VOLUME XXVII RANGER, TEXAS, TUESDAY, APRIL 23, 1946 PRICE FIVE CENTS No. 231

Well... I Dunno, But...

Old Granny, the pick-up which once belonged to the Times has gone to a new owner and the purchaser sent word to the Times staff, that as per our request, she will have excellent treatment the rest of her life.

According to Joe Dennis, Old Granny accepted her new owner reluctantly, at first refusing to budge at his direction. A little lubrication with gasoline, however, finally encouraged her to make friends with the man and she went on her way more willingly.

Ranger Day at the Mineral Wells art exhibit has been postponed until Friday when at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon the artist will speak to the Ranger delegation.

Reports from the show are to the effect that it is drawing large crowds and weather permitting, will continue to do so.

A total of 1.23 inches of rain has fallen in Ranger since the start of the showers about 11:00 a. m. Sunday.

The Times gauge showed that a total of .95 of an inch fell from the start of the rain up to 3:00 a. m. Monday. The remainder fell throughout Monday and Tuesday morning.

Temperatures topped along with the rain and have been hovering around the lower sixties.

Farmers and ranchers state that they have benefited by the rains which are the first that have fallen here since the 27th of March. During the March showers a total of 1.21 inches fell.

A spark of sunshine in Ranger life was snuffed out Sunday afternoon when Charlie Moore was killed in an automobile accident.

The entire town was stricken numb by news of the accident and people were truly grieved at his passing. For Charlie was everybody's friend. No matter where people met him or under what circumstances, he could always produce a smile or a laugh from them.

Friends recalled Monday how through the depression when things went bad for him, he was never heard to complain and he kept that same cheerful outlook on life.

Yes, Charlie will be missed. So far our plea for a clean-up campaign in Ranger has met stone silence and no move in the direction of such a thing.

We read recently of how neighbors in a neighboring city are taking over the responsibility of beautifying vacant lots, in order that they will not be a blot on the appearance of their section of town.

Work this would entail some sure, but think what it will mean in the appearance of that town.

Ranger has plenty of vacant lots that could at least stand some cleaning, if not the beautification program.

The increase in traffic accidents goes on taking toll of life and property damage with evidence of no awakening among the people as to greater care in driving.

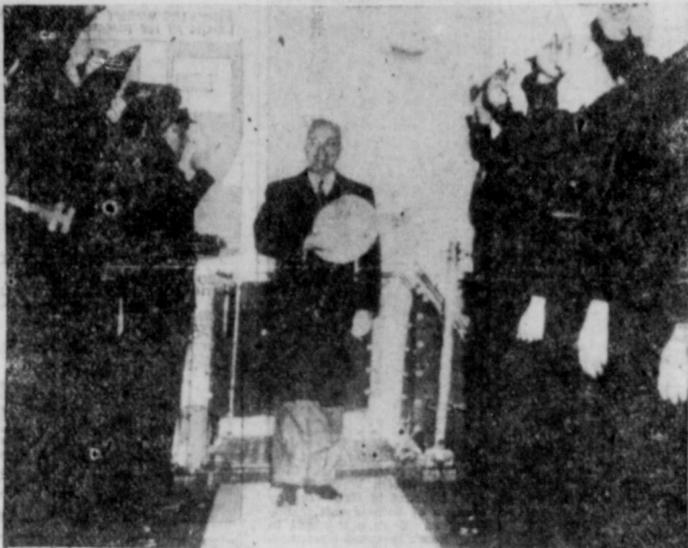

Though details were not available, two more accidents were reported as having occurred Monday night and Tuesday morning at the foot of Thurber hill.

Sources of information stated that no one was injured but the damage to trucks and cars was considerable. Thurber hill needs to be manipulated with every thought of safe driving. It has cost more lives than the average stretch of road.

LONE STAR PENSION PLAN STARTS JUNE 1

A pension plan providing retirement income and additional insurance for employees of Lone Star Gas Company and Lone Star Producing Company will be effective June 1, officials announce. Approximately 3,000 employees in the 300 Texas and Oklahoma cities and towns in which Lone Star operates will be eligible to participate, including returning service men whose benefits cover time spent in the service.

Normal retirement age will be 65. Annual cost to the company is estimated at $485,000. Lone Star will pay for all past service benefits and its contributions for future benefits will exceed three dollars for each dollar contributed by an employee.

Certain employees will be entitled to benefits if they sever connections with the company prior to age 65 due to causes other than death, sickness or physical or mental disability.

A booklet is to be issued to employees explaining the plan and application blanks will be provided. Participation will be voluntary.

The pension set-up has been termed by insurance representatives as most complete and it is being used as a pattern for similar plans. It is one step in the company's plans for strengthening its peace-time service throughout its system.

