FARISH SAYS CHARGES ARE UNCONFIRMED

WASHINGTON, D. C., Mar. 31. W. S. Farish, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, described as without the "shadow of a foundation" the charges that his company had retarded the synthetic rubber production in this country.

Appearing before a Senate Investigating Committee, investigating the United States war program, Farish said that the present prospects for developing synthetic rubber in the United States would be meager had it not been for the Standard company's pioneering in the field.

"I wish to assert with conviction," he said, "that whether several contracts made with the I. G. Farbenindustrie did, or did not fall within the borders set by the patent statutes or the Sherman Act, they did insure greatly to advance the American industry and more than any other one thing would have made possible our present war activities in aviation gasoline, toulol and explosives and in synthetic rubber itself."

Land Bank System Reaches Its 25th Anniversary Year

HOUSTON, Texas. — The pressure of the all-out war program has cancelled any thought of an elaborate celebration of the 25th anniversary of the Federal Land Bank of Houston on April 3, Sterling C. Evans, president of the institution announces.

Howe's members of the 300 national loan associations, which have on their books more than 99,000 loans in Texas, will make note of the anniversary year in their coming annual stockholders' meetings.

The 25-year mark finds the Land Bank with its loans in the best condition in 10 years and steadily improving, Mr. Evans reports. "The flow of the farmers' cash into debt retirement is heavy. Increase in new loans indicates no expansion of outstanding farm debt but rather a desire to put long-term obligations into safer position under prevailing low-rate amortized loans. We believe farm and ranch families are stirring themselves to get their business in order and to avoid mistakes of the last war period."

The Federal Land Bank, which reflects the combined condition of the farmer-owned local associations, has more than $11,000,000 in capital stock and the earned surplus and legal reserve exceeds $30,000,000.

During the past 25 years the bank has made 143,000 loans to Texas farmers and ranchers, for a total of $419,000,000.

The Land Bank system pioneered in lowering and equalizing interest rates, in the establishment of long terms of repayment out of earnings and in the policy of normal production value appraisals rather than market trends," he said. "The normal value policy helped to prevent wholesale foreclosures during the depression and aided in keeping prices from dipping even lower. Now, in better times, this same policy should serve to keep prices from rising to an unsound level."

Food For Victory Meeting Is Planned At Staff Apr. 2

There will be a Food for Victory meeting at the Staff Church on the night of April 2," states Wayne White, chairman for the community.

Families of the entire community members of this organization, instituted in order to gain closer cooperation among neighbors in efforts for all-out war. Discussions will be on how to make the most of the things at hand, that the farmer may be privileged to do his share for defense.

All families of the community are urged to attend, and all visitors are welcome.

Guayule Planted In Panhandle As Experiment Crop

LUBBOCK. — An acre-plot of guayule has been planted on Texas Technological College farm this week, one of several experimental plots to be distributed over a wide area in Texas and other southwestern states. One-year-old plants shipped from the Salinas valley in California have been transplanted in 4-inch rows, with plants spaced 30 inches apart.

The experiment is being made here as result of a visit to Tech campus March 16 by J. T. Presley, incharge of the federal program for Texas, for conference with Dr. A. W. Young, head professor of plant industry. Rubber from guayule can be used for most purposes for which Para rubber is used, although necessary removal by chemical processes of 16 to 20 per cent of resin adds several cents a pound to production cost.

The guayule plant, a gray, shrubby perennial two or three feet high at maturity, grows wild over north central Mexico and in the Texas counties of Brewster, Presidio, Pecos and Terrell. It contains 3 to 7 per cent rubber under cultivation. Elevations of 2500 to 4000 feet where the climate is dry and warm most of the year, with long periods of hot, dry weather, and winter temperatures which rarely go below 15 degrees Fahrenheit, seem most desirable.

The present experiment is being made by the federal government to determine the extent of the area within the United States which can be used for this plant.

