36TH MEMORIAL TO BE ERECTED AT TEMPLE, TEX

TEMPLE, Tex. (Sp.)—Every man who fought with the 36th Division in World War I and in the bloody campaign in Italy in World War II will be paid a lasting tribute in the memorial to be erected at Temple by the people of Texas for that gallant division. The memorial will be of utilitarian design, built around a museum. The design is being selected by statewide competition among the architects of Texas and directed by the Texas Society of Architects under a committee headed by E. B. LaRoche of Dallas. A cash prize of $1,000 will go to the architect submitting the best design and prizes of $500, $300 and $200 to second, third and fourth place winners. Major Gen. Fred L. Walker, commanding general of the 36th Division now fighting in Italy, has written his congratulations to the 36th Division Memorial Commission president, Walter R. Humphrey, editor of the Temple Daily Telegram, on the plans for honoring his great division. Wounded veterans who have been returned as battle casualties to McCloskey General Hospital here estimate that the 36th has suffered such heavy casualties from killed, wounded, captured and essential replacement that only 10 per cent of the original division which was the Texas National Guard, is now in action. The Memorial Commission has undertaken a statewide campaign to raise between $250,000 and $500,000 to erect this shrine. All contributions, the collector of internal revenue has advised, are deductible for purposes of income tax computation. The commission has asked that contributions of both cash and war bonds be sent directly to W. Guy Draper, treasurer, 36th Division Memorial Commission, Box 419, Temple. The commission also has required full rights to a new Texas song, "I'm a Texan," dedicated to the 36th, copies of which may be obtained for $1.00, with all profits to the memorial.

THREE GROUPS OF NINTH AIR FORCE PRAISED

A NINTH AIR FORCE FIGHTER BOMBER BASE, England—Three fighter bomber groups of the Ninth Fighter Command including one commanded by veteran pilot Colonel Nance Call of Chillicothe, Texas, have been commended by Lieutenant General Lewis H. Brereton, commanding general of the Ninth Air Force for the part they played in the invasion. The general's commendation read: "On 7th June groups of your command furnished continuous support to the beachhead area. The situation there was critical and the excellent attacks and continuous support rendered by you restored a delicate situation. Please pass my personal congratulations to the group commanders concerned for their fine work. Brereton." Major General Elwood R. Quesada, commanding general of the Ninth Fighter Command, in commenting on General Brereton's commendation radioed: "The spirit with which these groups accepted and performed their mission reflects great credit on them and I am most grateful for their efforts. It is possible if not probable that their efforts were in a large part responsible for the attack on beach—continguing. History may show that they saved the day." Colonel Call in a message to his fighter bomber group personnel wrote: "During the operation referred to several brave men lost their lives. It should be most gratifying to us all to know that their devotion to duty and self sacrifice prevented the enemy from bringing in reinforcements which would have undoubtedly resulted in the loss of thousands of lives and possibly have thrown our invasion forces back into the sea. "While it is impossible to put into words my feelings in regards to the comrades referred to above, I am not unappreciative of the effort, ability, self sacrifice and devotion to duty exhibited by all personnel in the air and on the ground without which the entire effort would have failed and the sacrifice of these heroes would have been futile." Since invasion morning the command fighter bomber groups along with other of the Ninth Fighter Command have carried out countless missions in support of American ground forces in France and in protection of new landings on beachheads.

