

Yanks Stage Smashing Raid On Germany

Back From War

S-Sgt. Lee Roy Jacoby, pictured above, recently spent a three day pass in Ranger visiting with his wife the former, Miss Sue Gordon, his son, Ronald LeRoy, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jacoby.

S-Sgt. Jacoby arrived in the States, October 5th, from Italy, where he was a member of the 36th division, Company I, 142nd Infantry. He went overseas from New York in April, of 1943, landed in Oran receiving Amphibious and mountain training in Africa until the time of the Italian invasion at Salerno.

S-Sgt. Jacoby stated that, he believed, the fighting around Cassino and the monastery there was the hardest fighting his division had seen. He participated in the fall of Rome prior to his hospitalization in Italy several months before his return to the States. He was wounded in the leg by German shrapnel and is a holder of the Purple Heart. He was awarded the infantryman badge. S-Sgt. Jacoby is now at the Haysman General Hospital at Longview, Texas, but expects a 30 day furlough soon.

Soldier's Eyes Do All Right In Nicaragua

HILLSDALE, Mich. (UP)—When in Nicaragua do as the Nicaraguans do and it is the custom there to speak expressively with the eyes says Mrs. Clara Lindwedel of Hillsdale, whose husband waded and won her despite the fact that he speaks no Spanish and she no English.

The 25-year-old soldier, a peace-time resident of St. Louis, met his 19-year-old bride in Managua, where her father is an attorney. After the initial party, he took her to movies, dances and dinners, being at all times expressive with the eyes. He brought along an English-Spanish dictionary for use in small talk, and occasionally an interpreter was present.

Mrs. Lindwedel—Clara Las in Nicaragua—sadly admits that the interpreter was necessary at the climax of the courtship—to read the proposal Lindwedel had written on a slip of paper. After that, the dictionary was just in the way. Lindwedel, an orphan, anticipated his transfer back to the U. S., and sent his bride to Hillsdale upon recommendation of a buddy who has relatives here. She has become fast friends with the professor of languages at Hillsdale College and holds a war job in a factory.

Annual Poppy Day To Be Staged In Ranger Saturday

Saturday will be Poppy Day in Ranger and ladies of the American Legion Auxiliary and helpers will contact the people of Ranger for aid in this annual drive.

Annually the drive falls on the Saturday immediately preceding November 11th and is staged for funds to aid veterans of World War I and their families. The red poppies are worn in memory of the men who lost their lives in that war.

Since the need for funds to carry on the work for which it is solicited is greater than ever the people of Ranger have been urged to contribute as generously as possible.

NORMAN DENNIS RECOMMENDED FOR AWARD

ABILENE ARMY AIR FIELD, Nov. 1.—The "Ideas For Victory" committee here today recommended a $25 cash award to Joe N. Dennis, 28, of Merkel, Tex., for the improvements he helped install on a mobile runway control tower at the Air Field where he is employed as foreman of the drafting department. Formal presentation of the award will be made in the near future.

Sponsored by the War Department for civilian employees and military personnel, the purpose of "Ideas For Victories" is to obtain suggestions that will save time, money and material for the War Department. Already, millions of dollars have been saved as a result of ideas submitted by civilian employees.

The improvements suggested by Dennis provided additional hot-weather and cold-weather comfort for the operating personnel of the control tower, thereby increasing their efficiency in the important job of directing air traffic. The improvements were considered so outstanding that they were adopted for use by other bases and fields of the Second Air Force, of which the Abilene Army Air Field is a unit. Dennis was assisted in his idea by Cpl. James Durrwachter, of Detroit, Mich., also of the drafting department. For his part Cpl. Durrwachter has been recommended for promotion.

Dennis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe A. Dennis of 807 Blandell Avenue, Ranger, Tex. He was graduated from Ranger High school and attended Ranger Junior College. At present he resides in Merkel with his wife Francis Maxine and their three-year old daughter, Jo Ann. Before his marriage, Mrs. Dennis was the former Francis Maxine Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Jones, of Strawn, Texas.

