PRICE FIVE CENTS No. 101

Republican Ire Roused By Truman Charges

Well... I Dunno, But...

Friday night for the first time in three years there will be a band playing at the football game. New suits were issued to the band Tuesday and under the direction of Mary Ann Metcalf, the band has been whipped into form for performance at the game between Brownwood and Ranger.

This is the first time in two years that there's been a band complete enough to make a successful appearance at a game. And say what you please a band is a definite addition to the rooting section for anybody's football game. We noticed that particularly at the Eastland-Ranger game this year when the Eastland band made its appearance.

Tonight the Bulldogs will be the honored guests at a big banquet given by the Sportsman Club at the First Methodist church and tickets to the affair had been sold out late Tuesday.

The banquet is to be at 7:30 and will be a sort of spirit kick-off for the game with Brownwood Friday night.

We honestly believe that we've got a team that is capable of winning that game Friday night, if they put up the fight for it. Fans can encourage that fight in the boys by showing a little enthusiasm themselves. The spirit at that banquet tonight, could be a contributing factor toward victory.

They tell us that figures don't lie and that being the case, we're justified in saying that Ranger is becoming a livestock trading center.

They tell us that at the sale held last Thursday by the Faircloth Bros. Commission Company at their sales barn on Highway 80, over $42,000 worth of livestock was sold. One man, alone, sold $16,322 worth of stock.

Not only is that a lot of money to turn loose in a town but that's not all the money it brings. Buyers and sellers coming in for the sales have work done on their cars and trucks, they buy feed, groceries and other merchandise.

Merchants tell us that Thursday is one of their biggest days because of the people the sales bring into Ranger.

Called to attention today, in connection with recent comments about keeping Ranger clean, was this: it's required by a city ordinance that all downtown merchants must have sidewalks swept and cleaned by 9:00 A.M. each day; that all trash collected within a store must be kept in a metal container with cover; and that all trash removed from the building is to be placed in a covered container, either wooden or metal.

If the letter of the law were followed there'd be no necessity for complaints about the trash blowing about the streets and piled in the alley ways.

C. C. McReever is really building up an airplane repair business at the Ranger Airport and so heavy has become the load that additional electricity is required to carry on the work and a three-phase electric system is being installed at the port.

This, Mack said, will give considerably more electric power and will enable the shop to use the extra equipment recently purchased.

At the present time the repair shop is averaging two twin-engine and three small planes each month. The planes are completely overhauled, including the engines, and body.

BOULDER CITY, Nev. (UP)—A Philodendron, noted for sitting in shiny green glory in a hotel lobby or modern living room, is blooming on the front porch of a home here. City gardener Fred Gutshall, who raised the eight-foot prize specimen, said it was the first time in his 20 years of gardening he had seen a philodendron bloom.

Anderson. The baby was immediately returned to the Detention Home however, pending disposition of new action instituted by Saunders. (NEA Telephoto).

Closed Session Discusses Two Dormant Cases

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y. (UP)—The United Nations Security Council sat in closed session today to decide whether to drop two controversial issues from its docket—the long dormant Spanish and Iranian cases.

Both questions have remained on the agenda since last spring, when they erupted into bitter debate between Russia and the Western Powers and then were shelved without decisive action by the UN. The councils problem today centered around a provision in the UN charter under which neither question can be acted on in the forthcoming session of the General Assembly if it remains on the Security Council's agenda.

Sandwich Plane Held Ideal For Family Model

WASHINGTON (UP)—Government agencies hacked away with renewed vigor at remaining wage-price controls today while Republicans angrily flung blame for the meat crisis back at President Truman.

In a bitingly sarcastic reply to the President, GOP National Chairman Carroll Reece dismissed Mr. Truman's charges that the shortage was forced upon the country by a "reckless" congressional group led by Republican Sens. Robert A. Taft, O., and Kenneth S. Wherry, Neb.

Reece reminded the President that Democrats and not Republicans dominated Congress when it passed the price control bill which Mr. Truman described as unworkable when he decontrolled meat.

Asking pointedly whether meat controls would be restored if the Democrats remained in control of Congress, Reece said only election of Republican lawmakers on Nov. 5 could protect the people against such "bureaucratic" confusion.

The political battle raged on as the government took new steps to increase meat supplies and remove the bonds of wartime control from the nation's traditionally free economy.

These were the principal developments—

1. The Agriculture Department announced that the quarantine keeping thousands of heads of Mexican cattle out of this country would be lifted at 12:01 a.m. Friday.

2. Secretary of Agriculture Clinton F. Anderson predicted a "substantial improvement" in the amount of meat in retail stores within two weeks.

