

Rubber Yields Plants Grow In State of Texas

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UP)—More than 100 rubber-yielding plants grow in Texas, according to J. E. McDonald, state commissioner of agriculture.

In an article prepared at the request of the South Texas Chamber of Commerce for publication in the chamber's magazine, McDonald said that Texas' superior guayule production potentialities offer a challenge to the Federal Government to decide whether it needs rubber badly enough to finance the industry here.

McDonald, citing specifically the offer of O. W. Killam of Laredo to give five years' free use of 6,000 acres of ranchland for guayule growing, said other Texans will gladly devote acreage to similar production if Washington will give the go-ahead signal.

Killam's offer was submitted through William C. King of San Antonio to federal authorities, with the additional proposal of a nominal rental on the land after the five years' free use.

The state commissioner observed that nature had picked Texas as the best place in the country to grow guayule, although "in California the Federal Government has spent a reported $2,000,000 in an experimental plant where the cost is $50 an acre."

He pointed out that in some Texas areas guayule grows wild and "is reasonable to think that the natural habitat of the plant is the place where it can better grow."

"There are two plans for producing guayule, but one is still unproved in quantity production, the commissioner continued.

"The first, long in use, is to allow the plants to grow four to five years, then cut them for the factory," he said. "The other proposes harvesting and replanting the guayule each year, claiming that, although the yield per plant is lower, the yield per acre per year is higher.

"If the second plan is proved satisfactory, it should mean that an immense amount of guayule could be produced in Texas."

Famous Hungarian Killed In Battle Italians Claim

ROME, Italy (UP)—(From enemy origin—not filed by a United Press Correspondent)—Stephan Horthy, a son of Hungarian Regent, Admiral Nicholas Horthy, was killed in aerial combat while serving in the Hungarian Air Force on the Russian Front, the Italian Stefani News Agency announced today.

Horthy, 35, was elected permanent vice regent by the Hungarian Parliament in Feb. 1942, a move which made him his father's eventual successor as chief of the Hungarian State.

East Texans Help Axis By Allowing Fires In Forest

COLLEGE STATION, Tex.—A lot of East Texans are helping the Axis whether they know it or not, was the opinion expressed by W. E. White, vice director of the Texas A. & M. College forest service in charge of forest fire protection today after he had analyzed the fire report for the pineywoods region covering the first six months of the year. More than 2,200 forest fires have burned 117,000 acres of privately-owned timberland in East Texas, the report showed.

Fires have occurred in merchantable or potential timber stands, and instances were reported of damage to standing timber which the government has declared of No. 1 vital importance and which forest industries are making an all-out effort to produce for needed Army construction right here in the state.

Incendiarism, smokers and field burning accounted for 90 per cent of the blazes during the six-month period. Other causes were all in minor amounts.

White said that it was hard to see how patriotic East Texans who were buying bonds, collecting scrap materials and doing war work could stand idly by and permit their forest resources which the government is needing in astronomical amounts to be damaged by carelessness or intent.

Secretary of Agriculture Wickard in a nation-wide radio broadcast said, "Every fire in our fields or forests this year is an enemy action or by the carelessness of an otherwise loyal American."

President Roosevelt has directed several government agencies and the Office of Civilian Defense to supplement protective measures of the armed branches in the anti-sabotage program on forests. A bill is now before Congress to amend the Anti-Sabotage act of 1918 to include "forest products and suitable standing timber" as "war materials."

Senator Is Sworn Into The US Army

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Aug. 20.—Before Judge J. R. Norvell, Associate Justice of the Fourth Civil Court of Appeals and lifelong friend and law partner, Senator Rogers Kelley of Edinburg today took oath as an Officer of the United States Army.

Senator Kelley has accepted a commission as First Lieutenant in the Air Corps and has been ordered to report at Miami Beach, Florida, where he will take a refresher course preliminary to reporting to the Commanding General, Gulf Coast Air Force Training Center at San Antonio.

Senator Kelley, not subject to draft because of his membership in the State Senate, will retain his seat with pledged cooperation of his colleagues to take care of his constituents. Kelley has a brilliant record as an attorney, Criminal District of Hidalgo County, and as the outstanding orator and one of the leaders of the Texas Senate.

Four Planes Shot Down Over Desert

CAIRO, Egypt, (UP)—The Royal Air Force today destroyed four German planes and damaged eight in a fight over the desert yesterday, it was announced today.

No mention was made of any British losses.

Priorities Cuts Into Manufacturing of Insignia for TDG

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP)—Metal priorities cut off the manufacture of emblems and insignia before all the battalions of the Texas Defense Guard had been equipped with them.

Many of the battalions, however, had adopted designs in time to have them made before the ban was put in effect. A collection of these has been placed on display in the office of Gen. J. Watt Page, adjutant general here.

The Second Battalion chose an insignia reminiscent of the old Houston Light Guards. The Fourth at El Paso, fittingly chose a picturization of the pass to the north, and the Fifth, at Austin, has a Victory V with the state capital as a background.

At Brownsville the 24th Battalion has a Texas star on a blue horizontal stripe separated from a red stripe by a narrow white band.

The battalion at Fort Worth, the Panther City, appropriately has a black panther as its emblem.

Dallas' 29th Battalion has the figures "29" worked out in the writing of a rattlesnake.

Battalion 30 at Denton uses a steer head over a cactus and a small snake coiled on the cactus.

Another battalion, the 45th, at Luling, has an outline of the state of Texas in white on a red background, and the 21st, at Woodsboro has the Texas star and a shamrock on a tri-colored shield.

Salesmen Now Kill Tall Tales Don't Tell Them

JACKSON, Miss. (UP)—GPs traveling salesmen in the Magnolia State have reversed the joksmith's legend and now are putting the botch on tall tales they hear in their travels.

It's part of the civilian defense work of the "knights of the road" and they're squeezing false rumors faster than they can talk a cross-road customer into buying three dozen instead of two.

The former jolly, hail-fellow-well-met purveyors of miscellaneous articles also are getting tough along the highways, and work-acrossly in their spare time at stop towns.

Several months ago J. S. Knight, a Jackson insurance man, fretted because his traveling prevented him from taking part in war activities, so he went to civilian defense authorities.

Out of this meeting emerged the new traveling salesman. Now they are patrolling the highways for the state police; mapping byways for emergency information and scotching propaganda among the gullible.

They have formed the Mississippi Auxiliary Highway Patrol, a corps almost 1,000 strong, commanded by Knight. Members have studied first aid. They spot stolen automobiles. They report on traffic violations.

Declare War On Rats Now Urges County Agent

Most farm people are aware of the money losses represented in the property destroyed by rats, but possibly many do not realize that this animal also is a carrier of some of the most dangerous diseases. One of these diseases, Typhus Fever, is increasing in this state at an alarming degree. There fore, for the protection of yourself, your family, your neighbor and the men in the army camps, let's wage war on the rats by rat proofing our buildings, poisoning and trapping them, and using every other practical means of reducing the damage done by rats.

One of the best methods of reducing the damage done by rats is to construct the farm buildings so that rats cannot get into them.

In poisoning rats some are getting good results with 1 lb. of Barium Carbonate to 4 lbs. of either hamburger, meat, fish, fruit or cereal. It would be advisable to use two or more of these at the same time to offer a variety of foods. In small quantities this would figure 4 ozs. Barium Carbonate to 1 lb. of meat or fruit.

CAUTION: Keep poison out of reach of children or livestock including poultry. Put the poison all out the same night. Pick up any bits that may be left over the next morning.

Contact Floyd Lynch County Agent of Extension Service of A. & M. College for further information.

With comparatively cheap barns, especially those having adjoining open sheds, it is more practical to rat proof only the storage cribs or bins. One method of doing this is to put a complete covering of 1/4" mesh hardware cloth outside of the inner lumber covering of the ceiling, walls and floors. If the building is already built, it may be completely covered inside with such material as second-hand sheet iron.

Woman, Injured Sunday, Removed To Fort Worth

Mrs. Raymond Gilder critically injured in a truck-car collision Sunday on highway 57 just south of Eastland, was removed from a Eastland hospital to Fort Worth where she is to undergo treatment from specialists.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilder, who were only recently married, were enroute to their home at Los Angeles, California, to Del-Loon to visit Gilder's parents when the accident occurred. Gilder, the driver of the gasoline truck, was both injured but not seriously. Both the truck and the car was badly damaged.

Mrs. Gilder's injuries included a head injury.

DIEPPE MAY BE PATTERN FOR FULL SCALE RAID ON WESTERN EUROPEAN COAST

Woman Has Good Success With Her White Leghorns

Mrs. Everett Harris of the Rising Star Community is getting from 90 to 100 eggs per day from her flock of white Leghorns.

Mrs. Harris keeps her pullets and hens separated in order that she can feed her hens laying mash and her pullets growing mash.

This is a very good practice according to County Agent Floyd Lynch of the A. & M. College Extension Service. The pullets should not be given laying mash until at least 20 per cent of the pullets began laying of their own free will and accord. If they are fed laying mash too early in the period before they have reached maturity they may be brought in to production before they are fully developed and there by not be able to continue laying. A neck molt is generally the results.

Another good practice that Mrs. Harris follows is to vaccinate and worm her pullets when they are four months old. The vaccines is for Fowl pox and when it is used the entire flock must be vaccinated if they have not previously been vaccinated. The vaccine gives lifetime immunity. It is recommended to flock owners, who in the past have had outbreaks of sorehead or fowl pox as the proper same. If you have never had trouble of this kind then do not invite trouble by vaccinating. For if once-began then you will have to keep it up, that is vaccinate the young when they are about ten to twelve weeks old or as soon as the cockles have been disappared from the flock at frying size.

