GI Bond Jamboree at 3 p.m.

SHOW TO BE IN RECREATION BUILDING IN CASE WEATHER PREVENTS OUTSIDE STAGING

Cast includes GI Band From Abilene, War Heroes And Master of Ceremonies Jimmy Allard Harley Sadler, Speaker

W. F. Creager, war finance chairman for Ranger, and B. E. Garner in charge of arrangements for the GI Bond Jamboree coming to Ranger this afternoon at 3 o'clock, have announced that plans are completed for the show and that in case of inclement weather the show will be moved from the Arcadia theatre block to the Recreation building.

With all evidence pointing to the fact of approaching bad weather late Saturday afternoon the action was taken with reference to moving the show inside. But it was pointed out that in case the weather permits the show will be staged outside in the Arcadia theatre block, beginning promptly at 3 p. m.

Headed by a group of returned war heroes from every battlefield, a special unit of the "GI Jamboree" will stage a huge bond rally as part of the Smashing Sixth War Loan campaign for this sector.

Accompanying the heroes will be a "GI" military show, complete with band, entertainers and novelty acts from Camp Barkley. The "GI Jamboree" unit which will visit Ranger is one of four such units touring 200 cities and towns of the Lone Star State under the supervision of Phil Isley of the War Activities Committee for the nation picture industry.

Jimmy Allard, manager of the Vernon theatre at Vernon, Texas, and ex-squad leader, will act as master of ceremonies for the show along with Harley Sadler, who is known as the "Will Rogers of West Texas."

Three war heroes from far flung battlefronts will speak at the rally and tell of their experiences. They are Sergeant Joe B. Osteen, Sergeant Norman E. Bonds and Sergeant Herman E. Ehrhard, Sgt. Osteen, who has put in more than 500 combat hours against the Japanese, was in the southwest Pacific for two years, seeing action in Bougainville, Munda and islands of the New Georgia group. Sgt. Bonds wears the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Air Medal with Oak Leaf cluster and the Purple Heart for heroic service in China as a flight engineer and top turret runner in Liberator bombers. Sgt. Ehrhard, 21 year old tall gunner of a Flying Fortress in the European theatre of operations, is possessor of the Air Medal for his missions out of England, which included bombing out under highly dangerous circumstances.

Weatherford And Ranger Teams To Play Thursday

Olen Holloway announced Saturday that a double header basketball game will be played in Weatherford Thursday night when the Ranger Junior College basketball team meet the Weatherford Junior College team in the latter city.

The games will be called at 8 o'clock and will be return games as the two Weatherford teams played the Ranger teams here last Thursday night. Weatherford took both of the games here, the boys winning by a score of 13 to 8 and the girls by a score of 20 to 8.

Holloway stated that the two Ranger teams though rather new at the game are whipping into shape and that some good games can be anticipated for the season.

Says People Will Be To Blame If Bad Times Come

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP)—Walter Morrow, acting president of the American Retail Federation, and former Scripps-Howard editor, warns the people of Texas that they "shouldn't sit back and complain about Washington, but get the facts, form opinions, and talk to your congressmen."

"If bad times follow for the United States in the post war world," Morrow told a meeting of the Houston Retail Merchants Association, "it will be simply because of dumbness."

There are one hundred billion dollars in accumulated savings which the American people will be ready to spend for needed items after the war—enough to amply cushion the shock of reconversion and the only thing that can spoil the picture is an over-controlled economy.

MESSAGES TO FAMILIES BRING JOY AND GRIEF

Telegraph wires into Ranger hummed Friday night with messages, one of gladness and two of grief for families of Ranger men in service.

Mrs. W. C. Palmer was notified by the International Red Cross last her son, Flight Officer Robert A. Palmer who was reported missing in action in Germany September 23, is a prisoner of war in Germany, thus ending a period of anxiety since being notified that her son was missing in action.

F. O. Palmer was serving with the Glider forces at the time he was reported missing in action and it is believed that he was with the forces cut off at Aachen at the opening of that campaign.

Less cheerful was the message that came to Mrs. Mittie Pugh which stated that her son, Sgt. John S. Pugh has been injured in a plane crash somewhere in a foreign theater of action. The message stated that the accident occurred December 1, Sgt. Pugh's wife, Mrs. Madeline Pugh also resides in Ranger.

