Russia Protests Treatment Of Delegates

Well...
I Dunno,
But...

They tell us that the Ranger-Brownwood game to be played here tonight will be broadcast over the Brownwood radio station KBWD.

The wiring has already been installed and the equipment set up. My, such a lot of new things tonight. The old score board working, the press box open and a public address system for the game with a commentator.

Now wouldn't it be wonderful if the Bulldogs would add the finishing touch and win that game. We'll just bet that people would get the idea that Ranger was football minded if those boys win that game.

Oh yes, something we intended to tell you. That Brownwood radio station was promoted and installed by Mayor Mendell Mayer, brother of Bill Mayer who used to be editor of the Times.

There's an old saying that nobody but a newcomer and a fool will predict Texas weather. We're definitely not a newcomer, and we'll have to take the credit for the latter. But anyway, our prediction came true. That fall north or we had a feeling about yesterday came in and brought ideal weather for the football game tonight.

In the 24 hour period ending at 8:00 o'clock this morning, the temperature dropped 41 degrees, from a high of 89 to 48. At 8:00 o'clock this morning it was 54 degrees.

Like we always say, there are two sides to every question and today a business man told his side of the story about keeping the premises of his business establishment clean.

He said that he had a big wooden box with cover and all placed out back of his business and followed all of the instructions and laws relative to cleanliness. The trash is carried out and put in the covered box for the collector to pick up.

Then along comes the collector. He uses a big pitchfork to remove the trash and as the trash travels from the box to the truck, it drops off, and is blown off of the fork, scattering the trash all over the alley. So after the truck leaves the business man has to go out and sweep the alley. Which he don't like doing and you can't blame him.

And we know that he's telling his tale straight because we've seen the trash scattered as it was being removed from the box to the truck.

Clubs sponsoring the presentation of Dr. Wilford C. Bain's A Cappella Choir in Ranger Sunday evening, October 27, are asking the people of Ranger to take as their guests for the night one or more of the singers.

Those with room to spare should feel called upon to contribute this in as much as the organizations of the town are footing the bill for the show and offering it to the public free of admission.

And don't ever think it won't be something worth hearing. We've heard a lot of music in our lifetime but the program presented by this group tops all. It is superb music and of the kind that the layman can understand and appreciate.

One number we remember especially. It was hummed by the choir and at times so perfect was the harmony that it lost all effect of the human voice and sounded exactly like a pipe organ.

Yep, you really have a treat in store for you in that program.

James King who is auditor for the Faircloth Brothers Livestock Commission company, says that the Thursday sales are very attractive to passing tourists and that they frequently stop for the sales and many take pictures of the scenes.

At the big sale Thursday, they actually saw the auctioneer down and eventually, one of the buyers had to take over for him.

The Global War Veterans, with headquarters at Columbia, Tenn., claims to be the first national organization formed exclusively for veterans of World War II.

Livestock Receipts Near All-Time High

Livestock receipts soared and the Ft. Worth Stockyards were jammed with automobiles, trucks, and trailers from all over Texas, as cattlemen flooded the market with their biggest offering since the end of price controls. The top photo shows part of the more than 1000 trucks which unloaded during the night and early morning. In the lower photo, a load of grunting hogs comes down the alley on the way to becoming bacon. (NEA photos).

HOMES SOUGHT FOR MEMBERS OF NTSC CHOIR

Mrs. P. M. Kuykendall, who is in charge of securing homes for the members of the A Cappella choir coming here Sunday, October 27, stated today that more homes are needed and has asked that anyone having room for one or more of the singers, contact her at once.

The singers are to give an evening performance and will remain here overnight before resuming their concert tour. All that will be required will be the room and the hostess will be asked to provide breakfast for the one who takes.

The concert is being brought to Ranger through the cooperation of a number of men's and women's organizations of the town and providing the rooms and breakfast is all that is asked of the public. There will be no admission charges to the concert and no free will offering will be taken.

The choir is made up of students of NTSC and is under the direction of Dr. Wilford C. Bain, noted musician.

Lifting Of Ban On Mexico Cattle Causes No Rush

By United Press
The United States quarantine on Mexican cattle was lifted one minute after last midnight but there was no rush to send the animals across the border.

Texas points along the international boundary reported that Mexican sources saw a delay of one to three weeks before the northward shipments would begin. A quota of 500,000 Mexican beef cattle is permitted to enter this country each year. Imports were suspended last June, however, pending an investigation to determine if Mexican herds were infected by hoof and mouth disease.

