Accused Of Aiding Japs

Mark Lewis Streeter of Lewistown, Idaho, and American citizen, is accused of aiding the Japanese during the war. He was a construction worker on Wake Island when captured by the Japs and, according to charges, later worked for the Japanese propagandists. Streeter calmly plays cards in his cell in Yokohama, Japan while awaiting trial by the U. S. (NEA Telephoto.)

CHARM SCHOOL SET UP FOR AIRLINE GIRLS

PITTSBURGH (UP) — "Stay young and beautiful"—if you want to work for TWA.

The airlines company believes its passengers want clerks, hostesses and other employees to be attractive, and, of course, the customer is always right.

So TWA has set up a charm school, headed by Mrs. Patricia Leet Hungerland, ex-Powers model to give its 3,000 women employees lessons in the art of politeness.

"Beauty headquarters" will be set up in Kansas City and regional offices will be established throughout the country, to which girls can go for advice on diet, clothes, make-up hair styling posture voice and general attitude.

If Mrs. Hungerland, former Carnegie Tech student, has her way, TWA will give its girls time during the day to "make themselves look the way the men want them to look."

"Good grooming isn't casual," she says. "It takes time. And along about 3 p.m. a girl needs 15 minutes to fix her face and relax. Furthermore she needs time to buy an attractive, co-ordinated wardrobe."

Make-up will emphasize the scrubbed "shiny apple" look in Mrs. Hungerland's course. No heavy mascara or outlined mouths. And the girls will be taught to be "internally and externally clean."

To let the girls see themselves as others see them, Mrs. Hungerland's beauty centers will have their walls tinted light blue, which she says will show up blemishes and defects quickly. Strong lights will be played on the girls as they view their faces in six-footed, winged mirrors.

Another thing Mrs. Hungerland hopes to do is double the present high TWA marriage rate. And that is where the catch comes in for the airlines company—how will they ever keep a staff around?

Britain Taking Over Aviation
LONDON (UP) — Britain's labor government announced today that it was preparing to take over British civil aviation on a workers' basis and the empire communications system of cables and wireless.

The foresighted citizen who owns and holds a large number of Victory Loan Bonds will be prepared to take advantage of the new modern equipment industry has promised for the future.

Hawk Catches Nice Bass For S. C. Vacationer

MYRTLE BEACH, S. C. (UP) — Lane L. Bonner, clerk of the South Carolina state senate, reported that he bagged a two-pound bass atop an electric light pole while vacationing at Myrtle Beach.

Bonner spotted a hawk diving into the water near his beach house. By the time he grabbed his rifle to take a shot at the bird, it had flown to the top of a nearby light pole.

He shot and missed the hawk—but the bird was so frightened it dropped the two-pound bass it held in its talons right in Bonner's front yard.

Small Chance May Get You Game Ticket

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP) — There's a chance—a mighty small one—for anyone with the price to obtain a ticket to the University of Texas—Texas Aggie football game at College Station November 29.

It is true that the "sold out" notice has been issued by athletic business managers of both schools. But that does not apply to Longhorn student tickets—4,500 of them—and orders accompanied by cash may be lucky enough to find some student not wanting to pick up his reservation.

Mighty American Dollar

Two members of the First Marine contingent to arrive in Tientsin, China, find out how popular the American dollar is. They are mobbed by grinning natives who gladly change their American dollars into Chinese currency. The Chinese usually make money in a deal like this. (NEA Telephoto.)

Home Building Theories Give Way To Action

CHICAGO (UP) — The era of predictions about postwar housing has ended and the period of testing and performance has begun.

This was pointed out by the U.S. Savings and Loan League, which comprises 3,625 home financing institutions throughout the United States.

"The effective discussions about the housing question will now move from the economics classroom, the government bureau and the business office to the breakfast and dinner table of the average citizen's family," the league said.

"While the wartime restrictions were on, the predictions about postwar housing demand, miracles of improvement and the building of a million to a million and a half houses a year, had their heyday," said Morton Bodfish, Chicago, executive vice president of the league.

"Starting now, we will find out what the American people are really going to do with the dollars they have saved up and with the billions of credit at their disposal in savings and loan associations, co-operative banks and other lending institutions.