Mrs. Harris follows the year round method of culling. About every two weeks she takes out the undersize, sickly, non-layer.

What do you think is meant by the "Great Unwashed"? It is a group or class of people? Is it the name of a novel, a Broadway play, crossword puzzle or picture magazine? Is it a new form of government?

For those who shun questionnaires and shudder at the mere thought of conundrums, Dr. Mack L. Shanholts, County Health Director of Wewoka, Oklahoma, furnishes the answer.

This worthy doctor—student of palpitating pulses, sociological problems, fixations and behaviorism—says the "Great Unwashed" is the "Public Drinking Glass; modern counterpart of the old-time common drinking cup."

Like most towns in America today, Wewoka, Indian capital and Seminole County seat, has become overwhelmed with problems brought on by the war effort. And like other health officers throughout the country, Dr. Shanholts is worried about the possibility of epidemics.

He became particularly concerned when inspectors of the Sanitation Department in his not so wild and woolly "Sooner" territory reported that a number of restaurants and drug stores were careless in adhering to the code which requires properly sterilized dishes and glasses.

"It is the glass that was not washed at all or was merely rinsed before it was handed to the customer."

Germany Admits 40 German Casualties, But Allied Reports Indicate That This Is A Gross Under Estimate Of The Enemy Casualties In Raid

Sulfa Drugs Saves Lives of Many Wounded

DENVER, (UP)— Revolutionary methods of treating war wounds which already have saved the lives of hundreds of soldiers and other new surgical discoveries have been taken back to all corners of America by doctors who attended the annual convention of the International College of Surgeons in Denver.

A means of setting and healing fractures without casts, use of sulfa drugs in prevention of infections, a delicate spinal operation stopping chronic pain and a simple new discovery of the external hemorrhages quickly—year were laid before the attending delegates.

At Pearl Harbor and in the European war theater, sulfonamides have saved countless lives by preventing spread of infection in wounds, Dr. Arnold S. Jackson of Madison, Wis., told the assembly. He said the discovery and development of sulfa-drugs marks one of the most brilliant episodes in modern surgery.

Dr. Roger Anderson, Seattle surgeon, explained his new castless repair of fracture which he says, enables doctors to treat soldiers on the battlefield and have them ready to walk away on crutches in less than half an hour with the bone already beginning to mend. Anderson's treatment consists of setting the bone through use of portable X-ray equipment and holding the break together with light metal pins and braces.

The attending doctors were deeply interested in the report of Nicholas N. Burdenko, chief surgeon of the Russian armies, who radioed the assembly that the mortality of Russian army wounded has been reduced to less than half of World War I figures. His radiogram, sent after he was awarded a fellowship in the college, said that 70 per cent of the Red Army wounded have been returned to the front line.

Harvey Sethman, executive secretary of the Colorado State medical society, predicted that every able-bodied American doctor under 45 will be serving with U. S. armed forces before the year is out.

The Allied military command appeared to be moving at record speed to apply the lessons of the Dieppe attack to plans for an eventual second front in Europe.

With the last battle-scarred veterans of the fierce battle still straggling back to Britain's shores high British, American and Canadian officers assembled to study first-hand reports to Command headquarters.

There was a growing belief in Britain that Dieppe forecast the pattern of bigger and better commando raids in the future, eventually blossoming into a full-scale invasion.

The German radio set the Nazi casualties at 400 killed and wounded, but reports from the Commandos and from Vichy indicated that this was probably a gross understatement.

It was believed in London that the Germans, alarmed by the apparent ability of the Allies to land strong bands of troops on the French coast would be forced to place their garrisons from Narvik to the Spanish frontier on a 24-hour-a-day alert basis.

Estimates of Allied losses were still lacking, but it was known that they were heavy.

There was only restrained reaction from Dieppe from Russia, where all Soviet hopes appear to be pinned on the opening of a full-scale second front.

Germany still were advancing both in the Caucasus and on the Stalingrad front, though the Russians announced they had launched counterattacks.

Bomber Paved A Way For Marines In Solomon Island

SYDNEY, Australia, (UP)— American dive bombers blasted at Japanese positions in the Solomon Islands for two hours before the United States Marines stormed ashore in their invasion barges, an eye witness revealed here today.

"Good Lord, there seemed to be hundreds of dive bombers and as soon as one formation came away another went in," said seaman Blinnie Barnes, bearded Queenslander, rescued from the sunken cruiser Canberra.

Showdown in India

Americans regret the crisis that has arrived in Britain's dealings with India.

Devoted by tradition and by choice to universal democracy, including the right of all people to make their own governmental mistakes, we are doubly pledged to the theory of self-determination by the issues for which we are fighting to the death.

Rightly or wrongly, most Americans incline to believe that the British have made a serious mistake, ethically and strategically, in not having given India her freedom—or at the very least, dominion status—long since.

Nevertheless, one must face facts in time of war. The facts are that Britain cannot afford to give Gandhi, at this time, what he demands.

Any realist, in Gandhi's position, should realize that India must choose the British or the Japanese; that India is in no position to defend independence; that the choice is between Britain's promise on the one hand and conquest by Japan on the other.

With all her faults, Britain has never imposed upon India such terrible slavery as would be inevitable once Japan took over.

The disorders which Gandhi invoked by his implacable decision are an invitation for which Japan has been waiting. They may well provide just the weight that the axis needed to permit German and Japanese forces to join and cut the United Nations in two.

As things stood when British had to act, whatever she did might easily prove wrong. The decision to arrest Gandhi may have been unsound. But at least it was a positive decision, and wars are not won by sitting around watching rabbits to hop out of hats.

It remains to be seen whether the relatively small Nationalist party represents sufficient Indian sentiment to control that country's part in the war.

The general strike in Bombay which immediately followed Gandhi's arrest may potent the worst.

Perhaps the remaining hope might lie in a hard and fast British agreement, witnessed and guaranteed by the United States, giving India now all that can safely be granted and, after the war, at firmly fixed time, complete independence.

This might fail. Or it might temper hot heads, and save the situation.

It appears that the Chinese need not only our jack but a lot of our aces.

BY PETER EDSON NEA Service Washington Correspondent

YOU never know what you'll find till you start to look for it, and that applies particularly to the collection of junk in wartime. Take the experience of Wright W. Gary, for instance. Mr. Gary is director of refining in Harold Ickes' fancy-named Office of the Petroleum Coordinator for War, known for short as OPC. Mr. Gary has just returned to Washington from a month's tour of U. S. oil refineries, and he has found, of all things, existing, idle refinery equipment which can be assembled in some 30 different areas and by the end of the year be put to producing 200,000 tons of butadiene a year.

Edson

Now this is important news. Butadiene, you'll recall, is the essential raw material that goes into synthetic rubber. Mix approximately 80 per cent butadiene with 20 per cent styrene, let 'em polymerize, which is the fancy chemical name for "build up" and Buna S synthetic rubber comes out here. The government's synthetic rubber program calls for the manufacture of Buna S synthetic rubber at the rate of 700,000 tons a year. 450,000 tons of it to be made from petroleum products. To produce the butadiene going into this Buna S rubber, the Rubber Reserve Company has let contracts for the construction and operation of some 24 butadiene plants, producing an average of 27,000 tons of butadiene each, or a total of some 650,000 tons. Southern California Gas, Humble Oil, Atlas Oil, Koppers, Sinclair and Cities Service are each building one butadiene plant. Standard of Louisiana, Neches Butane and Rubber Synthetics are building two apiece, and Carbide and Carbon Chemical are building 10.

First of the plants will start producing in September of this year, and the last in August, 1943. THE building of these plants requires a lot of critical materials, particularly copper and steel. In fact, a big part of the drawback in expanding the synthetic rubber program has been the scarcity of critical materials for the plants. Wright Gary's discovery of suitable butadiene refinery equipment already in existence are important, therefore, because they show that about 30 per cent of this 638,000-ton productive capacity may not have to be built, or that butadiene can be produced sooner than had been hoped, or that the butadiene and synthetic rubber programs can be expanded, or that 30 per cent of the critical materials scheduled to go into the butadiene plants can be diverted to something else.

Putting this equipment into operation simply requires that the refineries which now have the idle units swap among themselves or pool spare parts in such a way that complete plants can be assembled.

Tough Going

Texas Now Producing More Sulphur Than The Entire World Did In 1940

By GORDON K. SHEARER

THE Sulphur industry, started here, paid the state $3,780,316 in production taxes of 2,980,000 tons of sulphur. Of course, this 2,980,000 tons of sulphur was not produced on the 1,000 acres which the state sold for $6.97. Production there has ceased. The story of the $6.97 sale is told in a book on sulphur just published by William Haynes under the title "The Stone That Burns." Several chapters of this unusually thorough history of sulphur are given: 16 Freeport, New Gulf, Matagorda Big Hill, Bryan Mound, Hookins Mound and Boling Dome.

and the financing and engineering problems that were faced and overcome in development of Texas' great sulphur industry.

The volume is profusely illustrated with photographs, many being pictures of Texas scenes. The book's jacket in color shows one of the huge piles of Texas sulphur being loaded mechanically onto railway cars.

