RANGER DAILY TIMES

VOLUME XXVIII RANGER, TEXAS, SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, 1946 PRICE FIVE CENTS No. 66

Daily subscriber to United Press wire service, bringing the latest world news to readers of the Ranger Daily Times.

Well... I Dunno, But...

A check through old newspaper files reveals that the bickering now going on at the Peace Conference is just a repetition of what happened after World War I. Austria and Germany were being stubborn about the peace treaties and there was wrangling over what would be done with the Balkans. The files also reveal that strikes were rampant and the "Anarchists" not the Communists were trying to take over the government then. One edition had bold headlines about the bombings that were laid to the Anarchists during those days.

But it's too bad that the countries can't get together and personally we'd like to see Russia put in her place. Apparently, Russia is not seeking peace settlements so much as she is trying to run the rest of the world in Soviet fashion. It's so childish the way those ministers get their feelings hurt and then start hurling aspersions.

Russia is now claiming that World War III is just around the corner and if it is, blame for it can be laid right at the door of that country. But, we think Russia is doing a little bullying and if history repeats itself it'll all work out in the end with nothing more serious than scathing words and little hair pulling.

We're sure sorry that we killed off all the ushers and groom's men in Friday's column. But the proof reader, thinking we'd misspelled "death" changed "death" to "death" and thus in print there was "a death" of ushers, etc., instead of "a death."

Miss Pauline Deaton who is now in Tokyo will be employed as a civilian worker in the Imperial Headquarters. She was among the first civilian workers to be flown to Tokyo and made the trip with only the plane crew and bodyguard.

While enroute she wrote a letter to her parents and had the pilot of the plane mail it before she landed in Tokyo. When the letter was received by her parents, she was in Tokyo. She stated that she might see her parents at Christmas time.

Prizes which will be awarded in the Ranger Country Club's annual invitation golf tournament, now in progress at the country club, are on display in the Main Street window at Vaughn's Home and Auto Supply store.

And a grand selection of prizes it is, too. No wonder, some of the top notch golfers turned down other tournaments to make the Ranger event.

City officials together with the Chamber of Commerce and committees are working to secure information on how many veterans want to build or rent a house under the plan explained in this edition of the Times.

This can mean a great deal to Ranger in meeting the housing situation as well as adding new and attractive homes to the town. It is a splendid opportunity for those who want to build homes and do it at a greatly reduced cost.

Officials are appealing to the veterans to please answer the questionnaires being sent them in order that the committees will know just what the demands will be. This the starting point with them and if the veterans do not cooperate by furnishing the information, there is nothing the committees can do.

If you want to build that new home you've been dreaming of now is your opportunity to get busy. Fill in and return the blank sent you to the Chamber of Commerce, calling the attention of the Mayor's Emergency Housing Committee.

Nothing is so irritating as to have to wait for someone to keep an appointment. It is not only irritating but discourteous. The fellow that needlessly makes another wait, is forgetting that it is one waiting might be as busy as he and his time just as valuable.

Of course, there are exceptions when the delay cannot be avoided. But there are people that make a habit of being late to all appointments.

No, we didn't have any particular one in mind, though we did have to wait an hour and a half on some people last week.

MISS DEATON IN TOKYO AS CIVILIAN WORKER

Editor's Note: The following story about her daughter, Pauline Deaton, has been received by Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Deaton. The story appeared in a Shreveport paper after Miss Deaton had left for Tokyo. She landed in Tokyo Friday, August 23. One of the first civilian employees in the nation to be flown to Tokyo for the work in Allied headquarters, Pauline Deaton, Barkdale Field, left Shreveport last night for Fairfield, Calif. where she will board military aircraft for immediate transportation to the Japanese capital.

Why she received the high priority is a mystery even to Miss Deaton, and workers at the Barkdale civilian personnel office said it was the first time anyone in this district has received such a rating.

Solution to the mystery may lie in her past three years in civil service employment and her bashful admission that she made highest grade in the examination for overseas work that has ever been made by would-be employees of this district.

While she was employed at Air Training Command, Ft. Worth, Texas, Miss Deaton did secretarial work for four members of the British royal family who were in Ft. Worth in connection with the Royal Air Force. As representatives of the royal family, the "Sirs and Dukes," as Miss Deaton says she always addressed them, were civilians. There were only ten such representatives in the U. S., and the Tokyo bound worker admits that she felt honored to work for them.

For nearly a year she worked for the royal representatives, opening documents signed by the king's seal and doing other confidential work. When the British left Texas in May, 1945, they asked

FORMER RESIDENT RECALLED TO ACTIVE NAVAL DUTIES

Editor's Note: Lt. Cdr. Luther E. Harrison, subject of the following story is a former Ranger resident and is the nephew of Mrs. C. E. May and Miss Beulah Harrison of Ranger.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 31. — Lt. Cdr. Luther E. Harrison, USNR, 719 Brooklyn Ave., Dallas, has been recalled to active duty at Assistant Director of Naval Reserve for the Dallas area, Capt. Arthur A. Ageston, USN, director of Naval Reserve for the tight state Eighth Naval District, announced today.

Lt. Cdr. Harrison will direct administration, recruiting and procurement of a naval armory for the Naval Reserve program in Dallas, Capt. Ageston said. Now undergoing an indoctrination course in district headquarters here, he will assume his duties Sept. 1 with offices in the Naval Recruiting station in the Federal building, Dallas.

"I will want to contact any former Naval officers and men who are interested in the Dallas organized and Volunteer reserve pro-ed Miss Deaton to go to England with them and continue in their employ. But overseas duty did not appeal to her then.

Miss Deaton came to Shreveport in February when Air Training Command was moved here from Ft. Worth.

As do the other War Department civilian employees who have left Shreveport for Tokyo, she expects to live in the Tokyo hotel which has been requisitioned for civilian workers.

Miss Deaton's contract calls for a nine-month stay in Tokyo, with a renewal option, but she's willing to see how she likes overseas work before she gives any definite answers concerning a longer tenure.

Suggests Strong Military Force In Pacific Areas

TOKYO (UP) — House military affairs committee members recommended today a strong and modern military force in the Pacific and Alaskan areas which would be adequate to handle any Russian provocation.

The committee, which has been inspecting Pacific bases, expressed its views after a three hour closed session with the officers of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's staff at a luncheon with MacArthur.

VET HOUSING SURVEY BEING MADE HERE

Under the direction of Mayor J. J. Kelly a veterans housing survey is being made in Ranger and appearing in this edition of the Times is a questionnaire which veterans are asked to fill and return to the Ranger Chamber of Commerce.

Under an existing plan veterans will be given priority on materials being salvaged from the war for the purpose of building homes and the committees in charge of promoting the project are seeking information on which to lay their plan.

In speaking of the move Saturday, Mayor Kelly stated that the priority is available for veterans that have moved into Ranger and were not from Ranger when in service. Letters have been mailed to all veterans who registered from Ranger and they are asked to return the filled in information blank to the Chamber of Commerce office.

Applications for the priorities can be secured at the Chamber of Commerce.

Mayor Kelly said that at this time it appears that there will be material of various types, such as 2x4, 2x6, 2x8, etc., shiplap, sheetrock, soil pipe, plumbing fixtures, etc. available in quantity sufficient to meet the needs of veterans of Ranger.

The committee desires to know the kind and quantity of those materials needed by veterans of Ranger.

These materials to be obtained from Camp Barkley will be priced at approximately fifty percent of new lumber ceiling prices.

If interested in obtaining some of these materials for repair or construction of a home, please answer the questions listed in this paper. If interested in these materials reply at once. A prompt reply will expedite this project.

OPA REFUSES TO ALLOW ANY RENT INCREASE

WASHINGTON (UP) — Price Administrator Paul A. Porter handed out the news today that no general increase in rents are in prospect, either now or in the near future.

Revealing the decision to hold weekly radio broadcast, Porter said landlords are making more money now than they did during the prewar years 1939-40.

Recognizing that costs of materials and labor for home repairs have risen, Porter said that actual landlords total repair costs have gone down because they don't do the redecorating and repairing they once found necessary.

The price chief said the stability of rents would aid in the battle against inflation in which he said "we are gaining ground."

Referring to civilian Production Administrator John Small's recent report, Porter declared that "full production, with full pipelines once again, is the best guarantee against inflation that I know of."