Dennis has been employed at the Abilene Army Air Field since July 1942. He has been doing engineering work for the past five years and before coming to Abilene had worked at the Blue Bonnet Ordnance Plant at McGregor, Tex., and at Camp Bowie, Tex.

Army Center Boards Train To Pay Veterans

LAKE PLACID, N. R. (UP)—The Army Ground and Service Forces Redistribution Station at Lake Placid has speeded up its program for the returning overseas veteran even to the stage of "paying him off" before he reaches this Adirondack Mountain installation.

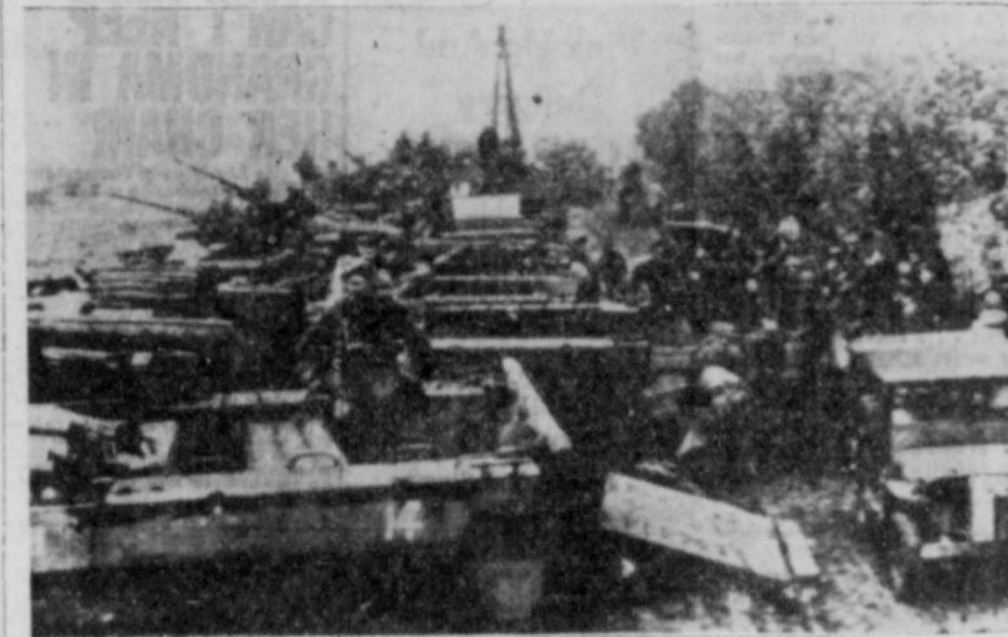

A new pay plan, believed to be tried here for the first time by any Army Redistribution Station, has proved so successful that it will become a stated policy of the station, according to Col. Frederick B. Dodge, Jr., commanding officer.

Realizing that most returning war veterans will be anxious over their financial status, the new plan provides that each returnee will receive—before he gets here—a check in the full amount of any monies for back pay, overseas pay, or ration money due him.

The plan is simple and is designed to "get around the usual Army red tape" when it comes to soldier pay. Here's how Uncle Sam squares off with his GI's: A paying officer will board all incoming trains, ask each returnee for a copy of his orders assigning him here, and check his identification tags. If they jibe, he is handed a check in the amount due him. There's no payroll signing and no long pay lines customarily seen in the Army. With his records here ahead of him, it's easy for the Finance Department to determine exactly how much he should be paid. The soldiers are able to cash their checks immediately on reaching the Lake Placid Club.

BATTLE FOR THEIR LIVES

Coast Guardsmen, engulfed in the tearing force of Hurricane riled waters, battle for their lives on the swamped decks of a loaded ship in the mid-September storm north of Cuba. For three days the hurricane swept the tanker with waves whipped to 60-foot crests by winds of 90 miles per hour. Here crewmen struggle to gain the tank tops—grasping life lines as the wild waves try to hurl them over the side to death. (Coast Guard photo from NEA Telephoto.)

