Krug Urges Conservative Use Of Coal

SHORTAGE OF FUEL SLOWS NATION'S ECONOMIC PULSE

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Interior J. A. Krug today called on all soft coal consumers to begin immediately "the most stringent conservation" as President Truman flew homeward from a Florida vacation to take personal command of the coal crisis.

The nation's economic pulse began to falter for lack of coal. And Krug warned that it was imperative to begin strictest saving so "widespread suffering and collapse of essential public services can be averted."

He said in a statement that less than two days production is available for distribution under emergency orders.

This coal is in addition to that which factories, railroads and other consumers had on hand when the walkout of 400,000 soft coal miners began their strike Thursday.

The government already has ordered an electric "brownout," beginning at 6 p. m., Monday, in 21 eastern states and the District of Columbia, and a 25 per cent reduction in railroad passenger service will be effective at midnight Sunday.

"It will be imperative for all classes of consumers to begin immediately the most stringent conservation of coal on hand," Krug said.

"The government will do everything in its power to avert widespread suffering, but with less than two days production available for distribution under emergency orders, it is obvious that only minimum shipments can be allowed for domestic use and only the most critical uses may expect any help from this emergency stock."

Nacogdoches Takes Sharp Left-Wing Swing

Angry citizens protested action of the commission several weeks ago which banned such turns, to help alleviate traffic congestion, they said.

Nacogdoches drivers, after heated complaints, were back toward the "left."

More than one-half of the 31,297 game animals killed by hunters in the field in Wyoming 1945 were antelope.

U. S. INSISTS ON HANDLING PACIFIC ISLES

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y. — The United States made clear today that it will insist on exclusive trusteeship of the Japanese mandated island of the Pacific, because the UN has neither the "resources of the capacities" to do the job itself.

The clarification of American policy was made by U. S. Delegate John Foster Dulles, who told a UN trusteeship subcommittee that nations able to discharge the "heavy responsibilities" of administration must be trustees over dependent areas, at least until the UN as a whole is capable of administering them.

He told reporters that this was why America demands that the Marshalls and Carolines formerly administered by Japan be controlled exclusively by this country under a strategic trusteeship agreement.

Dulles objected to an Indian proposal that the UN itself take over administration of trusteeship areas "wherever possible" instead of meeting out authority over such areas to individual members.

Cairo Students Egyptian Police In Fierce Clash

CAIRO — Egyptian students clashed violently with police and Egyptian troops today in an anti-British, anti-government demonstration in which tear gas, hand grenades, shotguns and paving blocks were employed.

Reports said eight police were wounded and an undetermined number of students.

Police claimed that the students threw two hand grenades at them and fired small arms. However, the students denied using the grenades and said the police opened fire on them with shotguns and tear gas, wounding a number of demonstrators.

STEPHENVILLE TAKES RANGER BY 37 TO 19

Stephenville added another victory to their list of district conference games Friday night when they defeated the Ranger Bulldogs by a score of 37 to 19.

The game, played at Stephenville, was the next to last of Ranger's conference games, with the last game to be played at Weatherford Thursday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock.

In the game Friday night Stephenville kicked to Ranger who failed to make first down and the ball went over to Stephenville. Stephenville scored a touchdown, going over center but the play was called back and the Yellowjackets penalized for clipping.

The first score of the game was made by Stephenville after a long pass from Smith to Glenn set up for a touchdown which was made by Jones in an around end play. They failed to make the extra point.

On a long pass from Arterburn to Frazier and a lateral to MacDonald, the latter fumbled the ball and Stephenville recovered. On an attempted quick kick by Ranger, Stephenville blocked the kick and Dunn went over center for another 6 points. The Yellowjackets scored another 6 on an end run by Dunn.

In the second quarter, Cole intercepted a Stephenville pass to start a series of plays which ended in a long pass from Arterburn to Williams who went over standing up for Ranger's first touchdown. The try for the extra point failed.

Just before the end of the first half Stephenville's Dunn made another end run to score 6 and the extra point was scored on this try.

The second half got off to a good start for Stephenville when Dunn again went around end for 6. On a long Stephenville pass to Smith, another 6 was marked up by Smith carrying over.