3. Deputy OPA Chief Geoffrey Baker said the task of removing price ceilings from hundreds of non-essential items would be completed by Nov. 1, a month earlier than originally planned.

4. A group of prominent senators called on OPA to give landlords higher rent ceilings.

5. President Truman studied the future of wage stabilization in light of a report pronouncing wage controls dead and urging that stabilization be left to collective bargaining.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY PETER EDSON NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NEA)—The federal government has gotten in the people's hair, says Republican National Committee chairman B. Carroll Reece of Tennessee. What the Republican Party proposes to do about it after the November elections, the chairman implies, is to take the government—meaning the Democratic administration—out of the people's hair. Chairman Reece has been doing a good bit of traveling during the summer, making speeches and sounding out public opinion. "The annoyance of the people against the Democratic administration," he says, "is principally symbolized by their opposition to government controls. They were willing to put up with these controls during the war. But now the war has been over a year and they want to get rid of controls."

Today, says Reece, there is plenty of lumber, building materials and money—but no housing. There is plenty of cotton—but no sheets or shirts. Plenty of cattle—but no meat. Prices are not the principal cause of complaint, Reece continues. People have the money with which to buy, he says, but government controls cause artificial shortages. "WHAT voters fear," says the Republican chairman, "is that these controls, imposed by the Democratic administration, will become permanent." That, to him, is the fundamental issue of the campaign. Reece cites a recent Gallup poll which indicated that 46 per cent of the people believed the Democratic administration was heading toward a totalitarian government. To Chairman Reece, this state of mind can be attributed to the general belief that there is an alliance between the Democratic Party and the radical elements of the country symbolized by the CIO Political Action Committee. "This is an alliance," says Reece, "which the Democratic administration has tried to renounce but can't. Any renunciation," he says, "must come from the other side. And it hasn't come."

IN several of his recent speeches, Reece has characterized this poll-indicated feeling as national concern over "the four C's of Confusion, Confusion, Corruption and Communism." He predicts that reaction against them will result in a Republican sweep in November. The recent Wallace speech is cited as an example of "the communist influence." Discussions of the Mood Committee are cited as "indistinguishable from corruption." Deficit spending is cited as contributing to general confusion and as evidence that the Democratic administration does not want to balance the federal budget because to do so would mean that controls would have to be given up. "This deficit spending," says Chairman Reece, "is the real fire under the boilers of inflation. Reduce government spending and control and the threat of inflation would disappear, he believes."

SPORTS

BY HARRY GRAYSON NEA Sports Editor

WHY do they call them The Fighting Irish? It's a perfectly natural appellation for the sons of Notre Dame, of course. A better question would be: "Why do they call them Irish?" The bulk of them carry names like Ciechanowicz, Czarobski, Gasparella, Iannucello, Kosikowski, Mastrangelo, Sznajder, Swiatowicz and Zmijewski, to tick a few tags at random from the fall's roster. And they were coached to renounce by Knute Rockne, who was born in Norway. The Fighting Irish have repeatedly lived up to their nickname, however, by coming from behind. There were the two long passes from the left-handed Art Parisien to Johnny Niemiec that pulled the Southern California scrap out of the fire in the last five minutes in 1936. There was One-Play O'Brien's catch of Niemiec's pitch late in the final period to top Army in 1938. Two minutes remained when Mottis Tuppell rambled 68 yards to Southern Cal's eight and went over on the following play to give the Micks the nod in 1937.

NO list of Notre Dame's fighting accomplishments would be complete, however, without the Ohio State game of 1935. The Irish comeback in Ohio Stadium is recalled vividly today by the 81,000 who saw it, and toes tingle at the very thought of it. Graybeards call it the most dramatic game they ever saw. The Buckeyes led, 13-0, at the half, and it seemed that they could have scored oftener. Only Bill Shakespeare's punting kept the score down. Between halves, nationally known football figures called the Bucks the finest squad they had ever set eyes on. Elmer Loyden was so disappointed with the first that he started the half with his second line. It stopped the Ohio State attack, and Notre Dame was mak-

Boy Learns His Lesson Hard Way

GOOSE CREEK, Tex. (UP)—Tommy Brandt learned a lesson away from his junior high school classroom recently—the lesson that silence is golden.

A motorist had picked him up and asked him questions about the school. With perfect frankness, Tommy told about the things "we get by with" and how "we just cut up all the time." Tommy also told the stranger that "the next fellow that comes to Horace Mann will have a hard time; there is nobody who can take the place of W. T. Crenger who left this year." When Tommy next saw the man, his face flamed. The motorist who gave him the ride was W. D. Hinson, the new principal of Horace Mann junior high school.