The third message came to Mrs. Guy Pledger, Jr., and stated that her husband has been missing in action over Austria since November 17. He was serving with the Air Forces at the time he was reported missing in action. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Pledger, former Ranger residents and his wife is the former Miss Druanne Nicholson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Nicholson and is making her home at the Gholson Hotel while her husband is in service.

Legislature Is Likely To Raise Teachers' Pay

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP)—It appeared to be officially conceded now that Texas school teachers are going to get their salaries increased by the next legislature.

In the budget prepared by the State Board of Control for submission to the session beginning in January, cognizance is taken of the teacher shortage.

Though the board has no authority in raising the salaries, it does make that suggestion in an ex-officio manner.

Chairman of the Board of Control by law is made an ex-officio member of the Board of Trustees for the Texas Teacher Retirement System.

An outline of the budget, which was submitted to Gov. Coke R. Stevenson, commented: "We have much to our credit in Texas about which we can boast, but our education system is not one of them."

"As long as business and industry offer better opportunities in security of employment and salaries than does the teaching profession, we cannot hope to improve our standards of education and properly reward those who loyally stayed in the profession throughout the years."

The Texas State Teachers Association is expected to urge legislation asking that the present $900 annual salary minimum be increased to $1,200 and that the amount be increased up to $2,100 in a 20 year period.

Additional salary of $100 would be allowed for teachers holding Master's degrees.

Chrysler Workers Go Back On Jobs

DETROIT, (UP)—Striking employees of the Chrysler Corporation Dodge main plant voted an "immediate" return to jobs today in what Army authorities hoped was the beginning of a back-to-work movement that would extend swiftly to two other plants where production of B-29 Superfortresses parts has been halted by walk-outs.

WTCC Prepares To Present Program To Legislature

Armed with a mandate from its directors and members in 110 towns, the West Texas Chamber of Commerce is readying its legislative program for presentation when Texas lawmakers meet next month.

D. A. Banden, WTCC manager, and Rep. Joe Humphrey, of Taylor county, are back from a conference at Dallas with Rep. W. O. Reed member from that county, where a final going-over was given the state fiscal control and city-county budget bills. The first is the price of legislation, calling for reorganization and simplification of the state's financial management, that the WTCC nearly, but not quite, got through the 47th and 48th legislatures. It will be re-introduced, with changes, before the 49th session, and again will bear Humphrey's name.

Reed will offer the city-county budget bill calling for tightening amendments to the Stevenson Uniform Budget Law. The WTCC will go all out for this bill as re-written to force the carrying out of a budget after its adoption.

Humphrey and Reed are in the thick of a pre-session letter-writing campaign, posting the house members on their bills as drawn and soliciting offers of co-sponsorship. The WTCC is similarly busy calling on its directors and local area to contact their legislative representatives and urge their support of the two measures.

The WTCC, Banden said, will work with the South Texas Chamber of Commerce for passage of legislative redistricting bill. There has been no redistricting since 1920, although the Texas constitution calls for it following every decennial census. Rep. Marshall Bell, San Antonio, is author of the WTCC-supported bill, which if passed, will give West Texas three more members than it now has.

A fourth measure to be advocated by the West Texas Chamber is a proposed constitutional amendment for appointment of public school state funds on an actual attendance rather than a scholastic census basis. Sen. Pat Bullock, Colorado City, will lead this effort. Bullock represents the 24th district in the upper house.

Legion Seeking Gifts For Men In Hospitals

Another appeal has been issued by Mrs. Con Hazard and Max Starr, chairman for the American Legion drive for gifts for soldiers in Texas Hospitals.

The Legion is making every effort to secure enough gifts so that every soldier in a hospital will be remembered at Christmas through this channel. December 10 is the deadline for getting the gifts to the chairman and people are urged to observe this deadline.

It was stated that assistance will be given in wrapping and packing boxes where it is needed and anyone who wishes this assistance should contact Mrs. Hazard.

To Appear With GI Bond Show Sunday

Jimmy Allard

Jimmy Allard, city manager for the Interstate Theatres in Vernon will be master of ceremonies at the GI Bond Jamboree coming to Ranger Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m.

Allard says that he has been in the show business all of his life. His parents were theatrical people and Allard himself has toured all over the country, under various names as well as in vaudeville, having been an old time blackface comedian.

