Wallace Resigns At Request Of Truman

Well... I Dunno, But...

The boys who know tell us that the Bulldogs will have tough sledding in their game with Hillsboro tonight and we'll take their word for it.

Hillsboro is an AA team and some of the boys are just this side of elephantine, they tell us. Now, we don't have any oversized boys and being early in the season, with little experience behind them this year, we can see why fans are a little nervous.

Personally, we'd like to see the Bulldogs start the game with a little more vim, vigor and vitality and not wait until they get warmed up before they start doing their stuff. Sometimes the spirit with which a game is started determines how it ends and you can bet on it that every minute of tonight's game has to count for the Bulldogs.

Judging from last week's game, the Bulldogs are weak on some of their line play while the passing machine is pretty good. But there's a lot of risk when they have to take to the air. Too much chance to depend on the passing attack, alone.

But, we'll see tonight.

Mentioned something the other day about the importance of the Christmas spirit in living. A good illustration of that came to our attention a night or two ago.

In the current issue of a popular magazine there was the story of Father Purcell, a Catholic priest who had been retired with the faint suggestion from his superiors that he had completed his work. But he hadn't and now after 12 years work he heads a very fine medical, social and religious center for the forgotten negroes in central Alabama. His story is entitled "The Beggar of St. Jude" and he literally got the project started through begging.

His project is regarded as a big success and a crowning effort for his life's work, and one of the first things he teaches the negroes in the center, is not to hate the white people.

That sort of effort and spirit should do a great deal toward eliminating any racial problems in this country so far as the negroes and the whites go.

At least it will do more than the anti-lynching demonstration meeting that the negroes held in Chicago this week.

Oh yes, the Weather! It's become so pleasant that we almost forgot to talk about it.

Temperatures for the last few days have begun to approach the winter level, or rather they feel that way. Actually maximums have been in the 70s and minimums in the low 60s.

Rainfall for the month is 2.90 which is more than fell in July and August put together.

Truman purged his cabinet of another New Dealer today when he asked for and got Henry Wallace's resignation. Ickes was first to go.

In the days since the break between Truman and Wallace, without exception every person questioned about their opinion on the matter have been bitterly opposed to Wallace's stand and outlook.

There are times and times to speak plainly on one's opinions and while Wallace might have been sincere in his speech for appearance, he should have respected the fact that he was a member of the cabinet and if he felt that way about it stepped down and out of the cabinet before fighting the foreign policy of the administration of which he was a part.

Stevenson may have been right. Wallace was really tossing his hat in the presidential ring, he thought. And Mr. Truman wouldn't like that.

P-84 Tries For New Speed Record

FINANCIAL AID FOR VETERANS SPEEDED UP

CHICAGO (UP)—American GIs are getting more and more financial relief and special services from their home states today as state governments speed up their benefit programs for veterans.

The states are dipping into rehabilitation trust funds of millions of dollars and offering benefits in the form of educational assistance, hospitalization services, loans, jobs and programs for housing.

The Council of State Governments reports as typical examples the following:

Thousands of Wisconsin veterans and their families are getting relief through educational assistance, complete hospitalization service and loans out of state funds. Benefits are paid out of a post-war rehabilitation trust fund of $8,000,000 created by Wisconsin legislators last year.

One of the few states providing medical care and prolonged hospitalization for both veterans and their dependents, Wisconsin, has paid medical bills for 1,200 ex-servicemen since last fall.

Educational grants have been made to more than 1,000 Wisconsin veterans, dependence grants to more than 700 and other benefits have been paid to set up GIs in business and on farms.

As only about half of Wisconsin's 310,000 service men have been discharged, the state expects to increase financial aid still more in the next few years.

California legislators in special session increased funds earmarked for veterans' emergency housing to $10,000,000.

The increase, to be allocated to cities converting federal temporary war housing for veterans' use was expected to furnish 7,500 more housing units. Cities will augment the funds by paying 10 per cent of the costs.

More veterans are taking advantage also of California's educational benefits. The state guard agreed to spend up to $1,000 toward the education of any resident veteran.

In Alabama, more than 95 per cent of the 226,000 discharged veterans have received "some respectable service." Alabama veterans' aid is financed by an appropriation of $350,000.

Nebraska's state service office helps veterans from earnings of a trust fund which eventually will amount to $8,000,000.

Capt. Davenport Coach Of Army Baseball Team

FORT SILL, Okla., Sept. 18—Captain Norman E. Davenport, a company commander of the 53rd Transportation Corps Battalion, is also the coach of the champion baseball team of Fort Sill for 1946. He coached his organizations team through a highly successful season; the Truckers' predominated throughout the season, which attracted much attention here on the post.