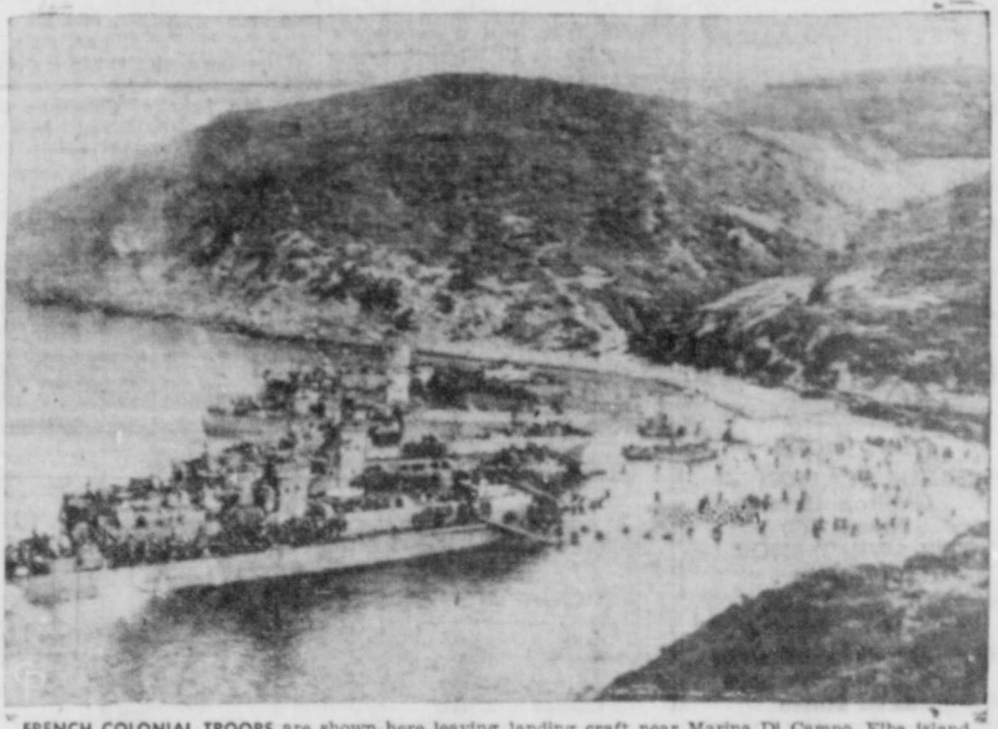

INTO THE PLACID HILLS OF NOMANDY moves this endless line of troop reinforcements and supply trucks headed for the front lines on the French beachhead. Note the broken down barbed wire entanglements to the left and the knocked out German pillboxes on the right. The anti-invasion obstacles failed to protect the Nazis from Allied assault. Coal Miner, 85, Has Record Of 74 Years On Job

DU QUOIN, Ill. (UP)—Marion W. Cox, 85, the oldest active coal miner in the United States and perhaps in the world with a record of nearly 74 years of service in the mines near Du Quoin, is still in harness. Despite his almost three-quarters of a century at hard labor in damp, musty and gassy mines, much of his work in the days when a miner never "saw daylight" except in midsummer, Cox is mentally alert and physically fit. He admits being a bit weary after a hard day in the pit, and there are times when he feels he can hardly "make the raffle" but after donning his work clothes, he's ready to start the grind again. He first went below the surface when he was four and still wearing dresses, without the shaft engineer's knowledge. His trip so frightened his father that he did not make his next descent until he was 11, but he's been "going below" ever since. In his years of mining, Cox has worked nearly all the mines around Du Quoin and has never suffered so much as a "broken bone, although he has been in many tight places. His father owned and operated coal mines and Cox literally grew up in one, absorbing much mining lore.

Sharp Drop In Used Car Prices Expected By OPA

DALLAS, Tex. (UP)—Used car prices in the Dallas area will take a sharp drop on July 10 when the OPA puts its new dollar and cents ceiling prices in effect, it appeared today. A survey of the current used car prices among Dallas automobile dealers has disclosed that prices in mid-June ranged from $129 to $1,615 above the maximum prices the OPA will allow. The checkup showed that late models of at least two higher priced cars are bringing prices twice as high as the new OPA ceilings. As an example, the ceiling on a 1941 Ford deLuxe Tudor will be $893 and the current price is around $1,350. A good 1941 Buick now brings $2,000. The ceiling will be $1,095.

Jordan a former pastor at Thurber will speak at the gathering.

Ft. Worth C of C Aids Romance

FOR WORTH, Tex. (UP)—The Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce feels it has done its bit for romance and the war effort. The chamber received a letter from Sgt. L. F. Kellerman, a marine in the South Pacific. Enclosed was a money order. The sergeant said he wanted to buy a birthday present for his girl in Fort Worth but found it difficult to shop in the war zone. The chamber did the job.

MIAMI, Fla. (UP)—Raul Gamero, El Salvador delegate to the International Monetary Conference at Bretton N. H. charged today that the United States Department of Justice is not fully informed of existing Latin American conditions and as a result has given lend-lease to Fascist dictatorships.