USO FUNDS MEETING TO BE HELD MONDAY

Joe Dennis, Ranger chairman for the USO funds drive this year, announced today that a meeting for organization of the drive will be held Monday morning at 10:00 o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce.

The Lions Club and the Rotary Club have appointed committees to direct the drive and a total of $620 is to be raised.

It was pointed out today that though the war is over, American men are still in foreign countries and many are in the service in this country and for these men, the work of the USO still goes on.

The quota is considerably smaller than in war years and the people of Ranger are urged to make their contributions early so that the drive can be brought to a close.

Lions Club committeemen are Dennis, Joe Nuesse, E. V. Galloway, P. P. Brasher, Jr., J. Floyd Killingsworth and J. A. Knox.

Rotary Club committeemen are W. F. Creager, T. C. Wylie, James F. Morris, Earl Pittman, C. B. Fryet and James Ratliff.

Eastland Rites For F. M. Sellers Held Wednesday

Funeral rites were conducted Wednesday at the Eastland Baptist church for Frances M. Sellers, 85, who died Monday at his home near Eastland after a lingering illness.

Survivors are the widow, four daughters, Mrs. Beale Kirby, Wichita Falls, Mrs. Virginia Rose, Kansas City, Mrs. Helen Martinelli, San Francisco. Three sons: Fred, Abilene, Jack, Wichita Falls, Paul in U. S. Army, San Antonio. A step-son, Dennis Campbell, Stockton, Cal., a step-daughter, Mrs. A. E. Moore, of Abilene. A large number of brothers and sisters and about 30 grandchildren and 5 great-grandchildren. Interment was in the Eastland cemetery with Hamner's in charge.

SALESBARN HAS RECORD DAY THURSDAY

After a check of sales at the Faircloth Brothers Salesbarn Thursday it was revealed that the sale brought the biggest money turn over in the history of the sales.

A total of $44,000 worth of livestock was sold at the sale with a little over 1,000 head changing hands. Buyers came from as far west as Lamesa and as far east as Ft. Worth with towns in between in all directions being represented. One buyer for a Fort Worth packing house bought 100 head of cattle for slaughtering and it was stated that at least 500 head went to Fort Worth markets.

The sale continued until about 10:40 Thursday night with buying still brisk when the sale was shut down.

One of the biggest crowds ever to attend a sale at the barn was present at Thursday's sale.

Cotton Futures Took Another Tumble Today

NEW YORK (UP)—Cotton futures, after a firm opening, collapsed again today, with practically all deliveries dropping the permissible limit of $10 a bale for the third day in a row.

Broadscale liquidation, stop loss selling and hedging swamped a sizeable trade demand attracted by the price slump of more than $30 a bale during the past few sessions.

LIVESTOCK
FORT WORTH — Cattle $5.00, calves $4.00. Very slow, uneven. Some early sales about in line with Thursday's late declines, others weak to 50 or more lower. Two loads good 900 lb. steers $1.00, common and medium steers and yearlings $1.00-1.00. Good and choice fat calves $1.00-1.00.

PLANT CONTRACTOR
Douglas Anderson of Breckenridge who was the general contractor for the construction of the Frozen Food Lockers, Inc., plant, Anderson, as dealer for Frigidaire, furnished all of the equipment installed in the units in the plant.

FORTY VOICE CHOIR COMING TO RANGER

Forty voices strong, the picturesque A Cappella Choir from the North Texas State College will be heard in concert here Sunday, Oct. 27, at 8:15 p. m. o'clock in the Recreation building. Their appearance is sponsored by Men's and Women's organizations of Ranger.

Under the direction of Dr. Wilford C. Bain, Dean of the School of Music NTSC, the NTSC A Cappella Choir is said by critics to be one of the most dramatic and colorful musical organizations in the Southwest.

Trained to precision, the forty young men and women offer a performance that is exciting both to the trained music lover and the uninitiated. From its programs audiences derive the same thrill that comes to the spectators watching any other finely balanced human machine in action—a crack battalion of troops on dress parade or a championship football team driving down the field toward victory.

The Choir, dressed in purple velvet and white satin robes, move quickly to their position in the phalanx formation in which they always sing. The conductor takes his position, and immediately the Choir begins singing. They sing number after number, and each time there is no hesitation, and as far as the audience can tell, no clumsy "getting the pitch."

