went to St. Louis. She wanted to know if you'd be ready to go to Vienna in September."

Parris' breath went out of him. "Oh? His tone was dreary.

"Parris, I undertook this work with you with decided misgivings. I guess it's fair to you to tell you that it has been a pleasure."

Parris blushed.

"I hope that when you get into your work in Vienna you'll find that—all of this has been a help. Some of it has been inadequate, some of it has been—in advance of any institution I study you could have gotten anywhere. I think some of it will prove useful."

Parris felt a quick surge of curiosity. He was sure that this man was really able and intelligent—probably a very fine doctor. What was the matter? What landed him here in Kings Row with his sole contact these lectures and talks to a medical student?

Parris sighed. "Maybe it would be more sensible for me just to be a doctor, and not start out to specialize in any sort of way, but—"

"It's just that I think I really want to. It sounds a lot more interesting."

"It is. It is a vast field for research. I don't know if the time has come for this kind of study, or not. It looks as if it might come now."

"I guess I keep thinking of Lucy Carr, the—"

"Oh, yes. The insane woman you played to. Oh, yes, yes."

"And Benny Singer."

"You don't feel such people—well, sort of objectionable?"

Parris looked as if he didn't understand what the doctor meant. He shook his head. "No, sir, Benny. I liked Mrs. Carr, and I like Benny Singer."

Dr. Tower half closed his eyes. "I sometimes think the whole thing is a problem for the poet."

Dr. Tower stood up. He pushed books and papers about impatiently. "Well, I hope you've enjoyed the chat. I did. Now, get on with you, Parris Mitchell. You've got a summer of tough work ahead. I won't fool you about that. We'll get those letters off to Vienna, and then we'll know in a month or so how things stand."

PARRIS was deeply concerned for Drake, whose pride had been dealt a telling blow by Dr. Gordon. That Drake was in love with Louise Gordon, Parris did not doubt—nor that frail, pretty Louise, weakened in strength and purpose by the united wills of overwhelming parents, loved

Because Drake was consoling "wild," and the "town was ing." Louise was forbidden him. The two of them had reeled, Parris interceding in Louise's pain. How, he doted, could Dr. and Mrs. be such pillars of virtue in Row and at the same time terminated to make their miserable? He felt again strange working of that in that made him doubt at values. They were steel Gordon. Couldn't they see Louise was—he supposed—was the word, and really b And that Drake, for all his gerring, was a fine boy, and "Listen, Drake."

"I know that tone of You're going to have some I sensible suggestion. I don't sensible suggestions. I want say something to make n better."

"I was just going to ask you you don't marry Louise, rig You're your own boss, as said. You've got enough mo "I'm not 21 yet. Parris Farmers Exchange Bank got much to say about wha but they don't have to give cent more'n they think I n live on."

"But I thought—"

"I've got a checking a But it's just about three the dollars, or was, I mean. I've a lot of it. Can you imagine old Mr. Curley, he's the tru would say if I told him I w some of my money so I coul married?"

"Could you start in some of business, do you think?"

"I've been turning that ove over in my mind. You know been talking to Peyton Gri. He's going to work in real est. "Sure enough. Old Peyt Graves. I didn't know he had get-up about him."

"Peyton's got the same ide had about that tract of land up there by the public school. said if I could get my mone and put some in with him— uncle would let him have some we could swing in together a make us a lot of money."

Parris looked respectfully Drake.

Savings and Loan Assets Grow Over The Previous Year

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — A gain of $11,918,103 in total assets over the previous year was made in 1941 by the 126 insured savings and loan associations in Texas, the Federal Home Loan Bank of Little Rock reported today, in its annual compilation of the statements of the home financing institutions in the State. Included in the report are the figures of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association in Ranger by which the local area is served.

The assets on December 31, 1941 totaled $113,822,828, establishing a new high record for the State, and included home mortgage loans aggregating $99,837,711, which increased $12,559,473 during the year. Savings and investment funds continued to flow freely into the institutions, the Bank reported, showing a net gain of $9,427,096 in the 12 months' period, bringing the total of those funds to $96,484,994.