Named in Suit

A statement attributed to Matthew Woll, AFL vice president, and printed in the Hollywood Reporter, film trade paper, is the basis of a million-dollar libel suit brought by screen actress Myrna Loy against the magazine and its editor-publisher, W. R. (Billy) Wilkerson. Her complaint charged that the article brands her as a communist.

BARBS

BY HAL COCHRAN A PUBLIC school teachers' strike in Norwalk, O., prevented schools from opening on schedule. That's one way to become popular with the kids. Pity the butcher! Every housewife has a bone to pick with him. The hail of the hitchhiker makes lots of drivers storm. A boy in Mexico shot his teacher. In some of our large cities he'd have to stay after school and write "I must not shoot my teacher" 100 times. A good recipe for success: Doing common things uncommonly well.

45,000 Volume
Library Placed
In Medical Center

(UP) — A 45,000 volume library—dealing from books on military strategy in the revolutionary war to mysteries and today's best sellers—has recently been installed in the library at the Army Medical Department's schools here.

Officials say 90 per cent of the 200 best books of the last four years which were recommended by the Board of Congressional Experts for the White House Library were on the book shelves at the time the approved list was published.

The library was moved from Carlisle Barracks, Pennsylvania, to Brooke Army Medical Center to accompany the opening of the Medical Department Schools. It has, in addition to many rare and unusual volumes long out of print, a complete periodical file of more than 500 different publications, a map room, a War Department publications reference room, and its own book bindery.

And officials point out that student officers attending the schools can find everything from medical and military history to racial problems or the latest fiction.

In one reference reading room are rare volumes including an army register listing officers in Washington's army, medical department records of both the north and south during the Civil War and a complete file of the Stars and Stripes of World War I published in Paris.

Library director Captain A. B. Nolan, retired, who ordered the first book for the library in 1932, says they are building up the library for the future so that "our ever growing collection of the literature of World War II will be rare and invaluable 50 to 100 years hence."

Veterans' High School Follows Relaxed Rules

BOSTON (UP) — A high school where students may leave the building, smoke, or, in many cases, call up their wives, is flourishing in the reputedly staid city of Boston.

Perhaps the only one of its kind in the nation, the Boston School for Veterans has on an academic year under its Sam Browne belt and embarked on the second Sept. 12.

Germinating from an idea by members of the Boston school committee, this novel veterans - only high school opened its doors Dec. 3, 1945 under the head-mastership of former navy Lt. Comdr. Henry McInerney. All faculty members are veterans.

To date, the students' ages have ranged from 19 to 50, the only qualifications being that the applicant live in Boston and have a wartime service record. Thus far the student body has been divided equally between those earning diplomas and those taking refresher courses for college.

McInerney, who taught at other Boston public schools before entering the navy, has only the highest praise for his battle-hardened pupils.

"We have no disciplinary problem, the way you might have at other high schools," he said. "These men have seen too much of life to be fooling around. They're serious and they learn fast. We've even had 150 married men."

Whey Alcohol To Make Bow At Dairy Show

WASHINGTON (UP)—A profitable use for whey, which can be turned into pure alcohol, has been found by the Department of Agriculture.

The process of making alcohol from whey, developed by the department, will be demonstrated along with 1,500 other dairy devices and services at the Dairy Industries Exposition at Atlantic City, October 21-26.

The Dairy Industries Supply Association, sponsoring the exposition, will also make public a world-wide survey of dairying and dairying conditions to the attending dairy industrialists and scientists.

The survey, the association said, will show how "dietary practices in many countries have been greatly influenced by the role of milk and dairy products in the relief feeding operations of the U. S. armed forces and UNRRA."

Dairymen have long been searching for a way to utilize whey because, dumped as a waste, it has a damaging effect on livestock. A good grade of alcohol is obtained by fermenting the sugar in whey with a special yeast, the department found. While the department predicts its best use in the making of clear vinegar, the alcohol could be cut into liquor.

The exposition will be the world's largest for a single industrial field in 1946, according to the association. It will crowd Atlantic City hotels with 25,000 visitors and spread its exhibits over five acres.

Representatives from all 48 states will attend as well as from South and Central America, Europe and a 50-man ice cream delegation from England, Norwegian, Dutch and Portuguese delegations will tour U. S. dairy country during the month.

Milk production on Illinois farms during June totaled 563,000,000 pounds, seven per cent less than the June, 1945 total, but about six per cent more than the average for the last 10 years.