A graduate of Ranger High School, he attended Ranger Junior College prior to his entry into the service. He served overseas for over two years, seeing action in New Guinea, the Admiralties, Leyte, Luzon, and was stationed at Honshu, in Japan with the 271st Field Artillery Battalion of the 1st Cavalry Division. Among his campaign ribbons, the Captain wears the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious achievement.

His mother, Mrs. Lottie Davenport, lives in Ranger, Texas. He and his wife live at Fort Sill; his wife's parents, Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Wilkins are residents of Covington, Oklahoma.

Wallace Silenced

VET HOUSING UNITS BEING CONSTRUCTED

Work is now underway on construction of three veterans housing units for Ranger Junior College and will be rushed to completion.

The units are located on the block between North Austin and Marston streets and bound on the side by Cypress. Concrete foundations have been completed and workers began laying the floors today. When completed the center will have 20 housing units in three buildings. Two of the buildings face west and one east and between two of them will be a landscaped court.

Walks will be laid around the block by the college and those within the grounds will be put down by the government.

The units were secured through the war surplus and are being re-erected by the government. Materials were brought in by truck and unloaded at the grounds by crane. The units will be available to married veterans only, who are enrolled in the college.

Demonstrator Fliers Make Belly Landing

Clyde Elliott of Harlingen

HARLINGEN, Tex. (UP)—Clyde Elliott of Harlingen and Harold Reynolds of Dallas, up for a demonstration flight in a new Culver two-place plane made a beautiful landing at Harlingen Army Air Field, but—

They forgot to lower the retractable landing gear before setting down. The plane slid in on its belly, skidded a few feet down the concrete runway, and halted.

And it was a surprised and chagrined pair who stepped out to meet the kidding of other pilots on the field.

The plane was little damaged; the prop was broken, and one part of the landing gear was bent.

Elliott explained he and Reynolds had been demonstrating power-off stalls and that the automatic signal, which blows a horn warning that the landing gear is still retracted, had bothered them. They threw a master switch which silenced the horn during the stalls, forgot to turn it back on when they went on to other stages of the demonstration.

"We just didn't check all we should have checked before making our landing," commented Elliott, chairman of the Jaycees aviation committee.

PHONE STRIKE SPREADING OVER TEXAS

HOUSTON, Texas (UP)—A disruption of telephone service started creeping over the nation's biggest state today as union leaders predicted service for Texas would be completely disrupted, except for emergency calls and automatic dial systems, by tomorrow.

Starting in Houston where 2,300 workers launched a "continuous meeting" Wednesday in a seniority dispute, the stoppage was slowly spreading. Rosenberg, Houston, Eagle Lake, Texas City, Madisonville, Columbus and Flatonia, all within 100 miles of Houston, felt the tie-up as workers walked out this morning.

Except for Houston, none of the cities with disrupted service had dial systems. They were without service except for emergency calls which supervisory personnel handled.

In St. Louis the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., rejected the union proposal arbiter of the Houston, Texas dispute and counter-proposed four other men, one a Houston banker.

U.S. Rejects Two Yugoslav Notes Of Complaints

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States has rejected two Yugoslav protests over recent outbreaks in Trieste, it was announced today, and has fired back an American protest slapping full blame for the incidents on the Tito government.

The State Department said the American note, replying to complaints over treatment of Yugoslav nationals in the U. S. zone of Trieste, was delivered in Belgrade September 17 by Ambassador Richard C. Patterson, Jr. The British delivered a similar note at the same time.

Accusing Belgrade of inaccuracies and "wild exaggeration," the American note charged that provocation by Yugoslav troops was "directly responsible for many of the attacks upon Yugoslav persons and property of which the Yugoslav government has complained."

CONFLICTING VIEWS ON U.S. POLICIES IS CAUSE OF RIFT

WASHINGTON (UP)—Henry A. Wallace resigned as secretary of commerce today at the request of President Truman.

The president said he was firing the one time vice president because there was a "fundamental conflict" between Wallace's views on foreign policy and those of the administration.

PARIS (UP)—Secretary of State James F. Byrnes and his associates tonight were overjoyed at President Truman's reaffirmation of Byrnes' "Get-tough-with-Russia" policy.

Mr. Truman, solemnly giving out the news at his morning press conference, authorized direct quotation of his remarks and said he could not permit this conflict to jeopardize our position in relation to other countries.

In his dismissal of the second new dealer from his cabinet in seven months—Harold L. Ickes stepped down by request in February—the president backed up this nation's foreign policy as now being conducted by Secretary of State James F. Byrnes—a policy of firmness toward Russia.

