Well...
I Dunno,
But...

Rev. Dale Medaris announces in this edition of the Times that on Sunday night he will preach on the subject, "The Man Who Is Afraid of His Wife."

He further stated that there would be a reserved section for all henpecked husbands.

Now to hear the men tell it they're all brow beaten by their wives, but, if betting were in order on such a subject, ours would be that the reserved section will be empty Sunday night.

They all like to grouch at the wives for the hen-pecking that they get but there'll be no public admission of the same before other men. It might be better to announce the reserved section for men who are the heads of their households. That'd get 'em.

In a most interesting letter from Pauline Deaton to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Deaton, the writer tells of her trip by air from the United States to Tokyo.

Most exciting part of the trip came when two of the engines on the big plane went out one hour after they had left Hawaii.

But let Pauline tell you about it. Here's the way she tells it:

"We got out over the ocean about an hour and two engines went out. We were over loaded and being 10,000 feet in the air, we started losing altitude fast. They put a chute, life belts and first aid kit on my back. There were so many strings to pull that I wondered on my way back to the door, if I would get them all pulled and which was which. The radio man came out and told us that two Navy planes were on their way, also an air-sea rescue boat and for us to wait and see if the plane caught on fire. If it didn't we'd ride it down.

Believe me, I was all for it. It seemed like years but in about seven minutes two planes showed up. A high wind set in and I know it's unbelievable but with such high altitude we got almost in sight of Hawaii and the wind drifted us right up to the edge of the sea wall and the pilot gave the last two engines all they had and we landed at the edge of the runway. They put us on another plane immediately and we went on our way."

Pauline went on to say that she wasn't a bit scared during the experience but one of the colonels with them fairly shook in his boots.

Among the number of stops made was one on Guam which they reached about noon Wednesday. Here Pauline demanded sleep which opportunity was provided. She slept from noon Wednesday until Thursday night without awakening.

She saw Iwo Jima and the spot where the Marines raised the flagpole, and is now in Tokyo.

We never take much stock in prize fights, but at the insistence of the family we started to leave our chores Wednesday night to listen to the Louis - Maurice championship bout and before we could stop and walk thru two rooms the thing was over.

From a distance we heard about Louis getting knocked into the ropes. That must have roused his ire, and wham went that knockout blow.

And to think that people paid $50 to witness those few seconds of entertainment. We still think our setup was the best. We heard the crowds cheer, and the announcers' babble and all the time right on with our work, saved the money and heard the fight. From what they tell us spectators at the fight are so far away for the most part that they can't tell who hit who anyway.

Heard a man telling this morning of being bowed stiff on one occasion while listening to one of the self-made men tell of how he rose to fame. Worked his way through school and college by doing menial tasks, etc., with a "just look at me now" attitude.

A more modest man, following the first speaker on the program, arose and said, "I'm afraid I'm not much of a success. For you see, I'll have to admit that my father worked his way through school and college."

COAL SHORTAGE PROMISES GRIM BRITISH WINTER

By Bruce W. Munn
LONDON, (UP)—Britain, about to enter on its grimmest and most comfortable cold season in memory, threatened with heatless homes, possible unemployment and disrupted transport because of its shortage of fuel.

The most recent monthly report of Fuel Minister Emanuel Shinwell showed a drop of 95,000 tons weekly under June in the nation's coal output, with miners producing 3,386,000 tons in July or 104,900 tons less than in July, 1945, when coal production was considered dangerously low.

The average Briton, long used to scanty, monotonous rations, looks forward to a winter in which he will sit in the one heated room of his home, with a few of the always expensive cigarettes and virtually no beer to comfort his leisure hours. The nation even now is suffering its worst shortage of cigarettes—average price, 46 cents for 20—and of its war-weakened beer, whose ingredients have been diverted to the dinner tables of hungry Europe.

The major national concern at the moment is coal. For the first time since 1926, railways, are converting their long distance locomotives to oil. The Ministry of Transport recently authorized such conversion for 1,200 locomotives in an effort to save 1,000,000 tons of coal annually.

