To Discourage Inflation

Congress is trying to draft a new tax schedule which will achieve two principal purposes. One goal is to raise every possible dollar of revenue to finance the war. The other is to place an effective brake upon inflation.

These two objectives would not necessarily involve the same approach to taxation. In this case it happens they do.

Both call for a radical departure from the old "soak the rich, forget the wage-earners" philosophy.

The rich and even the moderately well-to-do, have long since been rolled over the tax barrel until it is evident that they cannot produce much of the new income that is need-

Even the most rabid of spread-the-wealth advocates now Concede that the Treasury must get down to business and collect nickles and dimes from the lower income brackets, even for revenue purposes.

More than four out of five Americans fall into the class whose income last year, was not more than $3,000. Ninety four out of a hundred had incomes that did not exceed $5,000. Only one out of fifty received as much as $10,000.

Obviously this war cannot be supported on the taxes from the one-sixteenth of our people who fall into the $5,000and-up bracket.

Neither can inflaton be curbed by drastic taxation of those who receive one-third of the national income, unless that the Army is calling for its something positive is done also about the group which gets largest quota of dressings in his two-thirds of the natonal income.

A spokesman for the New York Teachers' Union (which) was captured and long dominated by Communist party! members and notorious fellow travelers) claims that lowpaid workers will get only $1,400,000,000 out of an 11billion-dollar income the year. He says that persons in the $10,000-and-up class will get seven billion of the increase.

That is not the way we heard it- from the Office of Price Adminstration's research division.

The $3,000-a-year-and-under bracket last year received 49 per cent of the national income.

On that basis the $3,000-and-under workers will get almost nine billion dollars more this year than last, while the $10,000-and-up class will get less than four billion more-

If Washington wants to mop up the excess income that would inevitably make for price inflation, that eight billion dollars going to the lower bracket cannot be ignored.

OUT

Use a sturdy paint for your home's outer garment, for paint lengthens the life of wood. Choose a paint that will not crack, chip or peel, one that can repel rain, sun and snow. Now more than ever we must be mindful of these factors in selecting a paint to protect our home for the duration!