LT. MILNER QUALIFIES FOR COMBAT DUTY

DAVIS—MONTAN FIELD, Tucson, Ariz.—In the recent class of aerial combat crew trainees graduated here and qualified for immediate combat duty was Second Lt. Ralph E. Milner, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis A. Milner, Route 3, Ranger, Texas, who will soon go overseas to a combat theater as navigator on a B-24 Liberator, has successfully completed a strenuous training course here termed a "dren rehearsal" for his future assignment.

Teamwork, the all-essential factor that makes bomber crews click has been stressed. Long range bombing missions, navigational problems, aerial gunnery practice, and actual interception with fighter aircraft simulating enemy planes are all an important part of this final phase of heavy bombardment training.

Cholera Serum For Hogs Ranks As Town Industry

FRANKLIN, Neb. (UP)—The late C. W. Hevner, cattle feeder, began making his own serum for the immunization of his hogs against cholera in 1912; today, the Hevner Serum Co. is a major Franklin industry, grossing $40,000 a year.

The firm, one of 40 in the United States, now annually purchases an average of 12,000 hogs weighing from 100 to 140 pounds. It buys over an area of several states to secure animals that have not been immunized against the disease.

Smaller hogs, used in making the virus, cannot be sold to packers because the meat has been infected. However, other hogs, which are immunized and then injected with the virus for production of the serum, are sent to packers after several bleedings. In slaughtering, packers save the blood and return it to the plant. Approximately 20 per cent of the hogs are used in making the virus, and 80 per cent for serum production.

A 500-acre farm is operated in conjunction with the serum plant to provide year-round work for employees and to supply much of the feed needed for the hogs. It is estimated that 2,000 animals are on feed and in the lots at all times.

MAJOR HERRING GETS LEGION OF MERIT AWARD

BRECKENRIDGE, Tex. Nov. 1.—Major Robert R. Herring of Breckenridge has been awarded the Legion of Merit citation for service.

Major Herring recently was a visitor here while on a special mission to Washington. He returned to duty in the Pacific some time ago and the last letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Herring, tells of the march into the Philippines by the invasion forces. Just where he is was not stated definitely.

Besides the Legion of Merit award Major Herring has been awarded the Air Medal and Silver Star.

He is in the intelligence service. Citation for the Legion of Merit as received by his parents, here follows:

Major Robert R. Herring, Air Corps, United States Army. For exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in New Guinea from 3, March, 1943, to 12 January 1944. As Chief of the Intelligence Section of an Air Task Force Major Herring's sound analysis of enemy capabilities, movements, and the effects of our air efforts, contributed greatly to our success. Throughout operations which included the direct and indirect support of ground action against Salamaua, Lae, Finschhafen, Arawa, Cape Gloucester, and Sidor, his accurate estimates of enemy targets were an outstanding contribution to the effectiveness of his organization. The command, operating during a period when the only information was dependent on estimates and evaluations, destroyed 130 enemy barges by organized air attacks. Major Herring's valuable resourcefulness and devotion to duty were valuable assets to the effectiveness of the Air Task Force.

Report of the award of the Legion of Merit to Major Robert R. Herring today added another honor to that young man who on his visit here after his parents had moved here from Ranger impressed many with his brilliance.

In one of his statements in several public appearances here he stated he did not hate the Japs. He questioned about this he wrote a masterful article to Mrs. Don Morris stating why he does not hate the Japs. He read it before a ladies meeting. He seems to be one of the few who can kill them but does not hate them.

A letter to his parents says he is established on a beach with an ice box and a radio, but is awful busy sending out planes and getting information about the Japs.

Directors Of C. Of C. Meeting Held Wednesday

Directors of the Chamber of Commerce in a meeting Wednesday night reported that to date efforts to secure someone to replace the dead lights on the derrick on Main street had been of no avail.