"The chances are that they will do many things which have not been foreseen either by the economist, the housing planners and government officials, the savings and loan institution managers, the builders or the architects.

"About the only thing we can be certain about as this new era of performance instead of prediction dawns upon us is that an American home is looked upon as a prime investment these days and that the building, buying or remodeling of one is going to be discussed, at least, over more breakfast and dinner tables in this land than has been the case since any of us can remember."

Pet Raccoon Keeps Tab On Young Master

AMARILLO, Tex. (UP) — Like Mary's little lamb, Butch, a pet raccoon follows 12-year-old J. L. Gober wherever his master goes.

"He even went with me to school one day, but not for long," said young Gober.

No matter whether J. L. walks or rides his bicycle, the chubby little pet follows so fast as his short legs will allow.

"The only way to make him stay at home is to chain him to the house," J. L. said.

Fay Gober, J. L.'s father, and his son found the "coon in the Palo Duro Canyon last summer.

MIAMI PLANS TO GET NEXT WORLD FAIR

MIAMI, Fla. (UP) — Miami, busily preparing for an expected "biggest season in history," also is hapening its long-range sights for its greatest single event as a resort and travel center.

In 1950, if present plans are carried out, the aerial crossroads of the Western hemisphere will be the scene of a World Fair, the first since the World War.

The fair started off in a small way, when real estate editor Charles Leyden of the Miami Daily News needed something to fill a Sunday column. About two years ago, Leyden decided he might try with the idea of a World Fair for Miami, and used the typical boosting praises of the area.

He tapped the idea a few more times, getting jeers from his friends and readers, but suddenly the response changed. Business men began to tell him a fair might be a good thing. Maybe, they thought, it might go over.

Leyden began to take himself seriously, and this year some actual plans began to take shape. Professional and business groups endorsed the proposal, it was looked on as the best possible lure to tourists, to many of whom have headed west to suit the Florida viewpoint.

A short time ago the first actual steps were taken, when a delegation of mayors from the area, with Leyden along, went to New York to discuss fair matters with impresario Grover Whalen of the New York fair, Mayor Fiorella La Guardia and other leaders of the last prewar exposition.

From their conferences came a definite decision to hold a fair, of about $75,000,000 investment, to center its theme on the meeting of the Americas here.

The fair would cost only half as much as New York's. The site has not yet chosen, but there is land aplenty inland or along the sea and Biscayne Bay.

The chief advantage Miami would have as a fair location over Chicago, New York, and other Northern cities, Leyden says, is that it could operate here the year around. There would be no need for a winter suspension, and in fact the winter months would be the best of the year.

The fair also would be used to draw people here in the summer months, to prove the boast that it is cooler in Miami in summer than it is at home. Temperatures here seldom go above the high 80's—but of course they drop little at night.

The New York trip even brought forth a prediction from Raymond Loewy, noted industrial designer, that atomic power might be available to air-condition the entire Miami area during the fair period. Fair sponsors will wait and see.

Only Chicago and New York have more hotel accommodations than the Miami area, with its more than 500 hotels—350 of them on Miami beach between the Atlantic and the bay. Scores of new hotels and apartment houses are planned for construction within the next few years, to house additional thousands of seasonal or fair-visitors.

Dates for the fair are a prime consideration, because of the hurricane season, which occasionally sends winds over the area of 100 m.p.h. or better. Fair buildings, rides and so on must be built to withstand such attacks if the project is planned for the year-around. The opening will probably be set at the start of the regular winter season.

Two Disregard Police Warning On Halloween

Despite a warning issued Wednesday by Chief George Murphy, two boys were caught Wednesday night using soap to write on plate glass windows in downtown Ranger.

The two had covered the windows on almost all of the four sides of one block and after they were taken by the police, spent the next several hours with soap and water washing the windows.

Outside of this there were no disorders reported to the police on Halloween.

SAYS HITLER KILLED SELF ON APRIL 30

LUENEBURG (UP) — The first official Allied statement on Adolf Hitler's disappearance said today that all available evidence led to the conclusion that he killed himself in the Berlin chancellery at 2:30 a. m. last April 30.

