C. G. Blankenship Serves Seaplane Tender 2 Years

SOMEWHERE IN THE PACIFIC—Galley C. Blankenship, Seaman First Class, USNR, of 116 E. Main Street, Ranger, Texas, is a crew member of the USS Tangier, a seaplane tender, which has long served as one of the Navy's most important floating airbases.

Veteran of Pearl Harbor, where she was one of the first American ships to open fire on Jap carrier aircraft, the tender has returned to the United States only twice since the outbreak of war—both times to undergo necessary repairs. At present she is in the sixteenth month of her current tour of Pacific duty under the command of Aircraft Seventh Fleet.

As the "mother ship" of scores of Navy seaplanes she has, since March of 1944 taken part in the Admiralty Islands, New Guinea, Morotai and Philippine campaigns. In the Morotai and Philippine campaigns alone, Marines and Catalina's based aboard her sank or destroyed 116,000 tons of Jap shipping and damaged another 55,500 tons.

Recently, a lone Mariner operating from Blankenship's tender peeped out an entire Jap convoy of five ships in an 80 minute attack off the northern coast of Formosa. The ships, two medium freighters, transport, a small freighter transport and two merchantmen, totaled 17,000 tons.

The Mariner was flying a routine night offensive mission when its crew sighted the convoy on a southerly course 15 miles north of Kirun, Formosa. Despite intense anti-aircraft fire, the twin-engine seaplane made 17 bombing-strafting runs, leaving only scattered debris in its wake. Then three Jap fighter planes appeared; but they were too late and too wary. Only one Nip made a pass as the Navy bomber broke off the attack and continued its patrol, before returning to the tender.

In addition to those offensive operations, seaplanes attached to the tender have made numerous open sea rescues of downed Allied airmen, conducted important scouting and evacuation missions, and kept a constant vigil for Jap underwater raiders on anti-submarine patrol.

For a six month period during her current tour of duty, the tender served as the flagship of Rear Admiral Frank D. Wagner, USN, Commander Aircraft Seventh Fleet. As the flagship, she served as the base from which were controlled the vast operations of all tenders, air wings, seaplanes and land based aircraft attached to the command.

Blankenship reported aboard in October 1943. His daily duty is working in the deck force, and while in action against the enemy he was a member of anti-aircraft gun crew. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Blankenship, live at 116 East Main street, Ranger, Texas.

The original name proposed for Utah long before it became a state was Desert.

CONVICTING EVIDENCE OSLO (UP) — The prosecutor in the treason trial of Vidkun Quisling today introduced captured German documents branding the Norwegian puppet as an architect who persuaded the Nazis to invade his country in 1940.

"We have arranged these documents in order to inform the voters of Texas on the vital need for adoption of this amendment," Mr. Mann said. "The lawyers of Texas recognize that the people look to them for counsel in such matters. Therefore we are trying to do just that—recommend to our clients and friends that they vote for this proposal, which many hope is the first of many madly needed revisions in our judicial system," he said.

DOOLITTLE FLIERS FREED BY AIRMEN

CHUNGKING (UP) — Four unidentified members of Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle's Tokyo raiders have been liberated by American paratroopers dropped at Peiping, it was revealed today, but several other paratroop rescue operations encountered Japanese or Russian objections.

The Doolittle raid was among a group of 12 American liberations in the Peiping area by a group of paratroop volunteers of the Office of Strategic Services.

Eight of the Doolittle raiders were captured by the Japanese in China and later Tokyo reported that "some" of them had been executed. Rescue of four of the Doolittle fliers would indicate that four or fewer of the men were executed by the Japanese.

A similar OSS team landed at Mukden but advised their headquarters that until the Japanese received permission from the Russians for the Americans to land they probably would be interned.

Several Down, 7 To Go, Seaman Still Drinking

PORT ARTHUR, Tex., (UP) — Ballard Guyon, 28-year-old Merchant Marine quartermaster, arrived in port recently after a five-month voyage and the first place he sought was the United Seaman's Service canteen.

Having been in a place "where there wasn't any ice cream in a thousand miles," he asked a canteen worker to shake up some strawberry milk for him, "an' keep 'em coming." At one point he was seven nights ahead of his but Guyon was still going strong. The canteen worker predicted they would have to carry him to bed before the evening was over.

