LOW-POINT GIs FEEL WORSE IF HOUNDED ON HOMECOMING

TOKYO (UP) — "If your soldier is serving with occupation troops overseas, don't keep him upset and unhappy by constantly asking him when he is coming home." That is the advice of Lt. Col. Henry A. Cotton, Executive Officer in the Office of the Chief Surgeon, Tokyo.

Col. Cotton, whose home is in Princeton, N. J., said low-point servicemen are going to have plenty of time to think about going home and that letters that keep them from their "officers" will make their job tougher.

Only natural that people back in the States should want to know when their husbands, sweethearts and sons are coming home, he said. "However, they must realize that occupation troops are necessary and that low-point men will be on duty in occupation zones for some time.

"A constant stream of letters is good for a soldier's mental hygiene unless those letters keep hounding him about coming home. People in America can help these boys complete their task by avoiding subjects that will create mental turmoil.

He said the men will have their regular duties to perform and also will have extensive training. In addition, the Army plans to keep the boys busy by instituting extensive recreational programs. In this way the Army hopes to reduce the boredom of occupational life.

Col. Cotton said the Army is not only looking after the mental health of troops here but is taking every precaution to protect its men against diseases found in the Orient. He is confident that the Army can lick physical ills but says the people at home must help with mental problems.

"The people must realize the need for keeping occupation troops in foreign countries and must do their part to make the job easier for the boys," he said. "Low-point soldiers are needed now and this is their chance to serve their country. We must win the peace and we must have these troops here to do it."

Says Rapid Crime Increase Serious Says Bureau Head

AUSTIN, Texas (UP) — Gen. H. McLaughlin, chief of the Bureau of Investigation and Records of State Police, said today that the bureau is faced with its gravest challenge due to rapid crime increase.

Statistics compiled by the bureau and released in an annual report show that crime in Texas is increasing rapidly, McLaughlin said.

"The number of criminal fingerprints contributed to this bureau during the past year has greatly increased," he said. "Officers of the state daily call upon our laboratory for more and more help."

One of the department aids is officers installed during the year was a new Keeler Polygraph or "lie detector." Plans now are under way to soundproof a room for more satisfactory use of this apparatus.

Spectrograph equipment, purchased during the former fiscal year, has been installed and is reported giving valuable results.

Some figures of the department work are:

Files recorded, 2,400,799; officers furnished, 1,481,341 of these in the 16 year period of bureau operation. Fingerprints received, 681,092; filed, 607,963.

During the past fiscal year ending August 31, 1945, made 1,199 handwriting and 166 typewriting tests and secured convictions in 33 cases with sentences totaling 189 years and restitution of $7,260.

The firearms section made 599 examinations and secured 18 convictions totaling 191 years of penitentiary sentences.

The New York, Ontario and Western Railway Co. was the first to use diesel engines in all locomotives.

REV. BYRNE HEARD ON BROADCAST

Many Ranger people found a particular interest in the broadcast of the Union Thanksgiving service held Thursday at the Palace Theatre in Dallas in as much as a former Ranger man participated in the service.

He was Rev. S. E. Byrne, former priest of St. Rita's Catholic church here. Rev. Byrne represented the Catholic church on the program along with Protestant ministers of Dallas and a Jewish rabbi.

Rev. Byrne, now pastor of Our Lady of Perpetual Help Catholic church in Dallas, spoke on his program and said in part:

"We Americans have been given an unequalled position of world leadership. That honor has a corresponding obligation of seeing that we use it for the betterment of mankind. It is not too much to say that the life of every human being in the world will be affected by whatever we do, or fail to do, regarding that leadership. We are offered the opportunity of taking the rest of the world by the hand and leading them out of the darkness of past selfishness, greed, hatred, misery, ignorance and paganism which has enslaved them.

"In sharing with others, we lose nothing, but they gain so much. We must share our worldly goods as well as our love."

G-M Strike Likely To Close Other Industries In Nation

SUPERVISORY COURSE TO BE STARTED

Miss Fleda Fulmer, from the extension division of the University of Texas, announced today that beginning Tuesday night, November 27 at the high school, she will conduct a supervisory course, How To Train An Employee. This is the second course which Miss Fulmer has conducted in Ranger, sponsored by the public schools and the Chamber of Commerce.

Four sessions will be required to complete the course and these will be given on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7:30 to 9:00 p. m. Any person in a supervisory capacity is eligible to take the course and the only charge will be $1.50 for registration.

As the size of this class will be limited Miss Fulmer has requested that those interested in enrolling, will please contact her through the Chamber of Commerce. Miss Fulmer explained that the course is a practical one, in on-the-job training designed by 16 nationally known retailers. They realized that job training would need to be stepped up in speed and efficiency to train new employees, as well as to re-train experienced employees during the emergency and reconversion period.