The result is a graceful performance in which Dr. Bain plays on his human "symphony of voices" with even greater precision and variation than a skilled organist. Bain guards closely as a professional secret his method of enabling his singers to start their programs without permitting the audience to discover how they receive their pitch.

BROWNWOOD, RANGER MEET HERE TONIGHT

Ranger High School's football team will play its first conference game of the season here tonight when they meet the Brownwood Lions at the Bulldog Stadium at 8:00 o'clock.

Brownwood is rated as one of the best teams in the district and is given the edge by followers of football. It is reported that the team has an excellent defense against passing machines and this proves a threat to Ranger in that the passing strength of the local team is one of its greatest.

Coach Jimmie Marshall stated today that the team is in fair condition, having had two weeks since the last game.

It is expected that a large crowd will be here from Brownwood and the Brownwood radio station has made arrangements to broadcast the game.

Following are the starting line-ups for the two teams.
Ranger: Sam Elder, FB; Junior Arterburn, QB; Bob Williams, E; Jerry Gray, E; Billy Griffin, C; T. K. Hardy, RG; Bob Balch, RT; Howard Frazier, RE; Paul MacDonald, LE; Don Ford, LG; Worth Carlin, LT.

Brownwood: T. Donahoo, LE; W. Brashear, LT; Arthur Dala, LG; George Day, C; Chester Taboy, RG; James Langford, RT; Bobbie Reese, RE; Floyd Griffin, QB; Lloyd Carder, LH; Bobbie Brien, RH; Billie Murphy, FB.

Discover Leak To Goering's Prison Cell

NUERNBERG (UP)—A channel of communication between Hermann Goering's suicide cell-block and the outside world was disclosed today when German employees of the prison said they had been permitted to leave it daily since Oct. 6.

German help around the cell block in which Goering killed himself had been understood heretofore to be limited to the prison. But today spokesmen for the 21 employees in cell block C told correspondents that the restriction had been off since 10 days before the executions.

Meanwhile two top American prison officials denied that the bulky Nazi's body bore any scratch or other sign that the poison capsule had been concealed under the skin of his bulky abdomen.

Drive For Higher Wages Launched

CLEVELAND, O. (UP)—President Walter Reuther of the United Automobile Workers — CIO—today fired the opening blast in a new labor campaign for higher wages to meet the increased cost of living.

PLANT MANAGER
Morris I. Newham who will be manager of the Frozen Food Lockers, Inc., and who is a stockholder, has extended an invitation to the public to attend an open house at the plant Saturday. Calling hours will be from 1:00 o'clock until 10:00 p. m., and the personnel of the plant will be on hand to show the guests around the fine plant.

LABOR SEEKS REMOVAL OF WAGE CONTROL

WASHINGTON (UP)—Industry and AFL forces were attempting today to persuade the government to lift all controls on wage cuts as well as increases.

Both sides were confident President Truman would restore free collective bargaining for pay increases and unrestricted price fixing in proposed new wage-price executive orders. But they said he should go all the way and abolish government authority over wage cuts.

In Cleveland, wage increases averaging 12 1/2 cents an hour today were granted to 80,000 employees in the glass industry.

Federal conciliators joined state and city officials today in attempts to settle the New York trucking strike, while labor department representatives agreed to wait for tempers to cool before making further overtures toward ending the nationwide maritime tie-up.

Byrnes to Speak To Nation Tonite

WASHINGTON (UP)—Secretary of State James F. Byrnes will tell the American people tonight that if the world is to leave in peace, the United States must deal with Russia with a policy of firmness tempered with patience.

At the same time, it was learned, his nationwide broadcast will make clear to Moscow and the world that the United States cannot compromise her principles of fair play to all nations—large and small—in writing peace terms.

SAYS ORDER REFLECTS ON COUNTRY'S SELF-RESPECT

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Soviet Embassy today accused the justice department of adding difficulties to "establishment of cultural ties between us and the people of the United States."

The embassy described a justice department demand that Russian delegates to the Slav Congress in New York register as foreign agents as being "compatible neither with the personal dignity of these outstanding people nor with the self-respect of the country which they represent."

The Soviet attitude toward the justice department action was made known by Michael S. Vavlov, first secretary of the Russian embassy, at a press conference. It was the third press conference at the embassy since December, 1941.

