ONE KILLED, FOUR WOUNDED IN ACTION ON ITALIAN FRONT

The tragedy of war and the cost of war in human suffering and life struck sharply in Ranger late Monday when five families were notified that their sons were either killed or wounded in action with the Fifth Army now in combat in Italy.

Reported killed in action is Ralph McKinley, son of Homer C. McKinley, now of Killeen but formerly of Ranger, and reported wounded in action are Pfc. Fred W. Wiesen, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Wiesen; Pvt. Ben F. Parrish, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Parrish; Pfc. Burk Hunt, husband of Mrs. Dorothy M. Hunt, of Rt. 2, Ranger; and Staff Sgt. Eugene Franklin, son of Mrs. Ed Lee of Route 1, Ranger. All were reported in hospitals in the North African area.

Pfc. Wiesen was with the Ranger National Guard and went into service with that group in November 1940. He was trained at Camp Bowie, Camp Edwards, Mass., and Fort Sill, Oklahoma. He was wounded September 13. His brothers, Homer and Robert are serving in the South Pacific, one in New Guinea and the other in Australia.

In a letter written by Pfc. Wiesen on September 17 and received by his parents, Tuesday, he did not mention that he was in a hospital, but in one received this morning and written on the 18, he told of being in a hospital in North Africa. The letter was written on Red Cross stationery.

Mr. and Mrs. Wiesen also had a letter this morning from their son Homer, in which he told of having seen his brother, Robert, who is also in the South Pacific.

Sgt. Franklin was also with the National Guard and was trained at Camp Bowie, Camp Edwards, Florida, and Camp Edwards, Mass. He was wounded September 10. His brother, Sgt. Maurice Franklin is serving his country in the signal corps in New Guinea.

Pvt. Parrish went into the service with the National Guard in November 1940, and was trained at Camp Bowie, Camp Edwards, Florida, and Camp Edwards, Mass.

Relatives of Pfc. Hunt could not be contacted this morning for further information.

Citizenship Of Cadet Unraveled After Six Months

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UP)—Uvalde's primary flying school has welcomed back Aviation Cadet Jack G. Laird after a six-month recess to unravel his citizenship status.

Being in a hurry to learn to fly, Laird transferred from the Royal Canadian Army to the U.S. Army Airforce in May, 1942, and that was the beginning of his troubles. Born in this country, Laird, son of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Laird, of Hamilton, Ont., thought that he was an American citizen as well as a British subject. When it was discovered last March that he was a Canadian, he was shipped back to the San Antonio Aviation Cadet Center from Uvalde.

After much debate with Army officers, the adjutant general's office and immigration officials, Laird was allowed to make the usual application for citizenship after simply walking across the Mexican border and back to Laredo.

Just when the cadet was ready to breathe a sigh of relief, someone dug up the Army regulation requiring that a man be a citizen for 10 years before becoming a cadet. General Henry H. Arnold, commanding general of the Army Airforce, came to the rescue with special permission for Laird to resume his training.

JUNGLE TROOPS PUSH DRIVE ON JAPANESE BASE

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS in the Southwest Pacific, Oct. 6, (Wednesday) (UP)—Jungle trainees and Australian troops advancing along the waterways of interior British New Guinea have occupied the native village of Kallgul, forty miles south of Bogadjuin, and are engaging the southern supply out posts of the Japanese base at Madang, 170 miles above captured Finschhafen.

A communique disclosed Wednesday that the Australians, first sent up the Markham River Valley and then across into the Ramu to engage Japanese parties trying to aid Lae and Salamaua, had driven the enemy from positions near Kallgul and occupied the village. They were in contact with the enemy near Kampan, another village at the headwaters of the Ramu.

This drive has outflanked the remaining Japanese Huon Peninsula positions between Finschhafen and Madang, and Wednesday it was disclosed officially that Gen. George C. Marshall, United States Army Chief of Staff, had congratulated Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Allied commander in the Southwest Pacific, for his New Guinea campaign, which has deprived the Japanese of Lae, Salamaua, and Finschhafen and snatched the invaders' grip on British New Guinea.

In the Central Solomons, where the Japanese appear to be trying evacuation of blockaded Kolombangara Island, Allied planes and naval units destroyed or sank six more Japanese barges in attacks at Hambergi Cove on the west coast and off the north coast. In previous operations, Friday and Saturday nights, naval units destroyed or damaged more than forty barges, sank a gun boat and damaged others while planes burned two more barges.