An intelligence officer of the control commission said Hitler and his mistress, Eva Braun, died together in a bunker under the Soviet-besieged chancellery, and their bodies were burned in the yard.

The report of Hitler's death and his last hours was the first to bear an official imprimatur. It tallied in the main with the account of a former chauffeur of Hitler and of a Berlin policeman, who told their stories after they were captured last summer.

The intelligence officer, announcing the conclusion regarding Hitler's fate, said it was reached after sifting all evidence, including the accounts of persons who witnessed all or parts of the dramatic events in the chancellery in the last hours of the battle for Berlin.

FAO Conference Warned of Need Of Cooperation

QUEBEC (UP) — The United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization conference ended today with a warning from the chairman that its success will depend on international cooperation.

"I have no doubt of the competence and zeal of the organization," L. B. Pearson, the chairman said. "I have some fear, however, that the governments because of apathy, or ignorance may not give FAO the support it must have—may not implement its recommendations or accept its advice.

He said he believed important international progress in food and agriculture has been made, but that the conference, besides making steps in agriculture science, has been another example of a "cooperative step by the united nations along with the road that leads to peace and prosperity.

Association Ticket Sales Still Brisk

Workers, reported today that membership sales for the Eastland County Community Concert Association are going nicely and indications are that the goal will be reached by Saturday at noon.

Those who have not yet secured their cards are urged to do so at once so that the campaign can be brought to a close.

Miss Lucille Thompson, representative of the artist booking agency, met with Ranger workers Wednesday afternoon and expressed herself as being very pleased with the response met in Ranger. One worker reported that interest in the movement had been so keen that with such interest Ranger alone might be able to bring the concert to Ranger next year.

Vargas Enters Race For Place In Brazil Senate

RIO DE JANEIRO (UP) — Ex-President Getulio Vargas entered the Brazilian election lists as candidate for the federal senate today, stirring speculation that he was attempting a political comeback to regain the power he lost in last week's bloodless revolution.

The social democratic party, which is running Gen. Enrico Gaspar Dutra for president, announced that Vargas and at least three of his closest collaborators will be on his senatorial slate in the December 2 elections.

Polish - Czech Friction Egged By New Clashes

WARSAW (UP) — Polish-Czech friction in the Tschuden border zone was aggravated today by reports of new clashes between nationals of both countries in the disputed area.

The situation along the frontier was reported growing more serious daily, despite repeated statements by both sides that they were willing to settle the territorial dispute amicably.

Polish President Boleslaw Bierut has expressed "regret" over the situation and there have been frequent appeals from both Czech and Polish officials for a settlement "in the spirit of Slavonic brotherhood."

SEEKS VIEWS OF GROUPS BEFORE MEET IS CALLED

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Truman today canvassed the viewpoints of labor and management groups as prospect developed that upwards of 7,000,000 workers may become idle as a result of strike votes now in process.

The President summoned representatives of business and labor groups to the White House to sound out their opinions on wage-price problems in advance of the labor-management conference to be held here Nov. 2.

Ira Mosher, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, said the President wanted to know his group's attitude toward the conference.

"We assured him," Mosher said "of our keen interest and that we are approaching the subject with an open mind."

One of the labor groups was led by John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, who paid his first visit to the White House since December, 1941. Lewis said they discussed matters relating to the management-labor conference in general terms but on its details.

"What are you looking for out of the conference," a reporter asked Lewis.

"That is a good question," Lewis said. With that he left the White House.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Truman is becoming increasingly concerned over the problems of traffic safety.

During the first 15 days after gas rationing went off, the traffic toll jumped 27 per cent over the same period last year. After the President heard this he called on the National Safety Council to intensify its studies of auto accidents. He was impressed with the job the council had done on industrial safety during the war.

Since then, friends who have driven from Missouri and other parts of the country to see him have remarked that driving seems to be more hazardous than before the war. Another circumstance that set the President to thinking seriously about this problem was a report that there were more than three times as many traffic casualties in the U. S. during the war than there were battle casualties on all fronts.