The earnings of the associations were quite satisfactory in 1941, according to the report, for after paying dividends of $3,162,676 to the shareholders, $1,144,120 was added to the Reserves and Undivided Profits accounts.

The Texas associations made 15,334 loans to home owners in 1941, totaling $30,143,932, for an average amount of about $2,000. This was the greatest volume of lending done in any year in the history of the associations. The total for 1940 was: $25,086,315; for 1939: $25,172,869; and for 1938: $20,641,731. The loans last year included 4,182 for the construction of new homes, totaling $11,336,518 and 4,508 totaling $9,253,574 to assist borrowers in the purchase of existing dwellings.

The statements revealed the Texas associations to be in a strong financial position, and well prepared to care for additional loans and other demands, Bank officials stated. They have on hand large reserve of cash and government securities, and in addition have available to them the facilities of the Federal Home Loan Bank System as a reservoir of credit.

Perhaps the secret of General MacArthur's success against the Japs is that he believes in firing before he sees the whites of their teeth.

Cotton Growers To Raise Long Staple

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced plans to encourage growers to shift from the production of short staple cotton to the longer staple length in 1942, to make available particular types of cotton needed to meet military requirements.

Information received by the East Texas Chamber of Commerce agricultural department shows that to encourage this change in planting the Commodity Credit Corporation will increase the premiums to be offered on longer staple lengths of cotton under the 1942 program.

Interpretation of released premiums and discounts by agricultural department of the regional Chamber finds a premium of $23.75 a bale for middling white 1 1/2 inch, compared with $1.00 for middling white 1 inch, basis midling 15-16.

"This comparison to 1 inch cotton was made because a large quantity of East Texas cotton production during the past two years has been 1 inch in staple length, rather than 1 1/2 and 7/8 as so much of it was a few years back," the regional Chamber points out.

In a recent bulletin the regional Chamber agricultural department called attention to the increased premiums for a 1 1/2 and longer length cottons and, in planning of cotton production for 1942, urged consideration of this factor.

"Had added premium been placed on 1-1/2 inch cotton also, it would have encouraged East Texas cotton producers much more, since 1 1/2 inch cotton is rather difficult to produce and gin in the area."

Premiums will be increased in the longer staple lengths of American upland cotton, officials of the U. S. Department of Agriculture explained, to enable producers to realize the same per acre return from the longer cottons which have low yields as from the shorter cottons which generally have higher yields.

Pastor Offers A Prize For Answer To a Big Question

A prize of a new Bible is being offered by Rev. E. N. Scarlett, pastor of the First Methodist church, for the first correct answer to the question, "What sin causes the most sadness in the world?" A number of answers have already been submitted. Rev. Scarlett reports, such as war, murder, adultery, gossip, dishonesty and hatred. The pastor states that none of these answers are right, however.

Work On Big Bend Park To Continue In Spite of War

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP)—Purchase of additional land for Big Bend Park on the Rio Grande should not be halted because of the war, State Parks Board secretary Frank Quinn insists.

The State Parks Board has been authorized to spend $1,500,000 for the land and after acquiring it turn the whole tract over to the National Park Service, for improvement and operation.

The appropriation of $1,500,000 for the purpose has come under fire as the largest single item of expense authorized by the legislature that met before the war. Wisdom of the expenditure when tire rationing and automobile manufacturing restrictions are in effect has been questioned.

Gov. Coke R. Stevenson said he has not been requested to assemble the legislature in a special session to repeal the appropriation and thought it would be unwise to do so after the project has been carried through to its present stage.

He said some members of the legislature were urging that the officials voluntarily held up the expenditure. If this were done, the appropriation would lapse automatically on Sept. 1, 1943.

Quinn predicted, however, that the State Parks Board would go right ahead with the project. He said he would advise the members to do so. He cited as reasons:

1. About one-half of the $1,500,000 expenditure is really taking the money out of one pocket and placing it in another. The money will come out of the state general revenue fund. About half of it will be spent to buy land now owned by the state school fund. State treasurer Jesse James will honor a parks board warrant on the general fund and deliver it to Land Commissioner Bascom Giles. Giles who will receive the warrant for the permanent school fund will re-deposit it in the treasury to the credit of the school fund.
2. Options have been obtained on a major part of the land that is not state school land. If these options should be forfeited, much expense would result in renewing them after the war—perhaps some could not be renewed.
3. While development of the park may be delayed because of the war, it will go ahead to a considerable extent and be that far advanced toward providing an attractive tourist point after the war.
4. If the parks board permitted this appropriation to lapse, future legislatures might not reappropriate the money.