Ranger's next score came after Carlin had carried down the field about 40 yards in a series of plays and a pass from Arterburn to Deaton set up for the touchdown which was made by Arterburn in an end run. Ranger's last score was made on a long pass from Arterburn to Deaton who went over standing up and the extra point was made on the try. Arterburn, finding himself well covered on attempting to pass to Deaton, made a neat leap in the air to toss off the long accurate pass.

MEMORIAL SERVICE TO BE HELD AT TREE PLANTING

Those in charge of the planting program for the Memorial Park on Highway 80 East, announced today that arrangements are being made for a memorial service to be held in connection with the planting of the trees at the park on December 11.

The service will be held at 4:00 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, December 21 at the park and the public is invited to attend.

Mrs. A. H. Powell in charge of the program stated that at present 26 locations have been selected by Gold Star mothers for the planting of trees in memory of their sons who gave their lives in World War II. A third row of locations was being staked out Saturday and it is urged that those who have not selected their sites for planting, do so at once.

Sixteen of the holes have already been dug and the leaf mold and sand added.

Though letters are still coming from other places from parents whose sons are listed on Ranger's World War II casualty list, workers have been unable to contact some parents. As a result of this Mrs. M. A. Oylar and C. O. Culpeper will represent two of the families and plant trees for those two war heroes.

It is hoped that every one of the 42 men on the Gold Star list will be represented in the memorial planting program.

Gold Star mothers are meeting at the park each evening, cleaning and planting and the entire front side of the park has now been cleared. Cactus is also being planted in the beds and other workers are urged to be at the park each evening to assist in the work.

It was also announced today that a gate to the park is being built and it is hoped that it may be placed in position next week.

SWISS REACH ISOLATED SURVIVORS

By United Press

ROSENLAUI, Switzerland — Veteran Swiss mountain climbers battled through Alpine snow and ice today to 11 or 12 Americans marooned for four days on a barren glacier and set the stage for the rescue of all aboard a crashed Army transport plane.

Aerial observers radioed from the scene that a rescue mission had broken through the last treacherous yards of the snow-clogged passes to the U. S. Army officers, families of army men and crewmen of the C-53 which crash-landed Tuesday.

The Army announced that all aboard the ill-fated transport were alive. With the arrival of medical aid and all necessities that could be carried by the mission, they were given temporary relief from an ordeal of four days and nights in the freezing weather of the Alpine winter.

Pickle consumption in the U. S. increased from an average of 5,000,000 bushels annually during the 1930's to an average of 7,250,000 bushels during the war.

Well...
I Dunno,
But...

Called to our attention Friday was the fact that there are cities who have ordinances making it unlawful to throw trash or garbage "upon or along any drain, gutter, alley, sidewalk, street or vacant lot within the corporate limits" of those cities or towns.

Now, there's something that would help keep Ranger clean. If people can't, through pride in their town, refrain from carelessly tossing trash and garbage into such places, then the old arm of the law should be able to reach out and stop 'em.

One such city ordinance very clearly defines trash and garbage and the definition is broad enough to cover all surplus matter.

The Jaycees have scored again and the appointment of Price-Crawley as a state vice-president of the organization is certainly recognition for one of the newest and most active Junior Chamber of Commerces in the state.

Less than nine months old, the local group has not only made a record in accomplishments, in Ranger, but has received state recognition by being selected "the club of the month" and then the added recognition of the appointment of Crawley.

Like we always say, you just can't beat those boys.

C. C. McKeever brought his new Frazer to the Times office this morning and took part of the staff for a ride and let 'em drive the new car too.

We're not very mechanical minded and couldn't dissect the machine for virtues and faults to any advantage to our readers, but for sheer driving pleasure the car really has it. The way it cruises along, smooths as a bird on wing, just almost lulls the riders to sleep.

Mack tells us that it has an "overdrive" and explained that this is for highway driving. And there are a lot of other innovations on the car that had us guessing about a number of things. For instance, to open the doors from the inside, you press a button, instead of turning a handle.

And room, my goodness, you could almost stretch out completely, on the back seat and four persons can sit comfortably on the seats. Mack says he's keeping this car himself but hopes to have 'em flocking into his Ranger Motor Car Sales Company soon.

The soft green and grey upholstery is sure easy on the eyes. Somebody suggested that we write a sentence like this, "Ranger has one more football game to play, period!"

And that's just about all we can say, for sure enough, just like someone predicted we'd soon run out of excuses as to why Ranger didn't win. And we're plum out of excuses.