It was stated that so far as is known only one company is still doing such work and while the company would furnish the lights they would not furnish a man to install them at the derrick.

It was also reported at the session that a meeting of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce directors will be held in Abilene, November 8, at which time a vote will be taken on the organization's policies. David D. Pickrell, who was recently re-elected director to the West Texas body from the Ranger Chamber of Commerce will represent Ranger at the meeting.

Those who attended the meeting Wednesday night were Pickrell, W. F. Croager, L. E. Pearson, M. J. King, Floyd Killingsworth, and A. J. Ratliff.

WASHINGTON, (UP)—Chairman James Lawrence Fly of the Federal Communications Commission last night urged Congress to pass legislation to curb the use of radio by Communist agents and segments of the radio industry, announced today that he had resigned, effective Nov. 15 to return to private practice in New York.

SIXTH BOND DRIVE TO OPEN NOVEMBER 20

In preparation for the opening of the Sixth War Loan Drive on November 20, Cyrus B. Frost, Eastland county chairman for the drive, has issued the following statement:

The Sixth War Loan Drive starts on November 20 and closes on December 16, but credit will be given for all Series E, F, and G bonds that are purchased during the full months of November and December.

The national quota is fourteen billion, which is two billion less than the Fifth War Loan. The overall quota for the State of Texas is $411,000,000. The overall quota for Eastland county is 645,000 and of this our Series E quota is $255,000. Our overall quota for the Fifth War Loan was $725,000, and our Series E quota was $300,000 of the overall amount. During the Fifth War Loan we sold on the overall quota over one million, and on the Series E quota over $400,000. So it will be seen that we have a smaller job to do for the Sixth War Loan than we did for the Fifth War Loan, and when we take into consideration the large pennant crop that is being raised and now harvested, and high prices that the farmers are going to get for the same, we should move into the matter of getting the Sixth War Loan over at an early date, and with the determination to make it an outstanding success, as we have done in all former drives.

At an early date the chairman of all the community committees, and representatives from all the banks will meet to break down and assess the individual quotas for all towns and communities in Eastland County.

We again solicit the interest and labors of all patriotic citizens to move forward to this task as has been so valiantly done in the past. The Germans are rapidly being driven from every conquered country; MacArthur is back in the Philippines, and our Navy is now clearing the Pacific Ocean of the last vestige of the Imperial Japanese Navy; additional great military results can be hoped for between now and Christmas and the fighting fronts, and let us here at home give all the boys and girls everywhere in the armed services a Christmas present en masse by putting over at an early date the Sixth War Loan.

Very kindly yours,
Cyrus B. Frost,
War Finance Committee.

United Nations Conference Is Being Planned

WASHINGTON, (UP)—Chairman Tom Connally, D. Tex., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee told a press conference today that a meeting of United Nations representatives to consider the Dumbarton Oaks agreement will be held "as soon as practicable" after Congress reconvenes.

He said he did not know whether this would be right after Congress goes back to work on Nov. 14, or whether it would be delayed until early next year.

OIL, RAILROAD CENTERS GET CRUSHING BLOW FROM ARMADA

More than 2,000 American war planes bombarded Nazi oil and rail road targets from the Ruhr and Rhineland to central Germany today in a smashing daylight follow-up of the RAF's triple night attack at Oberhausen, Cologne and Berlin.

A half dozen aerial task forces, numbering well over 1,100 Flying Fortresses and Liberators and 900 Mustang and Thunderbolt fighters, fanned out over the Reich for the great daylight assault. Allied forces, clearing the Germans from Walcheren island on the approaches to Antwerp had the enemy locked into the northern half of the principal town of Flushing today and widened their beachhead on the west coast to at least 4 miles.

On the eastern front Russian tanks and infantry advancing across the open plains of Hungary on the last lap to Budapest reached Orkney, 24 miles south of the capital.