Navy Construction Volunteers Needed In Many Trades

In a call for volunteers to serve in Naval construction regiments outside of the continental limits of the United States, C. L. Wylie, officer-in-charge of the Abilene Navy Recruiting Station, said, "This is a real opportunity that will appeal to hardy Americans in whose veins flow the pioneer blood of their forefathers. There will be plenty of thrills, adventure, excitement, hardship, and real danger, but those volunteering will have the satisfaction of knowing that they are doing something worthwhile for their country, just as their forefathers did when they went forth from established and secure settlements to fight the Indians, brave the hardships, and push into the vast, unexplored country that is now our beloved home."

Wylie further points out that here is a chance for two-fisted, red-blooded Americans, who are not fighting behind a gun, to serve shoulder to shoulder with the combatant forces of the Naval service. These construction regiments will serve in close cooperation with private contractors now engaged in building Naval bases at Atlantic and Pacific outposts. Skilled men in many different civilian occupations are needed.

If you are interested, here are some of the details: Age limits, 17 to 50; enlistment period, two, three, or four years, to serve for the duration of the war; beginning pay of those enlisted will range from $36.00 to $133.50 per month, dependent upon individual qualifications. Board, lodging, clothing, and medical care will be provided. Men who are experienced in the following occupations are wanted: automotive repairmen, electricians, blacksmiths, blacksmith's helpers, metal smiths, coppermiths, welders, supervising carpenters, carpenters, painters, supervising concrete workers, concrete workers, supervising or journeyman excavators, shovel operators, road machine operators, crane operators, crane helpers, engine runners, engine helpers, supervising mechanics, crusher mechanics, drillers, powder men, powder-man helpers, roof men, chainmen, transit level men, telephone men, wharf builders, pile driver operators, water divers, firman, oilers, master divers, gunner's mates, sailmakers, boatmen, boatwains, mates, deck hands, photographers, pharmacists, hospital attendants, stewards, cooks, bakers, mess attendants (colored), clerks, bookkeepers, chauffeurs, truck drivers, tractor drivers, laborers.

Wylie advises that applications should be made in person at the Navy Recruiting Station, Post Office Building, Abilene, Texas. Applicants must furnish at least two letters of recommendation, or other evidence of their qualifications, and, if possible, proof of place and date of birth.

Food Habits And Family Security Are Important

COLLEGE STATION.—Greater emphasis has been placed upon food habits for both adults and small children after examination of young men in the selective draft disclosed a large percentage of them in poor condition of health, says Dosea Hale of the A. and M. College Extension Service.

In a review of her work in parent education and child development during 1941, she explains that family planning also was emphasized because it seemed important that good planning should be done before boys left for military camps.

Other ways of gaining more family security in war time—religion, friendship and a sense of humor—were employed, too, and mental hygiene was conspicuous in club discussions during the year, she adds. Parents and relatives were urged to seek the right attitude for themselves and then to give courage, inspiration and the right attitude to the boys in camps by writing them frequent cheerful letters, helping them to obtain opportunities to visit in homes and to share in good community recreation.

Miss Hale explains that the purpose of parent education and child development "is to center attention upon the worth and integrity of the individual in the home and upon groups of individuals called families." A program of family relations recalls the importance of the individual in the home, she continues. It emphasizes that much can be done about the relations of one member of the family to another by thinking about what relations already exist in a certain family, how these came about, and what can be done to change or improve them. "By studying existing relations in a family and what relations might be developed in conjunction with each demonstration, much may be achieved."

Encouraging home demonstrations agents to emphasize the proper feeding of small children in every home, Miss Hale reports instances where children were persuaded to cultivate a taste for certain foods served in school lunches for which they had shown distaste.
