Wage Buying Power May Shrink Further

Well... I Dunno, But...

The press photographers are really making a howl and we don't blame them. They have been excluded from the Nuernberg executions while press correspondents have been granted permission to attend.

After all those photographs of the executions and an undeniable story that the public wants to see and not just read about. A formal protest was called to Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, U. S. Representative on the Allied Control Council in Berlin.

First they weren't going to let the correspondents in and their howl brought results so that a certain number were given permission to witness the execution.

While we're on the subject of the press, this is National News paper week and the week is being observed all over the nation. Ranger people should feel proud of the fact that of the very few thousand daily newspapers in the United States, they have one of them. The paper is several jumps ahead of many of the smaller daily newspapers, bringing to its readers news features, telephoto and United-Press wire news besides the local coverage.

The paper recently contracted with the United Press for additional time on the telephone news and now is getting more wire news than in many years.

Of course, there's always room for improvement and that is the goal of the staff, to maintain a constant vigil for opportunities to improve the paper for the benefit of its readers.

A few columns back, we told about the complaint from the man who thought Ranger streets should have markers. Today, Saylor Bras, called our attention to the fact that Dallas has a surplus of street markers and wants to sell them to some small town.

It's just human nature to accept the good things of life without ever making any sign of appreciation and on the other hand to holler to high heaven about the things we don't like.

We feel a little guilty. For all summer long we groaned and groaned about the terrible heat and drought and when along comes this grand fall weather, we just go along enjoying it and never so much as mentioning it.

But these cool crisp mornings are just like a good tonic and despite the creaking bones we have a youthful urge to do a little hop, skip and jump. No don't get alarmed, we said we just had the urge, but better judgment curbs the urge.

We do like the way the weather makes people throw back their heads in the crisp winds and add a little spring and speed to their walking.

Maek McKeever took Rip Galloway on an airplane trip Wednesday, going to Big Spring, Carlsbad and Lubbock. Maek says Rip was a little nervous over the trip and when they didn't get back before dark last night and had to land on the field in the dark, it was almost too much.

Maek says that Rip kept passing the buck, saying that he was nervous because he knew that Mrs. Galloway would be nervous if they didn't get back before dark.

The two made the trip in a twin engine plane.

Aunt of Mrs. Joe Dennis Dies In Goldthwaite
Mrs. Joe Dennis received word this morning of the death of her aunt, Mrs. Mary Johnson of Goldthwaite.
Mrs. Johnson was 84 years of age and died in Goldthwaite. Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock at the Big Valley Baptist church near Goldthwaite.
Mr. and Mrs. Dennis expect to attend the services.

MGM Strikers Parade

Over 250 striking war veterans paraded before the entrance to MGM Studios in Culver City, California, Wednesday. They wore only parts of their uniforms without insignia and some put steel helmets on their heads. Deputy sheriffs stood by as the mass demonstrators were instructed there would be no arrests as long as the strikers kept moving. (NEA Telephoto.)

CHIEF ISSUES WARNINGS TO LOCAL PEOPLE

Chief George Murphy today issued two appeals to the people of Ranger as a matter of their own protection.

He urged that the business people of Ranger make more careful investigations before cashing checks for strangers. In the past few weeks policemen have had to run down several cold check artists and one is being held in the Ranger jail now. Chief Murphy stated that there seems to be an increase in this line and business people are warned to be more careful.

Chief Murphy further stated that the policemen are going to enforce to the letter of the law, the regulations concerning reckless driving around Ranger schools. He stated that the force is not trying to get tough with anybody but that they cannot stand by and see some child crippled through careless driving around schools. He particularly referred to fast driving around the schools.

He said that the fellow that breaks those laws will be arrested and punished according to the law.

Officials Of Lone Star Here For Meeting

A group of Lone Star officials from Dallas are in Ranger today conferring with officials in this district.

A meeting of the officials with all plant superintendents was held at the Lone Star hall in the Lone Star Producing Company office building this morning.

At noon the officials from Dallas were guests of John Bates at the weekly meeting of the Lions Club.

Those here from Dallas are John Kinley, A. W. Breland, R. A. Minter, W. A. Allred, and Lee Thompson.

Three-Legged Deer Wins Law's Consent to Live

THE DALLES, Ore. (UP)—Bambi, the three-legged deer, will live and be pet at the Emory Thompson ranch near here.
The young buck, found limping in a pasture, with a bad fracture, was taken to a veterinarian, who decided on amputation to save Bambi's life.
State law forbids keeping deer in captivity. So Thompson made formal application to state authorities, and under the circumstances it was decided Thompson could keep it.

U. S. Methods In Skin Grafting Shown Italians

ROME (UP)—Dr. Joseph V. Callacirone, a specialist in maxillo-facial and plastic surgery, has arrived in Italy on the invitation of the Italian government to hold a series of lectures on split-skin grafting in the treatment of burns.

As a representative and vice president of "American Medical Aid for Italy," Dr. Callacirone has brought 12 "Padgett-dermatone" instruments used for skin grafting as a gift to Italian universities. With every donation he makes a motion picture demonstration lecture of his various successful skin grafting maxillo-facial, and plastic surgical cases.

With each lecture he gives a practical demonstration of the use of the new instrument. He has already demonstrated and donated the instrument to the clinics of Palermo, Catania and the Policlinico Umberto I, University of Rome. His itinerary will take him to other Italian university cities. He will remain in Italy several more weeks.

Before coming to Italy, Dr. Callacirone had just presented in the United States 1,500 cases of skin grafting with the new instrument, known as "Padgett dermatone," which supersedes his own invention, the "Callacirone knife," used in skin grafting heretofore.