But of course there's always another year and come two or three more years when some of the e Warders get on the AA team, we're just sure we'll win at least one conference game.

We're just wondering if it could be that the groundhog has got all twisted around from spring to fall and is using his influence on the weather. Because come every week-end, the weather starts cutting up. For the last three Saturday's the weather gets all tuned up to do a song and dance on Sunday and ends up with a norther either Sunday night or early Monday morning.

Can't tell what's ahead for Sunday but Saturday proved true to form by producing heavy hanging clouds and a threat of rain.

THE INDESTRUCTIBLE VETO

Two smaller members of the United Nations, Cuba and Australia, have fulfilled their promise that they would seek abolition of the Big Five's veto. They were scolded and slapped down for their pains.

America's Senator Connally was very kind about it. He explored the frequent, trivial use of the veto. But he urged the veto's retention for the sake of Big Five unity.

Russia's Mr. Vishinsky seemed very angry. He charged the little nations with a concerted, underhand plot to wipe out Big Five harmony. He warned again that "nests of fascism" remain in Europe, though the warning did not seem particularly germane to the subject of the veto.

But though the American and Russian speakers differed in their approach and argument, they agreed that in union there was strength, and that there would be neither strength nor union without the veto power.

This argument might seem more acceptable if there were any evidence of real unity among the Big Five (or rather, between Russia and the Big Four), or any indication that the veto power is going to achieve that unity.

Perhaps it should be recalled that the Big Five veto is not an instrument of inspired logic, born of free and open debate. It was agreed to by Messrs. Roosevelt, Churchill, and Stalin at their Yalta meeting, after the Dumbarton Oaks conversations had failed to settle the question of voting procedure.

Thus we have the veto, object of muttered complaints for a year and a half and now, at last, of formal protest. It will not be abolished outright, but hopefully the Big Five will try to improve it. What can they do?

Two partial solutions come readily to mind. They might limit the use of the veto to extreme measures, such as imposition of economic sanctions or armed intervention against one of the Big Five. That undoubtedly would speed up the Security Council's functions, but it wouldn't remedy the basic cause of complaint.

Or the Big Five might agree to revise voting procedure by apportioning votes to each UN member on the basis of its population, and then decree that only simple or two-thirds majorities be required to enact resolutions. This would actually abolish the veto, but at the same time it would give the great powers the commanding position they deem necessary.

Neither of these actions, however, is at all likely. For each would involve a Charter amendment. And the Big Five have the power to veto any changes in the Charter.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY PETER EDSON NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NEA)—Let's get this straight. Toward the end of John L. Lewis's letter to Interior Secretary Coal Mines Administrator "Cap" Krug, there was the following classic paragraph, which reads like something by a ham Virgil.

"You, now, at the last hour, of the last day, yield to the blandishments and soothing siren voice of the operators and seek to place the United Mine Workers of America and its members between Scylla and Charybdis. This course we refuse to follow."

If all these allusions sound like Greek to Cap Krug, he's right. They're swiped from Homer's Odyssey and the 31 98 edition of Bulfinch's Mythology. To translate the paragraph into terms of the 1946 coal strike is therefore necessary, so people can understand it.

In the first place, John L. Lewis is casting himself in the role of Ulysses.

You remember the Adventures of Ulysses, of course. He was King of Ithaca. Ulysses was the hero of the Trojan wars. (John L. has been fighting Trojans for years—the coal operators and the government.)

One day a sheep-herder named Paris came along and eloped with the fair Helen, taking her off to Troy. (If Paris had lived today, his name would have been Phil Murray.)

So when Paris (or Phil Murray) eloped with Helen (or leadership in the labor movement) it was up to Ulysses (John L. Lewis) to go get her back. That's what the Trojan wars were all about. (That's what today's coal strike is really all about.)

Ulysses, you'll remember, was the guy who thought up the wooden horse which fooled the Trojans. (In today's parlance, the wooden horse would be the coal contract which Ulysses Lewis signed with the government.)

Ulysses won the war after outsmarting the Trojans this way, but he had a terrible time getting back home. After escaping from the island of Circe the Sorceress (by means of a five-cents-a-ton royalty for a health and welfare fund, no doubt), he and his men had to get by the Sirens (whose irresistible songs lured sailors to their deaths on the rocks) and the two monsters Scylla and Charybdis (frightful terrors of the sea past which ships had to sail).