He has something of a reputation as a bond salesman and in the Fifth War Loan he was one of the 7 showmen in Texas to sell over one million dollars worth of bonds. For this work he was called to Washington, D. C. by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau and in ceremonies at the White House was presented a citation for his efforts in the Loan Drive.

Burma Road Town Falls To Chinese

CHUNGKING—Chinese troops have captured the Burma road town of Chefang, 17 miles northeast of the Burmese frontier, a communique disclosed today.

The fall of Chefang raised the prospects of an early reopening of the Burma road to allied supply traffic.

Harley Sadler

Harley Sadler who will appear as one of the principal speakers at the GI Bond Jamboree coming this afternoon at 3 o'clock, is one of the best known figures in Texas.

For years Sadler toured Texas with his tent show and is certainly no stranger in Ranger, having pitched his tent here, on many an occasion. At the present most of his time is devoted to his duties as state representative from Sweetwater.

Along with Jimmy Allard, Sadler will do the pitch on bond selling at the rally this afternoon and it is said that his persuasive appeal can melt the hardest heart and loosen strings on the tightest purse.

Kindness To Men In Service Felt Keenly By Pair

People in Ranger who have been thoughtful of strange servicemen who visit Ranger can get an idea of what it means to these men from an incident that occurred to two Ranger men in service.

D. C. Arterburn and Ernest Arterburn sons of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Arterburn have written their parents of a happy week-end they had together through the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Moore of Philadelphia.

D. C. is stationed with the Coast Guard in Maryland and Ernest is stationed in New York with the Navy but through an invitation from the Philadelphia family they spent the week end together at the Moore home on a recent week-end. Their pleasure at such thoughtfulness was evidenced in their letters to their parents.

Urges Relatives To Investigate Social Security

Survivors of deceased servicemen who worked in employment covered by the Social Security Act prior to their entrance into the armed forces have been urged to contact the nearest Social Security Board field office by Ralph T. Fisher, manager of the Abilene Field office.

"In addition to any benefits from War Risk Insurance, there may also be some payment from the Old-Age and Survivors Insurance system," Fisher stated. "These payments," he continued, "can be made if the worker (the serviceman or woman) was insured under the Social Security plan; such payments are especially important if the deceased is survived by minor children, since monthly payments continue until the youngest child reaches age 18."

"Delay in filing the claim after notice of death is received may result in some loss of benefit by the survivor," Fisher added.

Soldier Gifts For Camp Bowie Are Solicited

Mrs. H. C. Croom, Ranger chairman for the Camp-Bowie Camp and Hospital committee, stated Saturday that she is ready to receive gifts on behalf of the committee for soldiers in the hospitals at Camp Bowie.

The committee makes an effort each year to see that all soldiers receive gifts at Christmas time and it is for this purpose that she is soliciting the gifts.

Sharpen your elbow, set your teeth. Or there'll be no gifts with the holly wreath.

Greyhound Statement

EDITOR'S NOTE—The following statement was written by Hall Walker, Ranger agent for the Greyhound Bus Lines, and the opinions reflected in the article are those of Mr. Walker and should not be interpreted as the statements and opinions of this newspaper.

The Railroad Commission of Texas has set Monday, December 4, to hear the application by All-American Bus Lines. They desire to operate over U. S. Highway 80 similar to Greyhound Lines. A similar application was heard in 1941 and was denied January 2, 1942, by the Railroad Commission. We hope this application will be denied as the Southwestern Greyhound Lines are capable, willing, and financially able to give efficient service as they have in the past seventeen years. It would be unfair to declare Southwestern Greyhound service inadequate to meet the needs of the public should it end when the conditions produced by the war which no doubt will end when the war is over from the public's viewpoint, protestant contends that it would be in the public interest to maintain service by the present carrier which has always operated and maintained the finest type of motor bus service possible to offer the general public rather than to divide the revenues between two companies thus providing for the general public two mediocre services which for economic reasons might be compelled to operate inferior equipment. Purchaseworth Greyhound Lines takes the position that it was first in the field and has pioneered this bus service in West Texas, and has developed the business it now enjoys by rendering the very best service that can be offered in highway transportation. It desires the privilege of continuing this same type of service along its lines and has just now plans for a super deluxe service on U. S. Highway 80 and 149 through Mineral Wells, Eastland, Breckenridge, Albany and Aldine as well as on its other lines.