Meanwhile Secretary of Agriculture Clinton F. Anderson promised to tell housewives later today what foods will be kept on or taken off the price control list in September.

Stores Closed By High Price Demonstrations

RIO DE JANEIRO (UP) — Demonstrations against high prices forced virtually all stores and shops in Rio De Janeiro to close today, and scores of persons were reported injured.

MANAGER RESIGNS

ST. LOUIS (UP) — Luke Sewell, manager of the seventh place St. Louis Browns, has resigned "for the good of the club," Richard C. Muckerman, president announced today.

Zack Taylor, veteran Browns coach, will take over the reins as manager for the rest of the season.

FIRST TRIP TO CAPITAL SINCE BEGINNING OF CONFERENCE

PARIS (UP) — Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov slipped secretly away from Paris by plane for Moscow today, presumably to confer with Premier Stalin on the bogged down Peace Conference.

The trip was Molotov's first to Moscow since the peace conference began five weeks ago. No advance notice was given of his intention. But when asked about a rumor of his departure, a Soviet embassy spokesman confirmed it without hesitation.

MOSCOW (UP) — The government newspaper Izvestia said today that U. S. experts were building roads, bridges and communication facilities through Afghanistan as part of the American policy to bring Russia with strategic military bases.

The spokesman, however, declined to give any information on the reasons for the trip, the probable length of Molotov's absence from Paris, or even whether he planned to return at all.

Conference observers assumed that Stalin had summoned Molotov to Moscow for a personal report. The trip came when the conference was tied up in angry recriminations between the Soviets and western powers, and when feeling between the two blocs was stronger probably than at any time since the war.

In the conference itself, the Italian political commission adopted the second article of the Italian treaty draft delineating the proposed Italian-French frontier. The action brought the conference up to one of its toughest problems—the frontier of Italy and Yugoslavia, involving the Trieste issue.

Farley Visits Hull; Uneasy About Conditions

WASHINGTON (UP) — Former Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley today called on former Secretary of State Cordell Hull and afterward said he would feel a lot happier about the state of the nation and the world if "Mr. Hull occupied a position of prominence in the government."

Farley said he was not at liberty to disclose the nature of his conversation with Hull but that he would have something to say "about things" in the near future.

IT'S THE LITTLE THINGS

Some psychiatrists say that we Americans are suffering from a mass neurosis. Radio announcers advise assorted nostrums for that tired, nervous feeling.

Obviously, where there is so much diagnostic smoke there must be some pathological fire. We seem on the way to becoming a sick, nervous nation, if we aren't there already.

We are well aware of such things as severe shortage in the midst of bumper production. We understand the jumpy feeling that comes from having a peace conference beat the same old diplomatic bushes while the problem of controlling atomic energy sits unnoticed in the anteroom.

All these add up to a state of confusion and contradictions. But there are other little, inexplicable contradictions and confusions that clutter up our daily lives without our being fully conscious of them.

What little things? Well, here are some examples gleaned from one day's news:

The United States Navy sold two destroyer escorts to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for $1, or considerably less than the price of two dozen eggs.

Americans spent $1,200,000,000 last year on jewels and other baubles. Almost half the families in the United States have an aggregate annual income of less than $2000

New automobiles are scarce as pearls in oysters. New tires aren't much more plentiful. Old automobiles and tires are wearing out. Getting train or plane reservations is a major achievement.

Flushing, N. Y., site of the New York World's Fair, is planning a $50,000,000 shopping center with streets cooled in summer and warmed in winter, and with moving platforms instead of sidewalks, to save customers the burden of walking.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY PETER EDSON NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NEA)—This is old-home week for OPA lobbyists in Washington. The new price control board—and be sure you don't make the mistake of calling it the price control board—is holding its first public hearings.

The first problem is to decide whether to put price controls back on grains, livestock, milk, cottonseed and soybeans come Aug. 21. They have to think fast.

All the old and familiar outfits are here. The American Farm Bureau, the millers, the feed manufacturers, the corn milling industry, the biscuit and cracker industry, the livestock association, the American Meat Institute, the National Restaurant Association, the Association of Retail Grocers, the lamb industry, Advisory Committee of the National Wool Growers Association. And 60 others.

They sit at a great long table in the Senate Office Building majority caucus room and a fine, prosperous-looking bunch they are, too. At another long table sits the decontrol board, tall Chairman Roy

ONE by one the witnesses come forward. They have pretty much the same story. They don't like price controls. They never did. They don't like 'em any better now that they've had a month of business as usual with the controls off. They throw endless statistics of billions of bushels and millions of tons, all to prove controls should not be put back of these commodities. That's one side of the picture and it gets about three-fourths of the time in each of the four day-long sessions.

The other side is represented by the consumer lobbyists, the A. F. of L., C. I. O., railway brotherhoods, Labor Policy Committee, the Amvets, the university women, the Women's Trade Union League, the American Home Economics Association, the Buyers' Strike Committee, etc.

Having had a six-weeks taste of rising prices on bread, meat, poultry and dairy products with the ceilings off, they want the controls put back on. Who wins and who loses?

WHEN all the testimony is in, the board will have four days in which to make up its mind whether the controls stay off.

In the meantime, OPA, which has now become known as Office of Price Advances, goes merrily on its way lifting price ceilings here, taking them off altogether there, modifying mark-ups all over the place. Chief Price Advancer Paul Porter goes on the air weekly.

Porter does his best to justify the new law but admits "I think we must face the fact that some increase in the cost of living is unavoidable."

This wins the prize as the greatest under-statement of the year. It's not only unavoidable, it's here. When Bureau of Labor Statistics reports a 12 per cent increase in the cost of food and a five per cent increase in the whole cost of living, all in one month, there you have a good start towards inflation.

Northern Arizona's Grand Canyon is 217 miles long and from four to 14 miles wide. Production of chicks in North Dakota last May was estimated at 2,000,000—about 13 per cent greater than in May, 1945.

Californian Challenges Paris Fashion Sway

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—When San Francisco's opera season opens Sept. 17 there's at least one California clothing designer set to square off against French dominance of her field.

She is Eleanor Green of San Francisco, and she's against "the ridiculous belief that high fashion is a heritage of French designers."

To prove her point, Miss Green has whipped up a set of originals "such a masterpiece of California design planned and executed for San Francisco's first-nighters by a San Francisco designer."

"American design has come of age and can openly compete with the best Paris can offer," Miss Green says. "The fact that American women are the best-dressed women in the world is no accident."

Boxers of ancient Greece probably fought windmill fashion rather than hitting out straight from the shoulder, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica. Jokes of the time referred to broken ears, not noses, and earguards were worn. The rules of boxing, however, did not greatly differ from those of the modern ring.

LABOR DAY MESSAGES

By WILLIAM GREEN

President of the American Federation of Labor

History will record 1946 as the year of transition. It is up to us to make 1947 the year of fulfillment.

On this Labor Day let us forget for the moment the details and difficulties we have encountered on the rocky road to peace and prosperity and chart the progress we have achieved.

Within a year after the fighting ended, America has almost completed the heavy and dispiriting task of reconversion. The way forward should be easier and more rapid from now on. The big reward ahead is full production and full employment, the two essentials to a sound and prosperous economy.

The troubles of the rest of the world are still too much with us, but we cannot escape them nor dodge our responsibility for contributing to their solution.

This year the American people gave generously in time of scarcity, to save the people of Europe and Asia from starvation. Hundreds of thousands of American boys are still stationed abroad to keep the peace so dearly won. It is part of our job to help the weaker nations to get back on their feet, and we will not count the price too high if by these efforts we serve the cause of lasting world peace.

Above all, we recognize the truth that war is the greatest enemy of mankind and that without enduring peace the strivings of labor to raise the standard of life and work of the nation's wage earners can be of no avail.

During the early part of this year, the members of the American Federation of Labor won substantial increases in wage rates to compensate them for the loss of overtime pay which they enjoyed during the war production drive. However, the soaring cost of living has, to a large extent, cancelled these gains unless prices can be pushed back to their normal levels. This can only be accomplished by greatly expanded production to end existing shortages. It is, therefore, to the interest of all American workers to boost production by every means possible.

Fortunately, the mass unemployment which loomed threateningly after V-J Day failed to materialize. Despite the return of millions of members of the armed forces to civilian life, jobs are plentiful. As production hits high gear, the gateways to more and better employment opportunities will increase. Unless the tide of inflation breaks bounds and engulfs our economy, the danger of a postwar depression will be avoided.