As a result of the justice department's demand that the delegates register as foreign agents, Russia recalled the 17-member Soviet delegation to the congress. Three delegates from other countries, however, went ahead and registered. They included two Bulgarians and one Czech, Rev. Frantisek Fiala, the latest to register.

The justice department contended the visitors were not bona fide delegates but were guests of American delegates. The group had claimed diplomatic status.

STEVENSON WOULD FIRE DR. DOBIE

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP)—Gov. Coke R. Stevenson said today that if he were the board of regents of the University of Texas, he would fire Dr. J. Frank Dobie from the faculty "without batting an eye."

Stevenson said that he is not running the university and will make no recommendation to the regents, who are in session here today.

The governor said that personally he would remove the noted professor of English and writer of southwest folklore because he considers Dobie a "disturbing influence."

A professor of the University Stevenson said, "ought to have full freedom of expression but that freedom should be for the expression of facts and the right to teach facts—not to the point of a personal attack on superiors."

Stevenson's sharp statement today follows a commendation he issued last week on the action of University President T. S. Painter in calling on the faculty to cease fermenting controversy.

It was expected the regents would discuss Dr. Dobie's plain-spoken criticism of University President Painter written for a periodical, the Texas Spectator.

MR. WALLACE EXPLAINS

Henry A. Wallace, in a letter to the Washington Post, has belatedly explained the motive behind his atomic energy plan and, presumably, his Madison Square Garden speech.

"What I am pleading for," he wrote, "is 'give' on both sides."

That may be Wallace's intention. But in actual practice he has been pleading for "give" on the American side. To be sure, he has made some mildly critical references to Russian intransigence in international negotiations.

What persuaded him not to is conjectural. Perhaps it was disinclination, or a fear that the plea might go unheeded. Or it may have been that he felt that his Cabinet position did not warrant such action.

Some like the Wallace view, and some don't. But even his most ardent enthusiasts could scarcely make the serious claim that Wallace, either in his Madison Square Garden speech or in his opposition to the Baruch atomic energy plan, was pleading for "give" on both sides.

It is clear that the only effective place where such pleading can be done is either face to face with Russian representatives across a conference table or in a meeting with the head of the Soviet government himself.

Wallace, whatever his desires, was not in a position to make this effective plea. But he was a veteran and popular political figure with a large following.

It may be that Wallace hoped that this unilateral plea of "give," if heeded, would move Russia to a similar softening attitude.

Obviously, it didn't. The Russian press gave prominence to the former Commerce Secretary's critical views of this government's policies. The Communist press in America applauded Russian charges of an Anglo-American imperialistic encirclement, which Wallace had echoed in essence, reechoed from Russia. And that was that.

Thus it appears that if what Wallace was pleading for was "give" on both sides, he brought it off rather badly. As a consequence he seems to have aggravated a situation which he hoped to cure.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY PETER EDSON, NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NEA)—U. S. State Department directives on policy to be carried out in Germany by Generals Joseph T. McNarney and Lucius D. Clay are now being completely revised, and will be announced soon.

Effect of the changes will be to rewrite completely the directive known as IPCOG 1067—the Informal Policy Committee on Germany's General Staff memo No. 1067 approved in April, 1945. General Eisenhower carried these orders into Germany after V-E Day.

IPCOC was disbanded a year ago. It was succeeded by SWNCC—the State-War-Navy Co-ordinating Committee of Assistant Secretaries in those three departments. The job of rewriting 1067 has fallen on SWNCC, under the chairmanship of Assistant Secretary of State John H. Hildring.

It is said that the original 1067 was originally a negative set of orders. It told what should be done to de-Nazify Germany and reduce the German war potential. That has now been done in the American zone.

On top of this, there have been a number of important economic developments in Germany. The four occupying powers have agreed on a standard-of-living level for Germany.

The U. S. and British zones have been unified—the first step toward making Germany self-sufficient.

Secretary of State James F. Byrnes has made three important declarations on American aims in Europe, changing government policy as the situation in Germany has developed. The first of these was a statement of last Dec. 12 on Germany's peacetime economy. It set forth these four principal objectives: Increase the export of coal to liberated areas. Settle the German reparations question. Set up uniform and centralized control of German finance, transport, and communications for all four of the occupied zones. Prevent mass starvation in Germany during the past winter.