Production information on the growth of guayule indicates that it is necessary to allow the plant to grow for about four years before harvesting, since approximately 300 pounds per acre of extractable rubber is formed each year for the first 4 years during the growth after transplanting. In harvesting, the entire plant including the root is removed, from the soil and the rubber extracted. It is necessary, therefore, in the culture of the plant that new plantings be made every four years.

Blue Stamp Foods To Remain Same As For Last Month

Participants in the Department of Agriculture's food stamp program will be able to purchase the same Blue Stamp Foods during April as they did in March. P. M. Miller, acting area supervisor, Agricultural Marketing Administration, Distribution Branch, said today.

The complete list of blue stamp foods, as issued by the Agricultural Marketing Administration for the period of April 1 through April 30 in all stamp program areas, is as follows: butter, shell eggs, fresh grapefruit, pears, apples, oranges, and fresh vegetables (including potatoes), corn meal, dried pines, hominy (corn) krels, dry edible beans, wheat flour, enriched wheat flour, self-rising flour, enriched self-rising flour, and whole wheat (graham) flour.

Miller, commenting on the various programs of the AMA, said the agency is materially helping farmers of this area and the entire nation, by creating and maintaining local and national food markets, which assure him a fair return on his investment for food and fiber grown under the Food for Freedom program.

AMA buys all food for Lend-Lease, Red Cross, School Lunch and Direct Distribution. Distribution of food to needy school children and American families who do not have an adequate diet is serving the dual purpose of helping the American farmer and building a stronger, healthier nation, he said.

N. S. Dougherty, 82, Buried At Anson

District Clerk John White, accompanied by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. White, and Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Hazard, attended the funeral of N. S. Dougherty at Anson Sunday afternoon.

The deceased was an uncle of Mr. White, and was one of the three last remaining open range cowboys of that section. He was 82 and had lived near Anson since 1877. He died suddenly Saturday evening just as he finished eating dinner.

INDUSTRIAL LEADERS ARE URGED TO AID IN SCRAP METAL COLLECTION NOW

Industrial leaders here were today asked to co-operate in a southwest-wide industrial scrap collection campaign to help the War Production Board to "get in the scrap."

Announcement of the co-ordination of all southwestern industrial scrap collection activities and appointment of George C. Gibbons of Dallas as their regional director was received here today from George T. Waymouth, chief of the WPB's industrial salvage section in Washington. The southwestern industrial scrap program will use chambers of commerce, trade associations and other bodies already prepared to help their members collect and move the scrap metals and rubber now needed for the nation's war program.

Mr. Gibbons is executive vice-president of the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association which has just sponsored a Texas petroleum industry scrap drive which netted over 65,000,000 pounds of scrap. Serving the government as a dollar-a-year man, he will continue his association duties in addition.

The campaign of local industries to collect the scrap from their own plants supplements the general domestic salvage drive now under way, Mr. Gibbons emphasized in a statement accompanying the announcement.

"The shortage of scrap is so acute we must get in more of it immediately if we are to keep the stream of tanks, ships and planes moving," Mr. Gibbons said. "For that reason, the War Production Board is asking Texas industrial leaders to co-ordinate the collection of their own scrap iron, steel, aluminum and other metals and rubber, in a southwestern drive conducted by themselves."

Patterson Will Relieve Davenport On Ft. Worth Bench

Judge Geo. L. Davenport of the 91st district court, who has been holding court for Judge Frank P. Culver of the 17th district in Fort Worth, last week and this week, will be relieved by Judge B. W. Patterson of the 88th district Monday.

Judge Davenport will return to his court here to take care of accumulated matters.

It is understood that Judge Patterson will occupy the 17th district bench for two weeks at the end of which time if Judge Culver has not returned, Judge Davenport will either relieve Judge Patterson or appoint some other district judge to "fill in" for a while.

"ENEMY SUB" ONLY SEAL
BOSTON. — Reports that an enemy two-man submarine was trapped under the Nonesuch river bridge brought 30 policemen to the scene to find a baby seal caught in the bridge piling. The animal freed itself and headed to sea before anyone could reach it.