Interviewed in Rome, Dr. Callacirone said: "They are still using my knife over here. The Russians recently ordered 500 of them. I am trying to persuade plastic surgeons here to discard my knife and use the 'Padgett dermatone,' which is more modern, accurate and practical."

Fire Breaks Out Three Times On The Same House

Three alarms for the same house were answered by the fire department last night and early this morning when the home of Mrs. Nellie Griffice three times broke out in fire. The home was located on McCleskey Street.

The first alarm came about midnight when the department answered the call and extinguished the fire. A careful inspection was made to see that the fire was extinguished before the trucks left the scene, but due to the construction of the house, a smoldering somewhere started another fire about 3:00 o'clock this morning.

The department again thought that the fire had been completely put out but at 8:00 o'clock this morning another call came from the same house. Chief George Murphy stated this morning that the house would be considered a total loss. A few belongings in the home were salvaged.

Johnson and sudan grass resemble each other except that sudan grass leaves are broader and more numerous. Sudan grass is grown for fodder, while Johnson grass commonly found as a weed.

5 DIRECTORS ADDED TO C. OF C. LIST

It was announced today that five new directors have been selected for the Chamber of Commerce and will serve along with the ten directors who were named at the last election.

The ten directors already serving are Lee Dorkery, W. F. Creager, M. L. King, A. J. Ratliff, L. R. Pearson, David D. Pickrell, J. F. Killingsworth, Hall Walker, T. C. Wylie, and Willard Swaney. Walker is president of the organization, W. F. Creager treasurer and T. C. Wylie, vice-president.

The new directors were selected from 15 men that were selected by the membership.
R. V. Galloway, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, stated today that the regular meeting of the directors will be held Monday night at which time a chicken dinner at the Chicken Inn will be given to honor the new directors.

Speaker Tells Of Possibilities In Telephones

H. C. Henderson was in charge of the Rotary Club program at the weekly meeting Wednesday at noon at the Gholson Hotel and presented E. Hooks of Cisco, manager for the Southwestern Bell Telephone and George Hutson also with the telephone company.

Hutson spoke to the club on the telephone yesterday, today and tomorrow and told of the uses the telephone served in the war and on inventions that will be put into operation in the future.

So remarkable are some of the inventions that it is difficult for the laymen to realize the extent of the series that they will give. One of the things that he pointed out was the possibility of a world telephone system which necessitate an international language. This he concluded would go a long way toward keeping world peace.

Mutton-Bird Catcher
SYDNEY, Australia (UP)—Probably one of the strangest jobs in Australia is held by a man who told a Perth (Western Australia) census taker that he was a "shark fin classifier." There are two kinds of shark fins, he said, one gelatinous and the other meaty; the first was worth up to 16 shillings ($2.50) a pound and the other 1 shilling ninepence (25¢).

Other odd answers to "what is your occupation?" were mutton-bird catcher, pauper, temperance agent, snake charmer, professional tourist and wizard. More ill-natured was the head of a house who filled in his mother-in-law's card with "sits in her chair and smokes all day."

BELIEVE ALL KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

STEPHENVILLE, Neb. (UP)—A four-engine trans-Atlantic airliner exploded against a rocky hillside 12 miles east of here early today, and a ground rescue party which reached the scene five hours later indicated that all the 32 persons aboard had been killed.

Only visual communication with the ground party had been established, but pilots flying over the ruined plane said their hand signals indicated none had survived.

It was the worst tragedy in the history of commercial aviation, and most of those aboard the American Overseas Airlines DC-4 were Americans, a number of them wives and children of Americans in Germany who were flying to join their men.

The plane, enroute from New York to Berlin, had landed to refuel at Harmon Field here, because Gander, Nfld., 160 miles away, was weathered in. Gander was the scene just two weeks ago yesterday of the crash of a Sabena Belgian Airlines plane, in which 27 died.

Sgt. James Johnson, of the public relations section of the Air Transport Command here, said the Harmon Field tower crew and others watched the big plane make a normal takeoff, under a 5,000-foot ceiling, just before 3:30 a. m.

Then they watched in horror as it plunged into the rocky hillside, only 100 feet below the crest of a 1,900 foot elevation, 12 miles from the field.

The plane exploded, Johnson said, and flames shot into the sky.

Truman Agrees With Steelman On Meat Shortage

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Truman said today he believed Reconversion Chief John R. Steelman was probably correct in reporting that the meat shortage would get worse this winter.

Mr. Truman told his news conference that a survey of the meat situation is now being made.
In reply to a question, Mr. Truman said there is no discrepancy between Steelman's statement on meat and his own statement a week ago that the meat shortage would ease up in the near future.

The president pointed out that he had never said there would be an abundance of meat. He did say there would be no meat famine although a continued shortage was expected.

Argentina Back In Ocean Trade

BUENOS AIRES (UP)—Having lost 12 of its wartime 28 ships, Argentina's Flota Mercante del Estado (government-owned merchant fleet) is buying and building ships in Britain, Sweden and the United States.

With the first of these new vessels, Argentine shipping routes will be extended to northern Europe and the Mediterranean.

Eleven of the Flota Mercante's ships were returned to Italy, France and Denmark—their original owners—after sailing under Argentine registry during the war. The twelfth, the Rio de la Plata, burned at Acapulco, Mexico, in 1944.

Aiming at an eventual 37 vessels the Argentine maritime concern has five ships under construction in Great Britain and another on the ways in Sweden.

Meanwhile, the Flota Mercante is planning to let contracts for three cargo-passenger vessels. Officials are studying the bids of 26 builders in England, the United States, France, Denmark, Belgium and Italy. These three ships are to displace around 8,000 deadweight tons, and will carry 100 first-class passengers in individual cabins.