BEFORE 150 German officials at Stuttgart on Sept. 6, Byrnes proposed that Germany be reunited under a provisional central government with which a peace treaty could be negotiated. On Oct. 3, before the American Club in Paris, Byrnes made another speech on U. S. foreign policy in which he brought forward again his proposal for a four-power treaty guaranteeing the disarmament of Germany for 40 years.

These are the public declarations which have made necessary a revision of IPCOG 1067. Not made public are a number of cables from the State Department to General McNarney, directing changes in policy as new situations have arisen.

SPORTS

BY HARRY GRAYSON, NEA Sports Editor

THREE major league managers' jobs are now open, and there may be a total of seven, even eight, when the last slot has been filled for new leaders at the moment.

Since young Bill Veck and Co. took over in Cleveland it has been reported that Lou Boudreau would be swapped to pave the way for a different brand of field direction.

The decision can go either in favor of or against Steve O'Neill in Detroit.

You hear the veteran Bill McEchnie, long an aspirant for a leek job, may retire in Cincinnati, from the dugout and the bird-base coach's box at least.

There is even talk of Connie Mack's stepping down as the only manager the Athletics ever had, economics may force the venerable guide of the A's to do something he has fought against in one recent year.

Shibe Park has gone to pot with Mack's club. The Phillies have completely taken the play away on the American League entry with an all-time Philadelphia attendance record, already at nearly 30,000.

Major league managerial opportunities being so plentiful stress the dearth of capable leaders. Practically every ballplayer believes he could manage his outfit better than the man running the works.

With all the ballplayers in the mid-old and new—you would expect off-hand it would be simple to pick up an odd journeyman manager or two among them, yet who would you name? The dearth of proven field marshals accentuates their importance.

Store For Vets Breaks Jam In Surplus Goods

NEW ORLEANS (UP) — The War Assets Administration may be on the way to solving the tough problem of placing surplus property into the hands of veterans. The nation's first "veterans' department store" has been packing the customers in on the New Orleans lakefront. Red tape is gone. It's a first-come, first-served proposition.

Prices 20 to 50 per cent lower than retail on hard-to-get items like bedspreads, silverware, kitchen utensils, tools, and pillows have drawn ex-service personnel to the big store.

All a veteran needed on opening day was his discharge certificate. He wasn't asked to buck any priority lines, nor fill out a n y forms.

The store was set up in a huge aircraft hangar. It wasn't big enough for the 7,000 veterans and their wives who jammed the place.

Now, since the store has scored such a success, the American Veterans Committee, in Washington is pressing for War Assets Administration s t o r e s across the nation.

WAA officials flew down from Washington for the opening. They were agreeably surprised.

Sizzling STEAKS advertisement with menu items like Tender Juicy Delicious, Beef, Lamb, and Pork, and a map showing Dominion Store locations in Michigan, Toronto, N.Y., Detroit, Buffalo, Ind., Ohio, Cleveland, Penn., and P.A.

Yes—it's a meat ad. It offers porterhouse and sirloin steaks at 49 cents a pound, roundsteak or roast, 43 cents a pound. An airlines pilot clipped it from a Toronto, Canada, newspaper to make his New York friends' mouths water. Yes, there's plenty of meat in Canada, but, as inset map shows, it's so near—and yet so far.

Veterans complained that there weren't enough clerks, but that was about the only criticism heard from the ex-GIs.

Pre-opening ballyhoo featured radio announcements, full-page advertisements in New Orleans newspapers, and even specially decorated cars and attractive hand-out literature. The WAA explained that it wanted the veterans to be sure they weren't being asked to try another plan that wouldn't work.

DEVIL'S LAUGHTER

By Alice M. Laverick

AT Mark's insistence, I went to my room, though I knew I could not sleep. And as I left I heard Mark say to Ellen, "I was always too harsh with the lad," his voice aching with remorse. And I heard Ellen's voice trying to soothe him, and Colin still wandering through the lanes of childhood.

I closed my eyes and tried to sleep, to lie shivering, instead, convinced that in spite of all I could do Colin would not recover. But he did recover, and the doctor, when he came, was most complimentary about the care I had given him.

"Dragged him back from the dead, Doctor," Ellen told him, sniffing and wiping her eyes.

And Mark said, "I'll never forgive you, why? You've done as well as you could, Ceceilia."

For years you've been the one bright spot in this house and now—believe me, I am grateful to you.

Unbelievable, this from Mark Fitzgerald, the austere professor whom I had always feared a little.