Haynes' interesting book tells, incidentally, how Boling Dome, biggest sulphur dome, is located on land granted originally to Stephen F. Austin, "father of Texas." It tells how E. P. Swenson, one of the early backers of sulphur development, sat in a big rocking chair in newly-built Tarzan Inn at Freeport when commercial production of sulphur began at Bryan Mound November 12, 1912.

Names of Texans appear frequently on the pages which narrate, for instance, how Lewis Min-of Houston was selected to build transportation into Bryan Mound and how in the flood of 1922, he had re-laid a mile and a half of washed-out railroad tracks before he was "found" after being reported missing.

Other interesting and some funny incidents of the early days of sulphur in Texas are narrated. The United States entire supply of sulphur comes almost exclusively from Texas and Louisiana, but the beginning of the present war found a supply on hand above the ground that was estimated would last the nation two years if no more sulphur were mined in that time.

"Mined" is the word used for sulphur production but, like oil, it is produced from wells in Tex-

Army Uses Sugar Cane In Bunkers

ARMY USES SUGAR CANE IN BUNKERS

CAMP LEE, Va. (UP)—Compressed sugar cane siding will be substituted for lumber in the new buildings to be constructed at the recruit reception centers here, Capt. E. M. Killough, post supply officer, announced.

Captain Killough reported that 18 barracks, officers' quarters and a warehouse will be added to present facilities at the reception center, and all will be constructed with substitute material.

The new material is being used to conserve lumber, and is one of the best insulating materials known, Captain Killough said.

"It is widely used in the building trades industries for insulating purposes and its use in exterior siding has been made possible by a coating, or by a surface of stone chips to make it withstand weather," Captain Killough said.

It was said that use of the material is being used to conserve lumber, and is one of the best insulating materials known, Captain Killough said.

Most interesting phase of the history presents details of the obstacles met and overcome in perfecting this way of "mining" sulphur with hot water, and the ingenuity of engineers and workmen in overcoming those obstacles.

BEAUFORD JESTER HAS CONSTRUCTIVE PROGRAM TO HELP WIN THE WAR

THE PEOPLE OF TEXAS in the Democratic primary of July 25th gave to Beauford Jester about 185,000 votes in a field of eleven candidates which placed him in the second primary election of August 22nd as a "runoff" candidate. This strong support was given this native Texan who has never before been a candidate for public office. The record made by Beauford Jester in both public and civil and military life and his full qualification for the office which he seeks makes him the logical candidate for the Democratic voters of Texas.

BEAUFORD JESTER OF CORSICANA NAVARRO COUNTY For RAILROAD COMMISSIONER

"Proper Regulation of Transportation and Oil Production are Essential to Our War Efforts"

ELECT A WAR VETERAN AS YOUR WARTIME RAILROAD COMMISSIONER ON AUG. 22, 1942

Beauford Jester served in the front line trenches in the first world war as a Captain of Infantry in the 30th Division, composed mainly of Texas soldiers. Holding a reserve officers commission he volunteered his services after war was declared last December but was unable to qualify physically. Since he is not able to serve in the army in the present war, Beauford Jester believes that as a member of the Texas Railroad Commission he can perform a valuable war time service to both his state and his nation.

Petroleum production and transportation are as indispensable to the winning of the war as are tanks, planes, guns and ships. The Railroad Commission has the important duty of regulating oil production in the greatest oil producing state of the union and also is responsible for regulating transportation in Texas. The Railroad Commission which in normal times calls for competent conscientious and patriotic service, becomes of greater importance in time of war. Harmony, team work and devotion to duty are essential on this vitally important commission if Texas is to play its fully part in the united war efforts of America. Beauford Jester is pledged to harmony and cooperation in the conduct of the railroad commission's affairs. He is making the race independently, as a lifelong Democrat, a native Texan, and without any prior commitments or obligations to anybody. He will cooperate with all other members of the Railroad Commission for the benefit of the people of Texas and toward the winning of the war.

Beauford Jester submits to the voters of Texas a program which is both reasonable and conservative. When elected Railroad Commissioner he will favor the following policies for this important department:

This ad is paid for by a group of the independent oil operators of Eastland County who are convinced that Beauford Jester, when elected, will, with fairness to all, administer the affairs of the Railroad Commission, and they earnestly solicit your vote for him on Aug. 22, 1942.

Pierce Brooks Leads Race For Rail Post

PIERCE BROOKS

DALLAS, Aug. 19.—Pierce Brooks, Dallas, is the choice of Texas voters as the man to fill the unexpired term on the Texas Railroad Commission. Brooks polled a plurality of more than 64,000 votes in the July primary, with eleven in the race. In the previous primary, Brooks polled 420,000 votes. "Let's finish the job we started in 1940," say Texans. "Pierce Brooks is entitled to the unexpired term. Elect Pierce Brooks on August 27." Paid Political Adv.

CHRISTIE LOSES SOMETHING CHAPTER IX

THREE things—Tommy's letters to the family, Sandra's job, and the loss of Stephen's were the sparks that touched off the marital explosion.

Tommy's bitterness and his petty jealousy of Bart, smoldering always near the surface, were all too apparent in those brief notes home. He didn't see much of Sandra, he wrote. Girls always went for insignias and stripes, and it didn't matter whether they were worn by single or married men. Girls were funny that way. Sandra had her entertainer's job and gave Bart credit for landing it.

Mrs. Colton said irritably: "I think Tommy has a right to be angry. Why should Bart waste any time with this girl? Bart has a wife, and if I do say so, a lovely one. I think all this is a reflection on you, Christie."

"All this?" Christie's tone was indignant. "I'm not sure what you mean. You know how Tommy is—he makes the biggest mountains out of the tiniest mole hills. I happen to believe Bart loves me. Just because he is polite to Sandra, Tommy sees green."

"I suppose I'm not very modern," Mrs. Colton retorted. "But I don't believe in married men flirting around."

Christie bit back excited words. She was furious with her mother—furious with Bart because she felt humiliated.

"I simply won't let anybody create trouble between us," she told herself. But her heart was heavy as she thought of Sandra, who was in a position to see Bart so often, and who had no scruples about trespassing.

Christie plunged more deeply in war work. Red Cross, home defense, victory garden meetings, Jan told her she was running a race with her—to see which one would be the skinny girl in the circus.

"And your eyes—they're not exactly filled with happiness, my dear sister," Jan said. "Wouldn't it be funny if you and I sat down and had a truth game. It might help, but we can't. We're not made that way."

"In the first World War, they always 'c'et la guerre," Christie said slowly. "I guess it's still the war. It is upsetting a lot of appreciators."

"You and Bart certainly picked the wrong time to be married. All you really knew about him was that he was good-looking and could dance."

"Ridiculous!" Christie spoke impatiently. "I had been dating Bart three years."

"Oh, dating! The time you really find out about a man is when the kitchen stove smokes and the kitchen sink is stopped up. Those little minor things, my dear."

"Oh, hush," Christie said. Maybe Bart was disappointed in her. Maybe marriage had proved dull and different from what he had expected. Maybe he would have been happier with some girl who was fun instead of a sober somebody who was taking the war seriously.

SHE was sitting in a little park across from the apartment the next Friday afternoon. Stephen found her there huddled under Jan's plaid coat—looking dejected and very much like a little girl.

"I'm a pretty good detective," Stephen said, smiling. "It didn't take me a minute to know why I got my job back. There I was—jobless, one day—and the next day called back. Mr. Wainwright told me someone in whom he had great confidence had confidence in me. This somebody told him he was too big and fine to listen to a lot of youthful and intolerant chatter. Funny thing, Christie, if I hadn't been so worried about Mother, I'd have wanted to stay fired."

"Stephen!" "Yep. There's something I want to do. I appreciate what you did, anyway. I think you are absolutely the most wonderful girl in the world."

His words were soothing to the open wound that was Christie's hurt pride. Stephen was a dear. He thought everything she did was right—wonderful, Bart didn't. "There's a little old blue goose on my shoulder," Christie said. "I can't seem to shake him off."

"That's bad," Stephen studied her sober face thoughtfully. "Too much work and too little play. Bad for Jill as well as Jack. Come on. I'll race you to that old band pavillion. There's nothing better for shaking off a blue goose than a good gallop."

"All right," Christie got to her feet, laughing. "All right!" Stephen quickened his pace and they were suddenly running close together. In the gathering dusk, she failed to see the hole that seemed to open up suddenly in her path. She stumbled and would have fallen, but Stephen caught her, holding her close for a moment.

Christie could hear the pounding of his heart. She drew away, speaking breathlessly. "Thanks, Stephen. I might have had a spill."

"I couldn't bear for you to be hurt," he said in a low tone. Christie avoided his gaze, and they walked on slowly. She was troubled. She must be more casual in the future. Stephen had sounded—oh, well, romantic was the word.

TOMMY came home the following week-end.

He looked around Christie's small living room with critical eyes. "How does Bart like it?"

"Oh, fine," Christie answered, without animation.

"Not good, not bad—but if it suits you two, I guess it's okay. I thought I was coming in with Bart last Friday, but I didn't stand in with the Powers-That-Be, so I didn't get leave."

"But Bart didn't come home last week-end?"

Tommy looked astonished. Then he laughed. "Don't hang me, that casual stuff. It was Friday, the 13th. Remember now? Bart and Sandra were driving off and I reminded them what day it was. Bart said it was lucky for him no matter what numerals were tacked on the day, and Sandra said she took her luck where she found it. Remember now? Did you have any bad luck?"

"Yes, I remember," Christie said in a low tone. "Yes, I had some bad luck."