SUPERFORTS PACK 8,800 HP IN ENGINES

WRIGHT FIELD, Dayton, O. (UP) — Imagine 8,800 wild horses thundering at you across an open plain.

That's the effect "the Japanese get every time a United States B-29 Superfortress storms over their home islands on the way to some vital industrial target.

The Air Technical Service Command in its first release on technical details of the B-29 disclosed that the Superfortress is now powered by four 3,200-horsepower Wright engine engines.

The Superfortress' four engines hurl it through the air at a maximum speed of 350 miles an hour—faster than most fighter planes could fly when the war began five years ago.

Tall as a three-story building—27 feet, nine inches—the B-29 has a wing span of 141 feet, 3 inches and a total wing surface of 1,739 square feet.

Fully loaded with gasoline and oil, the Superfortress holds as much fuel as an ordinary railroad tank car—enough to take it 3,000 miles with a 16-ton bomb load. The B-29's service ceiling is approximately 35,000 feet.

This flying dreadnought is protected by 12 50-caliber machine guns operated by remote control from a central fire control system.

Four of the 12 machine guns are located in the upper forward turret and two each in "the lower forward, upper rear, lower rear and tail turrets."

"Impressive?" The Japanese think so!

Ingenious Texan Provides Ice Water For Pals

FORT WORTH, Texas (UP) — The inventive trait of a Texan was just what the famed 49th fighter group needed in the Philippines to fight off the relentless heat and thirst.

Cpl. Glen Christopher of Fort Worth armed with mechanical wizardry and ingenuity, fabricated an ice machine that provided men of his outfit with ice water constantly.

A discarded jeep engine and assorted junk parts from various GI junkies were assembled until they took the form of a workable compressor and blower. Scrap lumber, lined with reclaimed sheet metal and insulated with sawdust, were used to make the cooler box.

Aided by three other men, Christopher assembled all parts and a ton of ice water per day was the result. He received a letter of commendation from his commanding officer, Lt. Col. Gerald R. Johnson for the work.

Boys' Pet Given Decent Burial

FORT WORTH, Tex., (UP) — Joe, a one-year-old dog, had a permanent resting place in famed "dogville" on the outskirts of the city.

The dog was shot to death by a neighbor when Joe stopped to sniff at some food in the neighbor's yard. The proprietor of the pet cemetery told the masters of Joe — Billy and Henry Rumpy — that he would give their dog a burial plot in "Dogville."

And that wasn't all. He ordered the boys a three and a half months old wire-haired terrier to try to take Joe's place.

ENVOYS IN CHINA CHUNGKING (UP) — The Chinese central news agency reported today that a Japanese surrender delegation arrived at the Chikhaing airfield.

THE WEATHER West Texas — mostly cloudy with scattered thunderstorms Wednesday and in the east and extreme north portions this afternoon and tonight.

AIRBORNE TROOPS WILL LAND IN THE TOKYO AREA

MANILA (UP) — Japan announced today that the American occupation of her homeland would begin Sunday when Airborne Forces will land in the Tokyo area. Japanese officials ordered military personnel out of the occupation area in an apparent effort to minimize the danger of friction.

The Japanese high command revealed that the Airborne occupation forces would be followed two days later by American Naval Forces, landing at Yokohama at the entrance to Tokyo bay.

Withdrawal of Japanese army and navy forces from the occupation areas was ordered after Tokyo propaganda broadcasts had expressed fear that some "hot-headed" Japanese army men might attempt to battle the occupation troops despite Emperor Hirohito's surrender orders.

The Japanese high command sought to reassure the Japanese, which apparently feared that the occupation areas might be turned into battle zones. It also ordered "non-fraternization" and said that there would be no direct contact between the Allied troops and the general public.

"We emphasize this point," a joint statement of the high command and government said.

The first American troops will land at Atsuki, just southwest of Tokyo, the Japanese announced today.

"The Imperial Army and Navy forces—including their respective air forces—in Kanagawa prefecture and in the southwestern area of Boso Peninsula will be transferred immediately," the announcement said.

Jobe For All Legislation Is Being Taken Up

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Senate banking committee took up "jobs for all" legislation today in the midst of predictions that as many as 8,000,000 war workers face unemployment by spring.