Doomed Man Has a Narrow Escape In Getting a Reprieve

AUSTIN, Tex. — James B. Alford may not know how narrowly he escaped execution at Huntsville prison last Sunday morning.

He was given a reprieve until April 10 in order to permit District Judge W. W. McCrory at San Antonio to hold a sanity hearing for him.

Gov. Coke R. Stevenson was notified by a San Antonio attorney that Judge McCrory had ordered a sanity hearing. But the governor had no authority to stop the execution without a recommendation from the State Board of Pardons. He already had granted Alford the usual 30-day stay, and under the amended Texas constitution could order no additional clemency unless the board requested it. The board earlier in the day had decided not to recommend further delay.

Governor Stevenson decided to notify the Pardon Board Chairman T. C. Andrews. He was after office hours, and the Governor found no telephone listed in the name of the pardon board chairman. He had his secretary call every Andrews in the Austin telephone directory. Next to the last one in it is M. L. Andrews, and the governor found his man there. The telephone is listed in Mrs. Andrews' name.

Alford is under sentence of electrocution for the hitch-hike slaying of R. L. Agnew, a salesman near San Antonio.

10-Year-Old Boys' Letter Gets Reply From Busy General

CAMP WALTERS, Tex. (UP) A rather unusual letter arrived at camp headquarters the other day. It was addressed in a childish scrawl, "Camp Walter, Mineral Wells, Texas; care the General."

It was from Ponder, Texas. The letter itself was typewritten and said:

"Dear General. Please let me inleat in the ARMY. I'm just 10 years old.

"I think I should do my part in this 'WAR'. If I can please notify me early because I want to get a crack at the 'JAPS'. Yours truly, Norman Christy, Route No. 1, Ponder, Texas.

The strictly military routine at headquarters stopped for a moment when the schoolboy's plea was read. Brig. Gen. E. F. Reinhardt, smiling broadly, sat down and wrote out this reply to "Master Norman Christy."

"Dear Norman: Thank you for your letter of March 20th. I am glad to know that you feel you should do your part in the war. If all of our countrymen, young and old, felt the same way we might end the war quickly.

"Now this is the way you can do your part. Keep going to school to train yourself for later life; do good work in school—the best you can—be kind and respectful to your parents and help them, and in this way you will be helping our country and the Japanese won't like that a bit.

"Again, thank you for your letter and your offer to help."

U. S. AND AUSTRALIAN PLANES BATTER JAPS IN NORTH AUSTRALIA AREA

Legion Posts Will Train Wardens In Air Raid Defense

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP) — American Legion posts in Texas already have completed plans to help train 46,000 persons as air raid wardens, Fred Young of Austin, the Legion's Texas adjutant, has announced.

The program, approved by the Legion's state executive committee at its recent Austin meeting, is to be considered soon by Gov. Coke Stevenson's state defense council. The warden training program will be supervised by the War Department and the Office of Civilian Defense.

A training course for instructors in Air raid warden duties is being taught at Texas A. & M. College, second such center in the nation, and Texas instructors — including Legionnaires — are included in each class. The training course lasts 10 days. Graduates of the A. & M. course will conduct local air raid warden regional schools in Texas.

Five, possibly six such regional schools instead of a central state school, will be offered, to reduce the distance that local air raid warden instructors must travel.

Graduates of the regional school will train the wardens in their home towns. Young estimated that 200 A. & M.-trained instructors would be needed to conduct the regional schools. A class of 50 instructors is graduated each 10 days at College Station, including a dozen or more Texans in each class. The A. & M. classes are composed of men from as far away as Indiana, Young said.

Staff H. D. Club Meeting is Changed

Meeting place of the Staff Home Demonstration Club, which meets Wednesday, April 1, has been changed because of illness. It is announced that the club will meet at the Staff church, instead of with its president, Mrs. Opie Lowry.