SERVICEMEN LIKE TO TALK LETTERS HOME

United Press Staff Correspondent SAN FRANCISCO, (UP)—More than 3,000 Lamesack servicemen, many of them on their way to Pacific battle fronts, have poured their hearts out into the "Talk a Letter Home Service" microphones. Youngsters of 18 and under line up behind veterans of other wars at recording sessions held three times a week at the YMCA headquarters. Each of them writes up 450-word messages on a special blank which must be submitted for censorship before the free recordings are made. Letters to mothers are always reassuring and "show the general theme that the crowd is well, the buddy is a great guy, and above all that the most hot war—because Joe will soon be home safe and well. At least three or four men at every session express the sentiment that they are at last beginning to realize just how much "Mom" means to them. Clarence Marshall, supervisor of the service said. Vocal letters to sweethearts and wives indicate that the majority of our fighting men want to get down behind a rose hedge and a picket fence with the wife and kids after the war. Would-be Crueleys and Sinatras often send a short message and then burst into the latest song hit for the benefit of the girl friends. Some of them even bring guitars or other musical instruments for self-accompaniment. Not long ago a Negro sailor sent a record to his wife containing repetition after repetition of this message: "Honey, you've got me all wrong. I haven't taken a single gal out since I left you and I haven't even been tempted. Darling! I haven't even looked at a gal since I saw you last and I don't intend to so please stop worry'n about me."

Soldier Shot By Strawn Officer During Fight

A hearing was held Sunday before the district attorney of Palo Pinto co. to investigate the circumstances surrounding an altercation which took place on the Main st. of Strawn Saturday night about 10 o'clock. According to reports of eye witnesses a difficulty arose between Johnnie Fox of Ranger and a soldier from Gorman by the name of Crouch and the two left the cafe and walked out to the sidewalk where they had heated words and then the soldier knocked Fox to the sidewalk. St. Bradford and one of his deputies walked up and attempted to separate the two. As Bradford held the soldier whose wife was also holding one of his arms, he jerked loose and knocked Bradford to the sidewalk. Bradford then fired two shots at the soldier and one of the shots struck him in the left shoulder. The soldier was given treatment for the wound in his shoulder at the Strawn hospital and was then taken to his home in Gorman. It was stated that the soldier was home on leave from 26 months service in the South Pacific.

ADVANCE SIX MILES; YANKS CLEANING UP IN CHERBOURG

British troops in Normandy have cut an important German railroad running southwest from Caen, eastern anchor of the Nazi defenses. A British radio correspondent reports that a nearby highway also was cut. The British pushed forward more than six miles in a wide wheeling offensive to surround Caen. LONDON, (UP)—Powerful formations of American and British heavy bombers from Britain and the Mediterranean resumed the two war bombardment of Axis Europe today, smashing at unidentifiable targets in northern France, military installations in the Budapest area, and in railway yards. The last few pockets of German resistance east and west of captured Cherbourg are shrinking almost hourly. The Americans have opened a fierce artillery and mortar barrage against the scattered areas where the enemy is holding out. Allied Headquarters estimates German casualties on the Peninsula at 70,000. French patriots are revealed to have broken into the important rail junction of Tarbes in southern France in a surprise assault of Nazi occupation troops in the town. The French destroyed several Nazi factories and food.

Texas Was Uncle Sam's Choice For U. S. Air Force

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UP)—The army has disclosed officially that when Uncle Sam committed himself to build the world's greatest air force, his eyes turned to Texas. And that fact is backed up by a press release from the Army Air Forces Training Command at Fort Worth which converts into concrete statistics the enormous job Texas is doing to help win the war. The Lone Star State, reported the army, sprouted wings, and now the airman's helmet and flying boots are as common a sight in Texas as the cowboy's ten gallon hat and high-heeled boots of the old days. Since the army says the "wild blue yonder" air corps sings about is bluer and higher than any place in the world, the home office of the A. A. F. Training Command is in Fort Worth and General Yount has his national headquarters here. The training command has sixty separate activities in Texas. These include 28 major airfields and 14 contract flying schools. They cover 325,000 acres and are located in 46 counties. The press release reveals that since Jan. 1, 1942, the training command has conducted over 50 different kinds of training in Texas. The training produced over 2,000 different types of aviation specialists, ranging from fighter, bomber, glider and women pilots, to bombardiers, navigators, gunners, flight engineers and administrative officers. The release proved that a big state like Texas produces big statistics. For example, from January 1, 1942, to May 1, 1944, the training command in Texas turned out 44,952 pilots, 15,796 navigators, 12,958 bombardiers, 74,000 airplane mechanics, and 25,248 gunners. Additionally, 7,500 glider pilots were graduated.