To speed up a national program aimed at nipping the growing traffic toll in the bud, as desired by the President, the National Committee for Traffic Safety has been organized.

One of the first aims of the committee is to try to get uniform traffic laws established throughout the nation.

Second most important item on the agenda of the committee is the recommendation of a highway-building program. The safest highways are four lanes wide, divided in the middle. Cross roads are eliminated by underpasses, with clover leaf turns. It is hoped that any national program will specify this type of road.

But many other problems are worrying traffic experts. Donald S. Berry, official of the National Safety Council, points out that thousands of youngsters who normally would have already learned to drive, haven't been able to get behind a wheel because of gas and tire restrictions. As soon as cars are available, about four times as many new, inexperienced drivers will hit the road than there would be normally. On top of that, he points out, the average driver has gotten rusty.

Before new cars hit the market, the old ones will get double duty as a result of the hitting of gas rationing. Traffic experts fear that faulty tires, brakes and other worn-out parts will skyrocket the accident toll. Estimate for 1945 is that the death toll will reach 50,000.

THERE has been much speculation as to what returning servicemen will do to traffic when they get behind the wheels of high-powered cars. Lt.-Col. Franklin M. Kreaml, director of Northwestern University Traffic Institute, has given his ideas on that subject. Kreaml had charge of traffic problems for the Army in most of Europe. He claims the men who drove Army cars, especially jeeps and tanks, will be the best drivers on the road. He said the Army pounded safety into them and they will never forget the rules they learned. He isn't so sure about pilots.

Pedestrians, too, experts say, have to be re-educated. They have become accustomed to judging car speeds according to 30 to 35 miles per hour driving. When cars begin getting up to 50 and 60 miles on the roads, faster dodging is necessary.

SPORTS

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

THERE have been cases as strange in World Series but not nearly so many strange cases as in that of 1945. And perhaps the most extraordinary athlete of all the most unusual hands in this meeting of wartime accidents is Edward Joseph Mayo.

Pitchers have developed cunningness and come on rather late. Catchers like Paul Richards of the Tigers have suddenly grasped the knack following years in the minors. Fine base-runners have taken their good time in learning how to obtain the jump on pitchers. Hitters have mastered the art of pulling the ball or punching it to left field to skyrocket their averages.

But Eddie Mayo is the first player in the memory of the oldest hanger-on here who actually acquired speed after at 31 and 32 years of age.

That's against all the natural tendencies. The first important thing a big league ball player loses is that step, meaning, of course, the extra one he got in to enable him to beat out a hit or make the play.

I HAVE said this before about Mayo, but sparking the Tigers at second base is certainly in the top kick of all the Cinderella series filled with Forgotten Men.

Because of his age—31 at the time—Mayo, who kicked around the minors in between disappointing trials with the Giants and Braves, was acquired by the Detroit as an emergency measure when the Athletics traded him to Louisville after he had hit a smacking 219 in 1943.

It was not until Mayo had quickly taken hold as the Tigers' second baseman and distance clutch hitter that it became generally known that a retinal hernia, a condition which he was

Marriage is a Serious BUSINESS

Charting a Course For the War Bride

THE war bride has an uncharted course to follow, and most of the advice which is showered upon a young married woman is of no value to her. The reason, of course, is that marriage is normally a state of being together while the war marriage is a state of being apart.

The woman of courage will be able to manage, however, if she has, as Wordsworth says, "A few second instincts and a few plain rules."

If the soldier husband is able to live at home part of the time, the best rule, now as always, is: "Set up a home of your own."

It is not important that the home should be elaborate or properly and completely furnished. Who can do that, with priorities and taxes staring them in the face? What does matter is that a couple should have a separate establishment, working out their own destiny without too much interference from their parents.

For the most part, it is not possible for the war bride to live with her husband. Indeed, if he is shipped from camp to camp in this country, a sound rule for her is not to follow her husband around. This is rarely satisfactory; the wife is not content if her husband can give her little time, and she faces the difficulty of pulling up stakes constantly. He can provide her at best only with a travesty of a home.