Milk and milk dishes will be the subject under discussion at that time, and Miss Gladys Martin will be present. All visitors invited and welcome.

India Threatens To Scrap British Policy In India

NEW DELHI, India, March 31. — Mohanda K. Gandhi, who often has stood against the British Empire, was reported today to have swung the all-India congress working committees against acceptance of the British plan for enlisting independent India in the war against Japan.

Sir Stafford Cripps, who has been in India several days, in an effort to work out an agreement for Dominion status of India in exchange for full cooperation in the British war effort, is reported to have made his last proposal, and, if the working committee of the all-India congress does not agree to the proposals, will leave for England.

PRODUCTION IS MAJOR GOAL OF WAR BOARD

WASHINGTON. — The following questions and answers on the production drive were released today by the War Production Board—

Q. What is the production drive?
A. The production drive is a movement launched by the War Production Board to attain President Roosevelt's goal of 45,000 tanks, 60,000 planes, 20,000 anti-aircraft guns and 8,000,000 tons of shipping this year.

Q. How does it work?
A. The WPB has called upon labor and management in plants of 2,000 prime contractors making planes, tanks, guns, ships and machine tools to get together to increase their output. A method of doing this through voluntary establishment of joint labor-management plant committees has been indicated. The sole purpose of these committees is to carry on the production drive in the individual plant.

Q. Is the drive confined to these plants?
A. No. These plants are already getting the drive going in plants of subcontractors and the drive is spreading among the war workers in America.

Q. How is output going to be increased?
A. By the more efficient use of machines, by the finding of new uses for old machines and by the bettering of morale and effort through a pattern permitting recognition of individual and plant attainments.

Q. In what ways will this be done?
A. The production drive committee in each plant will adapt the general plan, which calls for a study of plant efficiency, erection of a production scoreboard, encouragement and study of suggestions, setting up bulletin boards and posters, conducting slogan contests and using other methods to increase output and recognizing achievements.

Q. It is going to help labor or management most?
A. There isn't any "most" to the production drive. The ultimate goal of the drive is to win the production war and for no other purpose. If we do that, we will save labor and management. If we don't, there won't be any labor and management as we know them now.

Q. What part will labor and management play in the drive?
A. The plan places responsibility for the drive in joint labor-management committees which have no other function than the production drive.

Q. Who is fighting the production drive?
A. Paul Joseph Goebbels.

Committee Agrees On Lessening Tax For Some Families

WASHINGTON, D. C., Mar. 31. The House Ways and Means Committee today looked favorably on the proposals to ease the income tax load for families who are educating children or who are paying unusual medical expenses.

There was less enthusiasm, however, for the third Treasury Department proposal for giving tax credit to families in cases where both the husband and wife are employed.

Allied airplanes pounded at Japanese bases north of the continent of Australia today but in Burma the enemy ignored heavy losses and pushed northward toward Mandalay and Promé and the oil fields in the Promé area.

The greatest immediate danger appeared to be on the Allied west flank, where the enemy had pushed 20 miles northward to the village of Shwedaung, only 10 miles south of the town of Promé.

Britains plans for granting India independence under the Dominion form of government and thus existing Indian aid in the war was threatened with mounting difficulties, if not with complete collapse.

On the Australian front American and Australian planes blasted at the Japanese base at Lae, on New Guinea, and at Koepang, on the island of Timor.

Australia is reported to have reorganized her army command under two generals, and American reports tell of knocking out 16 Japanese warships, 46 transports and 30 planes in the period to March 3, which boasts the Allied totals of enemy craft destroyed for the war to an estimated 30 warships, 40 transports and 200 planes.

90th Division Congratulated By Gen. L. J. McNair

ABILENE. — The famous 9th Infantry Division, acclaimed for its exploits in France during the first World War and completely reactivated as a part of the Army Ground Forces, has received a message of congratulations from Lieutenant General Lesley J. McNair, A. G. F. commander.

To mark its reentry as a unit of the active forces of the United States Army, General McNair sent a telegram to Major General Henry Terrell, Jr., Commander of the 90th Division at Camp Barkeley, Texas.