Wallace quit with a brief letter to the president which said: "Dear Harry,

"As you requested, here is my resignation. I shall continue to fight for peace. I am sure that you will join me in that great endeavor."

Harold Young, formerly of Dallas, Texas, solicitor of the commerce department and for years a confidant and a political advisor to Wallace, became acting secretary.

Mr. Truman expressed complete confidence in Byrnes and his delegation now representing this country at the Paris Peace Conference.

Mr. Truman said also that "no member of the executive branch of the government" henceforth will make any public statement on foreign policy which is in conflict with the established policy of the government.

Big Section Of Niagara Falls Collapses Today

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (UP)—A huge section of the American Falls collapsed into the mist of the deep lower Niagara Gorge today, shaking this mecca of honeymooners to its foundation, and rocking the area for miles around.

The collapse was reported to have occurred near the center of the smaller American Falls, close to the spot where erosion during the war years gouged a huge "W" in the rock precipice.

The section of rock which collapsed today was said to have been approximately four feet thick, 120 feet wide at the brink of the falls and tapering to about 30 feet at the bottom.

A SAMPLE PROBLEM

In one of the most interesting—though perhaps not the most newsworthy—paragraphs in his Stuttgart speech, Secretary of State Byrnes said: "The American people want peace. They have long ceased talk of a hard or soft peace for Germany. This has never been the real issue. What we want is a lasting peace."

It does indeed seem a long time since the general debate on "what kind of peace for Germany" was at its height. Actually it is not much more than 500 days ago, but those days have been filled with developments which make that argument seem hopelessly remote.

In that remote day, however, the issue of a hard or soft peace for Germany was a very real one. The quality of the peace terms promised to be a determining factor in the question of whether peace was to be lasting.

The debate was academic, to be sure. Some excellent minds engaged in it, but unfortunately they belong for the most part to non-participants in professional politics.

Time will tell whether the issue of a hard or soft peace was real, vital and fateful. And the answer may not be long in coming. But one thing is certain: right or wrong, real or illusory, the victorious nations cannot join that issue again.

Germany already is a potential pawn or partner, at least. Such a situation is certainly not "in the interest of world peace," as Mr. Byrnes said. But it is a real and apparently unchangeable situation, nevertheless. And it makes the future of Germany a grave and explosive problem.

In an even broader sense the problem of Germany is a sample and synthesis of the problem confronting all mankind. It has been argued that the Germans are perhaps the most progressive people in Europe. Yet the Germans are also the most belligerent of Europeans.

How, then, are their science and industry to be promoted, while their aggressiveness is being curbed? How are they to be permitted to grow strong in order to produce for the general material good, and yet be prevented from using their strength and productivity as bait and barter for military alliances looking toward more aggression?

These questions can be asked of all mankind. The human race is progressive, scientific and industrious. It cannot be pastoralized. Yet the human race is also belligerent. Today it would seem that man's progress is toward both ultimate human achievement and ultimate human destruction.

The problem of Germany is a sort of pilot-plant test of the whole world's future. And Germany's problem must be solved successfully before the larger problem can be approached with any degree of hope.

★ WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY DOUGLAS LARSEN
 NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NEA)—The deathly calm which has settled on the nation's capital with Congress and the President out of town and most of the cabinet members vacationing is causing great suffering.

Among those hardest hit are the numerous members of the brotherhood of professional lunch-walkers. News is being the cocktail capital of the world, Washington is probably the top lunching town of the globe, too. During normal times you can find four or five luncheons being thrown at any of the big hotels daily.

This has developed a special group of people who volunteer a good part of their existence to keeping these functions well attended. Members of this fraternity can be lesser government officials, slow-ambitious bureaucrats who attend under the promise of helping their husbands but who are only ruining their wastelives.

SOME members of the brotherhood are such skilled artists they have even been known to pay off social obligations this way. They invite friends to go with them and handle the crashing maneuver with such finesse that the guests—gone removed—don't realize what has happened.

But lean days have arrived. The number of luncheons being thrown has dwindled disastrously, principally because there are no "names" left in town on which to peg them. Congress is gone and the President is gone and so are the swarms of satellites whose only excuse for being in Washington is because the former two are here.

The net result is pandemonium in the ranks of the brotherhood. And the few brave persons who are giving luncheons are really catching it.

Bread of turkey or Lobster Newburg are the best drawing cards. It's easy to check before with the hotel chef and find out what's being served. The warning is out now, however, and the few noon affairs that are being given are sticking to mock chicken legs, baked short-ribs and cold plates. There are still overflow crowds, however.