Unusual Specie Of Fish Found In Texas River

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP)—This is a fish story in reverse. It's about a little fish, not a big one. The little fish involved is, officially a sub-species of micropterus punctulatus. The amazing thing about it, outside of its name is the fact that the fish—which reaches a size of seven inches after two years of growth and rarely tops ten—is found only in South Central Texas. That information was revealed today by Marion Toole, Chief Aquatic Biologist of the State Game and Fish Commission. He says the rare fish, an angler's delight, first came to attention back in 1874 when a couple of Frenchmen came over here and caught one in the San Antonio River. Since then it has been established by science that the sub-species of micropterus punctulatus, which actually is a small spotted bass, is found only in Texas, and is most numerous in the Colorado River. Existence of the rare species came to light a few days ago when one was caught near Austin. It now resides, pickled, in Toole's Museum.

July 1 Dead-line On Car Stamp

DALLAS, Tex. (UP)—Texas motorists were warned today they have only until July 1 to buy the new 1944 federal use revenue stamps. Federal revenue officials say only a few thousand of the stamps have been sold since they went on sale. They can be bought for $5.00 each at any Texas postoffice. Failure to display one after July 1 will result in a heavy penalty, officials warn.

Keep Eye Open for Spies, Tale of a British Uniform is Columnist's Warning And a Strange, Nazi Accent

By HELEN ESSARY
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON—Those warnings against spies you see in taxicabs, trains and shops—don't regard them carelessly. There are indeed spies about. Be on the alert to catch a suspicious word or glance, and report your discovery to the proper authorities, promptly.

Mrs. Joseph H. Grew, wife of the state department's director of Far Eastern affairs, had an experience on a train coming from New York recently that combined danger, drama and very, very quick thinking.

Mrs. Grew was in the diner at a table with several strangers. The train was galloping and playing leapfrog with telegraph poles as Washington-bound trains often do after a delay in New York.

At one violent lurch a man in the uniform of a British officer spilled a cup of coffee on Mrs. Grew. "Ach, Mein Gott!" he cried. Then quickly changed his apology to English words.

Mrs. Grew, having recently lived in Japan where her husband was ambassador to Japan and before that in Turkey where he also headed the United States mission, had had good training in foreign languages and foreign ways.

She was immediately suspicious of the involuntary exclamation. Only a German would cry "Mein Gott," she reasoned. The uniform must be a disguise and illegally got. The man was likely a spy.

She at once told the train conductor what had happened. He wired a report ahead to Washington. When the train stopped here, a group of FBI men met the coffee spiller and carried him off under arrest.

Mrs. Grew was told later that the fellow was one of the most dangerous of German spies. The United States Secret Service had been looking for him for two months.

WHILE ON THE SECRET SERVICE THEME, royal Frenchmen are saying that as the Allied troops go farther and farther inland into France, the truth about this unhappy Nazi-infested country will be discovered. The British, French and American Secret Service have been keeping close watch on France. The British and French reports, so I am told, have been in agreement for the most part.

The American report has varied slightly from these two. But now the real picture of France as she was and as she means to be will be revealed to the world.

The old France is dead—forever, a young Frenchman explained to me as we sat in War Secretary Henry L. Stimson's press conference room at the Pentagon building waiting to hear the war department's report on the progress of the fighting. Gen. Charles De Gaulle is truly a sincere and able fellow I was told. But he is also a wise fellow. He knows that the cause which he so bravely fostered when France was deep in national degradation is now far greater than he is.

THE CAPITAL IS BEING RAPIDLY DRAINED of young men. There have been hundreds of them here and there in offices and at recreation centers. Now the best of youth and valor is being dragged into the war net where they squirm as helpless as fish in a net.

The young soldiers who came to my house were listless about the war—until D-Day. During the past week six fine, strong boys stopped in to say goodby. They were leaving for the front at once.

"Gee, I can't wait to get over," each one said. "I've got to have a chance to do my share in this fighting."