The nation's new veterans administrator, Gen. Omar N. Bradley, was summoned as the first of nearly 50 witnesses who will testify on the so-called full-employment bill in the next two weeks.

NEWLY WEDS PARTED BY PRISON SENTENCE

AERON, O. (UP) — With the words, "Marriage is a partnership and you must both do your part to make it a success," still ringing in their ears, newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. George Goring turned from the "altar" and went their separate ways.

Only a few minutes before the ceremony Goring had been sentenced to prison for one to 15 years for burglary.

LEND-LEASE HALTED WASHINGTON (UP) — President Truman has ordered an immediate halt in the United States multi-million dollar lend-lease program. The White House announced today.

NAGASAKI RUINS SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — Radio Tokyo said today that the second atomic bomb dropped on Japan struck Nagasaki into a desert of rubble and even crushed farmhouses 10 miles distant.

DE GAULLE EXPECTED MONTREAL (UP) — Gen. Charles De Gaulle was expected to land at Dorval airport here sometime today enroute to Washington.

There is a movement in Texas to call the residents Texans instead of Texasans.

Newark, N. J., is the nation's leading lumber port.

Flying at near tree top level a B-29 bomber from Wright Field, Ohio, spreads DDT solution over a section of Rockford, Ill., in an effort to stem the polio epidemic through the killing of flies. WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C.—One of the most intensive manhunt in U. S. criminal history has been the 9½-year search for the kidnaper and murderer of 10-year-old Charles Fletcher Mattson of Tacoma, Wash. In FBI records and in local police headquarters all over the country this Mattson kidnaping has become known as the "Matnap" case. FBI hasn't given up trying to solve it, and won't give up.

There are three slender clues to go on. When the kidnaper broke into Dr. Mattson's home on Dec. 26, 1936, and abducted his oldest boy, a note demanding $50,000 ransom was left on the chair. That provides a handwriting specimen. The kidnaper left fragmentary fingerprints on the glass of French doors through which he entered the house, and again at a phone booth from which he called to make a second ransom demand. The kidnaper was seen by the other Mattson children who were in the room listening to the radio with their brother at the time he was kidnaped. A sketch was made from composite descriptions by the Mattson children and that has been used as a guide in examining suspects.

In all the years since Charles Mattson's body was found murdered in the snow near Everett, Wash., two weeks after the kidnaping, 25,402 suspects have been reported. Of these, 23,833 have been eliminated as having no connection with the crime. But the remaining 1569 suspects are still pending in an open file.

While none of these suspects has thus far been linked with the Matnap case, the dragging net of over 25,000 possibilities has brought in hundreds of criminals wanted for other crimes.

The Mattson case is one of the two unsolved kidnapings to come within FBI jurisdiction since the Federal Kidnaping Act was passed 11 years ago. The other unsolved case is the kidnaping of 12-year-old Peter David Levine of New Rochelle, N. Y., in February, 1938.

While these two cases have remained unsolved, 277 other kidnapings since the passage of the so-called Lindbergh Law have been solved. The racket which once made the country's most glaring headlines has now been broken.

SUCH kidnapings as are reported today are usually accessory to other crimes. Robbery is ordinarily the first motive. Usually there is an automobile involved. The cases are pretty sordid, the victims average 40 years of age and are usually businessmen.

The Lindbergh Law has unquestionably been a good thing. It has put teeth in prosecution before federal courts. By providing for heavy sentences it has discouraged "snatching" as a crime. Since 1934 there have been 377 convictions. Sentences have averaged more than 10 years. Life imprisonment was given 44 defendants and the death sentence to 12. In addition, eight kidnapers were killed while resisting arrest, seven were murdered by other gang members, two were lynched and one was declared insane.

SPORTS

COE EDWARD P. F. EAGAN has been doing a swell job as chairman of the New York State Athletic Council but it seems to me he pulled a homer in assigning Lou Magnolia and Teddy Martin to referee the bouts at Madison Square Garden recently.

Neither of these men has had enough experience for the big time. Martin seemed to think he was in there to manhandle the boxers. Ted is a husky individual, and he officiated the hour between Freddie Russo of Rahway, N. J., and Sal Bartolo of Boston, rated featherweight champion by the National Boxing Association.