Shinwell has suggested that where it is feasible, industries also convert to oil. A commonplace in the United States, such a suggestion is little short of sensational in Britain. The country has little domestic oil and must transport most of what it uses from foreign fields. A major conversion to oil lays Britain's industry open to paralysis if war cuts the tankers' sea lanes.

Experts estimate that railways and power companies now have a coal stock sufficient for not more than three weeks. Much of Britain's industry has even less, some concerns existing with reserves as low as 48 hours.

Naturally, coal for industry is first on the priority list. Britain still is sorely short of consumer goods for her own people and for her export market, where she is still in a dire straits.

little as 3,000 pounds of coal to heat a nine room house. Fires are necessary in Britain from mid-September until May. The result is that many householders were able to keep up an open fire in attempting to build up favorable one room and many apartment buildings with central heating maintained an average temperature of 60 degrees or less.

For the little man, there is no alternative to coal. In wood short Britain kindling always is hard to get and currently logs are selling for the fantastic price of $20 a ton, balances for foreign exchange.

Blind Man Sentenced In Slaying

Blind Orbie T. Guthrie, 42, calmly awaits verdict of a Oklahoma City jury, in the fatal shooting of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Elizabeth Hinds. He was found guilty of 1st degree manslaughter after his blind, divorced wife, Katherine Hickman, failed to convince the jury that the shooting was deliberate. Guthrie contended during the trial that he did not know the gun was pointed toward Mrs. Hinds when he fired. (NEA Telephoto).

PAC TEACHING PRACTICAL TYPE POLITICS

WASHINGTON (UP)—The CIO Political Action Committee, describing its committee system as "too often ineffectual," is giving lessons in political know-how to all its members. The first test of their learning will be the November elections.

The organization is holding one to three day political action schools in seven states to "train students to play a specific role in their local political campaigns, and to mobilize the independent voters."

It also published a "Manual of Political Action." This handbook, the PAC said, tells how to build a political organization, with emphasis on wards and precincts, and how to conduct campaigns. The schools are adapting the material gathered at the School of Political Action Techniques held here recently to fit their own regions, states and districts. While general assemblies are held on the analysis of congressional districts and discussion of the political issues involved, specialized courses in canvassing, public relations, radio, press, music, film, etc., train people to function for the committee or campaign.

The political primer is made up of the same material from the national school and will be supplemented with material from the regional and state schools.

At a school in New York, the PAC plans to sponsor many more schools "of some duration which would in the course of a few months provide all the necessary material for a good year and a half of work in the community prior to the '48 elections."

This, the PAC said, will make for "sustained political action," and help to end the "frustration of those who deplore conditions and constantly inquire, 'What can I do about it?'"

The PAC explained that one of the courses might be a discussion of the various factors to be considered in a congressional district. Then the students themselves might be assigned to an analysis of a district. "This device," it said, "combines theoretical with practical training under competent supervision to replace the too often ineffectual committee system."

River, Spare That Island Officials Cry

ASTORIA, Ore. (UP)—They've done everything but have a small boy stick his finger in the dike in efforts to prevent the Columbia River from washing tiny Evenson Island in the Pacific Ocean.

A survey has revealed that more than $178,000 has been spent in federal, state, county and private funds to prevent the fertile island from being eroded out of existence. Latest contribution has been a $40,000 allocation by Army engineers for dike repairs and realignment.

Four farms on Evenson Island yield crops estimated at $42,000 annually.

CHILDRESS RESIGNS, AS CLERK OF COURT OF CIVIL APPEALS

Dan Childress, clerk of the Court of Civil Appeals for the Eleventh Supreme Judicial District, has tendered his resignation to the court after nineteen years of continued service.

Mr. Childress stated that he made this decision after many months of thoughtful consideration and that he was happy to return his commission back to the people unstrained and unburdened, and that he would always cherish the memory of having served such a great and appreciative people as composed the Eleventh Judicial District.

Mr. and Mrs. Childress moved to Eastland from Sweetwater with their three sons August 1, 1927, after having been appointed to the post. He has served under three former Chief Justices, the Hon. Wm. Pannell, now a resident of Ft. Worth, the Hon. J. E. Hickman, now a member of the Supreme Court at Austin, and the Hon. W. P. Leslie, deceased. Mr. Childress served the people of Nolan County for a period of fifteen years continuously as their District Clerk, and resigned that position to become clerk of the Court of Civil Appeals. He has many friends, especially among the members of the bar of his district and over the state, whom he served for so many years that will regret to learn of his leaving such an important and useful position.