Southwestern Greyhound Lines have catered to local people and have maintained frequent and adequate service for all cities in West Texas and by this method has built up a community of interest with its patrons of which it is justly proud. The home office of Southwestern Greyhound Lines is in Ft. Worth, Tex., and the maintenance department is located in Dallas, Texas. Division points are confronted with a transportation problem it has been found people in the field, whom they know and whom they can deal. Even in these abnormal times Greyhound Lines submit that probably the general public has been inconvenienced in many more other ways due to rationing and inability to obtain many needed things. All of us must conserve in every way to win the war. The Office of Defense Transportation requested Greyhound to remove one of its round trip schedules in order to save equipment, tires, and gasoline, which is an added argument that the franchise rights of Greyhound should not be trifled upon by the commission produced by the war. Further, protestant takes the position that the peak of bus transportation was reached in the fall months of 1943 and that while traffic is still heavy there has been a steady decline in traffic and revenues since about a year ago. Protestant further says that they are now receiving an increased volume of new equipment and that if more service is required on these routes that they should be allowed by the Office of Defense Transportation and the Railroad Commission of Texas to render that service. Protestant, Greyhound, is financially able and from the stand point of experience and efficiency, and every other standpoint, to obtain as much equipment and to render as much service as any other company could possibly do. And if their patrons desire more frequent service this existing company, Greyhound, should be given the privilege of rendering that service and is willing to render it to the fullest extent. If additional schedules are added Greyhound takes the position that it should be permitted to reinstate that schedule it was directed by the Office of Defense Transportation to remove and provide any additional service required and is ready, willing and able to do so. More frequent service by the same company affords the patrons and the citizens more convenience on departures and also more schedules to select from on their return trip tickets.

One good transportation system is more to be desired than two poor ones. The general public is well aware of the kind and type of service Greyhound Lines have rendered in West Texas through the years. No one knows what the conditions will be after the war, but it is safe to assume that traffic on the bus lines will increase. But whatever the demands of the bus traveling public may be, Greyhound Lines can and will meet their demands.

Greyhound Lines, Inc., is not asking for anything in these hearings except the right and privilege to remain unimpaired in serving their patrons. While the applicant, All-American Bus Company, is asking for a part of all of the business and patronage, pioneered, fostered and developed through the years by Southwestern Greyhound Lines between Dallas and El Paso, Protestant, Southwestern Greyhound Lines, are grateful for the splendid support that it has received from the citizens of West Texas during the many years it has served them, and will deeply appreciate the assistance of the general public, in this matter, in order that the public interest may be served by even a finer bus transportation system in the post war years than the good service that has formerly been rendered and in this connection Greyhound Lines has many plans for a super deluxe highway transportation system through West Texas.

Hoblitzelle Renounces Blame

EDITOR'S NOTE—Denying any connection with the University of Texas controversy, Karl Hoblitzelle of Dallas today issued a formal statement. In the statement Hoblitzelle, whose name has been mentioned in public hearings, denied that he had any part in the appointment or functioning of any of the university regents. Since my name has been drawn into the University of Texas controversy, I feel that any people are entitled to the true facts. During those tragic days of Bataan and Corregidor, our war production was being hampered by individual disputes. In an effort to do something constructive, we held a mass meeting at Dallas. The program was approved in advance by religious, educational and civic leaders. Everybody who worked on the program contributed time and efforts without compensation, including members of Dallas labor unions. At the meeting a resolution was adopted by a substantially unanimous voting vote of about five thousand people, representing every walk of life. Just before the meeting was called to order, a small group of men came to me and demanded a place on the program. They said they were from the University of Texas. The meeting was to be broadcast on the radio, and the schedule was timed accordingly. We had previously received many requests for a place on the program, but of course it was not possible to grant them. I explained to these men that it was not practical to put them on the program at the last minute. The next day they criticized our meeting in very abusive language, in newspaper interviews.