It was a long and hard battle, but as John L. (Ulysses) Lewis said in his letter to Trojan Captain Krug, the miners weren't yielding to the Sirens, and they didn't intend to get caught by Scylla and Charybdis. Not going their way.

(What would you poor readers do if you didn't have the newspapers handy to translate the language of John L. Lewis for you when he started talking Greek mythology to settle coal strikes?)

SPORTS

BY NED BROWN NEA Staff Correspondent (Pinch-hitting for Harry Grayson)

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Football-racing toward Bowl games inspires Miami's Everett Clay to get in an early plug about the apple of his eye, the Orange Bowl. And in doing so Ev comes up with some interesting dope.

"Can a team fail to complete a minutes of a football game," Clay queries, "and still score the winning touchdown on a pass after the official expiration of playing time?"

Sounds like one of those "give that lady with the green mustache 13 silver dollars" radio quiz guys, doesn't it?

Well, to get on with the question, it can be done, and Ev Clay illustrates.

The University of Miami scored that way in the 1946 Orange Bowl game, when substitute half-back Al Hudson streaked 89 yards down the sideline with an intercepted Holy Cross pass which he grabbed as time ran out. Under the rules the game could not end as long as the ball was in action, and Hudson scored a touchdown.

HUDSON'S historic run was only one bizarre event in the ever-growing list of incredible Orange Bowl happenings. In 12 years the Florida postseason football classic has produced more than its share of thrillers.

It was in the Orange Bowl in 1941 that Billy Jefferson of Mississippi State caught his own punt for a first down. The kick was almost straight up, and the ball hit with a crazy bounce which sent it spinning back into Jefferson's hand like a yo-yo. The startled

Attorney Floors Columbians Head In Georgia Court

ATLANTA, Ga. — Assistant State Attorney General Daniel Duke floored President Emory Burke of Columbians, Inc., with a blow to the forehead in Fulton Superior Court today.

Burke had just obtained a second postponement of a state suit being prosecuted by Duke, to revoke the Columbian's charter. The postponement was granted by Judge Edgar Demery.

Expressing regret at his action, Duke said he struck the slender, balding, Columbian leader "after he made some slurs about me and told the judge he was glad to find one pure Anglo-Saxon man around."

Jazz Losing Its Hold Orchestra Leader Believes

AMES, Ia. (UP) — Band leader Frankie Masters believes that fast jazz and noisy stomp numbers are on the way out.

Masters, who with his band was on the Iowa State College campus to play at a pair of homecoming dances, said "Definitely, very definitely, the trend is toward sweet music."

The popular orchestra leader explained that every place his band plays the dancers like sweet music best. He said when the band blasts out with a "jump" number, the dancers either leave the floor or crowd around the bandstand to watch.

Some U. S. Cities Boost Budgets 100 Per cent

CHICAGO (UP) — American cities have boosted budgets as much as 100 per cent over 1941, the International City Managers' Association reports.

Municipal pay raises, need for expanded service in new urban areas, and increased equipment and supply costs are given as the chief reasons. Cost of repairs postponed during the war is another factor.

Dallas, Tex., will spend more than twice its 1941 outlay in the 1946-47 fiscal year. Much of the increase is for services to newly annexed areas. Minneapolis officials say the city needs an added $10,000,000 yearly for the next five years to catch up with its growth.

Back-Stage Behind the Curtains—
 ... in every organized business, large or small, there is a mass of preparation, work, skill, experience and expense before any thought can be given to profits from the finished product. For example, the cost of typing a 100-page abstract is a trifle compared to that of assembling, classifying and posting the records day after day in preparation for your next order. The abstract, therefore, can't be cheap, like dirt, but always there is the element of safety and a saving in including it in every real estate transaction.

WOMEN DRESS MORE LIGHTLY THAN MEN—THEY CAN TAKE IT

CHICAGO (UP)—Women like the air about them cooler than do men, but they get hot under the collar faster when it doesn't please them, Karl W. Schick finds. Schick, manager of the railway controls division of a firm that manufactures devices to regulate heating and air conditioning equipment, said he wasn't just letting off steam when he claimed women needed cooler surroundings than men. He and a group of scientists arrived at the conclusion that men need more heat than women, after a series of experiments with devices to keep passengers on railroads happy—as far as temperature is concerned. They discovered that women are happiest when the temperature is 72 degrees but men like it 1.8 degrees hotter. "Women have more fatty tissue next to the outer layers of skin," Schick said. "It keeps them warmer."

fy," he added. "They are willing to put up with things longer than women." Schick's company has developed, as a result of these studies, a device that controls heating and cooling devices on trains electronically.