Eighth Army troops in Italy crossed the Rapido river in strength and reached the airfield outside Foggia, junction point on the Rimini-Bologna highway, where stiff fighting is in progress.

About 500 British heavy bombers hit the Ruhr Valley factory and railway town of Oberhausen during the night, while twin engine Mosquitos attacked Berlin and the burning ruins of Cologne.

In the Pacific, Japan rushed air reinforcements into the Philippines from her dwindling reserves in the homeland.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported in his daily communique that Japanese air attacks on American shipping and troops at Leyte continued "light and ineffectual."

American ground forces on Leyte tightened their assault arc around the north coast town of Carigara, key to an escape route to Ormoc for an estimated 2,000 Japs in that sector.

Japan Claims 14 U. S. Warships Sunk In Battle

Japan claimed today, in a series of announcements unsupported by any Allied source, that its Army air force and special suicide "attack units" sank or damaged 14 American warships, including battleships and cruisers, in heavy raids on the U. S. invasion fleet in and near Leyte Gulf yesterday.

MINNEAPOLIS, (UP) Rep. Walter H. Judd, R. Minn., who recently returned from Chungking, charged today that a demand from the White House that Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell be made the overall commander in China, with military authority even over Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek, pre-empted the crisis that led to Stilwell's recall.

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Tokyo radio said today that a "small" American task force had been sighted 300 miles east of Luzon island in the Philippines. There was no elaboration on the enemy report.

Morale-Builders

(From the San Antonio Evening News)
Soon after the first American troops moved overseas, early in the war, Maj. Gen. F. H. Osborn, Chief of Army Special Service, asked the motion picture industry what it would charge to supply its latest feature films to the men at the fronts. The answer was an instant, enthusiastic and unanimous "No Charge."

Since then, service men in the most isolated out posts, right up to the rear areas behind battle lines or in evacuation hospitals, have seen the same pictures which are shown in theatres back home. Indeed, numerous outstanding motion pictures of 1944 have been shown first on Pacific islands, to only GI audiences.

To men at the front, pictures are like a letter from home some to life. They see unfold on the screen "familiar faces, places they have known, the little things that stand for their way of life." The film has come all the way from Hollywood under special priorities, by plane or fast boat to the port or supply center nearest the men. Then the package has moved up by jeep, canoe, mule-pack, camel train, dog-sled or native carrier, or transport that came handy. The audience will sit on log bunkers in a tropical rainforest and watch the picture run. Again, their outdoor theatre may be a shell-torn hillside in Italy or a bleak, wind-swept Aleutian Plateau. Wherever the pictures go, they are welcome.

Motion pictures at the front have proved "tops" as morale-builders.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

AN effort to incorporate a great religious movement into the program of the National Citizens' Political Action Committee, working for re-election of President Roosevelt, is revealed in a series of letters and pamphlets sent to some 20,000 American clergymen of all faiths, soliciting them to become "Religious Associates" of the N. C. P. A. C.

Edson

New York headquarters of the P. A. C. says that about 130 priests, rabbis, preachers and lay leaders are now enrolled in the "R. A." branch of the P. A. C.

The movement has drawn criticism from a number of conservative clergymen, particularly Dr. Norman Vincent Peale of the Marble Collegiate Reformed Church in New York, who has charged that P. A. C. is "trying to drag the church into politics." Dr. Peale is now listed as Chairman of the Committee for Constitutional Government, but as Dr. Edward A. Rumsely testified before the House Campaign Expenditures Committee, that the Committee for Constitutional Government, of which he is executive secretary, was not a political organization but an educational one. Dr. Peale's own activities with the C. C. G. could of course not be considered in the same political light with those of the P. A. C. Religious Associates.

It was Sidney Hillman himself who started the Religious Associates, with a letter to the 20,000 clergymen, dated Aug. 18. In the letter Hillman said that the Associates had no blueprints and no goals, but would be an informal fellowship of ministers and lay leaders.