On the legislative front, labor has attained little progress during the year. We had hoped for broadening of our social security system and for the inauguration of national health insurance, but Congress failed us. We strove for the enactment of a long-range housing program which would permit the construction of millions of badly needed new homes during the next ten years, but Congress fell down on the job. On the other hand, labor was forced to defend itself against a series of hostile moves by Congress which would have undermined the freedom of American workers and handicapped the trade union movement. Fortunately, the worst of these measures were defeated or vetoed.

In the year ahead, organized labor must concentrate greater effort to win public opinion to its side. The trade union movement enjoys the confidence of the nation's workers to a degree never before attained. This is evidenced by increasing memberships and the results of collective bargaining elections. The memberships of the American Federation of Labor now stands as an all time high of more than seven million.

We believe that when the public generally understands the high goals sought by labor and the valuable services rendered to the nation by the trade union movement, it will reject the flood of anti-labor propaganda which reactionary forces have poured out against us.

By PHILIP MURRAY

President, Congress of Industrial Organizations

On the second Labor Day since the ending of war hostilities, American labor recognizes the meager progress made toward the attainment of our nation's postwar goals. The American people, in recognition of this fact, must prepare to secure that lasting peace and international co-operation envisaged by our war President, Franklin D. Roosevelt, and buttress their efforts to secure, through progressive social legislation, an expanding economy that will attain the goals which the people have been constantly endeavoring to achieve.

Labor, through the World Federation of Trade Unions, must exercise its influence against aggressive imperialism in foreign affairs wherever it is found to be practiced by any country.

Labor has noted the derelictions of Congress in failing to measure up to its responsibilities, and the favors which it has extended profuse at the expense of the common people. The take-home pay of American workers was drastically cut following the conclusion of hostilities. The CIO took the lead in the fight to obtain American living standards and the mass purchasing power necessary for a stabilized and expanding economy. But since that time profiteers have destroyed the balance sought by the CIO between wages and prices by securing unjustified price increases to swell already spectacular earnings.

Congress loaned its support to the profiteers by almost completely wrecking the price control act. The resulting inflation has cut equally into the real wages of the American workers and into the savings and purchasing power of all sections of our people. It threatens still worse disaster to our national welfare.

It is also true that the reactionary majority of Congress has defeated or sidetracked nearly all progressive social measures urgently needed for the welfare and prosperity of the American people. It has failed to pass legislation for housing, health, a permanent FEPC, an adequate minimum wage, expanded social security, and a real full employment program, and it has allowed the poll tax to continue to mock our democracy by denying the right to vote to ten million American citizens. On this Labor Day the labor movement must resolve to rise to its full responsibilities, taking the lead to bring our country back to the true path of progress.

The CIO, for its part, has engaged in a great organizing campaign to bring the benefits of unionism to unorganized workers in the south and other parts of the country.

It will use its rapidly growing strength to combat inflation by mobilizing consumers to resist higher prices; by demanding the vigorous enforcement of remaining controls, and by calling our government, industry and labor to plan joint measures to meet the growing need of the people.

The Political Action Committee of the CIO will also mobilize the efforts of its members and seek the cooperation of all forward-looking Americans, to educate the public on the vital issues of the day and the voting records of their representatives, to encourage all eligible voters to go to the polls and vote; and to secure the election of members of Congress who will enact progressive legislation to meet the people's needs.

The CIO will intensify its efforts to secure a voice for labor in the councils of the United Nations, and to promote ever closer friendship, understanding and cooperation between the peoples of all nations.

It's a Florint

When the pengo, Hungarian monetary unit, became so inflated that even the smallest business transactions involved billions of them, Hungarian financial authorities threw up their hands—and threw out the pengo. They substituted a new coin, the florint, pictured above, backed by "gold and labor."

DEVIL'S LAUGHTER

By Alice M. Laverick Copyright, 1946, NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STUDY: They brought Miss Charlotte into the hospital after the Rev. Linnocentius and suffering from shock, she looked just as beautiful as she had that essential summer 16 years before. . . 17-year-old Corbin Hart, was never to forget that summer nor the Fitzgeralds. There was old Honora, who put up such a gallant fight against death; Mark Fitzgerald, the dignified professor to whom Charlotte was engaged; and Colin, drinking alcoholic colic who had just returned from adventuring about the world. . . If all started when Cousin Ellen, the Fitzgeralds' housekeeper, asked permission to let me come to hospital to help her out. . .

CHAPTER II

"SHELL only have to carry the trays and help with the dishes and the like," Ellen told my mother. "It won't be hard. And we can't get a girl for love or money to go way out there to live."

"I'm sure my mother was about to refuse, though in her own way she was fond of Cousin Ellen. But just as the refusal was trembling on her lips, my father started us all by delivering an ultimatum. A man of few words, my father, but once in a while he spoke his mind. This was one of those times. He took his pipe out of his mouth and said no child of his had to work out—especially on the likes of the Fitzgeralds."

It was enough. Instantly, my mother changed her stand and became a champion of the rival side. I was a great pity, she said indignantly, if her own child could not help out her own cousin—her own flesh and blood—in an emergency. Naturally, no one asked me what I wanted. I was to do as I was told.

It ended with my meekly packing my bag and starting off with "Cousin Ellen, while my mother glared at my father and he smoked his pipe furiously and stared into space."

All of which gave my father a splendid opportunity, later, to say, "What did I tell you?" An opportunity which, needless to say, he did not ignore.

So for the first time I was driven up the long drive between the garage and the house to the Innisfail, home of Fitzgeralds.

The stage was set and the lights were ready to go up on the Play. . . .

THERE were other leading actors in the cast besides the Fitzgeralds and Charlotte Brent. There was Father Burke, Father Gene, as they all called him, head of Barrington Academy. Father Gene called regularly on Mrs. Fitzgerald, that amazing old lady who hung onto the thread of life long after the doctors had given her up.

Father Gene also provided the best of the musical background for the piece, and afterwards I saw him oftenest in my mind seated at the grand piano, and heard once more the glorious sound of his Ave Maria, though in another mood he was equally enchanting with "I'll Take You Home Again, Kathleen."

Illustrated by Walt Scott

I only knew that the still figure of Miss Charlotte lying with her eyes closed there in the hospital bed cast something of the old spell over me.

Then, again, he might be sitting across from Mark, staring at the chessmen on the board between them. I remember, too, the affection in his eyes when he looked at Mark. And something that seemed amazingly like pity when his glances fell on Colin, though I thought then I must be mistaken in this. For why should anyone look with pity at Colin Fitzgerald?

There were the shadowy figures of nurses who came and went, taking care of Honora Fitzgerald, a small army of them, because no one could stand her for any length of time, and she could not stand any of them for any length of time.

And then, of course, there was Beatrice Harrington Third. Who, in Heaven's name, would expect Beatrice, with her clear gray eyes, her nice, well-bred voice, her general air of outdoor wholesomeness, to provide the third act curtain for the Play?

You knew to look at Beatrice that she was fond of dogs and horses and that she had gone to the very best schools and had made her debut in the most proper manner. She had, also, half a million dollars, a lovely even disposition and a huge emerald ring from Colin Fitzgerald.

WELL, that comprised the members of the cast, all of whom I remembered with gratitude because in their various ways they were kind to a homesick little girl who was the lone audience at the drama that was enacted that summer against the backdrop of Innisfail. A drama that is in a "state of war," since President Truman has not yet declared the emergency at an end.

It is in his power to do so at any time that he believes that certain emergency measures have served their usefulness.

By having the title regularly abstracted, the abstractor in most cases can build a strong and perfect chain. Opportunities Offered Young Men In The Army

The Regular Army offers young men today unprecedented opportunities for education and technical training while serving an enlistment of 18 months, 2 years or 3 years.

There are over 420 specialties available all of which require considerable training at technical schools located all over the country. Some of these courses, such as automotive mechanics, airplane mechanics, sheetmetal work, welding, radio repair and installation, and photography can qualify a veteran for civilian occupations. Others afford an opportunity for training in the higher sciences of radar, jet-propulsion and atomic energy.

Then, if enlistment is accomplished before October 5, 1946, the G. I. Bill of Rights will enable any veteran to attend the college of his choice with tuition paid and a substantial monthly allowance for expenses.