In addition to his office duties he has served as president of the Eastland County Fair and Livestock Association for two consecutive years and has contributed much of his time and talent in encouraging the youth of the county in producing and improving a better grade of livestock. He owns a splendid ranch near Eastland.

Mr. Childress does not intend leaving Eastland, but stated that after a brief rest he would likely open an office here.

DAIRY PRICE DECISION DUE AT ANY TIME

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Price Decentral Board decides today or tomorrow whether to put dairy products back under price ceilings and restore subsidies.

A spokesman said the decision would be expedited to prevent any disruption in shipments of milk, butter and cheese.

The board used as a basis for its action statements and statistical evidence filed by both supporters and opponents of decentral.

The dairy industry and retailers generally favored keeping the ceilings off, but OPA Chief Paul A. Porter told the board that "immediate control of dairy products is essential to the stabilization program."

Claims Poison More Deadly Than Atom Bomb

WASHINGTON (UP)—Maj. Gen. Alden W. Waitt, chief of the Army's Chemical Warfare Service, said today the Army has isolated a bacterium which is so powerful that a microscopic speck would kill a human being.

"If you could get all the people in the world huddled in one mass, you could kill them with one atomic bomb," Waitt said. "In the case of this poison you could wipe out all the people you could reach with it."

One ounce of the poison, properly distributed, could kill 180,000,000 people, or the entire population of the United States and Canada, Waitt said.

Says National Guard Did Job Of Stopping Japs

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UP)—Gen. Jacob L. Devers, Army Ground Forces Commander told the National Guard Association today that the major part of the job of stopping Japan was done by the National Guard.

Launching briskly into the controversial subject of the post-war National Guard, Devers emphasized that the guard as a member of the Army team—Regulars, National Guardsmen and Reserves.

Devers' speech, highlighting the second day's session of the Association's 68th annual convention, indirectly answered the guard's charges of wartime discrimination by regular army officers, although there was no direct reference to the accusations.

NEW YORK (UP)—Selling swept into the stock market a few minutes after noon today and carried prices down 1 to nearly 4 points as trading became so swift that tickers were forced seven minutes behind actual transactions.

BEHIND THE SLUMP

Rep. Adolph Sabath suspects dirty work at the crossroads in the recent stock market slump.

In connection with his charges, Mr. Sabath made the following statement: "I can see no sound reason for this week's break in the stock market."

We are in no position to pass upon the truth of Mr. Sabath's charges. But if the venerable legislator sees no cloud on our economic horizon which might be reflected in the attitude of investors, he merits either commiseration or congratulation.

Mr. Sabath puts great faith in general statistics. Production is high and employment is high. True enough. But what is the quality and what are the prices of our products?

What about the recurrent outbreak of national strikes, with their lingering, paralyzing effect on production? What about the black market in food, houses, cars and other necessities adding prohibitive costs to prices already high?

"Big business and little business are bogged down with government red tape," says Mr. Frazer, "thousands of rules, regulations reports to make and questionnaires to fill out."

This may be exaggerating the importance of government planning in the rather chaotic state of American business at present.

In the face of all these contributing factors, it would seem that Mr. Sabath is looking through the wrong end of the telescope when he sees slick manipulation and political chicanery as the only flaws in the picture of business and industry.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY DOUGLAS LARSEN NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NEA)—Our good Secretary of Agriculture, Clinton P. Anderson, is taking a vacation down on his New Mexico farm for only one reason.

When he first took office last July one of the first things the party strategists told him to do was find some way to get rid of the potato surplus.

The further he got into it the worse it looked. On the surface it seems simple. Europe is hungry. America has too many potatoes. All right, send the surplus to Europe. That's where the trouble begins.

To the secretary's credit, he finally did dispose of his potatoes, however, at home. Only 1 or 2 per cent were actually wasted.

THE estimate for the early crop this year showed there would be a record yield per acre. Anderson began getting worried.