THE Columbia Broadcasting System and its local station, WTOP, in alliance with the Famous Emergency Committee claim the only victory in the present crisis. They double-crossed the brotherhood. They threw a "famous" luncheon with the main dish consisting of 50 calories worth of dandelions, abetted with 25 calories worth of anchovy. The menu was kept a secret.

The party was at the swanky Statler. It took a lot of talking on the part of WTOP to get the hotel to serve it. The Statler is known for its excellent cuisine and hates to jeopardize its reputation even for a instant. The menu was supposed to be a typical Greek diet. The peculiar vegetables CBS asked to be served were out of season so the affair cost just as much as if turkey had been served but everybody was satisfied except members of the brotherhood. The howl that went up when the apologetic waiters uncovered the limp dandelions and anchovy soufflé—a green stuff that smells like squash—rattled the windows in the Carlton Hotel across the street.

SAN FRANCISCO—(NEA)—California, a power under the late Andy Smith in the early '20s, is this fall the mystery team of the Pacific Coast Conference. There is less information from Berkeley than from any other campus.

The reason is, of course, that Golden Bears are getting an entire new deal, Buck Shaw, now of the professional San Francisco '46ers, having filled in as head coach last autumn.

San Francisco University, old St. Ignatius, popped up with Big Clipper Smith, corralled everything from the surrounding bushes, and may be even tougher than any team in the conference.

Stanford, starting from scratch since the game was abandoned following the campaign of 1942, hasn't much in the way of reserves.

An interesting angle is that four Grade A linemen, who established reputations at California while in the Navy, are back on the team. They are guards Bill Hachten and Dick Mathison, who were highly placed among All-America selections, and tackles Dick Bosenoch and Jim Cox. Also back from the armed forces is Buck Fawcett, an excellent running back.

Japanese Mines Menace West Coast Shipping

SAN DIEGO, Cal. (UP)—Unrecovered Japanese mines will constitute a menace to west coast shipping for several more years, according to the United States Coast Guard.

The cutter Perseus recently sank a mine, found floating in the ocean 45 miles south of here. Coast guardsmen said there are about 40,000 Japanese mines unaccounted for and that when a mine breaks loose along the Japanese coastline, the current automatically carries it this way.

Twin Artesian Wells Tapped in Wisconsin

WASHBURN, Wis. (UP)—Twin artesian wells, flowing from the same hole in the ground, have been "brought in" by Walter Gustafson, veteran Washburn well-driller.

Gustafson discovered the freak wells on the Johnson farm near Washburn. "It's the first time I have heard of such a thing in 30 years of well building in Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan," Gustafson said. The wells have a combined flow of 150 gallons a minute. They originate from two strata separated by 61 feet of rock and gravel.

... is the popular way of saying that we act before we think. It is a state of mind not confined to the ignorant, nor to the mentally ill, but to all classes of people, some at times, others at all times. For instance, we buy property without an abstract. We spend several thousand dollars for improvements. Along comes a buyer who thinks before he acts and offers to purchase but wants an abstract first. How about your title Mr. Seller? Gasoline Tax To Face Jester As First Problem

AUSTIN, Tex., (UP)—Governor-Nominee Beauford Jester will run into one of his first problems at the Democratic State Convention when the platform is proposed.

One of the planks of Jester's campaign was that the State of Texas did not need to levy additional taxes to provide for state needs.

But the County Judges and County Commissioners Association of Texas is out determinedly for an additional cent-a-gallon tax on gasoline to be used for building farm roads.

If Jester can get safely around that situation and preserve harmony, he will be well started toward a successful administration even before his inauguration.

Austin, incidentally, is already beginning to look forward to the inauguration. There are signs that a citizens committee will seek to return again to the pre-war scale of insular affairs, though not perhaps in equaling the monster affair that was staged in the University of Texas Stadium when Pappy O'Daniel took office.

Romantic Texans will not be treated with another mansion wedding like that of Molly O'Daniel.

Barbara Jester, daughter of the incoming Governor, has announced she will be married this month in the Methodist Church at Corsicana where the family worships.

Whiskey-Drinking Chimpanzee Has To Go On Wagon

ERIE, Pa. (UP)—Scrap, the chimpanzee who's been enjoying whiskey ever since his St. Louis zoo days, never touches the stuff any more.

He just can't get his paws on it. When the state started rationing liquor, Scrap, who was raised on whiskey-spiked coffee instead of the conventional warm milk, lost all claim to his daily shots. "But the chimp who once was known as the hardest drinker of his species still gets his daily coffee. "He hasn't joined the WCTU or the AA, but apparently hasn't suffered from it," said Carl "Rip" Mangold, head zoo keeper.