Certainly, no country can offer a more attractive proposition to its young men than this opportunity to learn while serving and a continuation of education after separation.

The provisions for enabling discharged men to enlist with a grade commensurate with their training still exists and this is an excellent chance for veterans to re-enter the service and resume their careers.

The new pay scale recently put into effect makes the Army pay, with its other allowances and services, more than the average civilian job.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICE

"Christ Jesus" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, September 1. The Golden Text is: "The Father judgeth no man, but hath committed all judgment unto the Son: that all men should honour the Son, even as they honour the Father" (John 5:22,23).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And we have seen and do testify that the Father sent the Son to be the Saviour of the world" (1 John 4:14). The Lesson - Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "If we wish to follow Christ, Truth, it must be in the way of God's appointing Jesus said, 'He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also' (page 326).

The Proper Use of Property

Scripture: Exodus 20:15; Proverbs 30:7-9; Matthew 6:25-33

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

NO issue is more vital today than that concerning the proper use of property. It underlies many disputes and contentions between individuals, it is at the bottom of most phases of the conflict between capital and labor, and it has been one of the major causes of war between nations.

The prospect for both industrial peace and international peace depends, in the final analysis, upon the apprehension of the right use of property.

We are a long way from that apprehension at present, though we have made more progress toward it than the world's current strifes would seem to indicate. Within the memory of many of us now living, there has come about a great challenge, if not a great change.

NOT so long ago, the dominant feeling about property was "It's mine, and I shall do what I please with it." That feeling no longer prevails. Apart from any consideration of the rising tax-rate, the acquisition and use of wealth are subject to social challenge as never before.

Peoples and nations still grab for possessions, but the imperialism which was once a matter of pride without regard to its in-ent right must now justify itself before the world.

We have still a long way to go, however. The commandment "Thou shalt not steal" must become socialized, and stealing must be defined in relation to basic honesty and justice.

BUT the teaching of Jesus concerning the right use of property goes beyond fundamental honesty. It relates one's possessions to character, ideal and the attainment of the highest and best in life.

There is a progression in the three passages associated with today's lesson. Exodus 20:15 is on the basic plane; one must not take what doesn't belong to him. In Proverbs 30:7-9 one discovers that the selfish use of possessions is self-injuring, and that there is a corrupting danger in possessing more wealth than one needs.

But the Master's words in Matthew 6:25-33 go beyond this, pointing to the higher and better riches of the Kingdom of God, viewing all possessions in relation to the highest possession of all.

The world is indeed a long way from the true Christian concept of property's value and proper use. But many individuals have discovered that in that concept is the true secret of happiness and satisfaction.

Oh me, we were hoping that the hot weather was over but Saturday turned up bright and clear with rising temperatures and it did right well with an 83 maximum at 1:30. But at least, it's better than 105.

Heavy clouds hanging around by mid-morning held promise of more rain, or maybe the golfers would prefer to use the word "threat" instead of "promise."

Jap Surrender Signed Year Ago On Mighty Mo In Tokyo Bay

Editor's Note: William B. Dickinson, former Southwest Pacific manager of United Press, was with Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters from Australia to Tokyo. Now stationed in U.P.'s New York office, Dickinson recalls in a following dispatch the formal surrender of the Japanese aboard the battleship U.S.S. Missouri in Tokyo Bay one year ago tomorrow. U.P.A., N.Y.

By William B. Dickinson
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, Aug. 31 (UP) — The distant thunder sounded in the east just as the little yellow man in the worn frock coat and the moth-eaten top hat reached the ladder which led down to a gray steel side of the "mighty Mo."

Mamoru Shigemitsu, foreign minister of beaten Japan, paused there at the top of the ladder, balancing himself with his black cane.

He turned his face to look at the sky to the east, above the capital of the once-proud Nipponese Empire, where the sun was breaking through scattered clouds. As he gazed, the thunder grew.

It was exactly 9:30 a.m. Tokyo time on Sept. 2, 1945. (Sept. 1 in the United States.)

Only 30 minutes before, Shigemitsu had come up that ladder and on to the decks of the great American battleship Missouri, anchored in Tokyo Bay, symbolizing by its very presence there the end perhaps for all time of his nation's dreams of empire in the Far East.

He had limped across the promenade deck to stand, awkwardly yet not without dignity, and face the men who had sent Japan down to defeat. Her fleet was scattered, her air force decimated, her war industries and thousands upon thousands of her homes bombed to rubble, her army scattered in trackless jungles or bottled up in the home islands. The atom bomb had fallen.

There was proud, implacable

MacArthur, white-haired Nimitz, strong-jawed Halsey, tough little George Kenney, and lean Carl Spaatz. There, too, were representatives of the Chinese, who had fought Japan for eight long years; of Russia, which had come in late to stage a triumphant sweep through Manchuria; of Great Britain and Canada and Australia and New Zealand and France.

At 9:08 a.m. Shigemitsu heard MacArthur say, his voice quavering a little with the import of his words:

"The Japanese delegates now will sign the instrument of surrender."

The little man walked down almost even those long 20 steps to the table where MacArthur stood, the surrender documents unread on the green felt before him.

He made no word as he lowered himself painfully into the chair before the table, his leg sticking out grotesquely before him, picked up one of the new pens and signed his name to both copies of the document in which his nation admitted total defeat, and accepted unconditional surrender.

He rose and stood beside the table as ugly little Gen. Yoshijiro Ema signed after him for the Japanese Imperial general staff.

Then he limped back to his place, and watched through lowered lids as the ceremony of surrender—sudden and inexplicably relieved at its tenness—by the Japanese signing—continued on a note of almost jubilation.

MacArthur signed first for all the Allied nations, using five pens to inscribe his bold signature—the last of them a little red fountain pen belonging to the Tennessee belle whom he had made his wife.

Then came Nimitz and the rest, one from each country, to write their names.

It was 9:30. Only 30 minutes he had stood on the decks of the Missouri, and already it was time for Shigemitsu to leave the ship to return to the small boat that had brought him, and go back to share defeat with his people.

So he limped toward the ladder, and as he reached it he heard that thunder in the east. It grew to a tremendous roar, and then he saw the first wave of American B-29's with Navy fighters above the clouds and rush toward the ship.

They came in waves—a hundred of the mighty bombers, and hundreds of gull-winged Navy pursuers. Their thunder vibrated in the steel decks of the "mighty

Well...
I Dunno,
But...

Chief George Murphy was very pleased to receive from Carlton Harrison, vice-president of Duke & Ayres, Inc., a letter of thanks for the assistance the police force gave them while unloading merchandise and fixtures for the new store here.

Following is the letter:
Mr. George A. Murphy,
Chief of Police,
Ranger, Texas.
Dear Mr. Murphy:

I desire to express to you, and to your entire police force, my sincere thanks and appreciation for the fine manner in which you assisted us in getting our merchandise and fixtures unloaded, and our new store open for business in your fine town of Ranger.

I have never been associated with a higher type of peace officer in any town. I am sure the good people of Ranger must feel a sense of pride in their police force.

You may be interested to know that the opening of our new store in Ranger Saturday was a great success and that we are happy indeed to be associated with the good people of Ranger.

With kindest personal regards,
Yours very truly,
DUKE & AYERS, INC.

In a hurried visit with Olga McCoy Newkirk, a former Ranger resident and teacher at Olden, we learned that she and her husband were enroute to Honolulu to make their home. Olga may teach school there she said, but wasn't sure.

Construction of a double tennis court at the Willows park is now underway and will be a fine thing for the tennis lovers of Ranger. The courts are being built by the city and will be for public use.

Pvt. Wesley Walker while enroute home from Honolulu by air found friends all along the way who made his trip more pleasant. In Honolulu he was met at the ship by Mrs. Gertrude Green and Mrs. Joe Stanton, distant relatives who squirmed him around until noon when Lt. Col. and Mrs. J. E. Fletcher took him in tow for a round of the interesting places. He was taken to Pearl Harbor by the Fletchers, shown where the Japs attacked. He was allowed to board a submarine for an underwater trip, saw Waikiki beach and to Diamond Head.

He made the 4,500 mile trip by air in 36 hours and has been granted a furlough until the 4th of October.

Beauford Jester, Democratic nominee for Governor, says that three, five and seven are his lucky numbers. They were the numbers of his infantry regiment, the 357th of the 90th Division in World War One.