Shortly after this letter went out, the Rev. Dwight J. Bradley became head of the Religious Associates and his name now appears on all the R. A. literature. Bradley has held pulpits in a number of cities and since 1938 has been head of the Congressional Church Council for Social Action.

One of the more intriguing bits of literature which Dr. Bradley has put out is a 16-page pocket size leaflet bearing the old nursery rhyme title, "This Is the Church, This Is the Steeple, Open the Door . . . and There Are the People."

C. I. O. isn't mentioned in this sermonette until page seven, where it explains that anyone who serves the working people well is a friend of the church and "The C. I. O. is primarily concerned with the protection and the improvement of the economic conditions of its members." Then it explains what the C. I. O.-P. A. C. is, and the N. C. P. A. C., finally getting around, on page 9, to the "R. A."

THERE is a 10-point credo set forth for the Religious Associates, and another denounce of Political Aims of the Religious Associates. In neither of these does the name of Roosevelt appear, but in a series of neat little mimeographed notes sent out over the signature of Dr. Bradley, Roosevelt's name is mentioned plenty.

The list of these letters, mailed from New York on Oct. 18, begins: "Dear Religious Leader:
In the last letter we asked: For whom shall we vote in order to meet these issues in the right way?"

There follow six paragraphs of all the things Mr. Roosevelt has done, with the conclusion that "in the light of this record, it seems to me quite clear that Mr. Roosevelt should be re-elected. . . ."

Sincerely yours,
Dwight J. Bradley."

SPORTS

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

FRESCO THOMPSON, the old second baseman, joins Billy Evans, president of the Southern Association, and others who contend one-armed Pete Gray will make good with the Browns next spring with considerable to spare.

Gray developed into a magnetic attraction by doing everything asked of him as a member of the Memphis club, and with any kind of a break will whirl American League turnstiles.

Batting second with war club in his left hand, Gray hit 333 in 129 games in Dixie, belted in 60 runs.

If Gray can get on base in the big show—and Thompson insists the unusual athlete will—he'll lend George Stinweis of the Yankees and George Washington Case of the Senators a hand in restoring the attractive art of base-running. Gray equaled the Southern Association record established by Kiki Cuyler in 1923 by swiping 68 bases. In this department, Thompson compares Gray to the remarkable Snuffy Stinweis, and players of this type upset pitchers.

GRAY beat Thompson's New Orleans and other Southern Association clubs with his hitting, base-running and outfielding, so it is obvious that no one let up on him.

Thompson describes Gray as catching a fly ball with the skill of any topnotch two-armed player. While balls on the ground are a bit difficult for him at times, Thompson has seen two-armed outfielders in the majors who looked worse on them.

Gray fields the ball, removes his glove, tucks it in his left armpit, and throws all in one flowing motion.

IT'S Sunshine Tim Mara now. His professional football New York Giants have not had a rainy home Sunday in 15 games over a stretch of two-and-a-half seasons. . . . The new Trans-America Football League has landed the Cotton Bowl as home of its Dallas club. . . . Great Lakes' trip to Wisconsin recalls their game of two years ago when the Badgers prevailed on a dash of more than 60 yards by Crazy Legs Hirsch and the spectacular 102-yard runback of an intercepted pass by Jack Wink. . . . With Ray Bray, North Carolina Pre-Flight employs a five-man six-man line with the big Chicago Best covering everything in the center. . . . That's what one man can do for a team.

Proposed Code Would Cut Time To Close Estates

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UP)—A model probate court ordinance, drawn up to coordinate the varying probate court codes of the nation, has been completed for submission to the American Bar Association, it was announced by Prof. Lewis M. Simes of the University of Michigan law school, author of the code.

The recommendation was made at the suggestion of the Association four years ago and will be submitted to the Bar Association committee headed by R. G. Patton of Minneapolis.

Transfer And Storage

Simes said research by himself and two assistants had shown that the greatest fallacy in probate courts lay in existing laws taking excessive time to close estates. He pointed out that estates in Southern states remained suspended for as much as seven years, at a time settlement.

