MacArthur To Land In Japan Tonight

PRIZES UNIQUE COLLECTION OF WAR TROPHIES

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UP)—Henry J. Sidles, a local tavern keeper, is proud of his unique collection of war souvenirs.

These souvenirs have been sent to him from all theaters of the war by former patrons serving in the armed forces. They include everything from Japanese mortars to German torture weapons.

Among the torture instruments in the collection is a repulsive weapon from the Germans concentration camp at Dachau. It consists of a spiked lead weight (about 1 1/2 lbs.) on the end of a four-inch chain, which is fastened to a wooden handle.

Engraved on the handle of the murder weapon, in German, are the words, "A day's work." A metal seal on the handle has the Nazi swastika, the Prussian eagle and a hammer and sickle and the date 1934 stamped on it.

Another prized item is a small French automatic pistol. It was sent to Sidles by Lt. Allan Lucas of the U. S. Navy, a nephew of Sen. Scott W. Lucas of Illinois.

Lucas took the weapon from the body of a German U-boat commander who had shot him self after his capture by the United States Navy.

One of the most interesting items is a Japanese soldier's "belt of a thousand prayers." This belt was probably made by the soldier's sweetheart, mother or sister. It has in the center a picture of the boy's symbol of family—the tiger, black panther or shark. On each side of the picture, the belt, which is made of cloth, is covered with many knots. The maker of the belt is supposed to have said a prayer as each knot was made in the belt.

Sidles has several Japanese battle maps including one of Tarawa and another of Saipan. He also has copies of the oaths of allegiance that the Japanese forced Philippine leaders to sign when they had possession of the islands.

The collection includes a Japanese machine gun, the notorious Japanese "officer's" two-handed sword, a foot mine—similar to the Allied land mines—and numerous other articles of warfare.

Sidles has a Japanese war bond—which he doesn't think he will ever get a chance to cash in. He has displayed his collection to boost U. S. war bond sales. It is estimated that over 60,000 people have viewed the collection when it was displayed during a recent bond drive.

He has received all these trophies from former customers. He writes, every Sunday—all day, to 168 men and women in the service. Twenty-eight of his correspondents were killed in the war.

LOUISIANANS REAP PROFITS FROM TURTLES

ST. VINCENT, La. (UP)—They farm for turtles in this section of Louisiana, and reap a rich good harvest, too.

The whole family takes part, from grandmas down to the toddling youngsters.

First, the egg nests are spotted and staked out to keep track of their location.

In each nest can be found five to 15 eggs. At the right time, they're dug up and buried again where they can be watched more closely.

The eggs may be dug up and replanted after about 60 days, but it takes about three months for the eggs to hatch.

The Rivero family—mama and papa and Ivers and Larry—is a turtles as kept in tin buckets and good return by tracking down the awkward reptiles.

After they are hatched the turtles are kept in tin buckets and sold to a "turtle man" who comes in a truck and pays about 15 cents each for the babies.

The family makes the astonishing statement that a single person can make about $1,000 a month during the season.

Report Reduction In Arkansas' Cotton Acreage

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UP)—A sharp reduction in Arkansas cotton acreage has been reported by the state crop reporting service.

Cotton acreage in cultivation this year, which amounts to 90 per cent of the acreage in cultivation last year, has shown the greatest decline in the central Arkansas area, where plantings amount to only 73 per cent of 1944.

Acreage in the central state section dropped from 95,000 acres to 69,000 acres.

South central Arkansas, where production has fallen from 121,000 to 93,000 acres, shows the second largest percent drop. Largest reduction in actual number of acres was in the northeast delta, where acreage fell off this year from 597,000 to 520,000.

The southeast section, upped acreage from 264,000 to 272,000 and the southwest area planted 197,000 acres this year or 104 per cent of last year's crop.

North central and northwest Arkansas, lightest cotton producing sections showed an 80 per cent drop in plantings this year. West central sections, in the Arkansas River valley flood area, showed a drop in plantings to 76 per cent of 1944. Plantings in east central Arkansas, second largest cotton producing area in the state were only 94 per cent of 1944.

All-Chile Girl Basketball Team To Make Tour

SANTIAGO DE CHILE (UP)—The next south American Basketball Tournament will take place in Santiago, probably in March, 1946, and in order to assure the attendance of the Argentine, Brazilian and Uruguayan teams, Miss Sara Lopez, indefatigable organizer of Chilean feminine basketball activities, will be sent across the Andes next September on a good-will mission.

She will travel with the All-Chile feminine team, which will play in Buenos Aires, Montevideo and Rio de Janeiro. The players selected, distinguished themselves for outstanding play in the recent national tournament, when ten selected feminine teams from all over Chile competed at Santiago with great box-office success.

The winning team from the salt-peter works at Maria Elena in the north, will share the greater number of places in the All Chile Team, with the Santiago "Cabrera Gana" team as runner-up.