General McNair's message to the 90th Division commander offered "every assistance that is within my power to give you." General McNair expressed pride in the fact that the 9th Division was again taking its place in "the fight for freedom, honor and country." He expressed confidence that in its preparations to meet what he characterized as "the skillful and hitherto successful" enemy, "every officer and every man will be imbued with that singleness of purpose and devotion to duty which is their heritage from those who carried the banner before them in the trying days of 1918."

In conclusion General McNair said: "You may be assured that my best wishes go with you as you progress from the drill field to the maneuver field and ultimately to the battle field."

Furthermore immediately was an answer from General Terrell who thanked General McNair for his radiogram and assured him that "we who inherit the traditions and the inspiration of the old 90th Division solemnly pledge that we shall measure up to our responsibilities."

General Terrell's complete message was as follows:

"We who inherit the traditions and the inspiration of the old 9th Division solemnly pledge that we shall measure up to our responsibilities. We shall not compromise with difficulties or obstacles but shall in all things carry out our orders as true soldiers do. We have been given a task, and we shall not fail it. We shall steel our souls and strengthen our determination so that when we reach the post of danger we shall make it a post of honor."

Break Down the Barriers

If the governor of North Pennsylvania should erect an electrically-charged barbed wire fence around his state to prevent citizens of other states from doing business with his people, the resulting sound and fury would rock the nation from the Maine woods to Hollywood's swimming pools.

The idea of free commerce between the states ranks almost with our other basic rights, yet there is hardly more free commerce between some of the states than between the United States and Germany. Obviously such local legal barriers hinder the all-out war drive.

Take local building codes. Strict compliance with those regulations has forced Washington to build war plants in comparatively undesirable locations. That means a waste of time and wasted time means wasted American lives on the battle fronts.

Take truck legislation, of which there are 45 varieties. As a result, manufacturers cannot build a heavy duty truck which could be operated legally in all the states. That means the free transport of goods, including war materials, cannot be achieved from some states to others. It would be just as sensible to put water hazards and high jumps on the highways, and make it a real steeplechase.

Take eggs, butter and other dairy products. We are urged to consume more of these commodities so we will be able to put that extra push on the assembly line, in the corn field, in the stores and mills. Donald M. Nelson says that push is necessary. Yet dozens of states dislike the eggs and dairy products of other states so much that a code of regulation and restriction snarls up free commerce in these vital foods. As a result, prices jump, an artificial scarcity appears and workers who need these products most find it more difficult to get them.

Dozens of other state "they-shall-not-pass" road signs clutter up the legal highways. Some of them, such as inspection of grains and animals for disease may be justified. Most of them bog down the victory drive and should be eliminated.

Do the special interests behind these trade shackles imagine for one minute that Hitler permits Munich to prevent trucks carrying shells from Essen to pass through without paying tribute? Do they think the local officials of Tokyo can pile special restrictions on rice from Japan's farming areas?

Whether the people, the federal government or the states and municipalities will strike down these barriers remains to be seen. State and local rights are one thing. The right of a nation of 130,000,000 to fight and work as one unit for the preservation of all is another—which cannot be denied.

SERIAL STORY

KINGS ROW

BY HENRY BELLAMANN

WHY STAY HERE?
CHAPTER XXXIII

NEXT day Parris had a call from Mrs. Skeffington—a peremptory invitation to tea.

Parris bowed over the long skinny hands.

"I'm awfully glad to see you."

"Glad to see you, too. I hear you've been skinning the state out of a hundred thousand dollars."

Parris sobered.

"All-right, all-right. Spout your story. Did that fellow, Drake McHugh, actually have anything to do with this?"

"Everything. I was in Europe."

"I heard. Smart. Didn't think Drake had that much guile."

"Well, his wife Randy—"

"Fond of those two, aren't you?"

"Yes."

"Loyalty's scarce nowadays. Dying out, along with most everything else worth talking about."