Later, at the written request of one regent of the University (whom I did not know personally), I gave him a brief letter statement of the facts. That was my only contact with the entire matter. I had nothing to do with the decision of the board of regents, some months later, to re-appoint those profers or when their terms expired. I had no connection whatever with the appointment of Judge D. F. Strickland to the Board of Regents. The first knowledge of this appointment came to me from the newspapers. Judge Strickland is a member of an independent law firm in the Rio Grande Valley. His firm has represented our company in certain matters. I have nothing whatever to do with Judge Strickland's duties as a regent of the University. I have never discussed with him any matter pending before the board. Furthermore, there are also regents, and I have had no connection of any kind with eight of them.

So far as Texas Tech is concerned, I am one of nine directors. There has been no issue of academic freedom or subject of controversy at any meeting I have attended.

Unjust Reflections On A Sterling Citizen

(Editorial from the Dallas Times Herald, issue of Sunday November 26.) Karl Hoblitzelle is justifiably indignant at having his name dragged to the University of Texas controversy and he naturally resents the charge that he and other directors of Texas Technological College are suppressing freedom of speech by the faculty of that school.

But Mr. Hoblitzelle is so well known as a constructive, high-minded citizen that the public will not take seriously these reflections upon him. To associate him with any kind of alleged conspiracy against academic freedom is ridiculous.

It is true that Mr. Hoblitzelle is a man of means, but in serving the public interest he is generous, not only with his money but with his time and energy. It is absurd to call him a reactionary. He has a firmly established reputation for progressiveness. And, in view of his personal integrity and intellectual honesty, it is flagrantly unjust to charge with any sort of collusion.

Through his donations to many good causes and public institutions, including the University of Texas, and his active support of all projects that are for the betterment of the community, Mr. Hoblitzelle has earned the gratitude of the public and gained rank, not only as one of the most constructive citizens of Dallas, but of Texas.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY PETER EDSON, NEA Staff Correspondent

FUNCTIONS of the General Assembly of the United Nations organization, as proposed in the Dumbarton Oaks suggestions for a United Nations charter, would be primarily to settle international questions of interest to two or more countries.

Deliberations of the General Assembly would take place in regular annual sessions and such extra sessions as might be called.

The General Assembly would also act as an advisory body for all the nations, recommending ways in which the nations could co-operate to maintain peace.

Size of each nation's delegation in the General Assembly is not yet determined, but each nation large or small would have only one vote.

This is an over-simplified statement of the functions and powers of the General Assembly, set forth in one of the Dumbarton Oaks suggestions for a charter, passing "laws" for all the nations of the world.

But if any countries, by not ratifying an action of the Assembly, should endanger the peace of the world, that would be something else.

An example of the questions that might come before the Assembly upon a contention for world disarmament, and submit it to the governments of the world for ratification. If one nation should refuse to ratify and should go on building up its armaments, then the Security Council of the United Nations organization might move to amend its charter. The General Assembly would be obligated to refer such cases to the Security Council for enforcement.

The Security Council for enforcement might act to block the barrier to large powers should treat dependent colonies, regulation of white slavery, opium traffic, or even the international distribution of obscene pictorials.

Another job designated to the Assembly is the co-ordination of policies of existing international co-operative agencies such as the International Labor Organization and the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization.

FURTHER, the General Assembly may elect its own president, may appoint the expenses of the member nations in maintaining the United Nations organization, and it may make the budgets for those expenses.

The General Assembly may exercise certain checks upon the Security Council. The Security Council may nominate the secretary general, but the Assembly will elect him and if the General Assembly turns down a nominee, the Security Council must suggest others until an acceptable one is found. Similarly the Security Council may recommend new members for the organization and recommend that others be expelled. It is the General Assembly which gives final direction in functions of this Security Council will be discussed in the next article.

YOU GOTTA THINK QUICK

XXV
IT was about a week later that I stumbled on the Brooklyn address. I'd been going through those papers of Boggio's, and in a compartment of the leather briefcase had come upon a small envelope with a Yale key in it. The address was in Boggio's handwriting.

Ordinarily I wouldn't have worried about it. But what intrigued me was the fact that the address was in the neighborhood of Harris, Ferguson & Co. What was Boggio doing with a key to a place in that district? And what kind of a place could it be?

The key seemed never to have been used. It was probably a duplicate, but the fact that Boggio kept it in his portfolio proved its importance.