Under the model code, legal processes would be simplified to avoid consumption of estates in lawyers' fees and to allow settlement with in a year.

Prisoners To Be Given Priority On Home Coming

WASHINGTON, (UP)—The War Department has announced that all prisoners who have been prisoners of war for 90 days or more will be returned to their homes as quickly as possible after they are freed. They will be given priority in return over all other personnel except those who are held in their homes.

The War Department has adopted this policy because it recognizes the need of men who have been held in captivity for a period of rehabilitation which in most cases can be best given them in their homes.

In accordance with the policy adopted toward prisoners of war, 1,015 American members of the air forces who had been impris-

New York City little more than a month after peace with that country was declared and sent back to their homes on 30-day leaves and furloughs.

The same procedure will be carried out in regard to prisoners held in Bulgaria as soon as arrangements can be made for their return. Prisoners of war continue to receive their regular pay for the time of their imprisonment and all allotments to their families and additional payments for foreign service, insurance premiums and parachute pay will also be made. Money received for work during internment from the provisions of the Geneva Convention will not be deducted.

Hotel Manager Makes Success Of Toy Business

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UP)—Anybody who thinks the Horatio Alger days are over in America ought to go and talk to George F. Peterson, proprietor of the Evan Toy Company.

A year ago Peterson was down and out. He had been forced to close his Lubbock hotel when the shortage of gasoline took all of his guests away. Today he finds it impossible to fill the orders he gets for his toys from almost every state in the country.

After he closed his hotel, Peterson went to work as a shipyard welder on the West Coast. He made friends with a fellow who used his spare time to manufacture walking ducks and decided he would go into the business.

Returning to Lubbock, he established his headquarters in his home.

Soon he had so many orders for the walking ducks that he decided to expand the business and start manufacturing other toys. As soon as the paint was dry he sold what he had made. By Christmas of last year, 14,000 of the wooden ducks were sold and he was making 30 other toys.

Now 85 women are sitting around the Evan Company factory manufacturing Peterson's toys, and four salesmen are out on the road pulling in the sales.

"Sales of this company are limited only by the amount of work we can turn out," says Peterson. "When the war is over..."

YOU GOTTA THINK QUICK

By Stanley Paley

THE STORY: Virgil Boggio, Mexican racketeer, needs legal advice from lawyer Leo Kabateck. The necessities of his job require the latter to put him somewhat in Kabateck's power.

I SAT there for two solid hours listening to him, and by the time he got through I had smoked up an entire pack of cigarettes. My body was bathed in sweat and my head was boiling. I didn't know whether this was all a nightmare or whether I'd gone nuts or something.

It was the most incredible story of petty chicanery, of racketeering, of murder. The entire structure of a unique organization had been revealed to me, and now many things that had always puzzled me about Boggio suddenly became clear. I'd known all along that his business interests weren't strictly on the level. I'd shut my eyes to what I thought was petty and even grand larceny. But I hadn't realized to what extent Boggio had made a science of crime and cold-blooded murder.

Having talked himself out, Boggio seemed to feel better. I guess it was the first time he'd ever confided that much to any human being. But now I began to wonder if it wouldn't have been better for me if things had remained just as before. Boggio's the kind of guy who'll give you the shirt off his back. And then he'll send you a bill for it.

"Well," he said, leaning back in his chair, "now you know everything."

He wasn't fooling me. I knew that in spite of all he'd told me he'd also withheld plenty. No start with he had had many names. Whenever possible he proceeded along the lines of his former statements. He'd say things like "a certain corporation" and "some fellow" and I knew he meant a gang and some thug or trigger man.

I now began to understand why he'd singled me out for these confidences. I knew that he had other mouthpieces working for him—men much older and far more experienced than I was. But he didn't trust any of them. He didn't trust me either, for that matter, but I was the one least likely to sell him down the river. At any rate that's what he'd figured on.