"The job does just that," Miss Fulmer said, "as it was adapted for retailers from the tested I.I.T. (Job Instruction Training) program used by the Army and industry during recent years."

Former Editor Cited By Admiral Chester Nimitz

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP) — Chief Petty Officer Tom E. Foster, former publisher, Texas newspaper, has been awarded a citation by Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz for his work in organizing and editing the "Seabee" magazine for the Navy's construction battalions.

The citation, which entitles Foster to wear the Navy Commendation Ribbon, said in part:

"Beginning with no plant facilities or personnel, and carrying on with the minimum assistance from his superior officers, he developed the publication into an instrument which has effectively fostered the 'esprit de corps' of the Construction Battalion personnel in the Pacific."

Rear Admiral Carl H. Cotter, director of the Western Pacific division, Bureau of Yards and Docks, presented the citation to Foster, former publisher of the "Seabee" magazine.

Until its suspension in October, "Seabee" had the second largest paid circulation of any service magazine published overseas. The magazine had bureaus in Manila, Okinawa, Iwo Jima and Guam. Foster's headquarters were in Pearl Harbor where "Seabee" was published on the presses of the Honolulu Advertiser.

Under Foster's arrangement, the New York Times Overseas Weekly was carried as a regular supplement to "Seabee." It was the only service publication to furnish its readers such an outstanding feature.

WELLES SAYS HE BELIEVED WAR CERTAIN

WASHINGTON (UP) — Former Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles said today he believes war was inevitable in mid-September, 1911, that war with Japan probably was inevitable.

The former state department official told the congressional committee investigating Pearl Harbor "It had seemed to me from the middle of September, more or less, that there was the remotest chance of reaching a peaceful settlement and that consequently hostilities would probably be inevitable."

The committee in later hearings will try to get at a fundamental issue facing it—how it happened that our armed forces were taken by surprise at Pearl Harbor when such men as Welles had believed for some months that war with Japan was inevitable.

Welles was examined as the committee sought more details on why a proposed temporary agreement with Japan was drafted and then discarded late in November, 1941, and whether there was an American-British-Chinese-Dutch agreement on joint action against Japan.

The day's evidence also disclosed that the British Prime Minister Winston Churchill urged President Roosevelt to issue a warning to Japan Nov. 30, 1941.

Six-Footers-Or Over Elect President (6-8)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (UP) — The Tower Club of Philadelphia may not be the world's largest, but it is definitely one of the tallest groups holding meetings.

Recently the club elected 51 feet and 10 inches of officers, filling only five vacancies. The sole qualification for membership is a height of not less than six feet and the new president, Bronnie Sadowskas, is eight inches over the required minimum. His wife whom he met at the Tower Club is six feet, three inches tall.

The other officers elected are equally tall. The vice president, Edward Justice, is six feet eight; the corresponding secretary, Louis van Arsdale, is six feet one; the recording secretary, Miss Jeanne Riley, is exactly six feet; and the treasurer, Joseph Hager, is six feet five inches tall.

WOULD IDLE AN ADDITIONAL 100,000 MEN

Believe Government Intervention Only Solution to Dire Threat

By United Press

Possible far-reaching effects of the nationwide General Motors walkout were previewed today as an industry spokesman warned that automobile parts plants would be forced to shut down because of the strike.

Frank Bishop, general manager of the Automotive and Aviation Parts Manufacturers Association, said that the coast-to-coast strike against General Motors was causing a "rapid strangulation" of the industry.

Bishop stated bluntly that some 100,000 workers employed in plants supplying 60 per cent or more of their output to General Motors would be added "within a few days" to the 430,000 already idled by work stoppages over the country.

If continued for any length of time, he said, the G-M strike would force nearly 400 plants to close, idling some 400,000 workers.

"And when the parts plants go down, Ford, Chrysler and the other auto companies will have to close, too," he added.

Government intervention was a hope for an early end to the strike of 175,000 auto workers who left their jobs in 102 G-M plants Wednesday.

Walter P. Reuther, vice president of the United Automobile Workers Union, predicted that the systemwide General Motors strike would bring about "the greatest labor solidarity" in national history.

Labor Secretary Lewis B. Schwellenbach said he had invited representatives of the company and the powerful United Automobile Workers to meet in Washington next week with conciliators from his office.

Sad Situation Over One Car Finally Settled

With only one car to sell when prices on new cars were released Friday and with dozens of prospective buyers, all eager for the car, Anderson - Puet Chevrolet dealers found themselves in a tight spot.