"I'll tell you about this real-estate business if you really want to know."

"Of course I do. That's why I sent for you today."

"Well, this really began when Drake's accident happened. Randy wrote me, or cabled me. . . ."

When he came to the end she peered sharply through her gold-rimmed glasses.

"I believe you."

"Thanks. His tone was dry."

"Well, you needn't be persnickety about it. I doubt if anybody else will."

"I don't think I care much."

"I hope you don't. The Colonel—well, you know how the Colonel would have reacted to all this. What you going to do about that dirty little newspaper?"

"It happened between Drake and me is—well, not for Kings Row. He was kicked around, Mrs. Skeffington, you know that?"

"So you think Drake's really a pretty good fellow, do you?"

"He's a very close and very dear friend. I love him more than anybody in the world, Mrs. Skeffington."

"Hm. Want to bring—what's her name?"

"Randy."

"Want to bring her up to see me someday? I guess I'd better know your friends if you are going to have them."

"I'll be delighted, and thank you."

"Parris."

"Yes, ma'am."

"Get out of this town."

"It'll never let you alone. It was a better town once."

"Are you sure?"

"Let me talk. A town can be the temporary camp of a tradition, of a good way of life. It can be an outpost for a long time. Sometimes the thing that made it live moves on—goes somewhere else. And a town like this—the way it is now—will go after you because you're better."

"But, Mrs. Skeffington, Kings Row isn't really my principal concern. It's the hospital, my work there. The patients out at the end of Federal street are just as important as patients in Baltimore, or Boston, or Zurich, or Vienna. There are—I haven't said this even to myself—"

"Go on."

"There are plenty of specialists in my field in the important cities, and in the famous clinics. But I'm the only one here, at present. I believe I'm useful. I'm doing what I set out to do when I was a kid. It might as well be here. This is home."

"I think you may be a fool."

"Maybe. I told you what Herr Berdorf said when I suggested he take a professorship at Aberdeen and let his stupid little congregation go to thunder."

"What did he say? I forgot."

"He said: 'Parris! I am a preacher.'"

"You're telling me the same thing, I see."

"No, not really. You are kind to think of me. Colonel Skeffington was heavenly good to my grandmother. You're just like him. But the Colonel stayed on in Kings Row, too!"

"He was tough. So am I."

"Then I'll be tough."

EVENTS and circumstances of the winter brought surprises to Parris. First of all he was surprised to discover that he cared what the people of Kings Row thought of him. For the sake of Drake and Randy he had to appear indifferent, but he did care.

The second surprise came when he sensed that the town as a whole regarded him, for a supposed respect.

Kings Row also rediscovered Drake McHugh. He was, after all, the nephew of old Major Livingstone. Mrs. Sansome was heard to say that Mrs. McHugh was said to be really quite acceptable.

Sarah Skeffington clapped her hands together like a convert at a camp meeting when she talked to Parris about it.

had a large number of poems published in over 300 publications in the past two years, in addition to reading poems over the radio at Mineral Wells, Brownwood and the Texas Quality Network in behalf of the Treasury Department at Washington, D. C. his latest poem follows:

THE PRICE

By Robert Moore, Jr.

All that we have, or hope to have,
Was acquired by paying the price,
The things worthwhile do not come free,
But with courage and sacrifice.

Our heritage of liberty,
That is ours to enjoy and hold;
Was gained by sweat and blood and tears,
Mixed with silver and yellow gold.

We, the heirs to freedom's estate,
Must pay the price and pay again,
To preserve the home of liberty,
And pave the way for peace to reign.

Now let's each of us do our part,
And purchase defense bonds and stamps,
To help to buy the tons of fuel,
That keeps the lights in freedom's lamps.

Let's be willing to pay the price,
The price for things worthwhile, and stand,
Firmly united in our war,
For hope and peace in every land!