At the slightest suggestion of fighting, Ted grabbed the lithe fellows and hurled them apart. The fighters probably took more punishment from the referee than they did from each other. At the finish, Martin was wringing wet from his efforts. I couldn't help contrasting his technique with that of Lt. Comdr. Benny Leonard, who would have refereed that bout without getting up even a bead of perspiration on his brow—and would have made the fight look much better.

MAGNOLIA is the son of the late Lou Magnolia, one of the most colorful referees that ever performed in the Garden. Old Lou knew all the angles, and when he made a decision it stuck.

When Abel Cestac, the gigantic Argentinian, sustained a slight cut over the left eye, Lou, in a dither, stopped the fight and called Dr. Williams Walker, boxing commission physician, into the ring to examine the superficial wound.

Walker took one glance and ordered the bout to proceed. Old Lou would never have bothered about a little thing like that. He knew jolly well when to stop a bout.

Young Lou didn't know which fighter was which, although one, John Thomas, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., is black as shoe polish and Cestac, the Argentinian, is white as chalk. When Thomas hit Cestac, Magnolia warned Cestac against hitting. He capped his performance by ringing the names of both fighters as the winner, and allowed announcer Blough to announce his decision in seven rounds for Cestac and three for Thomas.

AFTER the decisions of the two judges were announced, Magnolia completely reversed himself, declaring Thomas the winner, seven rounds to three, explaining he didn't know which was which.

Magnolia's first decision, making Cestac winner, was broadcast by shortwave to South America, which was off the air by the time Lou's correction was made.

So the "good neighbor" in Argentinian can howl: "We wuz robbed!"

TRAILS RUNNER TO DESTROY COMMAND POST

OKINAWA (Delayed) (UP)—Lt. George W. Adams, Marine pilot believes he did something new in the game of war when in his spotter plane he trailed a Japanese runner two miles and then signaled his artillery battalion to blow up the athlete's goal, an enemy command post.

Lieutenant Adams said he saw the trunk-clad Japanese emerge from a front line area and run furiously to the command post. "There was nothing I could do except follow him along," he said. "He knew I was right over his head, but that didn't stop him. I knew he was a messenger because he was carrying a rolled up bundle of papers in his right hand, like a relay baton."

"Our artillery had disrupted ordinary means of communication, so I hung around to see what would happen. About 10 minutes later the same runner appeared and ran all the way back to his starting point at top speed."

"That was enough for me. I spotted the command post for the artillery and five minutes later it was just a lot of smoke and rubble. Then I hung around for the last event."

"Sure enough, the Jap athlete hustled back with another message. His chest was out and I could see him sneering at me as he ran along. Every now and then, he'd put on an extra spurt of speed to show me he could keep going all day."

"Finally he got within sight of the command post. I spotted the command post for the artillery and five minutes later it was just a lot of smoke and rubble. Then I hung around for the last event."

Expert Tells How It's Done

Major John S. ALASKAN INDIANS TAKE WEALTH OUT OF WATER

METLAKAHTLA, Annette Island, Alaska (UP)—The Annette Island Canning Company has opened its 58th fishing season—a season that will contribute further to the prosperity of this unique, self-supporting Indian community, already the richest native village in Alaska.

Since famed, precedent-defying William Duncan, a recalcitrant Church of England missionary led the Taimshian Indians here from their British Columbia homes in 1887, Metlakahla has grown richer—and prettier—by the year.

The Indian's wealth has come from the deep, cold waters that surround Annette Island, from the forests that abound on the hills and slopes near Metlakahla and from wages for building this island into the main Southeastern Alaska air base.

The community-owned, modern, spotless cannery on the Metlakahla pier in Port Chester bay was all shined up for the opening season. The Indians make up the crews of the 14 fishing boats operating out of Metlakahla, but the actual canning is done under lease by the Annette Island Company, of which W. A. Fries of Seattle is president.

From the cannery profits, the company gets 24 per cent. The other 76 per cent goes into City Treasurer James Evans' vaults to be added to the city's lumber mill profits made during the winter and spring. Total revenue is so high—Evans says exact figures are a "military secret"—that the only taxes on Annette are the poll tax and a small store tax.

Mayor Johnny Smith and his 12 Indian councilmen operate the town the way "Father" Duncan decided when he founded the "pay-as-you-go" community.

"We can't make the people paint their houses to keep Metlakahla shining," Evans smiled, "but we surely encourage it. And we have everything that any city has—our own policemen and firemen, even our own power plant that furnishes electricity free."