"What, for instance?" "I lost something," Christie's voice choked.

She was fighting to be calm, to hold her head high until Tommy was gone. No use to let him know that he had pulled her world down for her in the last few moments.

"You are looking pretty low, Christie. Bart is, too. When I told him so, he threatened to pitch me out. He's a sorehead lately if I ever saw one. Have you had a row?"

"No," Christie whispered. "Please don't talk, Tommy. I can't bear any more."

She closed the door after him. She walked about, emptying the ash tray, moving an ornament on the mantle, stirring the fire. He had come home that day, but he had not come near her. He had been with Sandra. She could see them together. Sandra looking up at Bart, her dark hair like a cloud about her small face, her red poppy mouth lifted, her big dark eyes laughing at Bart.

"I didn't take her long," Christie thought, wildly. "I'll write him," she decided desperately. "I'll tell him I've found out there's someone else. He'll know what I mean. I'll offer him his freedom, and I'll say I want mine."

Civilian Pilots Are Needed For Naval Air Arm

The immediate need for civilian pilots to fill the posts of commissioned officers in the navy's air arm has become outstanding, Lieutenant Commander Barry Holton, senior member of the Naval Aviation Cadet Selection Board, Dallas, announced today as he issued a plea for civilian flyers to investigate this need for their services.

navy, civilian pilots with a minimum of 100 hours in the air, in any type plane, may be eligible for commissions. Age limits are 21-30 years, inclusive. If successful in passing a flight examination in secondary civilian pilot training equipment, the applicant will be given officer rank and sent to advanced training on active duty. On completion of this training, he will be sent to an advanced naval air base for further training on active duty and with pay. An officer's commission in class A-V (T) of the Naval Reserve follows completion of the instruction. Officers are designated as Naval Aviators (qualified naval flyer) and are assigned to active flying duty in capacities for which they are best qualified. Physical qualifications are similar to those for any naval flight training. Officer ability is an essential trait. Interested men should contact the Naval Aviation Cadet Selection Board, Allen Building, Dallas, Texas. Commander Holton said that these offers by the Navy Department are a direct result of the great expansion program being conducted by the Navy's air force. He explained that it also is an excellent opportunity for civilian pilots to receive their armed forces and become commissioned officers of the Navy.

His War Work Identical to '17 Job

These unusual pictures show George Tucker of Detroit doing almost the identical job today that he did in World War I. The picture at the left shows Tucker in 1917 at a milling machine in a Fisher Body plant which was engaged in building of warplanes. When this picture was taken Tucker was milling a propeller fitting. At the right is Tucker at his job today—again operating a milling machine on aircraft manufacture in a Fisher plant. The machine at the left was small in comparison with the one Tucker operates today, each mill machine were driven off a main-line shaft instead of each having an individual motor as at present. The manager of the plant where Tucker worked in 1917 was A. J. Fisher, who now is director of the Fisher Body Aircraft Section. Tucker, who has been with Fisher Body since 1917, is married and has one son.

Air Corps Proves It Has No Soft Men In Service

PECOS, Tex. (CF)—Down in the Pecos country, where, according to western history and cowboy thrillers, a man has to be tough to survive, several hundred air force officers and enlisted men are proving that this army force is no bunch of softies. These troops are preparing the new basic flying training school for the first contingent of cadets, scheduled to arrive about September 1.

Living in a temporary tent city, which they built on the Pecos Rotary Field, and messing from a field kitchen, they have taken the hottest Texas summer sun, dust storms, rattie snakes and an occasional quick shower right in their stride and returned for more.

There is no famed romance of the Old West for them. Instead, they are men with a job to do and they are getting it done. A canteen of water hangs from each soldier's hip, instead of the stowed six-shooter of earlier Pecos days.

Many of the soldiers are from eastern states. This assignment was their first introduction to cactus, dust storms, snakes, spiders, and back-breaking work under a boiling sun. But, far from complaining, they are, as they put it, "getting a real kick out of this soldiering in the wild west."

Daily they pile into big army trucks which haul them 15 or 20 miles over dusty roads to auxiliary landing fields where, armed with shovels, axes and hammers, they cut out mosquito and cactus, level off runways, construct buildings or do one of the hundreds of other jobs necessary to construct a huge pilot training school.

Led by Col. Harry C. Wochart, commanding officer, who has a reputation for getting flying schools built on time, these tanned and grinning young Americans, who have dubbed themselves "the Pecos Kids", are getting the job done on schedule and winning the admiration of hardy Texans from a land where a man has to be tough to survive.

TO THE VOTERS OF EASTLAND COUNTY:

I desire to make the following statement concerning the circular distributed by John Hart on last Saturday, August 15th, as many of my friends think it is a "slap" at me.

I did not put out any circular and do not know who did, however it seems the only criticism about the circular was that they were unsigned and not printed on "white paper" but no denial as to their truthfulness. My official record is public property and any official act I make or do officially belongs to all the people and they can put out or make any statement, signed or unsigned, concerning my official acts.

I care nothing about how John Hart ran his office and have said nothing about it, but I want to say here and now that I will sign anything that I write or put before the people and will back up anything I say.

No one will deny the truthfulness of the statements that John Hart DID hire two out of the county men as his deputies and he DID move to the county and had no telephone service in his residence. If this can't be verified by public records, I will resign my office and turn it over to Mr Hart.

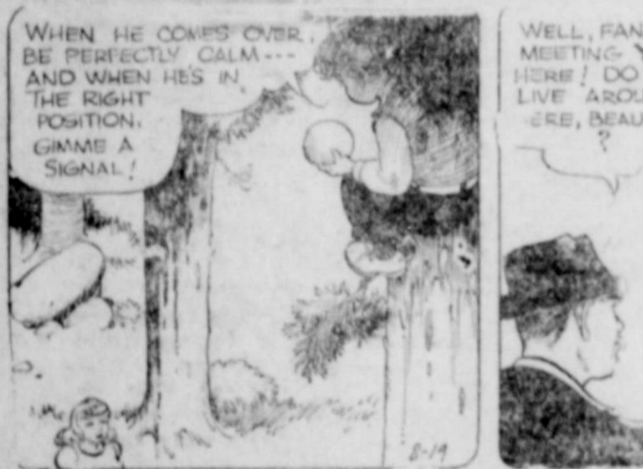

Next Saturday, August the 22nd is election day and I take this opportunity to solicit your vote and support. I am running my race on my own merits and fully believe I can render you the kind of service which you should have these perilous times. If elected, I will continue to give you the very best service I am capable of giving. Thanking you, I am,

Very truly yours,

Proposal to Stranger Is Answered by Police

MILWAUKEE (UP)—Daniel J. Skinner of Milwaukee overestimated his charm. He proposed marriage to an attractive 20-year-old girl who sat next to him in a theater. Unfortunately, for Skinner, the girl rejected his offer and called the police.

Police found four unused marriage licenses, issued in different states, in the 23-year-old would-be Romeo's possession. District Judge Harvey L. Neelen admonished him saying, "It isn't wise to propose to a stranger."

"It's been done before and sometimes it works," Skinner retorted. He was held for examination.

Rotarians Guests Of Boy Scouts

Members of the Ranger Rotary Club were guests of Troop 12, Ranger Boy Scouts, at an early-morning breakfast at the Willows Wednesday, when bacon, eggs and coffee were served.

In spite of the early-morning hour one visiting Rotarian was present to make up attendance. He was M. C. Monroe of Sweetwater. In addition to the mayor the only other visitor was John Hatton, chairman of the Troop 12 scout committee.

Announcements were also made at the breakfast of scout activities to be held in the near future.

Chief Of Police Chases Man Twice Before Getting Him

Chief of Police Lee Ames related today, a story about a long automobile chase he had to catch a man charged with disturbing the peace in Ranger.

The man was kept in the city jail over night, and the next morning promised to go to his home in the country and get the money to pay his fine. Chief Ames insisted on going with him, and agreed to let the man drive his own car, and Ames would follow in the police car.

The man gave Ames a long chase, finally losing the police chief when the police car got stuck in deep sand on a back road.

The next day, accompanied by E. F. Shelton, local constable, Ames went to the man's house, and when he found he was not at home, started back to Ranger. A few miles from town he met the man, going toward his home, and another chase ensued. The man finally abandoned his car and ran through the woods.

The car was brought back to Ranger, where it was put in storage, and Chief Ames went to Eastland, where the man was reported to be ready to be inducted into the army. He found the man there and brought him back to Ranger, but released him in time to catch the bus for the induction center.

The automobile he was driving, which belongs to a brother, is still being held by Ranger police, who said they would likely turn it over to the man's father.

Conventions of WTCC Postponed For The Duration

ABILENE, Tex.—There will be no general convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce this fall, or for the duration—this by overwhelming vote of the board of directors, it has been announced by the organization's headquarters office.

Instead of the general assembly the regional chamber, by vote of its directors, will conduct a referendum convention over a 2 weeks period, October 15 to November 1, terminating in a clearance meeting of a combined work and elections committee. This will be held November 4 and 5 in Abilene, the headquarters city.

The director's vote was taken by mail. The affirmative response on both proposals presented by J. Thos. Davis, president, was almost unanimous. Only one director favored holding the general session and only four were against the referendum plan. The votes were canvassed Thursday and the results made public Friday in a statement by Davis as a measure to conserve rubber through elimination of convention travel and in support of the war effort.