"Each first-class cabin," Flota Mercante official Guillermo Pozzo said, "will have a private bath and air conditioning."

School Ready To Enroll Vets In Trade Courses

The Eastland County Vocational School is interested in enrolling Veterans in Trade Courses such as Welding, Radio, Plumbing, and Refrigeration. This type of work will be set up for those Veterans whose job is not related to the type of training he wants or is eligible for. The Veteran who is working as a laborer and he is interested in learning a definite trade, we can organize a class in that trade, provided we can secure sufficient enrollment to pay expenses.

By attending class 12 1-2 hours per week, the Veterans can draw 1-2 subsistence provided it does not put him over the ceiling wage of $175 and $200. One half of his eligibility will be counted against him. This is a different type of training to the type we now offer as related work. This type of training does not require agreement with the employees, as it will be strictly Institutional Training. In the past, the Veteran could not draw any subsistence.

Veterans interested in Trade Courses are urged to contact the Eastland County Vocational School if they desire to learn a specific trade.

Good Neighbors Rescue Veterans

MADISON, Wis. (UP)—Attention, Wilson Wyatt, national housing administrator. Here's the kind of man you've been looking for.

His name is Vernon Kahl, and he lives in Verona—a small town near Madison.

The housing shortage had seemed a little remote to Kahl until he heard a radio plea from students unable to find rooms in this overcrowded university city.

Remembering a mere five extra bedrooms in his home, Kahl went to the student housing bureau. He left a few minutes later without an extra bedroom to his name, but before going asked the official in charge if everybody had been taken care of yet.

The answer was a mild shock to Kahl, but it started him thinking again. There were those rafters he'd put up for a machine shop.

Now 27 veterans and their wives will be attending the University of Wisconsin because they have a place to live—either in Kahl's home or in the 22 apartment building he finished in less than two weeks.

The Verona farmer admits he had a few difficulties, but explains he got plenty of neighborhood cooperation in the form of grading, carpenter work, borrowed furniture, and a host of other hard-to-get commodities. He adds it helps to have friends.

THREE FREED NAZIS TO GET SAFE PASSAGE

NUERNBERG, (UP)—German civil authorities and the American military government agreed today to give Franz Von Papen, Hjalmar Schacht, and Hans Fritzsche safe passage to the British zone without threat of German arrest.

Nuernberg de-nazification officials had ordered the three men arrested as former Nazis. One hundred policemen had surrounded the Palace of Justice waiting for them to come out. The police were withdrawn on directions of the American military government.

The arrest order remained in effect, however, and the three acquitted Nuernberg defendants may spend another night in their chosen sanctuary—the Nuernberg jail.

The German police chief said the directive to withdraw his men came from "higher American military authorities."

German warrants were issued for each of the three acquitted defendants.

Hull's Condition Reported To Be Most Critical

WASHINGTON, (UP)—Former Secretary of State Cordell Hull is in a "most critical condition," the Navy reported today.

"The Navy said in an official bulletin: "Mr. Hull had a very poor night. His condition continues to be most critical."

The white haired elder statesman was fighting a grim but apparently losing battle for life at the nearby Bethesda, Md., Naval Hospital.

He took a turn for the worse last night—his 75th birthday. The father of the United Nations, who suffered a stroke Monday night, clung to life with the same determination that carried him to his triumphs in world diplomacy.

Tech Man First Casualty of Football Season

LUBBOCK, (UP)—The first death of the 1946 football season was recorded today in Texas.

Billy Joe Whitehead, 21, a reserve fullback for Texas Tech, died this morning of head injuries received in practice.

Whitehead was injured early in September and was re-injured Monday during a practice session, Tech officials said. He died without regaining consciousness.

Hold-Up Man Used Toy Pistol

George Bray Pipkin, 23, an escapee from the State Hospital at Wichita Falls, Texas, looks rather chagrined as he is "held up" with a toy pistol by Ft. Worth police Capt. R. M. Burks. Pipkin was captured in Ft. Worth after a cross country hold-up spree, including Oklahoma City, Knoxville and Joplin, in which he used the same toy pistol. Pipkin has been a problem child to the police since 1936, finally being confined to the State Hospital from which he escaped recently. (NEA Telephoto.)

TRUMAN WARNS OF DANGER AT TODAY'S NEWS CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Truman said today there is a real danger of wages going down still further in terms of their purchasing power. He said the government is trying to stop this trend.

Mr. Truman made these comments in reply to a news conference question. He also read a statement pointing out the highlights in a report on the nation's economic health by Reconversion Chief John R. Steelman.

Steelman's reports appealed to labor and industry to ease up on their wage and price increase demands or face a boom and bust.

Steelman said in his report that real wages of the nation's workers have dropped about one-sixth in the past year. He said a married man with three dependents, for example, finds that the $36 he earned in 1945 is now worth only a little more than $30 in terms of things he buys.

"This downward trend in real wages should and will be reversed," Steelman said.

The president said the government is doing everything it can to keep prices from going up—that is, everything it can possibly do with the tools available.

Asked if he felt a new price control legislation is needed, Mr. Truman replied there is no necessity for it at this time. Besides, he added it wouldn't do a bit of good for the administration to seek it.

In his prepared statement which he read to the press conference, the president cited the sharp increases in employment, the drop in unemployment, the high rate of income and consumer spending and industrial production.

He said Steelman's report showed that "we are driving steadily ahead toward peacetime prosperity."

"Yet, I should like to emphasize the sober note of warning sounded in the report," Mr. Truman said.

Urges Nations To Avoid War Resulting Acts

PARIS, (UP)—Secretary of State James F. Byrnes joined Premier Josef Stalin today in predicting that war is not imminent but urged all nations to avoid serious political or economic adventures which could only result in war.