OMAR BURLESON ISSUES STATEMENT ON PLATFORM

Omar Burleson of Anson, Candidate for Congress, 17th District of Texas, has issued the following statement which he says will constitute the basis of his platform:

Two years in Washington, D. C., in a position which afforded direct daily contact with Congress, convinces me that reform in Congressional procedure is necessary to meet the exigencies of our time. The committee system has pyramided itself until it is cumbersome and set-up-like in its attempt at legislation. Further observation on the part of the entire Nation shows us to be strangled in Bureau and department directives, orders, and regulations which are tantamount to law. It is physically impossible for Congress, the source from which all law should emanate, to even intelligently become familiar with the provisions of all orders, regulations and directives issued.

Experience gained as an Agent of the F. B. I. opened to me the strength and the weaknesses of our Security system and Federal Law enforcement. Apathy toward National Security in peace-time is the force which would close the barn door after the horse has fled. Why not find out what other nations are doing before they are ready to do it? An idealistic attitude on the part of this Country in the past has caused untold suffering.

As a former county judge, I believe I have an understanding of local and State Government which should give me insight into the continuous problems arising. Serving as Chairman of the Texas Welfare Association, I naturally became familiar with our welfare program at its inception. C o n-

VETERAN'S HOUSING

In spite of the good intentions of Congress and the FHA, it is quite possible that the veterans' housing program will wind up as a disservice to the very people whom it is designed to help.

For of all, the sponsors of this program seem to view the veterans en masse as something of a race apart. Some seem to prefer a colonial farmhouse of a Victorian tenement. But the housing program, with well-meant generosity, is earmarking practically all purchases and a vast majority of new dwellings for veterans. In doing so, it is also restricting the veterans to this type of building.

The majority of veterans have signified a need for housing. And some 30 per cent of them according to a War Department survey, want housing that rents for no more than $50 a month. In fact, 34 per cent of those questioned said they did not feel able to pay more than $30.

Accordingly, the new legislation concentrates on houses costing $6000 or less. But building costs have risen about 50 per cent since 1940.

Needless to say, there won't be much in the way of houses. They will have no place in the better residential sections of any city.

Yet the new housing legislation, when put into practice, promises to limit most construction to cheap dwellings at inflated prices. And by in effect, restricting most of the veterans whom it is trying to help to these dwellings, it is restricting them to what may be slum sections in a matter of a few years.

The housing program also limits non-veterans pretty largely to their present places of residence. Many of these non-veterans would like to build better houses than are contemplated under the program, and are in a position to do so.

The normal urge to move or build has been drastically inhibited during the last four years. Meanwhile, many families have grown and are straining the reams of their present quarters.

At the same time, the apartment or house where they now live would be quite adequate for a veteran with a wife and one child—or none. For about the same money that the veteran would pay for a newly built place, he would probably get a much better value, under existing rent ceilings.

So why would it not be better and fairer for all concerned to permit a reasonable amount of house construction above the $6000 or even the $10,000 limit, and permit veterans and non-veterans to build or buy such houses?

Such a program would seem to offer a better balance between needs—available space, and sound economy than is offered under the present setup.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NEA)—Congressional irritation over new OPA orders increasing the margins required for gambling in futures on the cotton exchanges has an interesting bit of background which the protesting congressmen have so far failed to take into consideration. The subject isn't of interest to cotton speculators alone, either. The price of cotton clothing is ultimately at stake, and that covers everybody.

The story really begins on Jan. 15, when OPA Administrator Chester Bowles gave warning that if it might be necessary to put a grower's base price ceiling of not less than 24.42 cents a pound on the 1946 cotton crop. This legal notice of intent was given because 1945 cotton prices had gone above parity and cotton was the only major farm product not under ceiling price control.

Cotton prices continued to advance, however, to 26 cents in March and over 28 cents—the highest price in 22 years—the first week in April. To offset this rise, OPA was forced to grant increases in cotton textile prices on March 8 of from 5 to 15 per cent.

AT the same time, Administrator Bowles went into a huddle with the heads of the cotton exchanges to suggest voluntary regulation of trading in cotton futures. Cotton was having a lot of attraction for loose, speculative money.

Bowles simply proposed that the margins be increased to drive the speculative money out of the market and to try to stabilize the price at a lower level, so that he wouldn't have to impose a ceiling. When Sen. Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, heard about the Bowles efforts to get the cotton exchanges to curb speculation, he did an amazing thing. He telegraphed the heads of all exchanges, advising them to disregard OPA and to refuse to increase their margin requirements. With this backing, the exchanges stood pat.