Translation Of Scrap Into War Materials Cited

AUSTIN (EP)—George B. Butler, executive secretary of the Texas Salvage Committee, has some data on what scrap metal means translated into terms of war material.

The data ranges from the information that one flatiron will provide the steel for helmets for two soldiers to what a collection of a million and a quarter tons of scrap steel would provide.

This amount, Butler said, will be enough for building more than twice as many battleships as there are in the world today. If it is turned into bombs, it will provide enough 2,000-pound bombs to drop three a minute incessantly for three years, or, enough 100-pound bombs to drop one a second for three years.

The trend toward expressions, in the term of war purchases, promises harder sledding for the people who come before the next State Legislature asking appropriations.

The college asking for a new building will be confronted with data on how many airplanes or bombs or ships could be provided for the same amount of money or material. The employe listed for a raise in pay will be reminded how many soldiers could be paid with the same amount.

Canada's Farmers Winning Food Production Battle To Feed United Nations Despite Wartime Problems

ONE of the vital divisions of Canada's war efforts is the production and shipment of agricultural products. When England's continental food sources were invaded, Canada became its nearest source of food supply. To meet the expanded demand, the Dominion has achieved an output described as "quite short of miraculous."

Vast quantities of poultry and dairy products are current; in the year ending March 31, 1942, 1.5 billion pounds of cheese and during the Spring months 23 million dozen eggs were produced for shipment to England. These quantities represent a large percentage more than that contracted for.

As well as foods, there has been substantial advance in the output of fibre flax, grains and other field crops. All of this would have been exceptional under normal circumstances, but with a diminishing of manpower on the farms it is an outstanding achievement.

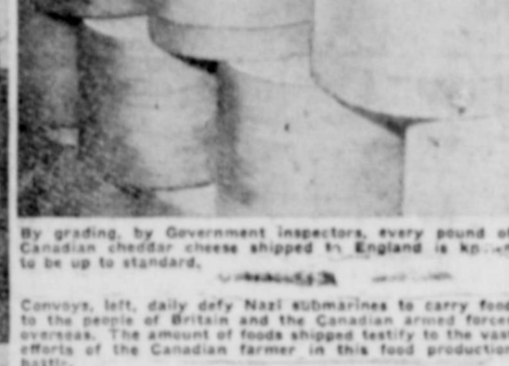

Swiftest growing farm industry in Canada is the production of dried eggs. These Grade A eggs are ready for the breaking room. Three dozen eggs make one pound of powder, retaining all the food value of fresh eggs.

"Let's get on with this war!" demands the hard rock chick, left. By Fall she will be doing her part to feed the Allied Nations.

Women are stepping in to replace the men called into armed service. This young woman takes her pet kitten into the milking shed, to prove "where it comes from."

By grading, by Government inspectors, every pound of Canadian cheddar cheese shipped to England is known to be up to standard.

Convoys, left, daily defy Nazi submarines to carry food to the people of Britain and the Canadian Armed Forces overseas. The amount of food shipped testifies to the vast efforts of the Canadian farmer in this food production battle.

Clean Premises Help Cheat Fire Bomb's Hazard

AUSTIN, Tex. —While all of us hope that our homes will not be fired by incendiary bombs from enemy planes, it is wise to practice a few simple precautions that will help control such fires, is the suggestion offered by Marvin Hall, State Fire Insurance Commissioner.

"The most important thing to remember," he said, "is to avoid keeping unnecessary materials that may provide fuel for fire. Basements, attics and closets are prolific with fire hazards. This is particularly true of attics, which would be the most likely part of a house hit by a fire bomb."

"We keep Aunt Mary's graduation dress, father's first long pants, baby's first shoes and many other such things in old trunks and boxes, or even loose in the attic. "People in inland cities might think such precautions are not necessary, but cluttered attics, basements and closets are breeding grounds for fires under normal conditions. A fire started through carelessness and neglect will burn just as much property as one started by a fire bomb."

A substantial reduction in the tremendous fire loss of this country would result from a thorough hunt for fire hazards from attic to basement of every home, and removal of such hazards, the Commissioner stated.

"Texas home owners," Hall continued, have recently earned an annual saving on fire insurance in excess of two and a half million dollars because they have successfully prevented fires. In order to retain the saving already earned there must be no relaxation in preventing fires."

IT'S JUST SIMPLE ARITHMETIC THE MORE PEOPLE SEE YOUR AD THE MORE RESULTS YOU'LL GET

Place your ad in the newspaper that goes into the homes of Ranger and you will be sure of a large reader group and big results. These results are based on the fact that your ad in the Ranger Times is not only seen by a large group of readers, but is accepted by them. Plan a Summer advertising campaign in the Times and watch the business roll in.

One plus one equal two. The formula for successful advertising is simple: a large reader group plus reader acceptance equals more results. Let us put this formula to work for you.

THE RANGER TIMES

RANGER STORES ARE NOW STOCKED FOR OPENING OF SCHOOL BUYING SEASON

With the 1942-43 school season opening at a time when the entire world is upset by war, planning the students' wardrobes may be more of a problem than ever this year.

But with Ranger stores stocked with merchandise chosen months ago because of their appeal, as well as utility, little trouble should be encountered in picking out the proper clothing for pupils in the grammar schools, those in high school and Junior college, or even for those who have completed their preliminary education and are now ready to go to some institution of higher learning.

Much has been heard recently about priorities and War Production Boards and many were fearful, last spring, that by this fall fashions, particularly for the younger generations, might be rather staid and old-fashioned. But quite the contrary is true, a trip through the local stores will reveal

Instead of some of the more or less outlandish garments of yesterday are plainer, better fitting garments that lend an air of sophistication rather than the flamboyant. But this does not mean that colors are not good this year, because, in spite of former prediction and fears, colors still are to be found in a large variety of shades that blend well with the modern clothing displayed for the high school or college miss.

Shirts, jackets, sweaters and blouses are to be as popular as ever, both for the ward school girls as well as for her older sister, and large assortments may still be found, purchased especially for the school opening season, and for fall and winter wear.

For the school and college youth, too, slacks and jackets, or sweaters, are still in good style, with the restrictions placed upon woolen garments, including the cuff-less slacks, giving a more grown-up effect than ever before.

Ranger stores have especially stocked this year, with the view to supplying all the school season needs, because it was realized that many who had previously purchased their school clothing in the cities in which the larger colleges and universities are located, will now purchase from the ample stocks, not only because the assortment is here, but to conserve time and transportation costs.

And Ranger merchants are all prepared to aid in selecting just the right garments that will give service and good looks at the same time.

Schools Bring More Families To Ranger

Between 10 and 12 families have moved to Ranger in the past few days in order that their children might attend the Ranger public school, or Ranger Junior College, it was stated today by Dr. G. C. Boswell, superintendent of schools and president of the Junior College.

Recalling from memory several of these families, Dr. Boswell stated that two families had moved from Carbon to Ranger, one from Breckenridge, one from Weatherford and one from Berger, in addition to several others which had visited his office and had stated that they were moving to town in order to further their children's educational possibilities here.

CPT COURSE IS OFFERED BY COLLEGE

Students entering Ranger Junior College will have the advantage of taking CPT training this fall through the Navy V-1 program.

This CPT training will enable the student to complete his sophomore year and then transfer into aviation or the Navy V-5 program.

This is the type of program that every young person who is physically able to pass the navy physical examination should be interested in.

This program entitled a freshman to do two years of college work before being called into service, or if a sophomore, it will allow the person to complete his sophomore year and then be transferred to the Navy V-5 program, thereby giving the student the privilege of attaining academic training and at the same time prepare toward officers training in the Navy.

However, should a student take the CPT training program and fall on courses at any time during

Mayor Walker Is Named On State NYA Advisory Committee Again By The NYA National Administrator

Mayor Hall Walker of Ranger, who has been one of the most active men in the State of Texas in National Youth Administration matters, has been re-named a member of the Texas State Advisory Committee, Mayor Walker was informed of his appointment in a letter from Aubrey Williams, National Administrator, of Washington, D. C.

The letter to Walker, advising him of his appointment, reads as follows: "Mr. Hall Walker, "Ranger, Texas, "My Dear Mr. Walker: "It is my great pleasure to ask you to serve as a member of the Texas State Advisory Committee of the National Youth Administration and industry, for the fiscal year 1942-43.

"The National Youth Administration, as you know, is a definite unit in the total war effort with the responsibility to train boys and girls to take their places in war industry. Our program has been adjusted for national use to fill a national need. Our production work is mainly for the Army and the Navy. "The president expresses the desire, which I of course share, that we carry on the NYA's war program in close cooperation with the citizens in the communities functions that have been so helpful in the past.

"While the changes of the program will mean some changes in the types of committees' advice and assistance, we very seriously need at this time your counsel and aid in fulfilling the assignment given us for the best possible contribution to winning the war." "Sincerely Yours, "Aubrey Williams, "Administrator."

Three Tenths of an Inch of Rain Falls Over the Week-End

Three tenths of an inch of rain fell at Lake Hagaman Sunday and Monday mornings, it was reported today by M. H. Alexander, superintendent of the Ranger pump station.

One half of an inch of rain fell at the pump station three weeks ago, which he neglected to report. On that date no rain fell in the city of Ranger, although a good shower fell at the lake area so the report was not made for fear any readers of the Times would not believe it. Alexander stated today when he reported the week-end rain fall.