If there is anything lucky numbers Jester will go into the Governor's office under most auspicious ones.

His inauguration will be on the THIRD Tuesday in the FIFTH month after his Aug. 24 victory at the polls and it will be in the year 1948SEVEN.

Corsica, home of the next Governor of Texas was named for the Island of Corsica.

The way Corsica came to be remembered in the naming of a Texas town in 1848 is that the citizens of Navarro County decided to name their county seat in honor of the island which was the parent place for Jose Antonio Navarro, signer of the Texas Declaration of Independence. The county had been named in Navarro's honor.

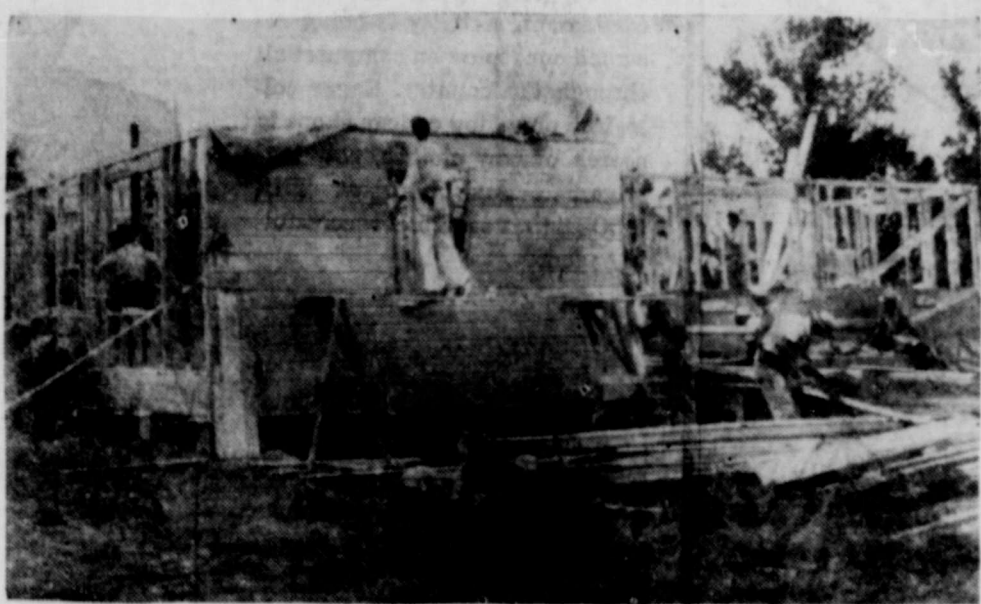

Chemists To Try World Co-Operation

CHICAGO (UP) — More than 200 exhibitors will show scientists at the semi-annual convention of the American Chemical Society, Sept. 10 to 14, the latest in industrial applications of their research.

Exhibits will range from improvement in textile processes to the atomic bomb, said Dr. H. Robinson, chairman of the show committee.

Sir Ramaaswami Mudaliar, president of United Nations Economic and Social Council, has been invited to speak at a round table discussion of international co-operation in science, Robinson said.

Build House In Three Days For Blind Vet

When blind war veteran Jim Sanders was threatened with eviction and told to eat in the back room of a restaurant in Houston, Texas, outraged Houstonians rallied to his side. In addition to a pool of $4,000, scarce materials and the services of union craftsmen were donated in order to build a home for Sanders in record time. The partly constructed house, being painted as it is built, is shown above, four hours after construction began. It is expected to be finished in three days. (NEA Telephoto).

INJURIES TO S. C. MAHONEY ARE FATAL

S. C. (Dad) Mahoney died in the Ranger General Hospital about noon today as the result of injuries sustained in an accident at the J. E. Matthews pipe yard about 11:00 o'clock.

Mahoney was rushed to the hospital by a Killingsworth ambulance and died about an hour after the accident.

The body is at the Morris Funeral Home while arrangements are pending the arrival of relatives.

According to reports of the accident, Mahoney was assisting in unloading a truck load of pipe when the pipe started rolling and as the pipe rolled off the truck it struck him in the head.

The deceased had been in the hauling business for about 20 years and had been employed at times by the J. E. Matthews company.

Predicted Clash In Line With Country's Policy

WASHINGTON (UP) — The State Department said today that Gen. Douglas MacArthur's warning of a possible clash between opposite political philosophies in Japan was not contrary to this nation's established policy in the far east.

ILO TO CONSIDER LABOR STANDARD OF MINORITIES

MONTREAL (UP) — Rights of labor in non-self-governing territories will be among the subjects to be considered by the International Labor Organization at its conference here beginning Sept. 19.

The conference will be asked to give preliminary consideration to three draft international labor conventions of treaties governing such areas.

The session is expected to bring together more than 400 government, management and labor delegates from the ILO's member countries. It will last about three weeks.

The question of labor standards in dependent areas is one of six on the conference's agenda. The delegates also will consider (a) the adoption of international regulations for the protection of children and young workers, (b) amendments to the ILO's constitution (c) reports on the application of the ILO conventions which are current in force, (d) the organization's 1947 budget, and (e) a report by Edward J. Thelan, acting director of the International Labor Office.

An ILO headquarters report sets out the problems involved in drafting international regulations governing labor standards in dependent areas. Designed for the information of governments, it is accompanied by a questionnaire

Gholson Coffee Shop Leased By George Boltions

Mr. and Mrs. George Bolton, veteran cafe operators have assumed the operation of the Gholson Coffee Shop and have announced that they will specialize in fried chicken and good steaks.

The two are experienced in cafe operation, having owned and operated Higdon's Cafe for a short while and also having operated the Offield Truck Stop and are known for the excellent food that they serve.

They also stated that good coffee will be one of their specialties and that the best brand of coffee available will be used.

They assumed management Monday and closed the shop for the day while a thorough cleaning of the building and equipment was made.

Some new equipment will be added and the new owners have invited the public to try their food.

Petrillo May Order Nationwide Musicians Strike

NEW YORK (UP) — James C. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of American Musicians, A.F.M., threatened today to order 50 name bands playing in chain hotels across the nation out on strike to force New York hotels to enforce the wage demands of striking local musicians.

More than 6,500 brides of American servicemen have left Australia to make their homes in the United States, taking with them nearly 3,000 children.

which seeks the views of governments on points which might be covered in the regulations.

When the replies to the questionnaire have been received, a second report will be prepared for the information of the conference. On the basis of the two reports, the conference will decide whether it should consider the adoption of one or more conventions. If it agrees to do so, the subject will be placed on the agenda of the 1947 conference for final disposition.

The report suggests the consideration by governments of a general convention on social policy in non-self-governing territories. It proposes that such a convention emphasize the social objective in economic planning, the improvement of the living standards of primary producers, the prevention of discriminatory practices, the development of education, the improvement of the status of women, the development of the right of association, labor inspection and the training of industrial workers.

In addition, the report proposes the adoption of a convention extending to non-self-governing territories the provisions of general international labor conventions, such as those for the protection of women and children. It also suggests a third convention which would limit the length of contract which primitive peoples are required to accept for admission to employment.

SAYS FIGHTING BREAKS OUT AMONG GREEKS

ATHENS (UP) — The Royalist press at Athens today burst out with a rash of reports alleging new fighting between government troops and so-called Communists not far from the Albanian frontier but there was no confirmation of the outbreaks in any reliable quarter.

The fighting was an aftermath of the Sunday plebiscite which returned King George II to the throne.

The royalist newspapers, Daily and Forward, charged that 400 men, identified as Communists, attacked the town of Cantilli, near Kastoria, and fought a four-hour battle with government troops.

The Royalist reports said that 16 soldiers were killed and two wounded. Nine were said to have deserted to the opposition.

Largest Opal In World Comes To Tex. With Owner

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP) — "The Shamrock Opal," reputed to be the largest emerald green opal in existence, came to Texas recently when its owner, Captain Edward J. Hawkins, Newark, Ohio, was transferred to Bergstrom Air Field.

Loaned as an exhibit item at both celebrations of the 50th year of the reign of Queen Victoria in London and in Paris, the stone was found by the son of an Irish prisoner who had been exiled to New South Wales. Captain Hawkins purchased it at an auction from the Hall Collection in Sydney, Australia.

Captain Hawkins, new public relations officer at Bergstrom, calls himself a "treasure-seeking junkman."