BOWLES—now moved in as Director of Economic Stabilization—felt that he had to act or shut his eyes to the biggest breakdown of the entire stabilization program. On the other hand, if he aroused the enmity of the cotton state congressmen, they might vote against renewal of the OPA legislation now under consideration. It was a big gamble, but Bowles took it.

By directive to OPA and the Department of Agriculture, Bowles ordered the exchanges to increase their margins on cotton futures trading, effective April 9. Spot sales and legitimate purchases by mills for hedging or straddling to average out their prices are exempted. But the uniform margin for speculative purchases will be $10 a bale of cotton at 25 cents a pound, advancing $10 a bale for every one-cent increase in the price of cotton.

PONCE DE LEON never found the Fountain of Youth, but Clarence Buxton discovered a fabulous spot for horses—Columbia, S. C. Ten of Benjamin Black's runners were stricken with Cuban fever while in training at Havana's Oriental Park in the winter of 1927-28. Temperatures skyrocketed to 106.

Trainer Buxton had to get the sick steeds out of there in a hurry, but had no handy haven. There was no room at Hialeah, where they were racing. Buxton was on the desperate side when someone tipped him off to the old Fair Grounds of Columbia. Once there, the effect was amazing.

So impressed was Buxton that he and his brother, Happy, returned the following winter, and fixed the place up. The result was Winter Stables, Inc. Top horses have wintered, recuperated, and been prepped at Columbia. Out of there one spring sent seven to be the leading money winners of the year. Sea-scut, Kayak II, Staghand, and Danabagging among them.

Sun Beau, Economic, Cavalcade, 4th Quest, Discovery, Bold Venture, and many other famous thoroughbreds have galloped on the deep track of sandy loam.

MORE than 200 horses spent the winter in Columbia. From the "sun pouches" of the old Fair Grounds came the phenomenal bobnet Stable string on its collective toes.

Six of the first seven Speck Junne started at Bowie won, including Marine Victory by 10 lengths. Of the Kentucky Derby horses Max Hirsch has seen or has a line on, this is the one he says he King Ranch's Assault, which he handles, has to beat in the Run or the Roses, May 4.

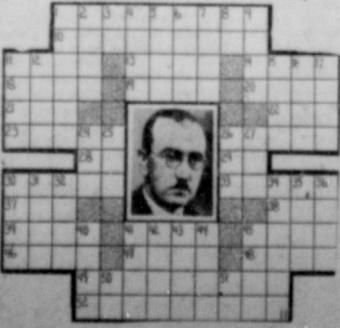

"Horses drink twice as much water in Columbia as they do elsewhere. In Columbia you find the finest water in the world. It's the iodine in it. There is four times as much iodine in the soil of South Carolina as in that of all other states put together." Clarence Buxton went to Columbia 18 winters ago to cure horses of fever, and hot horses are still coming out of there.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By BOYCE HOUSE

The only sea voyage I ever took was to Catalina Island, off the coast from Los Angeles. True, the distance was only 25 miles but the ship's deck developed quite an angle at times and walking wasn't easy.

The craggy island rises high from the sea, presenting a sight familiar to movie goers for it has furnished the background for many a saga of the ocean—shipwrecks, manning of sailors and hunts for pirate treasure; and it has been the locale for many an idyl of a South Sea isle. On the way, you see flying fish.

There are many beautiful homes, including the one that belonged to novelist Zane Grey, ensconced on the precipitous slopes, which are clad in shaggy, green bushes. Then there is a drive over the island, and, from the crest, you look down upon what seems a toy village, and creamy waves, incredibly little, break against a miniature shore.

But none of these constituted the most memorable feature of Catalina Island, which by the way is owned by William Wrigley, the chewing gum magnate, and he spent millions of dollars in the original purchase and in its beautification.

Nor was the most vivid experience the ride in the glass-bottomed boat, though you saw many marvelous ferns and flowers growing in the water—and fish of many kinds glided at your very feet and stared at you with their big eyes, and, as the climax, the diver went overboard and you beheld him far below, on the bed of the sea, and after what seemed a minute, he started back to the surface with a big shell in his hand.

No, the most remarkable thing about the island, and it was literally "about" the island, was the water that lapped its shores, water not blue but actually purple—so rich in hue that it looked as though it had been dyed; but of course that could not be for it stretched far out to meet at last the baby-blue of the arching sky, which was dimpled with clouds. You'd like Catalina Island.

What Can YOU DO To Get More Soap?

YOU CAN DREAM about the oceans of the soap and soap powders you need so badly... and let the fats that help make them dribble down the drain. Some day, sure, you'll get more soap. But when? Not until the country's industrial fat supply has been built up tremendously. Right now, it is at a record low.