Lions Pledge Aid For Scrap Drive

At the regular weekly meeting of the Ranger Lions Club, Rev. David M. Phillips, chairman of the local scrap metal drive, was present and urged the cooperation of the club in conducting the drive locally. The club pledged its full cooperation.

At the conclusion of the meal the group went to the road signs, which have recently been erected on the highway entrances to the town, and had pictures taken. These pictures are to be sent to the Lions national magazine for publication.

Navy Enlistments From This County Far Below Quota

In the U. S. Navy's campaign to enlist at least 6000 men during the months of August and September, in which campaign Eastland county has been assigned a quota of 56 men, 8 men have been enlisted from this county. Lieutenant L. H. Rideout, Jr., officer in charge of the North Texas recruiting district, announced today.

"Many counties are reaching their quotas, but the reports from this county is far from encouraging," said Lieutenant Rideout. He was confident, however, that the various civic groups and committees aiding in this tremendous drive for recruits would redouble

DR. BOSWELL IS CHAIRMAN OF RED CROSS

Dr. G. C. Boswell was elected chairman of the Ranger branch of the Eastland County Chapter of the American Red Cross at a meeting held Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The action counteracted the action taken last week in electing a number of officers, it was stated by E. E. Freyschlag, county chairman, who pointed out that the election held last week was not in keeping with Red Cross procedure, as many of the officers named are appointive.

T. J. Anderson was named vice chairman, Mrs. P. M. Kuykendall secretary, and Pleas E. Moore, treasurer.

An executive committee, to be composed of the four officers and three appointees will select the chairman of the various departments, except where appointment has already been made by the county council.

Appointive officers will include chairmen of the disaster committee, of the first aid and accident committee, the annual roll call chairman; chairman of the public information committee, and chairman of the volunteer special service committee. The volunteer special service committee will have four sub-committees, including production, canteen, hospital and recreation and surgical dressing committees.

Chairmen already named from the county headquarters include: Rev. David M. Phillips, chairman of the home service committee; Mrs. W. C. Palmer, chairman of the nursing committee; Mrs. Stanley McAnelly, chairman of the nutrition committee, and Mrs. Vin O. White, chairman of the Junior Red Cross.

Members of the local voluntary navy committee aiding in the campaign are: Eastland, Henry Pullman, Head of American Legion Committee.

Defense Town Study Is Made by University

AUSTIN, Tex. — What happens to a small town and its people when, almost overnight, the village becomes a city? The question is at least partially answered by a study made of a defense boom town by the department of sociology at the University of Texas. Under the direction of Dr. Harry Moore, professor of sociology, a study has been made of Bastrop during the period of construction in Camp Swift, east new army base in Central Texas.

"The friendly spirit of a town where everybody knew everybody else is inevitably lost," reports Harold Garfinkel, research assistant. "Local customers, for instance, seemed to realize for the first time that their friends, the merchants, were in business to make money."

Long-time residents of Bastrop were in the habit of dropping into a store, talking to the merchant for a while, and then perhaps walking out without buying anything. With a "boom" on merchants were too busy for talk during working hours.

The major change, then, so far as the people were concerned, was a growing trend toward impersonal relations, Garfinkel declared. The social life of the town, once a very important thing, was neglected. Bridge parties, teas, and other functions were almost forgotten, for Bastrop housewives were too busy. They were turning their spare time over to boarders and many of them were doing all their own housework, because domestic help had flocked to the camp, where wages were higher.

"There was little contact between the old residents of Bastrop and the transient construction workers," Garfinkel said. "The transients were there to do a job, and they had no interest outside that job. They took little or no part in church activities, and none whatever in civic affairs."

Mail from outside was an obsession with the construction workers, the sociologist found. The postmaster reported that they stood in line before the window opened, and rapped on the doors after the office was closed. They waited for an hour or longer for mail they didn't have, and called for it between trains.

"Now that the construction workers are gone, it still seems unlikely that Bastrop can in every way revert to its former free-and-easy, leisurely pace," Garfinkel said.

100 Miles to a Gallon FORT MYERS, Fla. (UP)—Otis Brannen of Fort Myers, Lee County Agricultural Adjustment Administration compliance supervisor, has constructed a home-made motor-bike which enables him to travel approximately 100 miles on a gallon of gas. Brannen installed the motor of an old washing machine on the back of his bicycle and arranged the gasoline and clutch controls on the handlebars.

Helps 500 Men, Once Rejected To Enter Service

DETROIT, AUG. 11 (UP)—More than 500 soldiers are now serving in the Army and Marine Corps because one man's war effort made it possible for them to pass their physical examinations after failing the first time.

This service by which applicants rejected for minor defects are rehabilitated for the armed services, was started in November, 1941 by William H. Malloy, child welfare chairman of American Legion Post No. 327.

Malloy obtained the idea for his rehabilitation service when he read newspaper stories that there were no such facilities available for men who had been turned down. Recruiting officers promised to send him men who had been rejected for the services, Malloy arranged to have them treated, if they were without funds, at city and community fund agencies.

Junior College Best Equipped For Science, Business Administration, Academic Courses, Boswell States

Dr. Boswell had this to say about Ranger Junior College:

"In all my experience in teaching in the Public Schools and colleges of Texas I find that Ranger Junior College is the best equipped for the teaching of Sciences, Business Administration and other academic courses of college rank. With the new equipment that has gone in to the department of Science and Business Administration and the great improvement done in the Library, students who are eager to obtain an education should find their studies easily planned to carry on an excellent program."

"The College faculty is composed of men and women who have had special training and who are interested in developing young men and young women to their fullest capacities. Then another great asset for Ranger College is that its graduates are filling places of highest importance, in state, business, etc."

"It was one of the first colleges to be recognized by the Government in its National Defense Program, that is R. E. C. Young Men may continue their college education, be regular enrolled in the Army, Navy, Coast Guard etc., and attend Ranger Junior College or any other college that has been classified by the National Agencies."

"From the standpoint of cost there is not a college anywhere that equals what Ranger can offer you, therefore, it seems that Ranger Junior College has something that should be very carefully criticized, analyzed, and compared by all who are interested in education."

Graduation At Nursery School Will Be Friday

Graduation exercises for the five-year-old children who have been attending the Ranger WPA Nursery School were held Friday at 1:45 p. m. at the school. The rooms were attractively decorated with cut flowers, marigolds and zinnias grown on the nursery school grounds. The chairs seating the graduating class were roped off with gold and white, and the diplomas tied with gold and white ribbon.

The program was as follows:

"Win War First" Is Slogan For Brook's In Runoff

Pierce Brooks, runoff candidate for the unexpired term of Railroad Commissioner, has as his campaign pledge: "Win the war first."

"I will insist that everything possible be done to co-operate with our state and national governments in giving all-out support in the transportation of troops, materials and supplies during the present emergency, I am familiar with the problems of the railroads, freight and bus lines, truckers, oil men, the farmers and the ranchers. They will receive friendly, efficient service and thorough co-operation in settling their problems, when I am elected to the Railroad Commission."

In his speeches and radio addresses, Brooks pledges the preservation of our natural and physical resources. He insists that the suggested rationing of gasoline in Texas is unnecessary, pointing out:

Professional—Mrs. Viola Lyons. Song (audience)—America. Reading "The Sunshine of a Child's Smile"—Barbara Ann Cooper. Song, Class—As I Was Walking Down The Street. Mother's Helpers—Four Girls. At the conclusion of the exercises the class was served refreshments of ice cream and each child was given an American Flag as a favor.

that on the eastern seaboard, where rationing is now being experienced, they do not have available transportation facilities as we have, nor the proximity of our vast oil fields and refineries.

To the oil men of Texas, Brooks has promised his complete support in their war effort. "The oil men of Texas are doing what all of us should do. They are helping Uncle Sam. They are getting victory out of our good earth in the form of vital petroleum, needed by our United Nations in this terrific crisis."

Throughout the state business men, professional men, families in every walk of life are wholeheartedly endorsing Pierce Brooks as the man entitled to the unexpired post on the Railroad Commission. Everywhere you go the good news is being broadcast. "Pierce Brooks, the businessman and friend of the people will be elected."

RANGER JUNIOR COLLEGE PREPARES for LIVING

IN TIME OF WAR PREPARE FOR PEACE CONTINUE YOUR EDUCATION!

Never before in the history of America has education . . . formal education . . . played so important a role in the lives of our children and ourselves. What opportunities are opening up for the educated! Not so long ago, folk were beginning to question the value of advanced education. They were able to get jobs without going on in school, and they were filling them while many of their better educated friends were doing no better, had risen no higher. The scene has changed, however, and the question of education is being answered by Uncle Sam . . . by industry . . . by the armed forces.

Skilled educated men and women are in demand everywhere. They are filling bigger positions and earning higher salaries. Here are some of the fields in which higher education is either compulsory or preferred:

REC Program which consists of the Army, the Navy, the Coastal Guards and the Marine also CPT program . . . The United States is so interested in acquiring men of superior education that has inaugurated a plan whereby college men may enlist in the REC and remain in school with the idea of training to become officers. Students in their freshman or sophomore years who are interested in knowing the details of this plan are invited to contact their local Recruiting Station for further information.

The only college between Fort Worth and Abilene that is listed in the coordinated Naval, Army and Marine program as shown in the government bulletin as dated June 27, 1942.

Experience has shown that the best qualified men are able to master technical difficulties and assume the responsibilities of an officer's commission are those who have had adequate schooling and discipline.

Government and Business

More jobs than ever are open these days, but the best jobs in both government and private offices are open to people with college degrees, with training in engineering, mechanics, business administration, etc. Competition is keen, as always, and the man or woman of education WINS!