As a rule, a newly married couple begin their adjustment to one another and to married life in the privacy of their own home or, working out their own destiny, in Army camps where living conditions are crowded and unpleasant, or in the home of one of them, surrounded by the family.

There is no security, no sense of permanency, only an atmosphere of strangeness and discomfort. Separation awaits them at any moment. It is certainly the exceptional, not the average, marriage which can survive these weeks of distorted living.

The third rule for the war bride is, "Keep in touch with your husband's family." This is particularly important in wartime when the serviceman needs, in the midst of chaos and violence, to know that there is harmony at home. The war bride should make an effort to be friends with her husband's family and to see them frequently if she can. Reassuring news of this kind can do wonders at setting a fighting man's worries at rest and building his morale.

It is absurd for a young couple to marry with the short-sighted idea, "I am marrying you, and your family." The family, on both sides, will inevitably prove to be an important factor in your life.

No bride can afford to forget that, henceforth, like it or not, her life is going to be closely bound up with "the whole connection of the individual man."

It is extremely important, therefore, that the couple shall be congenial with their in-laws. If there are strong antagonisms on either side, better stop and reconsider. For the fourth rule is, "Keep on good terms with your in-laws."

The deep-lying importance of solving the in-law problem intelligently appears when we learn that—whatever the ostensible reasons given in court—more divorces are caused by the interference of in-laws or by the necessity of having the parents, either of the husband or the wife, living with their married sons and daughters, than from any other cause.

CHINESE GET
IN NANKING

CHUNGKING (UP)—The first Chinese troops to enter Nanking since the Central Government was driven out by the Japanese in 1937, were received with stony stares, silence, and a complete absence of any demonstrations, a Te Kung Pao correspondent reported.

The correspondent, who accompanied the Chinese troops into the city, said that as they reached the outskirts they passed small groups of peasants, some of whom waved and shouted "hao, hao", but as they neared the business section, the reception became colder, and people walking the streets did not even turn their heads as the troops passed.

In the city itself things have changed tremendously since the evacuation of 1937. Most women have adopted Japanese hair dress, painted eyebrows appear to be thoroughly Nipponized. Many shops display Japanese signs and Japanese goods fill the markets. Puppet currency has become so inflated that a rickshaw ride may cost as much as 150,000. A bowl of noodles sells for $5,000, a piece of rice for $300,000 and a shirt for $150,000. In 1937 the official rate of CBI currency was $3.35 to one U. S. dollar, now it would be $120,000 to one. Inflation has become so severe that the Japanese as well as the Chinese have been affected, but the Chinese forces coming in from Chungking have been able to buy goods very cheaply since one dollar in National currency is worth $150 in puppet money. These soldiers, who have brought currency with them are able to buy cigarettes for $5 four course meals for $200 and suits of clothing for $10,000.

Advises Dads To Take It Easy
With Children

STATE COLLEGE Pa. (UP)—Returning soldiers must "take it easy" in establishing relationship with their children, especially those they've never seen before, according to a Pennsylvania State College family life specialist.

Mrs. Marion McDowell, a young mother, said that many fathers get blue and discouraged when their children fail to greet them with open arms during the first few days of homecoming.

"Ninety-nine time out of a hundred, all that's needed is a little time and patience," she explained. "It takes awhile for some children to get accustomed to a new person in their own small world."

Mrs. McDowell believes the best way is for the father to gain gradually the confidence and affection of his offspring, by participating with them in household activities, playing games and taking walks.

Mothers can do much to ease the situation by building up the father's return, explaining to the part "Daddy" has played in the war, and preparing the child for any changes in his appearance, she suggested.

Since the Japanese surrendered Nanking has been generally quiet, but on August 16, a one man revolution was successfully staged for one day. Chou Kao, a local Chinese, took over rule of the city from the Japanese, claiming he had been authorized to do so. He issued orders to the puppet police, ordered one puppet official shot and frightened another into suicide, issued a proclamation to the people of the city and took a large quantity of notes from the Federal Reserve Bank.

After this one day of rule, the Japanese wired Chungking for confirmation of his authority to take over the civil government of the city, and receiving none threw him into prison. He had, however, ruled undisturbed for 24 hours as "King of Nanking."