"Just because war is not imminent, we must take the greatest care not to plant the seeds of future wars," Byrnes told the American Club in Paris.

He reissued his invitation for Soviet Russia to join the United States, Britain and France in a treaty for demilitarization of Germany to last 40 years. He said the term could be extended if the interests of peace and security require.

OUR NATIONAL DEFENSE (V)

Two prime requirements of our national safety in this chaotic period are a sound economy and an adequate national defense. The first depends largely on a balanced budget and efficient, economical conduct of the government.

How to reconcile these two requirements is a difficult problem. This country cannot afford to continue spending on anything like its wartime basis. At the same time, it cannot afford to continue budgeting for the national defense in what seems to us the rather capricious and ill-considered manner evident in the examples which have been cited in four previous editorials.

One apparent weakness in our defense is a lack of broad and co-ordinated planning. The rapid demobilization of our armed forces caused grave concern.

Yet even though our military and naval strength is below par, the War and Navy Departments certainly are aware of their potential strength, including their trained reserves. They have a good idea of the auxiliary forces available, and of the rate at which they could be inducted and trained.

But there seems to be no such planning at present as regards the industries which would be called upon to arm, supply and transport this potential strength.

What seems needed now is a master plan and a clear policy for national defense, arrived at by the appropriate military and civilian departments of government, and by representatives of research science, engineering and producing industry.

Economy today is not only necessary but also extremely popular. Hence it is possible for the President, a congressional committee, or the head of a government agency to par a defense appropriation with little questioning.

A thorough study by qualified men of our total defenses needs and capacities should put the whole matter on a sounder and, in the long run, more economical basis. I should give the authorities a blueprint, and the people a standard of judgement. It should determine the lowest level of activity consistent with safety and advancement.

The government and the people it represents must work toward the day when the possibility of war is even more remote. But that day will not be speeded by economic dictation by misapprehension, expediency or wishful thinking.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY FRED EDSON, NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NEA)—Cordell Hull was 75 years old October 2. He has been in Naval Medical Center, on the outskirts of Washington. Nothing seriously wrong. Just there for checkup and rest his doctors ordered several weeks ago.

When the great secretary of state resigned from his office in November, 1944, after nearly 12 years in Franklin Roosevelt's cabinet, he spent seven months in the hospital. He was near physical exhaustion. Even his lean, Tennessee mountaineer body could not keep up the pace set by his keen statesman's mind through all the troubled experiences of a Spanish war captain, judge, congressman, Democratic national committee chairman, senator and guardian of foreign policy.

Since January of this year Cordell Hull's first—no, his second interest—has been the writing of his memoirs. His first interest is still the state of the world and the keeping of the peace.

Cordell Hull's memoirs will be published by Macmillan some time next year, probably before Cordell Hull is 76. They will be in two volumes—fully 350,000 words.

THERE is something Lincolnian about this tall Tennesseean, who earned the money for his first law books by rafting logs down the Cumberland to Nashville and went on from there to become the real father of the United Nations. This child is his chief concern.

Hull's memoirs will be told first person singular. It will be his own story of his times, but helping him with the manuscript is big, blond Andy Berding, Associated Press correspondent assigned to the State Department before the war. He served in the European theater O. S. S.—the cloak and dagger outfit—coming out a lieutenant colonel. Then Cordell Hull spoke for him to help in the writing of his book.

Four mornings a week since he took the assignment, Andy Berding has worked with Cordell Hull at his Wardman Park hotel apartment. Berding takes down everything Hull tells him, in shorthand. On his next visit, he brings back the transcript. Hull goes over it word by word. He marks corrections in red pencil, with a strong clear hand.

By the time Berding reaches Hull's apartment to begin the day's work, the secretary will have read three or four newspapers. He awakens about 7, but on doctor's orders he reads the papers in bed. He wants to talk about the day's news before he begins dictating.

Mrs. Hull—with difficulty—stops the work before 1. Hull eats his big meal of the day then, with a lighter supper at night. His appetite is good and he can eat practically anything. They have a maid who prepares the meals in the apartment, under Mrs. Hull's careful supervision.

For relaxation the secretary sometimes takes a morning walk, sometimes an afternoon automobile ride. He has had to give up his favorite game of croquet as too strenuous. He always considered croquet a great game of strategy, figuring his shots for several plays ahead, usually beating his opponents. Frequently he played a round in a four-ball match without losing his turn.

SPORTS

BY HARRY GRAYSON, NEA Sports Editor

CHARGES of over-emphasis hurled at college football from time to time are not new, as you know. But they date back much further than most people suspect, it being popularly supposed that they started with the post-World War I boom in the early 1920s.

Why, as long ago as 1892, President Rogers of Northwestern felt called upon to defend intercollegiate athletics in a speech dedicating the university's new football stands, which accommodated a crushing 600 persons by the way.

"It has been charged," he said, "that universities are inculcating a new religion which enjoins its disciples above all things to fear God and run a mile in four minutes and a half. This sort of criticism is absurd. Students after engaging in their sports betake themselves to their books with new zeal."

They still do. President Rogers was 50 years head of his time, but there still are a few colleges who could use an educator like him.

NOT since Seabiscuit and War Admiral ran like one in the 1938 edition has there been so much pre-race interest in the Pimlico Special.

Although 17 earned invitations, the 1946 running of Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's pet shapes up as a match race between Lucky Draw, George D. Widener's amazing come-back, and Calumet's Armed. Each set four track records and equalled others, and now they are due to meet, Nov. 1, at equal weights, both being five-year-old geldings.