TO PARENTS: There is a moral to the story! It's "business as usual" in the education of your children! The education they do not get at the proper time is seldom replaced in later life. Keep your boy of draft age in college until he is called! Give your girls training that will help them fill the fine, useful positions women are needed for. Educated minds will be builders of a new and better post-war America!

COLLEGE COST—The total cost for attending Ranger Junior College is less than any college in Texas. This college has the highest possible classification. Excellent facilities for the teaching of natural sciences, business and other academic courses.

Applications For Pre-Flight Course Are Pouring In

AUSTIN, Tex. —Applications are already pouring into the University of Texas Interscholastic League Office here for the Navy Pre-Flight Physical Fitness School to be held at the University August 23-30, according to Roy Bedichek, League Director.

A short course—open to high school coaches and physical education teachers as well as to superintendents and principals—is planned to prepare the school men to instruct high school boys in the skills and athletic regime that will fit them for the vigorous training of the U. S. Navy Air Force.

It will include such activities as mass exercises, military track work, boxing, wrestling, tumbling, hand-to-hand combat, football and basketball.

Fourteen top-ranking Navy physical fitness specialists will be brought here to provide instruction.

University facilities will be open to enrollees, including living quarters in dormitories, gymnasium, swimming pool, and athletic fields.

Only fee will be $12 to cover room and board. Applications should be sent to the Interscholastic League, Austin, and should include check or money order covering the room and board charge. Enrollment will be limited to 150 men.

"This is a remarkable opportunity for Texas coaches and teachers," declared Dr. D. K. Brace, University professor of physical education and state director of the Texas Physical Fitness Program. "Attendance at this school will be one way in which a vital war service can be rendered to the country by civilian coaches and teachers who are really interested in improving the physical fitness of Texas manpower."

Paid 30 Years Later

FORREST CITY Ark. (UP)—A Forrest City merchant has just had a renewal of faith in human nature. The merchant, Sam Sharpe, recently received through the mail a check from a North Carolinian who more than 30 years ago borrowed $15 from him. The check not only covered the debt, but was for $30, the additional $15 being "interest" on the loan.

Girls Swamp Police For A Phone Job

SEATTLE, (UP)—The whole business began when Police Chief Herbert D. Kinsey and Mayor William F. Devin conferred and decided to replace policemen on the switchboard with women operators.

After consulting the budget department it was decided to pay six girl operators $125 a month each.

Then the applications landed into the police department. The girls, it appeared, were willing to desert their present positions en masse and join the police department staff.

"The language they would hear is frightful," one veteran police operator said. "But it doesn't hurt us," one girl replied. "It's something fierce."

Faculty For Ranger Schools Is Completed For the 1942-43 Year

Dr. G. C. Boswell, superintendent of the Ranger Public Schools and president of Ranger Junior College, has announced that the teaching staff of the schools has now been completed, with the following changes being made in the teaching personnel:

Miss Lillian B. Strain, who has been a teacher in the Ranger schools for a number of years, has been named principal of the Hodges Oak Park school, replacing H. C. Scruggs. Scruggs has accepted a position as head coach of the Ranger High School, and teacher of biology in the high school.

Mrs. Leslie Hagaman has been named principal of the Cooper school.

John R. Weaver has been selected as teacher of general science in the high school and junior college, and will teach physical education for junior college boys. Weaver will live in Gorman and will drive the school bus running between Gorman and Ranger.

J. E. Lightfoot, a graduate of the University of Texas, will teach economics and education in Ranger Junior College. Miss Lightfoot will be a teacher in the Hodges Oak Park School. She, also, is a graduate of the University of Texas. They come here from Columbia.

Miss Carrington from Greenville, who received her M. A. degree from the University of Texas, will teach physical education for junior college and high school girls.

Miss June Carvey has been named primary teacher in the Young School, replacing Miss Johnnie Ross.

Miss Floris Ashley, who received her M. A. degree from the University of Texas, will teach mathematics in junior college and will teach the new aviation course in high school.

Why Youth Should Go To College

By DEAN H. L. BASKIN

This question, that innumerable students in this and other generations have asked themselves, when on the threshold of higher education, has evoked always some form of answer. The answer, if in the negative, has at least, for the moment removed from the individual making such decision, a plan or a burden of forging ahead trying to pay a nominal college expense. But have we not all heard many a person in their mature life give expression to the regret of not having finished their education.

Many good people of even a generation before us, had in a measure, a most valid excuse for not having attained what they so much considered a reasonable preparation for life in the so-called academic studies. The scarcity of higher institutions, a slower mode of travel, less system in the institutions of learning, a more limited spread of the scientific courses, lack of finances, orphanage and host of other factors did contribute and do even today add to that wall of obstacles which fences out the young college prospect.

But I am wondering, if the urge of ambition is strong enough, are there sufficient good reasons today for the per cent of students failing to gain higher education, to use the reasons and sincerely ask themselves if they have given themselves the very best opportunity that they might have had.

Did someone say or have our observations led us to believe that in a great majority of the cases where young men and women grow right on by and thru their college days without availing themselves of the benefits of schooling, is it lack of opportunity, or lack of ambition to use that opportunity. We are not to judge. The individual must answer that question.

Young men and women your day is now. You are blessed with youth, with a minimum of material obligations, with a maximum of possibilities. Use those implements now in your hands. Set you a goal, mark out a plan. Give yourself a challenge not to go a route of least resistance but a course that will call for effort, inspire confidence, demand initiative and at the end of an academic period, you can invoice your progress and find that you have added to your personal equipment: definite knowledge, now confidence, inspiration to do and with a gain in admiration from those concerned in your growth.

In some 35 communities of Texas, there have been established institutions offering the first 2 years of college training.

Ranger Junior College is among that list of colleges. It is in reach of you financially and geographically. Bus service from Ranger extends in most every direction to accommodate those surrounding communities, who are our neighbors and want to be a part of our college growth by enrolling in Ranger Junior College.

To you the young people of Ranger School District, may I extend a hearty invitation to enroll in college on registration day.

Utilize the college work you have at your own door. The latest classification of Junior Colleges of Texas, by the Association of Colleges published July 15, 1942, places Ranger Junior College again in the list of first class institutions.

Ranger Junior College is now accredited for offering Physics, Chemistry, Zoology and Biology.

On September 7 next we anticipate a splendid enrollment. Be among that group of young men and women who have addressed themselves to the task and business of better preparation for life by continuing their academic training thru Junior College.

Dean Baskin Predicts Big Year For Ranger Junior College This Year

Dean Baskin has spent a number of years in the Ranger school system and for the past 5 years has served as Dean of Ranger Junior College.

Dean Baskin is a graduate of Abilene Christian College and the University of Texas and has done two-thirds of a year's post graduate work since completing the graduate degree at the University of Texas.

He has watched the growth of the college through the addition of departments, broadening of the curriculum and the extension and increase of student enrollment.

"Prospects for the fall semester opening on September 7 are very optimistic. Students as well as the adult age are rapidly turning from immature plans and indecisions to the task of laying out definite college schedules for themselves whereby they may become systematically equipped for defense service and for the future when things again become normal," says Dean Baskin.

Aviation Course Is Expeted To Be Popular One

The newest and most timely course to be offered in Texas high schools for the first time this year will be available for seniors in Ranger High School, it was announced today by Dr. G. C. Boswell, superintendent of schools.

The course, which is open to both boys and girls, will be on aviation, with stress being given to meteorology, map study and reading, navigation and bomb dropping and timing.

The prerequisite for this course is physics and math, "with plenty of math", and especial emphasis on plane geometry.

With aviation coming to the forefront more than ever because of the war, and predictions that it will develop even more rapidly along commercial lines when the war is over, the course is being offered to high school students in Texas for the first time.

Miss Floris Ashley, a graduate of the University of Texas, and who will teach mathematics in Ranger Junior College, will teach the course, which, while no snap, is expected to be very popular, Dr. Boswell stated today.

The course has just been approved by the standardizing committee. Dr. Boswell stated, and so far textbooks have not been received, but will be on hand as soon as they can be procured.

Defense Town Study Is Made By University

AUSTIN, Tex. —What happens to a small town and its people when, almost over night, the village becomes a city? The question is at least partially answered by a study made of a defense boom town by the department of sociology at the University of Texas. Under the direction of Dr. Harry Moore, professor of sociology, a study has been made of Bastrop during the period of construction in Camp Swift, vast new army base in Central Texas.

"The friendly spirit of a town where everybody knew everybody else is inevitably lost," reports Harold Garfinkel, research assistant. "Local customers, for instance, seemed to realize for the first time that their friends, the merchants, were in business to make money."

Long-time residents of Bastrop were in the habit of dropping into a store, talking to the merchant for a while, and then perhaps walking out without buying anything. With a "boom" on merchants were too busy for talk during working hours.

The major change, then, so far as the people were concerned, was a growing trend toward impersonal relations, Garfinkel declared. The social life of the town, once a very important thing, was neglected. Bridge parties, teas, and other functions were almost forgotten, for Bastrop housewives were too busy. They were turning their spare time over to boarders and many of them were doing all their own housework, because domestic help had flocked to the camp, where wages were higher.

"There was little contact between the old residents of Bastrop and the transient construction workers," Garfinkel said. "The transients were there to do a job, and they had no interest outside that job. They took little or no part in church activities, and none whatever in civic affairs."