Who would get the new car was the question that the dealers had to decide. They would have liked to deliver cars to all applicants but that was out of the question, so they narrowed the field by eliminating all but veterans of World War II.

It was finally agreed that names of all would be placed in a box, shaken up and then a name drawn. Joe Dennis was named to be the impartial name drawer. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Miller were the lucky persons and the new 1946 four-door Chevrolet sedan goes to them.

But not right now. For the dealers received instructions Saturday morning to hold up delivery until further price instructions from the OPA.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The main stuff to be controlled in finding future uses for atomic energy, says Maj.-Gen. Leslie R. Groves, who was in charge of the atomic bomb project for the Army, is the enriched material—the concentrate made from radioactive ores.

No accurate data have been given on this concentration. One unofficial figure is that it takes 1300 tons of ore to make 30 pounds of uranium salts, from which uranium-235 is obtained. Another figure commonly cited is that if and when U-235 in concentrates up to 10 per cent can be sold for less than $25,000 a pound, it can begin to compete with high-grade fuels. That gives a vague idea.

The real secret that has to be guarded today is the know-how of this production of concentrates on a commercial scale. It is now generally admitted that the theory is no longer a secret. That is shared by many scientists. The real secret is in the job of engineering and manufacturing—translating laboratory experiments in microscopic chemistry and physics into mass production handling of thousands of tons of raw material.

No budget ever has been prepared on what it would take to operate the two government reduction plants at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Pasco, Wash. A guess is that it will cost $30,000,000 a year. And when Congress gets through creating the commission that will control atomic energy, Congress also faces the prospect of making an annual appropriation of about that amount to keep the works going. Some of the top military people who have been closest to the atomic bomb project feel that the concentrates should be kept for military uses, for a time at least. Just to enforce the peace, as it were.

Many scientists and scientific groups that have spoken out on the subject consider this an extremely narrow point of view. The trouble is that few private business research organizations and no university scientific laboratories can afford to go into further atomic energy research without government backing.

FIRST the government would have to give or loan some of the enriched material to the research group, to experiment with. Then the government would have to subsidize the research through outright grants of money for pure research, or on contract to conduct investigations along certain specified lines.

The next question is: who owns the discoveries and results of this research? Should the Atomic Energy Commission be created by Congress be able to lock up these findings, or to license their use, collecting royalties to get back some of its original two-billion-dollar investment and 30 million annual budget?

There will be objections to any such restrictions. Scientists will believe more progress can be made if there is freedom of research. On the other hand, the private research organizations have a natural selfish interest in wanting to retain and cash in on whatever discoveries may be made in their institutions.

NEA Sports Editor

ANOTHER United Hunts is sandwiched in at Belmont Park between the end of the regular New York racing season and another Victory Meeting, which reminds old-timers that everybody connected with the turf, from breeder to swig, should thank his lucky stars for the United Hunts Racing Association.

You are not using the term sterling loosely in speaking of this body which saved racing in its dark days of 1910 through 1912, when without its activity and encouragement the industry would have been a dead pigeon following Gov. Charles Evans Hughes' ban on betting.

As New York went, so went the nation. Breeding reached its lowest ebb as racing was limited to outlaw tracks and places like Juarez, Mexico.

IT was the United Hunts carrying on that did much to preserve interest in racing, restore betting on it to legality and make possible the present $4,000,000 daily pari-mutuel handles.

The United Hunts Racing Association was founded in 1905 by a group of sportsmen including its first president Perry Belmont and P. F. Collier, Ralph N. Ellis, Joseph P. Grace, Henry J. Morris, H. S. Page and Belmont Purdy. The United Hunts was first held at Old Morris Park, in Westchester County, in the fall of 1905, has been conducted each year since. It has been the backbone of the business.

Racing, as conducted by the United Hunts, is strictly an amateur sport.

While for the past two falls, proceeds have been given to War Funds, United Hunts funds are normally used to help other amateur hunt meetings throughout the east. These meetings are held in Pennsylvania, Virginia and other states where there is no professional racing.

BESIDES championing the cause of amateur racing, and indirectly the professional variety, the United Hunts has for years aided the Army Remount Association in its efforts to improve the type of service mount. This may sound like the ordinary improvement-of-the-breed conversation to those who see only the commercial side of racing, but ask Lt.-Gen. Lucian King Truscott, Jr., how much quicker he would have cleaned up in Italy had he possessed a comparatively few men on horses.

Wind Tunnel Is Being Used In Aeronautics

AUSTIN, Texas—A wind tunnel for demonstrating air flow has been added to the University of Texas department of aeronautical engineering, Dr. M. J. Thompson, chairman, has announced.