While Lucky Draw prevailed when they tangled in the Narragansett Special, Bull Lea's greatest racing son toted 130 to the winner's 123.

While there is much ado about the prospective re-meeting of Lucky Draw and Armed, Galloriette will receive weight from all except her own sex instead of giving concessions, if Bill Brann accepts her invitation.

While Galloriette has not swept all behind her as did Twilight Tear and Busher the past two campaigns, she earned undisturbed title as leader of her division when she won her section of the Bel-dame at Aqueduct, while spotting opponents from 13 to 21 pounds.

This lady carries a lot of weight. PRACTICALLY every college admits it has the finest football material in many a day. . . . The trouble is that everyone else is similarly loaded. . . . Following four years in the Navy, George McAfee of the Bears says his greatest difficulty is falling on the ground again. . . . Dana X. Bible is now working on his third hundred of football victories, and this year's Longhorns and the next will help him run the total up. . . . The fight game needs either new fighters or matchmakers. . . . The Athletics had a tough time winning 50 games, and Connie Mack admits he has nothing coming up. . . . But Philadelphians long ago demonstrated that they could take it like Tommy Farr.

How Time Lag Gave Argentina Revolt A Break

BUENOS AIRES (UP)—Whereas today the news of war and rumors of wars is broadcast to all parts of the world within minutes—the first word of Argentina's declaration of independence from Spain in 1810 did not reach Europe for over two months.

An article by Oscar Rios Marmol in the current issue of the Buenos Aires magazine, Mundo Argentino, recalls that news of the Argentine rebellion of May 25, 1810, reached Spain only after British vessels which were in Buenos Aires at the time docked in England the following August.

Meanwhile the revolutionaries had mobilized forces throughout Argentina, sent expeditions against the Spanish in neighboring countries, and had done 4,000,000 pesos' worth of business with British merchant vessels.

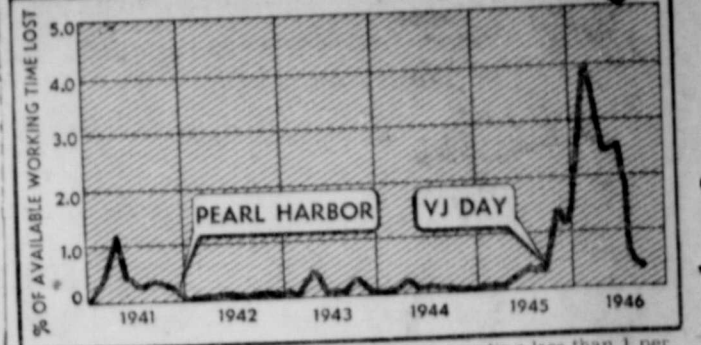

British naval officers were the only foreigners present at the first pledging of public allegiance in Buenos Aires to Argentina's May revolution. The London "Monthly Magazine" of July, 1810, reported that 170 British merchant vessels were lining Argentine shores shortly before the revolution, "unable to unload cargo for lack of licenses from Spain."

This strangulation of trade, incidentally, was the economic reason for the rebellion of the Argentine colonists. The first benefit the colonists derived from the revolution was the immediate break trade with Britain.

Without the period of grace provided by the time it took Spanish expeditions to cross more than 4,000 miles of water, the Argentine revolution, which touched off other revolts and campaigns and eventually freed all of South America, might have been suppressed.

Wisconsin conservation wardens arrested 215 persons for violation of hunting and fishing laws during April of this year and got 193 convictions.

How Strikes Eat Up Working Time

During the war, strikes were at a minimum, costing less than 1 per cent of America's man-days of work, but after V-J Day they shot up to a peak of 4 per cent of the available working time.

The secretaries of war and interior today held the key to the fate of a chunk of western geography—one-third larger than Delaware and Rhode Island combined—which is the center of a fight between owners of sheep and waters of rockets.

Civic leaders of west-central Utah and east-central Nevada also have protested. They're afraid the rocket range would permanently cut U. S. Highway 6, a route that is little used now but is marked for eventual development into another transcontinental main line.

At the hearing, the major case for adding the strip of Utah land, 150 miles long and 50 miles wide along the Nevada border, to the range was presented by Col. H. J. Sands, Jr., assistant to the chief of the army's pilotless aircraft section.

Sands explained that no other strip of land in the United States—or its possessions—was so suitable to guided missile testing.

Proposed locations in Alaska, Nevada and California were eliminated by Sands in his argument on the grounds that Alaska is too cold and rugged and the Tonopah, Goldfield, Hawthorne and Death Valley sites in the other two states have too many mountains.

"We have to follow the rockets by radar," Sands said "and radar, wonderful as it is, can't go through mountains."

Sands warned that the next war—if it comes—will come quickly and will be started by nations well equipped with guided missiles.

"It'll be too late for experimentation to wait until the firing starts," he added. "And the next war, if it comes, will be fought from a long way off."

He admitted that many Utah

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Bert Childers and the Melon Patch

Bert Childers put an ad in the Clarion the other day. Here's what it said: "Planted more melons than I can eat this year. Stop by and pick as many as you want. All free." As you can guess, plenty of folks sent their kids over and plenty of the parents came too. Stripped Bert's melon patch in no time. And as they went away, Bert treated the kids to lemonade, and offered the grownups a glass of ice-cold sparkling beer.

Naturally it puzzled some folks... but Bert explains: "It gives me a kick to share things when I can afford to—whether it's the melons, or the lemonade, or beer. I guess I just like to indulge my whims."

From where I sit, if we had more "self-indulgent" people like Bert—who believe in share and share alike, live and let live, this tired world would be a whole lot better off!