Puppets have been moving out of the city as rapidly as possible and newspaper editors, politicians and businessmen who before the surrender advocated "Greater East Asia" are rapidly readjusting themselves for General Government rule.

TYLER, Tex. (UP)—Beef stew received quite a vigorous stirring at a local cafe recently. A soldier, with a pronounced Brooklyn accent, ordered beef stew. "Beef stoo," inquired the waitress.

"New, beef stoo," countered the soldier, slightly irritated.

The "slanguage" confusions were straightened out and the soldier finally got his "beef stoo".

Western Coast
Shipyards Have Big Job Ahead

PORTLAND Ore (UP)—The postwar task of transporting American men and supplies back from the Pacific fighting areas will require thousands of workers in overhauling, repairing, loading and unloading a large fleet of ships, says Rear Admiral Robert M. Griffin, commandant of the 13th naval district.

Admiral Griffin pointed out that several million men left in forward areas at the war's end must be supplied and brought home to the states. It will take a long time for that process and to bring home salvagable equipment, while during that time supply ships and transports will have to be loaded, unloaded and repaired.

Another source of work is found in the battle-damaged ships and ships that have been long overdue for routine overhaul. Along with the repair and overhaul is the necessary conversion from military to commercial use. This will insure employment at repair yards and all piers for a long time, the Admiral said.

Taking a large part in the program will be the Portland-Vancouver shipyards, which have turned out a large percentage of the war-built fleet now in use.

Financing the peace will only be as successful as you make it by your increasing purchases of Victory Loan Bonds.

Judges Serve On Faculty Of Okla. University

NORMAN, Okla. (UP) — Two judges are serving on the University of Oklahoma law school faculty until replacements are found for two faculty members who resigned after this school year began.

Judge A. E. Murrish is a federal circuit court of appeals judge, an appointive post, while the second jurist is District Judge Clarence Mills of Oklahoma City.

The law school dean, Dr. John Hervey, resigned last month after a disagreement with school authorities and the university board of regents over his salary. At the same time, Dr. Floyd Wright, a member of the law school faculty, resigned for the same reason.

WAR GADGETS SEALED FOR FUTURE USE

PITTSBURGH (UP) — The instruments of war, temporarily in disuse, are not going to be beat into ploughshares.

Rather, they will be scientifically sealed in specially built containers and treated by a new process that will prevent corrosion, decay or deterioration.

At Dravo Corporation's Neville Island plant near Pittsburgh, generating units, light fixtures and directors are being stored in the all-steel, hermetically sealed containers.

As soon as the container is filled, the vessel is welded, the air is pumped out, and nitrogen gas is forced in. Nitrogen, an almost inert gas, won't react with any of the materials in the apparatus.

Silica gel, a chemical dehydrator, also is put into the container, to absorb any trace of moisture that might still be clinging to the container. After that processing, temperature changes will not harm the contents of the containers.

The need for warehouses, always choice targets for bomber or saboteurs, is eliminated by using the special containers, which can be widely dispersed and then easily concealed.

Among the materials being stored are precious optical instruments, special weapons, fire control apparatus, and other items that will not become obsolete after a few years.

COAST GUARD READIES FLEET FOR LAKE DUTY

GRAND RAPIDS, Minn. (UP) — The winter fleet of the U. S. Coast Guard is anchored here ready to furnish protection against storms this fall and winter for the 1,800 North Shore fishermen.

Chief Boatwain Mate Steve Levenske is the officer in charge of the station. He has 17 years experience on the Great Lakes to his credit. He and his crew of 12 men have been busy checking the motorcraft, testing the life-preserving equipment, rigging and machinery and making the flotilla of five boats shipshape.

Inshore the inhabitants of all the surrounding communities watch these operations with intense interest. Between now and the freeze over about the first of the year the whole economy, the lives and livelihoods of hundreds is directly concerned with fishing. The Great Lakes catch is Lake Trout and Herring.

The flagship of the fleet is a 36 foot motor lifeboat designed and built for heavy seas and delivered recently from the coast guard's shipyards at Curtis Bay, Mr. Levenske says this round-bottomed craft can outride Lake Superior at its worst and that can mean seas running 15 to 20 feet high. The craft carries a crew of four, and is powered by a 100-horse power marine engine.