With this and the knowledge that Colin was out of danger, my heart was like a living thing once more, not dead way down inside me. I could sing and laugh. And I could sleep when my head touched the pillow.

My patient was recovering rapidly. And no spoiled brat in the children's ward, no cantankerous oldster on the men's floor nor wealthy neurotic woman in one of the expensive rooms at Saint Gregory's could run me as ragged as Colin Fitzgerald did during this time. He wanted me there beside his bed at all times, there was nothing either Ellen or Mark would do to please him. Sometimes he was content to have me merely sit beside him, but more often I had to wait on him. Some services he demanded, to be sure, were necessary, but a great many more were not.

I HAD to help feed him long after I suspected he was well able to do it himself. He was eternally asking me to fix his pillows, to tuck in blankets already tucked in. He had me read to him, poems for the most part, until my voice was strained to a whisper. And once, when carried away by the exquisite beauty of some line I paused and I looked up to ask if he, too, felt as I did about it, he said, "I love to watch your mouth when you read. You have a lovely mouth, Ceceilia."

I threw the book down and marched from the room in a temper. Nor did I go back until that evening when Ellen brought me a scribbled note reading: "My dear Miss Hart: If you come back at once I promise to be the ideal patient. If not, I shall report you to the medical association or the Red Cross or something. I am sure my temperature is below normal. Pathetically, the poor unfortunate man in the red room, P. S. I have smoked three cigarettes already today. One must do something."

I went back at once and stood in the doorway, trying to look severe. He gazed back at me serenely.

"Oh, there you are," he said. "What have you been doing? I missed you."

"I shampooed my hair and had a nice nap—a nice rest from you," I told him. "And I have here a letter from Saint Gregory's telling me that I am to return as soon as possible. There's a flu epidemic in Barrington and the hospital is crowded."

He said nothing, just lay there, his dark eyes fixed on me. But I felt myself reddening under his gaze and my heart began acting queerly. I came into the room and sat down beside the bed and took out my knitting, glad to have something to do so that I would not have to meet his eyes again.

"So you're leaving me, little Saint Ceceilia," he said quietly after a moment's silence.

"They say it's a bad epidemic," I told him. "Every available nurse will be needed. And you're really well on the road to recovery."

"Of course," he said dryly. "All I need now is to take care of myself. You know," he added, "I had an odd fancy while I was delirious, or whatever it is I was doing."

"Yes?" I lifted my eyes then and looked at him.

"Yes," he said. "I thought I kissed you and you—slapped me." And now there was no doubt about it—the color rushing into my face.

"People imagine all sorts of things when they're ill," I told him, knitting hastily away on the sweater.

"You haven't taken my temperature tonight," he said after another pause.

I laid down my knitting. "I'm sure it's normal," I told him. But I got the thermometer and proceeded to prove it to him.

And then, when I had assured him that it was indeed normal, he reached up suddenly and drew my face down to his and kissed me hard on the lips. And the thermometer fell to the floor and broke into bits.

"That wasn't delirium," he said softly, as he released me. "Don't look like that, Ceceilia. I'm not the first man to fall in love with his nurse."

Wordless, I fled, not even stopping to pick up the broken pieces of the thermometer. Fled to my own little room, where I lay across the bed and hid my flaming face. Small difference then between the little 17-year-old girl I remembered and the nurse of 23 I had fancied so mature.

Josephine's Watch Shown In Time Parade

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Time-

from centuries back—was put on parade in Pittsburgh. A collection of unusual watches ranging from 14th century sundial models to the jeweled time-piece given to Josephine by Napoleon was lent to a downtown department store by the U. S. Time Corp.

Josephine's watch contains 1,741 pearls, 158 turquoises and is fitted with a musical attachment.

Also displayed was a Swiss table model decorated with a golden bird that sings and moves its wings, bill and tail. A "blind man's watch" has a duplicate set of hands outside the case.

Old Man River May Perk Up

NEW ORLEANS (UP) —Sleek river boats soon may revive passenger service on the Mississippi— including deluxe cruises at moderate prices.

The Mississippi River Packet Service, eyeing blueprints for streamlined, air-conditioned versions of the famed river steamboats, say it all depends on how many persons along the Mississippi would take such cruises.

Plans, meanwhile, provide for 600-passenger liners, offering both pullman-type roomettes and swank staterooms.

Round-trip customers between

New Orleans and Memphis, Tenn., would get such "show boat" trimmings as a swimming pool, cocktail lounges and a name-band giving out for two dance floors.