Campus Paper Shows Times, Co-Eds Change

DELAWARE, O. (UP)—Co-eds on the Ohio Wesleyan University campus here this fall probably would riot if they were limited to the "privileges" extended to senior girls in 1914.

The campus newspaper even in that sedate year said "co-eds of a generation ago would rub their eyes and pinch themselves," if they saw these concessions to women's rights.

The seniors could remain in nearby Columbus shopping until 6:30 p.m. they could receive evening dates in the library, with a time limit of 30 minutes; they could go automobile with parents or immediate friends on Sunday.

DEVIL'S LAUGHTER

By Alice M. Laverick Copyright, 1946. NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Charlotte's health improves and she and Cecilia plan their long-delayed picnic. Colin Fitzgerald unexpectedly joins them, overrules Charlotte's protests that he is not wanted. He settles both young women in the canoe, paddles them off to look for a good picnic spot. He tells Charlotte that men wonder when there's nothing to keep them at home.

 "COLIN paddled to the shore, congratulating himself the while on being such a wonderful guide, added to all his other amazing gifts and talents, and helped out of the canoe. And he started his flag then, his hand-scribble on a stick.
 "What shall we call this land, Queen Isabella?" he said to Charlotte.
 "Naturally, we shall call it Little Innisfail, my dear Columbus," he said, kneeling beside me on the thick cool moss to help open her lunch. "Isn't it delicious here, Cecilia?" She drew a long breath of the sweet-scented air and shivered a little.

"It's heavenly, Miss Charlotte," said, and she laughed at the Miss.
 Colin brought the pillows from the canoe and made us comfortable against the trunk of one of the old trees. And there I was with Miss Charlotte on one side of me and Colin Fitzgerald on the other. I had hardly a word to say. I was so enchanted at just seeing them, listening to them talk, until they kept giving messages to each other through me.

Eventually we noticed that the sun was getting low, and reluctantly decided that it was time to pack up and leave.
 It was when we started to rise, with Colin taking our hands and helping us, that Miss Charlotte twisted her ankle. And Colin, quickly, the bit of nonsense dying on his lips, his eyes serious put his arm about her.

She straightened up just as quickly, however, and took my arm, saying she was perfectly all right. It was nothing. And after a moment, he took the pillows and the basket and we went back to the canoe.

WE took our time coming back, drifting slowly down river, watching the sunset. We sang a little, not much, all of us so relaxed and feeling so lazy after our day in the open that we didn't want to exert ourselves even that much. Colin looked browner than ever, if possible, and Miss Charlotte's eyes sparkled and her face was slightly pink from the sun. I knew I had a sunburn, too, that would add a few freckles to the more than plenty I already had. Let I did not care. It had been such fun.

Colin told us jokes, mostly Irish ones, with an excellent imitation of a brogue, and we laughed some more. He kept looking at Miss Charlotte and now and then I had that familiar feeling of being completely unnoticed.
 Looking back later, I did not know whether we should be glad or sorry that we had been so gay that afternoon. For when we arrived at Innisfail, there was a great shock awaiting us. I found Ellen in the kitchen, rocking back and forth, with grief. And at first I could not comprehend what she was telling me, and when I did, I was stunned.

For old lady Fitzgerald had died that afternoon.
 While we sat on the mossy slope under the trees and sang and laughed and enjoyed ourselves so thoroughly, she had been lying dead there in Innisfail.
 I could not believe it. It was not possible. But it was so.

In her last sleep, Honora Fitzgerald was really noble-looking. They had somehow made her look like the portrait, and with those restless eyes forever closed, her face was calm, her features stamped with grandeur. And I realized, as I gazed at her, that I had grown fond of her during those few weeks I had known her. Arrogant and opinionated she had been, to be sure, but something about her was forever to keep a place in my heart.

Marry Me! Girl Pleads Answering For Rent Ad

SEATTLE (UP)—Wife Cary Doremus, Seattle, answered his apartment for rent and not the usual flood of replies, but was stumped when a 23 year old girl home-seeker asked his name. He replied he was 28. Before he could inform her the place was already rented, she gave the punch line.
 "Well, I am 23, and five feet two inches tall. Blue eyes and brown hair—will you marry me?"
 Doremus got his breath and tried to explain he couldn't say "yes". The girl cried bitterly.
 "Said she was desperate," Doremus mused. "She was really upset, and wouldn't tell me her name then."

Wave Never Afloat, Army Solves That

CINCINNATI, O. (UP)—The U. S. Army in Cincinnati has resorted to naval tactics to help solve the housing problem of 22 women employees.

The Ohio River division engineers are housing the employees on two quarterboats moored here, with the girls paying $15 a month rent and $2 for maid fees.

"Just think," says Miss Edith Dunn, division clerk, "26 months in the WAVES and not once inside a boat. Now I go to sea by grace of the army."

Tramp Steamer Vanishes Under Modern Pressure

LONG BEACH, Cal. (UP)—The days of the tramp steamer roaming the seas in search of cargo seem almost over. Shipping now isn't what it used to be. A tramp steamer—a ship for hire wherever she happens to be—has not been seen in the port of Long Beach, under the American flag, for 20 years. The reason, say shipping men, is that shipping today is too big and costly for personal operations. Back in the days of personal initiative, a man could build a big sailing ship for $40,000 and pay for it on one voyage. Clipper ships bumped from port to port with tramp cargo, but the financial involvement was small. An operator in the clipper ship era could have built 30 fine big windjammers for what goes into one Liberty ship.

Suggestions For The Week's Menu

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

EVER hear of Irish Cobbler potatoes? They're the roundish, creamy white, smooth-skinned variety, and run in sizes medium to large.