We talk of beachheads and the sea coast of France without realizing, many of us, the sort of place we are speaking so casually about. Sea coast to many American minds means miles of sandy beach with only a light house beyond the twenty-third sand dune.

The French countryside, if you haven't been there, seems in your American minds as open country as those bare stretches between Washington and Baltimore.

There are no bare stretches in France. Normandy, where the biggest assaults are being made is thick with farm houses and tiny villages. The beaches are not mere sand and sea. They are settled with houses and busy with people. It would not be possible to land anywhere along the French coast without being seen by hundreds of eyes.

Railroad lines weave and interweave across the fields and through the dozens of small towns. There is no breathing space for the Allied troops as they cut their way through dynamite and cold steel toward Berlin.

YOUNG AND OLD ALIKE UP IN ARMS FOR HITLER NOW

IN THIS COUNTRY we sing "they're either too young or too old," but in Germany there is no such slogan. Proof of this is shown above as two Nazi youngsters, captured on the Allied beachhead in Normandy, stand before their American captor. Taken in the same bag of Nazi prisoners of war were the grizzled veterans in the background. (International)

Corsicana Had One Of Texas' First Oil Fields

(Editor's note—This is another in a series of articles on Texas oil history, of timely interest as the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association is observing its 25th anniversary.)

The city of Corsicana needed an additional water supply and so a contract was let to the American Well and Prospecting Company to drill three wells. The first one, on June 9, 1894, at a depth of 1,027 feet, hit a strong showing of oil. The nuisance was eased off and drilling continued but the unwanted greasy fluid made its way up outside the casing and careless crowds of curious spectators were responsible for three derricks being burned down before the undertaking was completed as a water well at 2,470 feet.

Not everyone regarded oil as a nuisance, however, and a company was formed and a well started for oil this time, instead of water. This well made 2 1/2 bbls a day. By the end of '96 Corsicana had five producing wells and the year's output was 1,450 barrels. It should be borne in mind that the entire production of Texas at the year before was only 50 barrels. In 1897 Corsicana produced 66,000 bbls and by the end of April 1898 the field had 100 producing wells, as well as 13 dry holes and 17 derricks. Two hundred men were employed at an average of $2 a day.

The only market for the crude was for drilling of more wells and for shipment to Dallas and Austin to be used in making gas. Mayor James E. Whitell, having heard of the achievements of J. S. Cullinan in the Pennsylvania fields, invited him to view Corsicana's possibilities. The result was that Cullinan contracted for 150,000 barrels a year at 50 cents a barrel and agreed to build a pipeline, tanks and a refinery. His associates in the East, however, read scientific reports that oil and gas would never be found in Texas in paying quantities, and they backed out. Meanwhile, Cullinan had ordered the materials for the refinery and he was able to interest Calvin N. Payne, a Pennsylvania oil man, who in turn interested Henry C. Felger, one of the leading figures in the national industry. E. R. Brown supervised the construction and operation of the refinery. The stills were fired on Christmas Day, 1898—a great Christmas present to Texas.

Corsicana is significant in the story of Texas oil because the new method of rotary was used in drilling—(some of the earlier wells there derived power for drilling by a horse walking around a sweep); because of the use of the crude in oiling streets and highways—(Cullinan suggested this idea); because it had the first refinery in the State to operate continuously and extensively; because it was the birthplace of one of the major companies—the Magnolia Petroleum Company; because it led to the general use of oil as fuel by the railroads—(Cullinan and his brother, Dr. M. F. Cullinan, installed oil burning equipment in a Cotton Belt passenger train locomotive that ran between Corsicana and Hillsboro in 1901)—and because the Corsicana field proved that Texas actually had oil in commercial quantities.

AKRON, O. (UP)—Mrs. E. C. Scarborough, employed in a local war plant has proof that she's directly helping her husband by her work.

Marshall Islands, First Class Petty Officer E. C. Scarborough wrote that he had opened a package of gun clips and found that the packing slip said: "Inspected by Mrs. Bernice Scarborough."

"Those clips you work on have saved us several times," he wrote. "I wanted to send your packing slip back to you, but I had to dive into a watery fox-hole, where it was lost."

To the Wac who had coached him so long and so patiently, he said, "Sister, if I live to be a million, I'll always remember you for this."

THIS IS A WORLD WAR. The most terrible of all recorded events in human history.