Throughout the day I kept trying to dismiss the matter from my mind, but it was no use. At about 4 o'clock I decided to go and see for myself.

It wasn't hard to find the place. It was a stone's throw from the Brooklyn side of Brooklyn bridge. I must have passed in front of it dozens of times without giving it a second look when I was working at Harris, Ferguson & Co. You went around the corner from their store and up an alley barely wide enough for a truck to go through. Then you faced a desolate looking building in weatherbeaten brick and limestone that might have been a small factory or warehouse in its time. It looked as if it had been abandoned for the past few years.

Then it all came back to me. This alley was where I'd first met Boggio.

I walked up to the big double doors to find them securely locked and bolted. There were also a couple of windows tightly boarded up and so deeply covered with dirt and soot that they looked like a part of the wall. But I finally found what I was looking for: a small side door in slightly better shape than the rest of the building. It had a Yale lock. I took the key from the envelope in my pocket and slid it in easily.

THE interior of the place was in pitch darkness. I lit a match and groped around until I found a light switch. A naked bulb suspended from a low beam barely illuminated a small section of the building.

There were some empty packing cases neatly stacked against the far wall. The light was too feeble for me to make out the lettering so I lit another match. Before it burned out I'd seen enough to know that all those cases had once contained liquor. And I'd also seen something else, the dim outline of a circular staircase rising vertically to the top of the building.

I started to climb the wooden steps. The first few creaked and the others let out a hollow sound that echoed loudly through the place. I must have made about seven complete turns before reaching the gallery that gave onto a series of rooms, probably offices in the days when this had been a factory.

Cautiously I walked along the gallery and peered into several of the rooms. They were all empty. In one of them the wallpaper had become unstuck and was drooping down. A couple more had no doors. But it was the one at the end that attracted my attention for its door was closed.

My heart began pounding as I slowly turned the handle. The door wasn't locked and it swung open with its hinges creaking. There was just enough light from the bulb downstairs to help me find the switch.

I wasn't exactly prepared for the spectacle now revealed. It was a large room with a camp cot against one wall and a dresser across from it. Two grips stood at the foot of the cot. In a corner was a wash basin, and neatly stacked in cartons were cans of food; soups, vegetables, meat products, and condensed milk. Enough to last a person for several weeks. The stuff could be heated on an electric plate that stood on a small table. Escue dishes, a knife and a fork and a couple of kitchen towels completed the domestic scene.

I'D seen all I wanted. I turned out the light, and clattered down the rickety winding staircase. The place was beginning to give me the creeps.

Outside it was getting dark and I breathed deeply as the cool air hit my face.

I walked down Fulton street and entered a store with the sign: "Keys Made While U Wait." I tossed the Yale on the counter.

"How long for a duplicate of this?"

"A few minutes," said the locksmith. "Cost you two bits."

"Okay, I'll be back."

I went into a beer parlor at the corner and called up the office. There were no messages, so I told Miss Carr to go home. It was almost 6 and I thanked her for having waited.

After gulping down a glass of beer I went back to the locksmith's. My key was finished and I decided to return to the office and put Boggio's back where it belonged.

It was the rush hour in the subway and I became wedged close to a girl who looked strangely like Mickey. She must have wondered why I kept staring at her and finally turned around, embarrassed.

All the things that had happened since my departure from Hollywood had prevented me from giving Mickey much thought. Not having heard from me, she'd probably imagined I'd forgotten her. Back in the office I put the original key in its place but couldn't concentrate on the work. I'd planned Mickey's image kept coming back to me and so, acting on a sudden impulse, I sat down to write her a letter.

ON TO TOKYO!

Let's all get behind the greatest march in history — the march to Tokyo — and victory!

On countless invasion fronts, thousands of your fighting men are taking up the battle cry: "On to Tokyo!" We've got to back them up with what it takes for complete victory. Remember, the supply lines in the Pacific are long and your fighting men will need more matériel than was required for the entire European invasion to crush the Jap foe.

Let's Echo that cry with BONDS!

Our boys won't quit until they've reached their goal. Let's not stop buying bonds until we've reached ours! In this 6th War Loan Drive, the Nation's goal is fourteen billion—our individual job is to buy at least an extra $100 Bond—another and then another—let's keep on going—let's keep on buying—let's keep on saving it with Bonds—"On to Tokyo!"