Mail from outside was an obsession with the construction workers, the sociologist found. The postmaster reported that they stood in line before the window opened, and rapped on the doors after the office was closed. They waited for an hour or longer for mail they didn't have, and called for it between trains.

"Now that the construction workers are gone, it still seems unlikely that Bastrop can in every way revert to its former free-and-easy, leisurely pace," Garfinkel said.

100 Miles to a Gallon FORT MYERS, Fla. (UP)—Otis Brannon of Fort Myers, Lee County Agricultural Adjustment Administration compliance supervisor, has constructed a home-made motor-bike which enables him to travel approximately 100 miles on a gallon of gas. Brannon installed the motor of an old washing machine on the back of his bicycle and arranged the gasoline and clutch controls on the handlebars.

MODELS SELECT FUR FASHIONS

Looking blissfully happy in their new fur coats and carefully ignoring the summer sun, are two of Chicago's top-flight models, Miss Madeline Shannon (left) and Miss Moise Munshaw. Miss Shannon has chosen a semi-fitted two button style made of Australian Coney that's been dyed to a rich Sable tone; Miss Munshaw has selected the ensemble favorite for morning-noon-and-night wear, the new longer jacket with matching toque and muff, and she prefers it in inky-black Skunk-dyed Opossum. The models selected their new coats from the collection of advance fur styles now being shown at Montgomery Ward.

Helps 500 Men, Once Rejected To Enter Service

DETROIT, AUG. 11 (UP)—More than 500 soldiers are now serving in the Army and Marine Corps because one man's war effort made it possible for them to pass their physical examinations after failing the first time.

This service by which applicants rejected for minor defects are rehabilitated for the armed services, was started in November, 1941 by William H. Malloy, child welfare chairman of American Legion Post No. 327.

Malloy obtained the idea for his rehabilitation service when he read newspaper stories that there were no such facilities available for men who had been turned down.

Recruiting offices promised to send him men who had been rejected for the services. Malloy arranged to have them treated, if they were without funds, at city and community fund agencies.

Doctors and dentists who were members of the Legion volunteered their services, and other agencies furnished dental work and glasses at cost.

The only thing Malloy wants for his work is more of it.

"I'd like more doctors and dentists to volunteer their help," he said.

Junior College Best Equipped For Science, Business Administration, Academic Courses, Boswell States

Dr. Boswell had this to say about Ranger Junior College: "In all my experience in teaching in the Public Schools and colleges of Texas I find that Ranger Junior College is the best equipped for the teaching of Science, Business Administration and other academic courses of college rank. With the new equipment that has gone in to the department of Science and Business Administration and the great improvement done in the Library, students who are eager to obtain an education should find their courses easily planned to carry on an excellent program."

"The College faculty is composed of men and women who have had special training and who are interested in developing young men and young women to their fullest capacities. Then another great asset for Ranger College is that its graduates are filling places of highest importance, in State, business, etc."

"It was one of the first colleges to be recognized by the Government in its National Defense Program, that is R. E. C. Young Men may continue their college education, be regular enrolled in the Army, Navy, Coast Guard, etc., and attend Ranger Junior College or any other college that has been classified by the National Agencies."

"From the standpoint of cost there is not a college anywhere that equals what Ranger can offer you, therefore, it seems that Ranger Junior College has something that should be very carefully criticized, analyzed, and compared by all who are interested in education."

Graduation At Nursery School Will Be Friday

Graduation exercises for the five-year-old children who have been attending the Ranger WPA Nursery School were held Friday at 1:45 p. m. at the school. The rooms were attractively decorated with flowers, marigolds and autumn leaves on the nursery school grounds. The chairs seating the graduating class were roped off with gold and white, and the diplomas tied with gold and white ribbon.

The program was as follows:

"Win War First" Is Slogan For Brook's In Runoff

Pierce Brooks, runoff candidate for the unexpired term of Railroad Commissioner, has as his campaign pledge: "Win the war first."

"I will insist that everything possible be done to co-operate with our state and national governments in giving all-out support in the transportation of troops, materials and supplies during the present emergency. I am familiar with the problems of the railroads, freight and bus lines, truckers, oil men, the farmers and the ranchers. They will receive friendly, efficient service and thorough co-operation in settling their problems, when I am elected to the Railroad Commission."

In his speeches and radio addresses, Brooks pledges the preservation of our natural and physical resources. He insists that the suggested rationing of gasoline in Texas is unnecessary, pointing out:

Professional—Mrs. Viola Lyons. Song (audience)—America. Reading "The Sunshine of a Child's Smile"—Barbara Ann Cooper. Song, Class—As I Was Walking Down the Street. Mother's Helpers—Four Girls. At the conclusion of the exercises the class was served refreshments of ice cream and each child was given an American flag as a favor.

that on the eastern seaboard, where rationing is now being experienced, they do not have available transportation facilities as we have, nor the proximity of our vast oil fields and refineries.

To the oil men of Texas, Brooks has promised his complete support in their war effort. "The oil men of Texas are doing what all of us should do. They are helping Uncle Sam. They are getting victory out of our good earth in the form of vital petroleum, needed by our United Nations in this terrible crisis."

Throughout the state business men, professional men, families in every walk of life are wholeheartedly endorsing Pierce Brooks as the man entitled to the unexpired post on the Railroad Commission. Everywhere you go the good news is being broadcast. "Pierce Brooks, the businessman and friend of the people will be elected."

RANGER JUNIOR COLLEGE PREPARES for LIVING

IN TIME OF War PREPARE FOR Peace CONTINUE YOUR EDUCATION!

Never before in the history of America has education . . . formal education . . . played so important a role in the lives of our children and ourselves. What opportunities are opening up for the educated! Not so long ago, folk were beginning to question the value of advanced education. They were able to get jobs without going on in school, and they were filling them while many of their better educated friends were doing no better, had risen no higher. The scene has changed, however, and the question of education is being answered by Uncle Sam . . . by industry . . . by the armed forces. Skilled educated men and women are in demand everywhere. They are filling bigger positions and earning higher salaries. Here are some of the fields in which higher education is either compulsory or preferred:

The only college between Fort Worth and Abilene that is listed in the coordinated Naval, Army and Marine program as shown in the government bulletin as dated June 27, 1942.

Experience has shown that the best qualified men are able to master technical difficulties and assume the responsibilities of an officer's commission are those who have had adequate schooling and discipline.

Government and Business
. . . More jobs than ever are open these days, but the best jobs in both government and private offices are open to people with college degrees, with training in engineering, mechanics, business administration, etc. Competition is keen, as always, and the man or woman of education WINS!

REC Program which consists of the Army, the Navy, the Coastal Guards and the Marine also CPT program . . . The United States is so interested in acquiring men of superior education that has inaugurated a plan whereby college men may enlist in the REC and remain in school with the idea of training to become officers. Students in their freshman or sophomore years who are interested in knowing the details of this plan are invited to contact their local Recruiting Station for further information.

TO PARENTS: There is a moral to the story! It's "business as usual" in the education of your children! The education they do not get at the proper time is seldom replaced in later life. Keep your boy of draft age in college until he is called! Give your girls training that will help them fill the fine, useful positions women are needed for. Educated minds will be builders of a new and better post-war America!

COLLEGE COST—The total cost for attending Ranger Junior College is less than any college in Texas. This college has the highest possible classification. Excellent facilities for the teaching of natural sciences, business and other academic courses.

Applications For Pre-Flight Course Are Pouring In

AUSTIN, Tex. — Applications are already pouring into the University of Texas Interscholastic League Office here for the Navy Pre-Flight Physical Fitness School to be held at the University August 23-30, according to Roy Bedichek, League Director.

A short course—open to high school coaches and physical education teachers as well as to superintendents and principals—is planned to prepare the school men to instruct high school boys in the skills and athletic regime that will fit them for the vigorous training of the U. S. Navy Air Force.

It will include such activities as mass exercises, military track work, boxing, wrestling, tumbling, hand-to-hand combat, football and basketball.

Fourteen top-ranking Navy physical fitness specialists will be brought here to provide instruction.

University facilities will be open to enrollees, including living quarters in dormitories, gymnasium, swimming pool, and athletic fields.

Only fee will be $12 to cover room and board. Applications should be sent to the Interscholastic League, Austin, and should include check or money order covering the room and board charge. Enrollment will be limited to 150 men.

"This is a remarkable opportunity for Texas coaches and teachers," declared Dr. D. K. Brace, University professor of physical education and state director of the Texas Physical Fitness Program. "Attendance at this school will be one way in which a vital war service can be rendered to the country by civilian coaches and teachers who are really interested in improving the physical fitness of Texas manpower."

Paid 30 Years Later

FORREST CITY Ark. (UP) — A Forrest City merchant has just had a renewal of faith in human nature. The merchant, Sam Sharpe, recently received through the mail a check from a North Carolinian who more than 30 years ago borrowed $15 from him. The check not only covered the debt, but was for $30, the additional $15 being "interest" on the loan.

Girls Swamp Police For A Phone Job

SEATTLE, (UP)—The whole business began when Police Chief Herbert D. Kinsey and Mayor William F. Devin conferred and decided to replace policemen on the switchboard with women operators.

After consulting the budget department it was decided to pay six girl operators $125 a month each.

Then the applications landslided into the police department. The girls, it appeared, were willing to desert their present positions en masse and join the police department staff.

"The language they would hear is frightful," one veteran police operator said. "The girls would not hurt us," one girl replied. "I it's something fierce."