THE only thing the secretary doesn't think he will be able to face next winter, when the food situation abroad is again expected to be bad, is to be charged with letting people starve because the government had potatoes he made into liquor when they could have gone to feed the hungry.

SPORTS

By Harry Grayson NEA Sports Editor

WESTBURY, N. Y.—(NEA)—As the field of nine rhythmically moving pacers swung round the bend and straightened into the stretch, running like a bunch of ballet dancers, a voice in the grandstand of the Roosevelt Raceway screamed:

"Come on, Grandma!" Others were yelling and shouting for Clark Hanover and Major Rosecroft to come on, but the single voice pierced above the din. And there was no horse named Grandma in the race.

Back at the judges' stand a slim figure leaped nimbly out of the sulky, saluted. It was Puzette's driver, Mrs. Forest Burright, 63-year-old grandmother from Oregon, Ill., holder of the world's record for women harness racing drivers and only woman driver in Grand Circuit racing.

GRAYHAIRD and sprightly, weighing about 100 pounds, with keen light-blue eyes, Mrs. Burright saw her horse to the paddock, then reclined in a chair outside the barn.

Garbed in the conventional trousers, coat and cap affected by regulation harness horse drivers, Mrs. Burright smiled warmly.

"No, the other drivers don't think anything of a woman driving against them," she said. "They try just as hard to beat me as anyone else. I get no favors on the track, ask for none and give none. I'm out there racing to win—and I know my business." She added that she shipped her two-horse stable here from the mid-west, where she won six races at Maywood Park in Chicago and Northville Downs, Detroit.

"I never bet on races," Mrs. Burright confided, "though a lot of fans profit by my driving when I win. Most of them don't seem to think a woman driver can win and when I do, the pari-mutuel payoff is what you might call substantial." Puzette paid off $740 in the machines.

MRS. BURRIGHT was averse to talking about herself, but revealed she was born on a race track at Mount Carroll, Ill., fairs grounds and has been driving professionally in harness races for 30 years.

With Mrs. Burright at Roosevelt Raceway are her husband and a daughter Joyce, 20-year-old red head. Her eldest two sons died on race tracks. One, Ross, became a jockey and was killed in a fall in Dallas, Texas, some years ago.

Joyce also drives trotters and pacers, although her mother is not yet ready to allow her to start in fast competition at the Raceway. Only Mr. Burright, a farmer at Oregon, Ill., is content to sit on the customers' side of the rail.

"Don't care to drive," he said laconically. "Let Mom do it."

Motor Vehicles To Go On Sale On September 23

Abilene Army Air Field is announced as one of six sites at which sale of surplus used motor vehicles will be conducted by War Assets Administration's Fort Worth regional office during the week starting Monday, Sept. 23. The sales include items "set aside" for disposal exclusively to veterans of World War II and all veterans holding certificates for the vehicles being offered are eligible to participate in any or all sales.

The sale at Abilene Army Air Field, which will also include vehicles of Camp Berkeley, is scheduled for Tuesday Sept. 24 from 9 to 5, with inspection of the vehicles open to veterans the previous day as well as the date of sale from 8:30 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Included in the offering are listed half-ton command and reconnaissance cars, carry-alls, fuel servicing semi-trailers, and such miscellaneous automotive equipment as telephone maintenance truck, water tank truck and pole trailer.

Other sales listed for the same week include: Sept. 23, Big Spring AAP; Sept. 24, Amarillo AAP; Sept. 24, Goodfellow Field at San Angelo; Sept. 26, Sheppard Field at Wichita Falls; Sept. 26 and 27, a two day sale at Camp Hood offering 402 vehicles, the largest single concentration of equipment at any location.

Not Iowa Brand

When folk in Mincola, Long Island, N. Y., say "Cut where the tall corn grows," they don't mean Iowa, but the corn patch of their neighbor, Oscar Calen. He's pictured above with some of the 12-foot stalks he grew from seed brought from Ecuador by a friend.

All West Point Games To Go On Air This Year

For the first time in sports history, West Point's entire football schedule will be broadcast this fall, according to Major General Edward F. Wittell, the Adjutant General. All nine of the Academy's tradition clashes will go on the air as part of a series of 21 football broadcasts sponsored by the War Department in the interests of Army recruiting. Over 933,000 volunteers have been enlisted in the last eleven months and the million man mark is expected to be reached in October.