Suppose, though, you want soaps to come back to the counter sooner... what can you do?

YOU CAN SAVE your used fats... just as carefully as during the war. There's more meat now... more fat to save... so it's lots easier. You American housewives are already turning in a healthy share of our present industrial fat supply. If you slacken up, naturally there'll be less soap. And less soap means less soaps, less of all peacetime products.

Where there's fat there's soap. KEEP TURNING IN USED FATS TO HELP MAKE MORE SOAP.

Alaskan Vets Buy Boats For Houses

WETCHIKAN, Alaska (UP) — Alaskan vets have their own answer to the housing shortage, which seems just as acute in Alaska as it is in the states.

At a surplus government sale of 14 boats in Ketchikan, all purchases were made by veterans, the majority of whom intended to live in them. The boats were 50 feet in length, and were termed a "good deal" by estimated purchasers, since they estimated the only cost of living on one of the vessels would be three dollars a month for electricity.

LONG BEACH, Cal. (UP) — Three of the world's largest snails, each with a 14-inch stretch, have been installed in the Long Beach zoo.

The gastropods, from West Africa, were brought to Long Beach from New Jersey by Wesley Dickinson, reptile curator.

The snails now have helix shells seven inches long and are only half-grown. Their two upper horns tipped by eyes, can be ejected two inches. Dickinson says the snails like to eat apples and cornmeal mixed with jelly.

Comparative progress has been made, but there must be work and understanding to obtain maximum benefits.

As a former member of the Freight Rate Equality Federation, I became familiar with the inequities existing in rates between the industrial Northeast and the agricultural South - Southwest. The tariff issue is one of the oldest political abuses of this Nation, and the greatest opportunity of our existence is upon us to secure a protected market for our products. Farm born and a farm owner, I think I have experienced those problems common to the average farmer. The farmer and rancher have been heard in Washington; he was saved from ruin by the farm program. He should be heard from now on in matters furthering the program, in protecting his market, and in receiving the benefit of adjusted freight rates.

Three years service in the U. S. Navy in several parts of the world should have given me an understanding of the Veteran and his interest in life.

Dedicated upon the foregoing, I offer the following as the basis of my platform:

1. Reduce the 48 Standing Committees of the House of Representatives to at least half and provide expert and specialized sources of information for regular open hearing in order that legislation may be expeditiously handled and that the public may know what transpires in those committees. Likewise reduce the 33 Standing Committees in the Senate for a like purpose.

2. Provide the strongest internal security measures for counter espionage and protection against sabotage; provide espionage operation and give latitude to the F.B.I. and other intelligence services to determine the actions and policies in foreign countries; provide stringent measures to protect the confidences of this Country against those elements inimical to it.

3. Return to the States their just rights and responsibilities. But in any program, whether it be education, social security, farm or other worthwhile enterprise in which the Federal Government participates with funds, Federal control should not attach, and no obligation upon the State should be imposed.

4. Place full faith and confidence in the UNO. Although it is limited by reason of the veto power it is our greatest hope for world peace.

5. If compulsory military training is enacted into law, determine the feasibility and practicability of administering the program through our senior and junior colleges, with specialized vocational training for those not candidates for regular college courses, in order that the youth's education may not be interrupted and that he may be brought under more favorable moral influences.

6. Remove regulations, orders, and directives from private business as rapidly as possible commensurate with the general welfare.

7. Opposed to the theory and practice of socialization and believe that an offer of Federal control in private business is an offer of a "mensa of pottage" for individual liberty.

8. Subscribe to the principle that no individual or group should be allowed to usurp the power of the majority.

9. Insure equality and uniformity of pensions and other social security benefits and work for a more economical administration.

10. It is not enough to simply understand the Veteran's rights in matters of hospitalization, rehabilitation, education, and disability compensation—it is necessary to understand the Veteran himself. I have that understanding.

11. Equality should be obtained between the industrial Northeast and the agricultural South and Southwest by adjustment of discriminatory freight rates; securing a better protected market for what the farmer and rancher has to sell; parties and subsidies as a temporary measure; further the farm program with expansion of soil conservation, farm to market roads, and improved farm living. I believe in the United States of America. I believe in those principles which have made this Country great and take them as my political rule and guide. Without changing those principles, our time demands more efficient procedure and faster moving operation. A reorganization of our committee system along with placing authority of law where it belongs by abolishing needless bureau is the greatest step toward that accomplishment.

The next years will be crucial. They will require the most careful efforts and judgement on the part of those who represent us in Congress. This definite promise I make you: to give unstintingly of my time, my energies, and my talents to meet every responsibility with courage and determination to exercise my best judgement and to account to you for my actions.