Average income of the native families here—about 300 of them live here—is estimated by Evans at more than $3,000 a year.

"It's higher, now than ever before the war, but we never were very badly off," the city treasurer added.

In addition to its Alaska-wide reputation for cleanliness and prosperity, Metlakahla also is probably the most religious Indian village in this far reaching territory.

Mrs. Frederick C. Schmidt, wife of the pastor of the Duncan-founded Metlakahla Christian church, estimated that more than 80 per cent of the natives regularly attended the Christian church or the 23 year old Presbyterian church.

The Christian church still holds its services in the mammoth, native wood Duncan memorial church, built by the Indians in tribute to their "father." The Presbyterian church is a block away over the town's unique narrow, wooden street's near the block square "Town Hall." The ministers and their families and Indian Service physicians and experts are the only non-native all-year residents of Metlakahla. The others are predominately still Taimshians, but a few members of the Thlinget and Haida tribes have also settled here.

Schmidt still tries to keep the Christian church on the non-denomination principles laid down by Duncan when he broke from the Church of England in 1887, although it has a national "connection for convenience" with the Methodists.

"Father" Duncan had been a missionary in British Columbia for 30 years before he decided to break away and come here so the natives could worship just as they pleased. "Like the Pilgrims in going to Plymouth," Evans explained. "We are still pretty independent in our religion."

Metlakahlians are intensely proud of their community, of the record 40 of its sons have made in this war, and of the part Annette Island has played in defense of the continent.

"When the war broke out, our big airport was garrisoned by many troops from the States and Canada," Evans boasted. "It was the only really strong outpost up here. It's still the first stepping stone for Alaskan-bound planes, military and commercial, and always will be."

Uncover New Types Nazi Secret Weapons

CHICAGO (UP)—In examining German secret weapons, Army Ordnance experts have discovered a new type of ammunition designed for ranges of 94 miles, according to Col. John Szrak, chief of the Chicago Ordnance District. Investigators have uncovered a German-developed gun about 32 inches in diameter and capable of firing a five-ton shell.

Ordnance officers, conducting their investigations at Hillersleben and Bad Blankenburg, large German research centers, have also found a projectile which, though fired from a gun, became rocket-propelled after leaving the gun barrel.

PLAN PROMISES MANY AIRPORTS FOR TEXAS

AUSTIN, Tex., (UP)—Texas is going to have airports galore if a proposed program sponsored by the Civil Aeronautic Administration is fulfilled. The plan, sponsored in Congress by the CAA, would give Texas 532 airports, states an article in the South Texas magazine. It is the publication of the South Texas Chamber of Commerce.

The proposed Texas program, exclusive of buildings, hangars and special facilities, is estimated at $120,923,000, the article says. Of the amount, half would be paid by the Federal Government and half by local agencies. Buildings and equipment for the airports—of which there would be more in Texas than any other state—would add approximately 25 per cent to the estimated basic cost.

By Sept. 4, Texas' first aeronautics commission is scheduled to start functioning. That is the date when the bill creating the commission becomes effective. Gov. Coke R. Stevenson before long is expected to name the 3 commissioners, who, in turn, will appoint a director. Then other personnel of the agency will be selected. The governor has had scores of requests to be chosen for the commission.

The commission will have no regulatory authority. Legislative action gave it power merely to serve in advisory capacities and to act as a receiving agency for funds from the federal government for airport construction.

Without doubt, in future legislative campaigns will be launched to give the Texas commissioner regulatory authority over intra-state aviation as the state Railroad Commission now has over motor buses and trucks.

The Louisiana Home Canning Budget suggested that 26 quarts of tomatoes should be put up annually for each person in the family. Nutritionists said that a good sized tomato, vine ripened and fresh from the garden, will give about half the day's quota of vitamin C.

ARMY TEACHER'S READING CHICAGO (UP) — The average illiterate or non-English speaking soldier can acquire fourth grade reading skill in eight weeks, according to Paul Witty, former Army major assigned to training illiterates.

"The Army program demonstrates the validity of teaching words related to daily experience," at Northwestern University he said.

He cited the value of visual aids, as well as the soldier's "desire to learn," in accelerating reading and writing skill.