Japanese aircraft bombed Allied ground positions on the northwest coast of Vella Lavella Island and Barkoma on the east coast. Vella Lavella lies west of Kolombangara across Vela Gulf. Other Japanese aircraft made ineffective raids on New Georgia.

An Allied air patrol intercepted fifty enemy fighters off the east coast of Vella Lavella and shot down six against a loss of one Allied plane, the pilot of which was safe.

Over New Britain and New Ireland Islands and among the Dutch East Indies far to the west of Australia, other Allied planes were active.

A 1,500-ton enemy cargo vessel was bombed near Cape St. George at the southeastern tip of New Ireland Island, and a smaller cargo ship ran aground on a reef by night bombers near the Vitu Islands, north of New Britain.

Headquarters sources disclosed a total of three Japanese vessels were attacked in or near Boka Passage, between Bougainville and Buka Islands in the Japanese held northern Solomons, Sunday night, and a transport was attacked off Uvea Island.

Medium bombers damaged or destroyed a motor launch and five barges in sweeps over Garovo and Uvea Islands, north of New Britain, and fighters destroyed barges at wide bay on the east coast of New Britain. Fires were started at other Japanese-held points on New Britain.

Pamela, in a nickel-mining district of Celebes, was bombed for the second time in a week.

Air and naval warfare against Japanese shipping lines in the South Pacific was highlighted by the last week end's destruction of Japanese barges off Kolombangara Island.

Marine Fighter Squadron Gets 10 In One Battle

HEADQUARTERS, U. S. South Pacific Forces (Delayed) (UP)—The Swashbucklers, a Marine fighter squadron which boasts three Aces, recently ran its total victories to 33 Japanese planes, 10 of which were shot down in a single air battle.

The Swashbucklers' three Aces are 2nd Lt. Alvin J. Jenon (1235 11th St. N.W.), Washington, D.C., six planes; 1st Lt. Stanley T. Sytner, Warner, Okla., five planes; and 1st Lt. Hartwell V. Scarborough, Aulander, N. C., five planes.

The squadron is commanded by Maj. John E. Burnett (1301 Massachusetts Ave. N.W.) Washington, D. C., who is officially credited with two planes.

Marine public relations officer 2nd Lt. Penn T. Kimball (61 Lexington St.) New Britain, Conn., in a report on the Swashbucklers, told of a daring dusk attack on the important Japanese Kahili air base on Bougainville.

"Coming in low to strafe the field, the Marines discovered 20 Japanese planes circling above the strip preparatory to landing," Kimball wrote. "The Swashbuckler pilots dove, shot down three of the planes in the air, and went on to destroy four more on the ground."

"The Marines then riddled the strip with their bullets, killing 50 Jap ground crewmen, burning five trucks, and shattering the field's control tower."

The squadron downed 10 Jap planes in a single fight when a large Jap force attacked Guadalcanal and also is credited with the rescue of a damaged U. S. Navy seaplane tender. The Marines drove off attacking Jap bombers, shooting down three of them.

Enlistment Of Seabees To Close On October 31

Enlistment of Seabees will be ended October 31st. Chief Tom O. Gaston of the Abilene Navy Recruiting Station announced today, and all applicants who have not been sworn in by that date will be rejected.

In a final round up of Seabee applicants, Lt. M. C. Lacey, Seabee Procurement Officer, will be at the Abilene Navy Recruiting Station, October 12, to interview tradesmen and craftsmen, including men with mechanical ability, assigning ratings on the spot.

Thousands of Seabees have been recruited to build advanced bases for the Navy since the Spring of 1942, Chief Gaston stated, and the ban on enlistments after October 31st means that older experienced men will lose the opportunity to follow their trade in the Navy, and to higher ratings.

Police Find Way To Solve Their Juvenile Cases

ST. LOUIS (UP)—A newly-created juvenile division in the police department has solved the delinquency problem in at least two St. Louis neighborhoods and instead of enforced visits the kids now come to city court "just to see how it works."

One group of youngsters—the Blue Jay Athletic Club—now has a clubhouse all its own and part of their thanks goes to their district juvenile officer. He helped organize the boys and keeps a watchful eye over the quarters, a building donated by a lumber company on the condition that the members maintain it.

Now the 51 boys, ranging in age from 12 to 19 years, receive sodas over the basement bar from a fellow member. The one-story brick structure lacks many refinements but is spic and span. The main floor rooms were scrubbed, scrubbed and painted by the lads and they each contributed pieces of furniture.