And this is what the Wacs—the women soldiers of our Army—are doing about it:

Working in critical hospital jobs. Helping to restore the broken bodies and spirits of fighting men.

Working as lip-readers. Helping blind men to see again through knowledge of Braille. Working as laboratory technicians. As pharmacists. As psychiatric assistants. As ambulance drivers.

Working in control towers. Making strategy maps for invasion.

Manning the giant switchboards that send combat orders winging to tensely waiting bomber crews.

Working night and day at vital jobs. Jobs that will speed the day of liberation—and give us peace again.

These are the women "they'll never forget"...

"Going To Town" In Bond Drive

That rural sections of the United States are "Going to Town" in the Fifth War Loan Drive is suggested by scattered early reports received by the Agriculture Section, War Finance Division, Treasury Department. In Carroll County, Georgia, agriculture's $100,000 share of the county quota was oversold by $20,000 on June 6, six days before the drive opened. In Alabama, where county farm quotas are broken down into "Beats," roughly equivalent to townships in other states, several beats had surpassed their quotas. Gregory County, South Dakota, reached its goal two days before the drive officially opened. More than 20,000 farm machinery dealers in the U. S. have been enlisted as workers in the Fifth War Loan Drive.

Used Cars Under Price Control

Beginning July 10, all used passenger cars come under price control, the Office of Price Administration has directed. All sellers—individual owners as well as dealers—come under the program. Ceilings will vary by model, body type and make and will cover about 8,000 models manufactured from 1937 through 1942. There will be an "as is" and a "warranty" price for each model and body type. Ceilings will drop at the rate of four per cent of the "as is" price every six months. Permissible additions to ceiling prices are provided for extra equipment. Separate prices are given for each of three geographical regions. When a sale has been completed, the buyer and seller must fill out a transfer certificate and turn this in to the buyer's local War Price and Rationing Board. Nearly four million motor vehicles went out of use in the United States in 1942 and 1943 and have not been replaced, the Federal Works Agency reports.

Prices On Certain Fruits
Highest average retail prices for the country as a whole that will result from ceiling prices established for certain fresh fruits have been announced by the OPA. Keep Eye Open for Spies, Tale of a British Uniform is Columnist's Warning And a Strange, Nazi Accent

By HELEN ESSARY Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON—Those warnings against spies you see in taxi-cabs, trains and shops—don't regard them carelessly. There are indeed spies about. Be on the alert to catch a suspicious word or glance, and report your discovery to the proper authorities, promptly.

Mrs. Joseph H. Grew, wife of the state department's director of Far Eastern affairs, had an experience on a train coming from New York recently that combined danger, drama and very, very quick thinking.

Mrs. Grew was in the diner at a table with several strangers. The train was galloping and playing leapfrog with telegraph poles as Washington-bound trains often do after a delay in New York.

At one violent lurch a man in the uniform of a British officer spilled a cup of coffee on Mrs. Grew. "Ach, Mein Gott!" he cried. Then quickly changed his apology to English words.

Mrs. Grew, having recently lived in Japan where her husband was ambassador to Japan and before that in Turkey where he also headed the United States mission, had had good training in foreign languages and foreign ways.

She was immediately suspicious of the involuntary exclamation. Only a German would cry "Mein Gott," she reasoned. The uniform must be a disguise and illegally got. The man was likely a spy.

She at once told the train conductor what had happened. He wired a report ahead to Washington. When the train stopped here, a group of FBI men met the coffee spiller and carried him off under arrest. Mrs. Grew was told later that the fellow was one of the most dangerous of German spies. The United States Secret Service had been looking for him for two months.

WHILE ON THE SECRET SERVICE THEME, loyal Frenchmen are saying that as the Allied troops go farther and farther inland into France, the truth about this unhappy Nazi-infested country will be discovered. The British, French and American Secret Service have been keeping close watch on France. The British and French reports, so I am told, have been in agreement for the most part. The American report has varied slightly from these two. But now the real picture of France as she was and as she means to be will be revealed to the world.

The old France is dead—forever, a young Frenchman explained to me as we sat in War Secretary Henry L. Stimson's press conference room at the Pentagon building waiting to hear the war department's report on the progress of the fighting. Gen. Charles De Gaulle is truly a sincere and able fellow I was told. But he is also a wise fellow. He knows that the cause which he so bravely fosters when France was deep in national degradation is now far greater than he is.