Halsey Ready For White Horse

IN TOKYO BAY (UP)—Admiral William "Bill" Halsey sailed triumphantly into Tokyo Bay aboard his flagship, the super-dreadnaught Missouri, today, and with him he brought the silver-mounted saddle he hopes to use to ride Emperor Hirohito's white horse through the streets of Tokyo.

The following Eastland County boys were inducted into the armed forces during the month of August:

After Texas Hurricane Hit Gulf Coast

TENNESSEE BOY MAKES GOOD ON ARMY AMBITION

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UP)—This is the story of Elmer, a Tennessee mountaineer, and his life-long ambition.

Ever since he was a little shaver wandering around Henderson, Tenn., in hand-me-down overalls, Elmer Frost had just one ambition in life. Elmer wanted to be a soldier.

Only one thing stood in his way. He couldn't read or write. Since 1934 he regularly tried to enlist in the Army and was just as regularly turned down.

So Elmer, who still wanted to be a soldier, came down from the hills to Birmingham, where he got a job.

Then came fateful Oct. 16, 1940 when the wheels of Selective Service first began to grind. Dutifully and happily Elmer signed up with a big "X".

Then he made for the nearest recruiting station. But again he was turned down.

That settled it for Elmer. The Army didn't want him. So he packed up his bag and went back into the hills of Tennessee.

But Elmer, not being able to read, didn't know about keeping in touch with his draft board. His Birmingham board, unable to locate him, listed him as delinquent.

In December, 1941, they found Elmer and clamped him in the Birmingham jail.

While he was there, still thinking about the Army, a forger taught Elmer how to write his name.

Finally, on April 13, 1942, he was released from jail, with orders to report to his draft board April 20. Lonesome and broke, he was staked to a bus ticket home by U. S. Marshal Raymond Thomason.

Things were bright for Elmer. His Henderson draft board even said they would let him be inducted there rather than in Birmingham. They said they would fix things with the Birmingham draft board.

But April 20 passed. Then the Birmingham board said Elmer would have to return to Alabama for induction.

But Elmer had spent his fare back for a pair of shoes for his little sister. So he hitch-hiked back to Birmingham to his friend, the marshal, presenting a letter of exoneration from the Tennessee draft board.

The marshal, however, had no choice. Elmer went back into jail for the night.

Ahe next day the draft board refused to induct Elmer. He was delinquent, they said. Things looked dark.

Then U. S. Commissioner Louise O. Charlton stepped in. The board should have paid Elmer's fare back to Birmingham, she said.

And here's the part of Elmer's tale that Marshal Thomason and Commissioner Charlton tell—now. Until a few days ago it was a secret.

Elmer went home with Mrs. Charlton. She and the Marshal "borrowed" a copy of the Army psychological tests. Elmer, coached by the two federal officers, memorized the tests, even though he still couldn't read.

So Elmer went to Ft. McClellan, Ala., to be inducted. While he was on the bus bouncing happily toward Army life, Marshal Thomason went to work behind the scenes.

When Elmer went through the line of men taking psychological tests, he was singled out by an Army officer. When the other men finished their tests Elmer was shoved in line with them.

Elmer was in the Army.

T-Sgt. Elmer Frost is back in his Tennessee home now, his life ambition realized. On his chest he wears a Pacific theatre ribbon with three battle stars and a good conduct ribbon.

And that's the story of Elmer, a Tennessee mountaineer, who wanted more than anything else to be in the Army.

Pearl Harbor Reports Made Public Today

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Truman today made public Army and Navy reports on the Pearl Harbor disaster containing serious charges against Gen. George C. Marshall, Army Chief of Staff, and Adm. Harold E. Stark, who was chief of naval operations when the Japanese struck.

Both Mr. Truman and Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, however strongly denounced the criticism of Marshall contained in the report of an Army board of inquiry. They reaffirmed their faith in him.

There was no official disagreement, however, with sharp criticism of Stark and of Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short, then commander of the Army's Hawaiian department, and Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel commander of naval forces at Pearl Harbor.

No court martials were recommended for any officers.

Secretary of Navy James Forrestal ruled, however, that neither Stark nor Kimmel ever again should "hold any position in the U. S. Navy which requires the exercise of superior judgement."

ITALY'S SILK COCOON OUTPUT TAKES DROP

ROME (UP)—Silk production in northeastern Italy, which supplied the bulk of the national cocoon output in the past is expected to fall far below last year's figures.

Battles swept over this area at a time when the silkworms were in a delicate period of growth, and farmers were unable to give proper care to the silk worm cultures.

Last year large amounts of Italian silk yarn were smuggled into Switzerland to avoid confiscation by the Germans who wanted it badly to make parachutes. It is expected that a quota of about an equal amount of this year's production will be shipped to the United States and England.

War Chiminals Will Be Named

LONDON (UP)—An American spokesman said today that the Big Four will announce tonight the names of the 24 Nazi war criminals indicted for mass trial on charges of conspiring to wreck the peace of the world.