An innovation in football broadcasting will be introduced with the airing of the series. Each broadcast will be programmed carefully to assure high entertainment value and to eliminate advertising between halves. The West Point choir and the West Point Glee Club will be massed with the 90-piece Academy band and will sing special football arrangements of "Sound-Off" the nationally known Army Show.

Sports announcers Harry Wisner, Ted Husing and Russ Hodges will give play by play descriptions of the games, and among the many high ranking officers who will speak during the broadcasts are General Jonathan M. Wainwright, of Corregidor fame, Major General Edward F. Wittell, the Adjutant General, and Lieutenant General R. A. Wheeler, Chief, Corps of Engineers.

Aside from the West Point schedule, other contests in the series of broadcasts will include Texas-Missouri, at Austin, Texas, on September 21; Notre Dame-Illinois, at Chicago on September 28 and Oklahoma-Texas A&M at Austin on October 5.

Nebraska Wheat Crop High In Quality, Quantity

LINCOLN, Neb. (UP) — Nebraska wheat farmers this year set two records with their tremendous crop.

The 92,000,000-bushel yield not only is the largest in state history, but also ranks tops for milling and baking qualities.

J. C. Swinbank, secretary of the Nebraska Grain Improvement Association, said 98 per cent of the crop tested "good and excellent" in milling and baking characteristics. Samples from all sections of the state also showed that 45.3 per cent was suitable for seed and that only 2.1 per cent contained objectionable varieties.

Says Cheese Bait Brings In Trout For Oklahoman

DALHART, Tex. (UP)—Texans, take a tip from an Oklahoman on how to make trout want to run up and hang themselves on your line the next time you go fishing.

Max Leder, a Dalhart merchant recently returned from a fishing trip to Colorado where he saw an unknown Oklahoma man take American cheese, roll it into balls about the size of a little finger tip, stick them on a trout hook and cast.

cast out to fairly deep water and just keep his line tight."

Pouring frosting on a cake is much quicker than dipping it on. Pouring also helps do a smoother job.

You'll usually hear NUMBER PLEASE? promptly...

We are working hard at the job of bringing telephone service to people waiting. To serve everyone, we need more wires and cable and equipment. They are on the way, but complex switchboards take time to make and install. Meantime, we are connecting more and more telephones to already crowded switchboards. Thus many on the waiting list are getting service sooner than otherwise. In spite of this emergency measure most calls go through quickly and accurately. Now and then you may be inconvenienced by having to wait a few seconds for the telephone operator's "Number, please?" However, you'll usually hear "Number, please?" promptly. And when more switchboards are installed, we can put in telephones for those who are waiting, and give everybody telephone service that's better than ever before.

House-To-Let Ad Brings Owners Riotous Response

PITTSFIELD, Mass. (UP)—The first "for rent" advertisement carried in the Berkshire Eagle in two years resulted in a riot in front of the home of Mrs. E. Benedetto Cimmini, the advertiser. A line of cars formed that completely blocked traffic. Apartment seekers pushed and shoved their way to the Cimmini front door. More than 200 telephone calls were received the first day. When it was announced that the apartment had been rented, several broke down and cried.

Station Designs Sweet Potato Tractor Digger

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (U.P.)—The Sweet Potato Experiment Station at Clifton, Texas, announced that it has developed a tractor-mounted sweet potato digger which simplifies the harvest of potatoes.

The digger consists of an old grader blade, bent and mounted on the rear of a tractor. The blade plows beneath the potatoes and they ride out of the ground on a finger-like arrangement attached to the blade. The fingers free the potatoes from the soil and leave them on the top of the bed.

An official in the experiment station says the digger will not cut or bruise as many potatoes as does an ordinary potato digger.

You Figure This One Out NANTUCKET, Mass. (UP)—The striking mechanism of the Nantucket town clock broke down decades ago, and it is apt to sound any number of times regardless of the time of day. But at 7:30 a. m., noon and 9 p. m. it strikes exactly 52 times to comply with an ancient ordinance. The striking is laboriously done by hand.