School Football Survey Shows Few Injuries

AUSTIN, Tex., (UP)—Records of high school accidents gathered by the Texas Interscholastic League show but three per cent of school injuries due to playing football. The league is sponsored by the University of Texas. Last season 638 schools participated in league football with 17,347 players. Most of the schools responded to a questionnaire on injuries. Results showed no fatality for the season. There were 270 fractures and 397 sprains. School buildings, not playing fields, were the location of 21 per cent of the pupil accidents.

Under The Dome At Austin

By Gordon K. Shearer and Henry A. Zimmerman
United Press Staff Correspondents
AUSTIN, Tex. (UP)—Gainful employment for a blind person is more likely in Texas than in any other state, Texas' place among the first three states was announced in a recent report ranking it along with Ohio and Washington. But by July, Texas had established itself in first place. Lon E. Alsop, blind secretary-director of the State Commission to aid the blind, moreover announced that it is the intention to keep Texas at the top.

but they must be 'good' arrests. It's a lot harder to catch a willful violator than an unknowing one. Uniform enforcement policies will be stressed at the school. There will be instruction in proper use of warnings, prompt correction of defective equipment (maybe there will not be so many one-eyed cars out at night), enforcement of pedestrian regulation and investigation of accidents. Sporadic campaigns and arrests for non-hazardous law violations will be frowned upon, Garrison said.

To emphasize the argument, the same gridiron shows state revenue advancing across the 50 yard line and 'way down to the 38 yard line in enemy territory.

A new X-ray photometer detects in a few seconds spurious coins or gems and finds impurities in substances by measuring differences in their absorption of X-rays.

Beware Coughs Following Flu

After the flu is over and gone, the cough that follows may develop into chronic bronchitis if neglected. Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

Operation of vending stands in federal, state and municipal buildings is one of the principal projects stressed by the state commission for the blind in its rehabilitation and placement program. The number of such stands operated under commission supervision increased from 10 to 20 for the 24 months prior to last July. In August, five more were established. This record was made in spite of the difficulties of obtaining merchandise.

A report on the 29 stands that were operating last June 20 showed that the blind person in charge had an average take-home pay of $2,237 for a year. But it is not only as operators of vending stands that blind folks find employment in Texas. Statistics show that 60 per cent of the blind in Texas reside in the country. So the commission for their aid in stressing agriculture in its vocational training program. One blind person, so aided, has established an apiary and has the bees working for him. Six have completed nine-months courses in poultry raising at A & M College and thus became eligible for federal farm security administration loans to establish poultry farms.

Workshops situated in Austin, San Antonio, Houston, Waco, Dallas, Fort Worth and El Paso are providing training in trades.

The commission's census of blind persons in Texas is 7,959. The count was made in February, 1945, and so the number may be either more or less now.

Texas traffic officers who attend the traffic school to be held at Camp Mabry, near Austin, Oct. 14-26, will not be taught that success depends on the number of arrests.

"The job of traffic enforcement must be done calmly, fairly and with great diligence," says Homer Garrison, state director of safety who will head the school. "Any officer who gets all steamed up and 'picks on' marginal violators will discredit himself and his organization. The officer should try to see how many arrests he can make—

Sports Minded Mayor Putting City On Map

By William S. Bittner
 United Press Staff Correspondent
 COLUMBUS, O. (UP)—Every two years, along about the last Saturday in November, the football spotlight hits Columbus when Michigan and Ohio State universities meet on the gridiron in their traditional rivalry.

Young "Jim" Rhodes, 36-year-old mayor of Columbus, wants the country to know Columbus has other claims to sports fame than the record of going a bit "wacky" when Ohio State and Michigan meet here.

He has set forth an ambitious program to bring fame to this central Ohio city by a series of big-time sports events which he hopes will become regular events for big-time competitors.

The Nationwide Caddie Tournament this year was his brain-child. He even went so far in his plans for that event to include the President of the United States in the program. The President awarded the winners' trophy in Washington at the White House.

The Rhodes' ideas keep coming. He has planned for the future:

- 1. A bowling tournament for pin boys this winter—to find the Columbus champion. Then next winter a national tournament for pin setters from all over the country.
- 2. The National Outdoor Swimming Meet (for men and women) in Columbus for next summer.
- 3. Establishment of a Boys Club of America Chapter here.

It is just a matter of time until Rhodes becomes president of the National Amateur Athletic Union. He is now second vice president. He is president of the Ohio Amateur Athletic Union and Ohio softball commissioner.

At the age of 34, when he was sworn in as Columbus' youngest mayor, the people were saying a great political career lay ahead of him. "He'll be governor at least," they said.

About politics, they haven't changed their minds. But they are beginning to think that his activity in sports may overshadow his statesmanship.