Among his hobbies are sculpturing, gemology, gadgeteering and the collection of all sorts of trivia.

He is also a "joiner" of sorts. Member of a number of civic organizations all over the world, he also belongs to the Association of Athletic Clubs, the Indianapolis Athletic Club, the Officers Club in Washington, D.C., and is the only American member of the Australian Stock Exchange Club.

30 Billions Damage Claimed From Italy

NEIL DAY TO FILL ASSESSOR-COLLECTOR JOB

In a meeting held Saturday, members of the Commissioners Court of Eastland county appointed Neil Day as county tax assessor-collector to fill out the unexpired term of Clyde Karkalits who resigned the position, effective September 1.

On the same day in a meeting of the county Democratic Executive Committee, Day was unanimously selected as the nominee for the office and his name will be placed on the ballot for the November general election.

At the committee meeting, with 20 out of 27 precinct chairmen present, Oscar Lylela, county chairman, presided and read the resignation of Karkalits and the request that he not be certified as the nominee for the office. Karkalits had been nominated for the office in the July primary.

In the executive session the recent election votes were canvassed and applications for the office of tax collector called for. Paul Farrow of Ranger was the only other applicant besides Day. In a secret ballot Day received the majority of the votes for the office and then the vote was made unanimous by the committee.

War Laws Present Grave Problem For Conversion

SALT LAKE CITY (UP) — Conversion from war to peace in Utah isn't confined to industry—the Utah legislature will be faced by the problem in January.

Gov. Herbert B. Maw pointed out that there are many laws on Utah's books which were passed as emergency measures during the war, and now he doesn't know what to do about them.

Laws which were in effect during the war, and which the governor wants changed, include such things as permitting women to work on the surface of mines and in smelters; permitting girls under 18 to work in theaters, and exempting military salaries from the state income tax law.

Another of the war-born laws permits commanders of army posts within the state to have an extra liquor allotment.

Some of the laws terminate automatically upon, or six months after, the presidential proclamation ending the war. But there's a large number of laws which have no termination date.

Says Eat More Turkeys, But He Grows 'Em

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP) —Turkeys can have a big part in solving the nation's meat problems, R. E. James, president of the National Turkey Federation, believes.

Returning to his turkey ranch near here after a 4,000-mile tour of turkey-growing centers, President James advocated a nationwide campaign to encourage turkey eating.

Personally, James favors the broadcasted bronze turkey popularly known as "baby beef," but insists any turkey is good eating.

Doug Jones Is Winner of Golf Tournament Here

Doug Jones of Abilene, West Texas Golf Champion, added another victory to his list here Monday when he defeated Jimmie Phillips, 4-3, in Ranger's Invitation Labor Day tournament.

Jones won three of the first four holes as Phillips took bogies on two and four. Phillips won hole number 5 with a par and no. 12 with a birdie three. He lost no. 10 to Jones' birdie three and fell four behind on the next one when he had trouble reaching the carpet.

Jones earlier had won from Ed Gilmartin of Ft. Worth and Phillips had defeated Dock Wohl of Lake Geneva, Wisconsin. Jones' victory here Monday was the third of the season, with the San Angelo tournament and Abilene tournament to his credit. He was runner-up to Don Cherry at Breckenridge.

San Angelo Keeps Reputation For Close Elections

SAN ANGELO (UP) — The San Angelo state senatorial district maintained its reputation as a district of close elections. Sen. Penrose Metcalfe who had defeated the preceding senator, Eph Davis by a less than 100 vote lead, went out this time by 77 votes margin in favor of Former State Representative Dorsey Hardeman.

The election also brought again to the House of Representatives brothers, Doyle Willis will be one of Tarrant County's members and Phil Willis will speak for Kaufman County.

Luckily for the doorkeepers they do not look alike as did Ross and Doss Hardin when they were members of a former House of Representatives.

The 40th Texas Legislature had three members named Wallace. Two of them were brothers—John Wallace of Teague and S. Bert Wallace of Crockett. The third member of the name was H. H. Wallace of Tyler. He was a minister and not related to John or Bert.

Just Waiting For Jake, Shotgun Toter Declares

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UP) — Fausbery called police when they saw a grim gentleman sitting in front of a hotel, cradling a shotgun in his arms.

Squad cars rolled up with sirens screaming.

"Why," the suspect explained, "I'm waiting to see this Jake Roosevelt, across the street. But I got tired of waiting to see him, so came over here to rest my feet a bit."

Truman Back At Work After Vacation Cruise

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Truman, back at his desk after an 18-day vacation cruise, scheduled a conference today with acting Secretary of State William L. Clayton who presumably will bring the president up to date on international developments.

White House Press Secretary, Charles G. Ross revealed that Mr. Truman spoke by Trans-Atlantic telephone this morning with Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, who was believed to have given the president a report on the Paris Peace Conference.

Ross said Mr. Truman would resume his weekly press conferences this week, probably holding one at 10 a.m. CST Thursday.

Clayton was the only caller on today's White House appointment list as Mr. Truman began catching up on the work that piled up during his absence.

Veterans Urged To Co-operate In Housing Survey

Appearing in today's issue of the Times is a questionnaire which city officials are urging veterans to sign and return to the Chamber of Commerce office.

The questionnaire is in connection with the veterans housing survey being made in an effort to learn how many veterans are interested in getting surplus materials for the construction of homes or how many are interested in renting a home constructed from such materials.

Veterans will be given priority for securing materials being salvaged from war surpluses and will be able to get the materials at a greatly reduced cost.

Committees have been set up to push purchase of materials and construction of homes in Ranger and the information from the veterans is essential for the work to get underway.

Holiday Death Toll Exceeds Expectations

By United Press
America's accidental holiday death toll mounted today, far above the 350 forecast by the national safety council.

At least 426 persons met violent death during the week-end. Traffic accidents accounted for at least 322 deaths, well above the 210 predicted by the council. The nation's millions of old and worn cars—more than half of them 8 years old—were blamed for the mounting fatalities.

WAR DAMAGE REPARATIONS CLAIMS FILED BY 12 NATIONS

PARIS (UP) — Italy stood accused today of inflicting on the Allied nations war damage totalling more than $50,000,000,000.

The Italian economic conference has received claims by 12 nations against Italy.

Claims of damage done by Italy exceeded by 300 times the $100,000,000 it already has been agreed that Italy shall pay the Soviet Union in reparations.

The sum also is more than 100 times greater than the amount which the conference is likely to order Italy to pay.

Financial claims of damage caused them by Italy in war, and some as reparations claims that do not attempt to estimate the total damage.

Some nations have done both. The Italian commission became involved in another violent Soviet versus British dominions row over a Brazilian amendment today but defeated the motion, 15 to 4, with one abstention.

The Big Four had agreed to let Russia collect some of her $100,000,000 reparations from Italy in current production and further provide that the Soviet Union furnish Italy on commercial terms with some of the materials normally imported and needed for such production.

That clause had been written in by the Big Four at the insistence of Secretary of State James F. Byrnes. The Brazilians wanted to revise it to read that the Soviet shall furnish "if necessary" to Italy such raw materials.

Montgomery To Pay Nine Day Visit To U. S.

WASHINGTON (UP) — Field Marshal Bernard L. Montgomery, chief of the British Army's general staff, will visit President Truman and tour the U. S. Army's important military schools during his nine day visit in this country, the war department said today.

He will visit West Point Sept. 10 then fly here. On Sept. 11 he will place a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, hold a press conference, and call on Mr. Truman.

Stalin Claims Russians Won Over Japanese

MOSCOW (UP) — Marshal Stalin told the Russian people today that they and the armed forces secured victory over Japan "and by this victory made a huge investment in the establishment of peace in the world."

"A year ago the Soviet people and their armed forces victoriously ended the war against imperialism in Japan," the order of the day read.

It is almost impossible to determine the exact length of the Mississippi River at any given time. The river is about 2,500 miles long, but the shifting river bed sometimes permits the water to take a shorter course.

Gets Field Free

Lieut.-Gen. Barton Y. Young, above, former head of the Air Forces Training Command, is president of the newly-formed American Institute of Foreign Trade to which the War Assets Administration turned over, free, the $407,000 Army Air Force training center at Glendale, Ariz. The field had been declared surplus.