They've leveled an outside lot for a baseball diamond which the city helps keep in shape with donations of an oil base and sand for the infield.

The Feldkamp Boys, of another district, are the ones who came to court just out of curiosity. After they found out "how it works" they were entertained by Judge George J. Greiner, who treated all of them to sodas pop.

The Feldkamp crew and their associates of the Girls Victory Garden club don't boast the fancy clubhouse of the Blue Jays. But they have a block-square victory garden they like to show the neighbors. Walter Feldkamp, a hotel operator, provided the space, seeds, plants and equipment.

More than 96 individual garden beds are tended there. Claude L. Tobin, a retired baseball umpire, and Miss Jean Sunkel, entitled "Grand Master" by the girls, supervise the project.

So far, the garden, plus saved money, has created a $50 treasury for the members. They haven't decided on a use for the funds.

Senate Accepts Bill To Tighten Up on Deferments

WASHINGTON—The Senate today tentatively accepted a bill to tighten up on occupational deferments for workers in both government and private industry. An administration Senator said the Wheeler bill—which would have deferred all pre-Pearl Harbor fathers until Jan. 1—was a "dead duck."

The measure restricting occupational deferments was proposed by Sens. Josiah Bailey, D., N. C., and Bennett Clark, D., Mo., as a substitute for the Wheeler bill. The Senate, on a voice vote, agreed to the substitution.

TYLER, Tex. (UP)—A "hydro-aero-auto" visualized by C. J. A. J. Regnier, commanding officer of the 11th Training Regiment at Camp Fannin, will be a post-war aerial automobile capable of operating on land, in water and air.

A staff member of the old Air Corps, Col. Regnier is continuing his flying lessons at the Tyler airport. He predicts that this Martian machine will enable civilians to use a plane in much the same way they used the old family automobile for a spin in the country.

SHOCK TROOP CROSS RIVER STAB THROUGH NAZI DEFENSE

Anglo-American troops of the Fifth Army stabbed northward today on the road to Rome through a gap slashed in the First German defense line above Naples.

Winning two vital towns—rail lines and highways pointing toward the Italian capital. Army shock troops plunged across the strategic Volturno 17 miles above Naples and into the first line the Nazis might have tried to hold.

The success was the greatest scored since Naples fell and came while the Italian front showed clear signs of developing into an increasingly bitter battle ground.

As yet there were no indications where the Germans plan a major attempt to stop the Allied push toward Rome.

SHREVEPORT, La. (UP)—If "Smoky" is needed for the slaughterhouse, let be said that he died for his country.

The fine black Angus calf has won many prizes but now it is his war effort and not the ribbon collection that is being benefited.

Recently in Baton Rouge, "Smoky," owned by Garth Cline, a Bethany 4-H boy, bought $665,000 in war bonds from those bidding for him. The purchaser, Hal Leonard and Charles P. Manship, bought $238,000 worth of bonds to get "Smoky."

Soy Bean Expert Warns Products To Replace Cow

MT. VERNON, O. (UP)—Old "Bossie" had better look to her laurels because, if Dr. Harry W. Miller has his way, the cow soon will be replaced by that enterprising addition to the nation's war-time diet—they soy bean.

Miller speaks with authority since he has 340 acres of soy beans on his farm here to back him up. What's more, he says, the lowly bean is on its way to replace a lot of food items besides milk.

As the nation's largest grower of edible soy bean, Miller says they can be whipped up into a mighty tasty salad, salad dressing, soup, "veal cutlet," vegetable, flour, or almost any other item on the culinary list.

But the milk-soya-lac is Miller's real pet. "Why," he says, "it's extravagant to use cow's milk for nourishment, since the cow returns only 12 per cent of her feed in milk."

Miller, as a medical missionary in China, developed use of the soya milk for overcoming dietary disturbances. Now, on his Mount Vernon farm, he has set up a complete manufacturing plant for turning out soy products.

The War Production Administration is interested in the development of machinery for manufacturing soya products, machinery whose development Miller has fostered.

Miller, however, doesn't narrow his field to this one interest; he operates a modern hospital in Mount Vernon which keeps him pretty busy, since he is Knox county's only surgeon.

His hospital experience Miller picked up in China, where he supervised a base hospital in Hankow on the staff of Chiang Kai-shek.

The 60-year-old doctor, whose first trip to China was in 1903, has crossed the Pacific 21 times. Before his last return to the United States he was a Jap prisoner for three months.