The true origin of the Irish Cobbler is not known. According to one story, the Irish Cobbler was originally grown by an Irish shoemaker of Marblehead, Mass. But then another son of Ireland—a Lumberton, N. J., shoemaker—is credited by another source with having first grown Irish Cobblers, from tubers found as a mixture in a shipment of Early Rose seed potatoes.

Though their true beginning is still shrouded in mystery, Irish Cobblers today are grown in almost every state. This year they are an important part of one of the largest potato crops on record.

Down On The Farm

As it did in other types of business, the war accelerated the swallowing-up of small individual establishments by larger farms. There were a quarter-million fewer farms of less than 180 acres each in 1945 than there were in 1940. On the other hand, there was an increase during the five-year period in the number of farms embracing more than 180 acres. The number of farms containing 1000 acres or more increased 10 per cent during the five years.

Of the 5,877,000 farms in the United States, 1,301,000 grow products primarily for their own household use—not for sale. There was a decrease during the

WITH meat so rare a thing these days, you can build up your protein supplies in the daily menus by using hearty main-dish salads for the family luncheon.

Here are a few suggestions. You can think up something new on what your market offers. Serve them attractively and on large plates. They are the main course, remember.

Potato Salad With Frankfurters

1. Hot potato salad, inch-length of hot frankfurters. Garnish of pickles and hard-cooked egg. Optional—herbs (rosemary or thyme or basil) or a dash of nutmeg.

2. Cubed canned or cooked ham, cut celery, cubed cheddar-type cheese. Bed on shredded lettuce. Garnish with tomato wedges, olives, or radishes.

3. Cubed cooked ham, drained kernel corn, chow-chow. Garnish of sliced hard-cooked egg and tomato wedges.

4. Sardine, onion rings, sliced tomato on crisp romaine or lettuce.

5. Sliced eggs, sliced radishes, minced green pepper. Sprinkle dressing with celery seed.

Baked Bean Salad

6. Three cups cold baked beans, 1/4 cup chow-chow, 1 cup cut celwar of almost 200,000 in the number of farm operators under 35 years of age, and a resultant increase in the number of farmers over 35 years of age.

One Hundred Years of Spooning
There are 60,000 brides a month, and they all want spoons.

According to the original manufacturers of silver plate, in Meriden, Conn., whose first product was a spoon produced 99 years ago, spoons by the millions are in demand. Therefore, manufacturers won't be able to make any silverware other than spoons, knives, and forks for a long time.

Besides the brides, there is a seemingly bottomless need on the part of hotels, hospitals, and railroads, as well as established homes. The war shut off the supply. Now everyone seems to be spooning at a great rate.

BREAKFAST: Baked apple, ready-to-eat cereal, muffins, butter or fortified margarine, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Kidney bean and chopped sweet pickle salad, salad dressing, toasted cheese sandwiches, fruit bowl, tea, milk.

DINNER: Baked deviled eggs in Spanish sauce, baked potatoes, baked squash, hard rolls, butter or fortified margarine, celery, citrus fruit gelatin, coffee, milk.

ery. Garnish with radishes. Optional: Add diced ham or tongue.

7. Three cups cooked kidney beans, 1/2 cup chopped sweet pickle, minced celery leaves, garlic salt.

8. Two cups flaked, cooked fish, 1/2 cup cut celery, 4 hard-cooked eggs (sliced). Optional: Add dill seed, mustard seed, or thyme.

9. Cooked peas, shredded cabbage, chopped sweet pickle, tiny cubes of cheese, onion salt, celery salt. Mix with dressing and arrange on leaves of romaine placed like spokes of a wheel. Garnish in between with radish roses.

10. Broccoli (use heads whole, slice stems), tomato wedges, sliced hard-cooked egg. Add chopped nut meats to dressing.

APPLES are in season, and they are more plentiful than was expected. Try this pie, which uses honey instead of sugar.

Deep Dish Apple Pie

Wash and quarter apples. Pare. Cut into thin slices. Fill deep pie plate with apple slices.

Pour over apples 1 cup honey to which 1 tablespoon lemon juice has been added. Sprinkle with cinnamon. Dot with butter. Cover with pastry.

Prick design in crust, to allow steam to escape and for decoration. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) about 40 minutes. Here's another sugarless apple recipe:

Sugarless Stuffed Baked Apples

Six apples, 1 lemon, 1 cup raisins, 1/2 cup chopped nut meats, 1/2 cup chopped prunes, 1/2 cup dark corn syrup, 1/4 cup water, nutmeg or cinnamon.

Wash and core apples; place in baking dish. Mix raisins, nuts, prunes and juice of half the lemon. Stuff apple centers with raisin mixture.

Slice remaining half of lemon and lay one slice on top of each apple. Sprinkle with nutmeg or cinnamon, or both. Mix corn syrup and water and pour over all.

Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until apples are soft (about 45 to 60 minutes), basting occasionally with the syrup.

Bake Apples This Way

Know how to bake apples well? Cooking experts of the United States Department of Agriculture give some tested hints.

BREAKFAST: Canned mixed orange and grapefruit juice, ready-to-eat cereal, corn bread, butter or fortified margarine, honey or syrup, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Scrambled eggs with fried sliced tomatoes, wholewheat bread, butter or fortified margarine, fruit cup, cookies, tea, milk.

DINNER: Tomato juice, salted crackers, de luxe spaghetti and cheese in casserole, 7-minute shredded cabbage, buttered beets, French-type bread, butter or fortified margarine, honey deep dish apple pie, coffee, milk.

Wash apples thoroughly and core them without cutting through the blossom end.

Place the apples, blossom-end down, in a baking dish. Fill holes with a mixture of brown sugar or honey, raisins softened by soaking or chopped soaked prunes, a bit of butter if it can be spared, and chopped nuts if desired. The dried fruit is suggested because it adds sweetness and helps save sugar.