French Youths Given Training Before Service

RAMBOUILLET, France (UP)

The French Ministry of War has ordered four hours a week military training for boys between the ages of 17 and 20, when they are called up for full-time military service, it was disclosed when the first group of the 1944 class took their examinations here recently.

"The idea of the preliminary four hours a week training," a spokesman for the Minister of War said, "is that the men of 20 will come to the regular military training period with a knowledge of military procedure. We thus expect to save several months time of training."

"We believe this extra training is also necessary to prepare our young men, whose health has been so badly damaged by the war years, for military life."

"We also want this extra time to correct the bad moral habits engendered by the habit of chatting the Vichy Government, and the black market."

"All French youth desire a strong national army but they understand that it is necessary to train vigorously. We know the young men of France will follow the pre-military courses with a view to become radio operators, mechanics and other trained specialists which a modern army needs."

The government, which will pay the cost of the extra training, has also asked the Boy Scouts and other youth movements to cooperate with physical training programs.

Ministry of War spokesmen said the new move also is designed to speed up training of not-commissioned officers.

Surrender of Japan brings freedom again to one of the Pacific war's early heroes—Lt. Gen. Jonathan Mayhew Wainwright, above, the man who took up the fight where MacArthur left off and held Iloilo to the end, the man who so inspired his troops that they changed the name of Corregidor to "Wainwright's Rock." Since he surrendered Corregidor on May 6, 1942, he has been a prisoner of the Japs.

KICKER AIDS FLIERS DROP CARGO QUICK

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP)—One of the amazing gadgets of this gadget world was the mechanical cargo "kicker" being built by the Douglas Aircraft plant in Tulsa where C-47 transport planes are the main product.

These additional devices, when fitted to planes carrying packs of food and supplies to isolated ground forces in jungles or such places, can mean the difference between life and death for both the fliers taking the supplies and the men needing them.

The kicker is an electrically-operated conveyor belt which practically shows a transport plane's parachute-bundled cargo into the air at the right second. It makes repeated passes over dangerous drop zones by the delivery, and it saves senseless cargo planes unnecessary, and it saves endless hours by the ground forces for parachuted supplies, which formerly drifted out of the zone.

The air technical command at Wright Field, Ohio, directed construction of the automatic cargo

Mirohito's Arab Steed Is Cow Pony

Emperor Hirohito's famous white horse, which Admiral Halsey said he'd like to ride in a victory parade in Tokyo, is just an American cow pony of Pinto stock, according to Dewey H. Burden, noted Los Angeles horseman who sold the stallion to the Mikado a year before Pearl Harbor. Wearing one of Burden's western cow-pony saddles, the horse is pictured above before delivery to the Japs.

"kickers" after the need for them was first voiced in 1943. Final tests were made here in July a year ago, and after a few modifications, assembly line production began.

Formerly, crew members of the cargo planes laboriously had to kick their parachute packs into hostile skies while their planes idled along "like shooting ducks" back and forth over the drop area.

One man had to lie on his back on the cabin floor, his hands gripping holds opposite the plane's door, so that he could push the crates from the plane with his feet.

The mechanical kicker makes it necessary for the plane to make only two passes across the drop zone in order to eject its entire 1,500-pound cargo.

Local Douglas officials said the "on-a-dime" cargo dropping contraption received its first big test in supplying Gen. George S. Patton's tanks during the sweep across France.

The plane's pilot himself controls the "dumping machine," as some cargo pilots call it. He presses a button when over the drop zone, and the speeding belt sends half the plane's load spinning out of the door. The device includes a parachute catch-time that causes the 'chutes on the boxes to open after they have cleared the ship.

Douglas officials believe the postwar possibilities of the "kicker," where aerial freight deliveries are made by parachute, are something to look into.

Miss Joseph, Dr. Ameen Married In Ceremony Performed Sunday At 3:30

In a ceremony performed Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the First Methodist church, Miss Billie Jean Joseph, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Joseph, became the bride of Dr. Charles Ray Ameen, lieutenant (jg) in the USNR, and son of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Ameen of Lubbock.

Rev. Wallace N. Dunson read the double ring service before an altar backed with palms and fern and lighted by white candles in seven branch floor candelabra. The altar rail was lined with fern dotted with white asters and marked at intervals by white baskets filled with white gladioluses and tied with large bows of white satin ribbon. Baskets of white gladioluses flanked the altar and centered the choir rail which was also lined with fern and white asters. The choir loft was lighted by white candles in floor candelabra and pews of the church were marked by bouquets of white gladioluses tied with white satin ribbon.