One mechanism maintains coach cars at 71 or 72 degrees during the winter, and 77 to 78 during the summer. For roomettes, drawing rooms and bedrooms, the company developed a device which controls the temperature for himself. "That will be convenient for people over 60, who need to keep three degrees warmer than people in their 20's," Schick said. "Eventually it will do away with the problem of cars or rooms that become too hot because of overcrowding."

He said every time a person enters a room, the temperature goes up half a degree. When a group is composed of all men or all women, there is no problem about regulating the heat, he said, but mixed-groups will have to "fight it out" over what the temperature will be. "The women probably will win," he concluded. "When a man gets hot, he can take off his coat and vest. A woman can't take off anything."

Milan Calls It Quits After OPA Experiment

MILAN, Italy (UP)—After two months of trial and failure, this city has scrapped its unrationed food price ceiling. The ceiling was established locally after sky-rocketing food prices caused strikes, mass demonstrations and riots. The immediate effect of the price control measure was to drive unrationed food supplies off Milan markets to other towns where there was no OPA.

Moral For Drivers: Avoid Family Rows

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The morning spat with the wife over burnt toast may lead to a bashed-in fender, or the price tag of a new fur coat can be the cause of a right hand collision, says the Pittsburgh Motor Club.

The new school of thought on the cause and effect of auto accidents is called Emotionalism on Wheels. It means that a motorist may sidewise another car because his mind has been kicked into a turmoil by a heavy argument he has just had. His emotional condition shows in visual perception and muscular reaction.

PITTSBURGH ALL SET FOR BOOM IN PRODUCTION

By Norman A. Cafarelli
United Press Staff Correspondent
PITTSBURGH (UP)—The powerful Pittsburgh industrial machine, despite recession problems and labor unrest, is prepared for a volume of production unequalled in its history. The city's steel corporations, coal companies, department stores and banks have embarked on a multi-million dollar expansion and development program. General business and trade have reached record levels, even higher than in the peak war year of 1944.

King Steel, pressed by the demands of fabricators, heads the list of money spenders. The Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp., No. 1 subsidiary of the U. S. Steel Corp., and the district's biggest steel producer, has purchased $120,000,000 worth of government-owned facilities. The company's principal investment was for the $86,500,000 Homestead Works.

Built by the government for rapid fire production, the plant has an annual production output of more than 3,000,000 tons of steel. Included in the purchase were several modern furnaces having 70 tons daily capacity each.

The Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. plans to spend more than $17,000,000 in Western Pennsylvania. Already the company has invested $12,000,000 for the Tanben Mill at Aliquippa, Pa. J. & L. expects the plant to increase its output of tin plate by 50 per cent.

The government-owned McKeesport works, which turned out shells during the war for the McKeesport Tin Plate Co., was bought by J & L for the production of steel barges, mine cars and other industrial equipment.

J & L spokesmen said the company's Pittsburgh and Aliquippa plants now are operating at full capacity for the production of peacetime steel.

"They are working 24 hours a day, seven days a week," he said.

The Solid Fuels Administration reported that there is a market for every ton of coal that he is mined from the pits or stripped from the countryside. Although production lagged earlier this year because of strikes, the SFM said more than 33,000,000 tons of commercial coal were mined in the last year. Production in August was the highest of any month in recent years—more than 13,000,000 tons.

The Allegheny and Monongahela rivers, which meet in the center of Pittsburgh to form the Ohio river, are bearing a greater amount of tonnage than any other port in the nation, except New York.

The U. S. Army Engineers reported that industrial traffic at the dam lock along the Monongahela, near Braddock, Pa., is greater than in any other navigable waterway in the world. The Monongahela is carrying 31,000,000 tons of freight annually—the Ohio 26,500,000 and the Allegheny 3,000,000.

Along the Monongahela, barges are bringing 20,000 tons of coal a day from the ultra-modern Robena mine of the H. C. Frick Coke Co. The Robena—the largest coal mine in the world—has achieved such a high level of mechanized mining that it is known as a "push button" mine.