THE CAPITAL IS BEING RAPIDLY DRAINED of young men. There have been hundreds of them here and there in offices and at recreation centers. Now the best of youth and valor is being dragged into the war net where they squirm as helpless as fish in a net. The young soldiers who came to my house were listless about the war—until D-Day. During the past week six fine, strong boys stopped in to say goodbye. They were leaving for the front at once. "Gee, I can't wait to get over," each one said. "I've got to have a chance to do my share in this fighting."

We talk of beachheads and the sea coast of France without realizing, many of us, the sort of place we are speaking so casually about. Sea coast to many American minds means miles of sandy beach with only a light house beyond the twenty-third sand dune.

The French countryside, if you haven't been there, seems in your American minds as open country as those bare stretches between Washington and Baltimore.

There are no bare stretches in France. Normandy, where the biggest assaults are being made is thick with farm houses and tiny villages. The beaches are not mere sand and sea. They are settled with houses and busy with people. It would not be possible to land anywhere along the French coast without being seen by hundreds of eyes.

Railroad lines weave and interweave across the fields and through the dozens of small towns. There is no breathing space for the Allied troops as they cut their way through dynamite and cold steel toward Berlin.

YOUNG AND OLD ALIKE UP IN ARMS FOR HITLER NOW

IN THIS COUNTRY we sing "they're either too young or too old," but in Germany there is no such slogan. Proof of this is shown above as two Nazi youngsters, captured on the Allied beachhead in Normandy, stand before their American captor, taken in the same bag of Nazi prisoners of war were the grizzled veterans in the background. Corsicana Had One Of Texas' First Oil Fields

The city of Corsicana needed an additional water supply and so a contract was let to the American Well and Prospecting Company to drill three wells. The first one, on June 9, 1894, at a depth of 1,027 feet, hit a stratum showing oil. The nuisance was caused off and drilling continued but the unwanted gummy fluid made its way up outside the casing.

and careless crowds of curious spectators were responsible for three derricks being burned down before the undertaking was completed as a water well at 2,470 feet.

Not everyone regarded oil as a nuisance, however, and a company was formed and a well started for oil this time, instead of water. This well made 2 1/2 bbls a day. By the end of '96 Corsicana had five producing wells and the year's output was 1,450 barrels. It should be borne in mind that the entire production of Texas as the year before was only 50 barrels. In 1897 Corsicana produced 66,000 bbls. and by the end of April 1898 the field had 100 producing wells, as well as 13 dry holes and 17 drilling. Two hundred men were employed at an average of $2 a day.

The only market for the crude was for drilling of more wells and for shipment to Dallas and Austin to be used in making gas. Mayor James E. Whitsett, having heard of the achievements of J. S. Cullinan in the Pennsylvania fields, invited him to view Corsicana's possibilities. The result was that Cullinan contracted for 150,000 barrels a year at 50 cents a barrel and agreed to build a pipeline, tanks and a refinery. His associates in the East, however, read scientific reports that oil and gas would never be found in Texas in paying quantities, and they backed out. Meanwhile, Cullinan had ordered the materials for the refinery and he was able to interest Calvin N. Payne, a Pennsylvania oil man, who in turn interested Henry C. Folger, one of the leading figures in the national industry. E. R. Brown supervised the construction and operation of the refinery. The stills were fired on Christmas Day, 1898—a great Christmas present to Texas.

Corsicana is significant in the story of Texas oil because the new method of rotary was used in drilling—(some of the earlier wells have derived power for drilling by a horse walking around a sweep); because of the use of the crude in oiling streets and highways—(Cullinan suggested this idea); because it had the first refinery in the State to operate continuously and extensively; because it was the birthplace of one of the major companies—the Magnolia Petroleum Company; because it led to the general use of oil as fuel by the railroads—(Cullinan and his brother, Dr. M. P. Cullinan, installed oil burning equipment in a Cotton Belt passenger train locomotive that ran between Corsicana and Hillsboro in 1901)—and because the Corsicana field proved that Texas actually had oil in commercial quantities.

