Made "Living Booby Trap"

Pvt. William H. Edwards, of Hayti, Mo., now at McClos key General Hospital in Temple, Tex., looks up from a copy of "Yank" in which his story of being made a living booby-trap by the Germans in the Huertgen Forest appeared. Pvt. Edwards exploded a land mine which blew off his foot while on a night patrol and was forced to remain on the field for 70 hours. With the darkness of the second night three Germans came. Edwards asked them for a drink of water, but they refused it. They then set to work o make him a living booby trap by placing a charge under his back. When help finally arrived he directed the cutting of the wires to the charge so that he could be carried away. Edwayd's wife and six children reside in Hayti Mo.