The war and the post-war boom in civilian demands has given new blood to at least 500 smaller industries in the Pittsburgh district.

One small concern is turning out water heaters by the hundreds and can't fill one-fifth of its orders. Another firm, that produced coal mine cars for years, now is making smokeless stoves for companies affected by the city's new anti-smoke ordinance.

Combined construction contracts for the first seven months of 1946 totaled almost $110,000,000. This represents a dollar volume considerably more than the combined contracts in 1945 and 1944.

Thirteen Candles For Patsy

Patsy Jane Whitehead will be thirteen-years-old on November 23rd. The young Ft. Worth, Texas, girl was taken away from her father and step-mother, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Whitehead, after she told District Attorney Clyde of how her parents gave her brutal punishment. The Whiteheads are now out of jail on bonds totaling $4,000 after the District Attorney charged them with aggravated assault. They said they were trying to raise Patsy according to the Bible under the old rule, "Spare the rod and spoil the child." (El. Worth Press Photo From NEA.)

Polished plate glass production in Western Maryland was 84 per cent more in the first eight months of 1946 than in the comparable period last year.

Cigarette Receipts Up As Gls Dwindle

CHICAGO (UP)—The ex-GI, who paid only a nickel a pack for tax free cigarettes overseas, is paying the full price at the corner drug store again—and the tax returns show it.

The Federation of Tax Administrators reports that increased tax rates and a more plentiful domestic supply also have contributed to the boom in cigarette and tobacco collections.

The federation said collections in 31 states for the first six months of 1946 totaled $112,000,000, as compared with $64,800,000 in the same 1945 period.

Tablet Honors Auditorium Acoustics Pioneer

BOSTON (UP)—A tablet has been erected at Symphony Hall in Boston to Prof. Wallace Clement Sabine, whose studies of acoustics "nobly served the art of music."

Sabine, who died in 1919, was the acoustical architect of Symphony Hall, which, as a result of his work, was the "first auditorium in the world to be built in known conformity with acoustical laws."

Sabine was the first to determine with scientific accuracy the exact relation of dimensions, proportion and structural materials to good acoustics.

AVIATION INDUSTRY SHOWS ITS WARES AT EXHIBITION

CLEVELAND, (UP)—The aviation industry is currently on "showcase" display for the first time in the huge bomber plant at the Cleveland airport.

There, in the first annual National Aircraft Show, from Nov. 15 to 21, the public will see all the products of war-time aviation and the industry's promises for the future.

Packed into a total floor space of 480,000 square feet are the exhibits of at least half of the 18 companies making helicopters, 30 of the 40 aircraft manufacturers, army and navy planes and missiles, and engine accessory company shows.

The demand for space was so great that the choice of display sites was put up to chance, giving every company an equal break in a drawing.

The show is the first in the industry's program of two all-embracing annual indoor exhibitions of the country's air might. The second will be held in Los Angeles next April.

The army and navy each occupy 35,000 square feet of the former Fisher bomber plant, the air transport manufacturers and the air lines share a total area of 50,000 square feet, personal aircraft makers and helicopter companies get 1,000 square feet each, engine and accessory companies about 75,000, while 60,000 has been allotted to specialized and informational exhibits.

The entire range of aircraft from the small "jeep" planes to the largest civilian and military ships are on display. A preview of one of the larger planes is given the public in a mock-up of the new luxury airliner to be put into service on the nation's major airlines next year. The Glenn L. Martin Co. shows it in a cutaway version of the Martin 2-0-2 twin-engine transport. The mock up was constructed on a platform with two ramps leading to it so visitors may inspect the "interior."

The director of the show, Clyde Vandenberg, said the object of the huge show-window of aviation was to picture both the potentials and problems of the industry. Vandenberg said another objective was to place the industry on a solid footing for the future. He pointed out that since the end of the war it had shrunk from its war-time position as the largest industry in the world to its new place as 15th or 16th in the United States.

Prices twice as high as in year 1941. Regional BLS Director D. Arthur A. Smith said the food items listed now cost $16.63 up from $16.03 a month ago. Price for the same basket last January was $12.74 and curious Dellalites learned from newspapers advertisements of the same items that the cost was only $8.99 in 1941.

PRICES TWICE AS HIGH AS IN YEAR 1941

Boo!