Two 25 foot life saving craft are used along with the bigger craft. These can be put out in 15 seconds in an emergency. One of them is man powered for use in cases where the sea is too heavy and for beach work where power boats can maneuver. The other boat is powered by a 20 horse

MOM ZELICK STARTS WORK ON VET HALL

McKEESPORT, Pa. (UP)—Her only son will never see the Veterans' recreation hall he envisioned, but "Mom" Zelick is making sure the rest of "her boys" will see the building.

"Jim" and "Fritz," 27-year-old engineer son, Pvt. Fred J. (Fritz) Zelick, used to plan a hall which would belong to veterans "lock, stock and barrel."

It was before Fritz, the father of a three-year-old daughter, Jas. went into the service in July 1914.

When Fritz moved into Germany with the First Army's 28th Division and was killed by an exploding land mine at Schleiden in March, "Mom's" idea for the hall died with her son.

But her "other boys"—200 servicemen of the Highland Grove district of McKeesport—were depending on her, so Mom has started anew to work for the $15,000 clubhouse.

Neighbors were contacted, and five lots were purchased for $1,000. A charter was issued at no cost, and plans for the building were taken care of by Charles Kearney, County real estate appraiser.

Mom and Jake Sibus, operator of the McKeesport Transit Co., each gave $2,000 to get the building started. Enthusiastic neighbors millworkers and city officials alike, have pitched in with their labor.

The two-story brick and stone building will include a dance floor and auditorium, lounging porch, bar, reading room and pool room. Outside will be a tennis court and bowling alley.

The "boys" who sent Mom about $50 worth of flowers last Mother's Day have but one question about their hall:

"When will it be ready for us, Mom?"

Remembering her own son, Mom always replies:

"It will be here when you come home, son."

CHICAGO (UP)—The American Municipal Assn. reports that DDT insecticide is being used widely by American cities to control disease and eradicate harmful insects in buildings.

The association said that while some city officials describe the results as "marvelous," many hesitate to draw early conclusions.

The health commissioner of Boston reported on Sept. 26 that since a polio-infested section of the city was sprayed with DDT last Aug. 29, not a single new case of the disease has been reported.

The mosquito control director reported that aerial spraying of Miami and Dade county, Fla., was 100 per cent effective in combating a polio epidemic. Richmond, Va., health officials are experi-

Welfare officials in Hartford, Conn., said DDT was used successfully to kill insects in the municipal hospital, isolation hospital and old people's home. Atlanta, Ga., city health officials have started spraying 10,000 business establishments with DDT.

"NEW METHOD" 2-IN-1 CAKE

IMPORTANT: Use only Gold Medal "Kitchen-tested" Enriched Flour with this recipe.

Have all ingredients room temperature (70°-75°). (Shortening should be soft, not melted.) Pre-heat oven to 350° (mod.). Grease and dust with flour one 8 1/2" square pan (1 1/4" deep) or one 8" x 12" oblong pan (2" deep) or two 9" round layer pans (1 1/4" deep). Sift GOLD MEDAL "Kitchen-tested" Enriched Flour before measuring. Measure all ingredients accurately (level) before mixing.

Sift together: 1 cup plus 2 tbsp. sifted GOLD MEDAL "Kitchen-tested" Enriched Flour; 1 1/2 cups sugar; 2 1/2 tsp. double-action baking powder; 1 tsp. salt; 1/2 cup high grade vegetable shortening; 1 cup. Flouring; 1 cup milk.

Beat vigorously with spoon for 2 min. by clock (about 150 strokes per min.). You may rest a moment when beating by hand; just count actual beating time or strokes. OR MIX with electric mixer on slow to medium speed for 2 min. Scrape sides and bottom of bowl frequently.

Add: 1/2 to 3/4 cup unbeaten egg whites (4 large).

Continue beating 2 more min., scraping bowl frequently. Pour about 2/3 of the batter into prepared pan or pans.