COLUMBIA DAMS STIR FISH ROW

FORTLAND, Ore. (UP)—The old life-and-death feud of the fish versus the dam has broken out again, this time with Indians, portmen, cats, congressmen and Uncle Sam on the sidelines. The "gunment," as Uncle Sam is known in the north woods along Columbia River, wants to build 3 new dams.

The $10,000,000 a year salmon-canning industry says it will not let all the fish because they can't get upstream to spawn.

So a congressional sub-committee held a hearing with everybody there but the cats, who used to clamor when it was a nickel a can-member?

The take of salmon from the Columbia—principal U. S. source choice Chinook salmon—has creased 40 to 45 per cent since 44, the packers claimed in an exhaustive treatise. Modern salmon are now able

Expect 80,000 To Attend Opera At Prague Fair

PRAGUE (UP)—Smetana's opera "The Battered Bride" will be performed for 80,000 spectators at Prague's Masaryk Stadium during the Prague sample fair, Sept. 15-25, to raise funds for Czechoslovakia charities.

Organizers of the production said they believed they could make the stadium the largest open-air theater in Europe. The famous Verona outdoor opera seats 20,000. Scene designers said they were planning a broad two-level stage representing a village square and designed to melt into the natural background of a wooded hill rising above the stadium walls.

If poverty really is a blessing in disguise, the disguise is perfect.

The difference between good luck and bad luck is usually the frame of mind you are in.

One thousand and fourteen children were adopted in New Jersey in 1945. We're always pleased to hear about more happy homes.

Most people are bent on taking exercise because that's one of the most popular ways of taking them.

With most people it takes a sleetstorm to make the wisdom of carrying an umbrella soak in.

(the big ones, that is) to swim over Bonneville dam on the Columbia by means of fish ladders.

In the spring and summer, the salmon come from the Pacific Ocean by instinct, heading for upstream spawning grounds. In one of nature's more baffling wonders, they head for the old family retreat and hardly anything natural will stop them.

But the dams will, fish and wildlife experts testified. The salmon caise Bonneville dam with heroic leaps that spellbind tourists. The fish ladders are stair-step contrivances by which the homing fish splashes himself furiously over the dam toward the time-honored haven he must reach to survive.

But some of the proposed 13 new dams, the experts said, will be too high for the stoutest, most family-minded salmon to scale, because there's a limit even to a salmon's leap.

Also threatened by the dam program, it was claimed, is the picture postcard and neverset institution of the Indians spearing salmon as they hurtle Celilo Falls, about 200 miles up the Columbia. But the Bonneville power administration issued a bulletin the day following the hearing announcing it expects a "critical power shortage next winter" and advising all power companies to man the pumps and batten down the hatches for a tough season—because, it implied—there are not enough power dams.

PROPHECIES IN 'JOKE BOOK' PROVE IRONICALLY CORRECT

By GORDON K. SHEARER
 United Press Staff Correspondent
 AUSTIN, Tex. (UP)—Better hurry, folks, if you want a copy of the Texas Joke Book.

University of Texas punitions office reported but four copies left when the United Press applied for a copy. It's issued free, on sure there are but three left.

This gross of humor is officially known as No. 4020 in the University's series of publications. It is edited by Arthur L. Brandon, who came to the University of Texas as public relations man with former President Homer P. Rainey. He had held a similar job at Bucknell University, Pa., when Rainey was president of that university.

Do not be surprised to find that the document bears the staid title of "The State and Public Education." It was not until it was quoted last week by Gov. Coke R. Stevenson in the heated Texas political campaign that it was labeled a joke book.

Then the announcement was made that words, taken down in shorthand and reproduced by the University in slick paper octavo pamphlet, were uttered in jest.

Many, many Texans, no doubt have failed to read No. 4020, not being interested in serious things, and not having been apprised in advance that it was of the Joe Miller variety.

For their benefit here goes: The stage is a luncheon given in Dr. Rainey's honor after his inauguration as president of the University. Right there is where the book gets a staid title, "The State and Public Education" was the title of Dr. Rainey's inaugural address.

Other speakers on the luncheon program included U. S. Senator W. Lee O'Daniel, then Governor of Texas. From his lips rolled these side-splitting words:

"And may the future pages of history be replete with the record of achievement of this great

University of Texas under the steady guidance and able leadership of our new president Homer P. Rainey.

Then there was Dr. Thomas Stone Cloyd, president emeritus of Austin College. He said: "Homer is not a politician."

Austin's genial mayor Tom Miller claimed the right to wear the orange and white. "I attended the University of Texas as a summer student in 1912-1913, always on the brink of expulsion," he recalled.

But we are getting ahead of the story. Mr. Sydney Reagan, Jr., of Austin, then president of the Students Association, seems to have "spurred" on all the belly laughs by presenting Dr. Rainey with a pair of silver spurs to be worn as a true son of Texas.

H. C. Pipkin of Amarillo, president, then of the Ex-Students Association, assured Dr. Rainey that he soon would be equipped also with a big hat, checked shirt, chaps and hand-made boots to go along with the spurs.

President Pat M. Neff of Baylor University was prompted by the presentation of the spurs to assure Dr. Rainey "that he will need these spurs if he rides every educational hobby that he will find from time to time browsing on the University campus."

Dr. W. J. Battle, professor of classical language at the University, essayed a Cassandra role with the prophecy: "Professional activity in public affairs may lead to politics and for a university which belongs to the whole people to be accused of taking sides on disputed public questions is always dangerous and may be disastrous."

Dr. George F. Zook, president of the American Council of Education, essayed no joke of his own. He told a humorous story.

Late Regent Leslie Waggener of Dallas, presiding as chairman of the luncheon, caught the spirit of the occasion. He introduced Dr. Rainey with a suggestion that he give the luncheon party "what he told me the other day to be the typical longhorn speech, being 'one with two very small points, widely separated, with a lot of bull in between them.'"

Came the hilarious climax. Dr. Rainey responded:

Rainey joke one: "I appreciate very much the spurs that were given me here today by Mr. Reagan. Mr. Reagan indicated that they are the symbol of something that represents the characteristics of Texas and Texans.

"I am sure that that symbolism is very meaningful to me. It is

Looking For Nice Apartment Here's One — If You Can Qualify

By John Frasca
United Press Staff Correspondent
AUSTIN, Tex., (UP) — There is in this capital city of Texas a little two-room tin-roofed garage apartment for rent.

But the lucky veteran—he must be a veteran—must belong to a Protestant church, be a Mason, a non-smoker, teetotaler and of Anglo-Saxon extraction.
An expectant father, a Texas newspaperman and army veteran caught up with the landlady—after a two-week chase—the other day.

She said:
"You have a nice name. I want to see what your wife looks like. Bring her by to see me. We must be particular these days."

Then she after-thought:
"Isn't it disgraceful the way veterans are being treated?"

The newspaperman — whose name is withheld because he still has an outside chance—brought his wife for inspection.
"Very pretty," said the landlady. "You go to church, I suppose?"

She supposed right. The wife told the landlady she goes to church every Sunday.
Then she turned to the husband. "Are you a Mason?" she asked. The reporter thought quickly. "No," he answered, "but I've got a bid in."

The landlady then laid down her mixer on the way.

commandments:
"You must not smoke. Things catch fire so easily."
"There must be no drinking of wild parties. This is a high-class neighborhood."

"You must always be neat. This is such a nice neighborhood."
But she did not rent them the apartment. She made an extra check on the hapless couple.
She called the bank to determine whether he could pay the rent.

She called his boss for an insight into his—the reporter's—character.
She called the reporter's landlady.

Then she asked the reporter to produce three letters of reference from "respectable" people.

The reporter, anxious to find a place for the almost-due baby, had stopped smoking and drinking. He goes to church—the landlady's church—every Sunday.

He is the only reporter in Austin who always wears the coat to his suit—he wants to look his best in case he meets the landlady.

Incidentally, he's looking for an apartment because there's a cement mixer under the window of his bedroom at present. The present landlady makes cement blocks in the yard. He's thinking of expanding. There's another cement mixer on the way.

ing of business, it's probable Mike Jacobs will have the chief say about that.

In fact, there are those who say that about all Louis will have invested in the restaurant will be his name. The Joe Louis Restaurant will open in the West 50s in a few months. Preliminary work has been started, but Joe doesn't know too much about what kind of a place it's going to be.