Dallas, Tex. (UP)—"Come and get it" is a high-priced cry these days—twice as high as in 1941. Housewives already know it, but the Bureau of Labor Statistics put into black and white columns figures showing increased prices on a market basket of 25 items, enough to feed a family of four one week.

Britain Training Chinese To Man Their New Navy

HONGKONG (UP)—More than 1,000 Chinese naval officers and men are receiving training in the United Kingdom to man 12 British warships which are being turned over to China as the core of its new navy, according to the officers of the corvette Fu Po (formerly HMS Petunia) which arrived here from Plymouth.

The ship, which served as a convoy escort vessel during the war, was on its way to Nanking, where it will serve as a training ship for the Chinese navy. The 1,400-ton craft is fully equipped with the latest guns, radar and anti-submarine devices.

Paul in Athens and Corinth

Scripture: Acts 17:22-28, 18:1-4; 1 Corinthians 1:22-25

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

ATHENS and Corinth were the two outstanding cities of ancient Greece. Athens had back of it a long history of culture, and in Paul's day it was the university city of the Roman world. Corinth, aspiring to rival Athens, was a city of commerce, noted more for the luxurious and indulgent living of its inhabitants than for its culture.

The Scriptures give no account of a church at Athens, so the brilliant address that Paul gave on Mars Hill to the assembled philosophers apparently had no permanent result.

But the record in Acts 17, of his visit to Athens and of the sermon he preached there, is among the most colorful and vital pages of the New Testament. Paul's address was a declaration concerning the nature of God and the meaning of faith in Him, in direct and courageous challenge to cultured paganism and the vagaries of the speculatively minded.

In Corinth, however, Paul made what was for him a long stay, but he was stirred up about those un-Christian divisions—as he would be about un-Christian divisions today.

The two Epistles to the Corinthians throw much light upon conditions in the early Christian church, but they are also full of warning and instruction for the church of today.

It is not enough to name the name of Christ, or to profess fellowship in His name. "If any man have not the spirit of Christ, he is none of His." That applies to churches as well as to individuals.

so clear, but Paul found it necessary to rebuke those who were occasioning division, and some of the finest passages in the Epistles deal with the nature and need of Christian unity.

A part of the trouble arose when Apollon, an eloquent preacher, came to Corinth after Paul had left. He was a good man (Acts 18:24-28), and there was apparently no rivalry between him and Paul, but partisans foolishly made a seeming rivalry between them, some saying, "I am of Paul," and others, "I am of Apollon."

PAUL refers to his own presence as being weak, so it is possible that he was lacking in eloquence. Some have suggested, too, that "the thorn in the flesh" to which he refers was a weakness of the eyes. In any case, the contrast between him and the eloquent Apollon was enough to occasion the thoughtless partisanship which Paul rebuked most vigorously.

"Is Christ divided?" he asked. "Was Paul crucified for you?" He wanted no glory for himself, but he was stirred up about those un-Christian divisions—as he would be about un-Christian divisions today.

The two Epistles to the Corinthians throw much light upon conditions in the early Christian church, but they are also full of warning and instruction for the church of today.

It is not enough to name the name of Christ, or to profess fellowship in His name. "If any man have not the spirit of Christ, he is none of His." That applies to churches as well as to individuals.

Dragon Lady Visits Austin Caterpillars

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP) — One of the most exclusive organizations in existence, the Caterpillar Club, recently had an exclusive guest—the Dragon Lady, suggestive siren of Milton Caniff's Terry and the Pirates comic strip.

The Caterpillars, composed of airmen who have been forced to bail out of planes, honored the Dragon Lady, who had hit the silk in the comic strip recently. Caniff sent a copy of his creation to the club.

Annual Banquet Held Thursday

On Thursday, November 21, at 7:30 p.m., the combined adult departments of the First Baptist Church held their annual Thanksgiving banquet at the church.

F. P. Brashier was toastmaster and the invocation was given by W. A. Lewis, general superintendent of the Sunday School. The highlight of the program was a young ladies' trio from Hardin-Simmons University who sang three songs for the group. The Thanksgiving sermon was given by the pastor, Rev. D. C. Ham.

Members of the various classes which were seated at individual tables were introduced by either the president or teacher of the class.

The tables were attractively decorated with gold mums, yellow chrysanthemums, and autumn leaves, and lighted by orange candles. Programs and menus carried out the Thanksgiving theme.

The group of about two hundred adults were served by the Companions Class of the Intermediate Department.