Add just enough water to the pan to keep apples from sticking. Then cover the dish. The steam held in by the cover makes the apples cook faster and more evenly.

Bake at a temperature of from 350 to 400 degrees F. Baking will take about half an hour, depending on the size and variety of apples.

FALLOVEEN parties need imagination. So begin to plan your child's party now.

Small guests will be entranced by spook popcorn balls, chicken pie with a Jack O'Lantern face cut in the crust, and bottled soft drinks decked out as "ghosts."

Jack O'Lantern Pie

(Serves 6)

Two cups thin white sauce, 2 cups cooked diced chicken, 1 small onion, finely chopped, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1/2 cup peanuts, 1/2 recipe for pastry.

Heat white sauce and combine well with other ingredients. Pour in baking pan.

Make 1/2 recipe for pastry and roll out to fit the size of the pan.

Cut Jack O'Lantern face in pastry before it is placed over the mixture for top crust. Be sure to cut eyes, nose and mouth large enough to allow for expansion during baking.

Bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) for 20 minutes, or until crust is brown.

Spook Lollipops

One-half cup granulated sugar, 1/4 cup hot water, 1/2 cup brown

BREAKFAST: Stewed pears, oatmeal, warmed coffee cake, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Black bean soup with lemon slices, split and toasted hard rolls, cheese wedges, raw apples, tea, milk.

DINNER: Chicken pie, baked potatoes, buttered broccoli, enriched bread, butter or fortified margarine, raw carrot sticks, gingerbread with chocolate sauce, coffee, milk.

sugar, 6 cups popped corn, large raisins.

Heat granulated sugar in saucepan, stirring constantly, until melted and golden brown in color. Carefully stir in hot water to avoid splattering.

Add brown sugar and cook to 238 degrees F., or until a soft ball is formed when a little syrup is dropped into cold water. Pour over slightly salted popcorn and shape into balls.

Press 2 large raisins into each ball, for eyes. Cover tip of wooden skewer with small paper napkin; place ball on skewer.

Stand lollipops upright, popcorn fashion, in a squash or small pumpkin.

YOU can still have a "ham" dinner if your grocer carries canned luncheon meat. Choose your favorite bread and try these recipes. Here are two variations on a delicious theme.

Baked Glazed Luncheon Meat

(Served 4)

Twelve-ounce can luncheon meat, cloves, 1 teaspoon fine dry bread crumbs, 1 tablespoon molasses, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, 1 tablespoon fruit juice or juice from spiced fruit, 1/4 cup hot water.

Leave meat whole as it comes from can; place in a baking pan. Score top about 1/4 inch deep. Stud with cloves. Sprinkle top with bread crumbs.

Combine remaining ingredients, except water, and pour over top of meat. Pour the water in pan around the meat.

Bake 35 minutes in moderate oven (350 degrees F.). Baste 4 times during the baking.

Baked Glazed Luncheon Meat

(Serves 4)

Twelve-ounce can luncheon meat, cloves, 1 teaspoon apple or apricot jelly, 1 1/2 cups brown

BREAKFAST: Stewed eggs, fried eggs, bran muffins, butter or fortified margarine, coffee, milk.

DINNER: Vegetable soup, crackers, baked glazed "ham" (luncheon meat), mashed potatoes, baked squash, rye bread, butter or fortified margarine, celery, deep dish apple pie, cream, coffee, milk.

SUPPER: Tomatoes stuffed with tuna fish salad, hot biscuits, butter or fortified margarine, fresh coconut layer cake, tea, milk.

lasses, 1 tablespoon fruit juice or juice from spiced fruit, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard (optional), 1/4 cup hot water.

Leave meat whole as it comes from can; place in baking pan. Score top about 1/4 inch deep. Stud with cloves.

Mix jelly with molasses, fruit juice, and mustard, if used; pour over top of meat. Pour the water in pan around meat.

Bake 35 minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.). Baste 4 times during the baking.

Getting the Cart Before the Horse

... is the popular way of saying that we act before we think. It is a state of mind not confined to the ignorant, nor to the mentally ill, but to all classes of people, some at times, others at all times. For instance, we buy property without an abstract. We spend several thousand dollars for improvements. Along comes a buyer who thinks before he acts and offers to purchase but wants an abstract first. How about your title Mr. Seller? Can you deliver?

Worth Awaiting

It was for scenes like this that filming of "The Razor's Edge," Somerset Maugham's best seller, was held up for eight months. Producer Darryl F. Zanuck delayed work until Tyrone Power was discharged from the Marines, feeling that only Power could play the sensitive, introspective hero. Above, Power and Gene Tierney are shown during a tender love scene.

Autoz Without Ash Trays Out In Washington

BLEWETT PASS, Wash (UP)—Motorists who didn't know have found out it is against the law not to have an ash tray in the car.

The Washington State Patrol and the National Forest Service have established a checking station near Blewett Pass, where officers have discovered one car in six is not equipped with an ash tray as required by law.

Nine out of 10 forest fires are man-caused, officers say, and tossed-out cigarettes are often to blame for disastrous fires. An oil tin can within reach of back and front seats will comply with the law.

Many Never Suspect Cause of Backaches

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the waste acids and salts out of the blood. They help most men a pair about 3 times a day.

When disorder of kidney function turns into poisonous acidosis, it means in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with stinging and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Deane's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Deane's give happy relief and will help the 11 million of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Deane's Pills.

Arithmetic requires concentration, close attention to small type, extra work for young eyes. BETTER LIGHT is needed for such exacting work to help prevent unnecessary eye fatigue, drowsiness, lack of interest.