The champ's turn on the stage is reminiscent of the routine of ex-champ of the light-weights Tony Canzoneri. Louis has as his partner in the act, a little dancer named Leonard Reed. The dancer pretends he's all riled up about Joe and challenges him to a fight. And then realizing how monstrous the idea is, the challenger cringes away in fear and seeks to back out.

It's not particularly funny. Joe never lets the hint of emotion of any kind pass over his dead-pan countenance. On the stage, he does talk a little bit, engaging the little fellow in a bit of dialogue, the highlights of which is when the dancer tells Joe his wife can lick Joe's wife. Not very hilarious but the customers seem to like it.

Although Joe has not realized on his championship in the same sense Jack Dempsey or Gene Tunney made big money with their real estate or restaurant holdings, he has done two things:

He purchased an apartment house for his mother in Detroit—the mother that brought him out of the Alabama cotton fields, sent him through school and into the public eye as one of the greatest champions ever known. He has bought a home in Hollywood for his former wife, night club-entertainer Marva Trotter, and their small daughter.

There have been recurrent and periodic reports that Joe and Marva will be reconciled, but up

NO JUDGMENT IN NEGRO CASE YET ENTERED

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP)—Contrary to general understanding, no judgment has been entered by District Judge Roy Archer requiring Herman Marion Sweatt, Negro letter carrier of Houston to be admitted to the University of Texas Law School unless the state provides an equivalent law course for Negroes somewhere else, Asst. Atty. Gen. Cecil Speer points out.

Judge Archer merely retained the mandamus suit brought by Sweatt against the University of Texas Regents on his court docket until next December 17.

On Dec. 17, presumably, Judge Archer will call up the case again. Before that time, it is believed the bi-racial committee appointed by Gov. Coke R. Stevenson to make recommendations on the matter will be ready to report. Its chairman is Mark McGee of Ft. Worth.

At the general open hearing on the topic held in Austin on August 8, a committee representing a group of Negro organizations told the bi-racial committee they would be satisfied with nothing less than a creation of a Negro branch of the University of Texas, with full right to participate in the income from the University's great wealth in all lands. They would not be satisfied, they indicated, to rely on future state legislatures to provide funds for the Negro University.

As there now is no prospect of a meeting of the state legislature until next January, there is considerable speculation that the state will set up a temporary law school with lectures by professors from the University law school.

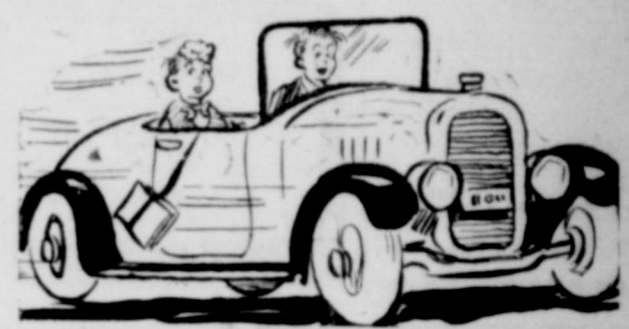

MILLIONS FOR BEAUTY
PITTSBURGH (UP)—Pittsburgh women spend $87,000,000 a year "staying young and beautiful."

If the treatments involved in the million-dollar business done by the district's 1,500 beauty shops were divided equally, it would amount to $107 per year, or $8.93 a month.

to now they are still apart. If Joe ever worries about it, he never gives an indication.

If he has any questions, or doubts about anything, Joe turns to Mike Jacobs.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. McKelvain have announced the marriage of their daughter, Avis, to Mr. Stephen F. Preslar, son of Mrs. Cora Preslar.

The wedding took place Thursday, August 29th at 5:00 o'clock in the home of Rev. John C. Ball in Ft. Worth, with Rev. Ball reading the marriage vows.

The bride chose for her wedding a powder blue sheer wool dress worn with black accessories. Her shoulder corsage was of gardenias.

The couple left Tuesday for Washington, D. C., where they will make their home while Mr. Preslar attends the law school at George Washington University.

The bride is a graduate of Breckenridge High School and Baylor University. She also attended Ranger Junior College and was a member of the faculty of Ranger High School and Abilene High School following her graduation. During the war she served as a lieutenant junior grade in the Waves.

JOE LOUIS GETS ON WITH PLAN TO OPEN CAFE

NEW YORK (UP)—Joe Louis is doing several things these days, such as planning on opening a restaurant in New York, playing lots of golf, doing a brief turn in night clubs here, in Chicago and Detroit, and getting ready for his championship battle with Tami Mauriello next month.

But there are at least two things he is not thinking about—losing to Mauriello and quitting the ring. As usual, in all things fistie, Louis lets Promoter Mike Jacobs do most of his thinking and planning, even to the point of taking care of the money that Louis has earned, but in his golfing and night-club routine, Louis steps out of character as champion.

By his own admission he's only a fair golfer, and is quite a bit worse as an "actor." He doesn't have much to say about his possibilities as a restaurateur, but since that comes under the head the FBI, and as he continues his studies will be a part time employee of the capitol police.

He Talks—They Say

Meet Ben, the famous talking dog of Reyston, England, who is reported to speak intelligibly, although his vocabulary seems to be limited to "I want some." And if one is to be limited to three words, what better three could there be? Ben, pet of Alfred Brissenden, is pictured watching a friend pour tea, and, presumably, saying "I want some."

That's No Joke, Son

Senator Claghorne should have warned these Dixie belles against the coldness of the North. Peggy Brooks, left, and Catherine Cox, both from Memphis, Tennessee, that is, braved Lake Michigan's chilly waters at a Chicago beach. They scrambled out before they got very wet.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By Boyce House

One of the most eloquent speeches in the history of American politics was the speech of James A. Garfield nominating John Sherman for president. An excerpt follows:
I have witnessed the extraordinary scenes of this convention with deep solitude. Nothing touches my heart more quickly than a tribute of honor to a great and noble character; but as I sat in my seat and witnessed this demonstration, this assemblage seemed to me a human ocean in tempest.
I have seen the sea lashed into fury and tossed into spray, and its crandier moves the soul of the dullest man; but I remember that it is not the billows, but the calm level of the sea, from which all heights and depths are measured. When the storm has passed and the hour of calm settles on the ocean, when the sunlight bathes its peaceful surface, then the astronomer and surveyor take the level from which they measure all terrestrial heights and depths.
Gentlemen of the convention, your present temper may not mark the healthful pulse of our people. When your enthusiasm has passed, when the emotions of this hour have subsided, we shall find below the storm and pass on, that calm level of public opinion from which the thoughts of all mighty people are to be measured and by which final action will be determined.
Not here in this brilliant circle where fifteen thousand men and women are gathered is the destiny of the Republic to be decreed for the next four years. Not here where I see the enthusiastic faces of seven hundred and fifty-six delegates waiting to cast their lots into the urn and determine the choice of the Republic, but by our millions of Republican voters, where the thoughtful voters are seated, with the calm thoughts inspired by love of home and country, with the history of the past, hopes of the future, and reverence for the great men who have adorned and blessed our nation in days gone by, burning in their hearts,—there God prepares the verdict which will determine the wisdom of our work tonight. Not in Chicago, in the heat of June, but at the ballot boxes of the Republic, in the quiet of November, after the silence of deliberate judgment, will this question be settled.

Barley Smut Discovery To Cut Grain Losses

WASHINGTON (UP)—When Dr. V. F. Tapke, plant pathologist of the Department of Agriculture, noticed some of his barleys produced loose smut heads darker than usual, he was on the way to helping save millions of bushels of grain.
The darker shade was caused by a new loose smut fungus. Following his discovery, Dr. Tapke found the new smut was easily controlled through seed treatment. This method of control is not effective with other known barley smuts.
As a result, American farmers will be able to cut in half their estimated annual loss of about 2,000,000 bushels of barley as a result of smuts.

Fireworks Every Day At Tooele Ordnance Depot

TOOELE, Utah, (UP)—It's Fourth of July every day at the Tooele Ordnance Depot, as far as fireworks are concerned.
Unserviceable explosives—American, German and Japanese—which have accumulated at this vast ordnance depot, 40 miles west of Salt Lake City, must be destroyed.

So, depot officers go about it scientifically. Each week day a charge of about 50 tons of explosives is placed in a deep crater and detonated electrically.
Flames and smoke usually shoot into the air for 200 to 300 feet over the crater. The sound from the explosion can be heard throughout Tooele valley.