I GOT up from my chair, fumbled for a cigarette and then noticed they were all gone. I walked over to the window and looked down into the street.

"Nice view," said Boggio.

"Yes," I said. I walked across the room a couple of times and then sat down again.

"Suppose a fellow got cold feet," I said, "and suppose he wanted to back out of a proposition that didn't look very healthy for him?"

"I wouldn't advise it," said Boggio quickly, "especially if he'd been involved in something for which he'd signed a confession. And I also don't think he ought to leave his best friend when he's most needed."

That was a good one, Boggio talking about friendship.

"If a fellow like that got hurt," he continued, "I'd say it was a case of Divine Justice." Boggio was actually waxing lyrical on me. I wondered where he'd picked up the two-bit expression.

"Don't you think so?" he concluded.

"Sure, sure," I said hastily. "I was just wondering."

We talked some more and it was decided I'd have until next day to digest the facts that had been imparted to me. We would then get down to business and define our new and closer relationship. I was also to make him a proposition along financial lines and tell him just how much I expected for my services. He assured me that from that standpoint I didn't have to worry. He was generous and I could expect a square deal from him.

Boggio took my arm as we walked back to the living room. He had never done that before and I suppose he meant it as a friendly gesture.

THERE are certain periods in your life when you know a very definite change is going to take place. This was one of them, and I couldn't help being in a sort of daze. To start with, there was the knowledge that Boggio was a far greater loose than I'd ever imagined him to be.

On the other hand there was the realization that I was within grasp of big dough without actually doing anything which would directly involve me in the more seamy side of Boggio's enterprise. It made me think of the story of the fellow who's asked what he'd do if he only had to wish for the death of a wealthy Chinaman he'd never seen and whose sole heir he'd become.

I'd often wondered what I'd do if I were faced with that particular predicament, and here it was staring me in the face. I believe I know something about human nature and I'm convinced that you can judge men by the figure for which they will sell themselves out. Some will do it for five bucks and some for five million. Some for a dame they can't get out of their system. But there's a price tag on practically everybody, and those who don't have one are the exceptions to prove the rule. They're also saps.

The price for which I was prepared to sell out was a pretty stiff one. That already made me a fairly moral person. And moreover I could always talk myself into the idea that Boggio was exercising moral coercion on me. If I fell out of line he could use that confession he'd-jacked out of me when I was too dumb to know better. The thing to do now was figure out just what my price was.

Below you will find the poem used by the Honorable Robert Kerr, Governor of Oklahoma.

TWELVE LONG YEARS

The Republicans for twelve long years Have shed their coats and skins and tears To tell their comrades how they feel Regarding Roosevelt's New Deal.

For twelve long years they've pleaded for votes But never mentioned nine cent cents They say this New Deal stuff is rotten But never mention four-cent cotton.

For twelve long years they've wept aloud And cursed this money-spending crowd They say of liberty we are shorn But not a breath of twelve-cent corn.

For twelve long years they've been at sea And now they come to you and me And offer us as bait for votes More three-cent steers and nine-cent oats.

For twelve long years they fume and fret, Hammer and slander the New Deal set. They say to all, "What a cheat," But forget to talk of two-bit wheat.

They offer us in days of old, A crown of thorns—a Cross of gold More gilded promises. Can you beat 'em? Well, one thing sure. You can't eat 'em.

"I have no help problem!"

Women are discovering that their dependable and useful electric appliances are helping a great deal to solve their home-making problems in these war days when help is scarce and there's so much to be done. A little time saved in preparing a meal or a light lunch, quicker and better cleaning with an electric cleaner, the convenience of an electric refrigerator, all add up to many minutes saved each day. Now that your electric servants are more necessary than ever, be sure to give them the proper attention to make them last the duration. Keep them clean, tighten any loose screws and handle appliances carefully. When they fail to work properly, take them to an electric shop which specializes in appliance repairing.