A program of pre-nuptial music was given by Mrs. F. S. Pearsall, pianist and Miss Marjorie Pearsall, violinist who played Indian Love Call, The Rosary, and Ave Marie. Mrs. Pearsall accompanied Miss Polly Salman of Lubbock who sang, O Promise Me, and Because.

Also played the wedding marches from Lohengrin and Wagner.

During the ceremony Mrs. Pearsall and Miss Pearsall played Love's Old Sweet Song, Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes and Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms.

As the first strains of the pre-nuptial music were sounded Miss Wanda Hassen of Sulphur, Oklahoma, Miss Hayette Hassen of Moran and Miss Nabila Hassen of Haskell lighted the candles. All wore white dresses and corsages of red carnations.

The long full skirts were trimmed with ruffles giving a train effect. Each wore a coronet of the marquisette trimmed with white rosebuds and carried arm bouquets of red and white carnations tied with white satin ribbon.

Matron of honor was Miss Mae Richards of Petersburg, Virginia, who wore a white gown styled with tight fitting bodice of white jersey, long net sleeves dotted with bows of white satin ribbon and a long full skirt. Her coronet was the same as those of the maids and she carried red and white carnations.

Flower girls were Mary Jo Stie and Hoda Hassen of Seminole, Oklahoma. Their long marquisette dresses were designed like the bride's maids and they carried arm baskets filled with red and white carnations.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a bridal gown of snow white Skinner's satin designed with tight-fitting bodice with a yoke of skin colored marquisette outlined with a ruffle of imported lace, and buttoned in the back with satin covered buttons. The long tight-fitting sleeves, ending in a point, were outlined at the wrist by the imported lace. The full circular skirt swept into a long train which was overlain with a veil of illusion. The veil was attached to a Mary Queen of Scots coronet of lace outlined in orange blossoms, and was overlain with a shoulder length veil. The bride's bouquet was of white orchids, and gardenias with a shower of white satin ribbon tied with bouvardia.

Mr. Earnest Ameen, sergeant in the United States Army Air Corps, attended his brother as best man. Ushers were Messrs. J. Floyd Killingsworth, Paul MacDonald, Freddie Joseph and Kamal Ameen.

For the wedding the bride's mother chose an aqua blue jersey afternoon dress worn with an aqua flower hat and elbow length aqua gloves. Mrs. Ameen, mother of the groom, wore a tomato red and aqua afternoon dress with black accessories. Each wore a gardenia shoulder corsage.

Immediately after the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents who with the bride and groom and Mr. and Mrs. Ameen, parents of the groom, and Miss Mabel Ameen received the guests.

The bride's table was laid with white gladioluses in a crystal bowl. One end of the table was marked by the four tiered white and green wedding cake which was topped with a miniature bride and groom, the latter in Naval uniform, beneath an arch of lilies-of-the-valley. At the other end of the table was the punch bowl. White carnations nestled in white illusion formed the centerpiece for the buffet. Mrs. Veda Wade, Mrs. A. Hassen and Miss Lorena Salman presided in the dining room. Mrs. Coke Martin was in charge of the display of wedding gifts.

Following the reception Dr. and Mrs. Ameen left for Ft. Worth and Dallas for a short stay and from there will go to California for a honeymoon. The bride chose for traveling a gray gaberdine suit with Navy accessories and a pale pink blouse trimmed in gray. Her shoulder corsage was of white orchids.

Mrs. Ameen is a graduate of Ranger high school where she was a popular member of the Sub-deb club. She attended Mary Baldwin College in Staunton, Virginia and Texas State College for Women at Denton.

Dr. Ameen attended the University of Texas, Texas Technological College and received his M. D. degree at Baylor Medical school in Houston.

Hassen and daughters, Nadia and Huda, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. The supper which was composed of all Syrian dishes was served to the wedding party and out-of-town wedding guests.

Arrangements of white gladioluses decorated the rooms and formed the centerpiece for the tea table where they were arranged in a crystal bowl resting on a reflector. Miss Vivian Cooper and Miss Florence Lawson presided at the punch bowl.