R. V. Robinson, assistant Sunday School superintendent, gave the benediction and the group joined hands and was led by Coy Simms in singing Blessed Be The Tie That Binds to conclude the program.

Hunters Urged To Send Banded Duck Tags Back

CHICAGO (UP) — Conservation organizations again are urging duck hunters to send in all bands that come into their possession on the marshlands.

Valuable lessons in waterfowl behavior are learned from the small metal strips which are returned, and the hunter who wants to see the sport perpetuated can do himself no better than to send in the tags promptly, conservation experts said.

Besides revealing where ducks go, the bands indicate the time required, the vulnerability of the various species and much other information essential to good waterfowl management.

For instance, banding has proved that young ducks are shot more easily than old ducks and that the birds as a whole have a high mortality rate. Hunting, however, accounts for only 15 per cent of the annual 50 per cent loss.

The reading of a Lesson-Sermon on the topic "Thanksgiving," and opportunity is afforded for testimonials of gratitude to be expressed appropriate for the occasion. The public is cordially invited to attend these services.

The Golden Text is: "Let the peace of God rule in your hearts, to which also ye are called in one body; and be ye thankful" (Colossians 3:15.)

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Let all those that seek thee rejoice and be glad in thee; and let such as love thy salvation say continually, Let God be magnified" (Psalms 70:4.)

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Let us learn of the real and eternal, and prepare for the reign of Spirit, the kingdom of heaven,—the reign and rule of universal harmony, which cannot be lost nor remain forever unseen." Closing Of Gay Resorts In Paris
Helps East Housing Problem

PARIS (UP) — When reconversion of Paris' 180 houses of prostitution closed since Oct. 7, has been completed, living space for an estimated 3,000 persons now in need of apartments will be available, government officials report.

The same space formerly was occupied by between 1,500 and 1,700 women who were legally recognized as licensed prostitutes.

With the closing of the bordellos only recently completed, few are yet ready for new tenants. But some are.

Among them is the once lush, world-famous Sphinx on the Boulevard Edgar Quinet, best known of all the capital's resorts. Flush carpets, omnipresent mirrors and ornate decorations which once characterized the Sphinx have been sold at public auction and less glamorous furnishings have been put in to accommodate the 25 University of Paris students who now live there.

Even the beds were sold and less comfortable cot-like affairs substituted for the students.

Stated for an even more radical change, if present plans go through, is the House of All Nations, on the Rue Chabanais. Located near France's National Library, informed sources say it has been earmarked as an annex for the library.

The equally well-known "One-Two-Club," so-called for its address on the Rue de Provence, is scheduled to become a venerable clinic.

Bartenders nearby say they have no idea what's become of the women who once worked in the three houses.

"They've gone," is all they will say. University students in the Sphinx say they have no scruples about living in the one-time brothel.

"I like it," Augustin Rousseau, 24-year-old arts and sciences student from Brive, France, said. "It's less expensive than a hotel and more interesting. And it's close to my classes at the Sorbonne."

Rent at the Sphinx costs only $12 monthly for the students. Simultaneous with the closing of the houses, the Ministry of

Meet 'America's Wheatheart'

Symbolizing the success of America's wheat conservation program on behalf of bakers and farmers is comely 18-year-old Charlene Nichols, of Wichita, Kan., who recently won the title of "America's Wheatheart." She is pictured during visit to Washington, part of the prize that went with the title.

Health received an initial allotment of $150,000 for financing the newly "reclassification homes" for former prostitutes.

Response to the idea by one-time prostitutes has thus far been negligible, an official admitted. He believes it is only a question of time, however, before more of the women will take advantage of the plan.

By entering one of the homes, which is entirely voluntary, a prostitute can learn a new profession, erase her past record, and start life over again.

Most of the "students" are expected to come from the younger ranks of the profession, with officials entertaining little hope that many of the hardened, elderly prostitutes will show any interest. Meanwhile, although now outlawed, prostitution is far from being wiped out in Paris today.

Hundreds of women nightly stroll the Opera and Champs-Elysees districts but they are careful not to make the first move, unless they feel sure of the prospect.

Generally they make themselves conspicuous then wait to be approached. Others are operating Correspondents who recently flew from Washington and New York to oil fields of the Humble Oil and Refining Company in Texas saw demonstrations of bullets fired to make side holes through oil pipe and the cement around it in a well.