Petty Officer Gets Gun Clips Packed By Wife

AKRON, O. (UPI)—Mrs. E. C. Scarborough, employed in a local war plant has proof that she's directly helping her husband by her work. In a letter written from the

Marshall Islands, First Class Petty Officer E. C. Scarborough wrote that he had opened a package of gun clips and found that the packing slip said: "Inspected by Mrs. Bernice Scarborough." "Those clips you work on have saved us several times," he wrote. "I wanted to send your packing slip back to you, but I had to dive into a watery fox-hole, where it was lost."

Birthday Present HAYVERVILL, Mass. (UPI)—Golfer Arthur Emery's 62nd birthday was his happiest: After trying for 25 years, he finally made a hole-in-one with his two sons looking on.

THIS WAS A RED-LETTER DAY for Jim—the soldier who had lost the use of his leg at Salerno. For this day he walked—strictly alone—for the first time in months. To Jim, it was a miracle. To the Wac who had coached him so long and so patiently, he said, "Sister, if I live to be a million, I'll always remember you for this."

THIS IS A WORLD WAR. The most terrible of all recorded events in human history.

And this is what the Wacs—the women soldiers of our Army—are doing about it:

Working in critical hospital jobs. Helping to restore the broken bodies and spirits of fighting men.

Working as lip-readers. Helping blind men to see again through knowledge of Braille. Working as laboratory technicians. As pharmacists. As psychiatric assistants. As ambulance drivers.

Working in control towers. Making strategy maps for invasion.

Manning the giant switchboards that send combat orders winging to tensely waiting bomber crews.

Working night and day at vital jobs. Jobs that will speed the day of liberation—and give us peace again.

These are the women "they'll never forget"....

Shoes—Airplane stamps 1 and 2, good indefinitely.

"Going To Town" In Bond Drive

That rural sections of the United States are "Going To Town" in the Fifth War Loan Drive is suggested by scattered early reports received by the Agriculture Section, War Finance Division, Treasury Department. In Carroll County, Georgia, agriculturists' $100,000 share of the county quota was oversold by $80,000 on June 6, six days before the drive opened. In Alabama, where county farm quotas are broken down into "beats," roughly equivalent to townships in other states, several beats had surpassed their quotas. Gregory County, South Dakota, reached its goal two days before the drive officially opened. More than 20,000 farm machinery dealers in the U. S. have been enlisted as workers in the Fifth War Loan Drive.

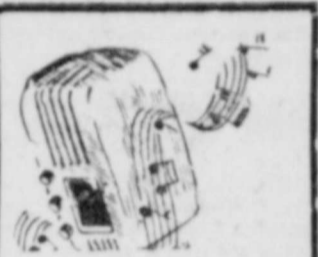

Used Cars Under Price Control

Beginning July 10, all used passenger cars come under price control, the Office of Price Administration has directed. All sellers—individual owners as well as dealers—come under the program. Ceilings will vary by model, body type and make and will cover about 6,000 models manufactured from 1937 through 1942. There will be an "as is" and a "warranty" price for each model and body type. Ceilings will drop at the rate of four per cent of the "as is" price every six months. Permissible additions to ceiling prices are provided for extra equipment. Separate prices are given for each of three geographical regions. When a sale has been completed, the buyer and seller must fill out a transfer certificate and turn this in to the buyer's local War Price and Rationing Board. Nearly four million motor vehicles went out of use in the United States in 1942 and 1943 and have not been replaced, the Federal Works Agency reports.

Prices On Certain Fruits

Highest average retail prices for the country as a whole that will result from ceiling prices established for certain fresh fruits have been announced by the OPA. These prices per pound are: Italian prunes, about 14 cents; plums, about 19 cents; sweet cherries about 40 cents; except in California, Washington and Oregon, where the price will be about 36 cents; apricots about 21 cents, except in California, Washington and Oregon, where the price will be about 16 1/2 cents.

YOU can see water dripping from a leaky faucet, and know it's costing money, but you can't see the cold leaking from your refrigerator when the door doesn't fit tightly.

If your electric refrigerator seems to run longer than it should, make this simple test: close the door on a thin slip of paper. If the paper will slide up and down, the seal isn't perfect. Cold air is leaking out, while warm air seeps in.

This leak of cold air costs you money and lowers the operating efficiency of your refrigerator. Maybe a new door gasket is needed, or perhaps just a slight adjustment of the door latch. Your electric refrigerator service man can advise you what should be done.