VETERANS SUGGEST YULE GIFTS FOR OVERSEAS MEN

GREAT LAKES, Ill. (UP)—"Something to read" is what the boys fighting overseas want in their Christmas stocking, but the boys want "perfume and frilly linens," according to a group of wounded sailors and machine gunners at the U. S. Naval Hospital here.

They said the boys will welcome any kind of reading matter, whether it is last month's newspaper, or the latest book-of-the-month selection or any of the popular magazines. Long personal letters and snapshots are equally welcome, the wounded men said.

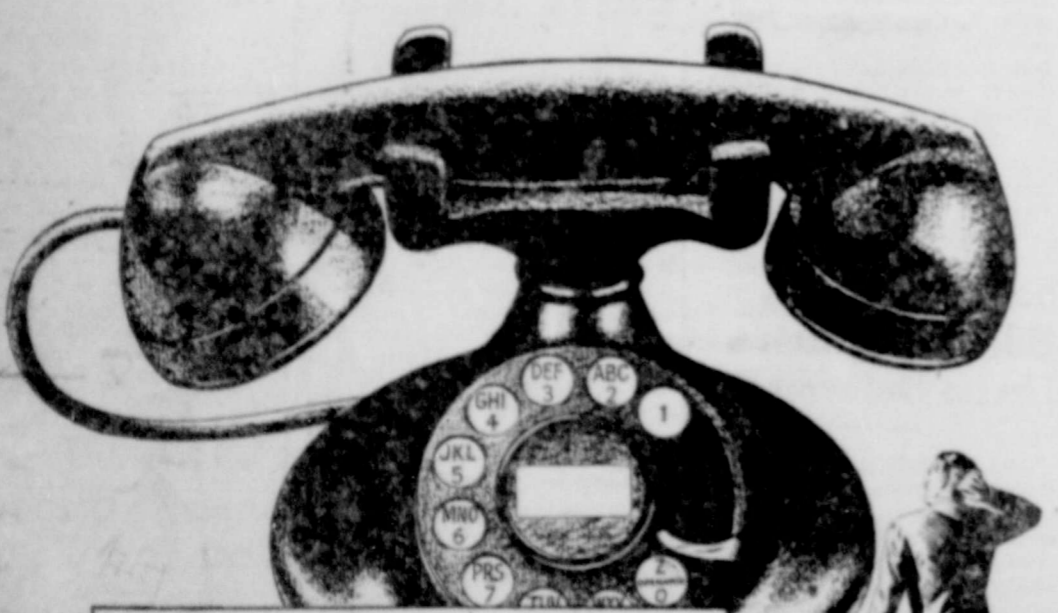

Cigarette lighters, hard candy, gum, small games, shaving accessories and flashlights are also placed high on the list with the men overseas.

Army Fighters Cover Marines In Plane Jump

(The following story was written by Staff Sgt. S. E. Stavisky of Washington, D. C., and Charles, Mass., a Marine Corps Combat correspondent.)

RENDOVA ISLAND (Delayed)
(UP)—Our bombers were pasting Munda when the Zeros rose to intercept them. Our own fighters accepted the challenge, and before the attack in a series of dogfights, a Marine dive bomber was hit. A spume of smoke could be seen streaming from her tail.

The pilot, preparing to abandon ship, swung her over Rendova Harbor nearby, and slowly circled the craft over the bay to give the rear gunner a comparatively easy parachute jump. Even as he did so six planes popped out of the clouds and opened an umbrella over the stricken craft. They were Army fighters, covering their aerial comrades.

As the rear gunner floated downward, one of the fighters followed him down to make sure no Zero would sneak in and machine gun him, as has been done.

The pilot, meanwhile, set his plane so that it was still spiraling in graceful circles as he parachuted down.

A crash boat was already racing to the scene as the pilotless bomber spun and plunged into the bay. Only after the crash boat had picked up pilot and gunner did the Army fliers wheel off to rejoin the fighting over Munda.

Ashore, on Rendova, the service men who witnessed the heart-warming incident, broke into cheers.

MAN WITH LEG RUN OVER HAS NO NEED FOR DOCTOR

AKRON, O. (UP)—Onlookers thought it pretty fortunate that it was a doctor driving the car which knocked down a pedestrian and ran over his leg.

But when Dr. Roy A. Knisley jumped from his car to offer the man his professional services, he found the victim beyond a doctor's care.

As the man got up and brushed off his clothes, he explained that he was not hurt.

"But," said Knisley, "I ran over your leg."

"That's all right," the man answered. "It was only my wooden one."