All this, say the river boat men, at a minimum price of $90.

A MESSAGE OF INTEREST to all who await deliveries of new Chevrolets

We want you to know that everything possible is being done to speed deliveries to you; but production still lags far behind schedule—even though Chevrolet has built more cars and trucks than any other manufacturer from January through September 1946

WE REALIZE how eagerly you are awaiting delivery of the new Chevrolet you have ordered from us, and we want to pass on to you the latest information received from the Chevrolet Motor Division, even though that information isn't too encouraging at this time.

It is true that Chevrolet leads all other manufacturers in total production of passenger cars and trucks from January through September 1946, despite the fact that Chevrolet was out of production entirely during the first three months of this year. It is also true that Chevrolet has continued to maintain its lead in total production during the third quarter of 1946. And yet production is still running far below desired levels, with the result that Chevrolet's output of cars and trucks through September 1946 was only 38.7% of the number produced during the corresponding period of 1941.

This means it may take many months for the Chevrolet Motor Division to reach peak production of new Chevrolets—even longer to fill the unprecedented demand for this product of BIG-CAR QUALITY AT LOWEST COST—and, for the present at least, "there just aren't enough Chevrolets to go around," much as we wish there were.

However, we want you to know that new Chevrolets are leaving the plants in the largest numbers possible today. The Chevrolet Motor Division tells us it is doing everything it can, in the face of continued suppliers' strikes, material shortages and manpower problems, to step up shipments to us and to all dealers, in accordance with a predetermined distribution plan assuring each dealer of his fair allotment, based on 1941 passenger car sales. And we, in turn, are doing our best to deliver new Chevrolets to our customers as rapidly as they are received and in the fairest possible way. We are too appreciative of your loyalty and goodwill—too grateful for your patience and understanding—to do anything less than continue to serve you to the very best of our ability.

KEEP YOUR PRESENT CAR RUNNING
Meanwhile, the most important car of all to you is the car you are driving now. May we suggest that you keep it in top running condition until you secure delivery of your new Chevrolet, by bringing it to us for skilled service now and at regular intervals. Remember—cold weather is hardest on old cars. Please see us for a complete check-up today. . . . And, again, thank you!

Former Resident Married In Odessa

Word has been received of the recent marriage of Miss Billie June Scott, daughter of Mrs. E. R. Scott of Odessa, formerly of Ranger and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Scott of Ranger, to Mr. Vernie Doyle Farris.

The wedding took place in the home of the bride's mother with Rev. U. A. Massey officiating.

The bride wore an aqua blue wool suit with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations. For something old she wore an antique ring set with rubies, a gift from the groom; for something borrowed, a single strand of pearls.

Mrs. Odine Smith of Berger, matron of honor, was dressed in a beige suit with cherry cote accessories. Her corsage was pink carnations. Odine Smith was best man.

After the wedding the bride's mother entertained with an informal reception. A green and pink color scheme was carried out in the setting. Green tapers flanked a center arrangement of pink and white carnations. Two stilet streamers in pink, inscribed "Billie June-Doyle" extended from the two-tiered wedding cake cut by the couple.

Friends attending were Miss Joyce Tillman, Cecil Tillman, Miss Wanda Mahaffey, Miss Virginia Kirklm, Toomay Donaldson and the minister of Odessa.

Out of town guests: Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Scott of Ranger, grand parents of the bride; Eddie A. Wheeler of Shreveport, La. After a short wedding trip the couple will be at home in Odessa.

HOTSY FLAME, Your Gas Handyman, Says

DO THESE 4 THINGS

to get your space heaters ready for winter service

- CLEAN dust and lint from radiants and backwall by blowing with bicycle pump or using suction nozzle of vacuum cleaner. Blow dust from mixing chamber and burner ports by attaching bicycle pump to gas intake, or using air hose at filling station.
- ADJUST air mixture so that gas burns with clear, purple-blue flame. Do this by opening or closing air mixing shutter or valve while heater is lighted. A yellow flame indicates insufficient air; a blue flame that dances away from burner tips shows too much air.
- CHECK hose connections for cracks or leaks. If rubber is dry and cracked or if hose does not fit securely over gas cocks, replace with new hose or, better yet, install copper tubing connections.
- REPLACE broken radiants with new radiants of correct size. Radiants are essential to efficient operation. They should be maintained in good condition and properly seated over burner ports.