To remaining batter add: 1 sq. (1 oz.) unsweetened chocolate, melted; 1/2 tsp. soda; 2 tsp. warm water; 1/2 tsp. red food coloring, if desired.

Mix until well blended (about 1 1/2 min.). Pour chocolate batter here and there over white batter. Cut through batter several times with knife for marbled effect. Bake square cake 50 to 55 min., oblong cake 55 to 60 min., layers 25 to 30 min. in mod. oven (350°). (Square cakes of this type often rise slightly in center and "crack".) Delicious served uniced... warm from the oven... or frosted when cool with Glossy Chocolate Icing (recipe in Gold Medal sacks).

"SAVE ON SUGAR: Use 3/4 cup sugar and 1/2 cup white corn syrup in place of 1 1/2 cups of sugar in the cake. Reduce milk to 3/4 cup plus 1 tbsp. Add syrup with milk to dry ingredients.

Captain Craig Made General Agent For T&P

DALLAS, Texas — Captain Mark L. Craig, recently appointed General Agent for the Texas and Pacific Railway Company, Dallas, has been released from the Army after more than three years service and will assume his new duties on November 1, 1945, according to an announcement today by Mr. A. F. Smith, Freight Traffic Manager of the Company.

Captain Craig, a native of Dallas, began his railroad career with the Texas and Pacific in this city on May 1, 1918. Starting as a mail clerk, he gained considerable rail road experience in various departments in the general offices before being made traveling freight agent at Oklahoma City in August 1926.

In the succeeding ten years he served as General Agent at Sherman, Texas; Assistant General Freight Agent at Atlanta, Georgia, and later General Agent in that city. Appointment to General Agent in New Orleans, Louisiana, took place on November 1, 1936, which position he held at the time he entered the United States Army with the rank of Lieutenant on December 8, 1942.

SEES NO COAL FOR GERMANS THIS WINTER

BERLIN (UP) — With the early chilly forewarnings of Germany's wet-cold winters already in the air, German administrative officials are making coal and other fuels a priority target for their new central administration in the Russian zone.

Public utilities and the rearmament industries for essential civilian commodities have first call on all available coal, however, and at present there is no coal in sight for the civilian population. Communal woodchopping is the only current solution.

According to Dr. Ferdinand Friedensburg, veteran German mining expert, who is director of the fuel and power administration, the large lignite coal mines remaining in the Russian-occupied zone of Germany are hampered by shortage of machinery, transportation and materials more than by manpower. The Russians as yet have neither placed prisoners at the disposal of the mines nor returned prisoners whose normal occupation is mining, as is being done in the western occupation zones. But German unemployment at present guarantees sufficient manpower for the east-worked lignite deposits, although the weakness of the underfed below standard, first, because of the weakness of the underfed workers, secondly because they are unskilled.

The outstanding problem is the replacement of machinery destroyed by the war. Little has been asked for reparations, because the Russian military authorities want the mines returned to as full production as possible. But Germany's mining machinery industry is in the western zones and will have to be obtained for the Germans by the Russians through the Allied Control Council.

Eastern Germany has lost almost all its hard-coal mines in the regions to Poland, and as a result for industrial purposes and or production of gas will need two and a half to three million tons of hard coal annually either from the West or from Silesia. "his, Friedensburg said, the Russians are trying to obtain for them. Otherwise, lignite deposits can cover all immediate needs in the zone if the machinery, materials and transportation needed for mining and distribution can be obtained.

The lignite, or "Braunkohl," is used for the production of ersatz gasoline, which also has a high priority wherever enough machinery in the synthetic plants escaped bombing to permit renewed production. This machinery is also not being taken for reparations, Friedensburg said.

Friedensburg, one of the leaders of the Christian-Democrat party, is 58 and a long-time expert in mining, but has been a political figure as well. During the first World War he was captured by the British on his way from North America to Germany in 1914, wounded while trying to escape in 1916, and sent to Switzerland, where he worked in the press section of the German legation. He held a number of offices under the Weimar republic, in the department of the interior and as vice police president of Berlin. Since then he has traveled and lectured extensively in England, France, Belgium and the United States, specializing in economic, administrative, legal and scientific topics. He is a doctor of philosophy.