Corporation for research during the war, it was presented to the University.

The tunnel is made of transparent plastic and is surrounded by a platform large enough to accommodate a class of students. The actual flow of air is made visible by either smoke or streamers within the tunnel, Dr. Thompson said. It was designed to suck air through from 80 to 100 miles per hour.

It will be two months before the tunnel is ready for use by students.

Dr. Thompson said. The tunnel is mounted vertically in a round building 12 feet in diameter and 20 feet high.

Alaska's Yukon basin, and the Siberian province of Yakutsk, are colder areas than any other in the Arctic circle.

The tunnel was a gift from the Schlumberger Well Surveying Corporation of Houston. Used by the Museum Shows Unique Curios Of South Seas

LINCOLN, Neb. (UP) — The University of Nebraska State Museum, famous for its collection of pre-historic fossils, has opened a different sort of display—150 rare items from the South Sea Islands.

The shark-tooth spears, wooden half conchs, grass skirts and other curios were collected more than 40 years ago, Dr. C. B. Schultz, director, said. At the time L. W. Osborn, father of the donor, gathered the items, the islands were not yet influenced by white tourists and traders.

Returning South Pacific veterans may be familiar with the island from which the collection came—Tarawa, Ellis, Samoa, the Gilberts, the Marshalls and the Philippines—but they probably will not have seen the curios, Schultz said.

The Polynesian display includes grass mats of such intricate design that two years were spent in making them. Bark cloth pounded and rolled to paper thinness and dyed with native materials is another prize.

Other unusual items are necklaces made of shells so tiny 80 can be put in a teaspoon; brilliantly colored grass skirts and fans; war clubs, and a heavy breast-plate the natives idea of protection from spears and arrows.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICE "Soul and Body" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ Scientist, on Sunday, November 25.

The Golden Text is: "We know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, an house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens" (II Corinthians 5:1).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Rejoice the soul of thy servant: for unto thee, O Lord, do I lift up my soul" (Psalm 86:4).

The Lesson - Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Soul is the substance. Life and intelligence of man, which is individualized, but not in matter. Soul can never reflect anything inferior to Spirit" (page 477).

Happiness Is Within Your Reach
 IT is a curious thing that none of the discussions of marriage mention the simple fact that children play an immense part in cementing a marriage together, in providing the parents with their greatest common interest, and in building the family unit which is greater than any single individual in it.
 Nor do they point out how large a percentage of wayward girls and unmarried mothers come from broken families which, by failing to solve their own problems, have left their children to suffer for their mistakes.
 There was a 12-year-old boy whose parents got a divorce and placed him in a boarding school. One afternoon, the headmaster came to tell him that a table had been arranged for him because his father was coming to dinner, bringing his new wife, so that the boy could meet his stepmother. The boy was embarrassed but took the news very quietly. An hour later, the distressed headmaster once more came in search of him.
 "Your mother just telephoned," he said, "that she will be here for dinner, bringing her new husband. She wants you to know your stepfather."
 The child was very white. "What will the other boys think?" he burst out, and then, with a bitterness beyond his years, "Oh, the hell with it!" He flung, "I beg your pardon, sir," he said.
 That night he sat between a stepfather and stepmother, neither of whom he had ever seen before, while his own parents looked on complacently, and, farther away, the curious eyes of his schoolmates watched. He was very quiet and very well-behaved. For days afterwards, he lay in the infirmary, too sick to move.

Ring Torn From Finger By Nazis Is Restored

COLLEGE STATION (A&M)—The Texas A. & M. College senior ring that citizens of Schweinfurt, Germany, tore from the finger of Staff Sergeant Robert C. Elliott, of Dalhart, after he parachuted to earth, has been replaced, and the 94th Bombardment group gunner will return to complete his education upon discharge from McCloskey General hospital at Temple.

The ring presentation was made by P. L. Downs, Jr., at an A. & M. Club barbecue at the Blackland Experimental Station at Temple attended by a hundred A. & M. men. In attendance from the college was President, Gibb Gilchrist, E. E. McQuillen, secretary of the Association of Former students, and Holloway Hughes, athletic department. The ring was a gift to Sgt. Elliott from other Aggie patients at McCloskey hospital.

Shot down over Schweinfurt on October 12, 1943, Sgt. Elliott parachuted from an altitude of 22,000 feet on his sixth mission over Germany. He was severely beaten about the head by enraged German civilians, and until repatriated in September, 1944 was in German hospitals and prison camps. He has been a patient at McCloskey since October, 1944, and is on the road to complete recovery. Sgt. Elliott wears the Purple Heart, Air Medal and Good Conduct medal. He enlisted