BOMB VICTIMS

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Radio Tokyo said today that activity from the atomic bomb raids on Japan three weeks ago still was killing persons who had suffered only "minor injuries" in the initial explosions.

ADM. NIMITZ ALREADY IN TOKYO BAY FOR CEREMONY

MANILA (UP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur arrived in Okinawa and Admiral Chester W. Nimitz flew to Tokyo bay today as the zero hour approached for mass Allied air and sea landings in the Greater Tokyo area.

The first sea-borne troops will go ashore on the fortified islands guarding Yokosuka naval base in Tokyo bay at 6:15 A. M. tomorrow — 4:15 P. M. today CWT.

At 10 A. M. tomorrow — 8 P. M. CWT—MacArthur will land with thousands of air-borne infantrymen at Atsugi airfield, 20 miles south of Tokyo, and 10,000 Marines and Bluejackets will swarm ashore from ships at Yokosuka itself.

In preparation for the post-surrender invasion, the greatest air and sea fleets ever gathered in the Pacific were making last-minute preparations at bases 1,000 miles apart.

MacArthur and his headquarters staff flew from Manila to Okinawa and watched the vanguard of the air-borne troops who will accompany him climb into their transports on Okinawa's airstrips.

Nearly 1,000 miles to the northeast, Nimitz—MacArthur's partner in the conquest of Japan—landed on the green waters of Tokyo bay off Yokosuka in a giant Coronado seaplane escorted by fighters.

The white-haired commander of the Pacific Fleet immediately boarded the Battleship South Dakota, which will serve as his flagship. He will represent President Truman and the United States at Japan's formal surrender aboard the Battleship Missouri next Sunday. MacArthur will sign the document as the supreme Allied commander.

MacArthur left Manila after inviting Lt. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, his successor on Bataan and Corregidor in the dark days of 1942, to be his guest at the surrender ceremony aboard the Missouri. Wainwright accepted.

Gasoline To Be Better Than Pre-War Product

Gasoline of better than pre-war quality has been started to local motorists from Sinclair Refineries according to a statement made today by J. E. Meroney, local agent for Sinclair Refining Company.

Meroney said Sinclair Refineries are shipping 75 octane Sinclair H-C Housebrand Gasoline and 80 octane Premium Grade. Wartime restrictions have limited housebrand to 70 octane and premium gasoline to 76 octane.

Steps are also being taken to raise through blending operations the octane value of the gasoline now in storage so as to make available to the consumer pre-war quality immediately. It should take but a few days to restore pre-war quality in the gasoline. We are anxious to give the motorist this new quality merchandise as soon as possible.

Talking is all Right.

... If you are running for office or courting your best girl but when it comes to buying land or town properties don't let anyone talk you out of an abstract. The fact that the seller has owned the land for many years doesn't mean that the title is always good. The safest plan is to get an abstract before you buy. The cheapest property on earth is too high if the title is faulty.

Jalopies Will Re-enact Auto Race of 1895

CHICAGO (UP)—The Museum of Science and Industry plans to celebrate 55 years of automotive progress with a Thanksgiving Day re-enactment of America's first automobile race.

Six high wheeled "one-lungers" jalopies will take part in the 700-foot performance of the 1895 race, according to Maj. Lenox R. Loh.

A slushy track and icy weather held up the starters in the first race 50 years ago. The starter signaled at 8:55 a. m., but the last machine didn't roll out toward the goal until 10:06 a. m.

Although the weather was freezing in the high open cars, all were equipped with snow and ice buckets to prevent the motors from overheating.

Exhaustion and battery trouble stopped several of the entries. Bad roads disabled several. A two-cylinder gasoline motor engine entered by the Duryea Motor Wagon Co., Springfield, Mass., led the other starters to the finish line on the route to Waukegan and back to Jackson Park.

The first prize of $2,000 went to the Duryea. Second place was taken by a Benz single cylinder gasoline engine entered by H. Mueller & Sons, Dectur, Ill. Mueller's two sons Oscar and Frederick, who were piloting the Benz collapsed near the end of the all day trip. The umpire in the auto, Charles King, guided the "wagon" to the finish line.

The entries this November will be followed by a squad of repair trucks, in case engine troubles develop.

Loh also has suggested red flannels for anyone riding in the "one lungers."

AIR TRAIL INNS TO SERVE TOURISTS

CLEVELAND, O. (UP)—The postwar era probably will bring with it a series of "Air Trail Inns" one of which has already opened up in Norwalk, O., a 20 minute flight from Cleveland.

Operated by Park Ernsberger, a licensed pilot, the inn serves well-cooked meals in the cool and quiet of the country. Already Clevelanders—and folks from Toledo, Columbus and Sandusky—are dropping in on Ernsberger and his wife and relaxing twist the morning and afternoon work.

Ernsberger said he served 115 meals during the first two weeks of business. He opened up on June 15. One day 11 planes were parked in the landing field adjoining the restaurant.