Corn Belt Congressman Prunes Farm Funds; Illinois' Dirksen Aably Presents His Side

BY FRANK J. CONNOR, NEA Service Writer and Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—A large share of the $48 million or more of the Department of Agriculture appropriation bill in the House of Representatives goes to a big, toule-headed, 46-year-old Republican congressman from Pekin, Ill., Rudolph McKinkir Dirksen.

Despite the fact that he comes from the heart of the farm belt, Dirksen had had all of the New Deal farm experiments he could take, and he went to town to whittle some of them down to size. As a member of the sub-committee on agriculture in the House, Dirksen had been in on the five weeks' deliberation of that body when it held hearings and called before it the bureau chiefs whose mushrooming, manifold activities asked for more and more millions. Through thousands of pages of testimony and reports, Dirksen had gathered his information and his arguments, so that when the bill came to the floor of the House for open discussion, he was loaded for bear and ready to lead the attack.

Dirksen spoke on every one of the nine days the bill was before the House, and he varied his utterances from one minute up. In one of his minute arguments, he merely read three short paragraphs from the 1940 Agriculture Yearbook, part of a chapter called "Cultural Setting of Agricultural Problems" written by an economic historian from the Social Security Board. A sentence will give you the drift:

"However, once a subjective tradition breaks up, the new material operations may move quickly into the new integration, and subjective elements correlative with modes of living supported by the new material operations will coalesce into a new tradition."

On printing, on crop insurance, on Farm Security Administration, on the huge information sections, Dirksen cited them page, line and figure in a carefully documented case that left no answer.

On FSA, he pointed to 23,000 loans to purchase farm lands and set tenants up in business for themselves out of which 124 got outright grants and 10,059 had to have additional rehabilitation loans just to keep going in 1941.

On crop insurance, set up for wheat in 1938, he summarized the $31 million in administrative expenses, the $24 million in premiums, the $36 million in indemnities, the $12 million losses, the $43 million total cost to the government.

On a printing bill for $1.5 million, he suggested saving enough to send a couple of bombers to Bataan.

DIRKSEN is well over 6 feet and weighs 200 or more. He wears pince-nez glasses and when his thick brown hair is combed and he sits quietly behind his desk, he looks like any other lawyer, even though he works in his office in snirt steves.

In action, his hair comes uncombed and breaks into a mass of curls that give him an entirely different appearance, boyish, farm-merth.

He has been in Congress since 1933. He served in the last war advancing from private to captain, with 17 months' service overseas. He studied law at University of Minnesota.

One of the ablest debaters in the House, Dirksen talks in a fast but unforced, straight-shooting delivery, ad libbing from notes rather than reading a dry cut and dried prepared manuscript. The colleagues listen, even though they don't always vote with him.

POET'S CORNER

The poem, printed below, was submitted to this paper for publication by Robert Moore, Jr., of Brownwood, a National Youth Administration enrollee. Moore has a girls' school in New York state has a pistol range. Wonder if it comes under the head of domestic science?

Prayer Service For Victory Is Planned

LONGVIEW, Tex. — A "Prayer Service For Victory" service Sunday evening, April 9, will open the 16th annual convention of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber has announced that this year's meeting will be devoid of the usual entertainment and will be confined to the Sunday religious service and a business conference the following day.

New directors will be elected and speakers Monday will discuss the wartime business and agricultural program of the organization.

LOGISTICS

Strategy is the planning of warfare.
Tactics is the execution of those plans.
Logistics, the third branch of military science, is the supplying of everything necessary to strategy and tactics—in the right amount, at the right place, at the right time.

Now, in total war, we must apply the science of Logistics to all of our activities as a nation—civilian as well as military. WE-ALL are part of the Victory Program.

Our supply lines are literally life lines of the United Nations. Man-power and munition-power are the controlling factors.

Today, Logistics dictates strategy—determines tactics.

Congress has appropriated billions of dollars but it cannot appropriate one single second of time.

Time favors those who appreciate it as the priceless commodity it now is.

In war, when we save time we save lives—and we make our individual contribution to Victory.
